FAMINE STRIKES IN INDIA—Apparently lost among the headlines about the political campaign, the cold war and the hot war, is the news that once again famine is taking its deadly toll in India. Commonplace are sights like that above—a woman lying in the street, dying of starvation, in the Uttar Pradesh Gorakhpur district. This is one of 11 districts in the famine area where crop failures have caused widespread misery and uncounted deaths.

General Makes Plea For Women's Support

Asks Distaff Side To Correct Wrongs

Dwight D. Eisenhower appealed to the women of America today to throw themselves into the presidential campaign "to correct the things that are wrong with us."

The GOP presidential nominee's appeal to the women voters was made before a cheering crowd estimated at 9,000 gathered at the Tampa (Fla.) ball park.

Tampa followed the lead of Atlanta, Jacksonville and Miami in giving Eisenhower a rousing welcome on his sweep across Dixie that has been booming in such spectacular fashion.

"I am anxious to draw the spirit of women into the campaign I am trying to wage," Eisenhower said after he had been introduced by GOP national committeewoman, Mrs. Helen Lieb.

Standing under a broiling sun on a bunting-draped platform at home plate, Eisenhower declared "we must recall the spiritual and moral values of our forefathers" in government.

He said he referred to the situation in Washington as a "mess" because "that's what the opposition calls it."

The general was cheered by a police-estimated crowd of 100,000 in Atlanta yesterday and wound up his first day's activities by addressing 12,000 in Miami, the largest crowd ever to hear a candidate speak in that city.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, conferred with agricultural leaders at his Springfield, Ill., headquarters and worked on the farm policy speech he is expected to make Saturday in Kasson, Minn.

Stevenson made no comment on charges by Republican Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois yesterday that the Democratic candidate's own state government was corrupt and needed cleaning up.

Stevenson's aides said his policy would be to concentrate on "getting the country acquainted with his views" on major issues, to ignore Republican attacks, and to let President Truman defend the Democratic administration.

The White House has announced three atomic explosions in Russia, referring to the second one as "another atomic bomb," without amplifying further. Other sources have estimated Russia has a stockpile of 100 or many more A-bombs by now.

Proctor declares it takes teamwork and co-operation to make an A-bomb work, and that Russians don't trust each other.

Such co-operation, he said, "is essentially impossible in Russia or any other totalitarian state. There is no possibility of one man trusting another and integrating his efforts with any other man."

"There is no reward for co-operation. The only reward is for exposing someone, even in your own family. Any combination of effort comes under suspicion as a combination against the dictatorship."

In 1930, Proctor worked on building Russia's second largest dam, at Sursutay east of Leningrad. In World War II he was an Army engineer, a colonel building the Persian corridor road from the Indian ocean to funnel supplies to Russia.

"We've been bluffed and fooled into thinking the Russians have produced more than they have."

Returns Show Doctor Long Likely Winner

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dr. George S. Long was more than 6,000 votes ahead today in his bid to become the fourth member of Louisiana's Long dynasty to sit in Congress.

The 68-year-old dentist, lawyer, and patent medicine manufacturer, said he had no doubt about the outcome of yesterday's 8th Congressional District race with Mayor Carl B. Close of Alexandria.

Returns from 202 of the district's 348 precincts gave Long 21,975 votes and Close 15,427. The uncounted rural areas were considered Long strongholds by political observers.

Brother Earl Long could not be reached for comment today. He is the son of the late Huey P. Long, and his handpicked successor, Carlos Spain, of Baton Rouge, was overwhelmingly defeated by Robert Kenner.

Nephew Russell Long is Louisiana's junior senator. Russell is the son of the late Huey P. Long, who was slain 17 years ago next Monday in the State Capitol at Baton Rouge.

Huey's widow, Mrs. Rose Long, was appointed to fill his term in the U. S. Senate.

Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Louisiana.

Tropical Hurricane Near The Bahamas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The second hurricane of the season lashed the Atlantic early today about 725 miles east of Nassau in the Bahamas.

The storm's vicious winds, estimated at 115 miles an hour, were expected to increase their speed during the day.

Little change, however, was looked for in its northwesterly or west-northwesterly course or in its forward movement of about 12 miles an hour.

No Contract, No Work... Lewis May Indicate Demands Of Miners

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis may give some indication today of what new work or pay benefits he wants for his 75,000 hard coal miners.

Representatives of Lewis' United Mine Workers and of the anthracite industry resume talks this afternoon on a new contract to replace one expiring Sept. 30.

Unless a new agreement is reached by the end of this month Lewis may call a strike of his hard coal diggers, as well as 400,000 soft coal miners.

The UMW chief notified the industry more than a month ago that he would end the existing contracts within 30 days. He also moved to clear the way legally for a strike by notifying the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service that the contracts may expire. This was to comply with provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Thus far the union chief has given no indication publicly as to what he wants in the new anthracite and bituminous agreements. There have been reports that he plans to ask the operators for a shorter work week in order to spread work in the coal fields more evenly among the miners.

Lack of jobs recently has cut the average miners work week to less than four days.

There also have been reports that he plans to ask a boost in the royalty of 30 cents per ton of coal that his union collects for its health and welfare fund. The anthracite and bituminous workers have separate funds.

The UMW representatives already have had some preliminary talks with anthracite operators in New York City and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Both sides said the initial anthracite talks had to do with technical problems including production, mine safety, mechanization of the industry, seniority and other such matters.

The talks were resumed today just 24 hours after most of the nation's coal miners returned to work from a 10-day mourning period for victims of mine tragedies.

However, the memorial holiday was extended in Western Pennsylvania, East Kentucky and Tennessee when thousands of miners refused to resume work. About 1,100 other miners were idle in Utah because of a contract dispute.

Oil Workers Approve Guide For Demands

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A program for seeking higher wages on the basis of higher production, as well as other demands, was approved yesterday by the CIO International Oil Workers Union.

The program, intended as a guide for collective bargaining in the oil industry, was drawn up by the union's policy committee.

It was approved by 350 delegates at the 22nd annual convention of the union.

Texan Swims Out To Meet Ship Containing Bibles, Bulldozers

HARBEL, Liberia (AP) — A missionary ship bringing Bibles and bulldozers to the natives of Liberia arrived here yesterday and didn't wait for his Ark LeTourneau to be met by the millionaire Texan who financed his trip.

The ship was sent to Liberia from the United States by LeTourneau to aid the country materially and spiritually. LeTourneau himself arrived by plane earlier and was on hand to welcome the Ark.

Those aboard the ship included Dr. Norma Holt, the woman doctor who two weeks ago stabbed three of her children with steak knives, and a spiritual leader who will be the spiritual leader for the development community which will be created at Tournate on the Liberian coast. She is LeTourneau's daughter.

A leader in church work, LeTourneau believes the Liberian natives will take to Christianity with more zeal if they have a prospect for more food. He hopes to transform the country into an expert land, with special emphasis on rice and lumber production.

Equipment the sponsor is bringing is valued at a million dollars.

WINSTON SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Dr. Norma Holt, the woman doctor who two weeks ago stabbed three of her children with steak knives, was arrested by police and committed to the State Hospital at Raleigh.

A Forsyth County Supreme Court jury Tuesday found her totally incompetent to stand trial for the Aug. 21 murder of her 3-year-old daughter, Vickie. Police said the other two children involved in the tragedy, Larry 9 months, and Anne, 4, have recovered from their wounds and are now living with relatives in Texas.

Novice Licking Machine Man In Nevada

RENO (AP) — Tom Mechling, young Washington, D. C., newspaperman who drew belly laughs from old-time Nevadans when he filed for the Democratic senatorial nomination, early today chose of powerful Sen. Pat McCarrin for the job.

With about 98 per cent of Tuesday's primary election vote counted, Mechling, 31, led by 699 votes—with only about 300 more to be counted. An unofficial tabulation early today gave Mechling 15,777 votes to 15,078 for Bible.

Bible had led throughout Tuesday evening, but figures from the Southern part of the state favored Mechling, who came to Nevada only seven months ago.

Mechling's showing is sensational no matter the outcome. Bible is a well-liked former state attorney general.

Nordyke Contracts To Write History Of Gray County

Work is to begin next week on a souvenir program for the Gray County 50th Birthday Celebration in October with Lewis Nordyke, Amarillo, one of the foremost writers of Texas, as editor.

The executive committee of the celebration association completed an agreement with Nordyke at a meeting yesterday.

Plans now are to complete the booklet about Oct. 1 for distribution. Mrs. Rufe Jordan was named to head a committee of women to distribute programs when they are completed.

All space is to be devoted to pictures and historical background and no advertising will be sold. Before leaving Pampa yesterday, Nordyke asked that all old-timers of Gray County make available any pictures of pioneer residents and of early-day scenes to help portray the beginning of the county to the present time.

He urged them to mail them or take them personally to M. K. Brown, general chairman of the association, or to take them to the chamber of commerce office in the city hall, headquarters for the celebration.

The committee has promised that pictures will not be damaged any way and that they will be returned as soon as the printers have finished using them.

Demo Won't Allow Name In GOP Ballot

MCALLEN (AP) — Rep. Lloyd Benzen Jr. will not allow his name to be crossed on the Republican ticket in the November general election.

The Democratic Congressman and nominee said Tuesday he wanted to make his position clear because "Republican friends have asked me if I'd allow my name to be placed on the Republican ballot."

Benzen recently said he could not "in good conscience" vote for or campaign for Democratic Presidential Candidate Adlai Stevenson.

"I'm a Democrat," the young congressman said Monday in explaining why he would not permit the GOP cross-filing. "I shall remain a Democrat."

Commission Picks Airport Manager

In rapid succession yesterday afternoon the county commissioners named Wesley Lewis, former Pampa auto dealer, manager of Perry LeFors Field at $400 per month salary and decided on paving the four-mile route to the field starting from the drive-in theater.

The road goes west one mile and north three miles. Present right-of-way — 60 feet — will be used in lieu of dickering with property owners over additional land for a wider road.

Wayland Merriman, consulting engineer, said he would have plans and specifications ready to advertise for bids by next week.

The commissioners hope to have the road finished this year. However, if cold weather sets in before the topping can be laid the rough base will suffice through the winter months.

Merriman told the commissioners Lewis' contract as manager stipulates a guarantee of $400 per month to be taken out of an airport fund. The fund will be built from sales of gasoline, handling, rental, and oil sales. All money over the $400 will go into the airport fund. Lewis, however, will have concessions on aircraft sales, shop work, and income from student pilot training.

County Judge Bruce Parker said Lewis was selected because of the CAA ratings he holds and his experience with aircraft from building to flying them. The new manager holds a private pilot's license, commercial license with multi-engine rating, advanced instructor's rating, private pilot examiner with authority to certify private pilots, and is in process of receiving an aircraft inspector's rating with authority to approve planes for flight or ground them and relicense them for flight.

Lewis was the former Studebaker Auto dealer here and for the last six months has been connected with the Higgins Air Service, Dallas, where he assisted in designing and building the Higgins Executive plane, a multi-engine ship capable of carrying a top load of 12 passengers.

Police Hold Man In Amarillo Robbery

AMARILLO (AP) — A handsome curly-haired young man was held by police today after a hold-up robbery of a Montgomery Ward store here.

Robbery by assault charges were filed against William Booth Webb, 21, Tuesday after a highway Patrolman cornered him as he fled on foot. Webb said he was from Los Angeles, Calif.

Police also hunted for a new employee of the firm who they believed cased the job. It was in his car that the robber pitched the paper sack holding more than $6,000 in cash and some $7,000 in checks.

The dapper bandit, well-dressed and with 49 tattoos on his body, refused to talk to newspapermen. Mrs. Sue Reed, assistant cashier, said the tattoo-decorated man walked into the store about 8:30 a.m. Tuesday when the door was open for employees only.

Engineer Claims Russ Still Have Not Produced A-Bomb

CHICAGO (AP) — "I don't believe Russia has one single atom bomb," Carlton S. Proctor, prominent New York engineer who has worked in Russia, declared today.

"I think every one of the atomic explosions in Russia was just a premature explosion, in an effort to produce a bomb."

Proctor is president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, one of 64 engineering societies celebrating a Centennial of Engineering opening here today.

He gave his views on Russia during an interview telling of U. S. engineers' vast accomplishments in the last 100 years.

Wichita Falls Will Get First Crack At Man Wanted Here

Wichita Falls authorities yesterday refused to release James Stephens, Amarillo, to Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard who intended to bring him to Pampa on charges of auto theft.

Stephens, the fourth member of a robbery and burglary gang broken up here last week, is also wanted for crimes in Wichita Falls and Graham, and by Oklahoma authorities.

Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo and Big Spring also want him for armed robbery, burglary and car theft.

Haggard said Stephens picked up while he peered through a nursery window at his newborn daughter, burglarized two places in Graham and Wichita Falls. He got a typewriter and check protractor from one place and a clock from another.

"I couldn't even get a book in at home," Haggard said, adding, "There were officers from all over the place after his scalp before I got there."

Others in the ring now being held here are Ray Payne, Brad Wise and Delvan Williamson, all of Abilene.

Annexation Talks Slated By City

A meeting with property owners in the southwestern part of town on annexation problems will be held within the next two weeks by City Manager B. H. Cause and Public Works Director Ray Evans.

A map, detailing each plot involved in the annexation, will be prepared by the engineering department, and used to show where utility lines could be laid. Other data concerning annexing the area will be shown the residents.

The action came after Dr. N. L. Nichol, veterinarian of 1129 S. Hobart, told city commissioners yesterday several residents felt they were not ready to be included in the city limits and wanted to know more facts surrounding the move before consenting to come inside the city limits. A petition bearing 30 names, for commission by John Wilde, 1044 S. Sumner.

The commission delayed action on the petition until after the city manager and public works director hold their meeting with the property owners.

HIGH GEAR IN THE LAND OF FEAR—Newschart above shows past Russian industrial production and the ambitious goals set for the new Soviet five-year plan compared to U. S. production last year. The target is a 70 per cent increase in all heavy industry fields, with consumer goods industries again taking a back seat. At present the Soviet economy is 35 years behind ours. Russian steel production, for example, is now where ours was in 1915. As the newschart indicates, the Soviets will have doubled their 1940 industrial potential if the goals are met.

Pampa Youth Rally Planned Saturday

Pampa's first city-wide youth rally has been announced for Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Central Baptist Church, 513 E. Francis.

Rev. Chester O'Brien, First Baptist Church in Wellington and a prominent youth evangelist in Texas, is to be the main attraction. He will present special music and Mrs. Bill O'Brien will serve as organist.

Testimonies and group singing are also on schedule. An invitation has been issued to every young person in Pampa.

Cool Spell Remains

Integrating fall weather continued to keep Pampans on their toes.

The high reading on the thermometer Tuesday was an even 80 degrees. And the mercury dropped to a low of 57 at night. At 11 a.m. today the thermometer read 78 degrees.

Izzy Proves Her Mettle By Reaching NYC In One Piece

By GEORGE SPAULDING and KENN WILLIAMS
NEW YORK CITY — Please notice that dateline. That's right, New York City. We made it, all three of us, George, Kenn and Izzy, and believe it or not, Izzy did it without a fight.

In Pittsburg, we hunted a hotel to spend the night. The city was so crowded for some reason that we ended up at a small hotel down in a rather hard looking neighborhood, but we were so tired that we weren't particular.

Getting up the next morning, we left Pittsburg and headed for the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Talk about flashy highways, that turnpike is one.

It runs from the Pennsylvania-Ohio line and runs down to Philadelphia. It doesn't go through any towns and can be entered only at designated entrances. The curves and hill grades have all been fixed so there isn't any strain on a car. The speed limit is 70 miles an hour. Izzy set a new minimum—30 miles an hour.

Never put a Model A in a closed room and start the motor; you'll lose your hearing! Izzy had to go through five tunnels and we are going to have to get ourselves some hearing aids!

White we were on the turnpike, Izzy started it again; her generator conked out. It quit running. So, Isable has a new part to her and we are proud to announce that at least it is running OK.

After getting the generator fixed we took out again. We were about 10 miles east of Harrisburg when all of a sudden a siren went off behind us. "Oh, oh we've been caught up with for running all those red lights. We meekly pulled to the side of the road. One of the biggest cops in the world stroled up and put his foot on Isable's running board.

"Got your driver's license?" he asked. Ken who was driving pulled his out and showed them to him. After a close look at the license the cop handed them back to Kenn and said "Your're OK." I just wanted to see what this was.

How do you like that? Scaring the living daylight out of us just so he could read all the signs on the car. So after shooting it breeze for about fifteen minutes he finally let us go on.

About an hour later we got the scare of our life when a truck started to pass us, it was just about around when a car popped up and the truck cut in and wham! we had a double fender and four mighty unstead-hands. Isable recovered and got us onto Allentown, Pa., where we spent the night.

This morning we started out with high expectations. We figured we could reach New York City by noon but Isable had other ideas. Everything was fine except for one minor detail, Isable quit climbing she went down the hill fine but she wouldn't go up. So there we were stranded between two hills. It was back to the garage. We pulled into a garage at the bottom of a hill and told the mechanic to fix her. Well, that was the cheapest fixing job we have had since we left. It only cost 75 cents, and took twenty minutes. Boy, did Izzy run good after that! She is running like she did when we left Pampa six days ago.

The sight we had come seventeen hundred miles to see came into sight at 12:30 this afternoon Aug. 28. We spied New York City and we were rather surprised. The traffic wasn't as bad as we expected. Izzy made it through in flying colors. We came into the city by way of Elizabeth and Newark, N.J. Well we think we did anyway, because when buildings came into view, one town to another without a break in scenery. There are buildings all around. We got across the East River of New York by way of the Holland Tunnel. The tunnel is about a mile long and runs from Newark to New York.

As A Qualified Voter . . .

Hank Demands Adlai, Ike Take A Firm Stand On Basic Issues

By HENRY McLEMORE
CUERNAVACA, MEXICO — With November no more than two whoops and a holler away, it is high time that Adlai and Ike took a firm stand on the really big issues of the day.

As a voter I would like to know, amidst all the thunderous speeches, how the candidates feel about the thousand and one things which play a part in the daily lives of Americans. Is Adlai a stickler for the menfolk of a family wearing coats to the family dinner table, higher than a cat's back? Or does he feel that a man's home is his castle and that it is perfectly proper for the men to eat sans coat, and with the sleeves of their shirts rolled up? I am curious as to how Ike feels about going to a movie and getting a seat behind a large woman wearing a larger hat. This hasn't happened to him for a long time now, because with his rank he was trumpeted in and given a front row seat, and it won't happen to him if he is elected president, but there must have been a time in his early days when he and Mamie had to compete with the crowd for a good seat.

Does he still remember those days? Would he advise, if given the resignation of several county officials, who then were re-appointed to straighten out a technical point of law. But the action also opened the way to a competitive election — had it been known publicly. By the time any prospective candidates learned of it, it was too late.

The nation's newspapers are waging an incessant campaign to tear down secrecy veils and are making headway.

One effort took two years. The Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker News discovered and protested that the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit was keeping secret the names of saloon keepers nabbed and fined for watering liquor.

The amounts of the fines, known as "compromise payments," also were kept secret.

Managing Editor Gerald H. Salisbury's fight was taken up by other newspapers and newspaper editors' societies.

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder conferred with their representatives and this summer announced a revision in regulations whereby second offenders, at least will be exposed to public scrutiny.

The Air Force sent two civilian identification experts to the scene. They promptly banned newsmen—and also the local civilian defense director—from the morgue.

Sam Wood, executive editor of the Waco Times-Herald and News-Tribune, called it censorship. He got on the phone to Air Force headquarters in Washington and within an hour the ban was lifted.

This reflects a condition noted repeatedly in surveying news bar-

Newsmen report that material withheld by ultra-cautious public relations officers in lower echelons often is released on appeal to their superiors—but by that time the newspaper has gone to press.

Public Records Still Blocked Despite Nation - Wide Fight

By JAMES DELVIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Government officials — federal, state and local — still bottle up matters of public interest despite a persistent nation-wide fight by newspapers and the radio for the people's right to know.

But some progress is being made, through law and by vigilant editors against this secrecy in government.

In Louisiana, for instance, a new freedom of information law went into effect last month. Similar legislation is being drawn in California, Pennsylvania and Alabama already have such laws. Watch-dog editors' committees are springing up in a number of states.

Numerous instances of domestic censorship have spurred this activity — and in each instance, editors contend, the people have a greater stake in the outcome than newspapermen or broadcasters who are fighting the battle for them. A few examples:

If you ever were robbed or threatened by somebody later sent to jail you might be interested in knowing when he got out again. But the North Dakota Pardon Board can — and does — release prisoners on parole without divulging their names.

An Oregon school board scheduled a meeting for one location, then met secretly at another to avoid newsmen who wanted to report the board's activities.

Another Oregon case concerned the resignation of several county officials, who then were re-appointed to straighten out a technical point of law. But the action also opened the way to a competitive election — had it been known publicly. By the time any prospective candidates learned of it, it was too late.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Watch The Timing And Don't Worry

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"How do you choose what to play for in this hand?" asks a Danbury correspondent. "When I played the hand, I won the first trick with the ace of clubs drew trumps, and tried for a 3-3 club break. When this failed I led a diamond from dummy, hoping that East held the ace."

"He didn't, as you can see, and I lost the slam. My wife told me that I could have ruffed out the queen of hearts. But how was I to know?"

It isn't necessary to choose a particular line of play in this hand. If you time the tricks carefully you can play for everything.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of clubs and lead out four rounds of trumps, discarding a diamond from the dummy. The fourth trump does not particular good in this case, but South can well afford it, and it may persuade one of the opponents that he is being squeezed.

South next cashes the ace and king of hearts and enters dummy with the kind of clubs to ruff a heart. If the queen of hearts drops, the slam is home.

If the queen of hearts does not drop, South leads his last club to dummy's queen in the hope that the suit will break 3-3. If so, the slam is home.

If South is unlucky both in hearts and clubs, he has lost nothing, since he is in the dummy, and can now lead a diamond towards his king. Hence, he will make his slam if the queen of hearts drops, or if the clubs break, or if the ace of diamonds is in the East hand.

Three-quarters of the earth's surface is covered by water.

Gardner Hurls Win Over Dukes, 3-1

The Pampa Oilers gained an even split with the Albuquerque Dukes in the final series of the year as Ted Gardner lefthanded his way to a neat 3-1 victory here last night. The rapid fire game was unfolded in one hour and 25 minutes before a crowd of less than 200 fans who came out in another night of football weather to see the last place Oilers.

Henry Overin, chunky Duke southpaw, was in the middle of a fine 1-1 game after the seventh when he threw a leadoff home run to Ed Sudol, Oiler rightfielder, and along with the blast rode the ball game.

The scoreless duel was broken in the fourth inning with the Oilers cracking the ice on Doug Lewis' line double down the left field line, a sharp single to short left, and a lengthy fly ball to deep left by Sudol, scoring Lewis.

The Dukes tied the count in the sixth after two were out. Art Cutti hit a sharp single in left and came all the way around to score on a double into left centerfield by Marilyn Burlington.

Then came the leadoff home run by Sudol in the seventh to tie the score. It was a towering smash over the leftfield fence that Rikard didn't even bother to move back on.

The Oilers struck once more in the same inning, Don Moore walking behind the home run, holding first while Norm Auerback fanned and then being cut down at second as Bobby Brown hit into a force play. Gardner then sent a sinking liner into rightfield which Frank De Carolis tried to shoe-string. But the ball went past him to the wall for a triple. Brown coming around with the game's last run.

The Oilers tried to get the Dukes started in the top of the ninth, Auerbach hitting Rikard's grounder and Phillips dropping Jerry Folkman's line drive. But Hally skied to center, Priest, pinbunting for Overin, popped to Lewis and Santiago forced Folkman to end the game.

Tonight the Lamesa Lobos, who just got through suffering two straight defeats at the hands of the snarling Berger Gassers, move into Pampa. They will run right smack into trouble in the form of righthander Max Molberg in the first game of the series starting at 8:15.

 The wage called it an off night for Berger and Lamesa. Only 29 fans fell safely as the Berger Gassers whipped the Lamesa Lobos 12-7 last night in League. Their combined total was 22 the evening before as Berger won 17-10.

Harvesters In Spirited Drills

The weatherman gave good cooperation again yesterday with the Pampa Harvesters racing through two more spirited drills.

A 75-minute morning drill followed by a two and a half hour evening practice session heartened the Harvesters coaching staff somewhat as the green and inexperienced gridders showed an enthusiasm for the game. Most of the evening session was devoted to private instruction for the tackles and guards, ends and backs while in the morning the gridders ran through a pass defense workout.

Today, with school getting back into full swing, the routine gets back into the usual one-a-day grind—at 3 o'clock each afternoon.

The Guerrillas also went through their paces for the first time this season yesterday afternoon with one of the biggest fields of "B" squadders turning out in recent years.

Today the junior high school Reapers were slated to get their work underway, the last Pampa football team to begin action.

 Coaches usually profess great pleasure when their teams are rated out of championship contention. They say that's fine psychology — and it also makes their jobs easier. If nobody expects anything nobody will be disappointed. At least that's the way it ought to be. But a lot of coaches have been fired for not winning with a team that wasn't supposed to win.

Anyhow, Coach George Sauer of Baylor is going against the accepted theory. He says his Bears have much more ability than the sports writers give them credit for. He doesn't like that six-place rating they've accorded Baylor in the Southwest Conference race. Perhaps he's a little alarmed; perchance he fears that if the fans are led to believe Baylor can't beat anybody they will stay away from the stadium. Coaches are as necessary to coaches as good football players.

But Sauer is different from most coaches anyway. He isn't the crying type; he considers his team's good points along with the bad. The others only talk about the bad.

But if psychology favors anybody Ray George should be the fair-haired boy. Ray is coach of Texas A&M, which is ranked seventh in the conference only because there are just seven teams. At least he's better off than Jess Neely of Rice was last year. Somebody placed Rice eighth. Which caused Jess to ask if maybe some other team—

Yankees Get Quick Dividends On Deal As Blackwell Aids In Win Over Bosox

By JOE RICHER
 AP Sports Writer
 The New York Yankees received a quick dividend on their $40,000 investment in Ewell Blackwell.

Five days after acquisition of the former National League star from the Cincinnati Reds, the Yankees last night sent Blackwell to the mound against the Boston Red Sox. The long, lean righthander responded with a scoreless five-inning performance to rack up his first American League triumph.

Blackwell was not the overpowering pitcher he had been in his days as a big winner with the Reds, but he looked quite capable before bowing out for a pinch hitter. He permitted four singles, fanned four and walked three before retiring because of weariness and the humidity.

It was in the fifth, however, when the Yankees ganged up on Boston starter Sid Hudson for all their runs to win the nightcap, 4-0, after rookie Tommy Gorman had hurled an eight-hit shutout over the Red Sox in the afternoon portion of the day-night doubleheader.

The two triumphs ran the Yankees' winning streak to five and increased their first-place margin over the idle Cleveland Indians to 3 1/2 games.

Brooklyn's Dodgers, the National League leaders, dropped apart to Philadelphia's Phillies, 8-2 and 9-3, and were lucky to get out of the City of Brotherly Love in the piece. Two dozen Philadelphia hits plus splendid pitching by righthanders Robin Roberts and Karl Drews cut the Dodgers' firstplace to lead over the idle New York Giants to eight games.

Cricket's White Sox climbed into fourth place, vanquishing the Detroit Tigers twice, 6-5 and 7-4. Rocco Krschich's two-run triple in the ninth won the opener, Marv Grissom won his 11th in the nightcap.

Washington's Senators, although held to three hits in each game, won both ends of a two-night hit shutout in his major league debut for Washington. A second-inning single by catcher Joe Aswell when the Yankees loaded the bases on Hudson in the fifth. Johnny Mize, the pinch swinger, popped out but Mickey Mantle came through with a two-out single that drove in two runs and broke up the scoreless duel. Phil Rizzuto's single sent the other two runs over the plate.

The Dodgers never had a chance as the Phils broke through for six runs in the first three innings, starting at 7:30, at the Pampa Athletic Club.

Following the exhibition he will give free instruction to any billiard enthusiasts who desire the instruction.

Sparkling Defense Strengthens Dumas

NEW YORK (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers seeking to break the major league club fielding record, are also well represented among the individual fielding leaders today.

The pennant-bound Brooks, who boast a .984 defensive mark, contribute third baseman Billy Cox, shortstop Pee Wee Reese, catcher Roy Campanella and outfielders Carl Furillo and Andy Pafko to the National League's list of top men.

The Dodgers continue their present pace; they will eclipse the existing team record of .983, established by the Cleveland Indians in 1947 and again in 1949.

Cox heads the third sackers with a .982 average. Willie Jones of the Philadelphia Phillies is second with a .974 rate.

Reese is deadlocked for the shortstop lead with Boston's Johnny Logan at .975.

Campanella holds a slight edge over Del Rice of St. Louis. The bulky Negro catcher shows a .965 mark to Rice's .964.

Along with Sid Gordon of Boston, Furillo and Pafko rate as the cream of the National League flycatchers. Gordon's .996 average is only one point better than that compiled by the Dodgers' outfielders.

A pair of Cincinnati players, Ted Kluszewski and Gray Halton, round out the National League's defensive pace-setters. Kluszewski, with a .994 rate, heads the first baseman and Halton, the second sacker, at .990.

In the American League, the highlight is Clint Courtney's sparkling .998 mark. The St. Louis Browns' catcher shows only one miscue in 455 chances.

Johnny Ligon of Boston is the front-runner among the shortstops at .980.

Fort Worth Stalls Eagles' Drive

 Dallas' pennant-hungry Eagles were made to bite the dust in League flag Tuesday night when Fort Worth's Bill Glane put the league leaders down on a four-hitter.

The Cats, in fact, took all honors in the 7-0 game. Mad for double-plays this season, the Fort Worth infield touched off three of the quick killings.

Shreveport won its seventh straight in chase of Fort Worth (or second place. Six games out to five for Fort Worth, Shreveport in three games, running the loop's total for the year to 132, a new high.

Hugh Sooter stopped Houston, one more than that of Beaumont's infield back in 1928, with a win on six-hit work.

Beaumont coasted by San Antonio, 8-5, in the other encounter, out-hitting the wilted Missions, 13-9. A five-run eighth off Pete Taylor brought about the decision.

John Payne A Salesman Now

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meet John Payne, salesman.

Now I'll bet you thought of Payne as the bare-chested gent who slices up pirates like baloney while grasping the heroine with a protective arm. Well, the same guy is perhaps Hollywood's most accomplished salesman.

He spent three months on the road last year, visiting 62 different cities. In the past three years, he has touched 225 U.S. cities, selling films like "Caribbean" all the while.

He performs these chores as principal star of William Pine and William Thomas, who don't just let a picture go out and sell itself. The "dollar bills," as they are called, are both former press agents. They and their stars hit the hinterlands with hoopla to hoist the profits of their adventure epics.

"It has been great experience for me," Payne admitted. "I've learned how a picture is exploited, and I'm going to make it pay off. I'm making two pictures as partner with Edward Small. With 25 per cent of the profits, I'll be out there on the road selling 'em, believe me."

"I've learned that two-thirds of this business is not in Hollywood. As far as the capital investment is concerned, only one-tenth of the business is in Hollywood. Of course, a very essential part is here. But Hollywood has neglected the selling end too long."

The actor remarked that he has learned many things by his chats with theater men, newspaper people and plain movie goers.

"Two years ago, I could see plain as day that the people didn't want to buy somber pictures with psychological overtones," he said. "A picture like 'The Heiress' was beautifully done, but it did poor business."

"People don't want to be depressed. That goes for a picture like 'A Streetcar Named Desire.' I know it did good business, but people were depressed by it. If the same combination of talent appeared in another picture, I don't think the general public would go for it."

"They just aren't interested in something like 'The Coming Disaster' or 'Suzie Gilch.'"

Aside for a distaste for downbeat stories, the public has no particular concern about cycles, Payne added.

"I read that musicals are on the way out right now," he observed. "That's nonsense. A good musical will always sell tickets, and so will a good Western or a good adventure. But they have to be good. That's the difference between the business done by a five-day Western and something like 'Stagecoach' or 'High Noon.'"

Capsule Review: "My Man and I" is a picture of surprising high quality. You wouldn't expect much from the title, but it turns out to be a social study that compares favorably to last season's topper, "A Place in the Sun." It's the story of a Mexican immigrant and his faith in the United States, despite a frameup that almost loses his citizenship. Ricardo Montalban displays real acting ability in the leading role, and Shelley Winters is also good. Wendell Corey and Claire Trevor provide the hisses.

Benny Fields Is One Husband Who Admits He's 'A Real Heel'

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
When a husband admits he's a heel, that's the confession of Benny Fields, famous song-and-dance man who for 30 years has been billed in both public and private life as the husband of Blossom Seely.

The noted husband and wife team, who panicked the customers in the dizzy 20s and 30s are re-living their jazz-age youth with a younger team playing their own life story in the soon-to-be-released Paramount movie, "Somebody Loves Me."

Betty Hutton plays Blossom in the film, and Ralph Meeker plays Benny — and the whole thing is a love story about two people who managed to stick together through the ups and downs of the two-a-day, to surmount professional jealousy and to wind up being immortalized in celluloid.

Says Fields: "It's really something, seeing somebody else play your own life story. Usually you are angsty before they get around to it."

"But as to the great confession — Blossom was the biggest star in vaudeville when she discovered me while slumming one night in Chicago, singing and dancing with a trio. She started promoting me right then, and she's been at it ever since."

"I was a real heel. I told her I was marrying her for what she could do for me, and not because I loved her — and it didn't even faze her."

"She built me up all the time, spent her time thinking of new ways to push me ahead — but always I was known simply as the husband of Blossom Seely."

Here the plot thickens. After marriage, Fields discovered he really was deeply in love with Blossom, and decided that, to be worthy of her, he would have to make good on his own. So he split up the act, went out as a solo, and

"When I arrived at the theater for my first solo booking there was the billing on the marquee. In tiny letters it said 'Benny Fields,' and below, in letters a foot high, formerly with Blossom Seely."

Fields finally did make good on his own, however, and when he scored his greatest triumph he called Blossom up on the stage with him to take a bow and to say — "I'm content now just to be Mrs. Benny Fields."

That's the way it has been since.

This remarkable husband gives full credit to his wife for making their marriage stick. He says: "One thing we always avoid is the word 'always' — you know, 'You're always late,' 'You're always griping,' 'You're always at the ball game.'"

"That's about the only rule for successful marriage I can think up off-hand except to pick a girl like Blossom."

Song Hit Made A Difference For Writer Ross Bagdasarian

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What a difference a hit song makes. At least it changed the life of Ross Bagdasarian. He's the guy who was responsible for "Come Ona My House," which was driving the nation buggy a year ago.

Yes, his cousin, William Saroyan, also got credit for the composition, but his contribution was reportedly slight.

Anyway, the song completely altered the life of Bagdasarian, whose career had long wavered between show business and grapes.

Ross — let's call him by his easier first name — is a member of that tribe of Americans of Armenian ancestry who have settled in the warm San Joaquin Valley, principally around Fresno. He is a happy extrovert, full of the joy of living. He might have stepped out of a Saroyan play, which indeed he has.

The lad abandoned the family trade — grapes — to follow his famous cousin. Ross appeared in two Saroyan plays on Broadway: "Your Life," in which he played the pit-a-bull maniac, and "Love's Old Sweet Song," with Walter Huston. Then came the war.

"After I got out of the service, I decided I would settle down in Fresno and raise grapes," he related. "It so happened that my first crop came in the worst grape season in 32 years. I lost everything. So I started to come to Hollywood. My wife now says, 'Thank heaven the grapes weren't good that year.'"

Compromise!

Let's compromise the tideland issue, the man said. What does he mean, compromise? Do you compromise with the bandit who sticks a gun in your face and demands your property?

Do you compromise when to do so will establish a precedent that will allow the federal government, having grabbed your front yard, to come back later and take the house?

When Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson suggests compromise he can only mean that he favors a solution under which the federal government would get clear title to the tidelands and the states would get the revenues.

That is adding insult to injury with a vengeance. Texas, for one state, is not interested in selling her freedom for a few dollars. The cash value of the tidelands has never been more than a minor factor in the fight, so far as Texas is concerned.

What we are excited about is federal encroachment on the rights of the states. We are excited about the fact that those who now administer our federal government are so lacking in any sense of morals that they consider a solemn contract made by Congress as a mere scrap of paper to be cast aside when that is their whim or to their interest.

We are excited at the outlook for the future when the Supreme Court can be rigged to hear only one side of a question so fundamentally important to all the people of the United States.

Let's take another look at the tidelands grab. Whose idea was it anyway?

As far as the published record goes, the scheme began with some tall-domed view-with-alarmers in the Navy Department. This fellow decided that the nation's oil reserves were running out and he sat aghast at the thought of all those lovely Navy ships idled for lack of fuel. The thought, of course, was all in his mighty mind.

Once he had launched the idea that the Navy should take over the California tidelands the ball was grabbed by the Washington planners, particularly the Interior Department power grabbers. The reclamation racket was beginning to peter out and those worthies saw in it a chance to get something else to run and at the same time establish a fine legal philosophy through which they gradually could get control of everything they might want in every state.

This is the philosophy of "paramount interest."

Paramount interest works this way:

You have a wife and one child and a fine 48-seat bus. Your neighbor has a wife and ten children and no bus.

So he goes to court and demands that you turn over the bus to him — without any compensation — because he has more need for the bus than you do.

In the old days this would have been called extortion, robbery or swindling, but that was a time when there was a little more honesty left in government.

Stevenson in his statement after meeting with Gov. Allan Shivers, lined up with President Truman, to whom political expediency is everything and morals and the good of the nation are just something to talk pompously about.

If any other evidence were needed to show that he was a dues paying member of the gang that is hell-bent for socialism and federal dictatorship, that was it.

Whenever Harry the Horrible (bankrupt style) Haberdasher vetoes a bill restoring the tidelands to their rightful owners he works himself into a fine frenzy and pictures himself as the champion of the rights of all the people against a few predatory states. The crime of the states is that they happen to own something Harry's gang covets.

Truman takes the position — and Stevenson adopts it — that one decision by his trick Supreme Court wipes out the Constitution, basic morals upwards of 100 years of unchallenged possession, and 53 previous decisions of the Supreme Court.

He would have you believe that the people of the United States too long have suffered under the oppression of the tidelands states and have clamored for him to champion their cause.

We have listened pretty closely and we have never heard one teeny little clamor out of anybody except the bureaucrats and the politicians who see either profit or power for themselves in the grand larceny.

And this is the issue that Adlai Stevenson wants to compromise!

They Never Had It So Good

Nobody has it so good as the hundreds of foreign employees of the United Nations who live in the 685-apartment "world community" built for their residence in New York.

Taxes? Taxes are a laugh to them. Benevolent America excuses them from paying U. S. taxes. Inflation? Inflationary prices aren't so hard to meet — when you are tax free. Anyway, inflation is justified, in their eyes, because it has been spurred by the lavish flow of U. S. gift dough to the countries these U. N. workers come from — including the dough for their salaries.

Inflation seemed justified, that is, until just the other day — when it entered their lives in the form of rent increases laid on the 685-apartment paradise. They were shocked. How could Uncle Sam, who is so kind to outland moochers, do this to them?

The facts of life came hard: Uncle Sam didn't build those apartments. That was done by some savings banks, which are responsible to their depositors for safeguarding funds and earning interest on them. Giving away taxpayers' money may make "friends" for Uncle Sam. But bankers careless with their depositors money would make jail.

Our U. N. "friends" shouldn't sulk long. They've still got their tax-free handouts. What's a little rent hike? They've never had it so good!

Labor Unions Organized For Compulsion

In the "Human Events" magazine of August 20 Frank Chodorov has a very interesting article under the heading of "Self-Anointed Political Labor Leaders." In the first part of his article he shows how in the past the capitalists had largely control of the government and reaped special privileges by tariffs and banking privileges. He points out however that under this form all the capitalist barons were interested in was creating wealth and they didn't particularly want to take control of the government. He says this picture is quite different when labor unions use pressure on the government. This is the way he explains it:

"Well, then, what can the union leaders show us in return for the special privileges they wrangle from government? What social good can they come up with? In the first place, the legislation they try to effect has nothing to do with production; they are not in that business. What they ask of government — what they hope to accomplish by control of government — is the legal right to exercise and extend the power of compulsion for which the unions are organized.

"The assumption of unionism is that employers withhold from employees some of the wages to which they, the employees, are entitled. The only way to correct this inequality is to apply force to the employers. The more force the higher the wages, and if the union force-instrument — the strike — is ineffective, the government must augment it with some of its police powers.

"Thus, among the privileges the union leaders have obtained from government are:

(a) the right to compel reluctant workers to support their striking machine; (b) exemption from existing monopoly laws so that they can do what employers may not do — that is, restrict the flow of trade. In the first case, they enjoy a lease of police power; in the other, they enjoy an exemption from police power. That is what every privilege the union leaders have obtained or are striving for amounts to.

"If the premise of the union leaders, that wages can be raised by force, were right, they might look the misuse of government power on the questionable doctrine of the 'greatest good to the greatest number.' But, the fact is that the capitalist does not care for the welfare of his workers, and therefore, hold-up cannot increase wages. If the capitalist tried to pay wages, out of his capital, he soon would have no capital. What he puts into the wage comes from the consumer of the things produced by the worker, using the capital; the greatest part of the consumer's contribution goes to the worker; the balance goes to keep up or expand the production.

"Should the union by the use of force compel him to put more dollars into the envelope, he must recoup this expenditure from his customers at the price of his goods. Since the wage-earner is also a consumer, the ultimate effect of the hold-up technique is to raise his cost of living.

"Only an indirect and perverse way can the forced increase actually raise 'real' wages. If the market refuses to accept his goods at the higher prices made necessary by the increase, the capitalist, in order to save his investment and stay in business, will take refuge in invention; he must decrease the unit cost of his product, and the only way to do this is to increase the production per wage-dollar. Yet, it is a matter of record that unions have tried to prevent this escape from bankruptcy by opposing the introduction of labor-saving devices.

"Every improvement in the condition of wage-earners can be traced directly or indirectly to an increase of production through technological advances, through man skill. For wages are only part of production, and we cannot raise one without raising the other. Union leaders cannot admit this fact, for such would mean they must destroy their reason for being. They are committed to the use of force, and when the force they have at their disposal does not bring about the promised result, their only recourse is more force, for which they must apply to the government.

"In an effort to prevent the employer from recouping higher wages through price controls, the leaders pressure government into setting up price controls. If such controls were effective, which they never are, the industrialist would be driven out of business, and the wage-earner would be unable to pay dues. We must assume that the leaders are aware of this economic fact, and therefore must ascribe their insistence on price controls to an intent to placate their disillusioned members.

"Their need for showing results impels them to other police measures they know little else. So they pressure government into providing unemployment handouts, old-age pensions, socialized medicine and similar substitutes for the high wages the other legislation they asked for did not effect. All these gratuities call for increased taxes, which burden their dues-payers. But, by spreading the lie that the 'rich' can pay most of the taxes, and by advertising the tax-support services as 'social advantages,' the preferred position of the leaders remains unimpaired.

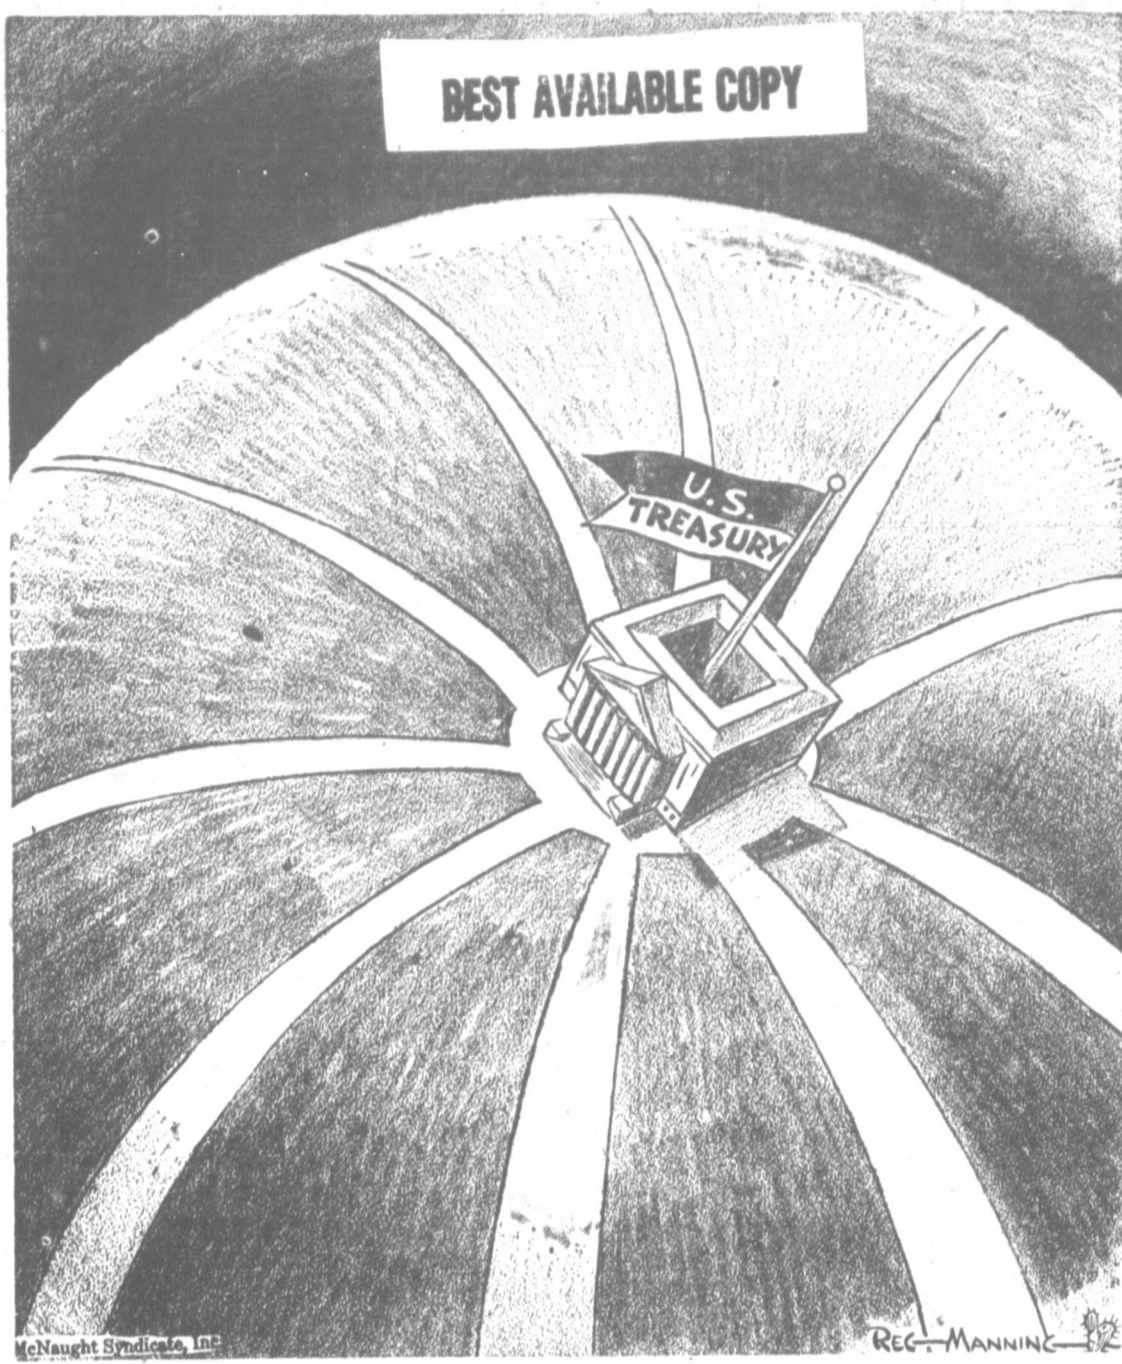

"The nineteenth century 'robber baron' sought control of government only for the purpose of enriching himself. Having acquired an exploitable privilege he was done with government. He had no interest in politics; he could do better for himself in productive enterprise. And he certainly looked with disfavor on increased taxation, for he was against sharing his income with his lackey, the politician.

"The union leader, unlike his predecessor in privilege-hunting, is the product of power and lives by it. He achieves his position by the self-same methods that favor the politically ambitious. By training and inclination he is a politician, not a producer. Every special privilege he wrangles out of government calls for the establishment of an enforcement agency — an NLRB, a WSA, an SSA, an OPS — and it suits his temperament to man or manage it. He becomes a quasi official.

"The next step is inevitable. In-

Fair Enough.... Spelvin Gives Pegler A Ride And They Talk About Politics

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

As I was waiting for the bus to work this morning, George Spelvin, American, pulled up at the traffic light and said: "Hey, jump in here I want to ask you something. What's the idea beefing—because guys like this Goldsmith, the Kapok Dragon of the Waldorf Tower and his letter-head societies, get up slush funds to knock off candidates in Wisconsin and Nevada and then you raise money for Joe McCarthy in Wisconsin. You talk about outsiders hounding in 'What about hounding in yourself?'"

"I am glad you asked me, Spelvin," I said. "I want to straighten you out. I did what I did openly whereas these Goldsmith layouts and others like them attack candidates from ambush. They work secretly and don't fully declare their motives, either. Goldsmith prints a list of weak, beat-up old decoys on the left margins of his letter-heads giving you the impression direct control of political power gives way to ambition, and then we have what is euphemistically called a 'labor' government. The promise by which it rides into power is that it will increase wages, 'real' wages, but it cannot fulfill that promise any more than the political establishment it replaces, for the simple reason that it cannot effect an increase in production. It is really a government of 'self-anointed' labor leaders' whose only interest is to stay in power, whose only competence is to wield it."

"Don't try to lure me off the argument," I said. "Sure, but just the same have been trying for a hundred years or so to get up laws to prevent abuses. How would you feel to learn that some bunch of plotters working in secret in a New York apartment had nullified your vote by their money?"

"Goldsmith has got a vote for the Senators in his own state of New York. Why isn't his content with that? We don't have that these are the backers of his slush-fund layouts when the fact is that they are just names. The contributors don't appear. I went to the Waldorf Tower one time after Goldsmith refused to tell me anything about one of the assistant managers told me he had a couple of secretaries in his apartment and got a lot of mail for these letter-head societies. He said there were about a half-dozen of these things using business in G's little apartment, but that may have been a loose estimate. He said he had seen a lot of people going in and out but never enough to look like a legitimate meeting of a society.

"As I say, G absolutely refused to say anything about his outfits or their funds or why they thought they had a legitimate right, sitting here in New York with their luxurious headquarters camouflaged under the address 100 E. Fifth Street, to butt into elections in states other than their own. The proposition is plain that they want to prevent the expression of the normal political will of American citizens who haven't the faintest idea that they are getting the works from unseen, mysterious strangers.

"Anything wrong about spending money in a campaign?" Spelvin asked.

"I don't try to lure me off the argument," I said. "Sure, but just the same have been trying for a hundred years or so to get up laws to prevent abuses. How would you feel to learn that some bunch of plotters working in secret in a New York apartment had nullified your vote by their money?"

"Goldsmith has got a vote for the Senators in his own state of New York. Why isn't his content with that? We don't have money into New York to nullify his vote, do we? But he thinks we can't be trusted to vote as he thinks we should. Who does he think he is?"

"Another thing, Spelvin," I said. "Anytime a guy sets up a political society to offset nullify or change the votes of American citizens, votes that our ancestors fought for, he better answer questions. Membership should be absolutely open, with nobody barred provided he qualifies himself up to the constitution and by-laws. But this mugg-wart not even say whether he has got a constitution and by-laws. That is mighty suspicious conduct to me and remember, the people who put up the money are not the self-important ones whose names are listed on the letter-heads. You don't find out who really put up the money until you dig your way through the official reports to congress. That is the only way to find out how much they spent trying to beat Pat McCarran in Nevada or Joe McCarthy in Wisconsin. Their Senators for their own states are enough for these Joes. They want all the Senators."

"No," I said. "I am anti-type who says, 'Oh, you mustn't make reckless charges against innocent people or you will have everybody afraid to express an opinion.' That is the anti-McCarthy type, but they don't give a damn for freedom of expression. They just want to protect fellow travelers and even conspirators from exposure. They are reckless enough in their charges against McCarthy, aren't they? And their charges against me, too. But Joe doesn't whine and you will never hear him begging for mercy either. I will kick those bums in the pelvis. Defamation is okay when you defame Pegler, but not ever tell the truth about La Boca Grande."

"Go on, get out of here," Spelvin said. "I got to get to work. I'll be late. But first tell me, how much did you raise for Joe?"

"Nothing," I said. "I gave a few bucks myself to help a busted guy, with a 30-inch incision after a bad operation, to stand off a load of eastern money, another just mentioned in print that other anti-Coms might want to drop in a nickel on the drum. But there was nothing secret about it."

"Go on, get going," Spelvin said. "I've got to get to work."

"Go on, yourself. Go on, get canned. You asked me didn't you? I told you. Now you yell, 'Go on, get going.' Go on, get going yourself."

"I am mechanical minded since I have worked on many spreaders and mowing machinery, I ain't had much schoolin, and the draft ain't caught up with me yet. I am married got 11 kids.

"Your add say I get a car and can work for General Motors, I am need that car, if I get the job I'd like a Buick.

"I got a job now but yours sound a lot better.

National Whirligig... Ike's Refusal To Attack Demo Pals May Cost Him Many Votes

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — General Eisenhower's repeated and deliberate refusals to attack the Democrats against seemingly vulnerable Truman policies derives from his personal friendship and loyalty to World War II military comrades and superiors. Although an admirable trait in ordinary relationships, it may be his several political handicaps.

Since the glittering names of these top-ranking officers have been discussed freely by numerous Republican critics of Ike's strategy on the stump, especially by the Taft-Dixsen-McCarthy wing's irritated spokesmen, it is now possible to name them, and to explain why the more robust Republicans insist that they be dragged into the campaign. They are:

PATRON — (1) Gen. George C. Marshall, Eisenhower's military chief of staff, and Truman's special emissary to negotiate peace between the Chinese Nationalists and Communists.

(2) Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Ike's West Point classmate, his chief ground commander in Europe, Bradley heads the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

(3) Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Ike's Chief of Staff in Europe, a warm personal friend and now Chief of Staff of the Army.

(4) Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, one of Ike's able commanders in Europe, and now head of the Air Force, although soon to be replaced by a more modern aerial tactician and strategist.

CLEAR — No analysis of post-war developments or attack on the Truman-Acheson program in the diplomatic and military spheres can be made, in the opinion of many Republican leaders, without involving these military experts because their key roles in post-war history, which has been studied with major reverses.

Ike's critics, for instance, do not hold it against him for eulogizing his benefactor, General Marshall, as a "great and patriotic American." Few agree with McCarthy's Jenner fulminations on this question.

But this comprehensive defense, according to this theory, need not have included Marshall's unhappy diplomatic experiences in China. The record here is clear that, through a misunderstanding, the forces sweeping through the Orient at the moment, Marshall contributed to the Communists' conquest of that tragic land.

RESTRICTED — Even here, had Ike been better informed or briefed on the Marshall mission's results, he could have used it as the basis for a blast at Truman-Acheson diplomacy.

Ike could have pointed out that Marshall acted under instructions from Truman and Acheson, and that he was thereby restricted in his judgments on China. Ike could also have noted, as the Nexon-McCarren investigations have proved, that the pro-Communist influence in and around the State Department were then formulating our Far Eastern policy.

RESPONSIBLE — As the general manager of our defense establishment preparedness program, General Bradley is solely responsible for the progress of rearmament here and abroad. Sharing that duty are General Collins and Vandenberg. They have no more important assignment.

Many errors of omission and commission have occurred during their regime, according to no less an authority than congressional committees headed and controlled by Democrats. Here are only a few indictments of Ike's military friends:

MOCKERY — (1) The Pentagon hierarchy has made a mockery of unification, with resultant waste of million of dollars, on arms and supplies, a slowdown in defense preparations, and disastrous duplication of personnel. Service jealously have been permitted to defy congressional dictates.

(2) The construction of air bases in North Africa, due to lack of supervision and business-like accounting, will cost from two to three hundred million dollars more than the original estimate and appropriation. The once efficient Corps of Engineers has been transformed into a political WPA.

KOWTOWED — (3) Vandenberg's Force, after spending $100,000,000 on a jet engine, now finds that the contractor cannot deliver the goods, and must start at scratch again.

(4) Until recently, when air operations were intensified, our military experts agreed with the "soft war" in Korea. As in many other instances in both the diplomatic and military fields, Ike's friends in the Pentagon have kowtowed to the politicians.

AMMUNITION — All these admitted major and minor blunders, in the opinion of almost all Republican leaders except the Dewey-Lodge faction, furnish legitimate ammunition to Eisenhower and Company generally. They are regarded as fertile issues for exploitation. Headquarters research files here are cluttered with data on these questions.

But Ike has shown, at least so far, no disposition to open up against his comrades-in-arms. Indeed, his decision not to use any "proper" issue for his campaign seems to guarantee that he will avoid these seemingly legitimate avenues of attack.

"I wish," said a discouraged old-line Republican, "that Ike could get a bit improper when the campaign gets hot. He can't protect his fumbling friends at the Pentagon, if he wants to win!"

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

When I was young enough so such things made some kind of impingement on me was a fifty-cent way of saying that they gave my young blood a flurry) there was a popular song that wooed about straight to John Lennon on a Magazine Cover. The chances are that it was written by Irving Berlin, but I have no intention of spending $10 to telephone him in order to fill and check. Let's assume the little fellow wrote it.

It was a fake sentiment, as the years have proved. I have met maybe 100 girls whose faces land on magazine covers, and never felt in love with one of them. But I used to notice, up to a year or so ago, one face in particular. It was noticed because back of those lovely, even features I thought I detected the look that brains give to a face. Fate worked things out recently and I met the face. It belongs to a girl named Juliana Larson and I was right; she has brains. But she has no voice that is getting her jobs in the most plush deadfalls between one Coast and another. And all inside one year.

The girl to remember in Larson's case, as in most success, is that none of it came wrapped in ribboned tissue on a gleaming silver platter. She worked hard and long, and she was discouraged before breaking away to get started on singing. A Seattle girl, she went to the University of Washington, of course, and majored in music. Between that campus and her singing debut lay some rather rough ground.

She came to New York to continue vocal studies and was on the short end in the money department. She decided, having a figure good enough to get whistles from passing gents, to try for modeling and straight to John Lennon. He gave her his austere equivalent of "Come right on in, honey," and in a few months she was on billboards, on magazine covers, in four-color ads, and subway car cards.

These gave her the money to pay for singing lessons and then she met Walter Bedford Sharp, Jr., from Houston and almost inevitably, therefore, in oil. The State Department sent Sharp to Paris as oil consultant to our embassy there and brand-new Mrs. Sharp went along. Did she thrill to seeing Paris, living there, being right alongside the fashion kings and queens? No, sir. She took warm woollens and a portfolio of music scores with her and, after passing her wifely weak seeing to it that her husband was suitably housed, she went to Milan and lived in an unheated boarding house and studied opera. It was hard as to work, short as to food, and cold as to temperature.

A year later she was back in New York and it may be confessed that the Metropolitan Opera did not splinter her door down. She wound up in the Opera Workshop at Indiana University, sang in the summer at Houston's opera festival and was soloist with several symphonies. Last summer the dream became more solid; she was invited to sing in the Metropolitan in a gala Montreal performance of "Die Fledermaus," her fellow singers all from the Met and with Wilfred Pelletier conducting. That is it. Montreal's Fitz-Carlton invited her to club debut in its supper room and the St. Regis in New York followed. And she's booked solid across the country.

The look of brains discourages her face. She still has a figure that fetches appreciative whistles. She is young and lovely. And the only magazine cover she ever was invited to sing in, maybe, the cover of L'Esprit or some other hard collar music magazine.

Opera? Maybe.

OUR TOWN

by Wanda Campbell

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shanks had interesting guests in their home recently. Their son, Sgt. Barney L. Shanks, was here from Long Beach, Calif., and with him was his wife, and her mother and sister from New Zealand. Sgt. Shanks met and married his wife in New Zealand during the early years of World War II. He served in the Marines at Guadalcanal, Saipan and came through those battles without a wound. He was among the first Marines in Korea, and was one of those who came out with frozen feet, hands and face following the Christmas campaigns. He is still on limited duty. This visit in Pampa was his first since his Korean action. Sgt. Shanks' mother-in-law, Mrs. Ethel Davis, and his sister-in-law, Miss Linda Davis, have been visiting in California since last January. This was their first visit in the United States, and they were eager to make the trip to Texas. The A. L. Shanks family, the Sinclair Merten Lease with a view of the oil field, and that was a sight that delighted the New Zealanders. They found the carbon black plants interesting too. They were disappointed they missed the Top of Texas rodeo. On the trip back to California, they planned to see Colorado, Grand Canyon and other scenic spots. Sgt. and Mrs. Shanks have twin daughters, 5 and a son, 5. Linda Davis has a twin sister and other brothers and sisters who make their home in Akaroa, New Zealand. One brother operates a bakery father established. Before his death in 1946, just before Mrs. Shanks joined Sgt. Shanks in the United States, Mr. Davis was mayor of Akaroa. Mrs. Davis and Linda will sail for home Oct. 25. Maybe after this long visit with our country and people, they'll go home with a more comfortable feeling about one of the family members so far away from New Zealand. Because they liked this country very, very much—especially Texas.

GARNISH WITH MEAT
Full of flavor and color, vegetable soup deserves its wide popularity. And a good-eating garnish of crisp browned bacon bits is a happy addition to the vegetable soup. Or you can top it with browned coin-slices of frankfurter. Still another tempting addition is a little grated cheese. The cheese or meat as a topped vegetable soup is a real magic act. It gives you a grand way to use that last slice of bacon or bit of cheese.

Paetzold-Williams Announce Wedding

WHITE DEER (Special) in a double-ring ceremony at St. Anthony's Church Tuesday, Eleanor Paetzold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Paetzold, of Hereford, exchanged nuptial vows with Clifford Williams of White Deer, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Williams of Hereford.

Rev. Nathaniel Madden read the service before an altar adorned with white palms and baskets of white gladioli and daisies. Carl Sundeen, accompanied by Miss Gwendolyn Jesko, sang "On This Day," "Pania Angelicus," and "Ave Maria." The traditional professional and recessional were used.

Mrs. Mark Koenig, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow net over fallie. Her dress was matching lace mitts and a headpiece of yellow tulle, and carried a bouquet of tallman roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a ballerina-length dress of white Chantilly lace over slipper satin. The sheer yoke was accented by long sleeves, which formed points over her hands. Her head veil of illusion was attached to a headpiece of tulle and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis entwined with white satin streamers.

Wilfred Urbanczyk of White Deer attended the bridegroom. A buffet supper was held in St. Anthony's Parish Hall in Hereford. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and daisies. Individual serving tables were decorated with bouquets of seasonal flowers. Guests were registered by Miss Dolly Rose Paetzold, niece of the bride.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, the couple will be at home in White Deer, where the bridegroom is associated with his brother in the White Deer Supply Co.

Mrs. Williams was graduated from Hereford High School and worked for the Santa Fe Railway for several years. Prior to her marriage, she worked for her father at Associated Growers. Mr. Williams finished high school in White Deer and attended West Texas State College at Canyon for two years. He served three years in the Air Force during World War II.

Attending the wedding from White Deer were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Williams, Miss Pat Hood, Willie Urbanczyk, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Howard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Urbanczyk and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Thompson. Attending from Panhandle were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, Miss Kay Williams and Miss Robin Williams.

Mrs. Emily Minix and Hal Mounce Hold Family Reunions In McLean

McLEAN (Special) — Two reunions Sunday brought together one family for the first time in 44 years, and another family together after a 10-year separation. The Hal Mounce home was the scene of one reunion, attended by Mrs. Harry Whalen of Montebello, Calif., Guy Mounce of Frederick, Okla., and Hal Mounce of McLean. It was the first time the brothers and sister had been together since a reunion in 1908 in Springfield, Mo.

Others who attended the reunion were Hal Mounce's son, Clyde, who is a student at the University of Texas, and Mrs. Whalen's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ragsdale of Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. Emily Minix and her five children were together Sunday for the first time in 10 years. One son, B. I. Carpenter, who is a missionary in Alaska and pastor of the Baptist Church he established in Ketchikan, made the longest trip to the celebration.

The family includes two daughters, Mrs. George Colebank and Mrs. W. S. Kunkel of McLean, and three sons, B. I. Carl Carpenter of Sunday, and J. H. Carpenter of Opelousas, La.

Mrs. Ida Anderson was awarded $5.

Skelly Ball Club Entertains Families

SKELLYTOWN (Special) — The G. L. Craddock home was the scene of a dinner held recently by the Skelly Oil Ball club in honor of players' families.

Dinner was served to Messrs. and Mmes. Craddock, D. R. McCloud, Arrel Yeager, C. E. Hanna, George Porter, Chester Darrell, Ed Harmon, Sally Garrett, Bill Ledbetter, L. D. Cowart, Homer Garrett, and Mr. Sunny Cowart.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Craig of Tulsa, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Garrett, Mr. Bauer West, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilde, Mr. and Mrs. George White and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Yeager, all of Pampa.

Ollie C. Bray And P. Arthur Groves Wed In White Deer

WHITE DEER (Special) — Mrs. Ollie C. Bray of White Deer, became the bride of P. Arthur Groves, of Amarillo, Friday August 29 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Matheson of White Deer. Rev. Douglas Carver of Pampa read the ceremony.

Mrs. Bray chose a blue crepe dress trimmed with rhinestones. Her accessories were of navy and white. Mrs. Matheson, who attended Mrs. Bray as matron-of-honor, wore pale pink with navy accessories.

Mrs. Bray has been employed by the White Deer Independent School District for seven years. The past four years she has been cafeteria dietitian. Mr. Groves, who was attended by his son, Edward Groves of Amarillo, is an engineer for the Santa Fe Railroad.

Attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Seltz, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Matheson of White Deer, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Groves, Jr., and Edward Groves of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves left on a trip to Carlsbad and Clovis, New Mexico. They are now at home at 2406 South Tyler in Amarillo.

Tips For Tasks

Iron damask table linen on the right side to bring up the sheen. When you buy sheer linens, check to see if they should be steam-ironed without sprinkling.

Gas Companies Pay Gathering Tax Under Protest In July

AUSTIN (AP) — All but one roller's office estimated not more than $125,000 in gas gathering taxes will be paid without protest for July. This would mean approximately $850,000 paid under protest.

The money paid under protest cannot be used by the state pending final settlement of court contests. Appeal of the tax case is expected to go to the U.S. Supreme Court and might not take as long as two years to decide finally.

The legislature enacted the tax last year in hope of adding 12 to 14 million dollars a year to the state treasury.

El Paso Natural Gas Co. was the only big company to pay without protest, sending in $83,281.

United, Tennessee and El Paso has been contributing the bulk of the taxes not paid under protest.

Newly Called Red Congress Starts Western Guessing Game

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Because the Communists always want a fairly small, rigidly disciplined organization, not everyone in Russia is a member of the party.

Out of a population of more than 200 million people, probably not more than 10 million are permitted to belong.

The number may be smaller. Before he's admitted, a would-be member is screened. Party members must vote for him. And after he's in his work and loyalty to the party are watched and examined.

But the Russian Communists, who set the style for Communists everywhere, they have a really democratic setup.

Theoretically, all party members are expected to argue sincerely on any issue the party is trying to decide. But, once the decision is made by majority vote, they must obey the party's will absolutely.

Actually, the decisions are made at the top by Stalin and his handpicked lieutenants who form the Politburo, which runs the party. Since the party runs Russia, the Politburo runs the whole show.

But if the Politburo just kept on doing this indefinitely from within the Kremlin walls, without even pretending to let the party members think they have a say, it couldn't keep up the democratic fiction very long.

So Stalin and his friends decided long ago there should be a national congress every three years. But they got pretty careless about it. The last was held in 1939.

This week announcement was made in Moscow that there'd be another congress, the first in 13 years, in October. Why now? The usual guessing game started in the Western capitals.

Stalin has never been considered a Confidential Charlie. So there will not necessarily be any connection between the real reasons for the congress and any reasons Stalin may give for calling it, before or after.

So the guesses will range from the most ominous and sinister Communist motives to a simple desire on Stalin's part to keep up democratic appearances or tighten the strings on party members getting careless.

The only amusing note in the news that the Politburo will be abolished and replaced by a "Praesidium." The only possible effect this can have is the added difficulty of spelling Politburo under the new name.

Fewer Tourists Go Down Mexico Way

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The tourist business, which puts the butter on Mexico's daily bread, shows signs of withering under European competition and high prices here.

Even with the big Rotary and Lions international conventions, tourist entries are only a few hundred above last year's average. There was also a momentary slump in the tourist business immediately after the recent presidential elections.

Any falling off in the tourist business would be a serious threat to Mexico's economy and on her purchases abroad.

Fire In Phone Office

CLERMONT, Fla. (AP) — A fire broke out here recently that was difficult to report—it was in the city's telephone exchange. The whole town was without service 30 hours while damage was being repaired.

Refining History Being Made With New Process In Valley

MALLEN (AP) — Gasoline refining history is being made in the Valley.

In a new $500,000 addition to its plant at La Blanca, east of Edenburg, the McBride Refining Co. is using a revolutionary new refining method claimed to produce more high octane gasoline from a barrel of crude oil than any other refining method known.

It is the first commercial plant of its type to be built in the United States, although the Atlantic Refining Co., one of the nation's major refiners which developed the process, has operated a laboratory pilot plant at Philadelphia for two years.

But the La Blanca plant is the first full-scale commercial adaptation of the new process, known as the Atlantic reforming process.

Atlantic is not yet using its own process but is building refinery units for it at Fort Arthur and Philadelphia.

Meanwhile oil and gasoline men throughout the country are watching developments at the McBride plant with interest. The McBride Company is already sold on the new process. The plant at La Blanca was started in November, 1951, and starting turning out gasoline by the new process Aug. 4.

"It's so good we can hardly believe it ourselves," Lynn McBride of Ean Antonio, president, said. "It's an entirely different category of the refining process. It increases the optimum range of finished gasoline from about 86 to 96 ctane."

The process is known as a catalytic reforming process. The catalyst is platinum. The La Blanca unit uses 3500 pounds of platinum — which accounts for a large part of the cost of the installation.

The McBride La Blanca plant produces about 3,000 gallons of gasoline of all grades per day. The Atlantic reforming unit's have increased the plant's production of high octane gasoline to 75,000 barrels a day.

Searing Heat Has Cost Farmers $50 Million In Cotton Area

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Searing heat and a devastating drought have cost farmers in 13 North Texas counties some 50 million dollars this year, the Wichita Daily Times estimated today.

A spot survey was made by Glenn Shelton, farm editor of the Times. His survey included Wichita, Baylor, Childress, Clay, Collingsworth, Foard, Hall, Hardeman, Haskell, Knox, Throckmorton, Willbarger and Young counties.

He wrote that records show that a good cotton crop in these counties is worth about $87,500,000, based on the 1949 crop value figured at $175 a bale. His survey showed:

Typical in Haskell County. In 1949 this county made 96,000 bales. This year the 180,000 planted acres is 75 per cent lost in the opinion of County Agent F. W. Martin. That means a financial loss to farmers of about $10 million.

The situation isn't quite so bad in Willbarger, another high production county. T. L. McBride PMA secretary, said the situation "looks bad" but that some sandy land will make a fair crop even without rain. The county's 85,000 acres, he said, will make about half as much as last year with rains soon. Without them it will make less than a third.

Last year the county harvested 32,000 bales. Childress County, which has 100,000 acres in cotton, could make 20,000 bales with favorable weather immediately, County Agent V. E. Hafner declared.

"But we are losing from 1 to 2 bales a day now," he said. "The cotton is hurting dreadfully from the heat and drought. I guess 25 per cent of
