

Barkley Charges Ford Forcing Dealers To Help Ike

AUSTIN (AP) — Vice President Alben Barkley injected a new charge in the torrid presidential campaign last night, declaring Ford Motor Co. is requiring dealers to contribute $100 to $500 to Dwight Eisenhower's campaign.

Barkley's accusation — hurled as he spoke to 5,000 Texans at a statewide rally for Adlai Stevenson — prompted a loud cry of "I know it's true" from a man in the back of the audience.

The crowd roared with laughter.

Austin was the last stop in a one-two-three punch into Texas yesterday by Barkley, one of the Democratic Party's best political "trouble shooters."

Two Main Themes

Though the 75-year-old Barkley roused his audiences to hilarity at Dallas, Tyler, and Austin, he kept most of his remarks in a serious vein as he developed two main themes:

1. "There is no other honorable course which the United States could have pursued to resist aggression in Korea."
2. Texas and the nation have never enjoyed greater prosperity than in the administrations of the Democratic Party's best political "trouble shooters."

Barkley's Austin audience gave him a vociferous, standing ovation when he said the United States followed the only honorable course with respect to Korea.

He brought the crowd in City Center to its feet again with his lone reference to party loyalty, an issue which has split Texas Democratic ranks and has raised Republican hopes of victory in this state.

"I would despise myself if I did not support the Democratic Party," Barkley said bluntly.

No Shivers Reference

He made no direct reference to Gov. Shivers, who has said he is loyal to the Texas Democratic Party but cannot support the national Democratic Party nominee.

because he fears a continuation of "Trumanism." Shivers is campaigning actively in Eisenhower's behalf.

On hand to cheer Barkley on the speaker's stand were Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, who introduced the vice president as "the noblest Democrat of them all," House Speaker Sam Rayburn; Rep. Homer Thornberry of Austin and the 40th Congressional District; State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White; Associate Justices W. St. John Garwood and Robert W. Calvert of the State Supreme Court; former New Deal

Congressman Maury Maverick sr., San Antonio; and former Austin Mayor Tom Miller, Texas finance chairman of the National Democratic Party.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), who is retiring from public office at the end of his term in January, came in late but received a standing ovation from the enthusiastic crowd.

Laying the blame for the great depression of the early 30s on the Republicans, Barkley pointed to thousands of new homes, millions of dollars on bank deposits, high wages, and social security gains as evidence of prosperity fostered by the Democratic administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Truman.

"Has the general (Eisenhower) told you what he wants to change to? Do you want to take a chance on that?" asked Barkley, and the crowd yelled, "No."

"Beat Shivers' Crowd"

The vice president drew an audience estimated at 5,000 in both Tyler and Austin. The estimates came from Robert Boulton, chairman of the Tyler rally, and Austin Police Capt. Ted Klaus.

Black Mark . . . Finletter Flays Red Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Air Force Finletter said today the extraction of "confessions" from Allied prisoners of war is one of the blackest marks against communism.

"All members of the American armed forces, and particularly those of the U. S. Air Force, feel an intense revulsion against Chinese Communist methods of forcing false confessions from their victims to provide grist for the Communist propaganda mill," Finletter said in a statement.

"These barbaric methods of endeavoring to 'brain-wash' the minds of soldiers for propaganda purposes are among the blackest marks yet recorded against the Communist regime."

Finletter commented in answer to queries about a charge by the Air Force Association in Air Force Magazine last week that the Communists tortured two U. S. fliers into making false confessions that they took part in germ warfare.

Publisher Escapes Argentine Blockade

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz slipped out of Argentina in a sailboat after President Juan Peron sealed the country with squads of police ordered to stop the former publisher of "La Prensa."

He said the border of Argentina was sealed March 21, 1951, by hundreds of police who checked trains, planes, passenger ships and automobiles. That was the day after Peron seized La Prensa.

"So friends helped me slip out in a sailboat," Gainza Paz said in an interview here.

He said that night he sailed at 8 that night from a concealed beach near Buenos Aires across the 30-mile Plata River to haven on his mother's ranch on the Uruguay side of the great stream. The boat's skipper got him to sleep, as a sort of therapy to keep the editor from worrying too much. He wore a life jacket and had a small flashlight in a coat pocket.

Announcement Delayed

"The plan," said editor, "was for me to slide overboard if a curious boat approached. Then, after the investigating boat had gone, I was to flash my light in the darkness and my friends would pick me up."

At 1 a. m. on March 22 he arrived at his mother's 12,000-acre Estancia. Not until March 25 did his family in Uruguay announce that he had escaped.

Gainza Paz's La Prensa (it has belonged to his family since it was founded in 1869) was seized and closed by Peron on March 20, 1951. The next day, the editor said he bought a ticket on a plane to his mother's ranch in Uruguay. He was arrested before he got on the plane. He slipped away from the detective who arrested him and got away in his car.

He hid in a small house in a Buenos Aires suburb. Then the friends, got him out in the sailboat. Only his wife and one of his sons has followed him to Uruguay. Four of his sons and his three daughters are still in Buenos Aires. They have not been molested.

Preliminary Hearing For Knifing Suspect

E. J. Kilpatrick, 28-year-old ex-convict arrested in The Flats on a robbery by assault charge, was scheduled to go before Justice of the Peace Sam Lanning, Panhandle, today for a preliminary hearing.

According to Sheriff Clarence Williams, Carson County, Kilpatrick was expected to waive hearing, have his bond set and await grand jury meeting in January.

However, Williams said, it was possible that a grand jury would hold a session earlier.

Kilpatrick, 422 Elm, had been the object of a four-to-five minute search Tuesday afternoon and night, following a robbery by assault in which a man was slashed in the neck, chest and hand and his pickup truck stolen.

He had been identified by the victim, W. M. Harrell, 50, of Brownfield, in the sheriff's office, Pampa, after his fingerprints had been traced to The Flats from the spot where the stolen vehicle had been abandoned.

Panhandle Wants Rain . . . Forest Fires Bring Chilling Terror To East Texas Towns

By The Associated Press

Forest fires continued to plague the East Texas pinelands Thursday and sent chilling terror into towns caught in the path of the leaping flames.

Lufkin, East Texas city of sizeable proportions, narrowly missed a destructive fire, according to a forest service report.

Dist. 3 Forester Chief W. W. Talbert said, "If the wind had been right that fire would have swept right through Lufkin and nothing could have stopped it."

He was speaking of the smaller of two dangerous fires extinguished in his six-county district Tuesday. One, in San Augustine County, burned over about 3,000 acres and was put out after a two-day battle. The other was a small fire which burned over about 15 acres only two miles north of Lufkin.

The top of Texas area was not beset by fire, but it was still looking for a spot of rain just the same. No rain has been reported in Pampa since Sept. 22.

High reading of the mercury for Wednesday was 72 degrees, but early this morning it descended to a low of 45. At 11 a. m. today the temperature here was 71 degrees.

The forest fires in East Texas have been more prevalent than in the past because of the tinder-dry condition of the timberlands, brought on by the state's continuing drought.

A forecast early Thursday gave no hint of relief from the long-dry spell. Generally the prediction is for a few more days of drought.

Demo Official Fired In 5 Percent Deal

Ousted Texan Says 'Nothing Wrong'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of the Democratic National Committee has been fired for allegedly helping negotiate a nine-million-dollar government contract while working for the committee.

Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell identified him last night as Col. Lawrence Westbrook, a research and development engineer who since Jan. 5 has served as liaison man between the committee and members of Congress.

Westbrook has been helping House Speaker Sam Rayburn in the Democratic presidential campaign in Texas. He said by telephone from Dallas there was "nothing wrong" with the contract or his negotiations.

In New York, the Herald Tribune called it "the biggest 5 percent deal ever exposed in Washington." It said Westbrook and two other men stood to share a $450,000 commission.

Gov. Shivers Predicts Ike To Carry State

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Allan Shivers today predicted flatly Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will carry Texas.

In a press conference, the governor also scored government opponents to millionaires and said he was "not surprised" at another 5 percent deal in the Truman administration.

"I think Gen. Eisenhower is picking up considerably. I think the trend toward him is larger than I expected," he said, adding: "I think Eisenhower will carry the state and that it will be the biggest vote the state has ever seen."

On the matter of government loans, Shivers said the Export-Import Bank, a government agency, had on Oct. 17 granted a $3,661,000 loan to the Pan American Sulphur Co., headed by Houston millionaire J. R. Parten.

He said the National Democratic Campaign Committee had announced several days ago Parten and his associates have contributed several thousands of dollars to the Democratic campaign.

"It is strange in view of the campaign contributions of Parten and his associates that a 3-1/2 million-dollar loan should be granted just before the election," Shivers said.

Korea Provides Fuel For Final Dash In Presidential Contest

By The Associated Press

Korea was providing the fuel today for the last-lap spurt in the presidential derby. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pledging in speech after speech to seek an end to the Korean conflict, just as consistently was being accused by Gov. Adlai Stevenson and President Truman of playing politics with peace to win votes.

Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, continued his campaign in the New York City area where Wednesday he repeated promises to visit Korea, if elected, to see what could be done to end hostilities there.

Green Attacks 'Bosses' Ike Pulls Ahead in Pampa's Battle Of Absentee Ballots

General Eisenhower nudged ahead 2-1 in the battle of the absentee ballots today when E. L. (Gene) Green Jr. announced he had "already voted" for the Republican presidential candidate.

Green, a delegate to the 1948 national Democratic convention and a delegate to the 1952 state Democratic convention, made the statement after form letters he sent voters began arriving at their destination through the mails.

That made it two for Ike and one for Adlai — Green and Curtis Douglas for the general, Rep. Walter Rogers for Gov. Stevenson.

In his letter, Green charged the 1948 show was run by "big city machine politicians of very questionable character from the Eastern states."

He said those in control thought nothing of the principles on which the Democratic Party was founded and stole the name because it meant so many electoral votes from the South.

Stevenson Drive Quickens

At the same time Stevenson supporters were starting to show some life in the campaign.

J. E. Thompson, law partner of Rep. Rogers, was preparing an advertisement for the Illinois governor centered around a recent statement made by Sen. Richard B. Russell, (D-Ga.) unsuccessful presidential nomination.

Russell, who was supported by the entire Texas delegation, has been making speeches in behalf of Stevenson.

In the statement to be used, Russell charges the GOP candidate with contradicting himself and declared:

"Shortly after his nomination, the Republican candidate said, 'The Soviet threat is no more serious than it was a year ago.'"

Officials See Hope Convicts Will End Prison Rebellion

CHPESTER, Ill. (AP) — Acting Illinois Gov. Sherman Dixon expressed strong hope today that 322 mutinous but hungry convicts would end their rebellion, now in its fourth day, at Menard State Prison and release their seven hostages without harm.

Optimism among state and prison authorities grew swiftly last night as hunger began to show its effects on the rebels.

The haggard inmates have been without food since seizing the east-cell block of this Southern Illinois prison late Monday. Their hostages—a prison lieutenant and six guards—have been without food since noon Monday.

After that break in tension, Dixon told the remaining convict holdouts:

"As soon as you restore order and release the seven guards I will sit down with you and hear every grievance."

Absentee Ballot Total Reaches 362

With a little more than a day remaining to vote absentee in the Nov. 4 election, County Clerk Charlie Threlkott reported a total of 362 ballots cast in his office and through the mails.

Requests for ballots shot up again Wednesday, bringing the total to 366 ballots mailed out, 157 of which have been returned to date. The number voting in Threlkott's office stood at 228 by 10:30 a. m. today.

Deadline for voting in the clerk's office is midnight Friday; ballots returned by mail must be in the clerk's office by 1:30 p. m. election day.

Youthful Prisoners Make Futile Try To Avoid Sentences

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Six youthful prisoners made a desperate but futile attempt to avoid a stiff sentence for leading a prison riot yesterday, declaring they were Communists and wanted to be deported to Russia.

They were in a group of 12 who appeared before U. S. Judge W. R. Wallace to face sentencing for their part in a riot at the El Reno Federal Reformatory. The six — James A. Harvey, Amarillo, Tex.; Howard E. Nelson, Gadsden, Ala.; Billy Ray Kellee, Oklahoma City; Ronald Lee Stone, Lakeview, Ore.; Victor Dwight Freeman, Oklahoma City; and George E. Jackson, El Reno, Okla.—signed a statement contending they were Communists.

They had pleaded guilty earlier before Judge Wallace to taking part in a riot early last month.

Wallace meted out sentences from two to five years and told the prisoners who begged to be deported:

"I wish you could be. I have no authority to deport you. I'd do so if I could."

Serious Shortage Of Cotton Pullers

Cotton pullers are urgently needed in the McLean and Wheeler areas, according to the latest Texas Employment Commission farm labor bulletin.

Five hundred pullers are necessary in the McLean sector where 80 per cent of the cotton bolls are split open. Workers are being directed to the McLean gin.

Seventy-five per cent of the bolls are split in the Wheeler district and 350 pullers are expected. Applicants should go to Co-op Gin, Shamrock; Tindall Gin, Twitty; or Paymaster Gin, Wheeler.

Going rate in both places is $2 per 100 pounds of snapped cotton; the weighing and hauling pays 25 cents a hundred.

On the local scene, the employment picture is better than it was last week, Bill Ragdsdale, JCTC head, reports.

Main problem at the moment, Ragdsdale said, is the need for better-than-average stenographers and typists. Of course, he continued, there are the usual four-to-five laboring jobs available.

Total jobs in the offering today—in all categories—number 25-30.

Canadian Services For Tom E. Rich

CANADIAN (Special) — Funeral services for Tom Edward Rich, 54, former resident of Ada, Okla., and a cousin of W. O. Rich of Canadian, were to be held at 3 p.m. today in Stickleby Funeral Chapel, with Rev. Teft Holloway, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canadian, in charge.

Rich died early Wednesday morning at Hemphill County Memorial Hospital of tetanus — result of a freak accident about two weeks ago.

He was visiting here in the home of his cousin, W. O. Rich, and had taken Rich's bird dog out for exercise. The dog was on leash, and Rich had looped the metal ring of the leash around two fingers.

The dog became excited, tugging himself in the leash, and in the struggles tore one finger from Rich's hand, badly lacerating another.

First aid was administered at the local hospital but Rich refused anti-tetanus injections. Infection developed, and he was admitted to the hospital here Sunday, suffering with tetanus.

A native of Oklahoma, Mr. Rich was born in Johnson County, Indian Territory, Oct. 25, 1898.

Survivors include two brothers, Bud Rich of Ada and Ordie Rich of Wichita, Kan., and one sister, Miss Ida Lynn of Ada. Burial will be in the Canadian cemetery.

The Democratic platform nor agree with the views of our party's presidential candidate. I am convinced, however, that Gov. Stevenson has the potentialities which can make him one of the greatest presidents who has ever served our country.

With the support and prayers of the American people, and the aid of the Almighty, he so devoutly worships, he will see this nation safely through the dangers of today's world.

Thompson said he is not only working for Stevenson, but will vote for him Tuesday.

Eisenhower has shown his complete unfamiliarity with domestic affairs and has contradicted himself time and again. Besides he has been wishy-washy. Stevenson has been consistent and has had the guts to tell Texans the same thing he has told New Yorkers, regardless of what it will cost him in Texas support.

Rotarians Told Of Girl Scout Activities

International activities of the Girl Scout movement were discussed for local Rotarians Wednesday by Miss Gay Sheppard, Dallas, a member of the regional Girl Scouts of America staff.

Miss Sheppard, the daughter of a Rotarian, told the club the Girl Scouts have their own international fund known as the Juliet Lowe International Friendship Fund, supported by the individual gifts of pennies, nickels, and dimes from the girls themselves.

The money is used to finance exchange of girls to camps of other countries. Last year several girls, she said, attended American Girl Scout camps. This year American girls will attend European Girl Scout camps.

Of the $147,000 contribution to the international fund last year from America, $148 of it came from Pampa girls, the speaker said.

Miss Sheppard was introduced to the club by Mrs. Dorothy Stanton, head of the local Girl Scout council.

the 8th Army commander had received "very little encouragement, and never an approval" for his own efforts to train new South Korean divisions.

Stevenson, wooing Pennsylvania's 32 electoral votes as a new wave of optimism swept his camp, quoted the New York Times as saying one of Eisenhower's speech writers originated the go-to-Korea idea to give the GOP campaign a "lift" which, the governor added, "it sure needed."

Stevenson quoted Eisenhower as saying four months ago that he didn't believe there is any clear-cut answer to Korea, although now, the governor said, Eisenhower contends there is. He added:

"He was right in June; he is wrong in late October. He has changed, my friends, and the change is to play politics with peace."

The Democratic candidate drew big and cheering crowds throughout the Pennsylvania hard-coal mine area. Before one of these crowds—in Bethlehem—he loosed one of his biting criticisms:

Top Secrets In Danger ...
Electric Typewriter Is Good
Gift To Drive Newsman Crazy

By HENRY McLEMORE
MEXICO CITY — If you know a newspaperman you don't like and want to drive him straight out of his mind, then I suggest you give him an electric typewriter. It is six weeks and even that a week after your gift he will be babbling like a brook, trying to smoke ice cream cones, and playing cards with complete strangers in the game room of a cross-country bus.

I started this column on an electric typewriter in the American Embassy here, in the office of Henry Bishop, the press attaché. My own typewriter had come down with congestion of the ribbon, migraine of the margin release, and giddiness of the shift key. So when the Embassy offered me the use of an electric typewriter, I could hardly wait to start using it. "An electric typewriter is my meat," I said to myself as I headed for the Embassy. "I'll have a column done in the twinkling of a sheep's tail, a shake of the eye. No more wearing myself out pressing on keys, no more fainting pushing back of the carriage. Electricity will do my work."

When Mr. Bishop and Mr. Bill Webb, the first secretary with whom I was staying, asked me if I knew how to run an electric typewriter I acted hurt. "Do I know how to run one?" I asked. "Does a boy know how to ride a bicycle? Does a mule know how to kick just lead me to it and turn me loose."

Unfortunately, the Messrs. Bishop and Webb did just that. They turned me loose in a room with nothing but a desk and an electric typewriter.

I looked at it and it looked at me. I tried to stare it down, but I couldn't. How to start the fool thing — that puzzled me. "Okay, baby," I told it, "you are nothing but an electric shaver with keys. I'll plug you in and see what happens."

I poked the rope (forgive me if I get technical) in the wall socket and the result was quite like a governor of a state pushing a button and opening a new dam. In my hurry to get going I had poked the plug of an electric fan into the socket. The fan brewed a storm. Papers started flying in the office, and for all I knew they were top secret, secret, and confidential papers that could make or break the relations between this country and all of Latin America. Being a patriot, I started chasing them, sometimes right, sometimes on all fours like a bird dog. Finally, after I had come close to wearing myself to death, I had retrieved all the papers and fastened them down with a paperweight. Then I unplugged the fan and plugged in the electric typewriter. It drove me batty. Accustomed to pounding on a portable, I hit the keys of the electric job with firm fingers, and you just can't do that. An electric typewriter must be played with a touch as light as a spring wind brushing the meadows. As a result, I never managed to get so much as "the" written. When I did try to touch the keys slightly they seemed to be impatient about the whole thing — they wanted to get going. The horrible truth is, an electric typewriter thinks faster than I do. My portable is still being repaired, so tomorrow I am going to use a goose quill pen.

Halloween Carnival In Alanreed School

McLEAN (Special) — A Halloween Carnival in the Alanreed School has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Oct. 31 in the gymnasium, according to Mrs. Pierce Castleberry, president of the Alanreed Parent-Teacher Association.

All classes in the school are competing for the honor of electing their candidate as King and Queen of the Carnival. Election is by the "penny a vote" method, each class trying to outdo all of the others in raising funds for the school. PTA activities and improvements.

There are six candidates for the two honor places: Leroy Milham and Jeannine Lowe, first and second grades; Kenneth Morris and Retha Collins, third and fourth grades; Glen Cox and Tey Stubbs, fifth and sixth grades; Jimmy Cockerham and Peggy McCracken, freshmen and sophomores; and Jimmy Shaw and June Fish, juniors and seniors. Coronation ceremony is scheduled for 10:15 p.m. Customary carnival amusements will be available for the public.

THE FACE OF WAR—His lower jaw shattered by enemy gunfire on White Horse Mountain, this Republic of Korea soldier squats in the scant shelter of a bush near a first-aid station at the foot of the bitterly contested mountain. He stoically waits his turn to be evacuated to a rear-area hospital.

ing quiet and easy for President Garfield, shot by an assassin. He was being taken in an ambulance to the railroad station, en route to Elberon, N.J., for treatment. Local historians claim that the biggest inaugural parade was that of Grover Cleveland in 1885. Tammany Hall and Democrats from everywhere came to town to celebrate their party's first victory since before the Civil War. By that time the avenue had grown less fashionable. Many large businesses had begun to move uptown. The south side from 10th Street to the Capitol was becoming blighted.

The government eventually bought all the south side of the avenue in the downtown area and in the 1920s-30s built most of the monumental buildings that now border it.

But no matter how run-down or built-up the avenue was, the parades of presidents and heroes continued to file by.

In 1899 came Adm. Dewey, leading a two-day parade of Spanish-American War soldiers. After other wars came Pershing, Eisenhower, Nimitz, MacArthur, Lindbergh rode down the street in 1927.

Hurchler Americans had their hour here too. Coxey's army marched up the avenue after his long hike from Ohio. The bonus marchers passed that way in 1932.

Old Pennsylvania Avenue Has Its Day Again Next Jan. 20

WASHINGTON (AP)—No matter who wins in November Old Pennsylvania Avenue will have its day again Jan. 20.

Its younger and handsomer sister boulevard, Constitution Avenue, is stealing most of the Every president since Jefferson's capital's great parades, but—

Every president since Jefferson who has been sworn in on Capitol Hill has taken his first ride after the ceremony down the old highway. A Pennsylvania avenue parade has been ritual through nearly all the history of the republic. The ceremonial march down the historic mile between the Capitol and the White House caps the inauguration ceremony.

When French engineer, Maj. Charles Pierre L'Enfant, was appointed by President Washington to plan the federal city in 1791, about the first thing he did was to map Pennsylvania Avenue.

L'Enfant placed the Capitol site on Jenkins Hill, the White House in rising ground a little over a mile northwest, and connected the two with a 340-foot wide boulevard. For years it was above the only street in the city.

Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson referred to it as Pennsylvania Avenue in a letter in November, 1791. The name probably was chosen to appease the state which was then host to Congress, sitting in Philadelphia. Both "east-city" and New York were disappointed at not getting the seat of government. The other great avenue that began at the White House grounds was named New York.

The cornerstone for the White House was laid in 1792. In the summer of 1793 President Washington marched at the head of a Masonic procession in full regalia to lay the cornerstone of the White House. They waded through ankle-deep dust on a road called Pennsylvania Avenue alongside Tiber-Creek.

Five years later Congress violated an essential feature of the L'Enfant plan by building the first U. S. Treasury, a small, two-story brick structure, at the western end of the avenue, cutting off the vista to the White House.

President Andrew Jackson perpetuated this departure from the plan by placing the first unit of the present massive Treasury structure on the same site in 1836. "Old Hickory" got irritated at the prolonged hickering over where the new Treasury was to be built. He strutted out of the White House one day, walked one block east and stuck his cane in the ground.

"Put the cornerstone here," he commanded the architect. "Put it right here."

In 1801, elder bushes were cut down to mark the space for the broad new avenue. The city hung an oil lamp on a tree near the turn from the Capitol into Pennsylvania Avenue. Ditches were cut to drain the street. Logs were laid for a corduroy road. A stone archway spanned the street. He got Creek at nd Steet.

President Jefferson took quite Congress to appropriate $13,466 to improve it. He had the avenue partly graveled and planted a double row of Lombardy poplars.

Jefferson commenced his second term by leading the first inaugural procession along Pennsylvania Avenue. He rode horseback that morning in 1805 from the White House, accompanied by his secretary and groom, hitched his horse to a tree on the Capitol lawn and took the oath. The first formal inaugural parade was Madison's in 1809.

Jefferson's inauguration, intent on burning the Capitol, marched up the avenue five years later, after burning Madison's White House and the U. S. Treasury.

Jackson's inauguration in 1829 was a wild affair. The Democrats were bursting with excitement over their victory. Frontiersmen and War of 1812 veterans from the West poured into the city on horseback to honor the hero of New Orleans. They galloped up and down the avenue, shouting wartime slogans with wreaths of hickory leaves over their shoulders.

William Henry Harrison's inauguration parade in 1841 was a bit of a circus too. He had won the "log cabin and hard cider" campaign, so the avenue was filled with paraders in conksin caps drawing wagons carrying log cabins and cider barrels.

The avenue between the Capitol and the White House was then a center for hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, legal gambling, theaters, businesses houses and the city market, where slaves were regularly auctioned.

Lincoln rode up the avenue the night of April 1, 1865, to Ford's Theater, where John Wilkes Booth was waiting for him. Next morning the hearse that carried his body to the White House passed back along the avenue. A day later muffled drums followed his bier along Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol.

Hardly had the period of mourning ended before the avenue witnessed its biggest parade of all, the "Grand Review" of the Union armies. For two days, May 23 and 24, 1865, some 200,000 men marched by—when the population of the city was only 109,000. The veterans carried banners from 2,000 Civil War battlefields. Grant led them one day, Sherman the next.

In 1881 the avenue was spread with tanbark to make the rid-

Congress Urged To Ease Bars Against Foreign Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of several score professional societies and a government agency have urged that Congress make it easier for foreign scientists and scholars to attend conferences in this country.

Probably 50 per cent of those seeking to come here for short visits run into difficulties or delays, said Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation.

Howard A. Meyerhoff, administrative secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said that as a result American science is threatened with "becoming atrophied to the point where the national welfare and national security will suffer."

Meyerhoff and Waterman, appearing before the President's Commission on Immigration and Naturalization, proposed several revisions of the new McCarran-Walter Immigration Act to let down some of the bars which stirred a recent protest from a group of atomic scientists.

The new law, which becomes effective Dec. 24, was denounced by opponents in Congress as an anti-alien "exclusion" measure.

One suggestion advanced at the hearing was that scholarly visitors be exempted from extensive security checks, questionnaires and other administrative procedures to which immigrants are subjected.

Prof. Sidney Painter of Johns Hopkins University, speaking for the American Council of Learned Societies, proposed that American passport and immigration officials accept statements from foreign universities and research institutions vouching for scientists and scholars.

Waterman estimated that the number of scientific visitors to this country each year is probably less than 3,000.

"But the scientists who do come here are important to our scientific strength of all proportion to their number, for they consist, generally speaking, of the best scientific minds of the free world outside this country," he said, adding:

"Radar, the atomic bomb, jet aircraft and penicillin were perfected in the United States on the basis of discoveries and research in foreign countries to which we were given ready access."

Wave Of Criticism Is Whipping Across Red-Run Germany

BERLIN, Germany (AP) — "Where are the diapers?" "What's happened to the fish supply?" "All out of margarine again?" "Not even any wrapping paper in the stores!"

A wave of criticism against the supply and quality of consumer goods is whipping through Communist-ruled East Germany.

A survey of the Soviet zone's controlled press shows that this criticism is widespread. It hits so sharply at the state-controlled production and distribution systems that new purges of the planners may be impending.

Unlike booming West Germany, the Russian zone still has food rationing and shortages in many fields. Its economy is integrated with that of the Soviet bloc.

Much of its output goes to the Soviet Union. The Russians drain it off in reparations or in "trade" at rates fixed arbitrarily by Moscow.

Now this economy is further strained by the Communist government's strenuous efforts to expand and equip its new national army.

The public criticism makes no mention of Russia's exploitation of the East German economy. But it hits hard at the planners, the producers and especially the state-owned stores which control most of the distribution.

Communist party papers in Halle and Zwickau demand that "the quality of consumer goods be immediately improved by strict application of our new production methods" and insist on improvement of supply and service in the state-owned food stores to "give our people the better break which they deserve for their hard work."

In Schwerin, the Norddeutsche Zeitung complains angrily about the quality of sausage sold in the state-owned stores: "In a purchase of 100 grams we got 35 grams of skin."

Schwerin's Der Demokrat complains: "Again — no fish. Not even in the state stores. Where are they?"

A newspaper in Halle said there wasn't a shop in the city that had paper bags or wrapping paper for purchases.

Professor Advocates Singing In The Tub

ATLANTA (AP) — In the interest of the better life, an Emory University medical professor advocates more time for singing in the bath tub.

In an article in the October issue of the Emory University Quarterly, Dr. Herbert E. Alden, assistant professor of clinical medicine, wrote:

"We need more time for reading, relaxing and singing in the bath."

"Present-day bath methods and manners are such as to take us away from the physical and spiritual comforts of the lazy, time-less, restful immersion of our bodies, in tubs of warm water."

PREPARE TO DIVE? — No, just the opposite. Passengers aboard jam-packed buses in Hamburg, Germany, will no longer have to dive for the exit. Bus conductors, as the one seen above, will be able to eye the exit through a periscope, until all passengers clear the doors.

Does that tell-tale look on your face say change of life?

A great many women suffer "change of life" after forty. They tire easily, have "nerves", sleep poorly, are hard to live with. Their eyes and face get that "change" look.

Cardui has helped thousands of women to lose that "change" look. Cardui acts to (1) improve appetite, (2) build strength and resistance, (3) ease tension and nervousness — sleep better. Let triple-action Cardui help you feel better, look better and be your normal, cheerful self again. Get Cardui today. (See "Cardui" ad.)

Attempted Fix Hits Football

Guerillas Open Big Week Of Football At 7:30 Tonight

It's strictly a home week end of football this week for the Pampa teams. For the first time this season, all three will play at home on the same week end.

Tonight the B squad Guerillas make their seventh bid for their first win of the season. Their opponents tonight will be the Amarillo White Yarnigans again. Against two Yannigan clubs the Guerillas have gained one tie and been beaten once. Kickoff time tonight is 7:30 at Harvester Park. The Whites beat the Guerillas, 26-13, two weeks ago.

The probable starting lineup for the Guerillas will be the same as has started the others and show some improvement. At the ends will be Marion Stone and Benny Cartwright; at tackles will be Ben Sturgeon and Marvin Co-

Martindale Mat Winner

Tommy Martindale took all last night at the Southern Club as he came back to defeat So-ouya Oyama in the no-time-limit, grudge match.

Martindale, the popular Mill waukeener, wasted little time in gaining the advantage. He jumped on Oyama while the latter looked on. Oyama was running through his pre-flight dance ritual. Martindale turned the Japanese down, rolled him through the rolling cartwheel, pinned his shoulders, and had the first fall tucked away in less than four minutes after the first bell.

Oyama came hustling back to take the second fall with a Japanese arm bar after 20 minutes.

Coming out for the third and final fall, Oyama went right to work on that arm again. He gave it terrific punishment. But Martindale caught him at the right time, threw Oyama into the ropes, and shoved a shoulder pin onto him when he came off to win the event.

In the 45-minute semifinal event Herb Parks and Art Nelson battled through nearly the full time with Parks gaining a last minute victory. Parks took the first fall in 17 minutes with a reverse knee lock but lost the second in 21 minutes to a reverse body press after a series of knee drops. With only one minute left for the last fall, Parks went right to work on Nelson, finally forcing him to give up just before the bell sounded.

In the 45-minute semifinal event Herb Parks and Art Nelson battled through nearly the full time with Parks gaining a last minute victory. Parks took the first fall in 17 minutes with a reverse knee lock but lost the second in 21 minutes to a reverse body press after a series of knee drops. With only one minute left for the last fall, Parks went right to work on Nelson, finally forcing him to give up just before the bell sounded.

Maryland Players Report Offer To Fix Point Spread

By WARREN ROGERS JR., WASHINGTON (AP) — A University of Maryland junior, accused of trying to bribe a Maryland football star, has surrendered and faces a fugitive hearing in Washington today.

The sole exception was Rice Institute where Coach Jess Nece planned some extra work after watching his Owls in a dismal performance against a scrab team that ran Wisconsin plays with much success. Rice plays the Badgers Saturday.

The Owls — losers of four straight games — tried Billy Daniels and Lamone Holland at the vulnerable right half post, ridden badly by passes in the LSU, UCL, SMU and Texas games.

The Texas A & M Cadets worked late Wednesday night in their last hard scrimmage before taking on Arkansas at College Station Saturday night.

Hooper Unlikely Starter Coach Ray George worked on a method to stop the Arkansas offensive punch from the Split T and the Deep T. Still out of action — and an unlikely performer Saturday night — was Darrow Hooper, Aggie point-kicking specialist.

Coach Otis Douglas wound up rough contact work at Fayetteville and hoped his team was ready for the Aggies. The Porker-coach moved Floyd Sauerly to left end on the No. 1 offensive eleven to replace Jerry Bogard.

At Waco, Coach George Sauer of the Baylor Bears said his team would do more passing against Dutch Meyer's Texas Christian defending champs Saturday.

Sauer said the two remaining Bear drills before going to Fort Worth to meet TCU would stress passing and that there would be a lot of football in the air Saturday.

TCU Lineup Changed Meyer announced he would have a changed lineup for the Baylor game with Gil Barton, 1950 All-American, at fullback along with Ray McKeown at tailback and Glen Jones and Jack Ray at halves.

Regular TCU half John Harville, sidelined for three weeks with a knee injury, returned to contact work Wednesday, but is expected to see only limited duty against the Bruins.

Harrassing injuries kept the potent Texas Longhorns and Vols out. In a brief scrimmage session the Steers divided the time to sharpening the offense and working against Southern Methodist pass plays.

SMU Coach Lou Gehrig announced for a tackle in the game in Austin against the Longhorns as he sent the Ponies through their longest scrimmage session of the week Wednesday.

Five candidates for his outside tackle post have been injured and Gehrig said he might be forced to start Buford Partee, defensive guard, at the position. The Mustangs have been hampered with injuries all season.

SWC Teams Have It Easy

By CLAYTON HICKERSON Associated Press Staff Southwest Conference football teams generally took it easy Thursday, after two days of hard scrimmaging, and pointed to week end championship battles.

Workouts Ease As Pampa Tapers Off For Saturday Tilt

"If they haven't learned it by now, it's too late to teach them," the Harvester coaches said yesterday as the Green and Gold went through another light conditioning workout preparatory to their Saturday afternoon clash with the defending state champion Lubbock Westerners.

The workout was little more than 90 minutes, and there was no heavy contact at all. Quite a bit of the time was spent on extra point kicking, that little detail being one that could prove most important, this week end.

The game promises to be a complete sellout. All tickets sent to Lubbock were sold quickly, 605 through the air, and been all the reserved seats in Pampa are gone. Workmen erected some special bleachers Tuesday, and yesterday radiomen were busily engaged in improving the public address system.

Many Pampa fans were making plans to attend the Berger-Odesa game at Berger Friday night. That is also a complete sellout, and is one that could be important. Berger fans are confident of upsetting the Bronchos. In other games this week end Abilene is at Midland Friday night and San Angelo is at Amarillo Saturday afternoon.

By virtue of their net gain of 375 yards rushing against Midland last week end the Harvesters passed the one-mile mark in ground attack. They now have traversed a total of 1,811 yards rushing. They have added another 605 through the air, and been given 237 more by penalties against their opponents. This provides for a grand total of 2,650 yards for a grand total of 2,650 yards offense compared to 1,720 yards, one short of a mile, for their six opponents.

The leading per-try gainers have been the fullbacks, Jimmie Keel has average 6.7 yards per carry while David Enloe, with his brilliant performance last week, raised his average to 6.1. Ed Dudley continues to be the leading scorer, while Enloe has the slightly better punting average, though he has punted but three times.

Quarterback J. N. Wright has maintained the fine passing record of 44.5 per cent completions on 65 tosses.

Here is the complete individual statistical breakdown of the Green and Gold to date.

Squelch Rumor Russell To Get Fired As SMU Coach

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University never has fired a football coach and isn't about to start now, Dr. E. D. Mouszon, chairman of the faculty athletic committee, said today.

The head of the group that employs all coaches was answering unofficial reports that H. N. (Rusty) Russell would not be back as mentor of the Methodist football team next season and that Doak Walker, the former SMU All-American, would have the job.

"The faculty athletic committee has not, to my knowledge, mentioned anything having to do with the coaching situation at SMU," Dr. Mouszon said. "We are happy with what we have. We think Mr. Russell has done

Claassen Picks Texas, TCU, Michigan State As Winners

By HAROLD CLAASSEN NEW YORK (AP) — Last Saturday's many surprising winners among the college football teams merely reaffirmed that you spell "setups" and "upsets" with the same letters—it is just a matter of placement.

There were 41 correct selections among the 56 decisions, an average of 74. That dropped the season's figures to 193 correct, 65 incorrect for a mean of .778.

Here are this week end's selections:

Michigan State over Purdue; Michigan State is shooting for an unbeaten season. Purdue is shooting for the Rose Bowl trip.

Maryland over Boston University; Supposedly a grudge match. If no and Maryland has down the bars, the score could be fantastic.

Oklahoma over Iowa State; The Sooners much too good.

Georgia Tech over Duke; A pair of unbeaten powers.

California over UCLA; Johnny Oszelewski and his mates can't be stopped on successive week ends.

Ohio State over Northwestern; John Borton to be the hero as the rebounding Ohioans break Belmont turned in a 71.

Houston's Bobby Reigel, a veteran of the Mexican tournament, got a 73 Henri de la Haze, European champion, from Paris, France, also had a 73.

Hiskey Setting Mexican Pace

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Marion Hiskey, a star member of the North Texas State College golf team, led the way into the first rounds of the 27th Mexican Amateur Tournament today.

Hiskey's record-making 6 to medalist honors yesterday. He turned in a 32-33-65 over the par 72, 6,415-yard Mexico City country club course with superb putting his best weapon.

He had a four-stroke advantage over Don Cherry, New York City, Billy Maxwell, also of North Texas, and Jimmy McGonagill, Shreveport, La., who tied with 65.

The other North Texas State players were in the upper third of the qualifying round. Monte Sanders was ninth with par; Buster Reed, last year's medalist with 68, was in a nine-way tie for 19th with 74.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, and three times Mexican champion turned in a 73.

Two Dallas, Tex., entries, Jack Coyle and Don Addington, had 70's. Howard Johnson, Houston, Tex., Chris Gers, Oklahoma City, were tied at 71.

Top Mexican players Fernando Sala Garcia, Jaime Juarez, and Armando Rivera had 75's, while former champion Carlos

Less Than 21 points

According to signed statements by the three players, the student approached them individually and offered them a total of $1,500 to hold down the score for the point spread — a feature of the recent basketball fix scandals.

Maryland beat Louisiana State 34-6, a spread of 28 points. Cosgrove, at center, starts each play in Maryland's split T offense. He said he was offered $400, Earbath $100.

Maryland President H. C. Byrd said Coach Jim Tatum notified him last Friday, the day before the game, that the three players had reported being offered bribes.

Dr. Byrd said he wanted to announce it immediately, but was dissuaded by police who hoped to catch the alleged offender in the act and perhaps find out of any gambling ring was behind him.

"At any rate," Dr. Byrd said, "this shows emphasis to games they had better leave college football players alone."

Tatum said that, before playing Louisiana State, all his players discussed for the game were asked to sign affidavits stating whether or not they had been approached with any bribe offers. All signed that they had not, except Scarlath, Cosgrove and Navarro.

Put Cotton Bowl Checks In Mail

DALLAS (AP) — Tomorrow is the day to start mailing applications for tickets to the Cotton Bowl football game.

There are only 25,000 tickets to be sold and applications for tickets will be accepted by mail only between Nov. 1 and Nov. 4 at the office of the Cotton Bowl, 1129 National City Building, Dallas.

Tickets will be limited to four per person and each application must be accompanied by a check and self-addressed stamped return envelope. The price is $4.80 per ticket with a 25-cent mailing fee to be included in the check.

When the application period expires, unfiled applications closes a drawing will be held to determine the order in which ticket applications will be filled. When the supply of tickets is limited, they will be returned with the original checks.

Applications over Montana State, Sanford over San Jose, Washington over Oregon State, Brigham Young over Wyoming.

District 5-4A Has Important Tilt On Tap This Week, Too

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor Heavy, heavy hangs over the heads of the high and mighty of Texas schoolboy football this week.

Only 34 undefeated, untied teams remain as the campaign passes into its final five weeks and perhaps a third of those will be on the sidelines when the firing cases Saturday night.

Most prominent to fall will be either Lubbock or Pampa; two of the three undefeated, untied teams left in Class AAAA. They play each other in the explosive District 1 race where Lubbock defending state champion, can just about sew things up if it topples the hurrying Harvesters.

Wildita Falls, the third undefeated, untied team in Class AAAA, could run into trouble, too. The Coyotes play Waco at Waco and the latter is a tough one to handle.

In Class AAA the feature game pits Temple with Corsicana in Temple Friday night. Temple is rated the top team of Texas, all classes considered but it will be

Duck Season Gets Underway Friday

AUSTIN (AP) — A big turnout is expected for duck and goose hunting that begins at noon tomorrow.

That's the prediction of Texas Game Commission Executive Secretary Howard Dodgen.

Dodgen said the drought may make it tough on hunters to find birds. Tanks, ponds and some lakes have dried up. Recent mill weather has also postponed the southward movement of the main body of birds.

Hunters were urged to be extremely careful with fire. The drought has turned woods and fields into tinder boxes.

The bag limits are five ducks a day in possession, or five geese per day or in possession. Shooting hours after the first day are from one-half hour before sunrise until one hour before sunset.

Dodgen reminded hunters to attach the $2 federal duck stamp to their state hunting licenses, to adhere to all safety rules and to observe regulations generally.

Gottlog Setting Lone Star Marks

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Don Gottlob, Sam Houston State's great quarterback, already has beaten the Lone Star Conference total offense record and he has three more games yet to play.

Gottlob, the national total offense leader, has averaged 283.2 yards yet to play.

Already the Bearcat star has 1,701 yards, 1,691 of it by passing. That's almost 350 yards better than the all-time total offense record in the conference. Sam Houston lost to East Texas State, 57 to 33, last week end but like everyone else, the Lions can't find a defense for Gottlob's deadly passing. He completed 20 of 41 passing attempts for 381 yards and four touchdowns — his finest performance of the year.

After six games, four of which Sam Houston has won, Gottlob has completed 96 of 179 throws. On three occasions he has gained more than 300 yards passing and only once has he been held below 200 yards, that coming in Sam Houston's opening game of the season against Louisiana College when he attempted only 14 — seven of them complete for 108 yards.

Gottlob is more than 300 yards ahead of his nearest national competitor.

Cecil B., A Vigorous 71, Plans His Next Biblical Epic For 1955

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cecil B. DeMille, still leading a vigorous life at 71, is planning his next Biblical epic to hit the screens in 1955.

That was disclosed by the film-making wizard when I talked with him in his memento-packed office. He interrupted a busy day working day to discuss his next project, "The 10 Commandments."

"About this time next year, I expect to have a crew shooting backgrounds in Egypt," he explained. "We plan to shoot at Mt. Sinai and other real locations, and I may go alone. The following spring, 1954, I will start the filming of the story here in Hollywood. That will take about six months, and the cutting and scoring takes about a year. That will bring us into late 1955.

"The actual shooting is the easiest part of making a picture. It is here in the production office that the picture is really created. A good story is everything. If you have that, the director and the stars do not make much difference. They can help the picture a little or hurt it a little. But they can't make a good script into a bad picture or

Politicos Can Improve Hairline

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—The TV appearance of President Truman and the presidential candidates leaves something to be desired, at least in the opinion of one barber here.

Rupert Juriga says someone has run a pair of clippers high along the sides of Mr. Truman's head. "I don't know why he permits it," he said. "The President should taper from the top down, with no high ear line. Noboy on television should have a high ear line with a razor."

About Gen. Eisenhower he said, "The general does not have much hair up on top and should not let it grow too much on the sides. It is white there on the sides."

"Now Gov. Stevenson has none up on top," Juriga said, "so his haircuts all are done so that the hair on the sides grows back thickly so that it even grows over the ears. This should not be done. He should taper, too."

Marrying Russ Playboy Pays Alimony, Lives Well

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia explained today how Vasily Kutryumov—a marrying playboy of the Kuznetsk Basin—could pay out half his salary in alimony and still live mighty well indeed.

"Embezzlement and theft" did it, said Izvestia, recommending as a remedy "U. K."—the initials of the Russian words for criminal code.

The Izvestia disclosures were the latest in a series of exposes of scandalous behavior that have been appearing in the Moscow press since high Communist officials ordered a cleanup of officials found using their positions to better themselves or their friends or relatives.

Izvestia's story about Kutryumov said he had been found short-weighting and overcharging

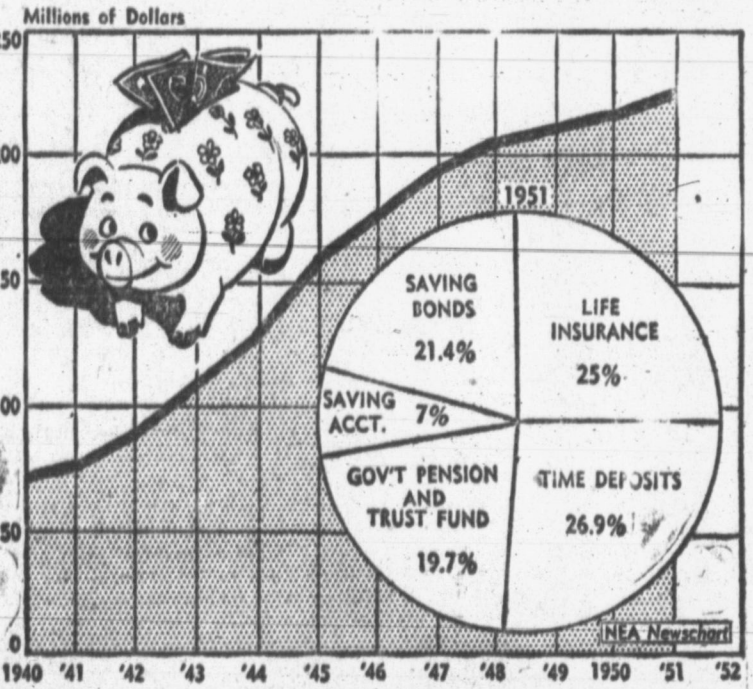

In 1938 he wed Shura. In 1940 he divorced her and married Marusa, lived with her five months and left her. He returned to Shura, lived with her four months and then left her.

He fell in love with Citizeness "Y" but soon became disappointed with her and walked out. He then married Citizeness "P" but divorced her when she refused to bring home money from the bank in which she worked as a cashier. Finally he settled on Vera. But having become a public acrobat, he lost his job and left town without a forwarding address in hopes of avoiding alimony payments.

Kutryumov did not fare well outside-of-Topki, however, so he returned to become director of the restaurant. And although he pays about one half of his salary for the support of numerous children, he dresses well, has built a home, has bought himself a cow and "in general needs no money"

Not Oil But Justice . . . Defending The Country Or Snatching Revenues?

By H. MEWHINNEY
Houston Post Staff Writer

"We assume that as a republic she (Texas) had not only full sovereignty over the marginal sea but ownership of it, of the land underlying it, and of all the riches which it held. . . . We hold that as an incident to the transfer of that sovereignty any claim that Texas may have had to the marginal sea was relinquished to the United States."

—Associate Justice William O. Douglas, Majority Opinion, Texas Case, June 5, 1950.

"The court now decides that when Texas entered the Union she lost what she had and the United States acquired it. How that shift came to pass remains for me a puzzle."

—Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter, Dissenting Opinion, Texas case.

"The necessity for the United States to defend the land and to handle international affairs is not enough to transfer property right in the marginal sea from Texas to the United States."

—Associate Justice Stanley Reed, Dissenting Opinion, Texas case.

And there you have the whole argument in a nutshell, except for one little thing.

Justice Frankfurter need not have wondered how the ownership shifted when Texas was admitted in 1845. No such event occurred then. It occurred when Justice Douglas delivered that majority opinion on June 5, 1950.

Perhaps the reader grows weary of all these quotations from the lawbooks, of all these fine-spun constitutional distinctions. Nevertheless, they are necessary and what comes next will be pretty much the same sort of stuff.

For instance: The 48 states fall naturally into three classes.

a) The Original Thirteen entered by a compact among themselves, that compact being the United States Constitution.

b) All the others except Texas were formed from land acquired in one way or another by the United States.

c) Texas entered by a compact equivalent to a treaty.

Only three states have been sued for their offshore lands and these three (of course) are oil states.

The Supreme Court's decision against California was delivered on June 23, 1947. The majority was 6-2. Associate Justice Hugo Black wrote the majority opinion. In it he held that not even the 13 original colonies acquired ownership of their offshore lands when they won their independence from the English crown; that ownership was not acquired until later and then by the federal government only; that California, as formed from territory acquired by the United States, could have no right not possessed by the Original Thirteen.

Justices Reed and Frankfurter dissented.

The essence of Justice Reed's dissent is contained in a single sentence: "The authorities cited in the court's opinion lead me to the conclusion that the original (13 states owned the lands under the seas to the three-mile limit."

The decisions in the Texas and Louisiana cases were delivered on June 5, 1950.

Louisiana, like California, was formed from territory acquired by the United States — acquired, specifically, by Mr. Jefferson's Louisiana Purchase. The precedent established by the California case was accordingly followed and the court ruled unanimously against Louisiana, 7-0. Justices Jackson and Clark did not participate.

The decision against Texas went by the narrow margin of 4-3. Justices Reed and Frankfurter — who had dissented in the California case three years earlier — now again dissented. Justice Sherman Minton, who had not been a member of the court when the California case was heard, joined in the dissenting opinion written by Justice Reed.

Justice Reed's opinion states the essence of the matter so clearly that part of it might well be quoted here. He said:

The necessity for the United States to defend the land and to handle international affairs is not enough to transfer property rights in the marginal sea from Texas to the United States.

Federal sovereignty is paramount within national boundaries, but federal ownership depends on taking possession, as the California case holds; on consent, as in the case of places for federal use; or on purchase, as in the case of Alaska or the territory of Louisiana.

The needs of defense and foreign affairs alone cannot transfer ownership of an ocean bed from a state to the federal government any more than they could transfer iron ore under uplands from state to federal ownership.

National responsibility is no greater in respect to the marginal sea than it is toward every other particle of American territory.

In my view, Texas owned the marginal sea by virtue of its original proprietorship; it has not been shown to my satisfaction that it lost it by the terms of the resolution of annexation.

I would deny the United States motion for judgment.

Justice Reed's dignified language might be paraphrased into something a little blunter: "The claim that national defense requires the Interior Department to collect oil royalties is a flat absurdity. Against any enemy whomsoever, the federal government is committed to defend every creek and cow pasture in this country — every clod and pebble — inland or offshore.

Thus far, of course, only three oil-producing states have been sued for paramount right (as the court and the solicitor general call it) over their offshore lands.

But the majority opinion in the California case held that not even the Original Thirteen owned their offshore lands; all three decisions have vested the federal government with paramount right, not merely over oil royalties, but also over everything else

BUTTONS AN' BEAUX SHARON SMITH

"This is Johnny — we have a lot in common"

on or under such lands; and as time goes on an increasing awareness develops of what that language means.

From the many available examples, let a single quotation suffice here. This is from a letter written last May to the New York Times by Robert Moses, city construction co-ordinator for New York:

"No public issue of our time has received less intelligent attention from the press than the 'tidelands' controversy. The federal oil bonanza created by the Supreme Court at the expense of the traditional rights of California, Louisiana and Texas seems to have completely seduced popular opinion and the press, too, for the time being.

"Like Russian peasants chanting a nationalization decree, they keep chanting that this treasure trove belongs to all of us and that it would be a crime against the people to turn it back to the states and other predatory interests. . . .

"Here in New York that ruling may cloud the city's title to the submerged lands on which its piers and other waterfront improvements stand. . . . Large sections of the Shore Parkway in Brooklyn were built on filled-in land, and Orchard Beach and Ferry Point Park are situated on lands reclaimed from Long Island Sound.

"At Coney Island and at Staten Island's Great Kills Park extensive park and recreational areas have been created and developed by filling in lands which not long ago were ocean bottom below the low-water mark."

Naturally, the people here in Texas will be less interested than Mr. Moses in the paramount right which the federal government is now entitled to exercise over the parks fringing Coney Island.

A more picturesque example stands much closer.

The late Sam Maceo's blue-chip gambling joint on the seaward side of Galveston Island is standing on those same tidelands that Mr. Moses is talking about. It is on the end of a long pier protruding well beyond the low-tide mark.

Sam built that pier so long so

Banana Oatmeal Cookies

BANANA OATMEAL COOKIES

Makes 4 dozen cookies

- 1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening, soft
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup mashed bananas (2 or 3 ripe bananas)
- 1 1/2 cups Mother's Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, spices and sugar into bowl. Add shortening, eggs and about half the mashed bananas. Beat until creamy, about 2 minutes. Fold in remaining bananas and rolled oats. Drop by spoonfuls onto greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Women's Interest In Election Noted

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

On Halloween when ghosts and goblins are ringing doorbells for "treats or tricks," you'll want to be prepared. There's no easier way to send those fun-loving youngsters off in good spirits than to have a real treat for them.

Orange Puff is the ideal dessert — it's nourishing and a favorite with the children. If you're having a party at your house on Halloween, serve Orange Puff with frosted doughnuts and cider. The children will be glad they rang your doorbell.

ORANGE PUFF
4 marshmallows
1-4 cup dates
2 cups milk (not canned)
1 package orange rennet powder

Cut marshmallows and dates into small pieces. Combine and divide among 4 or 5 custard cups or paper cups. Warm milk slowly in lukewarm, stirring constantly. Test a drop on the inside of your wrist frequently. When it feels comfortably warm (110 degrees F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Stir in entire contents of package at one time. Mix until powder is dissolved — not over one minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, over marshmallows and date in individual dishes. Do not disturb for about 10 minutes, while milk sets. Then chill in refrigerator until serving time.

Homemaker Can Learn Flower Arrangement

The busy homemaker with little time for formal classes in flower arranging can use flowers expertly and charmingly by following a few simple principles, as outlined by leading authorities.

Fit the arrangement to the background and setting against which it is to be seen. The architecture, colors and furnishings of the house are the cue to scale, color and style of the arrangement.

Early American or Provincial rooms call for simple garden flowers, arranged interestingly and informally in sturdy containers. Geraniums, golden rod, berries and pine suggest themselves. Colored glass, with handcrafted cracked and textured effects, makes appropriate containers.

Traditional furnishings, including the popular 18th Century, suggest elegant flowers such as roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, lilies, with grape leaves or other handsome foliage, in conventional arrangements in elegant containers. Crystal vases, urns and epergnes are appropriate containers.

WILLIAMSBURG CRYSTAL
Crystal candelabra used with the flower arrangement as part of a table centerpiece give an authentic feeling to a formal 18th Century table. At the Colonial Williamsburg Restoration in Virginia, flowers, foliage and fruit are often arranged on the table around the base of the vase and candelabra. Crystal used here is authentic American handmade glass faithfully reproducing that of the Colonial period.

In a modern-style house, the styled arrangement is appropriate. It uses exotic flowers and foliage, with sharp color contrasts. A plain heavy container is most appropriate. For this, chunky, heavy modern crystal is superb. Contemporary glasshouses in the U. S. are turning out pieces especially designed for modern American homes.

Any arrangement should be scaled to the size of the room itself. When several arrangements are used in a room, one should be the main focal point, the other secondary. It is, of course, better to have too few in a room than too many.

LIGHT AND DARK
With any style or period of furnishings, use dark flowers in the picture.

For the first time in history more women than men have registered to vote this year in New York City. The board of elections announced there are 1,761,448 registered women voters in the city, as compared with 1,754,849 men.

From the Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls who are volunteering as baby sitters for mothers who want to go to the polls, to octogenarians who are having a whale of a good time getting their first taste of active politics, the women are making their presence felt this time.

Typical of the new attitude is Mrs. Donald McDonald, a young mother of Dumont, N. J., whose husband is an active member of the local campaign committee.

Unable to volunteer for doorbell-ringing or sound-truck speaking because she is the most recent home-caring for her baby, Mrs. McDonald thought up a way she could help at home. She invited 20 neighbors in for an evening of doughnuts, coffee and political discussion, pledging each to go home and invite more people to a similar party, the object being to sign up all guests for similar parties, ad infinitum.

Says she: "This chain reaction party technique can really get into astronomical figures, even in the short time remaining before election."

Skellytown C-Scouts Have Dinner-Meeting

Pack 9 Cub Scouts of Skellytown met Friday night in the I. O. O. F. Hall for its monthly pack meeting. A potluck dinner was held and new Cubs welcome into the pack.

Approximately 75 members and their families attended. Mr. R. C. Heaton presented awards to the Cubs and Mrs. Ray Witcher, den mother supervisor, presented Mother badges to Mrs. Jasper and Mrs. Buford McGee.

Mr. Venent Hobbs, of Berger, visited the meeting and lead the boys in group singing. A skit on "strength" was presented by Mrs. Miles Pearson's den.

Bobby Smith was presented a Den Chiefs Cord, by Mrs. Bardock.

THOUGHTS

God reigns, and will "turn and overturn" until right is found supreme.

—Mary Baker Eddy
All overmuch governing kills the self-help and energy of the governed.

—Wendell Phillips
The proper function of a government is to make it easy for the people to do good and difficult for them to do evil.

—Gladstone
That is the most perfect government under which a wrong to the humblest is an affront to all.

—Solon
Government is not mere advice; it is authority with power to enforce its laws.

—Washington
No matter what theory of the origin of government you adopt, if you follow it out to its legitimate conclusions it will bring you face to face with the moral law.

MATURE PARENT

Last spring, Mr. Davis lost several thousand dollars in a poor investment. As a result, his son Jack has had to plan to enter the state university this fall instead of the expensive private college three of his friends are going to.

Jack has deeply resented this change of plan. Since it was made, he has had very little to say to his father.

The other night, when he came home from a date with his crowd, he said goodnight to his mother and went upstairs, pointedly ignoring his father.

When his door had slammed, Mrs. Davis looked at her husband and began to cry. She said, "You can't blame the boy, Ed. His heart was set on the other school. He's only got one life to live. Isn't there anything you can do?"

Mr. Davis decided there was. The next morning he went down to the bank and took out a mortgage on his home. Though his head throbbed with one of his blinding headaches, though his hand shook as he signed the papers, it never occurred to him to throw down his pen and say, "No, I am not going to mortgage my future for an insufficient reason! I, too, have only one life to live!"

This is because Mr. Davis has got into the habit of deprecating himself. It has betrayed him into giving his son a bad example for the solution of financial mistakes. It has led him to conspire with that son's irresponsibility.

If he had not got into this wicked habit, he would have said to his boy, "You go to state college this term and give mother and me a chance to save again. Back me up — and we'll all pull out of this doldrum together."

He is incapable of defending his right to live the one life he's been given as he really wants to live it because he is firmly convinced that parents are only good to serve as fuel on the altar of sacrifice for children.

This kind of self-contempt lurks back of much of our over-anxiety to insure their futures at the cost of our own. It is doubt of our own growth, our own progress that impels us to over-extend our strength to cater to young irresponsible demands.

It is self-deprecation that whispers to us, "You've had your chance and muffed it. You better get on somebody else now. As a person that counts, you're done."

Like other people, children rate us according to the value we put upon ourselves. If we infect them with contempt for our worth, if we panic with fear of our ability to patiently rectify our mistakes, if we do not trust in the steady unfolding of our creative powers, they will write us off as dead ducks, too.

Like any other creditor who smells bankruptcy in the wind, they will besiege us with complaints and demands.

The day you and I remember that we are equally the children of God, along with our boys and girls, will be a fine day for them. The day we can love enough to trust our own tomorrow as faithfully as we trust theirs, we will begin to produce happier, more confident, more grateful and more loving sons and daughters.

The best university in the world will not be able to undo the hurt done to Jack Davis by his parents' false love. He will have to wait for life's stern instruction to teach him that no man profits by the enslavement of another.

Delicious dinner: Baked ham, fried apple rings, creamed spinach, and squares of hot cornbread.

RUTH MILLETT

For several years now I have been advocating that the only way for parents to hold teenagers in line is to get together on a set of rules and stick by them. Otherwise the teen-agers high-pressure their parents into letting them go against the parents' better judgment with such arguments as "everybody goes there," "I'm the only one in the crowd who has to be in by such and such a time," "If I can't do what the other kids do, then I'll just be left out of everything."

So I was glad to read in a recent Saturday Evening Post about a town where the majority of parents have agreed to see that their teen-agers abide by a set of general rules concerning their social life.

After a year's trial, parents reportedly are pleased with the set-up and teen-agers have come to accept it.

Town by town, and in larger cities, high school by high school, the same kind of set-up could be worked out.

Parents Feel Helpless

The average parent is in a somewhat helpless position when he tries to buck the teen-age problem alone. He doesn't want to embarrass his child and make him feel "different." He doesn't want to lose his child's confidence because the child feels he just doesn't "understand."

And so the individual teenager gets to do what the crowd does and the parents shake their heads and deplore the situation.

All parents really need to do is to unite — as the teen-agers unite — and set up some standards and say "Now, kids, this is how it is going to be."

It isn't that teen-agers feel any particular urge to drink, stay out beyond a reasonable hour or have lunchaperoned parties. Their main urge is to fit in with the crowd — not to be "different" from the gang. So when parents unite on a set of standards, they can have some control over their high schoolers without making their children "different" from the gang.

When you fry foods such as potatoes in deep fat, dry them thoroughly to prevent splattering.

Jersey-Orlon In The News

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Jersey, it's clear by now, has an assured place in fashion for fall and winter.

But the jersey story takes on new aspects when orlon is added, thus producing a fabric that cannot sag or stretch. It is a fabric, further, that needs very little ironing and is washable with ordinary care. Where there are pleats, they stay in. Hemlines will not become uneven; cuffs and necklines keep their smooth fit.

Such fashions are of special interest to the college girl and to her career — girl counterpart. Neither have unlimited funds for permanent pleats,

J. B. Maguire presented a program on citizenship with a talk on women and property rights at the Varietas Study Club meeting at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of hostess, Mrs. Ralph Thomas.

Mrs. H. P. Dosier opened the meeting, leading the recital of the club collect.

A monetary gift was sent to state headquarters.

Since opening of Highland General Hospital the Varietas club has maintained a library for patients. It was announced that the shelves are now completely filled with books for both children and adults.

Mrs. Otis Nace introduced Maguire who emphasized the importance of wives investing money in these days of the shrinking dollar and increased life span of women. He gave the difference between saving and investing and also discussed the rights of husbands and wives in regard to the community property. The speaker defined types of wills and gave advantages of making wills.

A question and answer period followed the talk.

Answering roll call were Mrs. H. H. Butler, J. G. Doggett, H. P. Dosier, H. P. Hampton, Lee Marrah, J. A. Hopkins, Dow King, Otis Nace, J. R. Spearman, Thomas, J. C. Vollmert, W. A. Wagoner and Sherman White.

Fashion Footnotes For Fall Season

You'll fall for the stockings for fall. They're just about the prettiest in years, combining high style with the widest color range in many a season and (this is news) with knit-in extra wear, even in sheers.

For although we women love beautiful hosiery, we like our stockings to be durable, too. And so we're welcoming the new nylon crepes which cling more closely to the leg, fit without sliding, look duller, and wear longer.

A permanent wave in the nylon thread gives us better stretch and longer wear, for it makes the thread more resilient and saug-resistant. Thanks to new processes, too, the new nylon crepes end all cares about twisted seams. That takes a lot of worry off the minds of busy girls.

Colors for fall are dessert shades: brown betty, a rich brown for beige, copper and the medium browns; coffee dessert for the darker browns, blues, and grays; bisque tortoni for medium blues, browns and green; and a luscious tawny apricot whip to spark all shades of green, spice brown, red, and black.

To gild the lily, there's a vast variety of novelty styles to make our fabulous American nylons more glamorous than ever. Supplementing the lace-designed heels of other years, this fall presents pastel heels, as well as navy, brown, and black. Many stockings have almost invisible reinforcement of foot and heel for party wear.

Coming up as a brand-new novelty is "front" decoration, marching straight up the front of the leg. However, novelty and decorated styles appear restrained for fall and take a back seat to color and crepe construction.

'Summer's fine for casual living, but fall demands a return to good grooming and careful dressing. Stockings are as much an aid to fashion and beauty as a new permanent or a good girdle.

The next meeting will be Nov. 4 in the club house when the social committee will be hostess at a guest tea.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Play Depends On Good Clubs

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's opening bid of one no-trump in today's hand shows a hand with balanced distribution, a stopper in at least three suits, and 16 to 18 points.

North has a count of 18 points, together with a five-card suit for good measure. He knows that the combined count is 34 to 36 points — enough for a small slam, but not for a grand slam.

Correct play of the cards justifies this bold bidding. The play all hinges on the proper management of the club suit.

South needs four club tricks to make his contract. He should play this suit in such a way as to assure four tricks even against bad breaks.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of spades and follow by laying down the ace of clubs! A small club is now led toward the South hand.

If East plays the ten, South can win with the king and return the nine of clubs to force out the queen. Dummy's jack of clubs will then clear the suit, setting up dummy's last low club.

If East plays a low club at the third trick, South must finesse the nine. As the cards lie, the finesse would win and South would then be on Easy Street. If the cards were differently divided, so that the finesse of the nine of clubs lost, the suit would then break 3-2 and South would still be sure of four club tricks.

This line of play would succeed also even if West happened to hold four clubs to the queen. East would have to discard on the second round of clubs, whereupon South would be warned to put up his king. It would then be easy to return a club to the king and return the nine of clubs to force out the queen. Dummy's jack of clubs will then clear the suit, setting up dummy's last low club.

Spends 41 Years On 'The Spenders'

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A slow reader must have spent a lot of time on a book called "The Spenders" — it was returned to the public library 41 years overdue.

D. A. Rhyner found the book in a cabin. The check-out date read Sept. 30, 1911. Rhyner figured the borrower owes $747.55 in fines.

"If you can collect, I will gladly accept half," he told the library.

If you use wax on your floors, apply it sparingly and rub down to a hard dry finish. Too much wax or too little buffing makes floors slippery.

Even Food Front

NEW YORK (AP) — Parson a diet who dine out will no longer have to get themselves in a dither over whether the food on the hotel menu is fattening — at least not at the Hotel Edison.

Next to each dish on the menu will be listed the number of calories it contains. In addition, a note at the top of the menu will give the dieting woman the advice that they limit themselves to 800 calories for the meal, while dieting men shouldn't have more than 1,200.

Miss Florence Ludy Gives Talk In Pampa

Guest speaker for the Pampa district meeting of the Amarillo Presbyterial this week was Miss Florence Ludy, West Central area secretary of National Missions in the Presbyterian Church.

The Women's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church, Pampa, acted as hostess.

Joining in the program Wednesday of planning, inspiration and worship were women from Memphis, Canadian, Borger, White Deer, McLean, Childress, Dumas, Hereford, Canyon and Pampa.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Lee Foster, Canyon.

Luncheon was served in the basement of the church. Decorations and table service followed a "round-up" theme.

Approximately 100 women were present for the gathering.

Troubled East Topic Of Civic Culture Club

"Iran, The Hot Spot of the East," was the topic chosen by the Civic Culture Club at a meeting at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Henry Link, 1704 Hamilton.

Mrs. W. A. Shackleton, program leader, commented, "Russia is watching with glee Iran's dispute with Britain over the oil."

Roll call was answered with current events by Mmes. Erwin Cole, Emmette Gee, Lloyd Kuntz, A. C. Houchin, Leo Paris, M. M. Moyer, W. C. Scott, Willis White, H. W. Waters, Kinzer, W. A. Shackleton and A. D. Hills.

Quote, Unquote

A brace of New Deal beaters, bagmen and busboys have been climbing all over Allan Shivers and Price Daniel for "bolting" the Democratic party.

Reading from bad to worse, they are Lyndon Johnson, Sam Rayburn, Tamm Connolly and Alben Barkley — a far cry, to be sure, from the Ivy League Oakties who ran around with the New Deal back in the days when she was a fast gal with her own hair and teeth, but they're about the best the Party can muster at the moment. No gal's gonna keep her figure for 20 years leading the kind of life the New Deal has. And as her figure goes to pot, the potter her escorts get.

It figures. About all that's left now are some worn-outs and Eager Beavers — ancient fuds and young hellions who are red-hot in the Eager department but spotty performers.

Back in the old days, the Squire wouldn't have wasted a broad "a" on any one of them; and boys like Lyndon Johnson, as he is known in Washington, would have been sharpening pencils for Corcoran & Cohen.

It's the kind of team you saw in the ball parks during the war: Kids and 4-F's. Strictly bushers.

All of which leads up to Adlai Stevenson, Hahvahd's answer to the Common Man, a sort of Hank Wallace with smart.

Adlai is letting the gutter-fighters do the eye-gouging and knuckle-busting for him. (Fellows like Harry Truman, a veteran of the Kansas City style of donnybrook.) Adlai remains aloof from it all, putting out wisecracks and trying to pose and posture like a Will Rogers in striped pants.

Only trouble with Adlai is he has been suckered by some of his Union League friends with far-left hankering. He's put into the record a few remarks which sort of mess up the party's attack on Shivers and Daniel.

Back in 1940, Adlai was one of the performers in the New York Herald-Tribune's annual "forum." The forum gives a bunch of intellectuals a chance to take off shoes and wiggle their toes like big, loveable schoolboys on the river bank. And each wiggle is recorded as another gem of wisdom and reported at great length in the papers.

What Adlai said in 1949 — October 24 it was — is a little hard to take, in view of what Tom Connolly and Alben Barkley are putting out now.

For instance, Barkley said last week: "I would despise myself tonight and on Nov. 4 if I was unable to support the Democratic party in its hour of need. . . . A man who retains the Democratic label and votes Republican is like a woman who retains her husband's name and bestows her favors on the man across the street."

Listen, now, to what Presidential Candidate Adlai Stevenson had to say in 1949:

"They have touched a great weakness in our political thinking — the reliance on labels, the lazy preference for catch phrases over the rigors of rational thought and self-analysis. I don't think that people in the mass really put much stock in labels. . . . In the privacy of the voting booth at any rate, I think the images of both the donkey and the elephant are fading as infallible beacons on the path to truth."

No matter how thin you slice that, Dear Alben, it ain't going to taste good if the GOP is smart enough to make you eat it.

Now let's take a quote by Tamm Connolly on Oct. 18, 1952:

"We will not tolerate disloyalty to the principles of the Democratic party. These principles are eternal, not fashioned for a campaign."

Now, here's what the presidential candidate said in 1949:

"If the Democratic party is not good for the nation, it is not good for me or for Democrats."

And then Adlai made the most damfool statement of the age:

"I have no fixed principles by which every issue is to be automatically resolved. Isn't that a lulu? The man has no fixed principles. Must not even be a Democrat then, according to Old Tamm."

What a President he'd make! And last but not least (don't leave now, it's almost over) — what sort of Democrat is Adlai?

In his own words: "I don't know."

Here is the whole quote:

"Now, if anyone can make out of all that what kind of a Democrat I am, I hope he'll tell me, because I don't know — perhaps a 'liberal,' a label which has been appropriated by the most every politician of both parties, because it is the most fashionable and harmless nowadays."

Well, there you have it: Fashionable, liberal and without principles. Whatta triple-threat man this Adlai is. If he just swilled the right brand he might qualify for Man of Distinction.

Maybe the fellow will be elected President; and maybe it's a cardinal sin to vote against such a guy if you live south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Adlai says it's not. But he hasn't been around like Old Tamm and Dear Alben. If there are any "sins of omission," those two birds ought to know!

Antidote For Pressure Groups
A newspaper that cannot stand up against pressure groups is of little value to its readers.

Possibly most readers think that the pressure groups come from advertisers, but the fact of the matter is that advertisers do not advertise in a newspaper because they like a newspaper — they advertise in a newspaper in order to make more profits. If a newspaper has a good circulation and the respect of its readers, the advertisers will patronize the newspaper.

Responsibility of Newspaper
At a meeting of the Newspaper Publishers' Association of Pennsylvania they had considerable to say at this meeting on the real functions of a newspaper. Ben Reese, former managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, spoke on the subject of "The Responsibility of the Newspaper at the Community Level" and had this to say:

"A newspaper which attempts with all its might to make its community a decent place in which to live will be something more than a common carrier of news. . . . In due time it will become a positive force in the community so deeply entrenched in the hearts of its readers that no pressure groups can undermine its position, its profits, or its prestige."

"God help this nation if its newspapers ever decide they have no responsibility for honesty in government. For then we may be sure that influence peddlers, greedy private interests, slimy politicians, corrupt officials, gamblers and racketeers will steal the country as soon as they can get their itching fingers on it."

Profit Necessary
"I hope we all agreed that a newspaper's first objective must be to stay out of red ink and pay a reasonable return upon investment."

"Until that point is reached a newspaper sometimes is nothing more than a commercial enterprise, a factory for putting words on paper and an agency for distributing the product to the public."

Judging Newspaper
Then Mr. Reese goes on to say: "It is in the light of these possibilities, and not in the light of mechanical equipment, size of issue or volume of circulation that newspapers should be judged."

Various Pressure Groups
There are many pressure groups seeking to influence the editorial policy and content of newspapers. They include of course the politicians, the labor union groups, tax supported school groups, the Parent - Teachers groups, certain renegade religious groups and various groups that want special legislation passed to give them the opportunity to make a living on a non-competitive basis.

A newspaper is not self-supporting and is supported from an outside source is not a real newspaper. It is an adjunct to the group that is supporting the newspaper.

Newspapers supported under contract by the International Typographical Union are not newspaper operated for profit from the newspaper but are operated for profit in getting a fictitious wage and in their ability to rob the readers of the newspapers. Their profit is in special wage privileges rather than from direct profit from the newspaper.

As Col. McCormack said, a newspaper is a daily publication and not a profit out of the newspaper and meant from an indirect activity.

"At the same meeting John R. Herbert, managing editor of the Quincy Patriot Ledger, said in his address that he was afraid of newspapers. He thought a newspaper should be labeled a daily shopping guide so the subscribers will not be confused. It's nothing short of disgraceful that a newspaper should be willing to sit back and do nothing while politicians wreck a community."

"If you are honest, fair, courageous and dig deep, the politicians may not like you but they will respect you. The public will know you are working for its best interests."

"In trying to do our job properly we sometimes incur the hatred of people in political office. This is as it should be; I would be a worried newspaper editor if the politicians were always praising the press."

"But this dislike of the press by politicians should not be based on a feeling that we have no principles. Rather their dislike should find its basis in the feeling that no matter who they try to cover, we will uncover."

Yes, a newspaper that is subsidized secretly or controlled by pressure groups is in no position to help inform its readers and thus earn a profit on its investment.

Bid For A Smile
When little Junior returned home from his first day at school, his mother asked him what he had learned that day.

Junior — Nothing, but the teacher asked me some things I couldn't answer. She wanted to know if I favored my father or my mother.

Mother — Well, I suppose she was wondering which of you resemble. If she asks you again, just tell her that you have your father's features, but your eyes are like mine.

Little Junior was hardly inside the school room the next morning when he made himself heard.

Junior — I can answer your question now, teacher. My eyes are like my mother's, but I have my father's features.

A farmer had twenty employees on his farm, and as none of them was as energetic as the farm hand, he should be, he hit on a plan which he believed would cure them of their lazy habits.

Farmer — Men, I have a nice easy job for the laziest man on the farm. Will the laziest man step forward? Instantly nineteen of the men stepped forward.

Remaining One — Too much trouble.

There had been a big family row and the police had been called. Mr. Blank was hauled into court for beating his wife. The magistrate rebuked him severely.

Magistrate — You ought to be ashamed of yourself, assaulting your wife like that. I never saw a smaller black eye. Do you know of any reason why I should not send you to prison? Defendant — If you do, it will break up our happy home.

The Man Who Came To Dinner

Sets Style Pace . . . Once Again Duke Of Windsor Is Darling Of London Tailors

By HENRY McLEMORE
Living as I do on the extreme fringe of society — my only club is the Morris Plan Bank — I depend a great deal on Cholly Knickerbocker to tell what is happening in the other nine-tenths of the world.

Day in and day out, Cholly does a fine job. Most of the time he slashes the wrists of persons before he writes about them. If they don't bleed as blue as the sky or a typewriter ribbon, he ignores them as if they were hens with the pip, and leaves them to other society columnists.

I was tremendously interested in a Cholly item not long ago which concerned the Duke of Windsor. Once again the Duke is the darling of the London tailors, the pin-up boy of Saville Row. Tailors remove pins from their mouths to sing his praises, and the harsh scrape of soft chalk on other woollens is hushed when he strolls into a shop. All this reverence because the Duke is wearing (and therefore reviving) garments that have been out of style since Hector was a pup and Tommy Manville a bachelor.

Even if I get sued I want to quote a paragraph from Cholly Knickerbocker's column:

"Last month, on a visit to Baltimore, he wore a 'Knickerbocker suit' that was favored by his late grandfather, King Edward VII. The Knickerbocker suit, which seems to have been born in Saville Row around 1890, has a Norfolk jacket, with vertical pleats down the front, and a buttoned belt sewn in the jacket. The suit has large patch pockets and the trousers are similar to the plus-fours that were in vogue about 25 years ago."

This was important news to me because it set me up for the winter, insofar as my wardrobe was concerned. The cedar chest at my mother's home is filled with Norfolk jackets and plus-fours that my brothers and I wore in the middle and late twenties. There would be more of them had not Mother decided we would never wear them again and converted them into dust rags.

The moment I read that such a coat and such pants were the rage again I wired Mother, and sent it urgent.

"Send Norfolk jackets and plus-fours to cleaners stop please fetch any moth holes stop plan to be sartorial sensation this winter stop hope you are all well stop love Henry."

I'd like to be the Duke for a year or two. Just think of the old clothes that I could make fashionable. Just think of how nice it would be to make the lumber jacket the only proper coat for midnight wear with either dinner jacket or talls.

Just think of the money a man could save.

Consider shoes. Most of the shoes I buy squeak. To me that is somewhat of a social handicap. But if I were the Duke, and buy Squeaky shoes, half the fashionable and wealthy people in the world would beat a path to the shoe store that sold the squeakiest shoes. Elsa Maxwell wouldn't speak to man whose shoes were quiet and unobtrusive.

The same for ties. I like dollar ties, chiefly because they cost only a dollar. They don't look very good, but if I were the Duke a man who paid more than a buck for a tie would be frowned on as a nouveau riche show-off.

Oh, to be the Duke, now that winter's here.

Management's responsibility, too, is a trust that employees, stockholders and the public require the same unquestioned honesty and integrity. The American Way

By George Peck

If "The American Way," which has been so good to us, is to be retained and improved, it must be done under the system of Free Enterprise that has made possible the highest standard of living in world history for us Americans. However, Free Enterprise is a much abused term. The phrase should be amplified. To me it is best described as the American Capitalistic System of Free, Private Competitive Enterprise.

FREE does not mean that there should be no rules. There should be rules that insure an equal opportunity for every American.

PRIVATE means the individual's right of contract, the right to work at the occupation of his choosing, and to enjoy the fruits of his earnings.

COMPETITIVE means free operation of the law of supply and demand, with no special privileges for anyone.

ENTERPRISE means the right to risk time or money and to work as hard and as long as each individual feels it necessary to give him the return he desires.

If we are to retain Free, Private, Competitive Enterprise, we must understand it and honestly apply it to all our daily activities.

Over a period of the past two decades there has grown up in America a dangerous philosophy of letting government do it — or throw it into the lap of government for our own good.

Phlebitis is itself a serious and unpleasant enough, but the inflammation also increases the chances of blood clots forming inside the veins. When the latter complication occurs, it is known as thrombophlebitis or phlebotrombosis — both of which are hard to pronounce but mean approximately the same thing.

This problem presents a challenge to the next Administration. It is vital that all plan and work together for the common welfare, as well as for their own.

Sins of omission and commission by some business groups have penalized the entire business community. Public esteem has been lost and this has provided an opening for attacks by the anti-business groups. It is unfortunate, but true, that large sections of the public have been blinded to the virtues of business as a whole by the errors of the comparatively few transgressors.

Upon management, therefore, rests the duty of informing the people as to the true facts. This cannot be done by sweet phrases, high-sounding slogans and declarations of virtue. Management must carry on programs of public education based on actual accomplishments and on sound policies and practices. Where policies and practices are not in accordance with the public welfare, they must be corrected.

Granted that there is as much honesty and decency in business as in any other line of endeavor, that is not enough. No one would be willing to appoint as executor of his will, a trust company that claimed its trust officers were of average honesty and decency. Certainly not, because a trustee, like Caesar's wife, must be above suspicion.

Management's responsibility, too, is a trust that employees, stockholders and the public require the same unquestioned honesty and integrity. Intelligent, forceful and enlightened procedures — these traits can and must become the accepted and required standard. Management has the same responsibility of purging itself of its few racketeer leaders.

For management to attain this high goal, of course, the economic

National Whirligig. Top Economists Agree Budget Can Be Cut By Twenty Billion

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Top economists here generally agree with the Eisenhower-Taft belief that the federal budget can be cut by at least $20 billion after two years, always barring a cut in total war. The election of a money-minded President and Congress would also help the cause of economy and tax reduction.

On the basis of current figuring, it is believed that military expenditures can be kept at about $40 billion after a solid defense system has been built.

Civilian costs of government should be about $20 or $25 billion annually, assuming that the federal establishment foregoes or curtails certain proposed activities and persuades our allies to bear more of the rearmament burden.

In addition to this $20 billion reduction in spending, a slowdown in the expansion of industry's plants and facilities will cut the current output of dollars by at least another $5 billion a year, according to the latest analyses in this field.

Defense Mobilizer Henry Fowler has testified that the 1950-1952 industrial growth, born of the Russian menace and the action in Korea, has produced a production capacity commensurate with our military and civilian needs.

Pentagon spokesmen are more satisfied that they can admit publicly over the way new weapons are rolling off the assembly line here and abroad.

CONFUSING PROBLEM — The problem now confusing the experts — and it will be a major headache for the next President — is this:

"What will happen to the American economic system — employment, wages, prices, purchasing power, the volume of trade and industry, the huge emergency investment in production, transportation and distribution plant — when all this spending stops to

EISENHOWER — TAFT THESEIS — As against this theory, General Eisenhower offers the hope of a tax slash equalling the $20 or $25 billion which he expects, can be trimmed from the federal budget within two years, in the event of no war.

Eisenhower-Taft thesis seems to be that with this extra money in the consumer's pockets instead of Uncle Sam's treasury, they will spend it in such a way that it will maintain employment and purchasing power at a safe and sound rate — in short, sufficiently to keep the economic machine operating at the same speed and level as now.

McLean FFA Gets Pickup

McLEAN (Special)—A pickup truck bearing the insignia of the Future Farmers of America and the name of the local chapter has been presented to the vocational agriculture department of the McLean School by Joe Taylor, McLean Implement Co.

This is the second time this year that McLean agricultural students have been given equipment.

Shortly after the opening of school in September, they moved into new and larger quarters made possible because the GI vocational school had completed its work and returned the building to the city. In turn, it was leased to the school, for a small fee, for use by the vocational agricultural department.

In addition to the new quarters, the students came into possession of tools and equipment, valued at $3,500.

Eighty boys are enrolled in three classes, comprising the largest FFA chapter in the Top of Texas district in which there are 11 schools. The boys have five club calves, 21 pigs, including two brood sows, 25 commercial pigs and three commercial calves. Two boys have rabbits. Each boy must carry at least one project.

In their last vacation the boys will receive instruction in home and building maintenance and their major project at present is the renovation of the building with changes to meet their own needs. In the spring they will start a $2,000 broiler project.

The department is under the supervision of Vernon Gibson and the officers are as follows: Archie Dwyer, president; David Wilson, vice president; Don Trew, secretary; Wayne Woods, treasurer; Ricky Mantooh, reporter; Joe Glass, sentinel; Eddie Reeves, parliamentarian.

Russ Score Neat Beat In Grain Deal

LAHORE, Pakistan, (AP)—Soviet Russia scored heavily on a propaganda squeeze play by concluding a wheat for jute and cotton barter deal with Pakistan one day before the Washington announcement of a 15 million dollar food loan to this grain-short nation.

Leftist leaders here are laughing heartily at the successful timing of Russia's agreement which permits Moscow to exchange wheat for two products it needs while getting credit for a humanitarian gesture.

Thanks Russia

Pakistan's vital Punjab Province, slated for the biggest slice of the Soviet wheat, already is thanking Russia for its "timely assistance." The thanks might be going to the other side of the Iron Curtain, some officials say, if the United States food loan had come a few days earlier.

An announcement of the Russian barter deal reached the Punjab just before the United States

Pakistan loan agreement was concluded in Washington. This permitted leftists here to broadcast that no American help would have been forthcoming if it had not been for the Russian move.

Prices Drop

With the first Russian wheat shipments already reaching this area, grain prices have dropped sharply here, wheat is easier to buy in most markets and the sharp side of the food crisis is smoothed.

Those who look on Soviet trades and politics with a friendly eye point out that the barter deal with Pakistan permits this country to dispose of 22,000 tons of jute and 15,150 tons of cotton now a glut on Pakistan's markets for 1-2 million tons of critically needed wheat. The American loan, they add, must be repaid.

Should Have Acted Sooner

Under terms of the barter deal Russian ships deliver the grain to Pakistan ports, loading Pakistani jute and cotton for the return voyage.

SENATE CONTROL AT STAKE—Nearly as important as the presidential election, but always overshadowed by it when they come in the same year, are the senatorial elections. If the new President's party doesn't control the Senate, he will be handicapped in putting over his program. Above Newsmag shows Senate seats the GOP hopes to capture from Democrats and vice versa. Stevenson Drawing Strength In Texas From Long Drought

EDITOR'S NOTE: Who will win the "silent vote" which may hold the balance of power in Texas? What is swaying the undecided voter as Nov. 3 approaches? Only the voters themselves can give the final answer. But here is a discussion of the factors as brought out in an Associated Press survey of Texans' political thinking.

By TIM PARKER
AP State Editor

Adlai Stevenson is reaping Texas votes where the soil is driest. The drought is one factor in those eleventh-hour voter shifts which may determine who wins Texas' 24 electoral votes Nov. 4. It stirs old fears and reminds farmers that the Democratic administration is helping them now.

Other factors favor GOP nominee Dwight Eisenhower—a reported resentment against President Truman's campaign tactics, energetic Republican work at the precinct level, arguments of rebel Democratic leaders such as Gov. Allan Shivers.

But the drought is a close-up, fearsome thing which a farmer sees when the sun rises over his dusty fields and again when the crowd gathers to see him auction off cattle he cannot feed.

The Associated Press survey of Texans' mid-October political leanings showed Democratic nominee Stevenson and Eisenhower running a dead heat—with enough of the "silent vote" out to throw it either way.

The silent vote is composed of two groups—the undecided and the non-committal. Survey takers indicated "non-committal" is a polite name for the voter who says "It's none of your business how I'm going to vote."

The silent vote proportion is high (up to 43 per cent in one county) and includes many farmers troubled by a drought which each day grows worse.

A country editor in the Panhandle reported Eisenhower's apparent victory margin in his county had dropped from 80 per cent of the vote to 70 per cent. He explained: "Demos seem to have gained somewhat, due to the fact that government aid is timely now during drought and crop failures."

For instance, the government has declined to proclaim their choice publicly. And a Mid-coastal newspaper warned that "it's easy to be misled about Ike's strength, since you hear talk from his people all the time."

One of the state's astute political writers, taking stock of this situation, observed: "Sometimes I wonder if the newspapers don't have a '1948 complex.' All the polls in 1948 showed Tom Dewey was going to win. We 'knew' he was going to win. We laughed at the few people who thought Truman would get back in the White House. "This time a lot of us 'know' the silent vote will favor Stevenson in Texas."

In a populous, highly-industrial coastal county, a daily newspaper refused to draw any conclusion after its straw vote went 33 per cent for Eisenhower, 27 per cent for Stevenson, 38 per cent undecided.

"The poll we took six weeks ago for AP showed the two men neck and neck with a slightly higher percentage undecided; thus the present poll may indicate more persons are making up their minds for Eisenhower," the newspaper reported.

"But no conclusion is possible because of the still large body of voters which has not made up its mind or is not revealing its intentions. Unless and until someone can find out what the group of voters will do, an estimate of the outcome seems impossible at this time. But Eisenhower has the best chance of any Republican candidate at least since 1928."

Czech Trains Just Won't Run On Time

VIENNA (AP)—One thing Communism in Czechoslovakia can't do is make the trains run on time.

The Prague newspaper Rude Pravo recently complained that "The irregularity of trains is threatening the security of our railroads."

The newspaper said 85 per cent of all trains arriving and leaving the Slovak capital of Bratislava were late. "The total loss of time of trains in and out of Bratislava is 800 minutes a day," the paper said.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT'S HAPPENED?

STEVENSON HAS TURNED OUT TO BE WHAT EISENHOWER WAS SUPPOSED TO BE -- AND ISN'T.

- 1. A Man of Common Sense and Honesty.
Eisenhower has given us platitudes and goldbrick promises, like cutting taxes without weakening defense — bringing our troops home from Korea without ending the war — controlling inflation without inflation controls.
Stevenson has taken his stand on all controversial issues, for us to accept or reject. He has made no false promises. He has treated us as grown-ups — not as children for whom the truth must be half sugar-coated and half-concealed.
- 2. A Man Who Would Bring Change Without Stopping Progress.
Eisenhower was nominated primarily because he wasn't Taft. He has surrendered to Taft and the Old Guard Republicans.
Stevenson's record as Governor of Illinois shows that he knows how to bring about a change without turning back the clock; that he knows how to get rid of the rats without burning down the barn.
- 3. A Man Who Will Insure the Continuation of a Strong and Creative Bipartisan Foreign Policy.
Eisenhower has repudiated his own work by endorsing for re-election all the bitter-end opponents of our foreign policy, and by adopting most of Senator Taft's criticisms as his own.
Stevenson stands four-square behind the bipartisan policy which the Vandenburg Republicans helped to create and wish to support.
- 4. A Man of Firm Principle and Loyalty.
Eisenhower has stuttered every time a question of principle has arisen. He decided the Nixon affair on the basis of soap-opera. He has shaken the hands of Jenner and McCarthy — the hands which stabbed his own best friend and benefactor, General Marshall.
Stevenson has not courted the less admirable elements in his party, many of whom now support Eisenhower. Stevenson has not talked one way in the South and another way in the North. He has shown that he would rather lose the election than win it by betraying friend or principle.

AND THAT IS WHY STEVENSON IS GOING TO WIN!

WHEN I QUIT
 When I quit this mortal coil
 And money round this earth no more,
 Don't weep, don't sigh; don't grieve,
 Don't sob, I've struck a better job.
 Don't go and buy a large bouquet,
 For which you'll find it hard
 To pay.
 Don't hang around me lookin' blue
 I may be better off than you.

 Or anything you know I ain't.
 If you have stuff that I can't use,
 Please hand it out before I'm dead.
 If you have roses bless your soul
 Just pin one on my button hole,
 But do it while I'm at my best,
 Instead of when I'm at rest.

Post-War Gas Boom Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The post-war boom of the natural gas industry continues. Bureau of Mines figures show the industry marketed more than four trillion cubic feet of gas in the first half of this year, compared with about three and one-half trillion in the corresponding period of 1951.

The increase occurred despite the steel strike which shut down some industrial customers.

Residential use of natural gas, bureau officials estimate, increased about 8 per cent in the first half of the year over the comparative period of 1951.

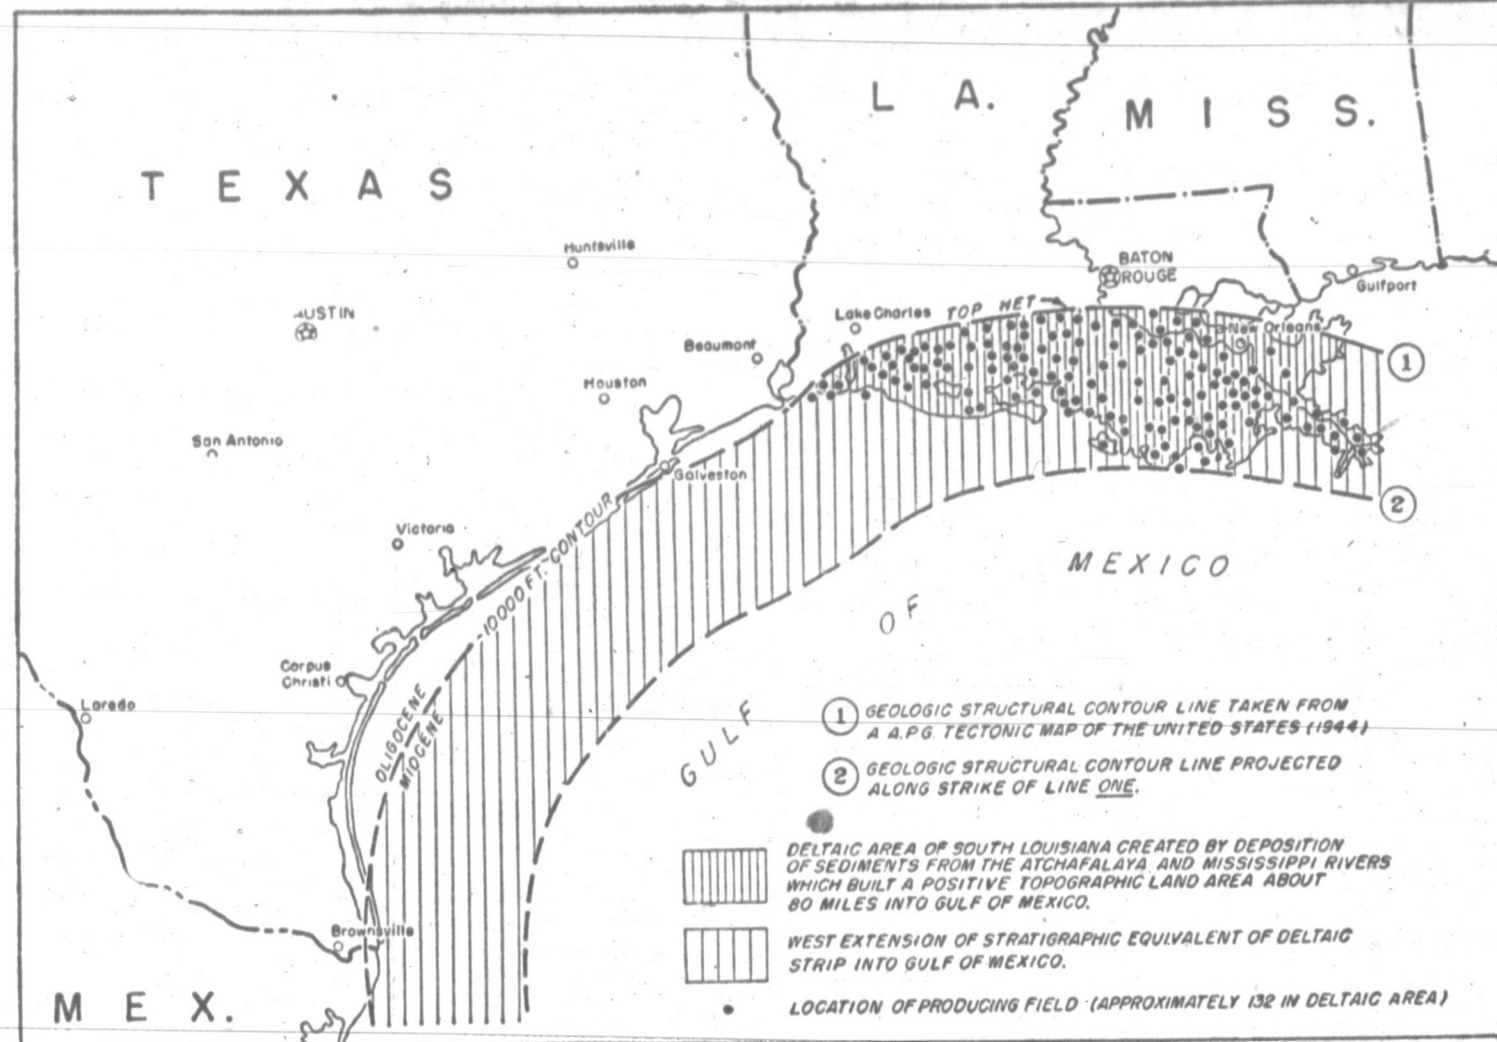

Marketed production of gas jumped 19 per cent from 1950 to 1951. This year's increase over 1951 is not expected to be as much.

For 1951, marketed production climbed to nearly seven and one-half trillion cubic feet from something over six trillion in 1950, with Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico accounting for 82 per cent of the increase. Production in Pennsylvania increased as a result of discoveries made in 1950.

New Gas Service

North Carolina, South Carolina, Massachusetts and New Hampshire received natural gas service in 1951 for the first time, the bureau noted.

Aside from Texas, California and New York reported the largest

Texas Geologists, Engineers Insist Tidlands Are Valuable

(Editor's note: The fight between Texas and the federal government over ownership of the tidelands, has prompted a group of state geologists and engineers to prepare an argument for Texas on the value of these submerged lands.)

A confusion has been established in the minds of people not only by the erroneous use of the term "tidelands" but also by an attempt to establish these offshore submerged lands to be of no economic importance to Texas.

The offshore submerged lands of Texas and Louisiana are but a continuation of the Gulf Coast embayment, part of which is located on land, part of which is covered by water. This structural province covers the entire Gulf of Mexico, including the shore areas immediately surrounding it.

This geological province is a large basin into which rivers, during millions of years, have deposited sediments many thousands of feet thick. Folding, faulting, and uplifting through est increases in consumption last year over 1950.

Presidential consumption in 1951 increased 23 per cent over 1950; commercial jumped 20 per cent; field, 21 per cent; petroleum refineries, 18 per cent and other industrial, 14 per cent.

In addition 347,690,000 cubic feet of gas was placed in underground storage in 1951, more than 50 per cent over the previous year.

More Lines Lanned

The number of residential consumers of natural gas, according to the Bureau of Mines, increased by 5 1/2 millions to 21,400,000 from 1950 to 1951, much of the increase being in New York.

Howard B. Noyes, assistant chief of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, estimates potential sales probably will increase 40 per cent in the next five years.

PAD has announced approval of a program calling for the laying of 200 miles of large diameter transmission lines and 17,700 miles of small diameter field, gathering and distribution lines in 1953.

Conservation of natural gas is to be a principal subject before the Interstate Oil Compact Commission's annual winter meeting in Wichita, Kan., Dec. 5 and 6.

earth structural changes and piercement by salt masses have resulted in the formation of reservoirs favorable for the accumulation of gas, oil, and sulphur.

The oil fields located along the Gulf Coast of Old Mexico, Texas, and Louisiana are on the landward parts of this basin. The early discovery of these fields was due to the fact that these areas were above sea level where it was cheaper and easier to drill and not because the structures, traps, and salt domes do not occur where the land is below sea level. Sea level has nothing to do with the occurrence of these traps and structures.

With the increase in demand for oil, gas and sulphur and improved methods for exploration and drilling, development of the submerged lands became economically feasible and resulted in discovery of numerous structures and fields off shore. These operations were successfully conducted on the submerged lands of Louisiana and Texas until the title to these offshore submerged lands was questioned by the federal government in Washington, after which, all drilling was terminated on the submerged lands of Texas.

These undeveloped lands of Texas occur along the same structural trend and at similar depths to the large number of oil and gas fields and sulphur domes that are presently being produced in southern Louisiana on submerged areas raised above sea level by the great delta of the Mississippi River and its distributaries. (Reier Map Exhibit). If, by geological happenstance, the Mississippi River had been diverted westward into Texas, at an earlier time, the reverse of the existing status would no doubt exist. The Texas structures and traps would have already been discovered and developed.

The vastness of the oil, gas, condensate and sulphur potentialities in this submerged land area is indicated by the discoveries made on the landward portion of this basin. As of Jan. 1, 1952, there were 1,085 oil and gas fields producing in Railroad Commission Districts 2, 3, and 4, within a 100 mile belt along the Gulf Coast line as of the same date 11.9 trillion barrels of oil and condensate, and 70.9 million long tons of sulphur had already been produced. As of the same date, there still remains a future estimated reserve, already discovered, to be produced, of 50 trillion cubic feet of gas, 5,985 billion barrels of oil and condensate and 50 million long tons of sulphur.

The total gas, oil, condensate and sulphur discovered in the coastal belt of Texas as of Jan. 1, 1952 was, therefore, 61.94 trillion cubic feet of gas, 11,011 billion barrels of oil and condensate and 120.9 million long tons of sulphur. These total ultimate future recovery estimates are very conservative in that they do not include the fields discovered since the first of the year nor those yet to be discovered in the same land area. 70 new fields have already been discovered this year.

The Texas submerged land areas, immediately adjacent to the Gulf Coastal belt of Railroad Commission Districts 2, 3, and 4 extending for over 400 miles along the coast line having the same geological and structural features have a potentiality for the production of oil, gas, condensate, and sulphur greatly in excess of these totals because of its greater area, better reservoir conditions, and the full use of modern methods of recovery.

However, if the potentialities be assumed to be limited to the equivalent of the ultimate recoveries as set forth above, then the gross ultimate income from the field would amount to $9,291,000,000 at 35 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. The oil and condensate at an average of $2.85 per barrel $29,179,150,000, and the sulphur at a value of $25 per long ton $3,022,500,000 or a total of $41,492,650,000. A more realistic forecast of the possible gross ultimate income would probably be twice the above figure or say $80 billion.

A royalty of 1-8 accruing to the public school fund would amount to $5,000,000,000 on that of the more realistic figure, not including the amounts that would accrue as the rentals received therefrom. It is estimated that the total bonus for leasing the lands or

Voters' Choice Undetermined

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a new all-American campaign slogan which the voters have thought up all by themselves.

The Democrats parade under a banner proclaiming "You never had it so good." The Republicans keep harping on "It's time for a change."

And, to nobody's surprise, the politicians on both sides are predicting a victory bid as all outdoors for their candidate.

But with election now less than a week away, the most astonishing fact of the campaign is the general uncertainty about the outcome.

Outside the professional political ranks it's almost an event to find a man willing to answer positively the question: "Who's gonna win?"

You hear the same answer so often it seems to have become a national slogan: "You got me; I dunno."

It's a bewilderment which seems to come equally from those who are going to vote for Gen. Eisenhower and from Gov. Stevenson's supporters.

Quite a change from 1948 when everyone, except President Truman and a few like-minded and hardy people, thought Gov. Dewey was a cinch.

Since sticking your neck out also would not include any advantage over a 5-per-cent gross production and pipe line to $2,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 respectively.

If the ownership to these potential oil, gas, and sulphur reserves are seized and nationalized by the government in Washington, it not only means the loss of this future income to the state school fund that will have to be replaced by taxes, but will also remove these taxable values as a source of future ad valorem income required to offset the declining oil and gas values of the existing fields located on the adjacent onshore unsubmerged land areas.

This brief review of what the submerged lands of Texas or the so-called "tidelands case" means to Texas and Texans has been evaluated as a public service to the people of Texas by Texas geologists and registered engineers functioning solely as Texas citizens.

twice in a row can become a silly occupation, self-consciousness about the 1948 mistake may have made everyone cautious now.

But even the experts who have traveled with both candidates are pussy-footing on this one. And, adding to the confusion is not only the size but the noise of the crowds which have been turning out for Eisenhower and Stevenson alike.

Stories from the correspondents traveling with the two men repeatedly have used one word to describe the crowds' enthusiasm: howling.

Still, the general timidity about next Tuesday's results should add to the national merriment if one candidate wins by a landslide.

First to emerge from hiding the day after election day will be the "I told you so" characters whose only pre-election prediction anyone could remember was "Search me, pal."

And, if the result is one-sided, it will be worth waiting for to see the experts wrestle with themselves and one another in lengthy explanations of why the result should have been clear and was inevitable anyway.

Harvard Trees Die

BOSTON (AP) — The Harvard University Yards will lose two more American elms from the campus when the trees are chopped down shortly, the eighth such victims of Dutch Elm disease this season. Officials hope only a small number of the University's 700 elms will be lost.

Doors Open 9 a.m. Till 6 p.m.
