Five-State Search On For Mystery Lensman

Confusion Reigns In Picture Taking

FORT WORTH (AP)—Authorities in five states searched today for a man who Friday took photographs near secret installations where the gigantic B-36 world-ranging bombers are based.

Earlier Carswell Air Force base authorities had said the man was a bona fide Air Force major whose only violation of regulations was the one against visitors taking a camera on the base.

Maj. Gen. S. F. Anderson, 8th Air Force commander, said in a statement Saturday that Fort Worth police and authorities in five states have been alerted to look for a man, using the name of a major, and "identified by identification card (not a pass) who disappeared from Carswell Air Force base after reportedly photographing restricted areas."

The man had what appeared to be bona-fide orders to report to the air base He was driving a 1951 Chevrolet—he did not obtain entry to the restricted area of the base, the statement continued.

He was, however, reported by Master Sgt. Joseph R. Dugan as taking a picture from outside the wire fence surrounding the restricted area of aircraft and maintenance docks. The statement said that in view of this report of photographic activity and failure of the alleged Major to report to base headquarters as required by orders at the south base gate, he is wanted for questioning by Carswell authorities.

A misunderstanding which resulted in the absence from base of Col. L. T. Brown, base provost marshal, resulted in the incident yesterday afternoon that caused by the fact that an air-registered camera on the base yesterday. For a time base provost marshal personnel thought the two incidents were one and the same.

Derby Runs Today Pampa Champ In 48th Heat

AKRON, Ohio (Special)—The proud parents of Robert (Butch) Langford, Pampa's contestant in the All-American Soap Box Derby, will be cheering for their son from a box at the big race today.

But they will have to see at least 47 preliminary races before Butch enters the crowded field. In drawing Friday, the Pampa youngster was matched to run against John E. McKibben of Salem, Ohio, and L.J. Jones of Waco, Tex., in the 48th heat.

He will pilot his sleek Pampa Daily News racer down the third lane of the speedway.

Mr. and Mrs. Minor Langford and two other children, John, the 1951 Pampa derby champ, and Wanda, drove to Akron with Butch to lend their son and brother moral support in the race. The Langfords are staying at the Portage Hotel where the families of most champs are housed. Newspaper correspondents have headquarters at the Mayflower Hotel.

Pampan's Brother Injured In Crash

Bob Fulps, brother of Norman Fulps, 1301 Garland, is in critical condition in an Amarillo hospital after receiving severe head injuries in a crash of his private plane near Claude late Friday.

In the plane with Fulps was Vincent Krysiaev of Fort Worth, also injured and hospitalized. A forced landing under power lines along the highway was caused by a fuel pump failure, according to a report received here.

BEST COWGIRL AND COWBOY — Sherry Price, Addington, Okla., and John Farris, Iowa Park, Tex., were named the best cowgirl and best cowboy at the conclusion of the 1952 Top o' Texas Rodeo. Miss Price, standing by her mount, won the cowgirl's contest with times of 16.9 and 14.4 seconds and was awarded a hand-made saddle. Farris, shown with Paul Crouch, president of the Top o' Texas Rodeo Association, won the best all-around cowboy award of a Stetson hat for making the best overall performance in three rodeo events. The hat was given by The Pampa Daily News. The eighth annual Top o' Texas Rodeo wound up its four-day show late Saturday night. (News Photo)

Elated Rodeo Officials Say Top o' Texas Show Best Ever

The rodeo reached an all-time high—in attendance, gate receipts, performances and expenses. . . . These happy remarks were made early this morning by Chamber of Commerce manager E. O. Wedgeworth, shortly after Pampa closed down the gates on the eighth annual Top o' Texas rodeo.

The rodeo wound up its activities today with the awarding of prizes to all winners. And rodeo officials kept insisting that this rodeo was the biggest and best ever.

It was Amarillo Air Force night and Nat Fleming, rodeo announcer, paid tribute to Pampa, "the friendly city" that sponsored the rodeo.

Winners of the cowgirl's contest were presented to the audience in mid-afternoon. Sherry Price of Price Ranch, Addington, Okla., won the event and was presented with a hand-made saddle for turning in a combined total time of 31.3 seconds. Her time was 16.9 seconds in the first go-round and 14.4 in the second.

Placing second in the contest was June Bull, Lightning Ranch, Dublin, Tex., with a two-time total of 32.1 seconds. She was awarded a shirt-and-pants riding suit. Third was Florence Souree with a time of 32.2 seconds; she won a pair of riding boots.

The other contest to have its results announced at the rodeo grounds was the cutting horse contest. Phil Williams, Colorado Springs, Colo., won it. He won a hand-made saddle. His second was Bob Burton, Clinton, Okla., and fourth were George Garrett, Overland Park, Kan., and Thena Mae Farr, Seymour, Tex.

In Saturday's bareback riding event 12 out of 17 cowpokes stayed on their mounts the required 8 seconds. Lee Cockrell, Pampa, won the calf roping contest with a time of 14.4 seconds. Second and third with respective times of 15 and 15.1 seconds were Bill Stockstill, Pampa, and Jack Peck, Seymour.

In the second half of the second go-round of the cowgirl's contest last night, the winner was Darlene Hall, Hall Ranch, Ledyard, Okla., clocked in 14.4 seconds. Three girls were tied for second place with a time of 14.6 seconds. They were Florence Reynolds, Holland Service Station, Borger; Dathene Vineyard, committee chairman — Tuesday Lazy 7 Ranch; and Jennie Robison, Cutch Ranch, Borger.

Six of eight competitors remained atop their horses in the saddle bronc riding contest. In the bull dogging event, Don McDonald, Ft. Worth, won hands-down.

During the club assembly reports on activities will be made to the district governor by the chairmen of the various club committees. Activities of the club as a whole will be made by club president, Paul Beisenherz, and secretary, Cecil R. Williams.

In turn, Judge Chapman's talk Wednesday will be about the lines of a report on the increasing activities of Rotary International and the growth of the entire organization in the 83 nations it covers.

State Agronomists In Area Thursday

E. M. Trew and W. B. Coke, agronomists of the State extension service, College Station, will be in the area Thursday to get first-hand information on problems in agronomy from area farms.

Ike Aids Old Folks Claims Stevenson For Enforced FEPC

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson has been represented as likely to use his influence, if elected President, to curb Senate filibusters and then try to find some way to bar racial discrimination in hiring.

His Republican presidential opponent, Dwight D. Eisenhower, came out for a broadened social security program and an increase in benefits to the old folks.

The appraisal of Stevenson's position on civil rights came from an authoritative source, who declined to be quoted by name, at his headquarters in Springfield, Ill. It bore out the impression which reporters in daily contact with the governor since his nomination have gained.

Close To Truman Such a position would put Stevenson somewhat closer to that of President Truman on civil rights than he has thus far publicly stated out for himself.

If it is borne out, and the source was in a position to know Stevenson's views, such a stand seemed likely to touch off new friction in the South, whose leaders by and large have indicated so far they are more pleased with Stevenson than they were with Truman four years ago.

Southern members of Congress regard as the most objectionable phase of Truman's civil rights program the proposal for a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) which would have authority to enforce its orders against racial discrimination in hiring.

The Springfield source also described Stevenson as feeling that he could make a substantial reduction in the federal budget within two years and probably cut taxes.

The Illinois governor was also said to regard Eisenhower as a formidable contender whom he does not under-rate. The source said Stevenson in an old political phrase — is "running scared."

At Denver, Eisenhower talked Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan appointed Moody to the Senate last year to succeed the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, a Republican. That gave the Democrats a 4-vote Senate majority—50 to 46.

Forced Shake-up It also forced a shake-up of committee assignments which knocked Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) off the Banking Committee to make way for Moody. The Democrats argued successfully at the time that a 1-vote bigger majority entitled them to the committee seat.

Republican Gov. John Lodge of Connecticut has delayed appointing a successor to Sen. Brien McMahon, a Democrat and administration supporter who died last month. But Lodge almost certainly would appoint a Republican promptly if there should be a special session of Congress.

Red Army Hero Abandons Russia For American Bride

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A Red Army hero who chose freedom in the West took an American bride Saturday and prepared for a honeymoon to the United States where he will make his new home.

Fedor Ivanovich Belov, 33, thrice-wounded former Soviet Army captain, was married in an Army chapel Saturday afternoon to Adele Koskosky of Chicago, Ill., a U.S. Army Special Services employee of Polish extraction.

Belov fled from his post in East Germany eight months ago and asked for political asylum. Soon afterward he met the 29-year-old Adele—a Russian language student and graduate of Chicago University—at a Russian Orthodox church social.

The mutual interest in Russian music drew them together, culminating in the first marriage ceremony in the first marriage ceremony in the Soviet defector and an American in postwar Europe.

About 50 friends gathered in the chapel to hear an Army chaplain conduct a Protestant marriage service. Then a Russian Orthodox ceremony was conducted.

They plan to leave in a few days for New York, where they will make their home.

PERRY LEFORS . . . his memory will live

Airport Named After Pioneer

By HENRY GORDON

Perry LeFors Field! That will be the official name of the county's new airport, northwest of town.

It was the name selected by the three judges in The Pampa Daily News' sponsored "Name Your Airport Contest" and will be adopted officially by the county commissioners at their next regular meeting.

Mrs. Clotilde Thompson, 1115 Christine, submitted the winning name and will be awarded the $25 cash prize given by The News.

The judges, Sheriff Rufe Jordan, M. K. Brown and Boyd Meador, McLean, agreed on naming the airport Perry LeFors Field unanimously after working on the entries for almost six hours.

Service-men Mentioned "There were several names of soldiers and sailors who died in service or were killed in action submitted," Jordan said, adding, "but we lost so many fine boys out of our county that we just couldn't pick on one and leave the others out."

Several contestants submitted Top o' Texas, but because that name tied a county project to the city of Pampa, the judges ruled it out, too.

"We felt the name should be representative of the county as a whole," he said. (See AIRPORT, Page 5)

He's Not The Red Dean . . . Archbishop Of Canterbury Will Try To Clear His Name

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (AP)—The archbishop of Canterbury sailed for New York Saturday with a case of pamphlets aimed to convince Americans that he is himself American and not the "Red Dean" of London.

He is going for a New England holiday and an Episcopal church convention speech in Boston, but is armed to detach himself in the public mind from the Communist-sympathizing dean, Dr. Hewlett Johnson.

The archbishop is the cleric head of the Church of England; the dean administers only the Canterbury cathedral.

"If the Americans ask me if I am the dean, I shall hand them the pamphlets which I have in one of my cases," the archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, declared on the Cunard liner media.

The archbishop explained his pamphlets quote an American newspaper editorial which spells out what is at issue. He did not name the paper.

Johnson, the dean, recently returned from a trip to Communist China and accused the United States of carrying on germ warfare in Korea. He has been under fire in Parliament and the press here because of his frequent pro-Soviet statements.

The archbishop has often complained that people abroad occasionally mistake the "Red Dean" for himself.

Reporters asked the archbishop

Chest X-Rays Due Here Oct. 13-18

A mass chest X-ray service in Pampa has been scheduled by the State Health Department for the week of Oct. 13-18.

This announcement was made at a community meeting in the court house Friday when Charles A. Hoover, state health official, was here at the invitation of the Gray County Medical Association to explain the service.

The official pointed out to the group the necessity of a yearly chest X-ray for each person. He stated that tuberculosis is only one of the many diseases for which this service is a check.

About 25 per cent of chest abnormalities have nothing to do with TB, Hoover said.

A committee to name a chairman for the local program was appointed at the meeting to include Homer Craig, H.A. Yoder and Mrs. C.L. McKinney.

Multitudes Line Path Of Eva's Bier

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—There the body of the nation's first lady will lie in state for 24 hours today, when she is taken through the streets to the national Capitol for a final day until today, when she will be taken to the general war once was hailed as one of Latin America's greatest beauties.

After Mrs. Peron died July 26, the government directed that military honors usually paid only to Presidents dying in office be rendered to the blonde former radio actress who became a powerful political figure. So the government directed that military honors usually paid only to Presidents dying in office be rendered to the blonde former radio actress who became a powerful political figure.

Force troops stood guard and helped police control the crowds. Twenty yards behind the gun carriage marched President Peron, who once was hailed as one of Latin America's greatest beauties. Some relatives, Cabinet ministers, labor leaders and armed forces officers joined in the slow walk.

At the Capitol the great Constitutional Hall of Congress has been especially arranged as a chapel. Huge Argentine flags and black crepe hung from the domed ceiling. An enormous antiques of the nation's armed forces and the people and workers are united.

Along the fifteen-block route Peron took his place at the head. Then the public was allowed to file in two single files.

GOP Trying To Oust Moody

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican move to squeeze Sen. Moody (D-Mich) off the key Senate Banking Committee, in the event a special session of Congress is called, came to light Saturday.

The committee would play a major role in President Truman's mid-campaign session of Congress he says he is considering to deal with a threat of mounting prices. If he does so, he said, he would ask primarily for a tougher wage-price control law.

Pro-Truman Stalwart Moody is one of the few pro-Truman stalwarts on the group, through which any new economic controls bill would have to pass.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) confirmed reports that the Republicans in their effort to dislodge Moody will use the same arguments which installed the Michigan senator as a member of the committee in the first place.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan appointed Moody to the Senate last year to succeed the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, a Republican. That gave the Democrats a 4-vote Senate majority—50 to 46.

Forced Shake-up It also forced a shake-up of committee assignments which knocked Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) off the Banking Committee to make way for Moody. The Democrats argued successfully at the time that a 1-vote bigger majority entitled them to the committee seat.

Republican Gov. John Lodge of Connecticut has delayed appointing a successor to Sen. Brien McMahon, a Democrat and administration supporter who died last month. But Lodge almost certainly would appoint a Republican promptly if there should be a special session of Congress.

Sub-committee chairman, named at a recent board meeting of the local Red Cross Chapter, include St. David's A. Brown, recruiting committee, Mrs. Jack Foster, service, and Mrs. Rufe Jordan, publicity.

Larry Fuller, chairman of the local chapter, will preside at the meeting.

The meeting is open to the public and anyone interested in helping with the bloodmobile program is urged to see the film.

ALTON B. CHAPMAN . . . visiting Rotary head

Rotary Head Slates Visit

Alton B. Chapman, Florida, district governor of Rotary International, will arrive in Pampa Tuesday for a two-day visit with members of the Pampa Rotary Club.

Judge Chapman, who is judge of the 110th Judicial District, will meet with the club assembly — club meeting Wednesday in the Palm Room, City Hall.

This will constitute the district governor's annual visit to Pampa, one of the 37 Rotary clubs in the 183rd District.

During the club assembly reports on activities will be made to the district governor by the chairmen of the various club committees. Activities of the club as a whole will be made by club president, Paul Beisenherz, and secretary, Cecil R. Williams.

In turn, Judge Chapman's talk Wednesday will be about the lines of a report on the increasing activities of Rotary International and the growth of the entire organization in the 83 nations it covers.

The father was lodged in the city jail by police and a complaint filed against him by city officers.

BRAMA MEETS HIS MATCH—This Brahma bull isn't exactly happy about the successful way in which his rider is hanging on. The bull has to shake him loose within eight seconds or he loses. ## Bull Cannot See Why Cowboy Should Grab All The Glory

By ED NASH
(Editor's note: Sportin' Slim, the Brahma bull interviewed here, is now on his way back to Petrolia, Tex.—packed in tight with many of his buddies in a motor van. He did not make out so well Saturday night, having been ridden successfully by a slender cowpoke for a full 14 seconds. We print this article in the hope that it may give our readers a fuller appreciation of the part played in the Top o' Texas Rodeo by a group of participants often neglected.)

GET THAT DOGIE—The cowboy here has just tossed his rope through the air in an effort to lasso the prancing calf. If he gets 'em, he'll have to dismount, down the calf and tie the legs with that rope he holds in his mouth as fast he can. (News Photo)

"Ah aim to fling my cowpoke 17 feet in the air tonight," the 1500-pound Brahma bull stated calmly as he lounged in his pen at the Top o' Texas Rodeo grounds Saturday afternoon.

He was an impressive sight, with his brown-and-white loose flesh, as he rested in the burning sun. A big 328 was branded in his flank and his stringy tail stretched out on the muddy ground.

The hump on his back cast a long shadow onto one of his brethren sleeping a few feet behind. His ears stuck straight out alongside his horns, as he raised his bloodshot eyes.

"You know," he continued, deftly crushing a crumpled piece of his nose with a quick swish of his tail, "me and the boys, we have a little competition to see which of us bulls can get the greatest height out of his rider."

Is there a special knack needed to get extra height out of the cowboy? he was asked.

"Sure there is," he replied, "and I — Sportin' Slim — have been one of the pioneers in the development of the technique. He was urged to explain. But first, where did he get that name?"

Slim grinned a little sheepishly as he lowered his eyes for a moment's glance at his figure. "Shucks, the boys down on Mister Mayo's place gave me that name the first time they saw me. I didn't go for it for awhile, but now I've kinda got used to it."

"But let me tell you about this little contest ya have. The whole trick is in the timing. You gotta loosen the cowboy from your neck and aim him toward your rear. Then, just as he is about to land, you give a terrific kick — and up he goes."

Is there any special type of cowboy that he likes particularly to give the works? A cold, hard glint appeared in his eyes as he said:

HANG ON, COWBOY—This cowboy isn't having the softest ride in his life. The saddled bronc has definite ideas on the subject of remaining free and unriden. When a cowboy climbs onto one of these jolting horses, he knows he'll be more off than on. And this was no exception.

"Yep, sure is. Those medium-sized guys who keep spurting you in the neck. Those spurs really do get me mad — and they hurt, too. It's good to have a little weight on the cowpoke, cuz they carry better."

"And that belly — band they put around you," he continued without pause, "the darned thing not only hurts — it itches."

"As for the cowbell that jangles from the belly — band, it doesn't bother any of us at all. 'Those stupid idiots out there,' he said, pointing to the now-empty stands, 'they think it makes us mad as the devil; but they're crazy — actually we get a kinda kick out of wearing the blamed thing.'"

"Besides," he added with a chuckle, "once you've loosened your rider, the band and the cowbell fall off, anyhow."

How is life down Petrolia way on the Goat Mayo ranch?

A far-away, peaceful look came into his eyes as he thought a moment. "That's the life. Mister Mayo, he treats us pretty good. We get fed regular — like and can't noisy around the pasture. Nottin' to do most of the time but take life easy. 'Course, once in awhile, the cowpokes come around and try to give us a bad time, but we don't pay any attention to 'em. And pretty soon they go away again."

The only bad time Slim can remember was the day he had that "328" branded into his backside. It stung "something terrible," he recalled. But the worst part of it, he maintained, was that it made you feel like one of those guys they have in a police lineup. "They're ad right," he answered.

Ike To Meet Dixie Leaders

DENVER (AP) — Supporters from nine Southern states will meet here Monday with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for president. The session may determine how vigorously the general will campaign in the South in an attempt to lure traditionally Democratic Dixie to his side in November.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, Eisenhower's campaign manager, announced that 10 leading supporters would be in the delegation. Some are officials of the regular Republican party organization and others worked before the nominating convention as members of Dwight D. Eisenhower committees in the South.

Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, the GOP vice presidential candidate, will take part in the meeting.

Representatives will come from Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi and Florida.

"If you go in for that type of thing," he said, "we think it's pretty good — rate stuff. The horses, the calves and the broncs — no color to 'em."

"And," he added, triumphantly, "notice what spot they put us in on the program — the last event. The featured attraction is us."

Slim's pet peeve is the rodeo cow. He simply cannot see why folks enjoy seeing him out in the arena, making a fool of himself.

"That darned crowd," he commented, "that gonna get himself hurt one of these days if he doesn't watch out. I've warned him about that, but he doesn't seem to pay any attention."

Sportin' Slim was particularly proud of his younger son, who in a short time about what he hoped to make of Slim, the younger. Then, as he settled back into a comfortable position, he put up the interview with this surprisingly perceptive comment:

"You know, a little bull can go a long, long way."

Little Guns Behind Big Guns In Oil Industry Plan Session

City Nurse To Help In Polio Fight

Mrs. Maxine Dye Ince, a nurse supervisor at Worley Hospital, will be given a leave to serve in the polio ward of the University Hospital in Oklahoma City during the next three months.

Mrs. Ince, the daughter of Mrs. Maude Dye, 737 Deane Drive, volunteered for this service through the American Red Cross and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

A need for special nurses in polio wards has been stressed in Dallas, other Texas cities and in Oklahoma. Mrs. Ince will be paid by the foundation and will be given a maintenance allowance by the hospital where she works.

Mrs. Ince has served as a registered nurse in the Worley Hospital since her return last year from Washington, D. C., where her husband is in service. He is to return to Pampa after his discharge in December.

A graduate of Hillcrest Memorial Hospital, Tulsa, Okla., in 1944, Mrs. Ince has served as an army nurse and has worked with polio patients before. She expressed no fear in working with the disease as the percentage is so low in doctors and nurses who contract the disease while treating it.

Candidates Given Chance To Decide On Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois are going to be asked whether they want a big or a little inaugural ceremony.

Leslie L. Biffle, secretary of the Senate and secretary of the Congressional Inaugural Committee, told a reporter he will put the question personally to the nominees.

Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), chairman of the committee, said it will be up to them to decide just how far they want to go — if elected — in making the ceremony elaborate or simple.

If Eisenhower wins in November, Republicans are expected to make a large-scale show of their first inauguration of a president in 24 years.

If Stevenson is the victor, friends think he will want only simple ceremonies.

Astronomer Says Shower Of Meteors Due This Week

NEW YORK (AP) — An astronomer predicts meteor showers during the next few nights — accompanied by a flurry of "flying saucer" reports.

Robert R. Coles, chairman of the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History, says that meteor particles, also known as shooting stars would strike through the heavens nightly through Aug. 13.

"If the skies are clear," Coles said, "there will probably be a larger than average crop of flying saucer reports around Aug. 12, but these will be caused by the Perseid meteor shower."

The Perseid display is so-called because the shooting star trails appear to converge on the constellation of Perseus, Coles said.

The particles disintegrate into dust as they fall, he added, and won't hurt you.

Paving An Old, Old Story But Many Pampans Still In Doubt

This is an old, old story but apparently news to some Pampa property owners.

It's the story of how you go about getting out of the mud and having a paved street run by your front door.

Reports coming from City Hall show many new residents — and some old ones — think the city paves streets and alleys with tax money. It doesn't.

Pampan Wounded In Korea

Pic. J. B. Holt, 22, son of Mrs. L. E. Holt, 508 S. Barnes, has been wounded in Korea, according to word received here by his mother from the Department of Defense.

Pic. Holt was wounded the same day—July 31—he attained his 3rd point, just enough to be sent home under the Army's rotation system.

He served in Korea for the past 10 months, he is a member of Co. A, 23rd Infantry Regt., Second Div. He entered the Army in March, 1951. His first six months in service were spent at Camp Gordon, Ga., in the signal corps.

Prior to joining the Army, Pic. Holt attended Vernon (Tex.) High School.

Mexico Frowns On Women In Shorts

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican Tourist Association gave some tactful advice to women tourists: Don't wear slacks or shorts. The semi-official association's bulletin, addressed to "Fair Ladies," said: "Do not wear slacks or short clothing while traversing the streets in any town in Mexico. It is socially frowned upon. However, it is perfectly proper to wear slacks, etc., while driving on the highway or at any of the seaside resorts. And you men: Be sure to wear a coat and in most cases a tie also when entering a restaurant in Mexico."

dissembler's house — a traffic hazard no matter which way you look at it. But no area in Pampa is being discriminated against where there is no paving, officials insist. Unless all of the property owners in any one block agree to lay down the cash, either in full or on the installment plan, that block cannot and will not be paved.

Pampan Beginning 16th Year In Local Telephone Office

Mrs. Corene McKay, 418 Crest, today begins her 16th year of service with the Pampa office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Guest of honor at a 9 a.m. breakfast Saturday in the employees lounge, she was presented with a three-star gold service pin by Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler, chief operator. Mrs. McKay began with the company as an operator Aug. 9, 1937. In November, 1942, she was advanced to the position of service assistant. From that job she was promoted to chief evening operator in July, 1946. But in December, 1950, at her own request, she was moved back to her old position of service assistant.

The local office had but 20 operators when Mrs. McKay joined the organization. In her 15-year tenure she has seen the operator force grow five-fold to 100 operators. Now she is looking forward to seeing the office converted to the dial system sometime next year. The honoree is married and has no children. Her husband is connected with the local schools. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Steeley.

Marine Corps Opens Flight Training Plan

The U. S. Marine Corps has opened up flight training for college graduates who have earned their Officer Candidate program. According to Sgt. ### 25 Million Man-Days Lost In Steel Strike, Report Reveals WASHINGTON (AP) — A defense mobilization report, censored before it was published, says 25 million man-days of work were lost in the steel strike, knocking military production a whole year off in stride.

The report to President Truman was made by acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman, who released excerpts after deleting secret data. Steelman estimated 25 million man-days of work shipped during the idleness of 600,000 striking steel workers. Stoppages in steel-using industries before the 54-day strike was settled boosted this total of idle to perhaps 1,400,000 men.

"The effects of the steel stoppage will be felt heavily," Steelman said, "and will not be completely worked out of the military production program for an entire year."

He added that the impact will delay the planned program to step up production of many major items. He estimated steel output this year will be about 90 million tons, 14 per cent below 1951 and the lowest since 1949.

Steelman said ammunition production may not get back on schedule until early next year.

There were some bright spots however, including: 1. The new T-48 medium tank is now rolling off the assembly line. 2. Total warplane output continued upward. 3. Serious loss of perishable foods was avoided.

Aside from the military phase of mobilization, the report also said:

- 1. Following removal of price ceilings from many items, no commodities climbed as high as the ceiling level. 2. Easy-payment credit reached a new high of $14,300,000,000. 3. If the warm season is fairly lengthy, enough iron ore to support steel mills at capacity this winter may be brought over the Great Lakes before they freeze.

Lorenzo, Rikard Still Run One-Two For Batting Lead

Little Pat Lorenzo of the Borger Gassers still leads the individual batting leadership of the West Texas-New Mexico League according to the latest individual statistical office. Lorenzo, though, was in such a hitting slump that he had been riding the bench for the Borger Gassers for the past ten days.

Cully Rikard of the Albuquerque Dukes appeared to be the real and authentic leader, having been to bat 370 times and had a .389 batting mark. 13 points ahead of Les Mulcahy of the Amarillo Gold Sox. Lorenzo had only been to bat 197 times, but was hitting .428.

Two Pioneer hurlers, Mel Kramer and Red Dial, continued atop the heap of moundmen. Dial with a 21-5 record and Kramer with 10-1. Jesse Priest of the Dukes is the strikeout and innings worked leader.

As a team, the Dukes are the top hitting ballclub and the Pioneers the best defensively. The Abilene Blue Sox hold down the cellar in both departments.

The averages including all games through Aug. 6 except Lamesa at Lubbock and Borger at Clovis on that date:

Olympic Stars Set New World Records

LONDON (AP) — Two world records — the 440-yard hurdles and 440-yard relay — fell before the churning feet of America's Olympic stars Saturday in the British track and field games at White City Stadium.

Despite a driving rain, Charley Moore of the New York Athletic Club bettered the world mark in the 440-yard hurdles with a sparkling time of 51.6 seconds.

This clipped California's second of the mark set by Armando Filippot of Italy at Milan, Oct. 8, 1950.

The crowd of 90,000 then saw Uncle Sam's mile relay team better the listed world record for the 440-yard race, being timed in 3 minutes 8.8 seconds.

The University of California holds the listed record of 3 minutes 9.4 seconds, set June 17, 1941, at Los Angeles.

Jamaica, in finishing second, also topped California's time with a clocking of 3 minutes 9.2 seconds.

The U. S. team was made up of Gene Cole of Columbus, O.; J. W. Mashburn of Oklahoma; Reggie Fearman of the New York Athletic Club and Mal Whitfield of the U. S. Air Force.

Fearman also won the 880-yard event.

Kids, Inc. Play Here Tomorrow

Four softball teams from the Pampa summer recreation program will play host to four championship teams from the Kids, Inc., organization of Amarillo tomorrow night at Kiwanis Park on South Hobart St.

The games are slated for 7:30 after the Amarillo boys out of four in a recent battle at Amarillo.

Teams playing will represent the Midget, Pee Wee, Junior and Intermediate divisions of the program. Otto Mangold, director, said the games will start at 6 p.m., and Mangold has asked all the kids enrolled in the program to be out there at that time to cheer for their team.

Mangold also said he needed eight volunteers to umpire the games, which will last about 90 minutes. He may be reached at phone 3239-J.

"We have had wonderful response throughout the summer on the program," Mangold said. "We have averaged 200 kids per game and they have all enjoyed the program, especially the swimming. Many have come up and asked me if it would be continued next year."

The summer program ends Aug. 15.

Coaches School Is One Of The Best

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Texas Coaching School was at an end today — one of the most successful held in its 20 years. There were more than 1500 coaches enrolled and the All-Star basketball and football games — the money-makers of the school — both produced record crowds.

The directors of the Texas High School Coaches Association will hold their annual meeting at Fort Worth, Dec. 19 and 20, when the 1953 coaching school site will be set.

The directors also deplored segregation of Negro coaches at the coaching school lectures. The Negroes said they couldn't see or hear the lectures properly and quiet attending the lectures.

Golfers Set For JC Meet

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Golfers were arriving here today for the seventh annual National Junior Amateur Golf Championships sponsored by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

More than 140 junior golfers from 43 states, Hawaii, District of Columbia and Canada, were expected to be on hand for the inaugural competition this afternoon when long hitters vie for the Jimmy Thomson Trophy for the longest drive.

Among competitors will be two who already have won national junior titles this year — Donald Bingham of Orlando, Fla., and Eddie Meyerson of Los Angeles.

President Earl Godfrey of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce said no one was authorized to tell the Negroes they could not attend the lectures.

Texans Will Spot Cardinal Lineup

CHICAGO CARDINAL TRAINING CAMP, Lake Forest, Ill. — Six Texans, headed by the great veteran lineman Cliff Patton of PCCI and Clyde, Tex., will be in Cardinal uniforms when the Chicagoans tangle with the Detroit Lions in a pre-season contest in Amarillo Aug. 18.

Other Texans facing the Lions will be the cute 15-pound half-back Billy Cross, who makes his home in Canada, Tex.; fullback Bill Svoboda of Bonham, Texas; and Rookies Wade Hancock, San Antonio; Wayne Musgrove of Childress, Texas; and Jerrell Price of Brownfield, Texas, the latter three contending for guard positions.

Patton, starting his second season with the Cards and his seventh in the league, was obtained in a player-trade with the Philadelphia Eagles. Cliff holds the National Football league all-time record for consecutive points kicked in a row while playing with the Eagles and has missed only four out of 18 points after touchdown attempts.

Following the 84 consecutive PATs, he missed one and then chalked up 49 more in succession before he hit his next one.

The PAT's mentioned here do not include pre-season games. If they had included non-league games his streak would have been around 120 in a row.

In his years in the league he has kicked 32 field goals, one of them being a 48-yard job against the Pittsburgh Steelers, Oct. 30, 1949.

Cross, in his first year in the league (last season), tied Don Paul, a halfback from Washington State, in starting touch-downs for the Cards, each tallying six TDs.

Svoboda, who played his collegiate football at Tulane, but who lives in Bonham, Tex., has been a tower of strength for the Cards on defense. Bill is starting his third year with the club.

Hancock, who played at Baylor; Musgrove of Hardin-Simmons and Price of Texas Tech, are battling for guard positions but all three are highly regarded by the Cards coaching staff.

Hancock and Musgrove are performing daily here at the Cards camp but Price is up at Delafield, Wis., where he is coveting with the All-Star Collegians who play the Los Angeles Rams in the Chicago Tribune game in Soldier Field in Chicago.

Tickets may be obtained at Lubbock Bowling Club - Lubbock.

Greens Gossip

By HOGAN OSNEAD

One boy that's really wearing a smile around the golf course these days is the pro, Johnny Austin, this despite the fact he is looking right into the face of some really hard work ahead with the Top o' Texas tourney coming up end of this month. Reason for all the wide smiles is the nice rain that he got on his course last week. It flooded the creek, greened the greens and even got the fairways into such shape that the mower could go to work.

Speaking of the Top o' Texas meet, the first entries are in and it is going to be a big tourney again. Johnny is getting ready for it with some new traps on the green. It is going to take a good pitch shot, or else an accurate rolling job (Charley That style) to hit the greens. It is really going to improve those holes, though which are usually easy for everyone (except Doc Kelley, Shorty Heiskel, Les Hart and Walt Wade, we hear).

Johnny has been giving lots of lessons, and others have been putting in lots of practice. That should mean that the boys are really getting prepared for the Labor Day tournament. The trophies have arrived and are on display, and other prizes have been ordered and are due in any time.

We surely hope that Ham Lima is feeling a lot better. His back has been bothering him again and sloshed him down. He has to get back to bed with his back. Melvin Watkins picked right up, and carried the ball in grand style. Congratulations, and thanks to both of you guys.

Got a hole in the big Jaycee tournament at Eugene Ore., this week. Tommy Cox left Thursday and starts in the tournament tomorrow. He is playing pretty good, according to Johnny Austin who was unable to beat him in the last round. The youngster played over the Pampa course before leaving.

The lady golfers are off to Amarillo this week for the big Panhandle Ladies meet. Good luck, gals, and let's bring home everything, including the lead in the Panhandle Association round-robin circuit.

First Entries In For The 17th Annual Top o' Texas Tourney

TO THE BEST—Winners in the annual Top o' Texas Golf Tournament will receive this lineup of beautiful trophies which are now on display in the pro shop at the Pampa Country Club. Entries are now flowing in for the tournament which is held annually over the Labor Day week end. (News Photo)

Phil Obenaus, enthusiastic Phillips CC golfer, became the first entrant in the seventeenth annual Top o' Texas Golf Tournament which starts Aug. 28 with a pro-amateur and concludes with the finals on Sept. 1. Obenaus, upon receiving the invitation to play, immediately telephoned Johnny Austin and there by became the first contestant to enter officially.

He just nipped Canadian's Charley Douglas, the number two entrant. Invitations just went into the mail the middle of the week, but already some of them have been returned. Others who have entered are Russell Carver, Harry Wilbur and Carl Goettsche of Higgins.

One golfer, Harry Weathered of Kress, sent his regrets. He's going in the army on Aug. 20. He couldn't get an extension to play in the tournament.

A meeting of the tournament committee was held during the week to iron out final details and rules of the tournament. The pro-amateur was changed a bit with the professionals and amateurs who captain the teams being permitted to select one amateur of their choice on the first week and then drawing the remainder of their foursome or fivesome and taking off immediately thereafter on the 10th.

Also, two prizes will be awarded to the two low-scoring amateurs. One going to the winner and the Panhandle two low scores winners have been honored. Tee off time is 12 noon, with 130 to 140 expected to enter.

Entry fee for the pro-am is $3, one dollar of which goes to the West Texas pro-amateur association and two bucks for the prizes.

Mrs. Grace Houck of Berger's Huber course will run the program.

The Top o' Texas tournament probably won't be our biggest in history," Professional Johnny Austin said yesterday. "but I think it will be our best from the player's standpoint."

Choice Seats Disappearing For Greenbelt Bowl Contest

CHILDRRESS (Special)—The 50 yard line choice seats for the Greenbelt Bowl Game to be played here on Aug. 15, rapidly are being grabbed up, according to George Stewart, game chairman.

All in all, advance ticket sales are running slightly behind last year's, but indications are that purchases of tickets are increasing as game time nears. Almost 2,000 duets have been sold, Stewart reported Monday.

"Many of the Southwest's leading colleges will have representatives present to watch the contest," Stewart said. Applications for tickets already have been received from most of the Southwest Conference Schools, and from Oklahoma A&M, Kilgore JC and Tyler JC.

Forty-eight of the Southwest's top high school football players have been nominated to play in this East-West All-Star game, including some of Childrens High School's top stars. The game is sponsored by the local Quarterback Club, with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce.

Noted coaches will conduct the strategy of the contest. Heading the East squad will be Dixie White, of Midwestern University. His full-time assistant, Prince Scott, also will serve with him in the dream game here.

Trainer for the East will be Blaine Riddout, formerly of the University of Nebraska. Jack Mitchell and Bobby Good, both of Texas Tech, have accepted the jobs of coach and assistant, respectively, to guide the fortunes of the West squad. C. Lee Brigham, of Austin College, will be the trainer for this group.

Players are due to report in Childrens on August 10, five days prior to the contest. The five-day period will be used to bring the boys into shape and work out plays for the important event.

Tickets can be purchased at the Robertson-Subank Drug Store here, or from the Childrens Chamber of Commerce. Mail orders for duets will be handled by the Chamber.

Reserved seats are $2.20, with choice seats being awarded on a first-come, first-served basis.

Dukes Buy Flanagan As Good Insurance

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Ed Flanagan, Berger's No. 1 hurler and West Texas-New Mexico League runner-up in strikeouts, was purchased by Albuquerque Friday.

Duke owner Cy Fausett 24 hours earlier bought second baseman Jim Hayes from Vernon of the Longhorn League, and pitched in 19 games in which he appeared as well as doing plenty of relief work. The right-hander's chief forte was his fast ball which had accounted for 130 strikeouts—just eight behind league leader Jesse Priest of Albuquerque.

Zavitka, who came here from Sacramento, was winner of but one while dropping five in nine games and yielding 25 runs in 31 innings. Wildness and a blister on his pitching hand had hampered the big right-hander to relief roles.

The Dukes thus have added performers who will plug the two big weaknesses—at second base and a short-handed pitching corps. The moves came too late to catch Albuquerque by 20 games. But Fausett was looking to the Shaughnessy playoffs and the possibility of somehow beating the Pioneers out for the WT-NM championship.

Young Hurler Neat 1-Hitter At Lobos

By The Associated Press

Clovis Pioneers split with Lamesa Lobos to check their unaccomplished losing streak at nightcap in the Texas-New Mexico League Friday night.

The Pioneers, beaten a night earlier by Berger, dropped the opener to Lamesa 7-4 Friday evening. Then, returning to their winning ways, they sacked up the nightcap 2-0.

Albuquerque's Dukes, still 20 games behind front running Clovis, measured the Abilene Blue Sox 7-3, the Amarillo Gold Sox beat the Lubbock Hubbers 7-5 and the Berger Gassers took the Pampa Oilers 6-3.

It was a pitchers' night all around the circuit.

Harry Young, Pioneer fireballer, threw a one-hitter in white washing Lamesa in the second game at Clovis. The Lobos' Tiger Garcia hit a home run, a single in the first frame. Right-hander Lee Gatewood bested McKramer as Lamesa took the opener on a four-run spurge in the seventh. Gatewood also evaded the iron man stunt in the nightcap, but yielded four hits as he retired the last 22 Lobos in order.

At Albuquerque, Jerry Folkman scattered 10 safeties as his mates shelled Mike Gazella of Abilene for 14 and coasted home. It was Folkman's win against the Lobos. Pedro Sanliago fanned four singles and Jim Hayes two one-baggers and a triple to lead the Duke attack.

Making his first home start, Berger's big Jim Cain allowed Pampa a meager four hits. Ted Gardner of the Oilers was loser. A bases-empty homer by Bill Johnson and two unearned Pampa runs robbed Cain of a shut-out.

Jack Vensile turned in a seven-hit job and fanned 11 at Amarillo besting the Hubbers. Vensile also contributed an important hit in the Gold Sox four-run uprising in the seventh. Numerous disputes marked the contest and Ray Machado, second of four Lubbock twirlers, was banished after a single pitch.

Fain's Punches Provide Bat Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—First baseman Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia A's decided long ago to quit swinging for home runs every time he came to bat. As a result he leads the American League's batsmen today with a .349 average.

As a matter of fact Fain has only one home run to his credit to date. And unless American League pitchers throw him a certain pitch—just which one is a trade secret—he isn't going to try and hit any more.

That's the solemn pledge of the 30-year-old Texan who started the season by going hitless in 22 trips to the plate. He remembered a previous slump and also recalled he was trying to hit home runs. He changed his outlook and his average zoomed.

A character analysis of this 5-foot, 11-inch, 186-pounder would lead you to the conclusion that here is a man built like a break-away halfback endowed with the temperament of a thoroughbred colt and more than a dash of the "never-say-die" spirit.

In recent weeks, you might say Fain has been playing the role of the "man behind the man" in the resurging drive of the American League A's to land a first division berth. On their most recent western tour the A's won 11 while dropping six, better than par for any road trip. It might be noted in passing that Fain boosted his average some 20 points during the tour via a red hot batting streak against some of the best hurlers in the league.

Rex Layne In Disputed Win

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Husky, young Rex Layne bulled his way over ex-heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles Friday night in a 10-round decision which threw the Charles camp into an uproar.

Jack Dempsey, the former world's heavyweight champ who was the referee and sole judge, held Layne's hand up in the victory sign as thunderous cheers deluged Ogden Stadium.

Immediately afterward, Charles' co-manager, Jake Mintz, rushed into the ring, berated Dempsey that "this is the loudest decision I ever seen."

Layne weighed 195 and Charles 205. The outdoor fight which promoter Ken Mayne said drew more than 23,000 fans. Mayne estimated the gate would top $150,000. Each fighter will receive 35 per cent.

Layne, always strong with his right, showed a potent left hand as he doggedly kept after the elusive, left-jabbing Charles. The fight tempo hit its hottest pace in the eighth round when both fighters landed telling blows.

The 31-year-old Cincinnati Nepero filed a left which cut Layne's lip in the sixth. Charles kept boring in at a fast pace, behind his sizzling left, and the battle ended in a last-round flurry.

Mintz claimed that the only way Charles could have won would have been by knocking out Layne.

Some of the ringsiders also disagreed with Dempsey's card of seven even rounds, two for Layne, and one for Charles.

In his dressing room, Layne, the 24-year-old Utah strong-boy, who lost his first fight to Charles, said the ex-champ "hurt me several times." But Layne thought he scored a solid victory. His manager, Marv Jensen, said, "We consider Rex the uncrowned heavyweight champion of the world. He has beaten both Charles and the present champ, Jersey Joe Walcott."

Jensen said he will now try to line up a Layne-Walcott go in September.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

By Ted Kesting

We can no longer doubt that it is necessary to restrict drastically the kill of trout on public waters if the sport is to be maintained. Dr. Albert Hazzard, director of the Institute for Fisheries Research of Michigan.

Research has shown that 75 per cent of the brook trout reaching the legal size of seven inches are removed during the open season—just about as fast as they grow to that length. In the better brook trout streams few females are left to breed even once before they land in some angler's creel. The high rate of exploitation of planted (and presumably also of wild) rainbow trout may be as high as that for brook trout, but brown trout are more wary and more sturdy to spawn.

When you consider that trout of seven inches may be taken, while the size of first maturity is from nine to twelve inches, you can see that the breeding stock isn't getting much protection. It appears that for many years we trout fishermen have been using up our capital as well as our interest. No wonder fishing has declined!

But Dr. Hazzard says we can have a good fishing—anywhere from two to four or even more trout per hour almost every time we go out. Those fish will not be measly things barely over legal size, but 12 or 14 inches long. And they'll be from almost every pool on the better streams, with now and then a battle with a three- or four-pounder.

How to achieve this angler's utopia on public waters? The answer is simple. Secure the passage of a law in your state making it illegal to have trout in possession at any time. No closed seasons. No size or creel limit. Catch your fish, admire it, gently release and return it to water.

The cost of such a program would be reasonable. Present license fees could more than cover it. All trout hatcheries and rearing stations could be closed, except perhaps one of each in a state for experimental purposes and for restocking where pollution or naturally occurring catastrophe had wiped out the fish.

Most of the trout biologists could be dismissed or transferred to warm-water fish problems. The stream-improvement boys would have a big job for some time yet, working with the soil conservation agencies in restoring the watershed and in producing the maximum of stream fishing water on every drainage. A few more law-enforcement officers might be needed to police their own sport. But with proper public support, such a simple and forthright law should be easy to enforce.

The closer we approach the "no kill" goal, the better will be the fishing quality on public waters. It is obvious that we cannot have our sport and eat it, too.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

The Case Of The Digging Dogs

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

The train to the city was ten minutes late. The conductor put his hand on my shoulder and confided, "I've a problem I want your advice about—I'll be back in a few minutes."

"It's about tulips," he said, when he returned.

"Tulips!" I repeated, "what's all that got to do with dogs?"

"It's dogs as has dug them up," he went on, "every danged one of them and they were all planted with a mixture of fish and bonemeal in each hole."

He had certainly presented a difficult problem. Either bonemeal or fishmeal are very attractive to dogs and it is natural to expect that any healthy dog would be inclined to start his explorations after the last frost in a spot so filled with hidden treasure.

There is no surefire method which will keep all dogs from digging in a garden. There are several things that can be tried and usually one of them will help.

In the first place, it is well to start a gardening project by planning the protection for it. If fencing is possible, it should be done over the likelihood of having Texas zoned for waterfowl.

The Texas Game Commission has recommended that the Wildlife Service zone Texas for waterfowl and if zoning is not allowed, that a state-wide season open Oct. 31.

Dodgen said a longer season would be the result of increased influence which the Council of Flyways has been conceding by the Wildlife Service. The council petitioned Washington officials to assign a federal coordinator to each flyway to work with the state game administrators and technicians.

Dodgen said this new approach to regulatory problems would provide greater sensitivity to problems of agricultural interests in the along the flyways and in the winter feeding areas and to the rights of the hunter.

If fencing isn't practical, a piece of chicken wire can be laid over a flower bed. This will not prevent dogs from digging, but will hold leaves over a bed, for better wintering. In fact, bulb gardens will grow right through two-inch mesh wire.

Several commercial products are manufactured to keep dogs away. They work well some times. Incidentally, a generous sprinkling of red pepper will keep a dog away.

If you can be around when a culprit may start his digging exercise at your expense, the garden sprinkler will help to train the dog to keep away.

For this to be effective you should be able to turn it on without the dog knowing you're around. Then he will suspect that the thing might start even without your presence.

Looking the conductor straight in the eye, I told him, "Give these ideas a try anyway and by the time you've used them all, your last tulip will be in bloom."

The Pampa Women's Golf Association is expected to be there in full force to try and wrestle the association team lead away from Phillips CC as well as pick up some laurels in the tournament.

The standings in the team play are Phillips, 1611; Pampa, 1657; Ross Rogers, 1673; Amarillo CC, 1685; Huber of Berger, 1751.

Dalhart Prepares For XIT Reunion

DALHART (AP) — The annual XIT reunion—biggest in the West based on the history of a ranch—opens tomorrow.

The two-day celebration is based on the history of the three million Panhandle acres which the state in the 1880's traded to two Chicago financiers in payment for its three million dollar red granite capitol building—the one still in use at Austin.

The three million acres laid in an irregular strip, about 30 miles wide, from what is now Lubbock northward 200 miles to the Oklahoma line. It became known as the XIT when Ab Blocker then a Tom Green County trail driver—designed the brand with his boot heel in the dust of the Buffalo Springs corral near Dalhart in July, 1885. Blocker, who died a few years ago at Freer, Tex., had just delivered the first cattle to the new spread.

There will be a public reception tomorrow in honor of pioneers and members of the XIT association. Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Atkinson, son of an old XIT ranchhand and now commander of the Second Air Force at Barksdale, La., will be principal speaker.

The XIT Association originally was open only to men and women who had once worked on the ranch, or their wives or husbands. But membership has now been extended to sons and daughters of the old XIT'ers.

Beginning in ranch began breaking up. Pieces were sold from time to time, creating smaller ranches and even farms.

Understanding Thief

ADA, Okla. (AP)—J. H. Hewitt, an ardent angler, issued an invitation in the newspaper for a thief to return and get his rods and reels, left behind when his fishing tackle and tools were stolen.

The poles were useless without files and plugs, Hewitt explained. During the night the tackle was returned to the pickup truck from which it was stolen.

MIAMI (Special) — Plans will be made at 2 p.m. Monday at the American Legion hall for the second mass X-ray survey of Roberts County.

The survey is conducted by the State Health Department and is again being sponsored by Pulaski Post No. 106 of the American Legion as a community service project.

James Seitz, newly elected Legion commander, who announced that the Legion is sponsoring the survey, said that a county chairman and committees will be appointed after the preliminary meeting.

An effort will be made to reach every person in Roberts County. There is no charge for the service and the entire procedure will take only one minute per person.

Barton has been in the Navy for eight months, three of them in boot camp at San Diego and the other five in Electronics Material School, Treasure Island, San Francisco, Calif. In school he has been studying radar and navigation. Prior to entering the service Barton attended Pampa High School.

In addition to the "line-cutting" and "rail-splitting" missions, the pilots concentrated on gun emplacements, troops supply areas, factories and warehouses, destroying anything of possible use to the enemy.

As a parting shot at the Comanches, planes from the Philippine sea, and three sister carriers hit the strategic hydro-electric plants along the Yaghi river and throughout North Korea. With Navy, Marine, and Air Force jets flying cover, Philippine Sea planes delivered a stunning blow at the Red's power systems.

The Philippine Sea is the first of the four carriers that made the strike to return to the States.

The Little Merchants

As the fifth member of the Pampa Daily News carrier staff, we present Floyd Parker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Parker, 411 N. Hill.

This 14-year-old begins delivering papers at 8:01 S. Cuyler and covers the territory between Brown Street, delivering on E. Tyng, E. Craven and E. Locust.

Floyd has lived in Pampa about six months and has been with the News for two of those. He has lived in Wheeler and in Wellington, but boasts that he's an "Arkansaw-yer" as that's where he was born.

Floyd will be in the 8th grade next year at junior high. His favorite subject is math and he aspires to be a train engineer some day. He likes Western, detective and "stuff like that" in reading and movie material.

Baseball and basketball are his favorite sports and he has so many favorite foods he just can't decide. Guesses ham is his favorite meat.

As far as girls are concerned, he isn't interested in any particular one, but says he likes them "A little bit."

Western Powers And Turkey Consider New Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western powers and Turkey are considering shelving their long-stalled proposal for a Middle East defense organization.

The proposal for a Middle East defense organization, this would have the more limited task of planning the defense of that area against possible Russian moves.

Political developments in Egypt are regarded here as holding the key to what is done. Many American officials hope the new Egyptian government, with an eye to modernizing the country's armed forces, may reverse previous opposition to joining forces with the West and at least participate in a planning group.

The establishment of a Middle East Defense Organization would provide a political basis for military assistance by the United States and possibly other Western powers to co-operating countries.

It is understood that, because of antagonisms between Israel and the Arab nations, the Jewish state would not become a member of Medo out would receive military assistance from the United States so that the present balance of power as between Arabs and Jews would be maintained.

There are some differences between Washington and London over when and with whom Medo should be organized. British are understood to favor going ahead as soon as possible with formation of the planning group, incorporating those nations that are willing to join in and leaving out, temporarily at least, those which have cold-shouldered defense unification so far.

The United States government on the other hand asserts the view that any organization set-up should have maximum membership in the Middle East if it is to be useful.

The proposal for a Middle East Command was put forth by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey in November, 1951.

The project bogged down because of tensions created by Egypt's dispute with Britain over control of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

It did win prompt acceptance from interested governments outside the area whose communications depend on transport through the Middle East—Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Recently the sponsoring governments and those three commonwealth countries have been reviewing the situation to see whether they could get the project moving again.

The tentative conclusion growing out of the consultations so far held is that the planning organization would be simpler to set up than a formal command structure and would be adequate for dealing with the initial problems involved in strengthening defense of the area. If it proved successful it could at some later stage develop into the command staff originally envisioned.

BUICK'S POWER STEERING?

It's the big NEWS of the year

There is a host of things that endear a ROADMASTER to anyone who loves to drive.

There's the might of its Fireball 8 Engine—most powerful ever put in a Buick.

There's the thrift of its Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic that literally brings increased power right out of thin air.

There's its hushed and luxurious silence—its poised and level ride that cost a million dollars to develop—and the infinite smoothness of its Dynaflow Drive.

But the thing that has brought the most cheers for this big and obedient beauty is Buick's version of Power Steering.*

Gone is the tug of turning, parking, maneuvering in small space.

Power Steering takes over the effort of turning the front wheels—makes it a one-hand operation.

Do you have to learn to drive all over again if you have this new Buick feature?

You definitely do not. On the open road, you have that same sure sense of command that you've always had. Coming out of a curve, you can loosen your grip, and the front wheels right themselves just as they do on every Buick.

But you'll notice this: When you suddenly hit loose dirt or sand—or a stretch of rough road—Power Steering smoothly goes into action—helps take up the jerk—makes control of the wheel easier and driving safer.

Wouldn't you like to try out this newest wonder—on a ROADMASTER or a SUPER? You say the word, and we'll do the rest.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster and Super only.

Movies Are Hotter Than Ever...

Hollywood Junkies Dignity; It Didn't Pay At Boxoffice

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood is junking dignity. It didn't pay off at the boxoffice. The blueprint for movietown's war against the censor now specifies: Bolder plots, sexier scenes, longer kisses, tighter sweaters, an attempt at repeal of state censorship laws, leggy musicals, a revision of Hollywood's own antiquated morals code, slum-bang, old-fashioned publicity stunts and the debunking of the World War II inspired ballyhoo that movie stars are normal, folksy people. "Movies Are Sexier Than Ever" will be the cry instead of "Movies Are Better Than Ever." A fading boxoffice and the try closing of hundreds of theaters are blamed on television and lack of public interest in Hollywood's 50th anniversary product — are the reasons for the big switch. Hollywood acquired dignity during the serious days of the war when almost every movie had a message. The movies had grown up, the film barons told themselves as they put the skids on slapstick comedy, light-hearted romantic stories, circus ballyhoo and eye-catching advertisements. During those serious days the Producers Association fought a legal battle with the censors. Now Hughes' busy her- oines decorate billboards from coast to coast with full industry approval and other studios have adopted the same sex ap-

WORDS AREN'T needed for Rita Gam's sultry role—with-out dilogue in "The Thief."

Even the males are getting the strip tease treatment in movie advertising, with Marion Brando, Cornel Wilde and Alan Ladd playing peek-a-boo with their manly chests. Movie queens are showing just about everything the law will allow. At-home photographs with pumpkin pies and happy kiddies have been replaced by cheesecake dished up in bathing suits and lacy black negligees.

The plots of two movies, "Clash By Night," and "Carrie" are samples of racier, bolder things to come on celluloid.

Both films are evidence of more lenient industry censorship. "Clash By Night" features an adultery theme, and the advertising shows Barbara Stanwyck, one shoulder strap down, covering as Paul Douglas screams at her:

"Livin' in my house! Lovin' another man. Is that what you call bein' honest. That's just givin' it a nice name." "Carrie" is based on the old Theodore Dreiser novel which wasn't printed in the United States for 15 years because a publisher thought it was too hot to handle. It tells the story of a farm girl (Jennifer Jones) who goes to Chicago and becomes the mistress of two men, one of whom (Lawrence Olivier) is married.

They have an out-of-wedlock child and then Olivier lies about divorcing his wife and becomes a bigamist when he marries her.

A big drive against state censorship is part of Hollywood's long range plan to put more oomph into its celluloid. State legislatures will be asked to repeal local censorship laws based on the theory that the recent high court decision on "The Miracle" cast doubt on the legality of local film prohibitions.

On and off the screen Hollywood's cuties are on a nudgy binge.

Linda Christian's surprise birthday present to Tyrone Power—a nude bust—was an eyebrow lifter, but marble evidence of Hollywood's new "down with dignity" campaign. A black silk dress was glued on the shapely form of Marilyn Maxwell to better reveal her curves in a new Bob Hope movie, "Military Policemen."

BARE-CHESTED mates, like Cornel Wilde, are part of new slum-bang Hollywood trend.

There's a suggestion of nude swimming scenes for Dorothy Lamour in "The Road to Bali" and Ann Blyth in "Katie Did It." Rita Hayworth wears as little as the censors will allow in "Affair in Trinidad" and in "Salome, Dance of the Seven Veils."

Promised and current in the sex appeal department are Zsa Zsa Gabor's strip tease as a model in "Lili"; Jane Russell's leggy dancy hall queen role in "Son of Paleface"; Virginia Mayo's playing of a burlesque stripper in "She's Working Her Way Through College," and sultry TV actress Rita Gam's shady lady role without a single line of dialogue opposite Ray Milland in "The Thief."

Even Woody Woodpecker gets a red-headed girl woodpecker friend for the first time in his 10-year cartoon career in Walter Lantz's new short, "Crash By Night."

Hollywood's biggest new box office star is Marilyn Monroe, who, when fully dressed, is the least-dressed star Hollywood has seen since Jean Harlow.

Movietown's biggest argument in favor of more lenient censorship is television, still without an enforced morals code of its own.

Hollywood has discovered that those little home screens pack a wallop — and if TV's Dagmara and Studio Ones can dish up sex appeal in large doses, then the big screen movies have the same legal and moral rights.

McGranery Sees No Need To Oust Finn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. McGranery says he sees no reason for deporting Karl A. Latva of Wendell, N.H., the man who said he paid 90 cents in Communist dues 18 years ago.

BEWILDERED—Stunned at deportation order, Karl A. Latva sits bewildered in his Wendell, N. H., home after hearing a federal court ruling ordering him deported to his native Finland. Latva, who came to America at the age of 14, allegedly became a member of the communist party when he "unknowingly" paid ninety cents in dues in 1934. (NEA Telephoto)

Age Limit Raised

Vancouver, B. C. (AP) — A preliminary report by City Personnel Director B. H. Peterson showed Vancouver has hired three persons over the age of 40 since the city council opened age limits for civic employment. He believes older men and women will be more stable in certain jobs.

Latva's two sons, Carl and Paul — both World War II veterans — called McGranery's announcement "good news" and "wonderful."

"The family is greatly indebted to the press for their interest in the case," Paul said at his brother's home in Guild, N.H.

And Carl said: "I hope my father soon will be cleared."

In The Good Old Summertime!

Cooking outdoors, upper left, is real summer fun for Mrs. Ralph McKinney and sons, Charles, 3½, and Bill, right. Gardening, left center, is one of the most enjoyable summer activities for Herman Jones. A spot under a shady tree by a fish pond can bring quiet pleasure. Lower left, Ann Jordan and her father, Rufe, relax after a ride. Riding is also a favorite pastime with Richard and Norma Jean Fatheree, children of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fatheree, who are pictured lower right on the merry-go-round. Pictured center right is Jerry Ray Boston, who knows that first comes the lawn mower, then his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Boston, will wave him off to the golf course. Upper right, Gaye Nell Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Carter, and Lee Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fraser, prove that summer is a sure time for a girl, a boy and a park to get together!

DUNNO WHO DESERVES the praise, maybe all of us had a hand in making this about the best rodeo ever. Wonderful crowds, and yet never saw such "orderly" parking, nobody hemmed in, etc. Those nice new fences around the stands are perfect in separating horses and cars and there was none of that usual confusion. Guess if we'd gone every night we could have eventually seen 'bout everybody in town, but here in there we glimpsed Bill Fannon, Chester Thompson, Clarence Smiles, Mack Hunt, Mrs. Fred Thompson, June Bull (in archaic), Mrs. Aubrey Jones, and many, many more.

THE ONLY THING about the show that was disappointing was the parade. That's something most everyone complains about, but nobody does anything about. Residents show their support by lining every street the route takes, and year after year, they wonder why. Last year, the parade did go above the usual, but still it was not worthy of the Top o' Texas show, which we believe is the number one amateur rodeo in the nation—the Cowboy Reunion in Stamford is just older! We've got enough organizations who would contribute entries in the parade if somebody would get behind and give a little push, and if prizes were high enough to pay at least a part of the expenses of entering. It's a long time till Christmas, but when the Santa Day Parade is planned, we hope it's a good, big one, and one that's worth standing by to see. Usually, it's a colorful affair, but there again, not all the local clubs take part. Really, is there anything more disappointing than a poor parade when you go away wondering where the rest of it is. On the other hand, is there anything more delightful than a fast-moving parade, with banners waving and bands playing?

PAMPA PANORAMA: Anyone hear lately from the Carl J. Wrights? . . . Would love to drop in on them in their new home in Fort Collins, Colo. . . . a rambling ranch house, we hear. . . . Here's a "wanta see" on our list: Wyndell and Irene Cox's new home. . . . Just know they're building, can't snoop out where! . . . Our friends Al and Peacie Schneider "doon't it again". . . . Mrs. Henry Ellis is one of those mamas as young and pretty as her daughter. . . . Country club addition is going right along. . . . miss cute Norma Self "whatever-her-married-name-is". . . . Friendly Ann, daughter of the A. D. McNamaras, is lifeguarding at the pool this summer. . . . Are Betty and Raymond Reid back from Hawaii? . . . Wanta hear more about that. . . . We've been keeping our fingers crossed for "Butch" Langford up at the National Soap Box Derby. . . . His whole family went up with him, we understand. . . . J. E. Leverick, nice guy. . . . So's V. N. Osborn, who's left for a fishing trip. . . . The Wade Thomassons' youngest daughter is growing up so. . . . did we miss seeing her in the parade the other day? . . . Anniversary celebrating this month are the E. M. Killers, Raymond Harrahs, Ray Evanses, and Bus Bentons.

PAMPA'S CLUB YEAR will be starting soon, and there'll be lots of women taking over new responsibilities. Long about now there may be just a little "panic" and even the most experienced clubwoman may be wondering if all is going to go smoothly during the busy year to come. Some may be interested in a new book Peg's heard about. It's "How to Work with Groups" by Audrey and Harleigh Tracker, and it's a treasure of practical help, like how to develop interest in committees, how to secure publicity, conduct meetings, how to lead discussions, etc. And speaking of the club year, it seems we have a particularly fine group of leaders—Mrs. Raymond Harrah, president of the Council of Clubs, Mrs. H. R. Thompson, president of Twentieth Century Club, Mrs. J. C. Vollmert (love their new home) president of Varietas Study Club, Mrs. Bertha Chisum, president of the art club, and there are many, many more. We'll be watching for program plans of the various clubs.

MAYBE SOME PTA group would like this idea for a project. It certainly hit home with Peg, especially after we read the other day that bike-car accidents have brought death to some 6,000 youngsters, and injuries to 300,000 more in the last decade. We just can't talk the kiddoes out of bikes, but maybe we can talk them into taping "Scotch-lite" on the front and back of their bicycles. This tape is sort of a reflective material that glows when hit by light. Just takes 20 cents worth to "reflectorize" a bicycle so it can be seen by auto lights a quarter of a mile away. The kids have to have those little reflectors on their bikes, now, but sometimes they are difficult to see. Any group interested in a "mass-taping" campaign can drop a note to Peg and we'll get complete information from other cities who've sponsored such a program, and a sample kit. This "Scotch-lite" is sold only to campaign sponsors who provide it to youngsters without charge. With school just ahead, the big traffic is gonna be terrific. Mrs. Sug Cobb, Mrs. R. A. Mack, and Mrs. E. L. Biggerstaff will probably be getting busy soon with PTA work.

HERE'S AN IDEA we learned about recently. A woman's club in Syracuse, Indiana, was celebrating its fiftieth year during 1951-52, so each program during the club season was a repeat of an earlier program. Their year book was most attractive. Some of the programs were "American tendencies to extravagance, and what will be the effect?" (1901 compared to 1951), "Fashions Grandmothers'—Mother's—Ours," and another interesting repeat program was "Are we an improvement on our Grandmothers," a program given in 1915.

Didn't one of our clubs have a program on the latter subject? Can't recall the date, but the "Grandmother versus us" theme sounds familiar. Seems Pampa clubs could repeat some of their old programs, in ones which have been particularly good, but still, there's so much that is new and interesting that hasn't been covered that it seems a pity to linger in the past—much fun as that is sometimes for everyone, including

Cream Screens Hot

Summer Sun Rays

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor Life in the summer sun need no longer hold terror for the 23 million sensitive skinned people who usually go into hiding at this time of year. If you belong in this category you'll be overjoyed to learn that a sun allergy cream is now on the market that will protect your skin from the damaging ultraviolet rays of the sun that cause painful burns, blistering, and even annoying rashes. It's a colorless cream that smooths on easily, leaving no greasy film to spoil your clothing. Simply smooth it on any exposed areas. The cream effectively forms a screen between your skin and the sun. According to the manufacturer, tests made on people whose skins are extra-sensitive to the sun have shown that the cream is virtually impenetrable to the ultraviolet rays from intense sunlight. SATURDAY 9:30 a.m. - "Swimmers" group in Red Cross program will meet at the Municipal Pool.

White-Pemberton Double-Ring Vows Said In Amarillo Baptist Parsonage

The home of Rev. and Mrs. Hal Upchurch of Amarillo was the setting for the marriage August 1 of Miss June White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. White of Pampa and Mr. William Pemberton, son of Mrs. Ida Pemberton of Plainview.

Double-ring vows, read by Rev. Upchurch, were said before an altar made of summer flowers, including dahlias and gladioli. Wedding music included "Till the End of Time," "Some Enchanted Evening," and "Indian Love Call."

Miss Sonja White served her sister as maid of honor. She wore an aqua nylon dress. Mr. Eugene Watson was best man. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a powder blue lace dress with a fitted bodice and full gathered skirt over matching tulle. The bodice was styled with a scalloped neckline. She carried out wedding traditions of something old, new, borrowed and blue.

Her flowers, a shade darker than her dress, were arranged with blue lace and ribbon. She only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace-earring set. The bride's mother wore a navy lace dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore navy with matching accessories.

The couple left for a short wedding trip immediately following the ceremony, which was attended by members of both families. For traveling, the bride wore an orchid linen dress with orchid and white accessories. After August 15, the couple

RUTH MILLETT

Want to be a real friend to your daughter-in-law? There's one way you can be. Next time you visit in her home, instead of concentrating on finding out what kind of a wife she is making your son, reverse the order. Study your son, as though he were a stranger, to see what kind of a husband he is making the girl he married. If you do this you may get a few rude shocks. Especially if you notice that he is doing some of the very things his own father has always done, and which in his father you always resented. You may come out of this critical observation of that son of yours with a whole list of things you know he is doing wrong. If you do, then you've an opportunity to be a real friend to your daughter-in-law. Write that husband of hers a "Dear Son" letter and lay it on the line. Tell him what fine girl he has married and how much in love you know they are. Then tell him that as his mother and as a woman you want to tell him a few things about women and what it takes to make them feel appreciated, needed, and secure. If you have come to the conclusion that his wife is putting up with a lot, tell him so. As a mother you can get by with this. If his wife tries to tell him she'll probably do more harm than good. Her mother certainly can't tell him—and stay on speaking terms. So you go ahead and have your say. After all, any mistakes he is making are really your fault. If he isn't considerate of his wife in the small ways that matter to a woman, it is probably because his mother never stressed the importance of those small things. light as well as those from a sun lamp. With this cream, there is no longer any reason for you to stay in the shade or coat yourself with conspicuously thick ointments. Rather, you can enjoy a carefree summer as free from worry as your thick-skinned friends. All you have to do is get into the habit of using your sun allergy cream whenever you step out, and you will be fully protected.

Her fingertip veil was attached to a Juliet cap ornamented with pearls.

A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli. The two-tiered cake was trimmed with white roses.

Miss Kathryn Fettus provided music during the reception.

When the couple left for a wedding trip through northern Michigan and Wisconsin, the bride wore a summer suit with black and white accessories. After August 17, they will be at home at 452 Lakeview Ave., Battle Creek.

Michigan College where she is majoring in Art Secondary Education.

The bridegroom was graduated from Western Michigan College in 1951.

Summer care of bulbs for the garden fall under two heads: 1. Naturalized, or those which are to be left in their location over winter, and 2. Stored bulbs.

One of the important items in caring for the naturalized ones is in regard to the handling of the foliage of plants which usually lose their leaves after flowering. Narcissus, including daffodils and jonquils, snowflakes and spider-lilies are examples. Their leaves gradually die following the blooming period. Because they become unsightly, some may want to destroy them. It is important that they be left since the leaves manufacture the food on which the next seasons flowers are formed. Imperfectly developed and matured foliage this year means poor flowers, or none at all next year. Therefore, it is best to leave the foliage until it is two-thirds browned. If you need to move the bulbs, do so after the leaves have entirely died.

The evergreen tops of Crinum, many day-lilies and similar easily naturalized subjects should be left intact the year round if possible.

From our present knowledge of fertilizers, it appears that it should be applied to the soil before placing the true bulbs. However, with gladioli, which come from corns, next year's flowers may be improved by applying bone-meal, or a similar fertilizer to the bed soon after the blooming period.

Two to four pounds for each ten square feet of bed is a good amount. Often there may also be a beneficial plant and flower response from a light application of ammonia sulphate, when the spikes show. One pound per hundred square feet will help. Dahlias also respond well to a light summer application of ammonia sulphate.

Bulbs which become dormant after flowering are either lifted and separated every few years, or they are lifted for seasonal storage. They should be lifted after the foliage has died. They will then be in their most dormant period, especially if water has been withheld after blooming.

Where bulbs are related corns, tubers and such are stored, they should be cleaned first, and dried in the shade. Dusting them with sulphur or a sulphur-charcoal mixture may help to safeguard against fungus and certain bacterial diseases.

Storage should be dry to help prevent rot and other troubles. Bulbs get a maximum air circulation when they are stored in shallow layers in boxes with slat or wire bottoms. Optimum storage temperature varies with different species, but it is often found that a low temperature for most bulbs. A temperature of forty degrees or less, helps prevent excessive drying of the bulbs and retards growth. Large bulbs like Easter lilies may be packed in dry peat moss or rice hull ashes with a minimum of drying at normal temperatures. However, the condition of any stored bulb should be checked frequently.

Here are some notes about particular plants:

Narcissus naturalize readily. For good blooms they should be divided every three years.

Tulip bulbs, especially are subject to rot if they are watered much after blooming. Withhold water from them if they are to be left in the ground. Gladioli respond to water and cultivation. Try pulling the soil to them before blooming.

Spray Gladioli with a mixture of 2 ounces of Tartar Emetic and one half pound of brown sugar in three gallons of water to control thrips. Sprinkle one ounce of naphthalene crystals among one paper bags or under canvas. Remove the excess crystals after three weeks, or after ten days if the temperature is high.

Flower stalks and their older leaves should be removed as they die in late summer. They are usually quite free from insects, but occasionally thrips may feed on the tissues in the base of the leaves. It usually is best to destroy those plants.

German Bearded Iris become crowded that division is desirable about every fifth or sixth year. It can be done after blooming, when the leaves turn yellow. Plant them from one to two feet apart. Place them well in the earth in a well drained bed. Just cover the top of the rhizome with soil.

Ruth Ann Bogard Becomes Bride Of Ben M. Newman

Miss Ruth Ann Bogard became the bride of Mr. Ben M. Newman in a double-ring ceremony, read at 8 p.m., August 1, in the home of Rev. W. H. Huff, who officiated at the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Newman of Dallas.

Before the ceremony, a girls quartet sang "I Love You Truly," "Always" and traditional wedding marches.

Miss Pat Taylor, bridesmaid, wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow eyelet with a close-fitting bodice styled with a low neckline. Her flowers were white carnations.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the Huff home. Miss Jo Geer and Miss Bridget Brennan, classmates of the bride at St. Paul's School of Nursing in Dallas, presided at the table. Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Galveston.

The bride was graduated from Lefors High School. The bridegroom was graduated from William Hutchins High School and is now employed in Dallas, where the couple will establish residence.

Pepperoni was listed as favorite among meat items. Other cherished gifts from home are sharp cheese and cheese spreads, "instant" cocoa, tea bags and bouillon cubes.

Baby Still Up For Sale; But Not Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Alcohol Tax Division agent walking by a local auction house recently pulled up short when he saw in the window, tagged and numbered for sale, a tiny but tidy copper still.

It was just like many moonshiners use down in Dixie, Agent Wilton M. Kiefer told a reporter, except far, far smaller. In fact, he estimated, you'd have to run it all day to make a gallon of liquor.

Kiefer said he'd seen nothing like it before in a long experience.

It was a perfect distillery in miniature, complete with a dunce style cap at the top for the vapor, Only it would hold just one gallon of mash at a time, and that would yield about one-tenth of a gallon of whiskey.

You could sit it on your stove and be in the moonshining business pronto.

Kiefer said it was "very old, in good shape, the craftsman-like product of an artificer."

He guessed the maker was also highly knowledgeable, and perhaps had fashioned the still for innocent use in a laboratory. For he'd put on a plate warning that the still must be registered with alcohol tax authorities.

The tag had gone unnoticed in the auction house, a highly respectable place where they scarcely knew a still when they saw one.

With the full majesty of the law backing him, Kiefer did his duty: he seized and lawfully confiscated the contraband item, took it to his office in the Internal Revenue Bureau.

"Under the law," he told an inquiring reporter, "we have no right to sell it. No, we can't do it."

Prospect Of Demo Congress For Ike Vexes Republicans

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that if Gen. Eisenhower is elected president he might have to deal with a Democratic Senate is causing some concern among GOP campaigners.

Whatever the odds in the presidential race between Eisenhower, Gov. Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic standard bearer, the Democrats have some advantage in November's contest for control of the Senate.

As the Senate now is divided, it has 49 Democrats, 48 Republicans and the vacancy caused by the recent death of Sen. Brian McMahon, Connecticut Democrat. This vacancy boosted to 35 the number of Senate seats to be filled in the November election.

Of these, 20 have been held by Republicans and 15 by Democrats.

Besides having to risk fewer seats, the Democrats have at stake only nine where the Republicans are given much chance to win. Few politicians think there is much likelihood that the GOP can capture Democratic seats in Florida, Texas, Tennessee, Virginia, Mississippi and Rhode Island.

The Democrats need only to hold on to what they have to keep clear control of the Senate. They could lose a net of one and still retain control if they elected the vice president, who could vote in case of a tie.

On the other hand, Republicans will be laying 14 of their 20 seats on the hottest kind of firing line in November.

They must retain all of their 20 and pick up at least three more, or they will lose control. If they elect the vice president they need a net of two.

Nerve Gas Developed

LONDON (AP) — Effects of new "nerve gases" which give no warning of their presence and can kill almost instantly have been described by Britain's Ministry of Supply.

The ministry did not say, however, whether use of the gases in modern warfare was practical. It also gave no indication of what nation or nations might have them.

An article, prepared by the ministry's chief chemist, Sir Harry Garner, at the request of Britain's Chemical Defense Advisory Board, said:

"These gases are rapidly absorbed by inhalation of the vapor, absorption of the liquid through the skin and mucous membranes, or by ingestion (contamination) of contaminated food and water."

"A drop of the liquid in the eye or the inhalation of a high concentration of the vapor for a few seconds may cause incapacity or death within a few seconds."

"Drexel! You've been steaming your pay envelope open again!"

Japanese Emperor On The Spot

TOKYO (AP) — Leaders of millions of Christians and Buddhists have joined forces in an extraordinary alliance to fight a possible revival of state-supported Emperor worship.

In an unprecedented joint statement to the nation they even suggested that the Emperor be restricted in the practice of Japan's ancient Shinto faith.

The Christians and Buddhists fear that now that Japan is independent again, a new wave of nationalism may move shy, bespectacled Emperor Hirohito back into his prewar position as the high priest of Shinto, a demigod on earth.

The outcry was touched off by the Emperor's visits to the Grand Shrine at Ise and the tombs of two of his illustrious ancestors near Kyoto and Nara to report Japan's new independence to the Shinto dieties.

The statement, signed jointly by the Rev. Michio Kozaki, chairman of the Japan Christians' League, and Priest Tatsuo Sato, chairman of the Japan Buddhists' Association, was a blistering attack on the imperial journey.

"The emperor's act violated the occupation decree for the separation of Shinto from the state," their statement declared.

"The Emperor should not visit the shrine... if he does not wish to become a demigod again to rule a 'divine' nation."

Shintoists fired back immediately.

An editorial in Jinsha Shimpo, the official paper of the Shinto religion, declared "monarchs or heads of state of other countries whose religions are separated from the state attend religious ceremonies."

"There are no reasons to object to the Emperor's worship of his own religion."

Tokujiro Kanamori, one of Japan's top constitutional lawyers, said:

"As an individual the Emperor may enjoy the full freedom of faith. Actually, he owns Shinto sanctuaries in his palace as his personal property and is entitled to officiate at any religious ceremony in his personal capacity."

"It is unthinkable that the people would again try to grasp the fanatic Shinto and to consider Japan a divinely-ordained land simply because the Emperor worships at the Grand Shrine."

Stalin's Death—Great Earthquake... Cheop's Pyramid Points Out Aug. 20, 1953, As Significant

CAIRO (AP) — What will happen on Aug. 20, 1953? Will that day mark the beginning of World War III? An earthquake which will ravage half the world? The death of Stalin? The re-appearance of Hitler?

Some people are convinced the day will be a major historical event. Because, they say, Aug. 20, 1953, is one of the significant dates mysteriously pointed out in the construction stones of Egypt's great Pyramid.

Others say there is nothing to it — that it's all nonsense.

The Great Pyramid, located just outside Cairo, was built some 5,000 years ago. It is the burial place of the Pharaoh Cheops.

With two smaller pyramids — built under the Pharaohs Kephren and Mykerinos — and the Sphinx, it forms a compound which the ancients acclaimed as one of the world's seven wonders.

Egypt has 60 pyramids, but it is the great Pyramid of Cheops that has intrigued generations of researchers and mystic thinkers.

Georges Barbrin, a Frenchman, in a book published in 1936 contended that the significant dates of history are figured in the Great Pyramid by the intersection of the lines of the ceilings, of the floors, the corridors or the rooms with the various axes of the monument, and the projection of thresholds and entrances or exits of the various galleries.

By Barbrin's calculations, the intersection of the ground line projected from the first ascending passage with the axial line of the entrance passage and the descending passage works out to April 4, 1486 B.C. — the date of the great exodus of Israel from Egypt. The date of the Nativity is represented by the level of the floor of the Queen's Room.

J. P. Lauer, chief architect with the Egyptian antiquities department, rejects all the mystic theories.

In his book, "The Problem of Egypt's Pyramids," Lauer, a Frenchman, claims all calculations based on measurement of the pyramids are started on false or distorted data, says Lauer:

"Our theorists are agreed to consider the end of the great gallery, that is the foot of its southern wall, and the beginning of the low passage leading to the anteroom, as corresponding to the date of the outbreak of World War I — 1914."

Then Lauer lists these other dates "found" by the theorists: 1918, the end of World War I; Aug. 20, 1938; Nov. 27, 1939; March 3 and 4, 1945; Feb. 18, 1946; and Aug. 20, 1953.

None of these dates, argues Lauer, has marked any significant event. Aug. 20, 1953, of course, is still to come.

Lauer notes a cataclysm was predicted for 1920 and 1922 in the Mediterranean. Another mathematician figured the battle of Armageddon would take place in 1926 "after the Holy Land is invaded by Russia and its allies."

Strangely, Lauer continued, none of the pyramid prophecies predicted the date of the outbreak of World War II.

But, he said, in 1942 the prophets said they had started it all wrong and again the calculations were undertaken. This time they came up with Sept. 2, 1939, outbreak of World War II, May 10, 1940, Hitler's invasion of Russia.

Unfortunately, other dates resulting from the new calculation are June 22, 1940, and Sept. 19, 1942, the latter supposedly marking an armistice in Europe. Those proved either insignificant or wrong.

Anyway, mark Aug. 20, 1953 on your calendar, and see what happens.

Gulf Stakes 4th Test In Haggard Pool

By CHARLES HANLEY

Completions held the spotlight in the Panhandle field last week, although there was one new location in wildcat territory. Area operators completed 24 wells but staked only nine. The new wildcat location was a Gulf Oil Corp. No. 4 Haggard slated for 4200 feet.

Of the completions 13 were gasers for 33,215 MCF new gas; six were oilers for 316 barrels and five were plugged. Of the plugged wells, three were dry wildcats. Hartley, Roberts and Swisher each had one dry wildcat.

DALLAS - A total of 2536 rigs were active in oilfields of the United States and Canada for the week of Aug. 4, 1952, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company. This compares with 2521 reported a week ago, 2600 a month ago, and 2796 in the comparable week of 1951.

A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks shows: Pacific-Coast, 155, down 3; Oklahoma, 274, down 13; Kansas, 142, up 5; Rocky Mountain, 235, up 3; Canada, 165, up 10; Ark-La-Tex, 133; West Texas & New Mexico, 481 down 7; Gulf Coast, 527, up 5; Illinois, 150, up 8; North Texas 274 up 2.

Texaco Has Oiler In Harris County

HOUSTON (AP) - The first oil producer in the Finbeck field of Harris County has been announced by The Texas Company.

The company's announcement came on completion Friday of the H. D. Taylor No. 1, three miles southeast of Katy, Tex., as a producer.

Previously the nearest oil production had been in the southwest of Taylor No. 1, in Fort Bend County.

The new oiler was producing from the Vega, same sand from which two gas wells in the Finbeck field is producing.

Flowing through perforations at 6,874.6 feet, the well was gauged on a 10-hour test to have a 105 barrel daily production through a 10-64th-inch choke.

Depletion, Tideands Find Way Into Party Platforms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both Democratic and Republican platforms contain planks that may affect the oil industry, directly or indirectly. The Democratic platform declares that justice requires the elimination of tax loopholes "which favor special groups," and pledges "continued efforts to the elimination of remaining loopholes."

The Democratic platform declares that justice requires the elimination of tax loopholes "which favor special groups," and pledges "continued efforts to the elimination of remaining loopholes."

President Truman has described as a major tax loophole the 27 1/2 percent depletion allowance which oil operators are permitted for income tax purposes, and twice has asked Congress to reduce it. The Treasury has recommended a cut to 15 percent.

While the platform does not mention the depletion allowance, some oil men feel sure that was one of the things the platform framers at the Democratic National Convention had in mind.

The Republican platform calls for "restoration to the states of their rights to all lands and resources beneath navigable inland and offshore waters within their historic boundaries." The GOP's 1948 platform contained a similar proposal.

Earlier this year Congress passed a bill to give states partial title to these offshore areas, some times called tideands, but President Truman vetoed it.

The Republican platform also advocates "full and orderly development of natural resources."

It favors "reasonable" depletion allowances, defense procurement policies, synthetic fuels research and public land policies, including good faith administration.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Be On The Lookout For All Bridge Traps

By OSWALD JACOBY

If you want to live by proverbs you can find one to justify almost any course of action. When East played today's hand, for example, he evidently decided not to look a gift horse in the mouth.

He would have done better if he remembered that it is wise to fear the opponents even when they bear gifts.

South got himself into a bit of trouble by hiding enthusiastically upon his excellent distribution. He cannot be condemned for this, however, since this type of hand will normally produce a safe number of tricks.

West opened the ace of hearts and East signalled with the queen, since he could be quite sure that the king would drop.

At hearings before the Tariff Commission importing companies and the present duty of 21 cents a barrel to 5-14 cents a barrel on crude oil imports from Venezuela. The IPAA opposed any reduction. The commission's recommendations have been submitted to the President, and Russell Brown, IPAA general counsel has written him:

"It is with concern that we study the basic standards you utilized in overriding the Tariff Commission in the garlic case."

Brown said that if the standards were applied to petroleum, "the domestic petroleum industry would be seriously retarded in expanding its productive facilities needed to support the defense program" and "national security would be jeopardized."

The domestic garlic industry asked the tariff commission for protection against the Panhandle area, available for Teletron automatic refrigerator defrosters. Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall recently predicted just the opposite: that food prices were going higher. Brannan asked about this, said: "Mr. Arnall is entitled to his own opinion" but that he disagreed with it.

Brannan said food prices in areas hit directly by the drought might go up, but this was a local effect. Elsewhere, he said, he believed the effect would be "psychological rather than real."

Here is an inexpensive home recipe to take off unsightly weight and help bring back alertness and graceful slenderness. Just get for one quart, four ounces of liquid Baccarat, one quart of grapefruit juice to fill with water. The juice is used twice a day. That's all it is to it. Now you may slim down your figure and lose pounds and stay fat without body-breaking exercise or starvation diet. It's easy to make and very fat. Contains nothing harmful. ## Staid Ladies Keep Sheik's Memory Alive

By DON SCHWIND

LONDON (AP) - Staid English ladies who thrilled to the great Rudolph Valentino's love techniques long before the talkies moved in are quietly keeping "The Sheik's" memory green.

This year, their organization, the Valentino Club, will hold a tea party for about 100 old-age pensioners on the anniversary of the silent screen star's death, Aug. 23, 1926.

Fuender and sparkplug of the club is graying Marie Elliot, who worshipped the great Rudy a quarter of a century ago when he was romping through such epic as "Blood and Sand" and "Monsieur Beaucaire on the flickering screens of Britain's capital.

Miss Elliot, who cloaks her age, keeps a valuable collection of books on the screen lover's life. She also treasures a collection of letters he wrote her in answer to criticisms she made of his screen technique.

The British Valentino Club has about 100 members, more than half of them women. Miss Elliot claims their interest is "merely in his acting, as acting."

It's my turn to make a political talk—will you show me a book other members of my club haven't used to copy speeches?

McLemore Decides He Could Guess Wronger Than Anyone

By HENRY McLEMORE
MEXICO CITY — When I return to the land of my birth, which will be as soon as the silver of traveller's checks have exhausted, I am to become a political writer.

I used to think that the softest newspaper jobs in the world were those held down by (a) horse handcarriers and (b) society editors. All horse handcarriers have to have poor judgement and good binoculars. All society editors have to have a strong enough constitution to withstand the day-in-and-day-out wear and tear of "The matron of honor wore a tulle dress with muskrat trim. . . Mrs. John Phipps poured. . . The couple will make their home at 23 Elm Street. . . The centerpiece was of fern and neocornus hay. . . The infant son weighed seven pounds. . . The Mapes entertained last night at a cocktail party for their maiden aunt who is out on parole."

Political writers have it even easier. They don't even have to have a good pair of binoculars or a strong constitution. All they need is a respectable address in Washington, D. C., a typewriter, and the gullibility of the public, plus, I might add, an ego three times the size of the standard handball court.

When a political writer hauls off and becomes a prophet, he is saying to himself, wherever he knows it or not, that he has the inside track on the workings of the minds of millions of Americans. This is straight down my alley. I am willing to bet that I can guess wronger than any political writer working out of our national capital today — this without spurs, cane, information from high sources, and invitations to cocktail parties where a man can justify his boredom on the grounds that senators and supreme court justices were just as bored as he was.

If I'd been writing politics before the recent conventions, I would have unhesitatingly chosen Senator Kerr as the Democratic nominee and Milton T. ergas and milk.

Fab, the vegetarian, as the standard bearer of the Republicans. This would have made me a standout in political journalistic circles when I strolled down Pennsylvania Avenue looking for an Automat. I would have been pointed out as the man who lifted political wrong prophecy to its height. Why guess wrong with Kefauver when you could guess wrong with Kerr? Washington journalists do it the hard way. They don't seem to know that newspapers have never given a man a raise for guessing correctly. The unpredictable editors call that luck, and they are right.

If I were in Washington now and every word I wrote were weighted and heavy as the feet of a deep sea diver, it wouldn't take me long to predict the winner between Stevenson and Eisenhower. I wouldn't write eighteen thousand billion words on platform planks and foreign policy, or another thousand billion words on forest conservation, thievery in high government positions, and the national debt. I'd simply write that if America is going to remain the great country it is we'd better elect the better man of the two, and by the better man I mean the much better man. If that puzzles you, we're done for.

Prices To Farmers Decline Slightly

AUSTIN (AP) — Prices received by Texas farmers for agricultural commodities dropped slightly last month.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today the July index dropped to 333 per cent of the 1910-14 base, 8 points lower than month earlier.

Declines came in prices for wheat, corn, grain sorghum, potatoes, cotton, beef, cattle, calves, sheep, lambs and alfalfa hay. These more than offset price rises for oats, barley, sweet potatoes, cow-peas, hogs, chickens, eggs and milk.

Automobile Thefts $95 Million Racket In U.S., FBI Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto thefts jumped into a $95-million dollar racket last year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says in announcing plans for a series of regional conferences to deal with the problem.

Hoover said that starting in the early fall, the FBI will convene such conferences in all parts of the country, in conjunction with local law enforcement agencies, state motor vehicle bureau representatives and others.

The sessions will aim at coordinating efforts to thwart the car thief and broaden the use of techniques which have been found most effective in catching such thieves and recovering stolen vehicles.

Hoover noted that the FBI's jurisdiction in the car theft field is limited to those cases where the stolen vehicle is taken across a state line.

However, he said analysis of reports received from local police in 351 communities showed that car thefts in large cities rose 2.3 per cent and in rural areas 15.1 per cent during 1951.

The vehicles stolen were valued at $95,212,096. Recoveries ranged above 90 per cent, but losses in damage to cars and inconvenience to owners remained high.

Hoover reported that interstate theft cases investigated by the FBI during the 12 months ending June 30, 1952 resulted in 2,969 convictions, up 5.2 per cent from the previous 12 months. There was a 14.2 per cent increase in the car recoveries in federal cases, with some $15,275,442 worth of automobiles returned to their owners.

The report noted that car stealing continues to be a favorite

June Livestock Shipments Fall

AUSTIN (AP) — June shipments of Texas livestock fell 28 per cent below May levels, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported today.

May shipments, in turn, had been 42 per cent under April's. The bureau noted the declines were largely seasonal, running about 2 per cent below shipments a year ago.

Crop-Dusting Deadly

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Crop dusting by plane is 24 times as dangerous as driving an auto. The comparison was made by David Nelson, chief of safety operations, Civil Aeronautics Commission, before a Montana State College pest control course.

Nelson said 197 pilots had been killed, 202 seriously injured, 400 planes destroyed and an estimated three million dollars lost in crop dusting operations in the past five years.
