Republicans Take Early Swing At Brannan Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are trying to turn the tables on Secretary of Agriculture Brannan this presidential campaign year. Four years ago the Democratic farm chief made the Republican-controlled 80th Congress a target in the important Midwestern farm belt on the basis of its farm legislation. Brannan's campaign was credited by the Democrats with playing a major role in President Truman's upset victory over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Heat Will Extend Into September

Pampans and other Texans can expect a continuation of the state's unprecedented drought and heat wave—and just how much longer nobody knows.

That's the pessimistic prediction of the weather bureau. In the local area, 19 days and 19 nights have passed and still the rains have not come. Chances are good that today will mark the 20th rainless day in a row.

The mercury here returned to its old tricks Tuesday and hit a high of 100 degrees at 1:30 p.m. The low for the day was a warm 76.

At 11 a.m. today the mercury had already climbed to 93 degrees. A long-range forecast issued Tuesday by the Weather Bureau called for five more days of above-normal heat and light precipitation.

Texas were getting used to it. For West Texas, the five-day forecast calls for temperatures two to four degrees above normal. Normal minimums are 60 to 73 degrees and normal maximums from 80 to 97 degrees.

Rainfall indicated in the long-range forecast is negligible and means that any given spot probably will continue dry as powder.

Automobile Thief Gives Himself Up

A man who walked into a local filling station, stepped into a car and drove off has given himself up in Roswell, N. M., the sheriff's office reports. O. C. Landavir, Roswell, N. M., dropped into the office of Roswell Police Chief Tommy Thompson Tuesday and admitted the theft of the automobile Saturday from Ogden and Son service station, 801 W. Foster. Owner of the car, Leonard Black, who works at Miller's Grocery had taken the car in for a new filter and an oil change.

Landavir told Thompson he had merely walked up to an attendant, paid the bill and driven off, according to Sheriff Rufe Jordan. Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard and Black are on their way today to Roswell to bring back Landavir and the vehicle.

Grandstaff Convicted

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Frank Grandstaff, 50-year-old composer-convict whose music once won him a pardon from a life prison term, was convicted of burglary yesterday and sentenced to one to three years in Wisconsin State Prison at Waupun. Grandstaff said he'd use the time to finish his autobiography.

Inspection Time Short

Only nine more service days for approximately 3,000 licensed vehicle operators in Gray County to obtain official inspection stickers before the Sept. 6 deadline, according to reports received today. Pampa inspection stations have issued 3,981 stickers according to Sgt. Edward Burchell, public safety department, Amarillo, and an estimated 2,000 have been checked at stations in McLean. Approximately 14,000 trucks, trailers and cars were to be inspected in the county, according to the county tax office which issues license plates. Burchell reminded operators that traffic tickets will be issued to all operators without the official sticker on vehicles after Sept. 6. A strict enforcement of the inspection law has been ordered, he stated.

DULLES CALLS U. S. FOREIGN POLICY SUICIDAL.—John Foster Dulles, Rapped American foreign policy today as "suicidal" and proposed a plan to disintegrate "the empire of Soviet communism" from within.

Guill Slaps On Lid . . . Cloak Of Secrecy Shrouds GOP Move

An air of mystery today cloaked an unprecedented move by Texas Republicans in naming a full slate of all-ready-nominated Democrats as Republican candidates for state offices. Former Congressman Ben Guill threw a blanket of secrecy today over the issue of consent from Democratic leaders to the surprise action by the GOP holding convention in San Antonio.

The Republicans, seeking to clinch Texas' vote for Eisenhower late Tuesday, hurdled ancient party lines and snuffed out the hottest internal feud in state GOP history. "I can assure you their names will not be withdrawn," Guill was quoted as saying in a committee meeting that reporters voluntarily left to avoid being pledged to secrecy.

In Austin, Gov. Allan Shivers said Guill had not contacted him for his consent. Atty. Gen. Price Daniel said he "was not consulted and did not consent."

The GOP cross-filing action followed the recommendation of the party's committee on nominations headed by Guill. When the Democratic candidates were placed in nomination by Sam Oakleaf, McAllen, another committee member rose to inquire if they had been contacted for consent.

"I would like to answer your question this way," Guill replied. "I want you to place in me your faith. I will not be put on record as saying they have been consulted."

When pressed on the question, he asked reporters present to agree to keep what he would say "off the record." No reporter was agreeable. Guill prefaced his next remark with "this is off the record."

Reporters immediately rose and left the room. Guill waited while they did so. Later a committee member present quoted Guill as saying: "I can assure you they (the names of the Democratic candidates) will not be withdrawn."

"That's all I can tell you," the informant told reporters. Only one committee member rose to debate against the Democratic nominees on the Republican ballot.

"It's ridiculous," said Payne Kilbourne, Brackettville. "This sounds more like a convention of Democrats than Republicans." Neither Shivers nor Daniel (See CLOAK, Page 2)

Hubby Dodge On Way Out

LONDON (AP)—The "Sorry, dear, but I'm working late at the office" dodge may be on the way out—TV—telephone has arrived. "The 'I can see you' phone—latest invention of British radio engineers—is a surprise exhibit at London's annual radio show, which opened today. The caller's image is shown on a television screen at the other end of the circuit, and the caller similarly can see the party on the other end on a television screen in front of him. A spokesman for the phone makers said it was hoped that TV-telephone would be installed on the New York-London transatlantic line before long. But the TV-phone won't be invading the privacy of the home for a while yet—the present model stands as high as a kitchen cabinet and costs around $2,800.

Culver Defeats Bell For Judge Of High Court

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Judge Frank P. Culver of Fort Worth apparently had won nomination today to Place 1, State Supreme Court, over Atty. Spurgeon Bell of Houston. Texas Election Bureau returns also indicated a clear victory for Rep. Clark Thompson of Galveston, who made a third term bid against the determined opposition of Sheriff T. W. Buehler of Wharton County.

In its final report of Saturday's Democratic run-off election, the Texas Election Bureau's unofficial figures showed Bell with 308,420 votes to 316,789 for Culver. The returns were for 282 of Texas' 254 counties with counting complete in 221. Complete unofficial returns gathered in the 15-county Ninth Congressional District gave incumbent Thompson 29,943 votes to 29,691 for the colorful Lane. That gave Thompson, Galveston business man, a paper thin margin of 252 votes out of nearly 60,000 cast.

Galveston County returns in the Thompson-Lane race, meanwhile, were under question. Atty. Gen. Price Daniel said he would investigate the situation in Galveston County "if specific allegations of fraud were furnished." Gov. Allan Shivers had turned over to the attorney general about 52 requests for a probe after receiving them by telegram Tuesday.

Delayed Work On Lefors Field Leaves Pampa Without Airport

Pampa will be without an airport for at least two weeks. Work on Perry Lefors Field was delayed because contractors hired to crush caliche for stabilizing the taxiway and aprons didn't arrive until last week. Wayland Merriman, supervising engineer on the project reported. Merriman added, however, that sealing the north-south runway might be completed by the end of the week. At the same time Postmaster W. B. Weatherhead said he had been notified by Central Airlines that flights in and out of Pampa would be discontinued temporarily, on Sept. 1, because planes would have no place to land. Neither of the owners of land leased by Pampa Municipal Airport have been approached for another extension of the lease which expires at midnight, Aug. 31.

In addition telephone lines have not yet been run to the field. Weatherhead said air mail service out of Pampa would continue, but will be curtailed to one outgoing shipment a day. This will be by car at 7:30 p.m. daily to Amarillo where it will be picked up by the night flights. Some hangars at Pampa Municipal Airport have been in the process of being moved during the past 10 days. The county commissioners court is still undecided on which route to take in constructing a paved road leading to the airport and has yet to act on appointing a manager for the field.

Radio, TV Writers Face Red Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee report said script writers are spreading "subtle" propaganda over the nation's radio and television airways. "The thing is subtle," the report of the Senate internal security subcommittee quoted script writer Ruth Adams Knight as testifying at closed-door hearings. Miss Knight, denouncing Communists and communism, said pro-Communist script writers stop short of "laying down the party line" in their program scripts, but skillfully weave into them "a constant derision of the capitalist system."

They aim, she said, at "the simple people who listen to the radio, who would turn off our right Communist propaganda." In question-and-answer testimony quoted by the subcommittee Miss Knight and William E. Kelley denounced Ira Marion, a one-time script writer for Voice of America anti-Communist propaganda broadcast, as a private life Marion swore in private life Marion was an identifiable pro-Communist.

The subcommittee in its own findings, however, treated the voice broadcasts cautiously. It said simply that members of the Radio Writers Guild, of which Marion is a former president, "write for the Voice of America and the United Nations radio section," and that the guild "is controlled by the pro-Communist faction." The report came on the heels of one the subcommittee released recently alleging Communist infiltration of youth work in this country, including the Boy Scouts—and dropped a hint that the subcommittee also is studying the "use of sex" in the Communist underground movement.

It quoted a statement by hard arena, the subcommittee's staff director, that the group planned "interrogation of the question of patronage (job dispensing), use of blackmail against anti-Communists; use of sex." This was the only reference to sex in the condensed transcript of testimony taken at closed hearings between April 7, 1951, and last April 1. Staff members said other portions will be released later, dealing with a variety of phases of Communist activity. If it come from a hardware store we have it, Lewis Hardware.—Adv.

Dulles Calls U. S. Foreign Policy Suicidal

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—John Foster Dulles, Rapped American foreign policy today as "suicidal" and proposed a plan to disintegrate "the empire of Soviet communism" from within.

The Republican foreign policy adviser delivered his sharp attack in an address prepared for delivery before the American Political Science Association. He called upon the United States to pay more attention to the peoples and problems of Asia, Africa and South America and to abandon as a failure its program of "containing" communism.

He said the Soviets traditionally believed the "road to victory in the West" lay through Asia, particularly China, and that non-Western and non-white peoples could not be treated as "second-class expendables" if the West wanted to survive in a free world.

The chief architect of the Japanese Peace Treaty said present foreign policy involved "race discrimination on a global scale" by concentrating on the offense of predominantly white Western Europe. "That is a wrong policy, and in the face of the Soviet program of encirclement, it is a suicidal policy," he said. "It must be changed."

Services For Infant Scheduled For Today

Funeral services for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Andrews, 1806 Coffee, were scheduled to be held at 11 a.m. today in the Baby Garden at Fairview Cemetery. The Rev. Edwin L. Hall of McCullough Methodist Church was to officiate. Born Tuesday at Worley Hospital, the infant died the same day. Besides his parents, survivors include his sister, Nancy Ellen.

MacFadden Off To Paris For Jump

NEW YORK (AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, publisher and physical culturist, is flying to Paris to make a parachute jump into the Seine River to celebrate his 84th birthday. MacFadden, who was 84 Aug. 16, left here by plane yesterday. For the jump he took along red underwear, a life preserver and shoes with two-inch sponge soles. He told newsmen at Idlewild Airport that he would make the jump—his third in three years—to prove that "getting old is a bad habit."

MacArthur, Byrd Are Candidates Of Constitution Party

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Constitution Party of Texas delegates last night nominated Gen. Douglas MacArthur as their candidate for President. The party also nominated Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia for vice president. About 150 delegates from 12 counties attended the opening convention session in the Menger Hotel. Among them were several assistant Old Guard delegates to the Tuesday Republican convention. The Rev. Jim McClain of Dallas was principal speaker. He lambasted the welfare state, "the socialist New Deal and the insipid platform of the Republican Party." Party Chairman Hard A. Logan presided at the meeting. Phillip Lee, Elbanks will preside at Wednesday sessions. Roy Penney will be Wednesday speaker.

Shortage Of Steel Slows Bridge Work

Lack of steel for hand rails on the Yeager bridge has delayed completion of the span, City Engineer Ray Evans said this morning. Most of the concrete for the bridge has been poured but the outside hand rails, or guards, have not arrived. Only part of the Kentucky bridge has been erected, Evans said. In the meantime, steel plates for the walk-way across the Duncan bridge have arrived along with some steel beams and girders. Evans declined to estimate completion date for the bridges. However, the Yeager and Kentucky bridges will not be opened to traffic until the concrete has had sufficient time to set, he said.

UN Guards Kill Four, Injure 64

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Defiant Red war prisoners tested the nerves of U.N. guards in a series of incidents this month and guards "met every challenge" with maximum force, killing four and injuring 64, the U.S. Eighth Army said today. Most of the casualties occurred at the main U.N. war prisoner camp on Kojoe Island off South Korea. It was on Kojoe last June 10 that American paratroopers broke Red rule over prisoner pens in a bloody battle in which one American and 40 prisoners were killed and 140 prisoners wounded. The prisoner disorders occurred on two islands and in camps on the South Korean mainland. The incidents were put down without injury. Some prisoners were hurt in free-for-all fights among the prison inmates.

McCarthy Is Target Of Candidate's Ire

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Legion convention today received a report demanding that President Truman fire Dean Acheson as secretary of state. The report submitted to 34th annual Legion convention in Madison Square Garden said: "Our patience is exhausted. We demand immediate action on this all-important subject. We accept nothing less."

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson coldly accused the attackers of Gen. George C. Marshall today of hiding under a cloak of patriotism which he called "the last refuge of scoundrels." The Democratic presidential nominee did not use any names but he left no doubt that one of the main targets of his bitter blast was Republican Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin—one-time recipient of an American Legion award for Americanism.

McCarthy has accused Marshall, former secretary of state and former secretary of defense, of being a blót against the security of his own country. Stevenson launched his surprise statement in a speech written for the American Legion convention meeting in Madison Square Garden, where GOP presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower spoke only two days ago.

Also, Stevenson figuratively wagged a finger under the Legion's nose and told them he would not submit to any pressures from the Legion if he thought their demands were "excessive or in conflict with the public interest." It was a fighting speech with patriotism as the theme and through it ran a plea to defend freedom of thought in the fight against communism.

Stevenson assailed communism as "the death of the soul" but he added freedom of thought is being menaced by overzealous patriots. He called for a strong national defense and the restrained use of America's power to promote freedom, justice and peace in the world.

He told Legionnaires patriotism "is not short, frenzied outburst of emotion, but the tranquil and steady dedication of a lifetime." Then in his first major drive for votes in the East, Stevenson said there are men among us "who use 'patriotism' as a club for attacking other Americans."

Rep. Rankin Of Mississippi Is Defeated

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Rep. John Rankin, the last of Mississippi's old-school white supremacists and denouncer of Yankees, has lost his seat to his former colleague, Rep. Thomas Abernethy. Rankin and Abernethy were opponents because the State Legislature combined their districts last April to eliminate a congressional seat lost in the 1950 census.

Rankin conceded defeat early today after unofficial returns from 341 of the districts' 358 precincts in yesterday's state Democratic primary showed: Abernethy, 26,303; Rankin, 20,568.

The 49-year-old Abernethy was reserved about dethroning the 70-year-old dean of the Mississippi congressional delegation, who was seeking his 17th term in the House of Representatives. Rankin, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, was co-author of the bill creating the Tennessee Valley Authority and author of the measure creating the permanent House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Abernethy, a senior member of the House Agriculture Committee, based his campaign on two issues: his position in Congress to aid farmers and his comparative youth.

IT'S your DEATH Get Luck On Your Side And Win

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

"I don't understand it," a young friend said to me the other day. "I'm sure as good a backgammon player as Alire, but she just mops up the floor with me. We keep a running score of our games, and at this moment she's nearly 200 points ahead of me."

"That's an easy one to explain," I answered. "You're taking too many bad doubles."

The problem was easily solved because I happened to know that my friend was actually a far better player than his wife. This isn't always so, of course. Sometimes a man will tell you that he doesn't understand why he loses when the answer is simply that he's up against superior opposition.

But in this case a good backgammon player was opposed to a mediocre player, and the mediocre player was miles ahead. The answer lay in the way the doubling cube was being used.

My friend had such confidence in his skill that he was willing to take a double no matter how bad his position happened to be. As a result, whenever he got a few bad rolls he would lose a double game.

Whenever his wife got a few bad rolls she would refuse a double, and she would therefore lose a single game. The difference was tremendous.

There's more to it than that, however. When you habitually take bad doubles your opponent needs no delicate psychology or judgment of position. As soon as he has an overwhelming advantage, he doubles. He knows he will not be refused, so he has no worries.

It's very different if he knows that you are cautious about accepting doubles. If he waits until his advantage is overwhelming, he knows that you will refuse the double. Hence he will tend to double somewhat earlier, when his advantage is not so big.

If you refuse those doubles also, he will shave another thin slice off his advantage. Eventually you will educate him to the point where he is doubling with only a slight advantage. Then you can afford to accept the double, and sometimes the luck will change quickly, and you can redouble and win the game.

If there were no doubling cube the best backgammon player would be the one who made the best moves. With doubling cube, however, it is also vital to know at every stage of the game whose position is better and by about how much. Moreover, it is also important to know how good your opponent's judgment is and what sort of double he is willing to accept.

In short, if both players have passed the beginning stage of learning the game, they will find that the outcome of their games depends more on the use of the doubling cube than on anything else.

Cost Of City Government Expected To Jump This Year

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles outlining in detail the tentative city budget for the coming year.)

By HENRY S. GORDON

Clerical relief for the city secretary, a higher priced city manager, two elections and other increases in general operations may cost the city $3,420 more to run its executive department than it did last year.

At the same time the Tax Department stands a good chance of operating at a cost of $700 less than it did during 1951-52.

These differences were brought out in the city budget presented Tuesday to the city commission by the city manager, B. H. Cruce, which showed $37,975 as the executive cost over the $34,102 budgeted last year.

In his tentative budget, Cruce said employment of a bookkeeper would give the city secretary, Ed Vicars, more time to devote to his double-duty of city secretary and city purchasing agent. The addition would also relieve the present office secretary of part-time bookkeeping duties and devote more time to regular city work, Cruce added. The bookkeeper would be paid, according to the budget, $235 per month.

The increased cost to the executive department was first seen when the city commission upped the salary of the city manager after Dick Pepin left for Odessa at a salary double what he was getting here. Cruce's salary was set at $7,200 per year.

Outside those changes most operational costs for the department have been set up on the same cost basis as last year.

Expected decreases in extra labor helped to reduce the overall operation cost sufficiently to allow slight salary increases for personnel and to construct a private office for the tax assessor-collector, enabling him to talk to taxpayers with tax problems in private. Five-hundred dollars has been set up for the structure.

Of the total expenses for the Executive Department, $22,940 will be salaries; the remainder, $15,035, is to be used for general operating expenses, including the elections, insurance and other sundry items.

STEVENSON

say for the man who proclaims himself a patriot and then for political or personal reasons attacks the patriotism of faithful public servants?

"I give you, as a shocking example, the attacks which have been made on the loyalty and the motives of our great wartime chief of staff, General Marshall.

"To me this is the type of 'patriotism' which is, in Dr. Johnson's phrase, the last refuge of scoundrels."

The Legion speech was the opening gun in Stevenson's big bid for eastern support in the November election and it was to be followed by a busy round of speeches and political confabs in New York and New Jersey.

Last night at his Springfield, Ill., headquarters, it was announced Stevenson will begin a 7,600 mile tour Sept. 5 which will carry him into nine western states.

Stevenson made only one reference in his speech to Eisenhower. He said: "The fact that a great general and I are competing candidates for the presidency will not diminish my warm respect for his military achievements. Nor will that respect keep me from using every honest effort to defeat him in November."

There's more to it than that, however. When you habitually take bad doubles your opponent needs no delicate psychology or judgment of position. As soon as he has an overwhelming advantage, he doubles. He knows he will not be refused, so he has no worries.

It's very different if he knows that you are cautious about accepting doubles. If he waits until his advantage is overwhelming, he knows that you will refuse the double. Hence he will tend to double somewhat earlier, when his advantage is not so big.

If you refuse those doubles also, he will shave another thin slice off his advantage. Eventually you will educate him to the point where he is doubling with only a slight advantage. Then you can afford to accept the double, and sometimes the luck will change quickly, and you can redouble and win the game.

If there were no doubling cube the best backgammon player would be the one who made the best moves. With doubling cube, however, it is also vital to know at every stage of the game whose position is better and by about how much. Moreover, it is also important to know how good your opponent's judgment is and what sort of double he is willing to accept.

In short, if both players have passed the beginning stage of learning the game, they will find that the outcome of their games depends more on the use of the doubling cube than on anything else.

Hank Has Bad Time In Mexico Without Knowledge Of Spanish

By HENRY McLEMORE
 CUERNAVACA, Mexico — I'm a great believer in old beliefs. "A stitch in time saves nine" has no more staunch supporter than I. The same goes for "Look before you leap." "Haste makes waste." "Honesty is the best policy." "A penny saved is a penny earned." "A cat has nine lives." "Two can live as cheaply as one" and "If the shoe fits, wear it." But since coming to Mexico I have completely lost faith in one old belief, namely: the best way to learn a language is to live with the people who speak it. Theoretically, this is supposed to put a foreigner entirely on his own and force him to learn the language if he doesn't want to starve to death.

It doesn't work out any such way. I came down here without so much as an English-Spanish dictionary and all I've learned so far is exasperation, meaning the condition, not the word. I wouldn't be so bad if I were living in a hotel, but I'm living in a house where the only creatures who understand me are the two cats I brought from New York. I never thought I'd see the day when I couldn't wait to hold conversation with cats. About the only companionship I get is when the three of us curl up on the sofa and discuss the happenings of the day.

I have added another cat, but he speaks nothing but Spanish. It makes me mad that a cat can speak Spanish and I can't. One of the drawbacks to foreign travel is the discouraging way that lots of two, three and four jabber in a tongue that is a complete mystery to you. I've actually wanted to bob babies over the head when I've heard them coo in French, German, Italian and Greek.

It was funny when I first got here, but it has ceased to be funny now. To start with, I am losing weight with alarming speed. I like potatoes, but the last time I asked Dolores, the cook, to get me some potatoes, she came back with a bag of eggplant, which I despise, and a chicken feather duster. I've eaten some weird dishes in my life, but I'll be confounded if I'm going to eat a combination of eggplant and feather dusters. Undoubtedly a gourmet's dish, but not for me. Oh, there are a thousand things that Dolores and myself get mixed up about. I told her to keep the cats in the kitchen at night, so she put them in my bedroom. The only sense we make together is when I act everything out, and the exception is killing me. Having to shave once a day is enough without having to demonstrate so I can get some hot water. I don't like chili peppers on my cereal in the morning, but that's what I'm getting.

You haven't seen anything until you've seen me working with my laundry. When she came to work I knew she'd need some "sopa." In sign language I told her to go to the store and buy some. She gave me a highly bewildered look, but look off for town. She came back with six cans of soup, which I found out is pronounced "sopa." The Spanish word for soap doesn't sound like soap should sound at all, so my shirts are now a distinguished shade of cream of mushroom gray. The next time I come down here I'm going to bring an interpreter, even if I have to kidnap one.

This business of learning the language by talking to people who don't know what you are talking about is nonsense of the highest order.

about some of the issues: Arriving our allies and stopping Communism around the world: Both are for it.

Going into Korea: Both approve, although Eisenhower, without explaining exactly where, blamed the Truman administration for steps leading up to the Korean War.

Brannan farm plan and compulsory health insurance: Eisenhower is against both. Stevenson apparently is against both of them too. He chided Eisenhower for even considering them worth mention. He called them obsolete.

Taft-Hartley Labor Act: This is the law, denounced by organized labor, which President Truman promised to wipe out entirely through repeal. Neither Eisenhower nor Stevenson has mentioned repealing it. Both have suggested maybe it could be amended a bit.

Corruption in government: Eisenhower says he'd clean out corruption. Stevenson says he'd clean out the "mess" and be ruthless against corruption.

Tax cut: Both for it and think it possible, but not right away. FEPC (fair employment practices commission): Both against racial discrimination and both indicated they're against compulsory FEPC.

Ike, Adlai Are Twins On Many Issues

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson, who seem to think like twins on some of the biggest issues, now have the opportunity to: 1. Explain where there are any real differences in their thinking. 2. Get down to cases, by being specific, on what they'd do and how they'd do it if elected. They get the opportunity in their campaign, that part of it requiring speech after speech around the country, which opens this week. Until now, although stating their position on some issues, they have talked a lot in generalities, too. This will give some idea of the twin-like quality of the candidates up to this point according to statements they have made

We know a number of people who thought they were going through an earthquake early yesterday morning, but we know of one person who is sure it was the real thing. L. V. McDonald, who finished high school here in 1940, was in the recent Bakersfield, Calif., earthquake and the tremor here early Tuesday morning woke him up. For a minute he thought he was dreaming, then he thought he was back in California, but then he realized that Pampa, Texas, or not, he felt a quake. Here's a note we had from L. V., who's visiting his family and friends here.

"My mission in Pampa is to arrange for the citizenship and resettlement of 50 thousand residents of Quakersfield, Calif., (previously known as Bakersfield, Calif.) They won't leave there until they are sure they can vote here—they like Ike. This migration is to be financed with sale of Mac's quake kits. It's a handy little kit that contains (1) one pair of wobble-heel shoes (this gives neighbors the impression that you are experiencing a quake—and it's very fashionable); (2) one set of genuine, china false teeth with built-in chatter spring (they give the impression there is a quake and make you look scared all in one easy action); (3) two children with choice of sex (these are to replace any children you may stomp or lose during the quake). I sure hope I can sell a lot of these quake kits for it means so much to the people of Quakersfield. Why, out there, they no longer say hello, but greet one another with, 'Did you feel that one?' Being a Texan, I can't say that my adopted state has the biggest and best quakes, but we sure have some nice ones!"

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
The worst punishment that can be inflicted on a British child is to have to hand his parents a bad school report. The best reward he can be given is to be able to hand his parents a good school report.

This is the finding of an investigation just completed by Britain's National Foundation for Educational Research. It was initiated several years ago by the Government to provide a basis for a House of Commons debate on pending legislation to prohibit all corporal punishment in the British schools.

It is a fascinating finding, as full of stimulating implications as Jack Horner's pie was full of lumps. There's no doubt about it. The survey establishes the fact that some approval outlasts any other form of reward so far as British children are concerned.

Though they are pleased by victories of athletic teams or by a good class showing in Latin or mathematics, the reward that really rings the bell for Albert, Lloyd and Jock is a "well done" from their parents.

This certainly upsets a good many apple carts. British teachers, for example, had listed their own "quiet appreciation" of good work as a student's most inspiring incentive. Next, they felt that "public praise" before the student body would be a gratifying return on effort invested by Albert, Lloyd and Jock.

They miscalculated. The children felt that instead of being inspired by "public praise," such praise would be horribly embarrassing. As to the "quiet appreciation," Albert, Lloyd and Jock will forego it every time if Mr. Chips will just give them a nice mark to take home and show Mum and Dad.

The British teachers also seem to have misjudged the British child's attitude toward "goup approval." They thought "election to the class office" was bound to be a most rewarding experience for Albert or Lloyd or Jock. But those young springs themselves? That's different. They took a dim view of the popularity spotlight's value, still doggedly holding out for the superior words of home approval over any other brand.

So far as I know, nobody has made a similar survey of American children's ideas on good rewards and detestable punishments. But I would like to register my conviction right now that if they ever do, they will discover exactly what the British investigators discovered.

They will find out that of all the kinds of approval that can come their way, one kind and only one kind counts.

RUTH MILLETT

Every time they invent another new gadget to make things easier for Mama, Papa becomes a little less indispensable. Now somebody has gone and invented a tackle arrangement to be installed on a wall so that the lady of the house doesn't have to turn to the man of the house for help when she gets ready to zip up a back zipper.

No point in a wife's turning helplessly to her husband now, when she is trying to zip up a form-fitting dress. Papa can just sit down and read the newspaper while Mama and the wall-tackle manage the pesky zipper. Just as in the same way he can sit and read the newspaper while Mama stuffs the dinner dishes into the electric washing machine.

Just as the same way, he can leave the yard work to Mama now that she has all the benefits of the creeping sprinkler, the power mower, etc.

They've even gone and invented wall paints simple enough to apply so that Mama doesn't have to depend on Pop when she wants the kitchen painted.

All these new inventions are supposed to be a big boon to the housewife. But is it really going to work out that way? Going more gadgets she gets the less she can call on Papa for help and the more complacent he can feel about letting Mama take care of things and look out for herself.

When Grandma was keeping house, Grandpa was an indispensable man. There were so many eyes or buttons in the back of a frock.

But the new inventions are making Papa less and less important around the house.

And that's not good, is it?

daughters cherish ours most dearly. I bet our investigators will say to us, "Your praise is their salt in the stew, the whipped cream on the shortcake. Though Teacher's smile is pleasant and the admiration of the 'crowd' intoxicating what makes the world go round is a mother's, 'And did you do that all by yourself, darling?' and a father's, 'Never mind, son. The fact you tried is what counts with me.'"

I make this point because of our growing habit of passing withal for children's self-esteem the buck, of providing the where-to-nearly anyone who'll take it to nursery school teachers, child guidance experts, servants, summer camp counselors and grandmothers.

The real implication of the British finding is that while others may try to do our job for us, home approval is something children just cannot get anywhere but in their own home.

MRS. JOE KEY

Mrs. Joe Key Feted With Coffee At Country Club

One of the last of a series of parties complimenting Mrs. Joe Key was staged Tuesday at the Pampa Country Club when Mrs. Gene Fatheree, Mrs. Homer Dockery, Mrs. Henry Ellis, and Mrs. Frank Smith entertained with a coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Key are to leave this week for Roswell, N.M., where they will make their home.

The serving table was covered with a pink and white gingham cloth and centered with natural straw baskets holding decorative arrangements of garden flowers interspersed with colorful vegetables. Mrs. Ira Key, who was presented a white carnation corsage, presided at the coffee service. The honoree wore a blue carnation corsage.

Miss Eulaine Ellis played piano selections during the entertainment.

Out-of-town guests included Meses. Dub Harrison, Richard Robert, S. P. Vineyard, and Ira Key of Amarillo; Mrs. Mason Anderson Perryton; Mrs. Earle Scheig, San Antonio; Mrs. John Kinard, Brownsville; and Mrs. Lon Davis of Houston.

Skellytown Scout Meeting Postponed

SKELLYTOWN (Special) — Mrs. Ray Witcher, Cub Scout den mother, announced today that the scout wienner roast planned for August 27 has been postponed until August 29.

The outing will be held at the Cabot camp park.

It is believed that no people settled on the site of Rome until about 1,000 B. C. because of volcanic activity in the vicinity.

It is probable that Rome had no paved streets until the Second Century B.C.

The Wars of the Roses in England during the 15th Century were conducted with a ferocity and brutality practically unknown in English history before or since.

Mrs. Earl Eaton was hostess to the First Baptist church Bible Learner's class when the group met Tuesday for its monthly social.

Mrs. A. L. Prigmore presented the devotion. Present for the luncheon were Meses W. W. Estes, teacher; Orval Batson, George Vineyard, J. F. Clark, H. T. Thorhill, E. M. Keller, Emmett Forrester, Ella Gurley, Hugh Ellis, Prigmore, A. H. Gibson, W. R. Dunn, H. Anderson, G. E. Groninger, H. D. Cain, N. B. Ellis, A. C. Troop, and Jessie Crawford.

Two guests attended, Mrs. M. L. Turner and Mrs. S. P. Vineyard.

It is believed that the Wars of the Roses in England started the deep dislike of the professional soldier which was a feature of English life for hundreds of years.

Here is a recipe that is rich in flavor, creamy in texture, and nourishing. Too, it is slow in cooking time.

When baked in milk from the start, scalloped potatoes must have gentle cooking for a long time to keep them properly moist and attractive in appearance. With this method, the sliced potatoes first are baked to partial doneness quickly at a high temperature in water which would ordinarily be used to reconstitute the evaporated milk used. After this, the milk is added and the potatoes finish cooking at a gentle pace, absorbing all the flavor goodness and retaining the creamy moist texture so desirable in scalloped potatoes.

ESCALLOPED POTATOES
1 quart sliced potatoes
1 small onion, sliced
1 tablespoon butter
3/4 cup water
Few grains pepper
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup water
1 cup evaporated milk

Potatoes should be washed, peeled and sliced thin. Arrange about a third of the potatoes in a buttered 1 1/2 quart casserole which has a lid or cover. Scatter a few slices of onion and bits of butter over the potatoes. Sprinkle with about 1/2 teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Repeat until all the potatoes are used. Pour the 3/4 cup water over potatoes and cover. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Mix flour and the 1/4 cup water. Add to the milk. Pour over the potatoes. Reduce heat to moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Leaving potatoes uncovered, continue baking until potatoes are tender, about 30 minutes. Makes six servings.

Churchill Rhetoric Can't Help England

The other day Winston Churchill, still tough and doughty at times, but now 77 years old, made a characteristic speech about the perils besetting England from within and without.

To which a middle-class woman shopper replied: "So he's after 'fighting on the beaches' again. Well, we don't want any more of that." And comment in his own party as well as the Labor Party was hardly more flattering.

The point here is one that will come as a shock to many Americans — the old fighter who led Britain to military victory in the greatest peril she ever faced is by no means the peacetime hero he was in war.

Britain is burdened by many ills at the moment and if Churchill has not caused them which of course he hasn't, he and his Conservative government have done little to alleviate them in the less than one year they have been in power.

One simple fact is that Churchill is getting old and he shows it. He doesn't wear well anymore, he is forced to rest more and work less, he can't concentrate for long periods the way he used to. Londoners don't see the familiar hunched figure on the streets much any more.

He was never long on economics and during World War II could-dodge their tedium in the interest of getting the military job done, never mind the cost. But money and goods — or rather, the lack of them — are England's great problem today and many feel for this reason Churchill is not the man for the job.

There is even pressure now, both from the elements of his own Conservative Party as well as from the Laborites, that he either retire or turn over some of the important reins of government to younger men.

But what to do with an old hero is by no means the most serious of England's problems. There are several, and they are involved, but probably the most important is figuring out how to keep from going literally bankrupt.

In a desperate effort to make ends meet, Britain has increased her exports to other countries by 74 per cent over the pre-war level. At the same time her imports are only about 26 per cent higher.

Her plight becomes further apparent when it is realized that, with 550 people per square mile as compared with 50 in the United States, Britain grows no cotton, rubber, or jute, produces no oil, imports nearly all its copper, four-fifths of its wool and softwoods, and half its food and iron ore.

And the experts say that with the one exception of coal, Britain has little hope of producing more food or raw materials.

World War II cost England about one-quarter of its total wealth. To pay her way in the early days of World War II, before lend-lease, she was forced to liquidate her saleable overseas assets including $4 billion in American securities. But the then mighty Churchill, at his best in war, was there to lead them and his spirit raised the spirits of the people.

Translated into simple terms, Britain's situation amounts to this: before the war the rest of the world owed every man, woman and child in Britain 100 pounds. Today it's almost vice versa — every person in England owes the world nearly 100 pounds.

British currency became erratic a few years ago and had to be put in a straightjacket, more and more of what Britain produced had to be sold for export to pay the bills, and as a result the standard of living at home became poorer and poorer.

The British pound before the war was worth $4.89. Ten years later it was worth $4.03. One year later it was $3.68, and the following year $2.80. There was talk recently of reducing it still further to about $2.50 or less.

An index by Churchill's own Conservative government shows the cost of living rose six per cent in the first nine months of its current administration. Wages rose, too, but not enough to stem a tide of workers' demands for more money.

And still higher prices are in sight. The government has announced it will cut its subsidies of certain foods by about one-half and cut down on the supplies of foods it does not subsidize. That means higher prices to the consumer.

Automobile manufacturers soon will deliver to the home market only one car where they delivered two before. And it's to be much the same for bicycles, radios, washing machines, and similar items.

Controls of all kinds are many and varied. They cover the prices of all essential goods and their distribution, especially raw materials.

They cover imports and exports of both goods and money, and even the movements of the British people. For no one can take more than 25 British pounds a year out of the country for any except strictly business purposes. You can't travel far on that.

The controls cover even the distribution of profits by companies — they are allowed to pay only moderate dividends.

All this is tough for all but the lower income groups. And even Churchillian rhetoric can't make it less so.

What is a Welfare State?

Since our government is adopting more and more the policies of a welfare state, the better individuals understand the results of a welfare state the better they will be able to protect themselves against the objections to a welfare state or take advantage of it if it can do them any good.

I have never seen a better presentation of what the welfare state means than an article in the Libertarian Magazine of Bombay, India that I take. In the June issue they had an article by Frank Chodorov on this subject.

I have great respect for Frank Chodorov because he has pointed out how I used words that were contradictory. He helped me to think consistently. I am under great obligation to any man who points out my contradictions.

Since I think Mr. Chodorov presents the inevitable results of the welfare state, am reproducing in a series of articles this presentation from the June issue of the Libertarian Magazine.

WHAT IS A WELFARE STATE

BY FRANK CHODOROV

All men are human, in varying degrees, and in that obvious fact lies the urgency for the Welfare State. The tap-root of every antisocial "social betterment" is the impulse to aid a vagrant or to endow a hospital. Were it not for this instinct of sympathy, the concepts of justice and rights would never have been born and men would never have concerned themselves about a Good Society. Yes, reformers are merely human.

The Greeks, to be sure, had a word for it. The word is Charity, and it is the right word, despite the unflattering connotations it has gathered in its long life. Its original meaning was love, not unlike the feeling of a man who is worried or of parents for children; usage extended its orbit, and ultimately it was applied to the act of giving and to the thing given. If we keep in mind its original value, the value of love, we have no difficulty in spotting the substitutes that go by the name of Charity, including the uncharitable schemes that thrive on it. Not the least of these perversions is the doctrine of obligatory social relations, with its corollary of compulsory compassion.

In recent years this notion of compulsory compassion has got so strong a hold on the public mind that the mere questioning of it brings upon the questioner a tirade of abuse. One who rejects any political plan for ameliorating the condition of the poor is branded as unkind in principle or deleterious in practice, is likely to be put down as being less than human, utterly uncharitable. Opposition to socialized medicine, for instance, is described as selfishness to the point of brutality, while depreciation of schemes which, under the pseudonym of "security" amount to siphoning wealth from one pocket into another, is laid to gross cupidity. The vituperation passes for argument and carries weight simply because the word Charity has on all human; and labels an opponent as lacking in this elemental quality is enough to disqualify his argument and disallow his evidence.

It is an old custom. Even in prehistoric times the priesthood learned that compassion could be capitalized and put to profit. The idea of propitiating the gods with the gods arose from common fear and mutual sympathy, and found expression under the prompting of the priesthood in sacrificial offerings; the yield gave rise to underdeveloped temples. The temple was put on a sound basis by the introduction of a system of tithes, which was the precursor of the fiscal system underlying the modern Welfare State. The analogy will bear close scrutiny.

The keynote of that ethical philosophy which is Christianity is Charity. The life of Jesus is the exemplification of human love and his parables contain the finest of it known to man. His promise of universal brotherhood touched a human chord that had long remained dormant under pagan practices. Jesus and Caesar had no chance against each other in the early years it was love alone that held his followers, and it was love alone that sustained them in their trials. Since Jesus seeks expression in giving himself as well as in one's goods, the offerings of help for those in need were spontaneous. Solicitation was hardly necessary and generosity was not watered down with the quality of sacrifice. An analogy was the task. There was no tithing, for that would be, as Tertullian, a Christian writer of the second century said, "as though we put men to ransom their religion."

There was, of course, ample opportunity for this essential Christianity to come to the surface. The prevailing slave economy provided it. Not only were there plenty of destitutes to be taken care of, but those who were condemned to the mines or cast into dungeons for professing the outlawed faith could not be abandoned. The religious, to whom fell the job of receiving and distributing, set their standard of living in the tradition of Jesus and his disciples. Christianity made its way among the Romans as the religion of Charity. Pagan persecution of the Christians ceased with the "conversion" of Constantine. The need for alms was further lessened. The large grants he made to the clergy, and by the contributions of the wealthy, who, following the style set by the emperor, adopted the recognized ritual. Nevertheless, the clergy, among whom were many who hardly measured up to the early Fathers, harped with vigor on the necessity of alms-giving, implementing the Christian doctrine of fraternity with imprecations on the sin of covetousness. A coercive clause was gradually insinuated into the Sermon on the Mount and, miracle of miracles, the maintenance of the clergy improved with the bounty of the worshippers. The glory of ecclesiastical rites and splendor of religious ceremonies cast a shadow on the pristine beauty of Christian Charity.

"So I took the matter up with Washington," said the man who had bought the ash from the large clear. "And what did he say?" asked the fed-up listener in the Pullman wash-room. "He said, 'You're a damn good fellow.'"

National Whirligig... Few Expect Repayment Of Big Loans To Germany And Japan

WASHINGTON — The next Congress will take a flinty look at the recent international agreement under which repayment of taxpayers' billions advanced for postwar restoration of Germany, Britain, France and other countries.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The next Congress will take a flinty look at the recent international agreement under which repayment of taxpayers' billions advanced for postwar restoration of Germany, Britain, France and other countries.

When trading in these bonds was stopped after Pearl Harbor, their value dropped to $2.50. They are now selling at $50 in Zurich and London. For fear that American holders may be duped by speculative buyers since the agreement, the government will soon issue a warning against selling, and full instructions on how to turn them in for repayment at 100 cents on the dollar.

Logic — State Department spokesmen justify the transaction, which they concede to have its peculiar aspects, with cold, diplomatic logic. They regard the subordination of the government debt claim against Germany as part of the general program for making her a partner of the western powers rather than a Russian ally.

Germany cannot obtain fresh private capital from the world's bankers until these pre-war debts are discharged. And since our advances to other European countries under the Marshall Plan have been on the basis of 15 per cent loans and 85 per cent grants, Washington feels that the former enemy country should be accorded equally generous terms.

Bonds — State also denies senatorial charges that Wall Street banks hold most of these depreciated bonds, and will make a killing under the repayment pact. Although the figures are not wholly accurate, Acheson's financiers say that these German securities are held widely by small investors throughout the country at totals ranging between $2,500 and $4,000 each.

UNSAVORY — The irony of this pro-banker deal by a vocally anti-Wall Street Administration lies in the fact that these foreign loans were denounced by Congress as irresponsible "frenzied finance" in the early thirties. A Senate investigating committee, headed by the late Sen. Hiram Johnson of California and the late Sen. James O. Couzens of Michigan, brought out many unfavorable facts. The American financial interests begged the unstable German Republic, cities and corporations to borrow money here. Likewise, they virtually forced large loans on "banned" countries of South America. The bankers' "spread" — or profits — were enormous.

REVELATIONS — The inquiry also disclosed that the Germans used these funds to line their pockets with reparations to Britain and France which were war debts to the United States. Large sums were spent in Germany to build railroads, utilities, highways and factories, which proved advantageous to Hitler when he started World War.

Fair Enough... Ike And Adlai Are Expected To Address CIO, AFL Members

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations have had the effrontery to invite the two candidates for the presidency of this socialist republic to come hat-in-hand, to their autumn consistory and seek their favor. These are organizations operating under special political license from the Roosevelt- Truman Administration. Both candidates know this to be the fact but neither of them will be the honor and courage to express the proper resentment and both will treat these invitations as commands.

Both nominees are afraid to declare that these bad bunds are outlawed against the American state and its people and to promise the nation and the people deliverance from their ruthless power.

The AFL Executive Council or Cabinet recently received with a straight face a report from a special committee revealing the fact that racketeers had managed to obtain charters in a few important locals and had been extorting money from workers and employers. Our press treated this as a hot news and played straight without reference to the sordid record established in the last 15 years proving beyond denial that the AFL was a licensing authority for criminals of the lowest types.

The Executive Council of the AFL is a band of political high-binders which in many proven cases has taken aggressive action against rank-and-file workers who were driven to the folly of opposing the rule of gangsters put over them by the authority of the AFL.

For many years its attorney-general, to speak, was Joe Padway, a greedy and thoroughly corrupt ambulance chaser from Milwaukee who ran up an enormous practice as defender of such rogues as Browne and Bluff and George Sealie, known to him to be the agents of the Capone mob. Padway brazenly showed himself at a convention of the Browne-Bluff underworld chapter of the AFL in Louisville and sang rapturous praises of these two vermin. He had his price and they paid it, and the AFL endorsed his conduct.

Browne was a member of the Executive Council or Cabinet and Dan Tobin, of the teamsters, frankly admitting his own knowledge that Browne was an underworld criminal, explained that he would not think of denouncing him because protocol in this gang which now commands the nominee, forbade one racketeer to embarrass another lest reprisals lead to general embarrassment. If he had called Browne a crook and tried to liberate Browne's subjects from persecution, he would have been crooked holler up the fact that Tobin had thrown a whole council of locals of the teamsters' union in Cincinnati into permanent receivership under permanent trusteeship of Brockway Farrell with plenary advisory powers from Tobin himself.

Farrell's reign lasted 15 years during which his subjects had no voice in the affairs of their unions and fell steadily lower in the scales of wages and living.

Farrell was responsible only to Tobin and he became notorious as the official spendthrift at the drunken galas of the hierarchy squandering with the lavish hand of a bush-league Paul Hoffman money wrung from the hearts and marrow of degraded Cincinnati truckmen and their wives and children.

When at last, his reign was ended by court order, that order, with sweet consideration for the political might of the boss racketeers of unionism, quietly dissolved the situation without awarding damages to the victims. And Padway, as Tobin's counsel, was included in the order for a fee of $5,000.

For more than 15 years I have been pounding the scoundrels of unionism in both of the great outfits, AFL and CIO. It is not quite to the point to say, as some do, that if I had not been right, I should have been jailed away long ago for abusing the virtuous men. It is straight to the point, however, to say the extortion, persecution and degradation of millions of unwilling captives are inherent in the very nature of the evil societies and are brazenly defended as just powers of unions by the very men whom Eisenhower and Stevenson will gladly truckle to.

The "committees" which reported, as though in shocked astonishment, the presence of a few racketeers newly "discovered" in the AFL included William L. McPeckridge, president of the Building Service Employees' Union. This meanly faked succeeded George Sealie when Sealie was deposed by the official diligence of Tom Dewey in his old, conscientious phase.

McPeckridge was, until then, a subordinate official in this foul underworld crew. He now enjoys a spurious reputation as a brave man who fought the mob at great risk. The truth is that he kept his mouth shut and took no action to clean the gangsters out. He had a soft job and was content.

Inquiring about old thieves in Chicago recently I remarked to a case-hardened cop who had specialized in union criminality the whereabouts of umbrella Mike Boyle, long ago denounced by the federal courts as a betrayer of labor and a grafter and all-around crook. His union was the Electrical Brotherhood of the AFL. Surely, I thought, this incredible rogue must have been eliminated by now.

"Oh, no," the policeman said. "Mike is down in Washington in the grand headquarters."

This union, incidentally, has established scholarships in the electrician's trade for deserving young men in the saintly name of William C. Hogan, who was sent to Sing Sing prison for robbing the widows and orphans fund, paroled and promptly reinstated for life in the same judiciary jobs.

This commentary is a practice swing in preparation for my report to the Vatican for the information of the Pope on the sordid, foul nature of an American phenomenon as requested by the Holy Father's chief advisor on labor.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

There must be something about the French in London and Paris that causes otherwise and usually thoughtful persons to shoot off their mouths in ways calculated to cause the most damage. Miss Anna Zsa Zsa Gabor, could be expected to litter up the place with ill-considered words and the fact that she has been slapped in her exceedingly pretty face with a $100,000 libel suit is only par for that course. But no one ever would dream that so sage and cautious a man as Lawrence Langner, of the Theater Guild, would let fly with words calculated to raise blisters and rowl tempests.

In Paris, recently, and ringed by a clamorous press, Mr. Langner gave it as his searching opinion that the reason why French plays of arch sex didn't flourish in New York was because the drama critics were, for the most part, happily married. This implies that a happy marriage blunts a man's sharp eyes for a constant roving eye, a doubtful point of view at best, and also implies, most cruelly, that Manhattan's drama critics are subjugated, tamed, and becalmed by the domesticity of a pretty girl who is not exactly a melody. There is a more gallant point of view to be taken: that the boys are so ecstatically married to such gorgeous dolls that they are unable to possibly compete. This is as debatable as the former opinion. Indeed, I have noted with some wonder across the years that fellows married to truly beautiful girls often have a constant roving eye, whereas truly wedded to mud fences never even think of straying away. Maybe the mud fences provide a stronger home-cooked allure than the ravishingly attractive dolls.

Mr. Langner's evident thrust for headlines in the Paris press has caused me to check-list the drama critics of Broadway and the critics of Paris. Mr. Langner has been tagged off base. Two of the gents are not married at all and never have been, yet when it comes to lashing French plays they can scorch with the same scorching heat as the married critics. The rest of the clan is married. And usually soundly married. Yet I have seen their wedded eyes open and gleam substantially when something of authentic spice came athwart the footlights. Miss Janis Paige, for example, kindled many an eye when she disclosed most of herself last season in "Remains to Be Seen," and her critics were known to have almost nightly to be Sardi's the number of drama critics finding it convenient to dine there, too, increased by leaps and bounds. There are dozens of other scorching critics to look upon French plays as ignitable and, indeed, have a fairly ready flash point.

Mr. Langner has his thoughts crossed. It is not marriage that causes critics to look upon French plays with enul and sometimes irritation. It is the content of the plays which, which, almost invariably, are dull and boring items which too often don't make much sense. I am ready to yield that perhaps translation into English might have done almost anything of French plays, but I doubt if it is a thorough dulling. The truth, as I see it, is that most French plays are so busy these days with making flashy headlines out of pretty inconsequential sex molehills that no play as such exists. Either the play is flimsy with not exactly clear meaning or it pounds you over the head with "Look, Look! This is SEX!"

Mr. Langner, I feel certain, was only giving out with words shrewdly calculated to fetch him a good press in Paris. He wanted to say something about the French and dramatists. Fine. You can't shoot a man for placating foreigners when he is in a foreign country. But I have a suspicion that when he gets back here and gets his Theater Guild to working again he is going to be astounded by the chill greetings he will receive from—critics' wives. The girls are not enchanted by his imprecation that they have their husbands so hog-tied they can't do their jobs efficiently.

Oilers Beaten By Hubbers In Tenth

LUBBOCK (AP) — Manager I. B. Palmer's single to left with off homer in the second for two out in the bottom of the ninth and the Oilers tied it 10th saw the Lubbock Hubbers up in the third on a single by a 9-8 victory over the Hal Haynes that chased Harry Pampa Oilers here last night Clendenin from the mound, Deck in the opener of a two-game series.

Juan Montero, third Hubber, hurled, gained credit for his 17th victory of the year. Bob Votaw, who put the winning run off base before retiring in favor of Ted Gardner in the 10th; was the loser.

Ray Machado who had pinch hit in the eighth, opened the final frame with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored the winning run on Palmer's base hit.

Lubbock jumped into a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning when a pair of doubles, an outfield fly and a single chased home the runs.

Rice's Homer Is Win For Pioneers

By the Associated Press

Fred Rice homered to lead off the last of the ninth at Clovis last night to get the league-leading Pioneers back on the winning road in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Rice's homer gave the Pioneers a 2-1 victory over the second place Albuquerque Dukes and stretched the Clovis margin to 17-12 games. The Dukes had swept a series with the Pioneers at Albuquerque.

In other games around the circuit, Lubbock punched across a run in the bottom of the 10th to edge Pampa 9-8 at Lubbock; Lamesa came from behind with a flurry of late runs to down Abilene 10-7 at Abilene, and Borger edged Amarillo 4-3 at Borger behind the 58-hit pitching of Jim Cain.

The games opened series in the various parks.

Rice's round-tripper was his 30th of the season and gave Red Dial his 26th win of the campaign. The loser was Jesse Priest, who went all the way.

The game was one of the best seen in Clovis this year with stand-out pitching mingled with good clutch hitting and spectacular fielding.

Abilene scored five runs in the second at Abilene, three on a homer by Eldon Day that sent Lee Gatewood to the showers; but Ralph Carrier moved in and buried three-hit ball the rest of the way—one of the blows being Weldon's second homer—and Lamesa came back. Fred Schmidt, knocked from the mound in the ninth, was the loser.

Manager I. B. Palmer singled home the winning run with two out in the 10th at Lubbock. Juan Montero, 3rd Lubbock pitcher, was the winner with the loss, going to starter Bob Votaw, who put the winning run on base before leaving in favor of Ted Gardner.

The game at Borger was marked by frequent arguments. Amarillo Manager Ted Claxton twice delayed the game to protest during the eighth inning when Borger forced across the winning tally. Jack Vena's bleb gave only seven hits in absorbing the setback.

Rebuilding Is Song Of Blues

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — They used to laugh when Frank Leahy sang the blues. But this year he may be better in tune.

The perennial pessimistic coach, molder of Notre Dame football giants, is in the middle of a rebuilding job.

It may take a year or so longer before he uncages another monster to begin a reign of terror on the nation's gridirons. This 44th birthday of Leahy finds the perfectionist in good spirits.

I am pleased that our team has not been picked for mythical national championships weeks in advance of the opening games," he said. "We do not have too much to look forward to this season and most football experts seasons in preparation. Does that mean you will lose all 10 of your games, Frank? "We could, you know," he chuckled. "Our schedule is the most difficult ever attempted by a Notre Dame squad."

In order, the Irish will take on Penn, Texas, Pitt, Purdue, North Carolina, Iowa, Oklahoma, Michigan State, Navy and Southwestern California.

Although the Notre Dame giant that until 1950 roamed through four undefeated seasons is presumably now under a sedative, it still is not dead.

Leahy has 31 letter men in his hair, the largest batch in the Midwest. Thirty or 40 more bent-up gladiators will join them next week to start preparations for Notre Dame's 64th season.

"It could be that our team will show a certain amount of improvement defensively," Leahy allowed.

"And John Latner at halfback and Neil Worden, fullback, are pretty good college runners."

"But for the most part, games are won on offense, not defense, and there are not any backfield men who will appear to advantage without the support of a fast-charging, good-blocking offensive line. We do not have such a line."

Pampa Glovers Win Two Matches

In a series of fast amateur bouts, Pampa's fighters picked up two wins, and lost three others in decisions last night at the Amarillo Sports Arena.

The top bout saw Pete Perez, present Texas state Golden Glove lightweight champion, win a split decision over Bobby Wilhelm, the regional high school lightweight king for the past two years. A first round knockdown was probably the deciding factor in the bout.

Heavyweight Dick Murray scored a second round TKO over airman John Laguito of the Amarillo Air Force Base. The other Pampa victory was also the result of a hard flying fist. Floyd Hood, Pampa light-heavyweight, dropped Kenneth Walters of the air base in 32 seconds of the first round.

Losing close decisions were Ronnie James, who was edged by Bebe Perez and Paul Ramirez, who lost a close decision to Johnny Cruz.

Amarillo Airmen Top Sports, 10-3

For the second time in three days, the Pampa Sports found the veteran Amarillo Air Force Base Am-Jets too much. Last night the airmen took a 10-3 decision from the youthful Sports at Oiler Park.

New Secret, former Oiler catcher, started on the mound for the Sports and went four innings of work. Bob Bailey hurled run out of three scored off him. Cubby Haynes went in at that point and was tagged for four unearned runs in three innings of work. Bob Biles hurled the final two frames and gave up the last three runs.

Friday the Sports go to Perryton to face the Perryton club in a celebration game.

Industrial League Meets Thursday

The Pampa Industrial Bowling League will hold the annual meeting on the fifth floor of the Hughes Building tomorrow night, Thursday, Aug. 28, at 8 o'clock.

Purpose of the meeting is to select new officers for the coming year as well as draw up a new constitution.

All bowlers who plan to bowl in the Industrial League this season are asked to attend the meeting.

Expendable Bob Feller Kicks Heels And Tribe Whips A's

By JOE REICHLER AP Sports Writer

"Expendable" Bob Feller may have lost some of his mound magic of years gone by but the southerly Cleveland right-hander is not ready to act as a sacrificial lamb for anyone.

The former strikeout king was enjoying the last laugh today following one of his better performances of the year in which he teamed up with three other "expendable" teammates to bring a most important victory to the Indians.

The one-time Iowa farm-boy came within two outs of winning a hurling bout from the fabulous Shantz last night before leaving the mound in the ninth inning with the Indians and Athletics deadlocked at 3-3.

The Indians were asked to capture a thrill-packed 6-3 triumph in 11 innings to remain within one game of the American League-leading Yankees, whipped the St. Louis Browns, 6-3, in New York.

Two-Run Triple
A two-run triple by castoff Barney McCosky, a Philadelphia discard, snapped the 3-3 deadlock and gave reliever Lou Brissie the win. Brissie, who also once wore the livery of the Athletics, retired all eight men he faced and struck out pinch hitter Keith Thomas and the dangerous Eddie Joost with the bases loaded and runner out in the ninth after relieving Feller.

It was a great night for Manager Al Lopez, who not only saw Feller pitch one-hit ball for seven innings, but had the satisfaction of seeing George Stitzel, his emergency shortstop, clutch a two-run homer in the seventh to break up a scoreless duel between the two Bobbies, and had given the post to Strickland, a throw-in in a deal with Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn's runaway Dodger's moved a step nearer to the National League flag, sweeping the four-game series in St. Louis with a 4-3 success over the Cardinals. The second place New York Giants remained 10 1/2 lengths behind the Dodgers, winning a 14-7 slugfest in Pittsburgh. Boston's Braves blanked the Reds in Cincinnati, 2-0, and the Chicago Cubs eked out a 13-inning 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Washington moved into fourth place in the American League as Bob Porterfield batted in the only run in winning a 1-0 mound duel from Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox. The third place Boston Red Sox continued to trail the Yankees by 3 1/2 games, vanquishing the Detroit Tigers, 11-3.

Satisfaction Game
Feller had won 239 big league ball games including three no-hitters but few of them have given him more satisfaction than yesterday's dramatic, albeit winless performance against Shantz and the A's.

According to a Cleveland writer, Feller, assigned to oppose Shantz in place of Mike Garcia, the Cleveland ace, was being sacrificed to the 22-game winning Philadelphia southpaw.

"Feller will be in there tonight," says The Cleveland News. "If the fabulous little Bobby Shantz is to win his 23rd game at the expense of the Indians, it will be less if he wins it from Feller."

"We'll see tonight who is expendable or who is being sacrificed," was Feller's reply.

"We'll see tonight who is expendable or who is being sacrificed," was Feller's reply.

The Yankees won in the ninth inning when Joe Collins smashed a home run with two out and two runners on base to hang the defeat upon Satchel Paige, the ageless, Browie tied the score in the eighth.

Rookie catcher Sammy White had batted in five runs with a pair of doubles and a single as the Red Sox downed the Tigers.

A two-base wild throw by pitcher Del Rice on a dribble hit by George Shuba just 10 feet in front of the plate allowed two Brooklyn runners to score in the ninth, enough to give the Dodgers a 4-2 decision over the Cards.

In the other games, Warren Spahn pitched a five-hit shut-out for the Braves over the Reds, Dee Fondy singled to score Hank Sauer with the run that gave the Cubs their 13-inning triumph over the Phillies and Hoyt Wilhelm won his 13th game in relief as the Giants clubbed five Pittsburgh pitchers for 16 hits.

Cowboy Or Sheep Herder, Title Fight Goes Friday

With all final arrangements having been completed through a tournament committee meeting last night, the seventeenth edition of the annual Top of Texas Golf Tournament is ready to get underway.

And get underway it will with a West Texas-Golf Association Pro-Amateur tournament tomorrow noon. The first group is expected to get off of No. 1 tee at 12 o'clock with the others to follow rapidly. All Pampa golfers interested in entering the Pro-Am must notify professional Johnny Austin, phone 4410, as soon as possible. About 16 top professionals from the area are due to be on hand to captain the teams, with outstanding amateurs aiding. Entry fee is $3 for amateurs, $5 for pros.

The three winning teams will split the pool—50 per cent going to the winning team, 30 per cent to the runner-up, and 20 per cent to the third place squad. Extra prizes in the form of $10 and $5 gift certificates will go to the two low gross men amateurs and to the two low new lady golfers entered.

A field of over 100 golfers is expected to play in the pro-am. Meanwhile, qualifying for the five-day tournament will continue through Friday. Friday is the date set for medalist and championship flight qualifiers. All entries must be in by 2 o'clock Friday, with no entries being accepted after that hour. At 6:30 a driving contest will be held, at 7:30 a Dutch lunch, and at 8:15 the Calcutta pool will be run off. First round play in the tournament starts at 8 a.m. Saturday, second round at 8 a.m. Sunday with the championship flight shooting third rounds starting at 2 p.m. All semifinal and final matches will be played on Monday, Sept. 1. Prizes will be awarded at 6 o'clock that evening.

It's funny how a trip around the country can make a man draw a bit of hate for another fellow he doesn't hardly know. But that is what has happened in the case of Frankie Hill Murdock and Cowboy Carlson. Murdock has always played the role of the true Texan he is. Coming from Waxahachie, the muscular ring veteran wears cowboy regalia that is almost beyond compare.

Then upon the scene came a youngster who called himself a cowboy. He claimed his home as Montana and he immediately went to work on local wrestlers, gaining the Southwestern state junior heavyweight crown.

Murdock has been away from the local wrestling circles recently, travelling around the country. One of his trips took him through Ekalaka, Mont., home of Cowboy Gene Blackley of Amarillo.

Carlson. While there, Murdock claims he found out that Carlson is no real cowhand at all, but just a sheep herder. Carlson is a bit irked at the claims of Murdock. And Murdock, who has been the colorful western character, is equally irked.

The two will meet Friday night at Oiler Park in the main event, not only to settle the question of the cowboy, but also to see if Carlson should hold the Southwestern states belt.

In supporting matches, Promoter Howard Vineyard has announced the return of a Japanese to the local circles. He is Kinji Shibuya, who will battle Billy Weldner of Amarillo in a 45-minute semifinal. In the 30-minute preliminary, Johnny Hames of Houston goes against Gene Blackley of Amarillo.

President Finds Decreased Business To Trim Tax Take

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—President Truman has been taking a peek at the mid-year earnings statements of corporations.
He decides that since they are making lower profits this year—about 11 per cent off, an Associated Press survey indicated—the U. S. Treasury won't be able to collect as much in taxes as he had thought at the start of the year.

WD Schools Open Sept. 1

WHITE DEER (Special)—Plans for the opening of school Sept. 1 have been announced here by Lawson Shaw, high school principal. A kick-off breakfast for the faculty, board of directors and their wives is scheduled for Thursday morning in the Skellytown cafeteria.

Enrollment for high school juniors and seniors is scheduled from 8-12 a.m. Friday and for freshmen and sophomores Saturday during the same hours. A skeleton schedule will be observed next Monday morning and school will be dismissed at 1:30 p.m. Buses will run that day. Until the high school cafeteria is completed, all school students will be required to bring lunches or to eat in town, according to Shaw. Construction of the cafeteria has been delayed because of recent steel strikes, Shaw said. Completion date will be announced later.

Schoolman Would Put Alcoholics On Farms

TORONTO (AP)—An American University official says chronic alcoholics should be confined to state farms where they could earn their keep and not be a burden on society as a whole.
Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, vice president of the University of Illinois and an authority on drunkenness, told an intercollegiate conference on alcoholism under way here that chronic alcoholism is a "serious disease which cannot be cured."

expect to look better when second half earnings are totaled up.
For example: Textile companies and apparel makers, as a group, show net profits off by about 60 per cent so far this year. But this summer their tide has turned. Mills are humming again. Garment makers are busy, with orders piling up. Their second half statements should be far brighter.
Iron and steel companies, too, expect to look better toward the end of the year, although their third quarter statements will still show the effects of the steel strike. In the first half of the year this industry trailed a year ago's profits by around 45 per cent.

Merchants also hope for a better fall trade. Their sales lagged in the first half of the year. Even worse for their bookkeepers, store operation costs continued to rise, pulling down the margin of profits.
Many industries also face demands for higher wages. But steel wage boost is likely to be followed by pay hikes in other industries. And along with it is likely to go an increase in the cost of materials that manufacturers use.
Even those industries that topped last year's profits in the first six months of 1952—the oil and machinery industries, the utilities, and many of the railroads—may find costs mounting and pulling down profits.
That is why, perhaps, the President has decided that his guess in January that corporations would pay nearly 28 billion dollars into the treasury should be scaled down to less than 24 billion dollars.

English Professor Recording History Of The Oil Industry

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—A University of Texas English professor is recording Texas oil history in the voices of the men and women who made it.

Using a tape recorder, Dr. Mody C. Boatright and his co-workers are trying to gather a complete history of the industry. The project is being paid for by a grant from Mrs. Walter Sharp of Houston, wife of a prominent Texas oilman.

The work is expected to rewrite many chapters of the state's oil history, Dr. Boatright says.
For example, tradition says the Spindletop Field, discovered near Beaumont in 1901, was Texas' first producing field. But information gathered at Petrolia indicates the Clay County Discovery—made by a farmer drilling for water—may have been ahead of Spindletop by a few days or even weeks.

Through the use of the tape recorder, Dr. Boatright hopes to capture more vividly than ever before the beginning of the oil industry.
"We feel that many will talk freer and with more memory for details than if they are writing," he says.

Boatright started the project this summer in the Eastland Stephens County area. He and his co-director, Miss Winnie Allen, University archivist, see no early end to the project.

Boatright now has 48 one-hour tapes. "The surface is not yet scratched," he says. "We hope to make it possible for students of the next generation to have access to these oral sources of the history of this generation."

The oral statements will be backed by documents such as public records, newspaper files, written memoirs, letters and journals. The records will be filed in the University of Texas archives.
