Wildcat Adds New Spark To The Anadarko

The long-maligned Anadarko Basin had new proof of its worth today after a rank wildcat in western Roberts County shot oil over the derrick on a drillstem test yesterday and flowed oil to the pits at an estimated 350 barrels a day.

Operators were coring ahead this morning on the Morgan and Head No. 1 Morrison Ranch, almost 20 miles due north of Pampa. If they recover favorable cores, another drillstem test will be taken Saturday or Sunday.

The well, on a three-hour test from 6,950-6,980 feet, had gas to the surface in 9 1/2 minutes and about 2,570 feet of oil in the hole. Gas was trapped at 7,000 feet. The well kicked off while operators were removing drillpipe and flowed to the pits. The hole was filling at the rate of 10 to 12 barrels per hour. Operators shut down operations because of a wind shift. When they resumed pulling drill pipe, the well unloaded and flowed to the pits.

Flowing pressure was 873 pounds, but operators were unable to get satisfactory bottom hole pressure readings.

Oilmen consider this one of the major developments in the basin, ranking alongside the recent opening of Gulf's Haggard pool about 11 miles to the northwest.

Some consider it even more important because lease conditions allow entrance of a larger number of independent operators.

The Morrison lease is an 1,000-acre farm, out from Cabot. The lease is a three-way offset from Cabot with Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. holding acreage to the north.

Drilling contractor is Clayton Dwyer Drilling Co. and H. E. (Doc) Schwartz of Pampa is geologist.

The new discovery is virtually "in the middle of nowhere" in relation to other production.

Price Chief Gets Beating

DENTON (AP) — Denton still buzzed today about the way North Texas women jumped on Price Boss Tighe Woods yesterday. Some suggested the best thing Woods could do was resign. And a German war bride said she thought the Office of Price Stabilization which Woods heads "is leading us into dictatorship."

Woods, who got a round of applause for being a good sport, said the reaction here was the most critical of his nationwide grass-roots tour.

Several of the women spoke up favoring controls, but the cheers and applause were reserved for 16 who criticized OPS.

"I was born in Germany and know what dictatorship is like," said Mrs. John A. Brewer of Denton, a pretty young war bride. "I think OPS is leading us into a dictatorship."

Mrs. Boyd Armstrong, also of Denton, added, "I don't like paying your salary. If you folks would let the supply demand alone, they would adjust themselves."

"Don't you think it's time we stopped being dictated to?" queried Mrs. P. S. Travis. "Why can't we go back to the good old days like when Ma was alive. My kids ask me why my table was loaded down like Grandma's was. I tell them the good old days are gone forever."

Woods pleaded with the women to give specific replies to his questions, which included: "What category of prices is giving you the most trouble?"

To this the audience chorused: "All prices."

Believe Volcano Sucked Ship Under

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese authorities said tonight either a tidal wave or suction from an underwater volcano must have sunk a Japanese observation ship which vanished Tuesday with 31 aboard.

Japanese Coast Guard boats and U. S. Air Force planes found no trace of the 210-ton No. 5 Kaiyo Maru, which vanished Tuesday 200 miles southeast of Tokyo. It was on an inspection tour of the Myojin reefs, which rose from the ocean floor two weeks ago in a violent submarine explosion.

The missing vessel carried nine scientists and a crew of 22 toward the seething cauldron of smoke, flame and ashes surrounding the reefs.

A spokesman for the Central Meteorological Observatory said the Kaiyo Maru "must have been sucked into the submarine volcano crater."

Reds Prepare Huge 'Peace' Offensive

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign Service Analyst

Opening barrages of a gigantic world Communist peace offensive will be fired this week end. The thunder of propaganda guns will mark the first phase of a new Soviet tactical assault on the United States.

For about 30 countries — those in Asia and those such as Canada and Latin America bordering the Pacific — delegates have assembled in Peiping, capital of Communist China, to do the bidding of the Moscow-Peiping axis in this latest campaign.

The countries "represented" by the Communist-inspired delegates have a population of more than a billion and a half people and cover two-thirds of the earth's surface.

Plans for this assault were concocted in July, under Soviet guidance, at the conference of the Communist World Council of Peace in Berlin. The Peiping meeting is a curtain raiser to the mighty peace offensive which reaches its climax Dec. 5 in Vienna with a world congress.

There is little doubt that the offensive is tied in with the decision of Moscow to summon an All-Union Congress of the Soviet Communist party Oct. 5, the first such congress in 15 years.

The major attack is in Asia. One goal is the expulsion of American influence through damage to American prestige. The ultimate goal is Communist domination of all Asia. But the Communist appetite will not even be satisfied with that. In the future are plans for domination of the Middle East, African and South and Central America.

Here is what will take place in Peiping, under much noise. The "Congress of Partisans in Defense of Peace in Asia and the Countries of the Pacific Ocean," this month will adopt resolutions as follows:

1. Against remilitarization of Japan. Demanding withdrawal of all occupation forces — meaning American forces now there under a separate treaty from Japan.

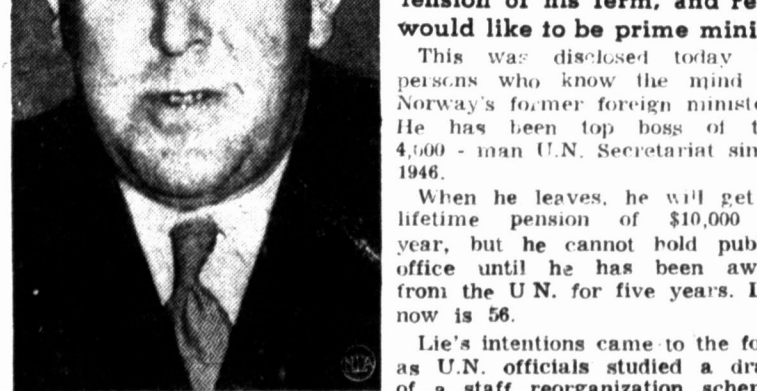

2. Against bacteriological warfare and weapons of mass destruction.

3. For the outlawing of war propaganda.

4. For "peaceful solution" of the Korean conflict and other conflicts threatening world peace.

5. For development of international trade on "basis of equality and mutual advantage," for development of cultural relations among nations, for steps to raise living standards of nations.

All these will be depicted as plans for domination of the

TRYGVE LIE ... stepping down

Trygve Lie To Quit As U. N. Secretary

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — General Trygve Lie has decided to step down from his $40,000-a-year United Nations post on Feb. 1, 1954, at the end of a three-year extension of his term, and retire to Norway. Some day he would like to be prime minister of that country.

This was disclosed today by persons who know the mind of Norway's former foreign minister. He has been top boss of the 4,500-man U. N. Secretariat since 1946.

When he leaves, he will get a lifetime pension of $10,000 a year, but he cannot hold public office until he has been away from the U. N. for five years. Lie now is 56.

Lie's intentions came to the fore as U. N. officials studied a draft of a staff reorganization scheme which would abolish the posts of eight assistant secretaries general, each paid $22,000 annually, and would create three deputy secretaries general, each at a considerable higher salary.

Lie was said to have described this plan as his "last will and testament." He is known to be extremely anxious to have the Secretariat staff on sound footing before he leaves.

Some of his assistants are not optimistic about the plan. They foresee opposition from those countries which could not expect to have a deputy under the new arrangement. There also is growing feeling among the small countries that such big powers as the United States, Britain, France and Russia have too much of the gravy in U. N. posts. The smaller countries seem determined to cut the big power representation in the high brackets to the 1953 assembly, which must choose Lie's successor.

The secretary-general originally was hired in 1946 for a five-year term. The five permanent members of the Security Council — the United States, France, Britain, Russia and China, which hold the veto power — agreed unanimously on him as a compromise candidate after the East and West had turned down each other's nominee.

Political Big Berthas To Boom From Texas

Adlai Promises To Speak Up On Salary Fund

Gov. Adlai Stevenson, who has hinted the issue gingerly so far, promises to speak up about his controversial fund for supplementing salaries of Illinois state officials.

A statement may come today as Democratic presidential candidate swings through Indiana on the first leg of a rugged new 11,548-mile, 17-state campaign tour.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, swept on through Virginia and North Carolina, scheduling a major speech tonight at Richmond.

Dropping for the moment the red-hot argument over use of outside funds by government officials, Eisenhower launched a flank attack on the Truman administration's defense policies in a Baltimore address last night.

The general told a tumultuous audience that he believes (1) unification of the armed services is a virtual failure, and (2) there is no need for universal military training so long as the Korean War continues the necessity for the military draft.

Other Republicans hammered away at Stevenson to make public more acts about his special fund. There were repeated suggestions he may have "something to hide."

The governor had said there isn't. He said the fund was no secret, but it would be a breach of faith to name those who benefited from it. He said it was set up with money left over from his 1948 gubernatorial campaign, plus some later donations.

Top Republicans — including GOP vice presidential candidate Sen. Richard Nixon, who faced a somewhat similar problem earlier this week — want to know how big the fund was, who contributed, who got what.

Nixon resumed his interrupted Western campaign tour with both fists swinging. He told a cheering, shouting audience at Salt Lake City last night he planned a strong counter-offensive against the Democrats who accused him of wrongdoing in the funds case.

Deputies Sheriff Shirley Nickols and Buck Haggard had heard about the stack of lumber on the tracks — some 100 yards west of the Hobart crossing sometime after 4 p.m. Thursday when the sheriff's office had received a call from the engineer of a train that had just gone through Pampa.

The engineer reported that his locomotive had ploughed through a small pile of wood.

Nickols and Haggard raced out to the location and found that a larger pile of bigger wood had been stacked atop the middle track. Seconds before the second train reached the spot, the officers had managed to clear the track.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation will be on the case sometime today, according to L. E. Sankey, division special agent for the Santa Fe Railroad. For meddling with the traffic of a transcontinental railroad is a federal offense.

Out at the scene of the near-mishap this morning were Sankey and H. A. Doggett, county juvenile officer. Investigation of the scene uncovered pieces of wood that had nearly been sliced through by the first train.

Also found were many pieces of colored glass from signal lights presumed to have been broken by youngsters shooting either an air gun or a B-B-gun. The lights, however had already been fixed this morning.

Interrogation of people residing in the area this morning failed to bring any clues to light.

Doggett said that this kind of thing had been going on for some time and that it simply had to stop.

Palbearers will be I. J. Huvall, L. F. Keough, O. K. Gaylor, Lewis Jones, C. Blymiller and J. V. Roche.

Rosary services are scheduled at 8 p. m. today in the home of Miss Schwind's brother at 806 E. Kingmill.

Lumber On Track ... Train Wreck Is Averted

A possible train wreck within the city limits has been narrowly averted by two officials of the sheriff's department, who feverishly flung pieces of lumber from track as an oncoming freight train rushed toward them.

Deputies Sheriff Shirley Nickols and Buck Haggard had heard about the stack of lumber on the tracks — some 100 yards west of the Hobart crossing sometime after 4 p.m. Thursday when the sheriff's office had received a call from the engineer of a train that had just gone through Pampa.

Fair Audience Will Hear Nixon Tonight

TEXAS — boiling with political strife rarely seen in national election campaigns — is about to become one of the great battlegrounds of the 1952 presidential campaign.

Sen. Richard Nixon speaks tonight in Amarillo in what Republican headquarters say will be one of the GOP vice presidential nominee's major addresses. The speech is set for 8:45 p. m.

The Republican nominee for President, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, will make five stops in Texas, Oct. 14-15, while his opponent, Democratic Gov. Adlai Stevenson, will be in Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston Oct. 17-18.

So now Texas, which took a major share of the spotlight at both the Democratic and Republican national conventions in Chicago, will have the white glare of Presidential campaigning turned on its broad expanse from today through the middle of October.

Texas Vote Prize
Hanging as the prize of battle are Texas' 24 electoral votes, more than enough to swing a close Presidential election to either of the candidates.

For the first time since 1928 when Herbert Hoover carried the state for the Republicans over the Democrats' Al Smith, Texas is looked upon as a doubtful state.

The Democrats' abort of their state organization at the Amarillo state convention Sept. 9 — have set up a temporary headquarters organization under Speaker Sam Rayburn in an attempt to nullify the efforts of such state leaders as Gov. Allan Shivers and Atty. Gen. Fred Daniel.

Claim Victory
The Republicans, under the leadership of former U.S. Rep. Ben Gull of Pampa and GOP National Committeeman Jack Porter of Houston, have organized nearly every county and hamlet in the state and already claim victory in Texas in November's general election.

The Amarillo convention delivered the state Democratic Party organization to the Republicans. It certified the Stevenson-Sparkman national presidential ticket in the Texas general election ballot, but then turned around and asked its party members to work for the election of the Republican nominees, Eisenhower and Nixon.

Both Gov. Shivers, titular head of the state Democratic Party organization, and Daniel, nominee for U.S. Senate of both Democrats and Republicans, have said they would not support Stevenson because of his reported stand advocating the federal ownership of the supposedly oil-rich tidelands.

Loyalists Rally Around
Those events brought Rayburn, former state Atty. Gen. Bill McCray, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Col. Lawrence Westbrook, assistant chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to set up the temporary Democratic movement to back and elect the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket.

Nixon's Tri-State Fair speech tonight at Amarillo will be broadcast from in front of the Fair Park pavilion and is set for 30 minutes, instead of the original 15 minutes.

'Citizens For Ike' Set Campaign Plans

A small group of Citizens for Eisenhower formally organized themselves into a working team Thursday night in the county court room and pledged themselves to push the Eisenhower-Nixon-Husted ticket across the line on Nov. 4.

Piloted by Jones Steitz, chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower movement, the group of Republicans — and some Democrats — named advisory, finance and publicity committees; passed the hat for campaign funds (collecting $102 for a start); and took the first steps in breaking a county-wide campaign down to precinct levels.

Clayton Husted, Republican candidate for county commissioner from Prec. 2, told the group he would make an all-out effort to be elected to the county commissioners court on Nov. 4.

Husted has already started his campaign publicity by passing out yo-yos to kids and giving them stickers reading "Eisenhower-Nixon-Husted" to pass out for him.

Although the meeting was attended largely by Republicans — old liners and new converts — the push for Eisenhower is to be handled on a non-partisan basis.

"We must work not on a party basis, but on a basis of Americanism."

Campaign strategy to be followed by the Republicans will be to carry the issues directly to voters by personal contact and by telephone on the precinct level. Precinct chairmen were asked to name precinct captains, appoint a telephone committee chairman who will in turn appoint committee members. Then the door-to-door and telephone-by-telephone campaign will start. Some precincts — the larger ones — may even be sub-divided into zones of three to four blocks each in the city and towns and into sections in the rural areas.

Named to the advisory committee were: L. P. Fort, Rex Rose, H. A. Pickett, L. R. Miller, Mickey Ledrick, H. H. Shaddid, Deles Vicars, Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Mrs. Louie Clark, Mrs. Lottie Ochiltree, and Don Conley, chairman of the county Republican committee.

Ed Vicars was named finance chairman and Mrs. Rex Rose was named vice-chairman. They will pick the remainder of their committee.

Publicity will be handled by L. P. Fort, Mrs. S. B. Crissey, and Mrs. S. J. Meador.

Enactment of a federal Fair Employment Practices Commission act would be "Un-American, discriminatory and unworkable" and a "long step on way toward a police state," a Washington newspaperman told the weekly meeting of the Pampa Lions Club.

Aim For Oct. 15 Truce In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) says the State Department is maneuvering for a Korean War truce about Oct. 15.

Jenner told a Republican rally Thursday night:

"I have just received information from sources that know what is going on that the State Department is pulling every international wire in its hands for a truce about Oct. 15."

"If the administration can obtain a truce this fall, it could have obtained one a year ago and saved thousands of American casualties."

Both Gov. Shivers, titular head of the state Democratic Party organization, and Daniel, nominee for U.S. Senate of both Democrats and Republicans, have said they would not support Stevenson because of his reported stand advocating the federal ownership of the supposedly oil-rich tidelands.

Absentee Voting Climbs To Eight

Absentee voting in the Oct. 4 special city charter amendment election by 10:40 today doubled over Thursday's figure of four, records in the city secretary's office showed.

Eight names of citizens voting absentee were posted on City Secretary Ed Vacir's bulletin board.

Only three days remain to cast absentee ballots for the charter election in City Hall.

The amendments to the charter would be approved by the voters, abolish the ward system of electing commissioners, provide for staggered terms, and authorize the commission to fill its own vacancies instead of calling a special election.

SEOUL (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets today shot down four Communist MIG jets in the first air battles in four days, the Fifth Air Force said.

The blazing dogfights boosted the September toll of Russian-built jets to a record 65 destroyed. The old monthly mark of 44 was set last April.

The Air Force said the swift Sabres also damaged four MIG's in battles with 16 Red fighters east of Sinuiju, south of the Yalu River. One damage claim was not confirmed.

The U. S. Eighth Army said Communist troops probed Allied outposts north and northeast of the Punchbowl on the Eastern Front Thursday night and early today. Six times the Reds fell back under withering U.N. mortar fire.

Allied fighter bombers renewed their attacks on the Communist supply system. Land-based U.S. Marine planes bombed Red military targets on the Haeju Peninsula on the Western Front.

Pilots said they wrecked 31 troop and supply buildings.

Marine pilots from the U. S. carrier Sicily said they knocked out seven transformers and a road bridge in 35 flights over North-west Korea late Thursday.

124 bombers took advantage of clearing weather with night raids on North Korean supply routes. The U. S. Fifth Air Force said they destroyed 71 Red supply trucks.

Nine B29 Superfortresses hurled nearly 100 tons of bombs at the Hullyak supply center, northwest of Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

Communist goals thwarted by American warmongers and aggressors. There will be other resolutions, too, dealing with such matters as Indian - Pakistani relations, national independence of countries in North Africa and the Middle East, against rearmament of Western Germany and so on.

The presence of large delegations from Latin America can be regarded as a clear warning to the West.

The Peiping news agency announced that delegations will be present from Mexico, Guatemala, Colombia, Salvador, Honduras, Chile, Peru, Ecuador and Panama.

The work of the peace congress is cut and dried. It has been decided well in advance, and the dupes present will be led about by the nose by the Communist manipulators of the sessions. The Communists are going to squeeze out every ounce of propaganda from this effort.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union will use its party congress to announce that the USSR wants only peace and the right to build socialism. There will be a crashing crescendo of Soviet propaganda all through this fall and winter. The West has been forewarned in time to plan its counter-attack.

ed, makes it a penalty for "a man to go into business" and at the same time it "dictates to the worker where he can work."

He called FEPC another element in the "cradle to grave philosophy" which substitutes centralized government for a free enterprise government.

Drawing upon history, Suttle said that FEPC first came to public attention in the presidential campaign of 1928 when a plank in the U. S. Communist Party platform called for equal opportunity in employment, wages, and hours for all minority groups. And American Reds, he continued, got the idea from the All-Right Act of Soviet Russia.

Congratulating Texans on electing Martin Dies to the U. S. House of Representatives, Suttle maintained that Communist influence in this country especially in the fields of radio and teaching — "is a real danger."

In remarks after his talk, the newspaperman — one of the closest predictors of the 1948 election — said he thought Gen. Eisenhower would win the presidential election by a narrow margin. He predicted Illinois, New York and Texas would go Democratic and Ohio would be in the GOP column.

production, but the closest wildcat is the ill-fated Cities Service No. 1. It is six miles west of the Chicken Creek well on the Ledrick Ranch drilled several years ago, and 16 miles south of Sinclair's Lips Pool.

The well is believed in the same producing formation of the Haggard wells. Both are in granitic wash and in a formation of Pennsylvanian age. No conclusions can be drawn this early, according to Schwartz, but it is hoped the two pools can be linked. Only additional tests between the two wells will bear this out.

A straight line drawn between the Morrison well and Haggard pool runs decidedly parallel to the old Panhandle field.

If this straight line is extended, it would include The Texas Company's No. 1 Holt, a producing wildcat in Northern Hutchinson County. In other words, this means the Morrison is on a straight line running between two successful wildcats and parallel to the old Panhandle field.

Geologists will make no flat statements as to the possibility there is another producing zone further down on the northern flank of the buried granite mountain from which the Panhandle field is producing, but will not discount the chance it is a theory long entertained by residents in the area.

There were no indications of oil or gas in the Cities Service well which would be south of the flank line passing through the Morrison and Haggard wells.

Oil gravity in the new well was set between 38 and 41. There was no distillate present.

Celebrity Service Keeping Up With Hollywood's Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Want to know who are the most sought-after stars in Glamorville?

Here's the list: Mario Lanza, Judy Garland, Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando, Humphrey Bogart, Kirk Douglas, Martin and Lewis, Ann Blyth, Gene Tierney, Betty Grable and Rita Hayworth.

Mind you, this is no press agent's dream-up. This is the straight dope, as gleaned by me from the Celebrity Service.

"What's the Celebrity Service? I didn't exactly know, either. But Lynn Bowers of the local office wised me up. Celebrity Service was founded in 1932 by one-time actor Earl Blackwell. He figured there was a need for a clearinghouse for news of the whereabouts of famous people.

His idea has become a thriving enterprise, with offices in New York, London, Paris, Rome and Hollywood. The latter is a headache, reported Miss Bowers. The reason:

"People out here worry about their privacy. They change their telephone numbers almost as often as they change their socks. It's common for some stars to get a new number every month."

Celebrity Service supplies information about the travels of famous figures to agencies, columnists and other so-called legitimate parties. Miss Bowers had some comments about the film stars who evoke the most inquiries:

"When Lanza started his fight with MGM everyone wanted to know where he was. Judy Garland is another one who has been in the news. We have dozens of calls for her.

"Of course, everyone wants Marilyn Monroe's private phone number. Brando is impossible. Lots of people try to get in touch with him, but you can't get him on the phone and he won't answer messages. I can't figure why we should get so many calls for Ann Blyth, but we do. I guess she epitomizes the perfect young lady."

Miss Bowers said that the service has files on 100,000 personalities. Sometimes the inquiries can benefit the celebrities as well as those seeking them out. For instance, MBS wanted to reach Jack Parr. Miss Bowers finally located the elusive comic, who got an air show because of the call.

When a liquor firm sought an endorsement by a star, the service suggested Paul Lukas, who gained a fat fee and much publicity. Colleen Gray once got a film role because Celebrity Service found her after her agent failed.

Some requests are seasonal. "Every Halloween we get requests for the whereabouts of Bela Lugosi and Boris Karloff," Miss Bowers reported.

And then there was the time when the late Mayo Methot, Mrs. Humphrey Bogart No. 3, wanted to locate Helen Menken. Mrs. Bogart No. 1. How did Celebrity Service solve this problem?

Simply by calling Lauren Bacall. Mrs. Bogart No. 4 and current title holder.

This Is 'Railroad Week' ... Hank Says He's Most Faithful Observer Of National 'Weeks'

By HENRY McEMORE

MEXICO CITY — This is "Railroad Week" according to New York's mayor, Vincent R. Impellitteri, and the first thing I did after reading his proclamation was put a cinder in my eye. As many of my readers know, I am the most faithful observer of "weeks" in the world. Weeks are a weakness of mine. During Food Week I fire to the hills twice a day, and when Bird Watching Week rolls around I spend a full seven days in a tree watching the comings and goings and family life of wrens, rooks, ravens, hummingbirds, hawks, and hoot owls.

I wear iron shoes and answer every alarm during Old Firehouse Week. Patronize Your Local Drugist Week always finds me shooting my roll on pills and plasters, ice cream cones and hot water bottles, bathing caps and peanut brittle.

You don't get cinders in your eyes on a modern-day railroad and it undoubtedly would have been more appropriate for me to put a four-dollar dining car check for a badly cooked meal in my eye. But cinders and trains will always be closely associated in my mind, my first trip on a train having been made in a green mohair upholstered day coach pulled by a wood-burning engine.

Oil lamps swung from the ceiling and the line's advertisement proudly boasted of a spillover in every car. To prevent suffocation every window had to be kept open and the engine laid down a smoke screen that would be the envy of any cruiser in the United States Navy today. It was like traveling through an endless tunnel. Parents "lose" their children when the children were sitting on the same seat with them. The conductor wore a miner's lamp.

I believe that my eyes would be 20-20 today if Mama and Papa hadn't had to root around in my eyes with rolled-up handkerchiefs, looking for cinders. I know that both of my lids droop because of the ten thousand times I had to hold my lids down in the hope that tears would wash out the cinders.

In those days, people got off recognize their relatives or closest friends groping. They couldn't identify because of the wall of cinders through which they had to look. Candy butchers of that day would have made fortunes if they had added to their stock diving bells, gas masks, or even old pillow slips that a passenger could pull over his head. I didn't like cinders in my keep us from poking our heads and arms out of the window, our parents told us gruesome stories about how passengers' heads were constantly being knocked off and their arms torn from their shoulders. That made us want to see how long we could keep our heads out the window without getting them knocked off.

Nothing could keep us even half-way in the car when the train went around a good curve and we could lean out and wave at the engineer who always waved back.

I'd like a National Old Railroad Week.

Cinders have a sweet and crunchy taste, particularly those formed by the burning of pine knots. We children used to fight for the food that had the most cinders on it, and I remember my brother, when he got a sandwich that was almost cinder free, holding it out the window till he accumulated just the amount that he liked. Youngsters of today miss half the fun of riding trains because they are air-conditioned and there are no open windows. To

OUR TOWN by Wanda Campbell

It was the first day of dancing school, and everyone was a little uncertain. Peggy Greig was wishing her mommy had let her wear her prettiest party dress instead of a play-suit. Little Candy Rola had wished her feet weren't so small then maybe she could find some tap shoes to wear back and not have to wait for a special order. Marcia McDonald was washing dancing class could start later in the morning so she could sleep a little longer before coming up to Le-fors. And Picky and Hal Cree, the boys in the class, just wished they could get the lesson over so they could go home and celebrate their third birthday. One person knew what dancing school was about. Mary Iva Kay went the day before, so she was asked to come back and help the teacher with the little ones. She helped them clap in time to the music and sing words to the song. She showed them one dance step and demonstrated their tumbling feat to a somersault. Mary Iva was sort of an example for the little ones and they all wanted to stand by her. Beginners like Patsy Hol-toway, and all the Trudys and Bettys tried to do everything their teacher did just to hear her say how proud she was of them. There was a little of everything at the first class. There were the bored, the un-concerned, the serious, the playful, the shy and frightened. But that was four lessons ago this morning. Unconcern has changed to interest, and the playful pupils have learned dancing school is work — they have fun but it comes through work. And best of all, the shyness is slowly turning to fearlessness and the most awkward of our little tots are heel-and-a-step-ping with confidence.

MATURE PARENT

By MUREL LAWRENCE

Across this country a student exodus from high schools is in the making that threatens to rival all the one of World War II when enrollment dropped by 1,250,000. Worried parents everywhere are asking what can they do to halt the flight of teenage children from classrooms into defense work and the armed services.

Maybe our fire-eating young ones would calm down if we calmed down. Maybe if we steadied ourselves, we could give more help to young people who are battling with the pressures of uncertainty and war tensions for the first time.

Long ago, we Americans decided that we owed certain fundamentals to youth. One of them, was education. We were right. It's helped to make us what we are.

If our children don't know that their best contribution to this crisis is standing by the job of getting the lessons — at least until they're drafted — we should know it. If they don't know that poise and balance are good things with which to face crisis, we know it. And we should take a firm stand against rash and ill-considered action.

The pressures claim to be overwhelming. But I don't know what leadership is if it isn't the capacity to refuse to be pushed around by pressures.

My favorite story about pressure is one that concerns Winston Churchill and a Marx Brothers movie.

It was being screened for him when news was brought in that Rudolph Hess had landed in Scotland. Imagine for yourself the excitement of his colleagues. What did this flight signify? Was it a confidant man? What would the Prime Minister do with the whole world waiting to learn the meaning of this flight of a top ranking Nazi to British soil? Did it signify peace or a renewal of the struggle?

The Prime Minister did nothing. The great war leader, responsible for morale, for leadership, ordered the movie to continue. While the jittery world let the Nazi keep it in suspense, Winston Churchill chose to let Hess cool his heels in Scotland. Churchill gave his undivided attention to Harpo and Groucho Marx.

That is shoving back pressure. That is self-command. That is wisdom that realizes that the living moment's joy and peace as what strengthens confidence to deal with the problems of future moments.

We show ourselves lacking in leadership when we deny young people the reassurances of our own calm in this emergency.

If your teen-ager is agitating for permission to leave school, your refusal to give in to anxiety and uncertainty will help him relax the tension that is driving him.

When he is relaxed, he will be ready to understand that Americans are people who move when they want to move, not when pressures try to dictate their movement.

When we have calmed ourselves down, our young people will grow more calm too. They will be calm enough to listen to the proposition that ducking out of school — before they are needed elsewhere — means that Stalin has them on the run.

Mary and Sue went as young wives to live in their husband's home town.

After five years Mary has made a real place for herself in the community, but Sue still feels and thinks and talks like an outsider.

What has made the difference? From the beginning Mary was enthusiastic about her new home. She may not have had times of feeling lonely and homesick. Certainly she must have had times when she missed her family and friends and wished herself back among them.

But Mary didn't speak of these things to her new friends.

On the other hand, Sue talked of little except how homesick she was, how she missed this and that, how she couldn't wait to get back "home" for a visit. From the start Mary did her part toward making new friends. She put her mind to learning as much as she could about those she met.

She repaid all hospitality. And she always found time to do the things she was asked to do.

Sue was careless about remembering names. Never seemed particularly interested in getting people "straight."

And never made any particular effort to nourish the acquaintanceships that might grow into friendships.

So after five years of living in the same town, one young wife "belongs" and is happy in her new home.

The other young wife is still an "outsider," stubbornly refusing to think of the town where she will likely live for years, as "home."

The girls started out with an equal chance of making a place for themselves. The only difference was in attitude. One looked forward — and the other refused to look anyway but back.

Cook's Nook

Here is a casserole guaranteed to bring forth laudable comments from all the family. The men-fish particularly will greet this dish with enthusiasm because it is made up of identifiable items which form a delectable partnership — meat balls, onion rings, sliced potatoes and peas. None of us suspect either that the savory meat balls had their beginning in a can of luncheon meat — a thrifty trick to aid the food budget. This hearty meal-in-one casserole is simple to prepare and easy to cook. It may be baked in the oven, or if a large fry pan with a tight fitting cover is available it may be cooked on top of the range.

MEAT AND VEGETABLE

- 12-ounce can luncheon meat
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 cups evaporated milk
- 2 medium onions
- 2 to 4 tablespoons flour
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 medium potatoes (about 2 1/2 cups peeled and sliced thin)
- 1 10 1/2-ounce can peas

Liquid from peas plus water to make 1 cup
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper

Place luncheon meat in mixing bowl. Shred by running the tines of a fork over the meat. The meat shreds easily this way when it is at room temperature. Or put through food chopper, using medium blade. Add crumbs and milk, and blend well. Chop one onion very fine and blend into meat mixture. Shape mixture into twelve balls and roll in the flour to coat lightly.

Melt butter in fry pan. Add the other onion which has been sliced thin, and cook gently until onion is transparent. remove onion from pan and save. Add meat balls to fry pan and cook and turn until they are browned on all sides. Butter a 2-quart casserole. Arrange meat balls, cooked onion, peas and potatoes in two layers. Add any butter remaining in fry pan, and the liquid, then sprinkle with seasonings. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375 F.) until potatoes are tender, about 35 to 40 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Note: If fry pan is large and has a tight fitting cover, this dish may be cooked on top of the range. When meat balls are browned, place the cooked onion, peas and potatoes on top. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add the liquid. Then cover the pan and cook over very low surface heat until potatoes are tender, about 30 minutes.

Conservative Men In Congress Needed

It is not that we like Ike more but that we relish Adlai less, that inclines our sympathies in this presidential campaign toward a Republican victory.

Neither presidential candidate — Eisenhower or Stevenson — stands for return to the American way of life that has been perverted by 20 years of government intervention into an American form of socialism. Neither candidate has a basic concept of human freedom that includes freedom from governmentism. Both believe, in greater or less degree, and are surrounded by advisors who believe, that the people were made to be directed, supported, limited and controlled by government bureaucracy.

The strongest appeal that Ike has is that his election will mean a real change in the faces and the policy makers in Washington. The Truman gang has outlived its welcome but could pass the scepter on to what could become the Stevenson gang. Under the circumstances, the housecleaning would be unsatisfactory since you can't change the smell of a dead rat under the house by calling it a dead cat.

It is time for a change and no glib talk by Governor Adlai should convince the American voter he's going to get that change by a switch in jockeys on a worn out nag.

But neither Homespun Ike, the soldier man, nor Gentleman Ad, Ivy League's answer to a politician's prayer, are going to cure the malady that has afflicted the American body politic.

What we need, and the best we can hope for as a result of next November's elections, will be a conservative Congress. This nation's happiest years of late have been those when Congress and the administration were effectively preventing each other from doing anything. While the doctors argue, the patient has a chance to catch his breath and gain a little strength.

This solution will not be too easy to achieve and will be more the result of accident than anything else.

Mr. Truman has been ham-strung in his wilder schemes by a coalition of conservative Southern Democrats and conservative northern Republicans.

If this conservative element can be strengthened in Congress and if it can remain independent of White House domination, we may get a long enough breathing spell for America to come to its senses before the final plunge into the abyss of socialism, Communism, dictatorship and slavery is taken.

The selection of Senators and representatives will be far more vital to the general welfare than whether a professional Army man or the coy governor of Illinois resides at 100 Pennsylvania Avenue after Jan. 20.

Fruits Of Socialism

Socialism is like a high tension wire. Once you grab hold of it, you can't let go.

This simple lesson can be learned by taking a searching look at the new mutual defense treaty negotiated by the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

The people of New Zealand are still paying heavily for socialism, despite the fact that they voted the Socialists out of office two years ago.

The New Zealanders, it seems, are contributing only $70 million as their share of mutual defense in the Pacific — out of a total budget of about $590 million. One of the principal reasons why they can't spend more is that almost half their entire budget — about $273 million — must be used to meet the continuing costs of the welfare programs which the Socialists inaugurated and left in their laps.

As a result, the United States will have to assume the lion's share of the financial burdens growing out of the newly-formed alliance.

New Zealanders have learned that once you yield to socialism, you've got it, and you can't even vote it out of your life.

No Foolin' In Mexico

The Saturday Evening Post recently published an article by Richard English which is of much interest to everyone in the United States.

Strange as it may seem, some of the most annoying Communist characters in Mexico come from Hollywood and other points in the United States.

"Where Moscow had a large and not unfriendly audience when it first became 'the peoples' champion against imperialism," said Mr. English, "that record has now worn thin. Moscow made its mistake when it began mixing in Mexican politics."

The political destiny of the Communist Party in Mexico is largely in the hands of Ernesto Uruchurchu, Secretary of the Interior, who controls the Mexican FBI.

Said Mr. Uruchurchu, "Right now the Communists are in small groups here . . . they don't dare do any damage . . . our people wear their own little land, their own coat. From such feelings, good Communists are not made."

In Mexico, as in the United States, Communism is tolerated under the constitution and for that reason, Uruchurchu says, "In essence it would not be correct for a democratic country to prescribe against any party . . . I enforce the laws that protect our country. Before Mexican visas are issued anywhere in the world, they are checked with this office, that way we keep out those whose interests conflict with ours. I simply watch Communism as I do everything else. I see that the law is fulfilled guaranteeing all parties their liberties, but I permit no activity against our country or democracies anywhere."

Presbyterian Laymen Becoming Disturbed About Their Church Leaders

I am not a Presbyterian, but Presbyterian laymen keep furnishing me with booklets issued by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. The booklets furnished me disturb them — and they well may be disturbed with the kind of literature issued and sold by the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. One member recently handed me a booklet called "Organized Labor and the Church" which reports an address by Alfred Hoffman that was made at the 155th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. It has an introduction by Henry Sisson Coffin, D. D., member of the 155th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Coffin says that the speaker presented the reasonableness, the achievements, and the occasional defects of labor unions but Dr. Coffin doesn't tell what principle or norm or commandment he uses to determine whether or not the presentation was reasonable. He also wants people to understand and appreciate labor associations. He also talks about them attaining their own higher ends and keeping those ends high. Undoubtedly Dr. Coffin believes in economic miracles so he believes that labor unions can work miracles by raising wage levels by retarding and decreasing production, from which wages are paid. It would indeed be a modern miracle if labor unions could raise wage levels and benefit workers as a whole by their methods of interfering with production — such as seniority, limiting apprentices, strikes, interfering with management selecting the most efficient help and by featherbedding that requires work to be done even that had already been done.

The speaker, Alfred Hoffman, is a member of the Presbyterian church and is first vice-president of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers in the CIO union. This CIO union vice-president starts out his address by saying: "Organization is as natural to man as eating."

That is true because if he did not cooperate man would perish, but the organization of labor unions is not an organization for cooperating in producing wealth, but it is an organization to enslave some workers for the benefit of other workers. The only way that organized labor materially temporarily benefits its members is by restricting competition. They do this by preventing workers from being free to work for the highest wages and complete, thus the workers kept down are robbed of their God-given natural rights.

Would any Presbyterian contend that it was in agreement with the golden rule for the Presbyterians, if they were all working in one line of work, to combine to keep the inexperienced persons from having the right to advance and compete with them? Would they contend that it was in harmony with the golden rule for those who had better jobs than they had to combine to keep them from advancing and getting a better job? And that is all there is to labor unions because they never created any wealth but have prevented billions and billions of dollars of wealth from being created.

This CIO labor union official uses the usual false statements. For instance he says: "Every one of them (workers) enjoys certain benefits secured for all workers by the trade-union movement by building social and wage standards and securing working conditions through economic action or by legislation."

In other words, this CIO churchman, not Christian, contends that labor unions that prevent billions of dollars of wealth from being created benefit workers. They harm other workers because they prevent the accumulation of tools and thus compel all workers, and especially those prevented from competing to work with poorer tools and thus they can produce less, and thus they can earn less. Here is another untrue statement: "The influences of the Christian home, of personal religious beliefs, and of fundamental Christianity as they affect the individual find expression in the trade-union gatherings."

I have heard the highest type of Christian say that he bows his head in shame because he has failed to belong to the printers' union that does things that the printers' union does. And all unions practice seniority. All unions are opposed to the competitive system — and progress comes from competition, not from labor unions or government or any group that interferes with an unhampered market.

This CIO church member in this address talks about matured union. He of course doesn't define what he means by matured unions. But the only kind of union that could be mature according to the labor unions would be one that had complete power over who could be promoted, who could join union and who could be discharged and who could buy or sell this or that. A mature union would be a completely arbitrary dictator because labor unions are based on the theory that might makes right and that the end justifies the means.

And we have the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education selling pamphlets like the one discussed. No wonder we have long periods of unemployment, dishonest money that is bound to be worth less and less, class legislation, ever mounting debts, and we are worried about security, when the Presbyterian General Assembly has so far departed from Christian ethics as to be selling false propaganda like the statements issued by the CIO church member.

National Whirligig... Everybody Got On Gravy Train When FDR Took Over In 1932

By RAY TUCKER

PLIGHT — Although the Democrats naturally condemn the Republican vice-presidential candidate's acceptance of outside financial aid, there is hardly a man in public life today who is not the beneficiary of direct or indirect assistance, large or small. There is not a member of Congress who does not understand and sympathize with Nixon's plight.

There is no intention here of condoning or criticizing the Californian. His importance in the campaign simply furnishes an opportunity for a frank and honest discussion of public servants and their pocketbooks.

As a rule, it is a subject which officeholders usually discuss only with their wives or family friends. I have sat in on many of these tragic talks in my twenty-nine years at Washington. ROOSEVELT — Any candid and historical discussion must start with the admission that the Roosevelt family first showed a willingness, even an eagerness, to capitalize on political power and thus compel all workers, and especially those prevented from competing to work with poorer tools and thus they can produce less, and thus they can earn less.

When Al Smith asked Franklin D. Roosevelt to run for governor of New York in 1928 in order to help carry the state, Roosevelt replied that he had incurred heavy debts in maintaining Warm Springs, which was then operated and financed like any private sanatorium. His periodical visits there helped to stimulate trade.

In order to free F.D.R. of these financial worries and obligations, John J. Raskob, a du Pont executive and Democratic National Chairman, handed over $25,000. It is understood that other amounts were contributed by Raskob - Smith friends.

Had it not been for this contribution, which relieved the drain on his cash and credit, F.D.R. might never have become President of the United States. FAMILY — The Roosevelt family immediately cashed in on their accession to the White House, as no predecessors had ever done. Although only a youngster, "Jimmy" became independently wealthy from selling insurance to large corporations in Boston and New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Anna, with no previous training or experience, began to earn large fees as magazine and newspaper contributors. Anna's two husbands, Curtis Dahl and the late John Boettiger, improved their financial status in the brokerage and newspaper fields, respectively.

Although Elliott Roosevelt was an utter stranger to John P. Hartford, he wangled a $210,000 loan from the chain store executive. A friendly phone call from F.D.R. facilitated this amazing transaction. When Elliott defaulted, Jesse H. Jones, at F.D.R.'s request, liquidated the $210,000 loan for $4,000 of his own money.

SIDELINES — Now, during this period of presidential financing at and around 1500 Pennsylvania Avenue, F.D.R. handled many legislative and regulatory questions affecting the fields in which he and his family had engaged.

WIVES — President Truman is a key witness to the fact that members of Congress cannot live on their salaries alone, as are Vice-President Barkley and the Democrats' vice-presidential nominee, Senator Sparkman of Alabama.

Although the Trumans lived modestly when he was a Senator — their apartment rent under federal controls was only $125 — Mrs. Truman drew $3,500 a year as his extremely part-time secretary. He admitted frankly that he needed this extra revenue, for he had many debts when he entered the Senate.

Vice-President Barkley has swelled his income by making speeches for handsome sums before friendly groups interested in legislation. Senator Sparkman's wife earns $5,000 a year as his secretary, despite her many social and home duties, giving them a combined income of $20,500 a year, of which $2,500 is non-taxable.

UNDERSTANDS — Governor Stevenson seemingly understands Nixon's dilemma. As Illinois executive, he has drafted many able business men for his personal and administrative staff. But they could not serve him if they had not been wealthy men, or if their corporation employers had not agreed to keep them on the private payroll.

Stevenson himself might not have been able to afford the luxury of a political career, including a presidential nomination, if he did not have a private income of $25,000 or more.

Admittedly, Nixon's indiscretions may make him a liability among the voters, although not among his Congressional colleagues. They undoubtedly have poignant memories of the biblical injunction: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

EDITORS NOTE — In a subsequent column, Ray Tucker will itemize the average living and political expenses of an average Congressman, and discuss various proposals for freeing them of the need of any sort of outside aid.

FREZZING OUT LANDLORDS (The Chicago Daily Tribune) A dispatch from London explains how the rent control folk work in a country far advanced into socialism. In Britain, rents are frozen at the pre-war level and laws require landlords to keep their property in good repair. Sometimes the income from the property is insufficient to meet operating expenses.

Caught in this squeeze, some landlords are hiring tramps to take title to the buildings. The tramps then depart, the original owners escape liability for repairs, and the buildings become derelicts. In Scotland, landlords have found another way to escape. Their scheme calls for organizing a corporation which takes title to the property. The corporation's liability is limited to its small capital, and when that is exhausted the property is abandoned.

In Chicago, some landlords have taken their apartments off the rental market, preferring to keep them vacant rather than to submit to rentals fixed by the government below the amounts necessary to meet operating expenses and interest on the investment. The next step here would be laws requiring owners to rent their buildings and keep them in repair. After that would come abandonment of the properties, as the British landlords are doing.

The final step is government ownership of all dwellings. That seems to be the goal of the socialists, both in Britain and the United States.

Fair Enough... Republican Party Will Suffer Little Harm From Nixon Affair

By WESTBROOK FEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The one who showed up first in the trivial diversion of the Nixon political fund was not Senator Nixon, but General Dwight D. Eisenhower. He let the enemy rattle him with a little crackle of firecrackers from far off on the left. He implied a lack of confidence in Nixon's honesty and ethics when he should have struck back at the slimy record established by Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself, his wife, his sons, Elliott and Jimmy and the rest of a greedy crew, including Harold L. Ickes, the pure in heart. Their personal take-off, certainly less legitimate than Nixon's impersonal fund of $18,000, ran well over a million.

The Republican cause suffered little real harm in this episode but the worst damage was done by Ike himself, with his remarkable Nixon would have to come clean. This implied a lack of confidence in Nixon's honesty which he probably did not feel in his heart. Ike is no boy and he has had enough experience in politics to justify a demand that he obey one of the rudiments of his new trade. A politician can't be hurt by something he didn't say and the Republican cause would have been just so much better off if Ike had kept a still tongue in his head.

Nixon will wear a smear right down to election day, a smear created by a heavily subsidized refugee from Italy, and a dirty little New York scandal paper which supported Bubblehead Wallace when he was the nominee of the Communists. This paper's editor is a confessed alumnus of the Young Communist League.

The refugee is Max Ascoli, who fled from Italy and struck it rich here with a marriage to a daughter of the late Julius Rosenberg. In this prosperous condition, As-

The Nation's Press

THE ONE PLAIN ISSUE (The Wall Street Journal)

In his speech before the American Federation of Labor yesterday General Eisenhower, it seems to us, did more than express his attitude toward labor laws. In one brief paragraph he distilled the essence of his political philosophy. "I don't want arbitrary power over either labor or industry, I do not believe that the President of a free nation can have such power without that nation losing its freedom. My opponent may complain on Labor Day that he wanted what I am against. If you want the basic, irreconcilable difference between his position and mine, there is it. He and his party embrace compulsion. I reject compulsion."

Now there has been a great deal said in this campaign about the "friends" of labor and its "foes." We hear that labor's friends are those who want to give the Government greater power to seize industries to arbitrate and force settlement of disputes — that they are labor's friends because they want all this power to help labor.

Well, in 1946 when the railroad workers would not do as the Government wanted them to do, President Truman seized the industry to force the owners to yield to the Government's demands.

In the case of the President was castigated by labor as its betrayer. In the other he was hailed as its great friend and benefactor. Yet in both cases he followed the same procedure.

In the second instance a "friendly" President was stopped by the courts. In the first one, the railroad workers were spared by a small group of men in the Senate.

In both cases, of course, the philosophy of the Government was the same. The people involved are the minions of the Government and when it wants done it has the right to use all powers of compulsion to see that it is carried out.

It was an accident of the political hour and the mood of the men running the Government that in the second instance the labor union officials could be pleased with the attempted use of compulsion.

The philosophy of compulsion puts the unions, and all their members, at the mercy of officials whom they are free, or not free, as the particular officials at the moment choose them to be. Can this be a great and good philosophy under which labor can be free?

Yet it is this philosophy which we are told is the wave of the present. The Government must have greater powers of compulsion to "protect" the farmers, to protect the consumer, the business man, the great masses and the members of minority groups from the depredations of all the rest of us. Each of the so-called issues of the campaign — from the farm program to the use of the Government's powers of compulsion over people.

We are also told that no political leader can survive who does not embrace it. The political aspirant must not question the philosophy of compulsion.

colli started a periodical magazine called "The Reporter," one of those dismal, European things done in language of our country, and began to meddle in our domestic politics. He and his wife both are listed as contributors to the covert political societies of Arthur J. Goldsmith, of the Waldorf Tower, showing inherited American money into strategic states to nullify the ballots of their citizens for undeclared purposes and without public notice. If it was wrong for a group of native American of unquestionable patriotism to underwrite the political, but not the personal, affairs of Senator Nixon, it certainly was much less right of a refugee who scuttled over here to save his hide and got safe asylum and riches in the move, to use his wife's money secretly, to set at naught the franchise that American patriots won with their blood. It is damned bad manners, to say the best of it. Some refugees have a hard time understanding that a man is entitled to no more senatorial immunity than the state in which he happens to reside. Ascoli is one of these and Isidore Lipshutz, of the non-secretarian Anti-Nazi League, is another.

The pro-Bubblehead paper of long on the remainder of a fortune established by Mortimer F. Schiff, an international banker of the generation last past. It is an unappetizing thing and the public largely ignores it as its puny circulation proves. Not only its editor, one James Wechsler, but his wife, Nancy, both were members of the Young Communist League, which was a genuine official Communist front, when they were at Columbia.

Both profess to have abandoned Communism but in most American minds this calls for more than a mere casual remark to that effect. Dick Nixon's comment that a public man with his record of anti-Communist activity had to expect smears is clarified when one understands the background of Wechsler and his wife. She, incidentally, by some coincidence, was chosen by Prof. Robert K. Carr, of Dartmouth, as which was selected by David K. Niles, and included John S. Dartmouth, who was planted at Dartmouth's Committee on Civil Rights, counsel for the so-called Presidential would revoke some of the mouth by Nelson Rockefeller.

Carr was the "executive secretary" of the Committee and its eye, the new up, openly a Communist important guarantee of the Constitution.

Legitimate anti-Communists, as distinguished from the fifth-columnists who clambered aboard the wagon and took charge, denounced the Washington Post and the New York Times in a jam. We could have told Ike what to expect. The Herald Tribune over-estimated the gravity of the smear against Nixon and called on him to withdraw from the campaign. The Washington Post, an organ of the Frankfurter cult with dominant Roosevelt-Truman editorial tone, said Nixon's resignation from the ticket would help restore public confidence in the federal government.

The Times was a frantic Roosevelt paper until its complicity in Roosevelt's awful guilt began to fill its owners with valid apprehensions. So this year's stout advocate of the New Deal Socialism muscled into the Republican Party demanding the right to name the Republican candidates. The Times, like the H-T and The Washington Post, has now run out on the ticket in the first instance. The Times said the Republican leaders must decide without loss of time whether Nixon's record has not fatally impaired his usefulness as a candidate.

This is sabotage from within, to be sure, but the timing of the coup was bad, leaving Nixon more than five weeks to vindicate his conduct and in this time the organ that began the day when the ribald Roosevelt set moved into the White House. This record of graft will continue down to the moment when Harry S. Truman cashes his check for the last installment of his annual $50,000 tax — exempt graft in the guise of an expense account.

The Washington Post excused the treason of Alger Hiss, the protégé of its own friend, Felix Frankfurter, on the ground that the moral "climate" of the time was a fault. And, in New York, Tom Murphy, the prosecutor who misled Hiss after Nixon had helped turn him up, openly complained that the Herald Tribune had favored Hiss day after day in its news columns on the trial.

Over and over in Chicago and before, the real Republican warned Eisenhower that his strange new friends could not be trusted. Now he should know, although he is, as the actors say, a remarkably hard study.

For here, reaching far beyond the matter of a labor law, is the issue of compulsion of the people—the most recent issue of our day.

Harvesters Face Vernon Lions In Home Opener Tonight

Scots, Lubbock Top Schoolboy Weekend Card

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Highland Park Dallas plays Lubbock Friday night at Lubbock in the feature game of Texas schoolboy football for the week. It matches unbeaten teams of Class AAAA teams that could win their district championships and meet later on in the state playoffs.

Another headliner pits Temple, the terror of Class AAA, against Waco of the Class AAAA at Waco, and still another standout sends Jefferson San Antonio against mighty Baytown.

The feature of Classes AA and A is the Pecos - Wink game at Pecos. Each is a favorite in its class.

Two undefeated teams fell in the scattering games over the state Thursday night. In Class AAAA Edison of San Antonio whipped San Antonio Tech, 38-6 to knock the latter from the unbeaten ranks. In Class AA Mt. Pleasant rolled on undefeated by taking out Atlanta, 49-0.

Other games played last night were: Class AAAA - Bowie El Paso 39, Cathedral El Paso 7; Arlington Heights Fort Worth 19, Sunset Dallas 15; North Dallas 12, North Side Fort Worth 8; San Jacinto Houston 14, St. Thomas Houston 13.

Class AAA - Seguin 26, Lander San Antonio 0.
Class AA - Jesuit Dallas 69, White Settlement 0; Teague 13, Waco Tech 2.
Class A - Willis Point 19, Rockwall 0.

Area Schedule Is Heavy Tonight

Pampa's area schools present an almost full card of activity this weekend. Only powerful White Deer Bucks, named by many as a strong state championship threat, draw an off date. With two strong victories behind them, the charges of Coach James Love rest until Oct. 3 when they host the Groom Tigers.

The Lefors Pirates go to Memphis to face the potent Cyclones. McLean's Tigers drop down to play Wheeler's Mustangs at Wheeler. Canadian journeys to Perryton and the Miami Warriors face the Mobeetie Hornets at Mobeetie in the start of their conference race, and the Shamrock Irish host the Dumas Demons.

Yesterday afternoon the Skellytown junior high griders opened their campaign against the Lefors Bandits at Skellytown.

The Pampa Harvesters and the Vernon Lions, two very evenly matched football teams, lock horns tonight at Harvester Park to open the Greer and Gold's 1952 football season. It is the first of six games on the home schedule this season which promises to be a long, hard one for the inexperienced Pampans.

As far as tonight's game is concerned, both from experience and size, the clubs will be well matched. Both are green, inexperienced teams, although the Lions have one more game behind them this year than the Harvesters. From a weight standpoint only one-half pound difference, in favor of the Lions, separates the two starting lineups. The Pampa front line on offense will average 168 pounds while the starting offensive line for Vernon averages 170. Pampa holds the weight edge in the backfield, 156 pounds to 153 1/2.

The game will be another proving ground examination for the Harvesters. Several of the spots are still wide open, and the Pampa coaching staff will eagerly be watching the performances of several of the players bidding for starting berths in the games to come. One of the most interesting changes will be in the work of Tommy Sells, 200-pound center off last year's team, who has been shifted to a tackle slot this past week. James Hawkins, jumping straight from last year's championship junior high team, will be the subject of much hopeful anticipation. A good performance by Hawkins could make the shift of Sells to tackle a permanent one.

Two New Backs
In the backfield Jimmie Keel and John Darby earned themselves starters jobs due to their fine performance last week end against the El Paso Austin High Panthers at El Paso. They apparently have edged David Enloe and Harold Lewis out of starting berths tonight. But you can be sure that all four boys will be putting on their very best in search of those fullback and right halfback posts.

Ed Dudley appears to have left halfback pretty well taken care of while J. N. Wright's fine pitching and handling of job last week left little to be desired from the junior quarterback, who is getting a stiff fight from Reggie Mayo for the down-and-out slot.

The Lions, who dropped a 27-7 decision to Wichita Falls' Coyotes in their opening game and then fought Altus, Okla., to a 7-7 dead-

SMU OPENS SWC WEEK END TONIGHT

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor
Southern Methodist meets Duke at Dallas Friday night to open a big week end of inter-sectional football for the Southwest Conference. Four of six games are against teams from other areas and the other two are against strong outfits in the conference's own ballpark.

Two of the teams travel far, with Texas Christian, down-hearted over losing its opening game of the season against Kansas last week, journeying to Los Angeles to take out its spite on UCLA, and Texas going to Chapel Hill, N. C., for a clash with North Carolina. These games are Saturday afternoon.

The other inter-sectional struggle pits Texas A&M and Oklahoma A&M in the Cotton Bowl Saturday night, rests this week.

Rice, SMU waited until this week to open the season, engages a tough Texas Tech team at Houston in a night game. Arkansas, with a 22-20 victory over Oklahoma A&M under its belt, takes on University of Houston at Fayetteville in a daytime affair.

PAMPA NEWS, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1952 Page 9

Bullpups Blast Guerrillas, 18-0

If the Berger Bulldogs are anything like their little brothers, the Bullpups, some upsets loom ahead during the 1952 1-AAAA football season.

The Bullpups invaded Harvester Park last night and blasted a good Guerrilla team almost off their home field, 18-0.

The Guerrillas were never quite able to really get into the fight. Only twice did they put on strong scoring threats, and time ran out to halt one and the big Berger forward wall rose up to stop the other.

The two clubs battled through the first quarter without any scoring. But in the second period the Bullpups struck twice, failing to convert either time. The first touchdown came on a 53-yard drive which saw Gregg sweep wide around end for 15 yards and the score. A blocked punt set up the second one a short time later. Billy Fulemwid-er blocked in his face, Fulemwid recovering on the five yard line where the Bullpups look over and three plays later had another six points as Bascom went over from the four.

The last Berger touchdown came in the final period with Clapp racing 31 yards for the biggest share of a 65-yard march. The actual touchdown resulted from a one-yard plunge by Rodgers.

The Guerrillas' two lone scoring threats were in the second and fourth periods. In the second the Guerrillas had moved to the Berger 13 when time ran out and in the fourth quarter they ran out of downs on the Berger eight.

It was the first loss of the year for the Guerrillas against one tie, an 18-18 affair with the Amarillo Yarnigans last weekend. Next Thursday night the Guerrillas host the Turkey Turks, who downed Berger 7-6 last weekend.

Baylor, which opened the week with a 17-14 victory over Waco, Arkansas, with a 22-20 victory over Texas Tech, Arkansas and Southern Methodist are definite favorites to win their games but Texas Christian is an underdog against UCLA and Texas A&M is expected to have its hands more than full with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Fireworks Expected
Southern Methodist and Duke, top-rated team of the Southern Conference, will be playing for the first time and the initial meeting is expected to produce offensive fireworks for which games in the Cotton Bowl have become noted. Duke has a veteran team. Southern Methodist has an experienced nucleus but is depending on many sophomores to dig it out of the cellar where the Methodists reposed last season.

Texas goes to the stadium where it was humiliated in 1945 with a crushing 34-7 defeat. The Longhorns have played the Tar Heels three times, winning two games and losing one. Last year Texas licked North Carolina, 45-20. North Carolina hasn't played a game as yet this campaign. Texas opened the season last week with a 35-14 strapping of Louisiana State.

Frogs May Improve
Texas Christian is due to be a greatly improved team this week against UCLA, and if the field is dry should get back into the work offensive groove for which the Frogs were famous last season. The 13-0 defeat to Kansas last week was the first time in 43 games that the Frogs have failed to score.

They blamed a muddy field for most of their troubles. Texas Aggie scouts, who saw Oklahoma A&M play Arkansas last week, reported that the Cowboys should have won the game, throwing away a couple of opportunities to score. But Texas A&M appears to have a much better team than anticipated. The Aggies' 21-12 victory over University of Houston last week built A&M hopes high.

Bob Clatterback, who kept Texas A&M on the edge of the chair all the way with his passing, is the man Arkansas fears. Coach Otis Douglas says he still doesn't have the proper pass defense.

Nuclear Fission And Fusion Spell Eight Upsets To Major Hoopie

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Egad! Mark the date well, Saturday, Sept. 27, as a red letter day de luxe on the Hoopie calendar of football prognostications.

On that day, millions of gentle readers, your correspondent selects for you no fewer than eight of what we call in gridiron jargon "juicy upsets!"

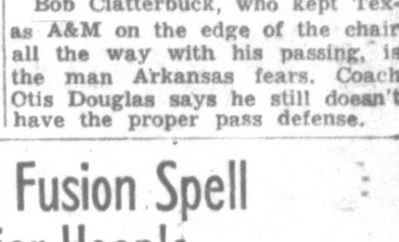

Yes, eight, count them, and here they are: Michigan to beat Michigan State, Minnesota to beat Washington, Yale over Navy, North Carolina over Texas, Kentucky over Mississippi, Tulane and Georgia to tie, Alabama to beat LSU and Washington State to defeat Stanford!

In selecting these amazing results, I have had recourse to two scientific systems, that of nuclear fission and that of nuclear fusion. In one, the nucleus is split—in the other two nuclei are fused. I fear you haven't understood this, so I am not going to enlarge upon it.

I am divulging my method only to indicate to my loyal fans (and to a few disgruntled, crabby, poor-spirited critics) that I am thoroughly "help" to the new trends. Also to demonstrate that this is not huck, but science.

Now go ahead with the forecast, and if you think it wrong, try to beat it!

Today is Flag Day For Domineering New York Yankees

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
This is flag day for the New York Yankees.

A victory over the Athletics at Philadelphia tonight will give Casey Stengel's men their fourth straight American League pennant—a feat in major league history accomplished only by Joe McCarthy's 1926-29 Yankees and John McGraw's National League Giants of the roaring 20s.

To try to wrap up the pennant and earn the right to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening next Wednesday at Ebbets Field, Stengel will send the Yankees to his pitching staff, southpaw Eddie Lopat, against young Harry Byrd of the A's.

Lopat, back in the groove after suffering back miseries during the summer, has won his last five starts for a 10-5 record. Byrd, beaten 1-0 by the Yankees last Sunday, carried a 16-14 mark into the game.

There is nothing the runner-up Cleveland Indians can do about the situation today. They are idle until tomorrow, when they open a two-game final series in Detroit. Trailing by 2 1/2 games in the Tri-State play-off, the Yankees are the only club by the champions and two triumphs by themselves over the Tigers. Such an outcome would throw the race in a tie and force a one-game play-off in Cleveland Monday.

Allie Reynolds, the strong-armed right hander, assured the Yankees of a tie yesterday as he joined Hal Newhouse, another veteran moundsman, in producing the outstanding performances of the day.

Reynolds' 3-2 conquest of the Boston Red Sox was not only an artistic but a financial success since it went a long way toward making each of the Yankee players some five or six thousand dollars richer.

Newhouse, in the twilight of his 14-year career with the Detroit Tigers, can look for no such financial gain, however, but his 3-2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns was the 200th of his major league career and placed him in a select group with 64 other pitchers.

It was a great day for Reynolds, a year ago this week pitched a no-hitter against the same Red Sox to clinch the Yankees' 1951 championship. The pitching of the quarter-blooded Creek Indian was not of that variety yesterday, but he drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to rack up his 20th win of the season.

Newhouse gets 20th
Only 569 fans—smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium's history—saw 31-year-old Newhouse strike out eight, walk only one and pitch out of two bad spots in joining the comparatively small group of pitchers who have won 200 games. Only two other active pitchers—Bob Feller and Bob Newson—are in the group.

The only day game in the National League saw the New York Giants clinch second place with a two-run ninth inning rally that brought a 3-2 victory over the Boston Braves.

Relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm, taking over in the ninth from Jim Hearn, was credited with his 15th pitching triumph of the year and his second in 1952. Last year Texas lipped Ray Katt singled home the decisive run.

The only night game like those played in the sunlight, was decided in the ninth inning when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3. Billy Johnson's double and Sully Henry's single accounted for the winning tally as the Cards scored their 23rd one-run victory of the season.

Shamrock Irish To Host Dumas
SHAMROCK (Special) — "Stop Mowrey!" will be the watchword when the Dumas Demons run out on Denver Field in Shamrock tonight.

Joe Pat Mowrey, the 145-pound dynamite in the orange-and-black backfield, turned on the heat again last week at Tulsa in his 33-8 smashing administered by Dumas to the hapless Hornets.

He razzie-dazzled his way to four TDs through broken fields as Hornets tried vainly to stop him. But this wasn't enough, either, so he hurled a TD pass to Billy, Demon end for the fifth Dumas score of the Dumas-Tulia fracas. Then he booted two extra points just to make things lively.

Two weeks ago Mowrey was the sparkplug in the 51-13 victory over Amarillo's Price college crew. So far he has racked up seven touchdowns and four conversions for a healthy 46 points.

Weighing only 122 last season, he has reached 145 now and is every bit as fast. An all-resilient back in 1951, Mowrey is likely

Casey Cautious As Champs Closing On Cleveland Tribe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The New York Yankees were within a whisper of winning their fourth successive American League pennant today but Manager Casey Stengel refused to admit his world champions were in.

"We'll get to win another game," the cagy old pilot declared, "and the last one might prove to be the toughest of all. No, I won't say we're in until those other guys (Cleveland) are mathematically eliminated."

Reminded the Yankees needed to win only one of their final three games with the Philadelphia Athletics to clinch the flag, Casey retorted.

"We haven't won it yet, have we? And don't forget, Jimmy Dykes, Philadelphia manager, is going to shoot the works against us. I hear he's mad at me, too. They tell me he's going to throw that young phenom of his, Harry Byrd, against us tonight and Sunday. Yep, those A's are going to be rough as long as they have a chance to finish third."

No Faith in Detroit
Stengel has no faith in the tailed Detroit Tigers, who could assure the Yankees the flag by knocking off the Indians in one of their two remaining games with Cleveland.

"I can't depend on them," he

Boyle's Column . . . Craig Bleak Proves A Little Doll Can Be Quite Dangerous

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — In all the world there was nothing that Craig Bleak really liked. He was a man that even the cat in his own home arched her back and spat wherever he came near.

"Craig doesn't really mean the things he says," his wife, Mary, loyally defended him. "It's his poor health."

But if anything had made Craig lift it was his spiteful nature. And in time he alienated everyone except Mar and Henr Hole some, who worked in the bank with him. Craig hated them both — Mar, because she stood b him; Henr, because he kept rising in rank while Craig remained in his same old post in a teller's cage.

"I know why Henr keeps hanging around here — the fool's in love with you," Craig taunted his wife. "If I dropped dead, he'd want to marry you the next day."

ONE TRUE SAYING
And Maola, their aid, who overheard the remark, thought to herself that it probably was the only true thing Craig ever had said. Maola came from Haiti, and believed in black magic.

The de Haar final was Craig's last. He was promoted, and he was promoted, said Mar, and he was promoted. She slapped her. He went out in the kitchen and saw Maola. She held a small object in her hand and was muttering over it.

"What is that?" demanded Craig.

"Nothing," said Maola, hiding the object behind her.

"Let's see it," insisted Craig sternly.

Reluctant, Maola held out the object, a tin man-shaped doll. Fixed to its toe b a pin was a piece of paper that said "Sam."

"He's m bo friend, and he's been cheating on me," explained Maola. "I'm gettin' eye b puttin' the voodoo hood on him. Ever' place I sticks a pin in it with his name on it — that's where it hurts him."

SHOULDER TROUBLE
"It works where I come from," said Maola. "Anything ou believe in hard enough comes true, Misata Bleak."

"I'll give ou $4 for that doll," said Craig. He took it, and as TITO'S BRIDE—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia recently revealed that in June he was secretly married to the former Jovanka Budisavljevic, above. The new Mrs. Borz (Tito's real name is Joseph Borz) is a veteran of his wartime partisan forces and is still a major in the Yugoslav army. It is his third marriage.

ALL-BOY—Six-year-old Tommy Herbert, of Euclid, Ohio, who lost both hands beneath a switch engine five years ago, proves he can bat and throw a baseball well enough to play with the other kids. In throwing, he places the ball in the crook of his arm and gets it off with a pushing motion. He can write, play the drums, run a lawn mower and wants a two-wheeled bike instead of the three-wheeler he now rides.

HEAD-ON ARGUMENT—The camera catches a skull-cracking moment at the National Stock Yards in East St. Louis, Ill., as a dwarf Black Angus heifer ignores the odds against it and battles a normal sized heifer. Cattlemen say the smaller animal is a freak and not of the recognized miniature strain of Black Angus. It is 24 inches high and weighs about 400 pounds.

CLYDE JONAS Says

Sometimes a fellow is stumped for the right thing to say . . . especially when he talks about different cars day after day. The most important thing is to be sure you give you an accurate impression of the car you are buying.

We insist that your drive . . . the car and see for yourself. We keep complete records of the previous owners. You can talk to them about the condition and performance. Furthermore, reconditioning records show you what has been done in our shop. And, most important, our 60-50 guarantee protects you after you buy.

Occasionally, we get a car . . . that we feel we can "pull out the stops" in describing it to you. Right now, we have a 1949 Chevrolet 4 door sedan as nice there is too much to tell you and as little that really needs to be told. You can see for yourself. It is only $1245 and it is the newest 1949 Chevrolet we have seen. See for yourself now at

Many Older Doctors And Dentists Face Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of older doctors and dentists who until recently thought selective service was something only younger practitioners had to worry about are headed for 24 months' military duty.

The supply of younger, draft-eligible doctors and dentists is beginning to take older dentists late piling out. The armed forces will this year, older doctors early in the spring.

The situation is almost as disturbing to the armed forces as it is to many established medical and dental men with heavy family responsibilities. In accordance with usual policy, the doctors and dentists who have been in practice for a long time will be given the ranks of major, lieutenant commander, lieutenant colonel or commander.

"We'll have all chiefs and no Indians," said one Army medical officer. The Army will have four or five times as many majors and lieutenant colonels in the Medical Corps as its table of organization calls for.

Another Army objection to having too many older medical officers is that for combat duty in Korea a preponderance of young doctors is desirable. They are generally better able to stand the rigors of the field.

All these factors are now being considered by top-level planners and civilian advisers in the Defense Department and the Selective Service Administration.

WANTED MEN WITH HERNIA

We want men who are tired of ordinary trusses—men who lift and strain—who can't waste time in a hospital—men who have nursed hernia 10, 20, 30 years or more, if it is still reducible.

We want YOU to mail this coupon to find out why we say: (1) you need never buy another truss; (2) no more rupture trouble; (3) many report "hernia gone." Let others wait! YOU find out today!

service system. They hope to agree on recommendations to Congress for revision of the doctor draft law. As the present law will expire next June, a new one will have to be enacted anyway.

When the Korean War erupted and the doctor draft bill was passed, all doctors and dentists younger than 60 had to register for selective service.

The law, however, provided that the first call go to the 19,377 men who got their medical and dental educations partly or wholly at government expense during the war and had served in the armed forces less than 21 months.

Some of these men served less than 90 days on active duty and were placed in Priority I in the post-Korea draft. Those who served longer than that but less than 21 months were placed in priorities that have been filling draft Priority II. Men in these two calls up to now.

Actually only about 17 have had to be inducted. The rest, facing induction, applied for commissions.

New Priority I and II men are almost used up. Many in Priority III have already been examined and classified.

In Priority III are those who got no part of their education at government expense and who have never been in military service. They consist chiefly of men who started to practice before World War II.

A small proportion are young post-war graduates, but most men graduating now are veterans, and all veterans are in Priority IV. The law provides that all other eligible men be drafted before veterans.

The Defense Department estimates that only about 500 post-war Priority III physicians will be found available for duty after screening for physical disqualification and various reasons for deferment, and somewhat fewer young dentists.

As there are 47,360 doctors and dentists in Priority III, it is obvious why under present law the draft calls will be going to the older men for a long time to come. The armed forces need an average of 5,000 doctors and 3,200 dentists each year as replacements. On active duty now are 13,360 physicians and 6,308 dentists. It is expected that a large number will be deferred as being essential in their communities and irreplaceable by men who are over-age—principally in rural STRICTLY PERSONAL—World's longest personal letter ever written is typed out on his typewriter by Seaman Pat Kelley, Jr., at a naval air station in Japan. Helping him stretch out the record-breaking epistle is a fellow sailor, David Rodger. Kelley debunks the chronic excuse of having "nothing to write about" with his 40-foot, month-long project. He estimates he hit the typewriter 140,000 times.

City Commissioner W. B. (A) Neel and Frank Carter, representing those opposed to the proposed city charter change, repeated their Tuesday address to Pampa Rotarians at noon Wednesday.

The two spoke previously to the Junior Chamber of Commerce on the issues involved in the special election to be held Oct. 4.

Both speakers declined to answer questions at the end of the meeting.

Floyd Watson announced that the club would place 14 golfers in the annual inter-civic club golf tournament this week end at the Pampa Country Club. Players taking the field for Rotary are: Watson, Joe Cree, Paul Beisenherz, Tom Rose, Rex Rose, De Lea Vicars, Walter (Pop) Warner, C. S. (Pinkie) Vineyard, Fred Neslage, Otis Nace, Luke McClelland, Russell Holloway.

areas and small towns. Many will be rejected for physical reasons. But probably there will be plenty left to fill the draft calls for quite a while. Dependents are no cause for deferment of medical men except in cases of extreme hardship.

Women Have Close Scrape

A truck driver jack-knifed his combination truck-tractor and semi-trailer to avoid slamming into the rear of a vehicle which contained two women and four small girls, it was learned today.

Charles Otho Hawkins, 26, of Kansas City, Mo., was driving his truck east on Hwy. 152 at 8:20 p.m. Wednesday, according to Highway Patrolman P. C. Wynne, when his vehicle overtook a car operated by Mrs. Glendora Sanderson, 31, of Canadian.

The Sanderson car, also headed east, had been going very slow as the headlights had blinked out shortly before. Mrs. Sanderson told Wynne and Chief Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nickels, who had accompanied Wynne, that she had been trying to find a place to turn off the road when the truck had hit her car.

Hawkins told the officers that he had come upon the car suddenly, had hit his brakes, had cut the wheels sharply to the left and had jack-knifed the truck. And his truck barely hit the fender of the car, Wynne reported.

None of the seven persons in the two vehicles was hurt and estimated damages to Mrs. Sanderson's car were a mere $5. But the trailer of the truck had bent in a corner of the cab and torn one of the saddle tanks. Calculated damages to the truck were $400.

Wynne praised the quick action John Frick and Dalas Bowsher. A plea for support of the Pampa Oilers was also made during the meeting by Roy Bourland who asked club member to sign pledge cards for purchase of season tickets at $50 a book.
