Luring Demos Back To Fold

By The Associated Press There were new signs today the Democratic party is uniting far more solidly behind Gov. Adlai E. Stevens son than it did behind President Truman.

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, one of the losers in the race for the nomination prize won by Stevenson, said the Illinois governor will be elected president "by one of the fargest majorities any man ever had," No Dixie Revelt

Russell, after a talk with Stevenson yesterday, predicted the governor will carry the entire South. He said he saw no indication of a Dixie revolt like the one that split the party in 1948. South Carolina joined the growing list of Southern states backng Stevenson yesterday. Earlier the week Georgia's Democratic Executive Committee pledged its electors to the governor, and Mississippi State Rights Democrats failed to win control of the party machinery — a good sign or Stevenson.

No Action Needed

No action on the part of the beneficiary already on the social security rolls is needed to get the increase. The checks to be mailed about Oct. 3 automatically will include the higher amount. The federal government also is increasing for two years its share of funds granted to the states for public assistance to four groups, but just what part of the increase, if any will go to the more than five million individual recipients will be up to the states.

The new law makes possible an additional $5 a month in federal funds for those receiving old-age asistance, aid to the blind and aid to the permanently and totally disabled. It permits increases for those receiving aid to dependent children by $3 a month in each category - for the home maker and each dependent child.

Courage Extended But the states have laws gov erning the public assistance programs which in some instances place a maximum, such as $50 a month, on the amount of federal and state funds which can be paid an individual.

The law also estblishes the principle of protecting the oldage and survivors insurance of persons who become permanently and totally disabled before reaching old age, but fails to provide machinery for putting the program into effect.

You Can Whisper—and Be Heard!

We should like to have you come in for a ride in a Golden Anniversary Cadillac. And when you do, we hope you will just sit back and relax . . . and listen! And what will you hear?

Well, you'll hear the soft sound of the wind as it slips past the streamlined body . . . and, possibly, the quiet ticking of the electric clock.

But aside from these-you'll hear almost nothing. In fact, you'll find you can actually whisper-and be heard by your fellow-passengers!

We want you to experience this because nothing speaks more eloquently or more convincingly of motor car quality than-silencel It tells you, first of all, that here is automotive engineering at its superlative best. For such silence of operation can only come when every phase of the car's performance is in perfect harmony.

It speaks of precision—for only the greatest accuracy in design and construction can result in such remarkable freedom from vibration.

It is a testimonial to fine craftsmanship-to quality materials-and to scientific styling.

And, of course, this marvelous quiet foretells many of the pleasures and satisfactions you would enjoy as the car's owner. It promises rest - and relaxation - and peace of mind . . . and a minimum of upkeep expense.

So why not take our suggestion-and come in and drive this beautiful Golden Anniversary creation? Let it tell you its own wonderful story through the things you

Even in the young man's field of aviation, Rodney is young for the job he holds as second officer on a Pan-American Clipper flying the San Francisco to Manila route. He's a veteran with more than 2000 hours of logged time in the air to his credit, and with probably close to that much more time unlogged because he was too young to hold a "whole foolish business."

But on his 17th birthday, when Rodney "checked out" for his license at the airport, both mother and father were on hand to see him. Lirs. Coston took the first ride with her son as a licensed pilot and the boy's father took the second flight, after extracting a promise "to fly low and slow."

Absorbed With Aviation

Rodney's absorption and interest in aivation became apparent back in Malvern at the family dinner table. So when he was reported missing from school, his mother, Mrs. Elbert Coston simply called Mrs. Elbert Coston, simply called the local airport. Rodney, of course was there, having skipped school to wash airplanes and help around the hangars.

Don't let your husband, brother or son throw away that old shirt. It has tremendous fashion possibilities for you. A little ingenuity plus scissors, needle and thread can transform any number of shirts into a variety of accessories. This news will be especially valuable to the tall girl who can never keep her shirt tails where they belong. Imagine, for instance, the versatile uses of a tuck-in blouse like the one pictured at the left. It's easy to make, too, and looks so chic with a full skirt and wide belt. How good a hostess are you? It's a smart idea to check up on yourself once in a while, especialif you seem to get more than your share of refusals when you invite people to your house. If you find yourself dreading even the simplest kind of entertainment as a job to be done, rather than pleasant time to be anticipated, then it is time to take a look at yourself.
Well how about it? When you phone to invite the Smiths to dinner, do you make the invitation sound special and cordial and show by your manner that you expect them to want to come? Or do you make the invitation sound like duty by some lame apology about meaning to have had them over for ages, or by belittling the invitation by saying: "It's not going to be anything special?" Are you always ready to welcome your guests when they arrive on time? Or does the doorbell often fnd you still with your make-up off, or busy in the kitchen, or rushing around in a last minute scramble to do odd jobs that should have been done that morning or even the day

Have you enough small talk on tap to make the first few minutes after your guests' arrive seem retaxed and comfortable? Or do you just hope that the guests will take over and break the ice themselves?

Can you look after the comfor of guests in a way that seems casual and easy? Or do you flutter around giving the impression that you're afraid nobody is having a good time and that this person or that one must be uncomfortable?

Flying Saucers

The latest rash of flying saucer reports has brought a new confusion of theories and announcements from scientists, Civilian Defense and Air Force top brass.

The Air Force, which for several years has tried its best to pooh-pooh the saucers by calling them weather balloons, products of fertile imaginations and optical il-Jusions has finally broken down to the extent of admitting the flying saucers are real.

In fact, the Air Force has jet interceptor planes ready to take off into the wild blue yonder to chase any flying saucers in the area. Just what the jets will do if they are lucky, or unlucky enough to catch a saucer, was not

Some scientists have stated they believe the saucers come from another planet. Others attribute them to an earthly source. The latter could not, or would not, give any indication as to why they believed this, nor would they state which nation they thought might be putting the saucers in the air.

Of course, the Russians are suspect. However, in view of Russia's belligerent attitude toward non-communist nations and her apparent desire to control the world by any means, it's hardly logical to assume that Russiancontrolled saucers would fly over our cities and military installations without dropping some tokens of their visit -say an atom bomb or two.

Another theory has it that the saucers contain visitors from another planet who may be trying to establish contact with us earth people. If this theory is tenable, the inevitable question arises: "Why don't they land?"

Since the flying saucers are a current top mystery and everybody seems to be coming out with a theory, perhaps we may be allowed to advance a theory or two.

Let us assume the flying saucers are from another planet that is trying to establish contact with earth people. First of all, if the men from outer space were going to land, they probably would want to be reasonably certain that their lives would not be in danger — that they would meet a friendly, intelligent people.

If the saucer men should get a glimpse of the way American drivers needlessly slaughter each other on the highways of the nation, it is safe to assume they would e large doubts as to how safe they would be upon landing.

And if the visitors should get around Korea and see human beings locked in a useless war where the dead and maimed are forming a horrible monument to governmental stupidity, they certainly would not land.

It may be safe to say that if the people from another planet are scientifically advanced enough to build a spaceship, they may also be advanced enough to have learned our language and perhaps to look at us through some super-radar machine.

Latest reports have flying saucers around Washington, D. C. If our theoretical space travelers can get a glimpse of the inner workings of the nation's capital and hear what's going on there, there's not much chance that they will land. In fact, if they are intelligent enought to recognize the rampant greed and dishonesty there, they will fly on to another planet. Just in case the saucer travelers are from another planet, and just in case they should get hold of a copy of this newspaper, here's a bit of advice we'd like to leave with them:

"For the present, why don't you seek to make contact with another planet where people may be operating on a higher plane than they do on earth at present? For the past several decades, if you have observed us closely, you must have seen some of the terrible things that were inflicted on this nation and on other nations by some of our leaders who wilfully forgot to put duty and honesty above personal gain and selfishness.

"Some of the people are trying their best to get things straightened out here on earth and to return to living by the principles set forth by Jesus Christ.

"While now you see a world torn by strife, and nations being ground under the heels of ruthless political parties and dictatorial regimes, we have hopes that the earth people still have the courage and will to seek out a bet-

"It is our earnest hope that when you come back in some future year, you will find this earth of ours a place where free men can live in peace and prosperity."

For Power's Sake

Four retail food distributor groups, representing some 125,000 stores including chains, independents and cooperatives, recently petitioned OPS to at once suspend price controls on two lists of foods. The first covered foods which are in abundant supply, and which in most cases have been selling at helow-ceiling levels. The second list consisted of specialized and luxury foods which have no influence on the cost of living of the vast majority of American families, such as capers, cummin seed, stemless maraschino cherries, and so on.

At various times other retail groups in non-food fields have made similar requests of OPS, for similar reasons. What makes this significant is the light it casts on OPS' policies and philosophies. For the most part, the bureau has fought every attempt to lift or change its controls, even when it was evident that there was no fustification for maintaining them. When OPS has made changes of importance, it usually happened under protest, and obviously has been influenced by the fact that more and more members of Congress are reaching the conclusion that OPS is diseasing the economy, and creating greater and more difficult problems than those it is supposed to carrect. In other words, OPS is one more outstanding example of the truism that bureaucrats always want more and more power - and will never willingly give up powers once gained. Controls are exerted purely for the sake of control. And when this goes on long enough, the whole economy is straitjacketed and ultimately representative government itself is threatened.

Church Members Better Read Their Church Magazines To See If They Are Christian

Someone has said that the way to kill an idea is to organize it Sooner or later too many of the ndividuals in a group begin to be Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would loyal to the organization rather to me when I read "Presbyterian Life" that a couple of conscientious members of the Presbyterian church brought in to me. In the June 21st issue of this magazine it reports:

"The Presbyterian Church of the United States last month became a short debate and a statement favoring the move by Dr. Harold E. Nicely of Rochester, New York, the Assembly approved an overture from the Presbytery of Rochester requesting "the Houses of Congress to make provisions for the voluntary inclusion of ordained ministers by the appropriate amendments to the present act.'

"The present Social Security Act, as recently amended, allows volun tary participation on the part of religious employes not engaged in the full-time parish ministry.

"Opposition to the move came from commissioners who felt that the church's pastors should be free from any ties to the government that might infringe upon the nation's historic separation of church and state."

The main backer of the move ment, Dr. Harold Nicely, contended that the lay employes of most of the church's boards and agencies were covered, and added:

"Social Security is not in any sense a special bounty bestowed on the church by the state. It is a contributory old-age insurance plan, open to all employes, with workers and employes paying premiums to insure a modest retirement pen-

Dr. Nicely, in controverting the objections that the state and church should be separated, asked whether the freedom of the press is impaired by the fact that the employes of a newspaper are covered by Social Security.

Certainly, freedom of the press s impaired to a degree when newspapers deduct from their employes' pay. The members of the press do not have the money that they turn over to the state to use in expanding its business and in trying to get the people to understand the danger of an unlimited government. Dr. Nicely, or no other man who pelieves in state "social security" can tell how he would limit the government. And when people are orced to contribute to something that they do not want to contribute to then certainly their freedom is limited. Dr. Nicely, or no other Presbyterian who advocates 'social security," can cite one solitary statement accredited to Jesus that sanctions individuals or groups running to the government to have the government take care of people. If the church people cannot take care of their own employes and want those people who do not belong to the church to be taxed to help pay for taking care of church employes, then they

f Christianity In the July issue of the "Presbyterian Life," under the heading of The Church and Industrial Relations," it says: "We urge a greater emphasis apon free collective bargaining in abor-management relations, with decisions mutually and voluntarily arrived at, rather than reliance on public agencies for decisions. Moral values are often more clearly discerned when labor and managenent realize their common cause and responsibility.

We suggest that Presbyterian aymen participate more actively management organizations and labor unions as an expression of Christian vocation.'

When the Presbyterians advoate collective bargaining they are certainly not following the precepts of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ aught that the individual was all nportant and that he must make ecisions himself and he must not letermine right from wrong by maority rule, as is the case when the ollective bargaining group atempts to determine the value of different services. Every individual coup has no way of knowing what the production of each individual is worth. Probably the men in the Presbyterian General Assembly do ot even know that collective bargaining attempts to set not only the minimum but the maximum wages. That is trying to put all people in the same mold.

It is little wonder that we have ong strikes and class warfare when church people professing to represent Jesus Christ advocate collective bargaining that takes away from an individual his right to use his own conscience. Would any member of the General Assembly contend that having the majority bargain for an individual against his will is in agreement with the Golden Rule? Remember Jesus said, "Who made me a divider over you?" But the General Asembly of the Presbyterian church roduced in industry, Would that these Protestant deminations would get back to the nple principles of the Golden Rule and not go into advocating might makes right, as is the case with all labor unions that practice strikes when they cannot they want.

So I started turning down the scripts I didn't nese Communists have demandlike, and I must say that my ed apoligies and compensation judgment has been vindicated from Macau as a result of incidents late last month on the border between Red China and the Portuguese colony 35 miles east of here. The Communists called for Macau's administration to apologize publicly for "starting the border incidents," withdraw their border guards several hundred feet behind the Customs Building, pay compensation for Red casualties and damage to Chinese property, and bear "full blity for future incidents. The demands were sent to Lisbon, the Portugese capital. Five clashes occurred late in July between guards facing each other across the Macau-China border. Each side blamed the other. French, Reds Swap POWs n Indochina

HANOI, Indochina, (A) - Prisoners of war are being exchanged by the French Union forces and the Communist - led Vietminh in Indochina although there never has been any negotiation or agreement between them for reeasing captives.

From time to time - with no hint of regularity - the Vietminh set free numbers of French Inion soldiers and officers who straggle back into the French held Red River Delta.

The French, too, liberate many Vietminh, often as a special or-der in connection with state ceremonies or events. They usually free more in one batch than the Vietminh.

For instance, on France's Independence Day - July 14 - High Commissioner Jean Letourneau ordered 700 enemy prisoners of war liberated. A few days earlier, 159 French Union prisoners of the Vietminh reached Hanoi. The Vietminh prisoners of the French, well-treated and well fed, are turned back to their own territory in good health. On the other side of the pic ure, French Union soldiers freed by the Vietminh report generally that while they were not in-their Vietminh captors, they suffered much because of insufficient food and medicines. The Vietminh have been reported extremely French planes, flying over Northern Indochina close to the Or perhaps it would be more ac. Chinese frontier where most of

The Vietminh are estimated to have around 4,000 French Union prisoners of war. Over 50,000 Vietminh are held by the French, but the majority of these are believed to be civilian internees, with possibly 10,000 or so from Vietminh fighting units. There has been no attempt by either side to arrange a big exchange of prisoners in the
