The city commission this morning awarded a contract to Cloe and Cowan, Mineral Wells, for supplying 5,000 feet of 8-inch vitrified clay sewer tile at a cost of $2,375.

Other business taken up by the commission included approving the plan of Cabots Kingsmill Camp, five miles west of the city, approximating $20,000.78 in estimates to contractors for ditching, water and sewer work, curb and gutter running and bridge construction, approved $33,333.34.

Cruce also announced a meeting of residents in the southwestern section of town involved in the proposed annexation of that area, will be held at 8 p. m., Friday with city officials.

Son Beaten By His Mother Will Never See Her Again

VERNON (AP) — Judge Jesse Owens of Vernon said today that Tommie Yates' mother should never see her child again.

Board Picks School Site

Members of the Pampa School Board made a final decision on where to place the new elementary school and awarded the school milk contract for the year at their first meeting of the month.

The new school, as yet unnamed, will be located in the southeast corner of the new area which is in the southwest part of town. B. R. Cantrell, school architect, was on hand to advise the board of his progress.

The board agreed to let a school students out at 3 p. m. Sept. 15 so that they could attend the Clyde Beatty Circus.

MRS. AMERICA, RELAX! — Mrs. Evelyn Joyce Schenk of Irvington, N. J., entered in the contest as Mrs. North, shuts her eyes and faints as she hears the judges decision that she's been named Mrs. America, 1952, after demonstrating at the Asbury, N. J., beauty pageant her ability at home-making and parading before the judges and 5,000 spectators in a one-piece, rose colored bathing suit. Other contestants, happy and applauding, are left to right: Mrs. New York City, Mrs. Edna Murphy of North Bellmore, Long Island; Mrs. Florida, Mrs. Ann Rhoda Wetzel of Hialeah, and Mrs. Louisiana, Mrs. Donna Lee Leonard of New Orleans. 200-Acre Limit . . . Egypt's Strong Man Cuts Land Estates

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt's day-old cabinet led by strongman Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib today okayed Army-backed measures cutting up the nation's big landed estates and reorganizing political parties with the eventual aim of dissolving those now existing.

The 51-year-old Army commander's new government announced that it had approved legislation limiting ownership of arable lands to 200 acres per person.

Air Captain Comes Home Last Time

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP) — He stepped off the plane at New York International Airport, his pulse quickening at the prospect of seeing his wife and boy, Capt. Martin Brent was happy, perhaps too happy.

It was the second time the 30-year-old Air Force officer had come home from war.

In World War II, he had flown nearly 100 missions, been repeatedly decorated, shot down and badly wounded in one raid, rescued and hospitalized for nine months.

He had made it last Sunday, just barely in time to celebrate the seventh birthday of his son, Michael.

1,500 Reds Once Taught U.S. Schools

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 1,500 Communist party members once taught in the nation's schools while Red cells were located on many leading college campuses, a U. S. Senate subcommittee has been told.

This picture, says Dr. Bella V. Dodd, represents the situation before 1949 when she was expelled from the party. She had served as a member of its National Executive Committee.

Bootlegging And Corruption Said Spawned By Liquor Law

AMARILLO (AP) — A grand jury has charged that administration of the state liquor control law has resulted in a "multi-million dollar bootleg syndicate and general statewide corruption."

The charge Monday brought an immediate reply from Coke Stevenson, J. administrator of the Texas Liquor Control Board, that he would welcome any investigation of his department "from top to bottom."

The accusation was presented to the Texas House Crime Investigating Committee by Potter County grand jury at a session in a motor court here, Dist. Atty. Hermon Pipkin said.

A complete investigation of the charges was urged by members of the grand jury.

Sit-Down Strike Ends At Prison

CHILLICOTHE, O. (AP) — A mass sit-down strike by 800 rebellious young convicts in the Federal Reformatory for Men ended early to end after one "con" nine hours of destruction and defiance.

Three inmates were wounded, none seriously, by guards, state highway patrolmen and deputy sheriffs quelled the uprising.

Goal Set At $7,750 . . . Advance Drive For Girl Scout Fund Campaign Is Underway

With a goal of $7,750, the annual fund campaign of the Pampa Girl Scout Association is in progress in Pampa this week with an advance drive headed by Sam Malone.

The general drive, to include White Deer, Skellytown, Lefora, Hopkins, Shamrock and Pampa, will be held Sept. 20 to Oct. 10.

This year's goal, set at a recent meeting of the association, is $250 above last year's budget. The increase was made necessary, according to Ed Myatt, association fund chairman, because of the growth of the Girl Scout organization since January of this year.

More than 250 girls have joined the organization since that time, he stated.

Texas Democrats Divided On Issue Of Party Nominee

Price Daniel Says He Won't Vote For Adlai

AMARILLO (AP) — U. S. Senate Nominee Price Daniel, life-long Democrat, says he has not made up his mind what he will do about the Republican party's cross-filing his name as its candidate.

Daniel arrived at the scene of today's state Democratic convention last night and said he would take part as a candidate from Liberty County.

The Democratic nominee for U. S. Senate told reporters at a press conference that he had no intention of voting for Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee for president, but that he is not ready to say just how he is going to vote.

"I haven't made up my mind," Daniel said. "Except I know I'm not going to vote for any man who says he won't uphold the Texas annexation agreement."

Daniel was referring to Stevenson's stand on the controversial tidelands question. The Democratic presidential nominee has said that he would have vetoed legislation giving the states title to the supposedly oil-rich lands.

Stevenson, not Adlai, and Gov. Allan Shivers, say that the Texas claim to the off-shore lands is unique because of the annexation agreement of 1845 by which the state was to retain her public lands.

ALL SAVED — The Princess Kathleen, a 6,000-ton cruise ship carrying 307 passengers and a crew of 118, begins to list as she lies on a reef near Juneau, Alaska, where she ran aground early Sunday. Four hours after the passengers and crew were safely removed from the stricken vessel, she slipped from the rocks and plunged to the bottom of the choppy sea. (NEA Telephoto)

Political Round-Up . . . Wisconsin Primary Spotlights Elections

Eight state primaries — one deciding the political future of GOP Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy — and decisive returns from Maine's showdown election shifted the political spotlight from presidential candidates to voters today.

Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson moves into California and his Republican opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, heads for Indianapolis, but interest temporarily centered on these developments:

Maine, which hasn't elected a Democrat to major office since 1934 or backed a presidential winner since 1928, elected by substantial margins a U. S. senator, governor and three U. S. representatives — all Republicans.

Winners in yesterday's race, first 1952 collision of Republicans and Democrats in the nation, were: For Senator, Gov. Eisenhower; for governor, Burton M. Cross; for Congress, Robert Hale, Charles P. Nelson and Clifford G. McIntire.

Fire At Oiler Park

Action at Oiler Park got rough this morning — but it wasn't the ballpalying.

A fire truck was called out to the park about 9 a. m. to put out a trash fire. Little damage was reported except for a charred portion of the fence. The smoke, however, was quite heavy.

What the vote means nationally if anything remains to be seen. GOP leaders had called for its big or bigger majority than in 1948 and apparently feel short of that goal.

Shivers Group Holds Margin In Bitter Riff

AMARILLO (AP) — Texas Democrats, for the first time in their stormy history, faced a showdown Tuesday on whether to run a Republican as their presidential nominee.

It was a clear-cut issue between Adlai Stevenson and Dwight D. Eisenhower. At stake were Texas' normally Democratic 24 electoral votes.

A militant never-say-die bloc of States Righters came into the convention ready for a last-ditch fight on a resolution naming Eisenhower as the nominee of the Democratic party in Texas.

Never before has such a resolution been prepared for a Texas Democratic convention.

Bucking them was Gov. Allan Shivers, who reluctantly advised Texas Democrats their only legal and ethical course was to make Stevenson their candidate and bind the voters to him.

$20,000 Damages In Shamrock Fire

Sales Co., 1207 Main St. and ace has been estimated at $20,000 in the fire which razed the structure building of E. C. Hoffmann Sales Co., 207 Main St., and lasted an hour and a half till firemen were able to get the blaze under control.

The roof, interior, shop equipment and machinery were tagged a complete loss by investigating officials. Much of the big machinery was removed from the premises, however, before the fire got to it. Office equipment was somewhat damaged.

Another Leaper Takes A Plunge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police today listed as the 40th leaper from Golden Gate Bridge the death of Mrs. Gabrielle Jeanne Leibber, 43.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Hook Bryan, company bookkeeper.

Her husband is superintendent in Phillips camp and have two sons, Louis Clarke Jr., is a graduate of Texas A&M and an Air Force captain in Japan; John W. Clarke was graduated from North Texas State College, Denton, and is with Celanese Corp., Pampa.

Work--Or Else!--For Czechs

If they don't want to work in factories and farms, Czechoslovak housewives without children may be denied food and clothes by the Communist government.

The county's few remaining houseowners and small shopkeepers also have been denied food ration cards and soap.

Czech newspapers reported: "The local authority has the right to refuse a ration book to anyone who refuses to help the farms."

The paper also disclosed that the Ministry of Interior has excluded from food and soap rations all houseowners receiving more than 1,440 crowns ($28) a month, and small businessmen employing anyone older than 18-year-even if they are members of his own family.

Brando Takes Speech Lesson For New Film

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's bad news for imitators of Marlon Brando: He's taking diction lessons.

The young actor's unique manner of talk has been the butt of many a jibe from night club, radio and television comedians, as well as his fellow actors. His free-speaking performance in "A Streetcar Named Desire" brought TV imitations and a number only to Johnny Sob! Ray.

I asked Brando if he had seen a classic take-off of him by Sid Caesar.

"Unfortunately no," he replied. "I understand Jerry Lewis had a good one, too. I'd like to have seen them."

Brando said he wasn't at all sensitive about his manner of reading lines. Why should he be? It earns him $100,000 a picture and upwards. But he's taking diction lessons anyway. The reason for this is that he's playing the second Shakespearean role of his career. You can't really count the first one. It happened eight years ago when Brando was 20 and playing in a small-time summer theater on Long Island. He had a small role in "Richard III" and he says that he wore dyed long underwear for tights.

His current Shakespeare is on a slightly larger scale. This time it's a film version of "Julius Caesar" and the cast includes Greer Garson, Louis Calhern, James Mason, John Gielgud, Deborah Kerr, Edmond O'Brien, etc. Faced with this formidable array, Brando enlisted the aid of a Shakespearean teacher and a diction coach. He explained his reasons:

"I think Shakespeare requires a kind of diction which can be called stage English. Gielgud has it, so does Calhern. Mason, on the other hand, talks English. It's a lot harder to change that to stage English than it is to change English English."

"I accepted this role because I thought it would be good experience for me, and good discipline, too. My kind of acting has always been very free. I always like to be easy and uninhibited in the characterizations I do. But it's a different matter when you do Shakespeare. You immediately have certain bounds and limits beyond which you cannot go."

Since Hamlet is the legendary goal of all actors, I asked Brando if he were interested in playing that role.

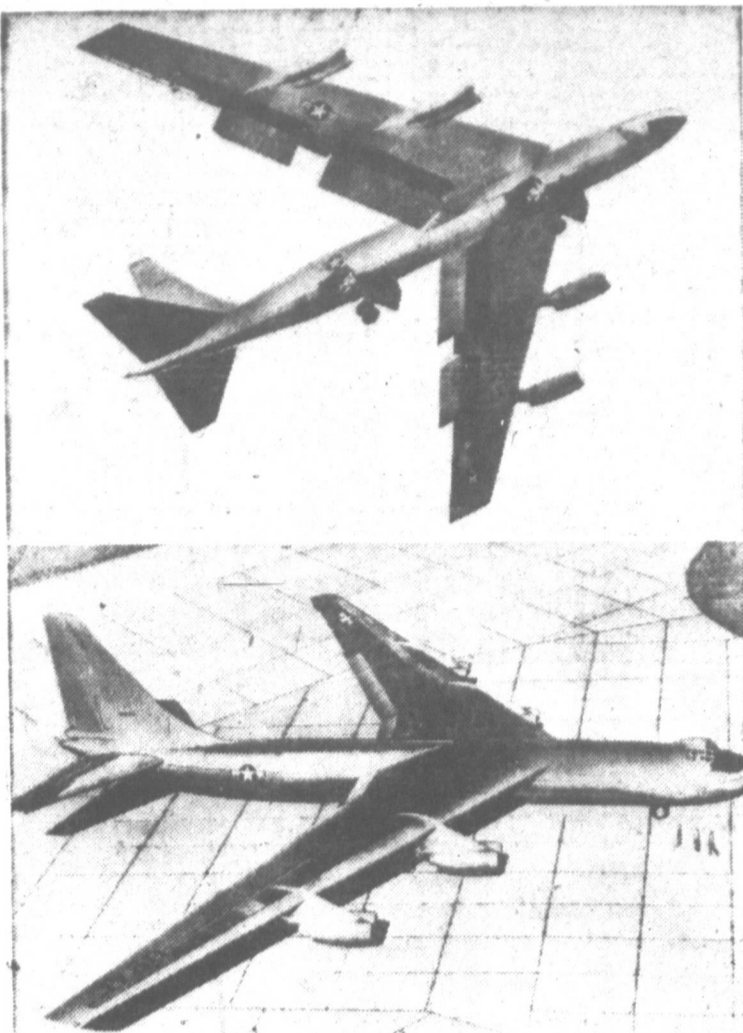

"I don't know," he replied. "I think I might be afraid to. It seems to me that playing Hamlet is always the peak of any actor's career. After that, he seems to have nothing to achieve. John Barrymore is a classic example of that."

Shakespeare or no, Brando will again get a chance to display his muscular frame in "Julius Caesar." When I saw him on the set, he was dressed in nothing more than a pair of track shorts, Roman style. He participates in a running race in the Colosseum for the picture.

"There is some justification for it," he explained. "Mark Antony was supposed to have been quite an athlete."

I remarked that the beefcake shot of Brando in the shredded T-shirt helped the selling possibilities of "Streetcar."

"That happened quite by accident," he added. "I did the scene in which I threw the radio out of the window and the shirt ripped. They kept it that way."

EXPERIMENT FAILS—The Air Force, after long testing, has given up on the huge B-60 experimental bomber (bottom photo) and will concentrate full attention on the B-52 (top photo), a faster, single, heavy jet type. The B-52 Stratofortress is expected to replace the current B-36 as the chief atomic bomb carrier of the Strategic Air Command.

Bette Davis Believes In Chances

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bette Davis was in a slightly combative mood, and that's when she produces the best copy.

Miss Davis is leaving soon for New York, where she will begin rehearsals in a revue, "Two Is Company." It will be her first Broadway show since she came to Hollywood for a distinguished career that has lasted more than two decades. It is also her first stage musical. I asked her if she were nervous.

"Of course I'm nervous!" said the actress, who generally speaks with exclamation marks. "Who wouldn't be nervous? But I'm not worried. It's a fine show and I'll do my best to help make it a hit. Ogden Nash has written some wonderful material."

Will she sing in the show? "Certainly I'll sing! It's a musical, isn't it?"

Is she practicing a time step for the dance numbers? "Now, really. How long has it been since you've seen a time step in a revue? Jerome Robbins is doing the choreography, and he's the best in his field!"

Is she concerned about facing a live audience after all these years in movies?

"Of course not! Of, the first night in New York may be tense. But there's no difference in the mediums. If you're an actor, you're an actor! It doesn't matter whether it's stage, pictures, television or radio. You're still acting."

Miss Davis added that she will stay with the show as long as she is needed. That could mean two years, if it's a hit. Is she worried about being off the screen that long?

"Not in the least! The only way to get good things done in this business is to take chances. That's the trouble with Hollywood — it forgot how to take chances. That's how it got in such bad shape.

"You've got to take chances if you want to achieve anything in the arts. You can't play it safe!"

I'll say one thing for Bette (that is about all the opportunity I'd get), she's a gal who takes chances. She has gambled at many turns in her career. After playing ingenues she took a flyer on the unattractive role of Mildred in "Of Human Bondage." It started her on the road to being the screen's top dramatic actress.

Right now she's finishing up "The Star," which is another example of her taking a chance. It's a bitter story of a Hollywood star who hits the downward trail. No connection with Bette Davis.

Business Heading Toward Fall Pick-Up With Optimism

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Business heads toward its expected fall pickup with an abundance of optimistic reports wave it on.

There is bad news, too, of course: warnings of lower profits, fears of over-building industrial capacity, and the international monetary fund's report that world financial conditions are on the downgrade because some countries are trying to live beyond their incomes.

But here is today's quote of good news within the United States.

Unemployment Drops
Joblessness has dropped to around its lowest point since the end of World War II. The Department of Commerce predicts this condition will last at least until November.

Industrial Production
Industrial production has rebounded quickly after its tumble in mid-summer due to the steel strike and the vacation periods. Steel production this week will be back to 100 per cent of capacity, for the first time since the end of May. Many in the industry are now predicting that supply and demand of steel should be pretty well balanced by the first part of next year.

Bank Deposits Gain
Bank deposits have gained five billion more dollars circulating of 1951. Time deposits are up four billions. And there are one billion more dollars circulating outside the banks.

There are optimistic reports in individual industries also.

July and August sales of some of the big mail order houses shot up sharply over a year ago.

Farm machinery sales are running ahead of 1951.

Exhibitors at the annual leather show here predict a good season for the shoe industry.

The hosiery industry is looking up, too. The National association of Hosiery manufacturers reports that July shipments topped the same month last year by 26 per cent.

Cotton Picture Brighter

The National Cotton Council, hailing the pick-up in the textile industry in recent weeks, sees a rift in the clouds over the export market. It predicts that the shortage of dollars and inadequate credit arrangements exports in recent years will be a lot less critical in the months ahead.

The council says that foreign countries are earning American dollars at a record rate of almost 15 billion a year. The council thinks a lot of those dollars will go for purchases of cotton here.

A golden age for gas lies just ahead, according to Louis Ruthenberg, president of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. Ruthenberg, who is board chairman of Servel, Inc., tells the Los Angeles convention of the Pacific Coast Gas Association that opportunity for expanding the residential gas market is almost unlimited.

Spitsbergen sits athwart the east-west air routes across the North Pole.

The Soviet Union, with 60 other nations, signed the current Geneva Convention of 1949, which was a revision of an earlier Convention.

About 7,000 acres in North Carolina are planted in cucumber each year.

The Isolationism of Other Peoples

There must be tragic irony for the advocate of American internationalism in the evidence of growing isolationism among other nations of the world.

It is an unmistakable fact that as our commitments abroad expand there is a steady tendency on the part of our prospective "One World" partners to shy away from the risks and burdens involved in the so called mutual security program.

The Labor party in England which is only a handful of votes away from control of Britain's government seems to fear victory in Korea more than defeat.

We can see no shining vindication of the theory of collective security in the rehabilitation of western Europe. Strong elements in Germany and France are reluctant to put forth even minimum efforts. Some of the smaller nations of Europe appear unsure of our certainty that Russia is their deadly enemy and are certainly unhappy over restrictions on trade with the Soviet Union.

In the Near East, excepting Turkey, there are strong nationalist movements with an underlying intention to remain out of any conflict between the Eagle and the Bear.

These developments, and their underlying causes, should not be taken lightly. The European and Moslem world politicians are not stupid, and they have had a great deal more experience living under international tension than Americans have had.

They are looking at the world chess game with a more objective eye than we Americans. If they are outside the Iron Curtain, they are not clamoring to get in, but, as distasteful as Russian domination may be, it is not true that they consider American culture and control as alien and unpleasant?

These sovereign countries have as strong a feeling for their own independence as we have for ours. There are influential leaders who are doubtless wondering if American occupancy by Yankee rehabilitators and soldiers may not be conquest in new guise.

Stripped to its basic framework this technique of conquest by "loving friendship" is not new.

The European isolationism of today, takes, of course, a distinctively selfish form and its goal, obvious if not publicly admitted, is to create a balance of power against the only two great nations in the world — Russia and the United States.

Britain and the countries of western Europe want every bit of American economic help that they can get. But they want no strings to the assistance and no interference with their own internal affairs.

Furthermore, they are protecting themselves in the event of the outbreak of a war between the United States and Russia which under likely circumstances might not use Europe as its battlefield.

Their position is such a war may well be foreshadowed by the action they have taken in Korea. This has been a United Nations war and a United States fight. Our casualty list in that war is greater in number than the total contribution in manpower of all the non-Communist states of the UN who joined us in the condemnation of the Red aggression and are cheering us on — from the sidelines of course.

Does any American truly believe that if the Labor Party returns to power in England and if Aneurin Bevan were the British prime minister at the time of hostilities between the U. S. and Russia that we would have a willing ally in John Bull?

If Europe grows stronger this reluctance toward world brotherhood may grow stronger as well. Such a contretemps would make nonsense of the present American intervention policies.

This is the point that is being made by General Douglas MacArthur and former President Herbert Hoover in their warnings to the American public. They are urging that the United States look first to its own safety. They are not preaching isolationism but rather an intelligent nationalism. Some of their critics have deplored their statements as likely to alienate and discourage Europeans.

On the contrary, if the Europeans who are wavering and vacillating in taking steps for their own protection had any conviction that America was likely to devote more attention to protection at home they'd be more inclined to start pulling their own weight.

There can be no valid objection to a spirit of independence among European and Near East and Middle East countries. They are entitled to be as isolationist as they please.

But it should be an open and above-board policy — not one that considers our troops as tourists nor one that takes our help for granted nor one that drains our resources with the eventual intent of staying out of any conflict between Russia and the United States unless the hostilities break out in their own front yard.

Better Jobs

By R. C. MOILES

Stevenson's Five Labor Suggestions Are Not Principles But Nostrums

Candidate Adlai Stevenson's Labor Day address at Detroit shows that his ideas about labor are not based on principles but on erroneous beliefs. He sets down no principles by which labor disputes can be settled, he only suggests nostrums.

He calls for a new law but does not say what the new law must be as far as principles are concerned. He does suggest that the President of the United States be given dictatorial powers to prevent a national stoppage of work by labor unions. Of course, that is about the only suggestion that any man who believes in collective bargaining can make. Because collective bargaining is based on initiating coercion and force and the only thing that can deal with those who initiate force is force to restrain.

The Governor uses a lot of vague terms that have as many meanings as there are individuals. He talks about industrial democracy, but doesn't tell what he means by it. Does the government mean that a majority of people working in a business determine the policies whether they put any of their life savings in the business or not?

The governor talks about free collective bargaining, but there is no such thing as free collective bargaining. In the first place, the labor unions only try to bargain by duress and any bargain that is made under duress is not a bargain. It is not a contract.

There is no such thing as free collective bargaining because the aim of every labor union is to take away from an individual his God-given right of freedom to make an individual bargain. They insist on bargaining for the individual who does not want the union to bargain for him and that is about as far from being a free bargain as it is possible to be.

Governor Stevenson's point No. 1 is that the laws that protect labor unions, like employer corporations, as the responsible representatives of their members' interests.

But labor unions are not responsible and they do not want to be made responsible by law as are corporations. If the corporations conspired to boycott and to fix prices as the labor unions do they would be put in jail.

The governor says that his point No. 2 is that if labor unions are to be accepted as the full representatives and guardians of employees interests in the collective bargaining process, then labor unions must conform to standards of fair conduct and equal protection in the exercise of their stewardship.

But the governor doesn't explain how labor unions can be fair when they try to make bargains for the people who do not want to be represented by them. There is no principle where coercion is used to make people comply with the will of the labor bosses or the majority in the group.

The governor talks about union security arrangements developed over many years of labor and management together, in such cases as the maritime industry, the building trades, and the printing trades.

Now what does the governor mean by union security? Take for example the printing trade union. It tries to get security by seniority, by contending that an employer is not the judge of which man is the most efficient, by contending that the first man hired must of necessity be the last man laid off and the last man promoted, that the employer cannot discharge an employee because in his judgment he is incompetent without the consent of the labor union. It tries to get security by preventing an employer from hiring a man on any different terms than the labor union prescribes, by limiting the number of apprentices that an employer dare hire.

And an apprentice dare not touch a typewriter machine until he has worked five years by hand. The printing union tries to get security by requiring an employer to re-hire at the will of the local union matter that has been printed that correct the proofs and throw it away. This of course is done in order to get union "security" at fictitious wages for members of the printing trade union. But this featherbedding, this feathering of competition adds to the cost of the production and reduces the real wages of the workers who are obliged to pay for this non-competitive featherbedding work.

And Governor Stevenson wants union security, like the printing trade union, and yet he prattles about wanting to be fair to everyone. How can anyone be fair to everyone when certain people are given special privileges to exploit other men? Governor Stevenson's third suggestion is that a new federal labor law must outlaw unfair bargaining practices by companies or unions. But he has already gone on and on as being in favor of labor unions having the right to take away from some individuals their God-given right to help establish values. If that is not unfair labor practice, nothing is unfair—then the individual amounts to nothing and the union amounts to everything.

The governor's fourth point is rejection of the labor injunction, but he wants the right to enjoin employers for doing the very same thing that he claims the labor unions should not be enjoined from doing.

Again, the governor uses the word "free." He talks about free competition. But there is no free competition in labor unions because it is the caste system. Every labor union leader will admit that they cannot even get temporary increased wages if they cannot exclude some workers from having the right to compete.

The governor is bound to admit that the public suffers in a nationwide stoppage of work of the production of the necessities of life. His only solution is to give one man—the President—the power to be an absolute dictator and tell the employer what he must pay and the worker the conditions under which he must work. It is difficult to see how Gov. Stevenson differs in most of his ideas on labor. Don't consider it a compliment when a friend tells you that you look like a million dollars. Wait until you find out whether he means before or after taxes.

National Whirligig.. Truman Reluctant To Divulge Financial Crisis In England

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Great Britain is approaching such a state of economic collapse that a vast new program of American aid will soon be required to bolster the White House whenever an emergency necessitated it. He could hardly refuse to sit under the circumstances now developing at London and Washington.

Especially in England, it is believed that their reaction would be favorable. Although Eisenhower declined President Truman's offer to keep both him and his opponent informed on international developments between now and November 4, he agreed to consult with the White House whenever an emergency necessitated it.

Whoever enters the White House next January will have the agreement and of persuading Congress to approve those portions of the program which require legislative ratification.

The preliminary and immediately essential parts of the plan, however, can become effective simply by executive action. But Truman hesitates to inaugurate it without bipartisan backing for fear of its politically explosive effect.

CRITICAL — Britain's general economic condition at home and abroad has fallen into a far more critical state than at any time since World War II, according to critics from Downing Street.

Despite billions in financial and military advances from this country, she is steadily approaching bankruptcy.

Her gold and dollar reserves have fallen to $1,872,500,000, although two billions have been fixed as the minimum safety figure. This amount represents the total capital of England and the sterling nations for purchases in the United States and other areas which require dollar payments for goods.

RESENTMENT — Britain's efforts to stave off insolvency have created tremendous unrest at home. Government regulations against imports have reduced the supplies of food, clothing, fuel and building materials so that everyday living conditions are more miserable than even in defeated Germany.

Recent local elections have registered anti-Churchill discontent. Necessary trimming of costly "social services" in order to reduce the strain on the treasury has aggravated this resentment.

FEAR — Without generous American assistance, there exists the fear that the Churchill ministry may be replaced by a Labor government when Parliament reconvenes.

This might mean the advent to power of the pro-Moscow Aneurin Bevan, which would discourage our continental allies, strengthen Communist influences within France, Italy and Germany, and weaken all our anti-Russian arrangements and alliances.

Stalin seems aware of this situation. He has recently replaced a dour and furtive figure as Ambassador to London with a mild and unaggressive representative. His propaganda bureau has recently abandoned its anti-British campaign to concentrate on a "hate" offensive against the United States. By other means, he aims to drive a wedge between London and Washington.

PROGRAM — In view of these politico-economic considerations, the concern in London and Washington is understandable, especially at this time. The crisis also explains the extent of the proposed aid program. Here are its main points:

(1) A loan of from three to five billions to relieve the dollar shortage, and to provide "breathing spell" so that a long-range financial and commercial program may be formulated, including new domestic economies.

(2) Vastly increased purchases of arms in Britain for our own and the European defense force, especially jet planes, tanks, artillery and ships.

(3) Hard commitments for a U. S. stockpiling of large amounts of oil, rubber, tin and other British colonial products.

(4) A lowering of tariffs by executive decree so as to permit larger imports of manufactured articles from Britain.

Fair Enough.... Yonkers, N. Y., Police Seek Murderer Of Johnny Acropolis

By WESTHROCK FEGLER
(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The police of Yonkers, N. Y., say they are trying to find and make a case against the murderer of Johnny Acropolis, the boss of elements of the teamsters' Union, who was found shot in his apartment in Mount Vernon and New Canaan, Conn., but they believe Johnny was away at the time I never did hear that he went in for rackets himself although the mob action of his goons at his funeral was disquieting.

Four of the worst crooks in Westchester union rackets finally did go to prison. Thanks to the spirit of courage and rebellion in the men, these crooks were not allowed to draw their big salaries during their absence.

As to John's later career I have not kept informed. Teamsters' locals perpetrated atrocities in Mount Vernon and New Canaan, Conn., but I believe Johnny was away at the time I never did hear that he went in for rackets himself although the mob action of his goons at his funeral was disquieting.

However, for any light that I may throw on the character and affairs of Johnny Acropolis, I present a letter which he wrote me in Aug. 1942. He led off with the statement that he shared my low opinion of Joe Fay, the extortioner and thug who was vice president of the International Union of Operating Engineers until he finally went to prison for 10 years.

"My experiences with Fay bear out all you say," Acropolis wrote. "I would like to underscore every epithet you have applied to him and add a few of my own. I was representing drivers, members of Westchester Local 456 of the teamsters working in the N. Y. trap rock quarries at Verplank, N. Y. I tried to attend a meeting of warring men of various trades in the quarries and their respective business representatives. I was forced by two of Fay's mugs, of whom you have written, Wallace and Pete Weber, to get out of the hall without even stating what provisions we were going to ask for."

These are very tough goons as they had to be to push Acropolis around for he was a stand-up fellow and a star athlete with "varsity" experience at Colgate.

"The men were told that they would all be given a 10 cents per hour increase and would have to take it."

"I took my case to Mike Cashall, our international vice president, a friend of Fay's, who blandly suggested that Fay handle the negotiations for our teamsters. Now District Attorney Hogan reveals that N. Y. trap rock admits paying Fay $12,000. This leads me to the point that I want to bring to your attention. Will you not write plainly on the conspiracy between the labor organizations and the courts to prevent the rank and file from carrying their grievances to the courts like her ordinary citizens?"

"You wrote on June 17th that Dan Tobin (president of the teamsters and member of the executive council of the AFL) 'has been known to repudiate the public courts and the American system of justice and forbid his subjects to resort to them.' That is true. Do you know that when the rank and file rebels are referred back to the international who callous disregard for the workers' rights drove the men to the courts in the first place?"

"That is exactly what happened, to local 456. We fought Patrick Pearce, a bosom friend of William McGeary and Martin Parkinson, both now under indictment for extortion in the same Delaware aqueduct job. However our appeal to the courts was thrown out and registered letters to the international were refused acceptance. The members, realizing that the rank and file can expect no help from the international, kept up active and continuous opposition to Pearce until we could by legitimate and regular election replace him. I was elected business agent by unanimous vote, Pearce failing to get even a single seconding vote, after having been a delegate for 20 years when his own son-in-law nominated him for reelection."

"I worked for the local for a year after which the men gave me leave of absence for duration on my entrance into the service. During my term I learned more about the crookedness and rottenness in the international and the insidious combination of politicians, courts of justice, labor racketeers and employers. There are politicians who are also employers and when the rank and file appeals to the courts, it has no chance at all."

"Thousands of good labor men know that you have done a world of good for organized labor by instigating the investigation of the racketeering unioners. Now we would like very much to see you take on the corrupt political and judges who have helped maintain political officials and judges who exploit the workers and stuff their own pockets. We do go to the courts, but we have received the most heartrending reverses."

"Don't you agree that there is a stench about such situations that should be corrected by strong means? Is it too far fetched for workers on the Delaware Aqueduct to wonder whether there was collusion between the union racketeers, politicians and employers to prevent a pay raise for the men during the construction period? Most of the men knew money had changed hands between Fay, Parkinson, and the employers."

"Why was the investigation held off until this year? If it could be of assistance to you at any time, I would consider it a privilege to respond to your call."

Acropolis then went to the U. S. Naval training Station at Norfolk and disappeared into the war. I never heard from him again.

Four of the worst crooks in Westchester union rackets finally did go to prison. Thanks to the spirit of courage and rebellion in the men, these crooks were not allowed to draw their big salaries during their absence.

Japanese War Criminals Think Their Punishment Too Severe

TOKYO (AP) — Spokesmen for 218 minor Japanese war criminals in Tokyo's Sugamo Prison have told foreign newspapermen in an unprecedented news conference they considered their sentences unreasonable, uncalled for, and illegal.

They asserted they should be released at once.

Later, one of 12 major war criminals serving life sentences in Sugamo said in an interview: "I hope we will get out, too."

Fukuchi, 52, was chief spokesman for the 118 Class B and C prisoners, military commanders and both military men and civilians arrested in areas where war crimes were committed.

He and 30 other prisoners sat on one side of a long table in a conference room of the prison. On the other side sat the reporters. The war criminals as well as reporters took notes on what was said.

Say Trials Not Legal

Fukuchi, hollow cheeked and nervously tense, spoke with liberation and feeling for the men convicted of war crimes and atrocities.

He said the prisoners should have been released when Japan regained her independence.

An Associated Press correspondent asked: "do we understand correctly that you and your fellow prisoners consider that all your sentences were unduly severe, unreasonable and uncalled for?"

"That is correct," the general answered.

Then former Capt. Buichi Ono,

one-time attorney with the Japanese judge advocate's department, said:

"With respect to the B and C class trials held in Yokohama and outside Japan, we feel they were not legal and were based on political considerations."

Maintain Old Dignity

Addressing the newspapermen, Fukuchi, once on the Japanese army staff at Hong Kong, said:

"In view of the fact that the peace treaty is called a treaty of trust and reconciliation and since its object is to bring peace, I think a problem such as the prisoner problem — a problem of the aftermath of war — should have been disposed of with the coming into effect of the peace treaty. Possibly it cannot be helped that Japan will have to make material reparations for damages done. But we think the spiritual punishment of the Japanese people should have ended the coming into force of the Japanese peace treaty."

He said he believed the purpose of the war crimes trials "was the desire, perhaps, to prevent war and, even if there is another war, to prevent atrocities. I believe that the motive has been served."

Ten of the 12 Class A prisoners — two were in the prison hospital suffering from ulcers — met reporters, generally, in their area on the top floor of the prison. The ten were men of obvious dignity despite their worn khaki uniform with "P" — for prisoner — lettered on the knees.

Each has a small room. They mingle as they please, and their doors never are locked. All are more than 60 years old, but they seemed in good condition.

Okinori Kaya, former Japanese minister of finance, smiled affably as he acted as a spokesman.

"We want the B and C war criminals released," he said, "but

Boyle's Column . . . Gertrude Lawrence Was Like A Bright Star In The Summer

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In life there are some people like a bright star in a summer night. You don't have to meet them or know them. Merely to know you share the same world makes you feel better.

Gertrude Lawrence was one of this shining company. Her magnetic gift of gaiety lifted the hearts of millions who learned to laugh at their troubles with "Gertie."

Her steady rise from chorus girl to a reigning queen of the stage puzzled many a member of her own profession.

"She isn't a great dancer, she isn't even a very good singer," they said, "and certainly she is no great shakes as an actress."

Miss Lawrence cheerfully admitted most of her critics were quite right. She was secure in the knowledge of what she really was — one of the great all-around performers in the history of the theater.

Created Illusion

Others had higher talents. Few in her own time, however, equalled her sheer genius in putting over a song or a role. Her art was the power of creating illusion, and sharing it with the people who came to see her.

Personality is magnetism, and that she had. When she stepped on a stage it seemed brighter. Even before the first notes poured from that husky throat, the warmth of her spread though an audience like an invisible wave of heat from a hidden fire.

Women envied her for this quality of ignition — men loved her for it.

She was a hard worker all the way, and never was content to lean on her oars and believe her press notices. She always was ready to help young actors and actresses learn their craft, and she remained a perennial student herself.

Still The Champ

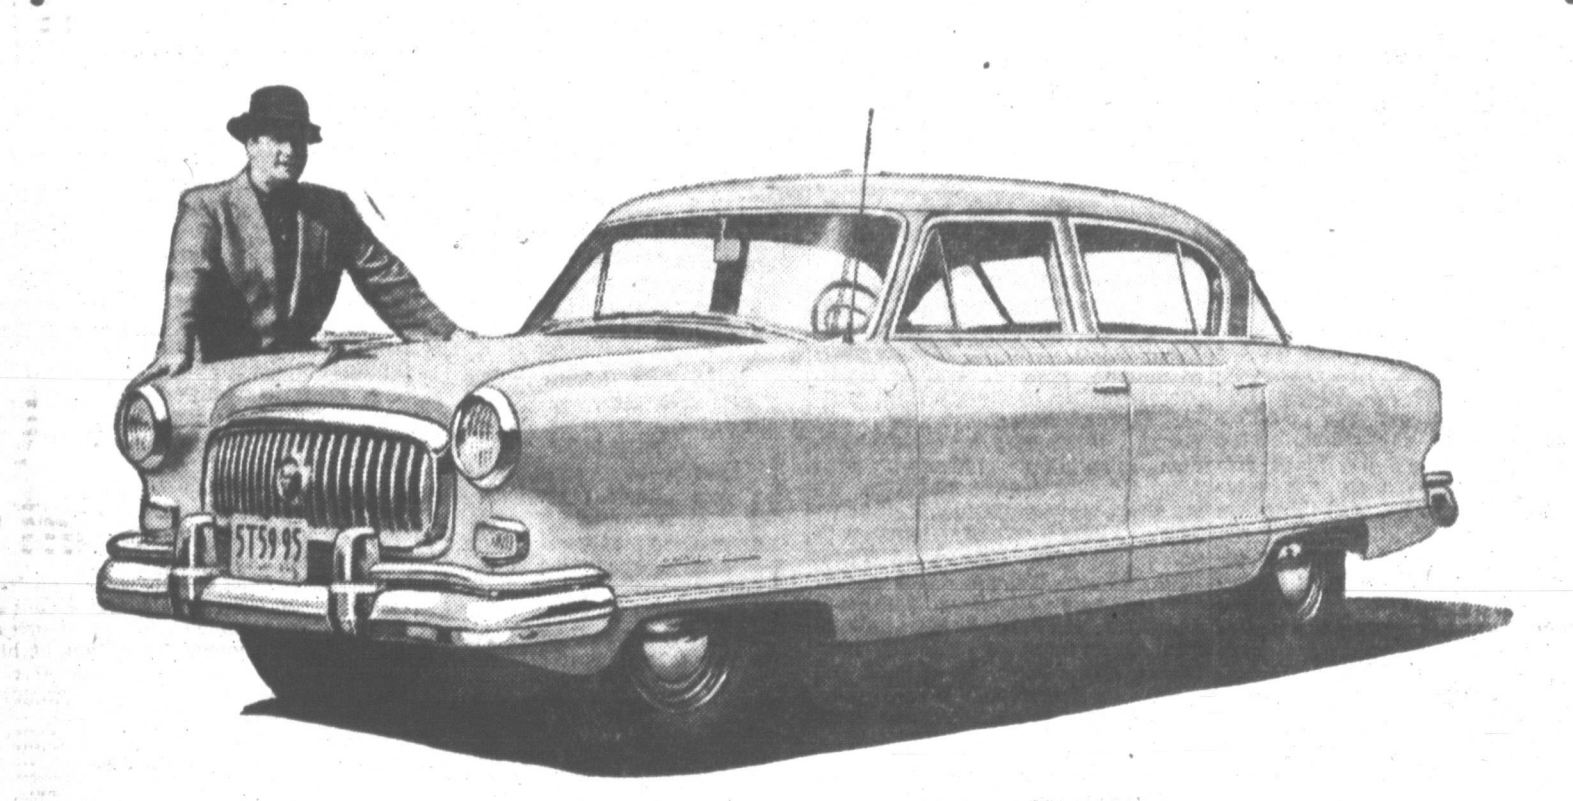

"An actress is like a piece of blotting paper," she said once. "You don't consciously learn the technique of acting, you absorb it."

Gertie, like all champions, was a tremendous competitor. Broadwayites still recall that famous opening night of "Lady In The Dark" in 1941. Danny Kaye, then rival, she was secure in the knowledge of what she really was — one of the great all-around performers in the history of the theater.

What would Gertie do? The critics wondered. And waiting in the wings for the applause to end, Gertie must have wondered too. It is all — but — impossible to knock over a tough Broadway first — night audience with two songs in a row.

Out glided Gertie. She switched her hips, and began to sing a slow torch song called "Jenny." She never sang one better, and the house camp down even harder and stopped the show again.

Gertrude was still the champ. Footlights Out Now

She remained a champion until the end. Despite her illness she stubbornly stuck to her star role in "The King and I" until three weeks before her death.

One who saw her recently said: "At the start of the show I felt embarrassed her voice had gone down so far. But at the end I wanted to stand up and cheer her — so I did."

The footlights have blinked out for Gertie, one of the blithest spirits in a sorry time. All who ever saw her mourn her now. But all their memories of her are happy ones, and I think Gertie would be glad to have that as her epitaph.

OUR TOWN

by Wanda Campbell

In the summer of 1948 a little 8-year-old girl on Robert Street was stricken with polio. We thought about Betty Wheeler Billberry a lot then. She was the first victim of the disease. But after awhile we forgot about Betty. We forgot that sometimes a little girl gets well. Earlier this summer Betty went to St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo, and last week she underwent the first of three operations that bone specialists believe will strengthen her spine. Her doctors say she is doing "better than expected" so that encourages Betty a lot. Thoughts of not starting to school this week had made her a little blue. But now that the first operation is over, school system has offered to go to the hospital each day and help Betty with her school work. Her illness has caused her to miss a lot of school but she is a good student and was able to make up three grades in one year. She is favorite with everyone who knows her. Her best years teacher, Frances McCue, was impressed with Betty's attitude toward her school work and her classmates. She is a "pet" of the hospital nurses. A little girl has been at the end part of her legs, are covered with a cast, but nurses say the cast doesn't hide Betty's beautiful disposition and cheerful outlook. Visits from her family (Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Billberry, 1109 S. Sumner) mean a lot to Betty. Mrs. O. H. Gilstrap, her Sunday School teacher at the Missionary Baptist Church, visits the hospital often. She has arranged for a group of Amarillo people to bring cards and flowers from friends to help the time pass and help Betty keep her chin up. Because she knows that when the other operations are over and when she's well again, there'll be many, many friends waiting for her here at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scrivner Entertain 1926 Shamrock High School Class

SHAMROCK (Special) — Twelve of the 26 graduates of Shamrock High School class of 1926 held a reunion recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scrivner in Shamrock. It was the first time the group had been together since graduation in May, 26 years ago. A banner, "Seniors 1926," was featured in an arrangement of purple asters and gladioli on the refreshment table. The ice-cream and cold delectable set the color scheme used throughout the house. Those were the class colors. Their motto was, "It matters not the score, but how we play the game." The meeting was called to order by the president, Paul Stauffer and roll call was answered by each member giving his name, address, birthday, and the high points of his life since graduation. Glenn LaDue acted as master of ceremonies. The class prophecy was read and the jokes and experiences it brought to mind gave much laughter to the reading. Memory books, annuals, picnic, cards and other souvenirs were brought to the meeting. Mrs. Paul Stauffer and Roy Scrivner, who married members of the class, made the coffee which was served with doughnuts to these classmates and their husbands and wives. Mrs. Alfred Amarillo; Mrs. Jamie (Lummiss) Bliss of Durias; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie McCaslin (Mamie Jackson) of Groom; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stauffer of Compton; Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Hook Bryan of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. Virgal Agan (Glady's Nelson) of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Poole (Alma Westmyland) of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Hardy (Edith Morris) and son of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn LaDue of Shamrock; Eugene Worley of Washington, D. C.; and Mrs. Roy Scrivner (Ester Turnbow) of Shamrock. Addresses of two members of the class are not known. They are Vivian Davis Wright whose last known address was Lubbock and Robert Smith who is known to have lived in Borger about 10 years ago. The class wants to hold a 100 per cent reunion and Mrs. Scrivner, acting secretary, requests any information, or addresses of her classmates. Members of the class who are unable to attend the reunion are: Maedine (Tarpley) Roundtree of Pampa; J. T. Easley of Fort Sumner, N. M.; Valeria Brown who is an Army nurse stationed in the Panama Canal Zone; Maude McMurtry who lives in Shamrock, but is visiting in Kansas. Grace Friend

Readers of The News are invited to send their problems to Grace Friend. Letters not published will be answered personally if stamped and self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Writers must sign their names although they will not be printed without the writer's permission.

Dear Grace Friend: I want to thank you so much for forwarding the letters to me concerning the formation of a club. I was rather disappointed not to have had more interest shown in the project but at least it is a beginning. I do believe a lot of women have definite need for help along those lines for various reasons and if they could be reached and become interested it would be most beneficial to them. After we become organized I hope to be able to call upon you again to describe our activities and future plans in your column and perhaps gain new members at that time. If you have any suggestions for a course of study, reading materials sources of information or any other ideas of your own I would be most happy to hear from you. Thank you again for your cooperation. It is deeply appreciated. Mrs. Y. L.

Dear Mrs. Y. L.: As I no longer have A. K.'s address I shall use your letter to her in my column. Thank you very much for your note. I believe that it is easier to organize a club when the membership is quite small. After your rules are made you will find that you will get more members. Your letter for A. K. follows: Dear A. K.: How nice of you to take time to outline the set of rules and write such an encouraging letter. I am sure we will find them most helpful and we shall certainly put them into practice. At this date the membership is small but I feel confident there will be more members in the future. Your letter sounds as if you are a person of experience and we would welcome any more suggestions you might have to offer from time to time. Perhaps you would be interested in attending one of our meetings. Thank you again for your friendly gesture. Mrs. Y. L.

SPICY PORK AND BEANS

Bubbling with spicy flavor is a pork and bean casserole made with chopped apple, sausage and spices. First pour one one-pound can of pork and beans into a baking dish. Cut a medium-sized apple into bite-size pieces and stir it into the beans; add 1-1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Dot the top with one large link sausage, cut into slices. Heat to bubbling in a hot oven (400 F.) about 20 minutes. This makes four servings.

The word "Navy" originally meant all the shipping owned by one country, and only later was the meaning limited to warships.

Card of Thanks

And we know that all things work together for good of them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose. —Roman 8:28.

Dear parents, in that country to which your child has gone, No night succeeds the dawn; There are no scenes of sorrow—But radiant happiness. For evermore they stay, Who dwell among the angels. Where tears are wiped away, Christ mourned at the tomb of Lazarus.

He realized the loss—The darkness of the valley. The bitter grief at parting. The pain that parents feel; He wept, though he was ready. The human grief to heal. Oh, there are tears for OHG. And heart-break by the grave; There's a loneliness and slight. But Christings should be brave. For One who passed before us Came back that we might see That soul-life is eternal—Let this your comfort be.

LARRY LANCE

We wish to express our most sincere appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for the many deeds of kindness extended us in our time of sorrow in the loss of our dear little son and brother Larry, age 5 years, who passed his heavenly home after so short a time with us. We wish to acknowledge the many courtesies extended to us by the membership of the Church of Christ and the consoling message of Rev. Crenshaw. Also to Duellin-Carmichael Funeral Home for a beautiful last rites. Mr. & Mrs. Gordon Lance and family.

WITH A GEIGER COUNTER HE MIGHT EVEN FIND CHLOE IN HIS FILES...

THANK ANDA HATLO THAT THE WORLD'S THE BIGGEST.

"He looks exactly like Tony Curtis... except that he's tall and skinny and blond"

FUTURISTIC DISPLAY — This "space ship" of flowers entered by Parish of St. Saviour won first prize for floats in annual carnival on English Channel Island of Jersey.

THEY'VE MET — Perhaps it's a look of reproach Isabella, a spotted leopard, gives the photographer for interrupting a group with Felicia, a black panther, at Los Angeles, Cal., zoo.

Izzy And Boys Find NYC Is Quite A Town

NEW YORK CITY — A person could play in this place for years and never see all there was to see. But we've seen a lot. Yesterday, we took a tour of Upper and Lower Manhattan and today we took a boat ride around the island.

On our first tour we left from Radio City. First we went past the Empire State Building. Now, that is something that should be in Texas. As you might know, it is 102 stories high, and looks like a stretched plum past the clouds. Our guide said that it could be rainy and foggy on the streets of the city and you could go on top of the Empire and it would be a nice sun-shiny day. Then it was on to the campus of New York University. That's the home of the underpaid basketball players. New York University campus is in Greenwich village.

Guys about the sorriest collection of mankind is located in the bowery. As we drove down the street we could look out the windows of the bus and see men sleeping in the doorways, men who didn't even have a shirt to wear. Cold chills run up and down your spine when one of them looks at you.

Ironically, located in the heart of the Bowery is a street from which are sold oily wedding gowns and things that a bride would wear. The last thing a person of the Bowery legion would want, on the fringe of the Bowery is located Chinatown. It seems to be out of place among the skyscrapers that border it. Chinatown is a place of narrow, winding streets and small shops. They must think straight streets bring on the devil because not one of the streets goes more than twenty or thirty feet without a crook in it.

Next we got our first glimpse of the First Lady of America, the Statue of Liberty. It is quite a sight to see her standing out there in the harbor. We could see how an immigrant to this country would feel on seeing her for the first time.

From the East River we drove over to Central Park and went over the east side. This part is called Millionaire's Row and well named it is because the apartments along here cost up to one hundred and thirty-five dollars a day. Anybody want one?

The danglest thing we saw was the change from riches to rags there along Central park. On one side of the street was the ritzy Millionaire's Row and on the other was the most congested section of New York.

The Little Merchants

Meet Tommy Strawn, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Strawn, 209 E. Francis, today's presentation of Pampa Daily News carrier staff. Tommy has been delivering the News for nearly a year, almost as long as he has lived in Pampa.

He starts his daily route at the 800 block on E. Browning and goes from there to the 1400 block. He covers the 900 to 1000 blocks on T. W. Ford and Fisher and the 400 and 500 blocks on Sloan.

Tommy moved with his parents from Clayton, N. M., a little more than a year ago and before living in New Mexico he lived nine in Mississippi. But, he declares, Texas is the best state. This 13-year-old will be in the eighth grade at junior high next year. He likes school and social studies are his favorite subjects. In his spare time, Tommy builds model old-fashioned cars with his neighbor friends. He also enjoys all sports—just whichever one is in season. However, he's a little partial to baseball and likes to play third base or short stop.

Light comedy and musical rank high on his favorite movie list and he likes to read historical adventure books. He's very fond of eating, but he has no favorite food—just so it's good, he says.

With all these interests lined up, Tommy says he has no time for girls.

If any of his customers misses a newspaper some evening, Tommy may be reached by phone at 1251-J. standing on the pillars holding up the roof. On one side of the lobby they seem to be standing with their weight on their left legs, but if you walk to the other side of the room, it appears as if they have shifted their weight and are resting on their right legs. Present's eyes are always on you no matter where in the lobby you stand. And the spiral of smoke is always in a position where you can look up through the center. It ain't human.

George pulled a quicky on Betty, our guide. Betty took us into the Radio City Music Hall and took us into the lobby. We were at the end of the group. As we came to the door a guy came up to George and whispered "She'll ask you a question and the answer is 60 feet." Sure enough, Betty asked a question. The question was, "How high is the roof to the lobby?"

When George came back with a fast 60 feet, Betty just looked at him real hard. She said that that was right and asked George suspiciously if he had ever taken that tour before.

We went up on top of the RCA building which is 70 stories high. Boy, you can sure see a long way from there. All the than the RCA building. The Chrysler Building which is seven stories higher, looked as if it was seven stories smaller.

By the time we got through with the Rockefeller tour we were popped out, so we went to our hotel and went to bed. This morning we got up and went to take the Circle Line tour around Manhattan Island.

Today there is an overcast around this area and the boat we were in did quite a bit of rocking. We sat right up front and got soaked by the waves that splashed over the bow.

The Circle Line tour goes south down the Hudson River and back up the East River. Below the Southern tip of the island we swung out and got a close view of the Statue of Liberty. Most people know that the Statue was given to the United States by France, but not many know that the Pedestal on which she stands was paid for by the school kids of this country. And that the sculptor's model for the statue was his mother. Then the boat continued passing under the Brooklyn Bridge. The last of twenty we passed under on the trip. We also passed under the George Washington bridge.

After docking we piled in Isable and immediately headed South, toward Washington. We doubt if we will get to sight-see much in Washington because of all the trouble Isable gave us on the way to New York three us way short of time. So if in the next few days flying saucers are reported between New York City and Pampa, don't be alarmed. It will just be Isable's vapor trail as she heads for the wild and woolly west powered by those Skelly Products.

Lassie Licks Bosses' Hands When He Severs Studio Deal

HOLLYWOOD — In all the hub-bub between Mario Lanza and MGM, a significant event was overlooked. Another top star, the debonair colie Lassie, severed relations with the studio, but on much friendlier terms.

No suspensions. No name-calling. Lassie just licked his bosses' hands, he shook his paw and all called it quits. It was a model of star-studio relationship.

But then Lassie has been a model star. In eight years, he's really a he, you know has romped through 15 pictures without a temperamental outburst.

The association has been mutually profitable. The first film, "Lassie Come Home," cost a million and netted three. All of the Lassie films have been money-makers. In return, Lassie was paid $2,500 a week when working and $1,600 when not working. That made him one of the highest-paid stars in Hollywood and certainly the richest female impersonator of all time. Although my relations with Lassie have always been cordial, I chose to interview his agent about future plans, etc. Lassie never was very good copy.

"We parted with MGM on the friendliest of terms," assured the agent, a busy fellow named Lew Dorn. "About a year ago, I had a talk with Louis K. Sidney, one of the bosses. He said the studio was cutting down on million-dollar pictures and the Lassie pictures, which were always in color, were too expensive.

"We agreed that the name 'Lassie' was important to both of us. So we had a conference with officials from the contract department, legal department and casting. We worked out a plan where Lassie would be released and would not work for a year. That would give the studio time to clear up its releases and releases.

"Now the year is up, and we are ready to go to work," Dorn said he would seek another major studio contract for Lassie. He added that he had many other offers, including several for a television series, which may eventuate. Also being handled are theater tours, dog show appearances, etc.

Like many stars, Lassie appears to be easy in the matter of age. He is listed in the Motion Picture Almanac as being born in North Hollywood on June 8. No year is mentioned.

However, his agent admitted that the famed colie is 7 or 9 years old, which is well into middle age. "But he's still very active and puts on a good display of tricks when he's making appearances," Dorn added. "As time goes on, we hope to work his son Laddie more and more into the act and some day have him take over."

Lassie has kept in training during his year's layoff. Dorn remarked. His trainer, Rudd Weatherwax, has taken him on mountain trips and picnics to keep him in trim and carefully prepared a vitamin-packed diet.
