

Grieving Relatives Identify Headless Murder Victim

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A sobbing sister and grief-stricken brother early this morning identified a mutilated, headless murder victim as Betty Jack Stevens, 21-year-old Dallas waitress.

The girl's nude, tortured torso, with the letters "RAT" carved into the abdomen, was discovered Wednesday in a dry creek bed near Yukon, Okla. Identification was made yesterday from the victim's fingerprints. O. K. Bivins, chief of the Oklahoma Crime Bureau, said Miss Stevens had a criminal record in both Texas and Oklahoma. Police believe she may have been a victim of gangland revenge.

The girl's sister, Helen Stevens, 26, of Texarkana, Tex., broke down completely when she viewed the body. A brother, Eddie Stevens, 24, of Dallas, identified it by scars and birthmarks.

Helen said she hadn't seen her sister for several months. Eddie told police he saw her a month ago and at the time she was "well and happy."

Both, however, claimed they had been out of touch with her for some time and could give no clue to the motive for the brutal slaying.

The girl's father, O. S. Stevens, is a farmer at Grapeland, Tex. Her mother is dead. Eddie Stevens said Betty was married at 18, but the marriage was later annulled.

Capt. Wayne Harbort of the Oklahoma City police department said the victim had been a frequent visitor to Oklahoma City. At Dallas, police began questioning acquaintances of Miss Stevens. Capt. Will Fritz, a Dallas detective, said he learned the girl left a tourist court in West Dallas early Tuesday with "a stranger." That was the last time she was seen.

An autopsy performed at Oklahoma City yesterday indicated she had been tortured and decapitated while still alive.

WEATHER
West Texas partly cloudy this afternoon tonight and Tuesday, widely scattered mostly afternoon and night time thunder showers, slightly cooler in Panhandle this afternoon.

Death Toll High In Flaming Bus Crash

At Least 28 Die In Waco Collision

WACO (AP) — Two Greyhound buses crashed head-on near here today and burst into flaming death traps. At least 28 persons — possibly 34 — were killed.

It was difficult to count the dead because many bodies were so badly burned they fell to pieces on being moved. The buses themselves burned almost to rubbish.

The collision occurred about 4 a. m. seven miles to the south of here on heavily traveled Highway 31, a popular Dallas-Austin route.

Hours later, burned shoes, part of purses and their scorched contents, luggage tags and other clues to identity of the victims still were being carefully combed from the blackened wreckage.

Twenty bodies were brought to Compton Funeral Home here and eight to Waco's Conally Funeral Home. Six were counted at the Waco Funeral Home.

Burned To Rubbish
"One of the buses burned down to a rubbish pile," said Sam Wood of the Waco Times-Herald. "The other was almost as bad. When they pulled the smashed buses apart, the wreckage just fell to pieces."

Waco police officer Sam Johnson, one of the first at the scene, estimated the dead at 50. He said only one Negro man escaped from one of the burning buses.

Both buses remained upright, even after their blackened shells were forcibly separated by wreckers. The Waco Times-Herald said there were up to 67 passengers in the two vehicles.

The known dead included the two drivers—M. B. Herring of Waco, driving a south-bound bus which had left Aco a few moments before the crash, and Billy Malone of Waco, a relief driver, whose bus was about to reach Waco.

Service Men Among Dead
Uniforms of soldiers, airmen and some sailors marked many of the dead and injured as servicemen. Men on week-end passes from military installations at Waco, Temple, Austin and San Antonio often use the buses to return to duty.

Police Chief Jesse Gunterman and Police Chief Jesse Gunterman to determine the cause of the accident. He said Malone had just topped the crest of a slight hill. The section of the highway has no curves.

Four hours after the crash highway department bulldozers were shoveling the wreckage into both ditches to clear the lane for traffic.

Six ambulance companies from Waco, Temple and James Connally Air Force Base answered the call for help. Sheriff C. C. Massey of McLennan County said. At least ten ambulances went to the scene. Massey said.

At 6 a. m. Massey said, both of the buses were smoldering shells.

Reports on the number of dead in the 4 a. m. crash varied from 50 to around 30 with as many as 65 injured.

The second bus, northbound, was reported to have carried from 20 to 25 passengers.

Johnson said the buses going south usually carried a heavy load of servicemen from Fort Hood, 30 miles south of Waco, on week-end passes.

Compton funeral home officials here said they had "four or five bodies" but had not been able to enter the burning bus to reach the other dead.

Capital Still Buzzes... General, Professor Discount 'Saucers'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force general and a psychology professor both discounted flying saucer reports, but the nation's capital still buzzed with them over the weekend.

The Rev. Edward B. Lewis of Washington's Union Methodist Church drew a moral from it all.

"It is a good thing," he said Sunday from his pulpit, "to have something happening like 'flying saucers' that demands that people look up and study some of the wonders of nature."

"If we can get excited about the eternal truths of the grace of God, then we can learn how to live eternally and still be interested in such things as flying saucers."

Dr. Jesse Sprague, professor of abnormal psychology at the University of Maryland, apologized for his grammar but said flying saucers "just ain't there."

But within hours after Gen. Ramey made his talk-on the CBS television show "Man of the Week"—telephones started ringing at newspapers and TV stations in Washington.

The callers said they had seen a light shoot through the sky across the capital about 8 p. m. EST yesterday. The Washington National Airport's radar reported it had picked up unidentified objects around the time.

While Gen. Ramey was preoccupied about the saucer reports, which he said the Air Force has been tracking since the first one in 1947, he edged around another topic.

That was a report of vapor trails over Alaska last April which an interviewer said "caused quite an alert." Ramey gave no direct answer, even when asked: "What was found?"

"We are reasonably well convinced they are not material, solid objects." About 20 per cent of the reports in the past week, he said there were 1,500 such reports—"remain to be explained."

Says Russ Downed Unarmed American Patrol Plane Fights Off Reds

TOKYO (AP) — United Nations sources in Tokyo tonight said a U. S. Navy observation plane with five crewmen aboard was shot down off the Siberian coast Saturday by a Soviet fighter plane.

Navy headquarters here refused to confirm or deny the report. It said only "We are leaving this to the Chief of Information of the Navy in Washington. No announcement will be made here."

U. N. sources said the plane—type undisclosed—was hit as it made a routine weather flight to gather data for U. N. forces operating off the coasts of Korea.

Far East Air Force Headquarters denied any of its planes had been involved in such an incident.

A U. S. Navy Privateer patrol plane was shot down by Russian planes over the Baltic Sea April 8, 1950. Another Navy plane was lost similarly last year between Japan and Siberia.

Tokyo sources also said one or more Russian submarines had been sighted close to Japanese shores in the past week. The Navy would neither confirm nor deny this.

Anyone May Enter... Plans Readied For Parade Wednesday

Route for the main parade of the Top of Texas Rodeo this week was announced today from rodeo headquarters in city hall. Entries line up at West Foster and Hobart Streets at 3:15 p. m. Wednesday and move out into the street at 4 p. m.

The parade moves east on Foster as far as Frost, goes north on Frost to Browning, east on Browning to Cuyler, south on Cuyler to Brown, and east on Brown to Moose lodge where the parade breaks.

No official registration is necessary for entry in the parade, according to George Dillman, parade marshal. He has asked that all entries be on time to avoid delay.

Judges will be on hand to pick winners and award prizes in various divisions.

Trophies, ribbons and certificates will be presented to the most typical ranch entry, the best civic club or organization entry, the best riding club and the best band.

Ribbons and certificates will be given to first, second, and third place winners in the commercial division; and cash prizes of $3 for first place, $2 for second, and $1 for third plus ribbons and certificates will go to winners with the most conical entry, most typical cowboy or cowgirl and the best decorated bicycle.

The Amarillo Air Force Band will lead the parade and personnel from the Air Force Base will form the color guard.

If the plans work out, Porter said in Dallas it would be another triumphal return to Texas for Eisenhower in late September or early October.

Meanwhile Republicans and Democrats alike counted up the score on Saturday's county conventions.

The tone of the conventions showed Eisenhower Republicans and anti-administration Democrats tall in the saddle. Except in a few counties, forces of Gov. Allan Shivers controlled the Democratic gatherings and pro-Eisenhower forces controlled the GOP meetings.

Various Tickets Backed
There was widespread sentiment against the national Stevenson-Sparkman ticket in the Democratic ranks Saturday, chiefly on civil rights and tideland issues. Some Democrats expressed a willingness to vote for the Republican nominee. Others wanted Eisenhower and Nixon put on a separate "Texas Democratic Party" ticket alongside the national Democratic nominees.

Although the Republican meetings reflected unity—at least skin deep—the Democratic conventions betrayed some of the old intra-party bitterness. Flat fights flared at Houston and San Antonio meetings but nobody was reported seriously injured.

In the home county of Speaker Sam Rayburn, Fanning, Republican endorsed Whitwright Lawyer Jack Neumann as a candidate for Congress opposing the bald statesman.

Mrs. Betty Small Succumbs During Church Services

Mrs. Betty Small, 83, a visitor to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Cary, died yesterday during the morning service at the First Baptist Church.

The body has been sent to Fort Worth where Mrs. Small made her home. Funeral arrangements are pending with the LaGuardia Funeral Home there.

Mrs. Small was a member of the First Baptist Church in Fort Worth.

Survivors include three daughters, Frankie Walker, and Mrs. Bertha Uitz, of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Cary; one son, J. P. Tonlin, Fort Worth; two sisters, Mrs. Katie Jones, Fort Worth and Mrs. Sue Ryan, Kansas City, Mo.; a grandson, Tracy Cary, Lawton, Okla.; and a granddaughter, Mrs. Henry Kolb of Pampa.

Mrs. Small had been a guest in the home of her daughter for about seven days at the time of her death. She fainted during the church service at 11:10 a. m. and was taken from the church by some of the members. She was pronounced dead before leaving the church building.

READY AND REARIN' TO GO — This group of roping stock at the arena of Recreation Park is all ready for the Top of Texas Rodeo this week, Tuesday through Saturday, and they are rearin' to go — as far away from cowboy's nooses as they can get. It will be a race between these calves and Top of Texas cowboys of all ages at performances of the rodeo for five nights this week beginning at 8 p. m. Tuesday through Saturday. (News Photo)

Slain Girl Is Former Resident... Pampa Woman Is Identified As Sister Of Murder Victim

A Pampa woman today was identified as a sister of the Yukon, Okla., murder victim and it was revealed the slain girl is a former resident of Pampa.

Mrs. Clyde VanSickle, 321 N. Warren, a resident here for the past eight years, was notified Sunday by another sister, Helen, of Dallas, the mutilated, headless body found in Yukon was that of their younger sister, Betty Jack Stevens, 21.

Mrs. VanSickle, 321 N. Warren, for Dallas early this morning to help make funeral arrangements.

According to Clyde VanSickle, husband of the slain girl's sister here, there was no reason earlier for them to believe the victim was Mrs. VanSickle's sister.

They had received a letter from her recently in which she said she was leaving Fort Worth, where she then lived.

The local couple has no idea why the girl was slain, and knew very little of her companions.

According to VanSickle, the girl had visited Pampa several times and worked " " in two or three places in town. She was a waitress and at one time worked in a dry cleaning firm here.

The girl, according to Texas and Oklahoma authorities, had work records in Dallas, Fort Worth, Phoenix, Ariz., and Denton, Texas.

Band, Cowboy Star Slate Appearances

Amarillo Air Force Band, official band for the Top of Texas Rodeo in Pampa this week, Tuesday through Saturday, and Bobby Benson, kid cowboy radio star to be here for the rodeo, will appear for all three service clubs at regular meetings this week.

Wednesday they will be at Rotary Club in the city hall; Thursday at Lions in Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church; and Friday at Kiwanis, also in the Methodist Church.

The band is under the direction of Warrant Officer Patrick J. Veire. It is to lead the parade Wednesday at 4 p. m., cue the shows and play nightly at regular performances.

Bobby Benson, kid cowboy of B-Bar-B Ranch of national radio fame, is to be a specialty act for each performance of the rodeo.

Absentee Voting Off To Slow Start

Absentee voting in the Aug. 23 Democratic run-off election got off to a slow start today as only two requests for mailed ballots were received by County Clerk Charlie Thut.

There were no votes cast in person in the county clerk's office by 10:30 a. m. today.

Both of the mailed absentee ballots will be sent to points outside of Texas — one to Portland, Ore., the other to Maj. Ralph Thomas, former county farm agent, who is now stationed with the U. S. Air Force in Japan.

Deadline for balloting absentee in the run-off election is midnight, Tuesday, Aug. 19. Absentee ballots being returned through the mails must be in the county clerk's office by 1 p. m., election day.

Rain Brings Disagreement

The rain late Sunday was a bone of contention in the Pampa area — the farmers liked it, the rodeo fans did not.

It splashed the ground in varying degrees here. Out at the KPDR transmitter, near the rodeo grounds, a moderate .12 of an inch fell. Greatest amount was reported about nine miles northeast of town — .80 of an inch. Some 13 miles southwest of Pampa there was a rainfall of .30 of an inch. And due North of town there was .20 of an inch.

On the whole, the cotton, maize and feed growers welcomed the opening of the clouds. In the southern part of the county, the cotton farmers really needed it — and need more. According to Foster Whaley, county farm agent, this part of the county did not need it so much, but will have to have more in the next few weeks.

But, Whaley went on, it is the maize and feed farmers who are in more of a jam. If they don't get more rain this week, their crops may be partially lost.

Top of Texas Rodeo fans, however, (See RAIN BRINGS, Page 8)

Two Stricken With Polio

One more polio case for Gray County and one from the neighboring town of Briscoe were reported today.

Linda Watson, 3 1/2 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Watson, 1608 Whistler, was stricken during the week and is receiving treatment at Highland General Hospital.

Her case is reportedly mild with no paralytic effects evidenced. She is improving rapidly at the hospital.

Willis Newman, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newman of Briscoe, was brought to a local doctor Sunday and was rushed to the polio ward in St. Anthony's Hospital, Amarillo, immediately. His case was reported to be serious.

Public Information Service Is Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed forces' public information services have been sharply reduced by appropriations cuts.

The Defense Department's Public Information Office, an official said yesterday, has let out 120 workers, cutting the staff from 278 to 158, because of a 44 per cent slash in its funds.

WACO (AP) — "It was horrible, people were screaming and knocking each other down trying to get out. They couldn't find the exit door."

"It sounded like thunder. It would blow up and then, blow up again, one after another."

"A pretty, 17-year-old Waco girl, Mrs. Dora Daniels, described the gray-dawn horror on the Temple highway from a bed in the emergency room of Providence Hospital. The "thunder" was probably exploding fuel tanks.

The sickening scent of burning flesh was still heavy in the air. Mrs. Daniels, who had been home for the week end, was returning to Corpus Christi where she worked at a drive-in. She said she owed her life to a Negro man who was thrown to safety "but was brave enough to come back and pull us out." Mrs. Daniels' injuries were not serious. Unidentified.

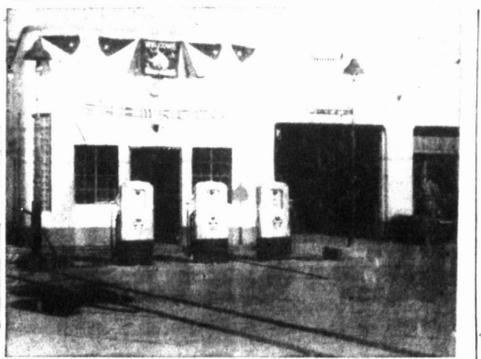

The Negro man was unidentified except that he was believed to be a soldier at Fort Hood.

"I got on the bus at 3:10 a. m. exactly," Mrs. Daniels said. "The bus was late and was going pretty fast to catch up. I was seated in the rear. Somebody screamed 'look out.' Then the buses hit. The Negro man saved me and a little girl who was seated next to me."

"He was thrown out of the bus but was brave enough to come back and get us out. A little Mexican girl was sitting by me. Her mother and father were to be a soldier at Fort Hood." (See SURVIVORS, Page 8)

OUR TOWN

by Wanda Campbell

Bobbie Lee and Linda Kay Andis are among the numerous young folks in and around Pampa preparing for the big Kid Pony Show tomorrow night. These two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Andis, have been riding since they were big enough to sit in a saddle. And before they could sit alone, their granddad, Guy Andis, held them on top of a horse. "Bobbie Lee, 'Punkin,'" is 10 now, and Linda Kay is seven. Together, they have won any number of awards in the annual Top of Texas show and the parades during the show. But this year the two little sisters will ride against one another for the first time. First-place winners in the Kid Pony Show's four groups always move up to the next age group. Last year, Linda won first in Group II while competing with riders from two to four years older. That boosted her into Group III for this year's show, and she'll compete with 11 to 13-year-olds. Bobbie Lee rode in Group III last year. She was only 9 then, but won second place honors. Jerry Mayo of Miami won first. This is also the first year Bobbie and Linda could mount their horses alone. "Someone has always had to 'help them up' before they can saddle their horses this year, too. They're real proud of that. The girls love rodeo season, but they don't quit until a few weeks or months before the show to start riding. They ride a 11 year round, weather permitting. Lots of summer mornings, the girls get up at 4 a.m. with their dad they call him "Bob" most of the time and head for the Andis ranch 15 miles from Pampa. They ride all morning, then find a nice shady spot after lunch and take a long nap. After the girls rest they are ready for more work. And they are getting to where they are a lot of help on the range. Bobbie and Linda plan their rodeo wardrobes with care. They took swatches of material home to plan their riding togs and studied the leather samples before their boots were made up. Their blue and red boots this year are about the prettiest they've ever had. Linda and Bobbie are enthusiastic Girl Scouts, but horses are still their first love. Bobbie is already talking about having her own ranch "when she grows up" and she hopes most of all that she can find some boy just like daddy Bob!

Driving Teacher Ends Up In The Drink

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) - Thomas Mullen of Watertown was teaching his wife to drive yesterday.

Here's what happened.

The car tore through a fence, sped up an embankment and dived into nine feet of water in Horse-shoe Pond.

Mullen and his wife swam 20 feet to shore.

Then Mullen realized their pet collie was still in the car. He swam back to the car just as the dog's head appeared on the surface.

None suffered any ill effects. Mullen told police his wife's foot apparently "froze" on the accelerator.

Grace Friend:

Grace Friend:
Here is my problem. I am a lady 37 and am old fashioned enough that I do not go to bars or night clubs and I am very much alone as I cannot meet people of my age.
I have been wondering if people of my age that feel as I do about night clubbing would like to form a non profit club and perhaps meet together once a week, every one sharing expenses.

Now that summer is here we could have picnics and I am sure we would all enjoy life much more.

If anyone is interested would you forward their letters to me?

MATURE PARENT
By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Uncle Harry and his pretty wife have no children.

When they come to spend the week end at the summer cottage of Wendy's parents, they get up late. After breakfast, Uncle Harry is always in such a hurry to get to the beach, that Aunt Ethel never has time to help Wendy's mother with the beds or dishes. Often, they are gone all day. Though Uncle Harry sometimes brings a pound box of candy to Wendy's mother, neither he nor Aunt Ethel ever remember to bring Wendy anything at all.

Last evening, after his day at the beach, Uncle Harry was feeling very joyful and healthy. Wendy struggled to be put down. When Uncle Harry kept on laughing at her, she kicked his chest. She screamed, "Let me go! I want to get down! I don't like you!"

Her mother was shocked and embarrassed. She took Wendy away to her room and said, "How unkind you were to Uncle Harry! Never must you tell a guest that you don't like them - not ever! You were a very rude little girl and I'm ashamed of you. You have hurt poor Uncle Harry's feelings."

This is not true. Uncle Harry has no feelings about Wendy that could be hurt. The fact is, he doesn't give a whoop about her, if she is anything to him at all, she is a nuisance. He can't turn on his brother-in-law's television set until she is asleep.

What Wendy's mother should have done is to rebuke her brother. To an adult who forced physical closeness upon a child he regards as a nuisance, she should have said, "Put her down Harry. Don't you know that Wendy doesn't like you?"

Wendy is not quite 5 years old. Her intuition for sincerity and insincerity is brand new. She knows when she's liked and when she isn't. Since this perception has been given her to protect her against trusting people who do not really like her, it should be supported, not reproved.

To require little children to show freedom of courtesy to those they do not like is immoral. It is training in emotional dishonesty. To suggest that they are bad not to like everybody is training in self-distrust.

Wendy's mother had better correct her mistake. As Wendy grows up, she will often encounter people who, for reasons of their own, do not like her. If her intuition for jealousy and hate is blunted, she is going to suffer. She will trust where trust is perilous and deny trust where it has been earned.

If Wendy's mother loves Uncle Harry fine. That's her business. But it is mental manipulation for her to try and force her own feelings for her brother on someone else. She should stop protecting Uncle Harry, anyway; then he may learn that human respect and affection isn't earned by making hollow gestures of intimacy.

If we want children to grow up into discriminating people, we'd better not fuss and scold when they exercise a little discrimination over Uncle Harry who haven't grown up.

RUTH MILLETT

You probably know at least one couple like the Mortons. You really like Joe Morton. He's good company. You like his wife, Sue, too.

And yet, as much as you like them individually, when together they often make you feel uncomfortable. Why is it that either one is so much nicer to have around than seeing the two of them together? Because the Mortons, like so many married couples, have fallen into the habit of sniping away at each other whenever they have an audience.

When Joe starts to tell a story, Sue is sure to interrupt it somewhere to make a crack that puts Joe in an unfavorable light - or say something that makes her look like the martyred wife.

If Sue expresses an idea Joe immediately takes the opposite view, which, of course, irritates Sue and usually ends in a heated argument.

The Mortons don't act like partners but like opponents. They may love each other but certainly don't give the impression of liking each other.

And so they make you uncomfortable. After spending an evening with the two of them your opinion of both is lowered considerably.

It would be as easy for the Mortons to build each other up as to tear each other down. That would certainly make them more attractive as a couple. Much better company, too. But they have fallen into the habit of belittling each other instead of trying to make each other look good.

You can't do anything about the Mortons - except use them as an example of how a married couple should not behave in company.

Make sure that you and your husband never appear less attractive as a couple than you appear as individuals.

Hidden Payrolls

The consumer, becoming more and more price conscious, has learned that payrolls make up a large part of the costs that go into prices. Yet, it is doubtful whether he realizes the extent to which so-called "hidden payroll" costs are also reflected in those prices.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce of the United States has just issued preliminary figures from a survey which discloses that these hidden labor costs increased more than one-third in two years and that they range from a sixth to a third of all money paid employees.

The fact that the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics gives little or no attention to the "hidden payroll" in its wage statistics data emphasizes that the bureau's figures do not represent the true cost of doing business or the true level of workers' incomes.

The chamber discloses that the average employee of the companies reporting in the survey got $653 in hidden pay in 1951, as against $480 in 1949. Further, it shows that pay for time not worked has in effect cut the 40-hour week down to a 35-hour week.

Defined by the Chamber, the "hidden payroll" covers: 1. Legally required payments, such as unemployment and workmen's compensation, old-age and survivors' insurance and off-the-job disability insurance (in effect in four states and on the railroads). These amounted to 2.9 per cent of the payrolls of 690 companies which took part in the 1949 survey. The Chamber notes that the cost components have risen to about 3.5 per cent since then.

2. Private pensions, life insurance, disability insurance including hospital and medical care programs, separation pay, discounts on employee purchases, below-cost meals, etc. These came to five per cent of payrolls in the 1949 survey.

3. Payments for time not worked, including pay for lunch time, wash-up time, vacations, bonuses in lieu of vacations, holidays, jury and national guard duty, etc. These came to 6.6 per cent of payroll in 1949.

4. Profit-sharing, Christmas bonuses, suggestion and service awards, etc., which came to 1.5 per cent of payroll in 1949.

The total cost to the country of the "hidden payroll" certainly runs into billions. How many billions, no one knows. If we assume that 40 million employees each get the average figure of $653, given by the companies surveyed, the total cost would reach about $26 billion a year since many small employers have not gone as far as the large ones in providing wage supplements, but $20 billion a year would not be far off.

Formerly, labor leaders and workers opposed employer benefit programs and insisted on getting compensation in the pay envelope.

That attitude has changed in the last decade or so. That has been due in part to the growing participation by labor in joint labor-management control of the administration of these programs. Many details of such programs are fought out in collective bargaining.

Labor has come to feel that it can get pay boosts in the form of fringe benefits at times when straight wage raises are out of the question.

Most company benefits have become an integral part of the cost structure. Most employers feel that if workers prefer to take a part of their pay that way they must go along with the programs.

Such wage supplements have now become so large that it is inconceivable that they can come wholly out of profits, if at all. Consequently, they are reflected in higher prices paid by the consumer.

Who's Too Old?

There was a familiar ring to a plea made before the Industrial Medical Assn. by an eastern doctor on behalf of the man who is forced to retire at the age of 65 and is yet able to do a full day's work.

Though familiar, it is an issue that should be raised again and again in the cause of educating employers and 65-year-olds themselves that the case of those past middle-age is becoming a national problem.

We are inclined to become conventional-minded about some things, accepting old-fashioned notions that a man past 65 is super-annuated and is fit for nothing but life in an armchair. It is purely a notion today without any general truth to it, as medicine and surgery progress, that men past 65 are useless.

The point can be, and is, made by those who take an intelligent view of the future that there were 2,500,000 men over 45 among the 11,000,000 new workers added to the labor force in World War II's critical years. We were told then that the older persons were steadier and less temperamental than their juniors.

The National Industrial Conference reports there will be more than 20,000,000 persons over 65 in the U. S. by 1980.

Neither pensions nor social security will answer the social problems of these oldsters. Industry and the aging individuals will have to face the situation. The answer lies somewhere in the field of gainful hobbies and industrial departments where pressure is not high but it won't be reached until the concept of "how old is old" is changed.

We will have to stop being old-fashioned about old people.

Better Jobs

"If There Are Any Americans"

In the last issue I was quoting from an article in Human Events written by Frank Chodorov on the subject of the necessity of repealing the income tax. A copy of this article can be had for 25 cents by writing to 1136 18th Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

In the last article Mr. Chodorov explained how the founding fathers limited the powers of the government. Then he points out one thing that was missing in the Constitution. From here on it will be Mr. Chodorov quoting:

Missing from our original Constitution was a "check" that was all the more potent because of the omission. The straight-thinking pioneer knew full well that the power of government is in direct ratio to its income, and he was all for cutting the income of his new government to the bone; that way it could not get out of hand. About all he would allow it is what it could pick up from tariffs on imports. Since the foreign trade of the new country was insignificant, and tariffs could hardly provide enough to run the establishment, Hamilton made an urgent plea (see The Federalist) for excise taxes. More than that he could not get, and more than excise and tariff taxes did not get into the Constitution.

Certainly, no tax on incomes got into the Constitution. There was no chance, even if the Founding Fathers had thought of asking for it. A people that had but recently kicked over the traces because of taxes far less onerous could hardly have countenanced having their pockets picked. It is interesting to speculate on what might have happened if the colonials had offered King George an income tax: he would surely have granted them all the representative liberties wanted, and humbly begged their pardon, would have removed all the disabilities he had imposed on them. And so, from 1789 to 1913 (except for a war income tax levied by Lincoln, which was small and difficult of collection, the Federal government' progress in getting taxes on profits and excise taxes. It was a weak government, certainly, but the people were strong. Because it lacked the wherewithal to maintain enforcement agencies, it passed very few laws of intervention. Because the people could keep their earnings, no man was ever beggared by the spirit of enterprise waxed strong. The peddler invested and reinvested his earnings from the original pack on his back, and built a department store. The blacksmith became a carriage maker, and his son an automobile manufacturer. Out of the savings of millions came railroads that spanned the country. The pace at which the economy of the country grew during the years when the people could keep and invest their earnings was miraculous.

But, the point at issue is not how much better off we were economically when we could hold on to our incomes—that needs no proving—but how much better off we were politically and spiritually. Even though the master shows him with material things, the slave is still a slave. The proposal to abolish income taxation must rest its case not on economic arguments, no matter how convincing they are, but on the score of freedom.

or, unless Americans want to be free, unless they put their tradition of freedom above all else, the Sixteenth Amendment will stay in the Constitution, and this country takes its place with other Empires on the dump-heap of civilization.

The low degree to which the concept of freedom has fallen is illustrated by the jaunty enunciation of "freedom" by our late President. To the pre-income tax American that sort of talk would have sounded silly. He knew that there was only one freedom—freedom from the government. He knew that only the political establishment had power to limit his will to live. To him the sum and substance of freedom was to be let alone.

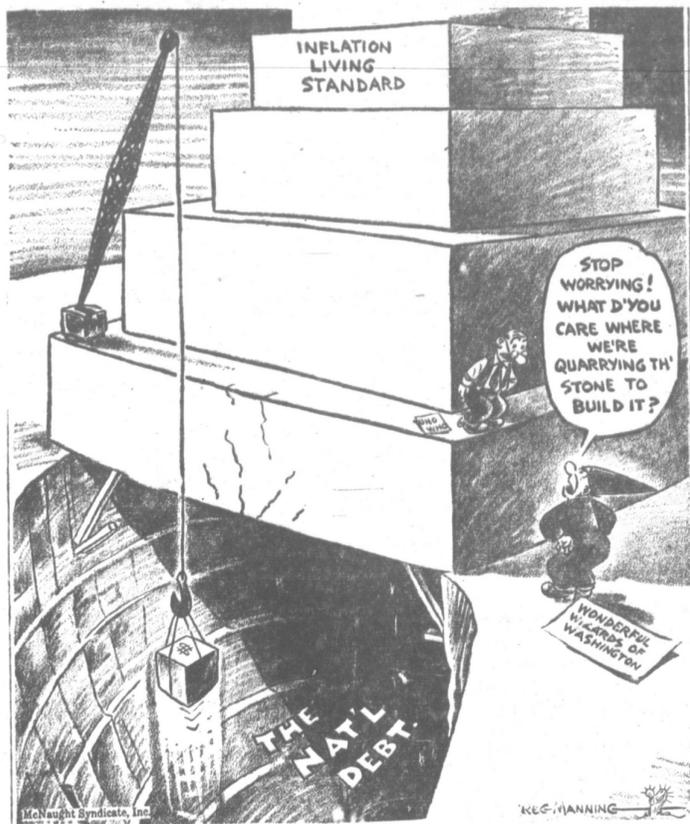

That this concept of freedom has lost value is shown most forcefully in our acquiescence to military conscription. In the old days, conscription was equated with the most degrading form of government then known: Czarism. Compulsory military service was simply loathsome to any self-respecting American. Today it is accepted as honorable, even "democratic." Why? In the first place, since the government has the power of compulsion, thanks to the income tax, we have made our adjustment with necessity. (How many conscripts would we have if evasion were easy?) And then, also thanks to the income tax, the emoluments of soldiering have been made attractive, and the special privileges the ex-soldier can look forward to most alluring: "Pay the soldiers," a dying Roman Emperor admonished his sons. "And the rest will take care of itself." But, to pay the soldiers one must have the income tax.

No pre-1913 businessman would have tolerated the invasion of his premises by snoring, arrogant agents of this, that and the other agency of government. As for filling our questionnaires calling for detailed information about his business and personal life, he would have considered that humiliating and insulting. However, this inquisitorial method was then impossible, simply because the government did not have the wherewithal to hire inquisitors. Cops must be paid.

In 1910, say, a Census agent who asked a woman her age, let alone questions of a more intimate nature, would have been unceremoniously kicked out. A worker would have howled "murder" if his pay envelope were picked by anybody but his wife. A government official would have risked his political life by offering a newspaperman a bribe, even of a cocktail, and the publisher who filled the pages of his sheet with government handouts would soon lose his circulation.

In short, the practices built up under the income tax have undermined our sense of freedom. For that reason, the task of the Association for the Repeal of the Six-

Tallest Tower On Earth

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M.D.

In practically all respects it must be considered a great misfortune to be a human giant. One such person who was carefully studied medically was over eight feet, three inches tall, with weight in proportion.

Many others have been studied who were nearly eight feet tall, and I have before me a newspaper which reports a "giant" nine feet, one inch high, weighing 391 pounds.

Apparently most of those people who reach enormous size suffer from a disease known as acromegaly. This condition stems from overactivity or a tumor in a tiny gland known as the pituitary body, lying in the brain.

This gland exerts an enormous influence on the human body by means of the hormones it produces, and this is the more surprising because the gland itself is so small.

Acromegaly does not always lead to gigantism in the sense that everyone who has it grows to seven feet tall or higher. Probably more often it develops during mature life in an exceedingly gradual manner so that for years, even an expert cannot tell definitely whether or not the condition is present.

When the disease is well advanced, however, there is thickening and coarsening of the features, especially the lips and nose, with increased prominence of the lower jaw and brows. The hands and feet enlarge, the chest increases in size, and the back becomes stooped. A considerable number of victims of acromegaly also develop diabetes.

It seems that in the true giant the pituitary gland starts to over-secrete while the youngster is still growing, and that the other symptoms of acromegaly develop later.

teenth Amendment will be most difficult. But, the fact that it has been found indicates that there are some Americans in America. The question is, how many?

50-Division European Defense Army Is Still A Paper Force

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Two European events blacked out by the volume of exciting news for two or three years. With the coming of the Truman-Acheson conference, it will be available early next year. It is still only a paper plan.

Ike did not attend the Lisbon conference, but he was represented by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, his chief of staff. In testifying before Senate committees, he cited this agreement as the ordinarily realistic Gruenther cited this agreement as the great gain in building anti-Russian defenses.

As usual, Acheson was fulsome. Ike said nothing. However, the Lisbon achievement was cited as evidence that he had fulfilled his foreign mission, and could return to run for President.

Now, it is admitted that the Lisbon assembling of six nations diplomatic and military experts resulted in no constructive action, only words.

BLACKMAIL — The second pessimistic turn is that Paris demands that 90 per cent of Mutual Security funds for offshore purchases be spent on arms made in France. This would leave almost nothing for the countries which need the money for economic relief and military strengthening.

To make matters worse, Paris is indulging in diplomatic blackmail. She has already placed domestic orders on the basis of the additional funds she demands. Piracy wars of economic collapse, Communist gains and general chaos, unless we accede.

IRONIC — In view of the manner in which the Lisbon pact was ballooned and propagandized into a major victory in the "cold war," reminiscent of other Truman-Acheson misrepresentations since Potsdam, the fiasco of the Portugal capital project is an important issue into the campaign. So does the failure of France, the key defense unit, to keep her pledges, and her attempt to throw a heavier burden on us.

In short, the international defense force which Eisenhower was supposed to have built is cracking up in our faces. It is ironic that it should occur in a year when he seeks the White House on the basis of his overseas accomplishments.

This is said with no disparagement to the Republican nominee. The mandate imposed upon him by Truman and Acheson was almost impossible of achievement unless European participants did their share.

Nor has Eisenhower gloated over the success of the collective security program. On the contrary, he has frequently scolded his foreign colleagues for dragging their feet.

DOUBTFUL — But it is extremely doubtful if these two questions can be raised and debated in an Eisenhower-Stevenson battle. And, although these are sufficiently grave matters with respect to our military, political and economic alliances around the world, there are even more important problems of the same nature.

Despite Stevenson's demonstrated independence in Illinois politics, it is hardly to be expected that he will introduce these European delinquencies into the grand presidential discussion.

Besides being an act of ingratitude toward the White House, it would amount to an indictment of what Truman holds to be his greatest achievement—namely the preservation of

Down South GOP Has Opportunity To Make South A 'Two-Party' Region

By THURMAN SENSING
Southern Industrial Council
Nashville, Tennessee

One of the best things that could happen to the South as a region would be for it to become a strong "two-party" region, a region where the vote is close, and the outcome doubtful rather than a region where the vote almost always goes one way.

Thoughtful people know that the condition known as the "solid South" is definitely to the disadvantage of the Southern region — and they would have the same opinion no matter what party always got the Southern vote. In other words, such a conclusion is not a partisan conclusion but a purely reasonable conclusion based on what is best for the economic and social development of the South, without any reference to politics—whatsoever.

When the South last its war 87 years ago, the Republican Party was in power. It is quite understandable, therefore, both to historians and to students of human nature, why the South since that time has voted Democratic. Except for that now outgrown tradition, however, the South has long since lost a very real reason for depositing its franchise in a block upon the altar of the Democratic Party. And the same reasoning would hold good if the South were a "one-party" Republican region.

In other words, let's forget for just a moment at least the words "Democratic" and "Republican." Let's consider what is best for any region of this nation under our traditional two-party system.

Strong competition is not only the life of trade, it is the life of governmental improvement in a democratic nation. Two strong political parties vying for support must each strive to outdo the other in supporting and advancing those things which the people might decide are best for themselves. As a result, the law of averages itself should cause any reasonable people to know that neither one of the parties is going to offer consistently the best program for the country. It simply would not be true to human nature. If it were true, then there would be every argument in the world for a "one-party" nation, which we all know would eventually result in corruption and dictatorship.

Getting back to the situation in the South, we know that for 87 years the South has received little recognition from either party — little from the Democratic Party because it considered the South "safe" and "in the bag" anyway; none from the Republican Party because it took the attitude it had no chance in the South and simply said, "What's the use?" The South has received the nation's political stepchild.

It is true, of course, that the Republican Party might very well have made inroads in the South long ago if it had ever had sense enough to offer the people of the South a platform to which they could adhere. The changed principles of Democratic Party during the past twenty years, at least, have made it impossible for the South to blindly adhere to the party, regardless of the original causes for doing so.

This situation has offered the Republican Party a wonderful opportunity in the South, but it is only now that it is showing any glimmers of intelligence along this line. As it was, the Southern delegation in Congress during these years simply had to vote upon conviction, going along with their party leadership when they thought it was right and voting with the Republicans when they thought the administration was wrong. As a result, the South has, in effect, been as much Republican as Democratic. And thoughtful people realize that this has cost the salvation of the nation during these years.

Should the Republican Party now have the wisdom to openly proclaim its allegiance those traditional Southern principles of individual freedom and local self-government and actively campaign in the South, while the peace through the system of collective security.

Stevenson appears to have some doubt about the success of the policy, although he believes in the underlying purpose. But can he afford to appraise it frankly and realistically in the campaign?

He would be criticizing his own handiwork, if he questioned the present or prospective efficiency of the Lisbon, NATO and other pacts which he helped to frame and execute. Moreover, he has taken off his uniform to recently to charge that these admitted failures occurred only since he returned to the United States.

Perhaps the soldier and the scholar may stir up excitement and differences over foreign policy, once they take to the stump after Labor Day. But the prospect appears dim at the moment.

The American Way

WHERE THERE'S A WILL

By GEORGE PECK

"Where there's a will, there is a way." If you doubt the truth of this old saying, please read on and be convinced.

In the summer of 1937 serious physical trouble came to visit an eleven-year old Ohio boy. Traveling with his parents on a vacation trip, Ira Gossett Hawk picked up an infantile paralysis germ which put him into plaster casts for the next 23 months, and which even today, many years later, has left him crippled.

But that infantile paralysis germ which so badly ravaged this physical being, more than met its master when it sought to carry its devastation to the brave spirit with which God had endowed this boy from the Buckeye State.

You will recall that America was languishing in the slough of depression when this disaster struck young Hawk—it was a period when a paternalistic government, with every good intention, was absorbing the defeatist philosophy being propagated that depression by doing things for people rather than encouraging people to do things for themselves; when boys strong of body, unconsciously were absorbing the defeatist philosophy being propagated that America had no new frontiers, that there were no new worlds to conquer, and that only government could save the day.

Ira Gossett Hawk stood as a living symbol to refute these false defeatist theories. His record of accomplishment, despite pain and suffering, despite physical handicap, bore excellent testimony to the fact that "Where there's a will, there's a way," and that "You just can't keep a good boy down."

Shortly after his affliction, Gossett launched a newspaper, "The Echo," a modest 100 copies, and it did just that. It's youthful publisher succeeded in putting into it considerable of his indomitable spirit. The first printing of the paper was a modest 100 copies, but by 1944 its circulation had climbed into the thousands. It numbered among its subscribers many famous people, ranging from the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to the late Governor of Ohio, John W. Bricker. Subscribers were located in all 48 states and 16 foreign countries. In 1941, the National Junior Newspaper League, of which "Echo" was a member, adjudged it the best junior newspaper in the nation.

The many duties involved and the long hours entailed in publishing this newspaper did not interfere with Gossett's schooling. He completed his grade school in 1938, his high school in 1941, and his college in 1944. During his college years, he continued to publish the "Salem Echo" in order to help pay his college expenses.

My good friend and associate, Alfred P. Haska, one of America's outstanding lecturers, whose eloquence has enthralled millions, having learned of this young man's remarkable achievements, wrote him a letter which carried such a beautiful message that I cannot refrain from quoting it here. Wrote orator Haska to editor Hawk:

"I am grateful to a good friend for presenting me with a three year subscription to your paper. I have another good reason for it. I read your paper and our handicaps become our opportunities. I think that can be made true by any man who has the courage, persistence and vision to make it true. Your handicap has annoyed you plenty, I have no doubt, but the extra effort you must put forth because of it, will undoubtedly pay you big dividends before the race is over for you."

"I know this to be true. You see, when I was fourteen I could not talk. I stammered so frightfully that I was not permitted to recite in school—it made too much commotion. Then one day I heard a man say that any of us could do anything if we only had faith in ourselves. I believed him. And today I make my living as a lecturer. You see, I had to learn to talk, and the extra effort to learn carried me much further than I would have gone had I not had the handicap. So I say, 'Thank God for our handicaps and the courage to overcome them.'"

What has brought this remarkable success story to mind at this time is that I recently heard from and of Ira Gossett Hawk. He has continued to climb the ladder of success; has proved conclusively that his achievements during his teens were no mere "flash in the pan." But the story of his more recent exploits must wait for a future article. I'll be writing it soon.

Whereas in the fully grown individual, there is little growth in the long bones leading to excessive height, although in both cases the cause lies in the pituitary gland.

DEFINITE DIAGNOSIS NEEDED
What can be done for acromegaly? Once a definite diagnosis has been made, the best treatment appears to be to direct X-rays at the pituitary body in the brain.

Other types of treatment are being tried on an experimental basis. Actually, research on the pituitary body, the hormones which it produces, and the factors which influence growth, is badly needed, and it is encouraging to report that there is much work going on in these directions.

DETAILED INFORMATION ABOUT HIS BUSINESS AND PERSONAL LIFE, HE WOULD HAVE CONSIDERED THAT HUMILIATING AND INSULTING. HOWEVER, THIS INQUISITORIAL METHOD WAS THEN IMPOSSIBLE, SIMPLY BECAUSE THE GOVERNMENT DID NOT HAVE THE WHEREWITHAL TO HIRE INQUISITORS. COPS MUST BE PAID.

In 1910, say, a Census agent who asked a woman her age, let alone questions of a more intimate nature, would have been unceremoniously kicked out. A worker would have howled "murder" if his pay envelope were picked by anybody but his wife. A government official would have risked his political life by offering a newspaperman a bribe, even of a cocktail, and the publisher who filled the pages of his sheet with government handouts would soon lose his circulation.

In short, the practices built up under the income tax have undermined our sense of freedom. For that reason, the task of the Association for the Repeal of the Six-

Snead Takes All-American

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—A beaming Sam Snead, his lost confidence restored, looks eagerly to Thursday's start of golf's most fantastic money chase—the $50,000 "World Championship" at Tam O'Shanter Country Club.

First award in this 72-hole stroke play event is $25,000, an unprecedented golf payoff that Snead and all the rest straining to be the first to take it.

"That bankroll will cause a lot of choke-ups," said Snead. "A 277 might be good to win. Right now I'd settle for a 275, dig back and collect all the bets."

Snead was feeling chipper. Yesterday he scampers through a down pour that struck while he was on the eighth hole for a fourth round 66. This gave him a 271 total to breeze to victory in Tam's All-American Tourney.

His 17-under-par tally was good for the $3420 first prize with an eight-stroke edge over Tom Middlecott, the peppery Durham, N. C., pro who led Snead by one stroke entering the finale, faded to a closing 74 for 279 and $2300.

Grouped at 280 were unheralded Wally Burke of Austin, Minn., Jack Birch, Jr. and Carl Middlecott, the All-American defending champion and leading money winner of the season.

Then came Doug Ford at 281, Jim Turnesa at 282, and Skeet Reigel, Shelly Mayfield and Henry Ransom at 283.

Need New Record Book As '52 Olympic Games Close Doors

By BEN PHILEGAR
HELSINKI (AP)—The 1952 Olympic games became history today and the historians are going to need a whole new book to take care of this gigantic sports carnival.

The games which ended in the Finnish twilight last evening were bigger and better in every way than any of those of the previous 14 modern Olympics.

More people took part. More countries entered. They lasted longer. More went on. Performance was amazing. There was a minimum of incidents.

The late Baron Pierre de Coubertin, a French scholar who conceived the idea of reviving the games of ancient Greece, would have been proud of the show.

Soviet Russia competed for the first time. Germany and Japan were back for the first time since World War II.

To Nations Entered
Seventy nations sent 3,780 athletes to this clean, attractive city—more than 1,700 above any previous entry.

Forty-nine of the 70 countries broke into the unofficial scoring column which recorded the first six places. The totals varied from 614 for the United States down to one made by

Oilers Face Lobos In Pair Tonight

The weatherman caused the Pampa Oilers and the Lubbock Lobos to double up tonight with Blue Sox.

Pampa fans will get a look at two new ballplayers tonight in the Oiler lineup. One will be infielder Bill Johnson and the other will be southpaw Connie Swenson.

Tomorrow's doubleheader in the Sooner state, it will probably be Max Molberg or Mal Neer and Tommy Thompson with either Neer or Molberg throwing the single on Wednesday.

Most of the players took advantage of the two-day respite from the diamond to try and get rested up in an effort to shake their losing ways and make the final bid for a playoff berth.

The Albuquerque Dukes moved back into sole possession of second place in the West Texas-New Mexico League Sunday.

The teams wind up their current stands tonight. Folkmann had a shutout until the eighth at Albuquerque. Then he walked two and gave up a double to Eddie Carnett for both Borger tallies.

Virgil Richardson sent a Texas League single to left field in the 14th at Clovis. The run, unearned since Tims got on through an error, was a heartbreaker for Dario Jimenez who had battled Clovis' Mel Kramer in a duel of relief pitchers since the eighth.

Jim Matthews hit three homers for Clovis, moving him to the league lead in that department ahead of Merv Connors of Amarillo.

Seixas Named To Lead Davis Cuppers

NEW YORK (AP)—Vic Seixas, America's No. 1 player, will captain the United States Davis Cup team in the North American zone final against Canada this week end, the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced today.

Along with Herb Flam and Bob Perry, a couple of young Californians, Seixas was scheduled to leave for Montreal where he will lead the team for four days.

The assistant haven't been decided upon as yet, but Seixas probably will send himself and Flam into action in the singles against Brendan Macken and Lorne Main.

Although the United States team will be favored to advance to the interzone final against the winner of the Italy-India match, Seixas doesn't figure to have as easy a time against the Canadians as the team that played Cuba in the second round did.

With the veteran Gardner Mulloy directing the operation, the Americans trounced the Cubans 6-0, with a team of youngsters. Sgt. Bernard Barzen of Fort Sill, Okla., defeated Reinaldo Garrido, 6-2, 6-1, 6-0 and intercollegiate champion Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles stopped Orlando Garrido, 10-8, 6-3, 6-0 in the final two matches yesterday in Havana.

Four Negro Hurlers Draw Fans To Park On Weekend

Four Negro pitchers, the largest number to compete in Texas' three largest leagues at one time, proved to be both a success at the box office and in the win column Sunday.

In the won-and-lost column, three of the pitchers registered victories for their clubs, and the other, Dave Hoskins of Dallas, was the victim of the Texas League's first all-Negro pitching duel.

Hoskins, the Texas League's first player of his race, lost 2-1 in an all-the-way pitching duel with Ed Gresson of Oklahoma City.

The largest Dallas Eagle crowd of the season, 11,007, attended the seven-inning game in which Gresson gave up four hits for his second win, Hoskins six in his first loss.

AMARILLO (AP)—Amarillo city champion Harry De Lashmutt and Jack Williams of Plainview, two seasoned veterans, won the first annual Amarillo partnership golf tournament Sunday.

They defeated another pair of tested performers, John Munn and J. R. Brown of Amarillo, in the final, one up.

Williams was the hero in the victory, scorching the Boss Powers course with a six under par 66. He had five birdies and an eagle, firing a 31 on the front side and a 35 on the incoming nine.

In semifinal matches this morning, De Lashmutt and Williams defeated Bob Maxwell and Bob Wright of Big Spring, 2 up, and the Munn-Brown team took out Joe Jimenez and state champion Billy Eiruth, San Antonio, one up.

HELSINKI (AP)—The University of Texas' Clyde Littlefield, assistant coach of the U. S. Olympic track team, yesterday was reported much improved.

Littlefield was stricken last Wednesday with a bleeding ulcer. Yesterday his physician said, "He is responding well and may be going home in about two weeks."

Lowly Philadelphia Clubs Playing Big Roles In Pennant Races In Both Leagues

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Philadelphia's vastly improved Phillies and Athletics don't figure to clash in the 1952 World Series but the men of Steve O'Neill and Jimmy Dykes will have a lot to say about who does.

Both Philadelphia nines, below the .500 mark a little more than a month ago, have been playing at a pennant clip of late and the majority of their remaining games are against the upper crust teams in the flag chases.

Philadelphia's rise in the baseball sun coincides with the appointment of O'Neill as boss of the Phils on June 28. Since then the Phils have won 28 and lost 12 for a .694 pace and the A's have captured 24 and dropped 16 for a .600 gait.

The Phils moved to within 2 1/2 games of third place St. Louis yesterday as lefty Curt Simmons blanked the Cards, 6-0 on four hits.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers lunged to a lead of 6 1/2 over the Giants by sweep a doubleheader from Chicago, 3-2 and 9-1, while the Giants dropped a pair to last place Pittsburgh, 7-0 and 10-8. Cincinnati and Boston divided a bargain Bill, the Braves winning the opener, 7-4, and the Reds the nightcap, 4-0.

The Yanks, with an assist from the Athletics, moved to a three game lead over Cleveland in the American League chase. The Yanks tripped St. Louis, 6-1 and 8-4, while the Athletics split with Cleveland, winning the second game, 9-2, after losing the first, 4-1. The Red Sox fell four games behind the Senators 5-1-2.

A. Houtenman, Detroit shutout the Red Sox, 4-0, while Washington and Chicago battled to an eight-inning 0-0 tie in the first game of a doubleheader. The game was called on account of rain in the ninth and the second game was postponed.

Simmons had little difficulty in hanging up his 10th victory and fifth shutout. Gran Hamner started, costed home in the second lead in the fourth with a three-run homer off Joe Presko. Right-hander Carl Erskine and Johnny Rutherford pitched the Dodgers to victory over the sinking Cubs. Erskine granted six safeties in the first game. Roy Campanella singled with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth to break a 2-2 tie, and

Carl Erskine his 11th victory. Rutherford, making his second start, coasted home in the second game on 14 Dodger hits.

Dickson Wins
Murry Dickson, beaten by the Giants Saturday turned in a brilliant relief job to win the opener at the Polo Grounds. Dickson blanked the Giants on three hits after taking over in the fourth.

The Pirates piled up a 10-1 lead in the second game but the Giants charged back with seven runs in the sixth to make it close. The game was called after the New York uprising because of darkness.

Lefty Warren Spahn hung up his ninth victory in the opener against Cincinnati while Ewell Blackwell suffered his 12th loss. George Crowe doubled home the deciding runs in the third. Bubba Church shut out the Braves on six singles in the second game.

Johnny Sain, allowing six hits, turned in his ninth victory for the Yanks in the first of two at St. Louis. The Yanks enjoyed

THEY FLIT IN A "FLITZER"—"Flitzer" is the name for this new German auto-scooter, being tried out by a couple of young women in Frankfurt, Germany. Fritz Fend, its inventor and manufacturer, is displaying it there. The tiny car, which can be entered only by swinging open the whole top, has been clocked at well over 60 miles per hour.

Tibetans Vex Communists

HARSIL, Indo-Tibetan Border (AP)—Red China can't seem to make the Tibetans understand who's boss now in the Himalayan "roof of the world."

Traders reaching this Indian outpost 83 miles beyond the last motor road report that Peking officials sent to consolidate Communist power in Western Tibet are running into serious trouble.

Number one case is the late June departure of West Tibet's 55-year-old head administrator or garphone, Lara Lampa for consultations with the Dalai Lama after a flareup with Chinese authorities.

Lara Lampa reportedly turned down Chinese demands for conscript manpower and free supplies needed to build a 640-mile road connecting the Tibetan capital of Lhasa in the east with Gartok, chief West Tibetan center.

The Chinese have carefully averted any showdown with established Tibetan leaders since "liberating" the desolate highlands region in 1950.

Now, traders coming here say, they are openly pushing agitation against payment of taxes and spreading pro-Communist propaganda in the lower echelons of Tibet's feudal society.

Highest Bidder

Tibetan custom switches control of West Tibet to a new garphone each four years, with the highest bidder getting the post. Lara Lampa has served since 1949.

Garphones maintain 12 regional governors or lampons in West Tibet and a larger network of jungs, or district magistrates. These officials collect taxes in the form of barter goods and hold virtually complete legal power in their domains.

The Chinese have enraged garphone Lara Lampa and his junior garphone, 32-year-old Tshur, by advising peasants not to pay taxes or work without payment—meanwhile insisting that the garphone furnish free road construction crews.

Quick completion of the Lhasa-Gartok road is an essential part of China's program in Tibet. The influx of more than 5,000 Chinese soldiers into sparsely populated West Tibet with its chronic food shortage has put the area under severe strain.

India recently agreed to permit shipment of Chinese rice into East Tibet via Calcutta, by-passing the three-month land route from the Chinese mainland to Lhasa.

Meet Little Luck

Chinese authorities have met relatively little luck in attempts to make the rocky Tibetan earth yield satisfactory results. Normally, Tibetans eke out an existence with limited grains and the meat of sheep and goats.

The Lhasa-Gartok road will ease shortages not only of food but also medical and other supplies. Widespread smallpox epidemics and malnutrition have made Chinese soldiers in West Tibetan garrisons appear "very lean and sickly," eyewitnesses cleared.

Although the transport crisis worries the Chinese most, language troubles rank a close second. Intricate Tibetan dialects so far have defied Chinese officials seeking to learn the tongue. Tibetans among the trading contingent here relate with amusement:

VENETIAN SCENE, MEXICO—Mexico City took on the aspects of Venice recently when torrential rains turned the streets into rivers. But traffic wasn't stopped, as picture shows.

OUR NEWSBOYS
The eager-faced lad who stands on the corner in all kinds of weather selling newspapers is, in every sense of the word, an American businessman. He is a self-starter. He is up bright and early and on the job late at night. Nobody backs him with capital or confidence. He supplies all this himself—and does it with an alertness and salesmanship. Your newsboy may deliver your newspaper for your door if, so, he even manages to sell you a paper. He is a real business man, for he not only throws his papers at countless front porches, but he doubles back regularly to make collections. Yes, the newsboy is an American institution. Support the good work, youngster. We're ALL behind you!
