BRITISH-INDONESIAN BATTLE RAGES

Jews Call General Strike to Protest British Stand on Palestine Problem

Mass Meeting Demonstrations Being Planned

JERUSALEM, Nov. 14—(AP)—A 12-hour general Jewish strike in protest to new British proposals for settling the Palestine problem started at noon today without incident.

All Jewish shops, restaurants, work shops and factories were closed and Jewish-operated buses and taxis stopped.

CARGO SHIP ARRIVES

Jewish workers in essential services were requested to continue work in military camps, hospitals, postoffices, telegraph and broadcasting stations as well as at the El Aviv harbor, where the first cargo ship to arrive since 1940 began discharging merchandise.

BEVINS STATEMENT

The people of Palestine eagerly were studying British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's statement. A number of mass meeting demonstrations were planned in Palestine towns during the afternoon.

There was widespread objection.

PALESTINE—MID-EAST'S PRIME PROBLEM

High on the list of tough problems tackled by President Truman and Britain's Prime Minister Clement Attlee in Washington is the Palestine question. Map shows geographic distribution of Jews in Palestine. Inset chart shows relative number of Jews and Arabs.

Capitol Hill Is Split Over British Loan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—Several legislators said today that if Prime Minister Attlee is seeking to sell this country on the idea of a loan to Britain he made only a little headway by visiting Capitol Hill.

Others expressed belief a loan will be made. Talks on a multi-billion dollar credit arrangement for England have been under way here for several weeks.

FRANKNESS IMPRESSIVE

Members who heard Attlee address a joint meeting of congress yesterday and commented to newsmen later seemed impressed by the British leader's frankness. But there was a sharp division of opinion on his government's objectives.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the republican steering committee, who personally favors a loan to Britain, said he felt Attlee's explanation of the objectives of the British labor government hadn't helped much.

ATLEE ISN'T SALESMAN

"He sounded a little on new dealism for some people," Taft told a reporter.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) observed that Attlee "isn't the salesman that Churchill was."

Attlee told the legislators that the labor party isn't the radical organization it has been pictured in some American minds. It is primarily concerned, he said, with the welfare of the common man, adding that this takes government planning. He said it believes in government taking over monopolies when big business gets in that class.

PLANNED ECONOMY

Rep. Jack Z. Anderson (R-Calif) said "we have tried a planned economy long enough over here to know it won't work."

Senator O'Daniel (D-Texas) said he is "against any more loans to England, regardless of how nice their new government is."

On the other side, Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) said he thought more speeches like Attlee's would bring more understanding and less.

'Thank You Farm' Is Castle For Sharecropper's Hero Son

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Nov. 14—(AP)—A homeplace for a hero—"Thank You Farm"—becomes the castle today of a sharecropper's son. Sixty-two acres of good earth it is, with a modern house and furnishings. It's not far from Hogback mountain, where he was born 24 years ago.

It was bought for $7,500, chipped in by the homefolks who've known Pfc. Gene Atkins all his life and by folks who read of his bravery.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and other dignitaries are coming to the formal presentation ceremony late this afternoon.

It was Atkins who, back in the jungles of Luzon, lay wounded all night in a foxhole, yet kept plugging until his rifle had picked off 44 Japs.

The people back home when they read of his feat felt that a hero should come home to something better than a sharecropper's.

3 Suicidal Attacks Are Hurlled Back

BATAVIA, Nov. 14—(AP)—Fighting raged with unabated fury in Soerabaja today, and in Batavia British Maj. Gen. D. C. Hawthorn accused the commander of the Japanese 16th army and his chief of staff of having deliberately handed over arms to "unruly elements" in Java.

100 INDONESIANS KILLED

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland in Soerabaja said British Indian troops battling in the heart of the naval base hurled back three suicidal Indonesian attacks during the night, killing more than 100 and sustaining a half dozen casualties of their own in fighting for the Kota railway station and marshalling yards. The British threw a 25-pounder barrage against Indonesians entrenched in pre-war Dutch-built concrete pillboxes in the area.

Haugland reported that the British were moving slowly in order to keep their casualties low, and that it might take the better part of this week to clear out the remaining half of Soerabaja still in nationalistic hands.

REBELS USING SPEARS

A reliable unofficial estimate placed the number of Indonesians opposing the British in Soerabaja at between 15,000 and 18,000 men, including many armed with spears.

In the capital, the two Japanese generals accused of the unauthorized surrender of their arms were bundled off by plane to Singapore to face charges.

VERBAL LASHING

Hawthorn administered a verbal lashing to the two officers, Lt. Gen. Yuichiro Nagano and his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Molchiro Yamamoto.

U. S. Transports Land Troops in North China Port

TSINGTAO, Nov. 14—(AP)—Thousands of American-trained and equipped Chinese national troops are landing unopposed today from U. S. transports at this north China city, occupied Oct. 11 by American marines who since have been cooped up by the presence of Chinese communists nearby.

Whether the marines will be pulled out of their lone foothold on Shantung peninsula, reportedly dominated by the reds, was not made known. The leathernecks, of Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr.'s Sixth division, have been limited to garrison duty since accepting surrender of more than 10,000 Japanese.

Some of those Japanese, allowed to retain arms, stand guard over Tsingtao industries which include nine large cotton mills. Many Japanese civilians are keeping the factories open.

Chinese red troops ring the port by land. On the peninsula's tip, the strategic ports of Chefoo and Weihaiwei are in communist hands.

A landing was considered early last month at Chefoo but Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey reported no Japanese were in the area, hence there was no reason for the landing.

The Tsingtao landing, by major elements of the Chinese Eighth army, is nearly 300 miles south of Chingwangtao where the Chinese 13th army was put ashore Oct. 30 by the same transports.

Marines also preceded Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's men in occupying Chingwangtao. Earlier this month in that vicinity, marines told of incidents in which they were fired upon and two enlisted men wounded while on guard duty. Marine officers who were with the two wounded said Chinese communists did the firing and later apologized by letter, explaining they had been shooting at Japanese.

Kingsmill, White Deer Progress In 'Wheat for Holland' Drive

The local Ministerial alliance committee working on the "Wheat for Holland" campaign in this county reported today good results from Kingsmill and White Deer.

TWO CARS OF WHEAT

Amos Harris, chairman of the Kingsmill wheat drive, has reported to the group that donations ranging up to $100 have been coming and that the community is thinking of loading at least two cars of wheat in that community.

In White Deer, the bank is receiving deposits for the movement. It was said. One man in the county has volunteered to give the equivalent of $300. White Deer is in Carson county.

New Ordinance Is Passed by City

The wartime plumbing ordinance of the City of Pampa was declared null by the city commission yesterday and the new ordinance will probably go into effect next week.

To fill in the time between the nullification of the emergency ordinance and the adoption of the new measure, the pre-war ordinance will be in effect.

City Manager Garland Franks said today that the new ordinance is being modeled after the code of the Pacific coast cities which is the best in the nation. Passages in the Pacific coast which are not applicable here are being changed, Franks said.

The city manager added that the plumbers of the city were in complete agreement with the rules of the new ordinance. He said that all were agreed that it protected the public, the plumbers and the city with no unfair restrictions imposed on any of the three groups.

The commission was expected to approve the sewer plan to be submitted by Joe E. Ward, Wichita Falls engineer.

Franks wired Ward that the plans did not arrive and said a special meeting will be called to go over the specifications when they are received.

The commission has agreed it is imperative that work on the main outfall line of the sewer system be started before the end of the year.

Construction bids on the project will be taken immediately after the plans are approved.

The proposed sewer reconstruction project is to be paid for by a $300,000 bond issue voted here a few months ago. An additional $63,000 was voted for the construction of a storm sewer but this work is being set aside in favor of the more vital main sewer project.

Senior High Will Hold Open House

"Parents are especially invited to visit the high school and attend classes with their children," he said. Teachers, he added, will be available for conferences.

All visitors are invited to have lunch in the cafeteria with the students. No special program has been planned, but Savage listed the daily schedule for those who are unable to spend the whole day in visitation. It follows:

First period begins 9 a. m.—10 a. m., second period; 11 a. m. third period; 11:55 a. m. A section lunch period; 12:30 p. m. A section begins fourth period; 12:30 p. m. B section lunch period; 1:40 p. m. fifth period begins; 2:40 p. m. sixth period begins.

Chamber Directors To Meet Tomorrow

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce will meet 4 p. m. tomorrow in the C. of C. office.

President Doc Pursley urges all directors to be present as important business is to be discussed.

Nothing From Pampa

Jess Pool at the Jess Pool Elevator company here at Pampa said this morning there had been no contributions of wheat made at that central collecting point for this vicinity. "Anytime they want to bring it in, we are ready to take it," he said.

Although all elevators in this vicinity have pledged their assistance in the collection, the Jess Pool elevator has been designated as the receiver of contributions. There is no charge for service. The only charge is getting wheat to the Holland people.

Crude Oil Price Increase Favored

DALLAS, Nov. 14—(AP)—Results of a survey of 17 major oil companies by the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas, show that 10 favor an increase in the price of crude oil in the mid-continent area.

D. Harold Byrd, president of the association, in making the announcement yesterday said the 10 companies also favor a corresponding rise in the price of petroleum products.

Two of the major companies, Tide Water associated and Shell Union Oil corporation, withheld their views. Five others have not answered.

The following companies favor the position outlined in the survey: Magnolia Petroleum company, Humble Oil and Refining company, The Texas company, Standard Oil of Indiana, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pure Oil, Continental Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Cities Service and Socony-Vacuum.

Oil Proration Hearing Being Held in Austin

AUSTIN, Nov. 14—(AP)—A December oil proration order for Texas will be issued by the railroad commission on the basis of testimony of operators at a statewide hearing here today.

Although the bureau of mines has estimated Texas' December demand at 1,940,000 barrels daily, Commission Chairman Olin Culberson has said he believes demand is as strong as ever.

The bureau of mines estimate is 60,000 barrels below the November estimate of that agency and 86,572 barrels less than average daily allowable reported by the commission on Nov. 10.

Purchaser nominations for December are 2,230,596 barrels daily, an increase of 97,419 barrels over November nominations.

War May Be Over But Troubles Remain Same

The war may be over but the city street department is still waging a battle of its own—trying to get a new street sweeper to replace the present machine. — one which doesn't work at all.

One firm handling that type of machinery has "promised" delivery within 12 to 18 months and another firm has offered to accept the city's order in July, 1946.

A street sweeper, the cost of which ranges from $3,500 to $7,500 according to size, is needed very badly now and City Manager Garland Franks says he shudders to think what the streets will look like by the time a new one is available.

Japanese Make Application for Allied Food, Fuel

TOKYO, Nov. 14—(AP)—Desperately hungry Japan appealed officially today for Allied food and fuel, promising to pay in installments by shipments of gold, diamonds, silk and other goods.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported that it was not ready to indicate what the Allied answer might be. Japanese Minister of Commerce Sakuro Ogasawara announced the formal application for the imports—mostly from American—to stave off threatening famine. He made it clear that Japan's alternatives are simple: barter or die.

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger meanwhile reported that occupation forces in Japan and Korea are near their peak and soon will decline from their present 400,000. He did not say, however, how soon the U. S. forces might reach the minimum 200,000 which MacArthur has indicated will, by next spring, be adequate.

Honolulu Area Is Heavily Patrolled

HONOLULU, Nov. 14. — (AP)—Strengthened civilian and naval police kept close watch today on the violence-marked vicinity of the naval air station on Honolulu's outskirts. An NAS spokesman blamed city police and city police blamed the navy for Monday night's rioting in which 1,500 navy men tangled with civilians.

City patrolmen joined shore patrolmen last night to forestall any further violence, after sailors confined to the station began to crowd around its gates. The combined force broke up the crowd without disorder.

Monday night's disorders at near-by Damon (civilian) housing tract would not have occurred, Honolulu Police Chief William A. Gabrielson asserted, if navy officers had cooperated "the way they should."

Detective Captain Eugene Kennedy also contended that: "Navy officers knew there was going to be a disturbance at the Damon tract and did not give us advance information."

Kennedy said the navy personnel went on a three-hour rampage because they were enraged by a false rumor that Damon civilians had killed two sailors.

Lt. R. M. Singer, NAS public information officer, blamed the police for the disturbance. He charged that more than 30 NAS personnel were beaten by civilians in the past two months, but that the police made no arrests.

Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, has been asked by Patman to postpone announcement of automobile prices until the representative presents a picture of the problem of dealer margins to the house committee. Womack said he had been informed.

GETTING HOME HAS BECOME MANIA WITH YANKS ON OCCUPATION DUTY

By HAY BOYLE

TOKYO—(AP)—Leaves from a correspondent's notebook:

Getting home has ceased to be a mere obsession with many individuals who are sweating out the final weeks before their discharge from the army or navy. It has become a mania. They can't talk or think about anything else.

Consider the following desperate case:

A hitch-hiking naval officer, given a ride by a correspondent, explained that he was in town on a one-day pass from his ship. "It's a tanker," he added. "We have millions of gallons of high test gasoline aboard and as soon as we can unload we can start home. But we've been cruising around here for 40 days and can't find anybody who will take it. If we don't get rid of it pretty soon I swear I'm going to dump it out myself."

He peered and looked at the sympathetically correspondent—then added hopefully:

"You and your friends come out any time and fill your cigaret lighter. Every little bit helps."

Ruined cities hold a fascination at all hours. Their utter desolation casts a spell over you, as though you were watching some strange, fantastic life pattern sinking into death. At dawn, Tokyo looks like a moon metropolis destroyed by a titan's convulsion—dead, deserted and bare.

Strolling through its chilly streets one morning recently I met three patrolling American military policemen and stopped to chat. They were two veterans—Pfc. Clifford L. Hill, Marion, Ark., and Pfc. Why the Steel Industry Cannot Pay Increased Wages Now

Steel Prices were frozen by OPA at Pre-War levels—
Costs have soared -- Many steel products now sell at a loss—
Answer to present wage demands depends on steel price policy of OPA.

TODAY, because of government-controlled prices and high costs, many steel products are being sold at a loss. That is why the steel industry cannot now pay higher wages.

A demand for a general wage increase of $2 a day has been made by the United Steelworkers of America-CIO. In presenting this demand, Philip Murray served notice that this demand was not subject to "dickering or compromise." To enforce this demand, strike votes are being taken this month in the steel industry. Any general stoppage of steel production would be a calamitous blow to reconversion.

Increased wages cannot be paid out of thin air. Proceeds from sales of steel provide the only fund out of which wages can be paid. Today the ceiling prices imposed by OPA do not provide a sufficient return to pay current costs of steel operations, let alone any increase in wages.

Present OPA ceiling prices for steel products are generally less than steel prices in 1937. However, labor and other costs in the steel industry have gone up tremendously. These ever-mounting costs have squeezed out virtually all of the profit originally contained in pre-war steel prices.

Accordingly, today steel producers are entitled to substantial increases in these ceiling prices. Many months ago they asked OPA for such price relief. OPA has not acted.

Collective bargaining conferences between steel producers and the Union have already been held. Nothing can be accomplished toward negotiating any wage increase until OPA performs its statutory duty. Under act of Congress, steel producers are entitled to ceiling prices which yield on each product a profit equivalent to that of the base period, established by OPA as 1936-1939.

Wages in the steel industry do not need to be further advanced to keep pace with increases in the cost of living since January 1941. Increases in average straight time hourly earnings in the steel industry, (without overtime) between January 1941 and August 1945 rose 34 percent, or more than the advance during this same period in the U. S. Department of Labor index of the cost of living.

Today steel workers rank among the highest paid wage earners in American industry. In August 1945, average straight time pay for steel workers was $1.15 an hour, without counting overtime pay. The end of the war has not eliminated all overtime in the steel industry, and a considerable period of time may elapse before the industry fully returns to a normal 40-hour work week.

Until OPA authorizes fair prices, nothing can be settled through collective bargaining.

Cranberry Pie for Thanksgiving

Fruite cranberry pie with whipped cream and candy corn toppling is a deluxe Thanksgiving treat.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Here is two variations of the old-fashioned cranberries-for-Thanksgiving theme. The deluxe pie recipe was created exclusively for this column by Lucy M. Malby, Corning, N. Y.

Prune-Cherry Pie
(6 servings)
Crust: 1 cup sifted pastry flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/8 teaspoon salt, 1/3 cup shortening, 3 to 5-tablespoons ice water.

Filling: 1 1/2 cups cooked prunes, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup prune juice, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon allspice, 1/8 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons plain gelatin. 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 cup jellied cranberry sauce, 18 pieces candy corn.

Sift together the pastry flour, baking powder and salt. Cut the shortening into the dry ingredients with two knives or a pastry blender until it is the size of small lima beans. Add only enough water to hold the pastry together. Pat the dough into a ball and chill. Roll out the pastry on a lightly floured board to about one-eighth inch in thickness. Line a glass pie plate with the pastry; trim and flute the edges. Place another pie plate directly on the pastry-lined pie plate so the pie crust is like a sandwich filling between them. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 18 minutes, or until the crust is brown. Remove the top plate and cool the shell.

Remove pits from prunes and cut the prunes into small pieces. Add sugar, prune juice, cinnamon, allspice and salt to the prunes and heat to the boiling point. Moisten the gelatin in cold water; add to the hot prune mixture and stir until the gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Cool.

Whip the cream and fold into the cooled prune mixture, reserving 1/2 cup of cream to garnish the top of the pie. Cut cranberry sauce into cubes and arrange evenly in the bottom of the pastry shell; cover with prune cream mixture. Garnish the top of the pie with whipped cream and pieces of candy corn. Chill.

Cranberry Sherbet
One pound cranberries, 1 3/4 cups water, 1 cup sugar, 18 marshmallows, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.
Cook cranberries in water until tender. Press through sieve, add sugar and stir until dissolved. Heat marshmallows in 1/2 cup of cranberry juice until they are about half melted. Combine with the remaining cranberry juice and lemon juice and blend. Place in freezing tray in refrigerator and stir several times during the freezing.

Decorations May Be Refreshments At Supper Party

For Thanksgiving supper party, eat the dinner decorations of fruit and nuts, and serve hot turkey soup in a big tureen.

Eat the decorations from Thanksgiving dinner at supper time. That centerpiece of fruit—grapes, apples, pears, etc., that stood in old-fashioned beauty in the center of the Irish damask cloth brought out once again from the linen chest—bowls of nuts and raisins, mints, the extra jug of country cider—all these will taste good at supper time when old friends drop in and neighbors saunter over, no one very hungry.

Serve only a hot soup in Grandma's huge tureen with buttered toast. Oyster stew is a wonderful suggestion.

EDUCATING FOR PEACE

Tucked away in Chapter IX, Article 55, of the United Nations Charter is the statement that "the United Nations shall promote... international cultural and educational cooperation." The declaration didn't cause a great deal of interest when the Charter was being written. But its importance will loom larger as steps are taken to put it into effect.

The first of these steps will be a conference of the world's ministers of education, to be held shortly in London. The conference intends to set up an educational and cultural body to combat what one of the American delegates has called "cultural isolation."

The ministers and their staffs will be undertaking a long and difficult program. Confronting them will be a world accumulation of nationalism, narrowness, opposition and disinterest. It may take a generation for their work to show any significant results.

But the ultimate achievement of world peace may depend as much on this program as on any concerted effort of nations. Means for settling international disputes, by force of arms if necessary, are outlined in the United Nations Charter. It is obvious, however, that it would be far better to get at the source of such disputes and destroy them before they grow into serious problems.

Much international bad feeling stems from misunderstanding. Cultural and educational cooperation among nations will not provide a panacea, but it promises to be of help in correcting old, deep-rooted misconceptions.

Hitler and his henchmen and the Jap war lords excited their people for war by exploiting such misconceptions. They played up contempt of other nations and races. They played up the myth of their own racial superiority. They sowed suspicion in the fertile soil of ignorance—though the Germans and Japs are, by accepted standards, literate nations.

We Americans, also considered a literate nation, are likewise the victims of considerable misunderstanding and ignorance.

Thousands of young men from the fighting countries saw foreign lands for the first time during the war. But many had only superficial views under abnormal circumstances. Trained in a narrow environment and judging what they saw by home-country standards, a lot of them returned more prejudiced than when they left.

The new London conference will have to develop a new, purposeful system of education aimed at understanding and peace. Delegates probably will have to agree on some broad base of instruction in the world's history and literature for each country. And their program obviously will have to exceed the bounds of formal education and consider such things as travel, motion pictures, broadcasts and a free press.

With such a program launched, it may happen in the fullness of time that the peoples of the earth will come to believe that foreigners are human, too. When that day comes, the hopes for lasting peace will be considerably brighter.

HOLLYWOOD— This fellow Johnson really gets around. The other 6 a. m. for instance, he was having Robert Young's baby with him.

Johnson personally had survived the pangs of paternity a couple of times before, but this was the first time he ever lent an official assist to the stork for a friend.

At 4 o'clock in the morning Johnson rushed into the Good Samaritan hospital. Bob had promised to rout him out of bed. He did, yelling, "This is it!"

The hospital doors opened with Bob telling his wife, Betty, not to be nervous. He said this about 26 times, but Betty and Johnson got him inside all right.

Dr. John Vruwink, a tall, gray-haired gentleman who has brought more than 1,000 infants into the world, including Young's three previous daughters, was there waiting.

BEGINS THE TORTURE
"I think Betty's going to have her baby," Bob said, somewhat desperately.

"It shouldn't be surprised," Dr. Vruwink commented dryly.

"I'll take charge of Mrs. Young," said Miss Bellingham, the doctors nurse. "You," she said, pointing at Johnson, "take charge of Mr. Young."

Johnson decided to use a little psychology—get the subject's mind off the subject.

"Oh, do you think the baby will be a boy?"

"Oh, it'll be a boy, of course," Bob said. "Gosh, it better be. I'll be stuck for life with those corny jokes if it isn't. And besides, we are out of names. We've already got Carol Anne, Barbara Queen and Elizabeth Louise. The pick-nicks are getting slim. But we've got a fine name for a boy, Thomas Robert Young."

IT'S A GIRL!
Finally, after 26 false alarms, Miss Bellingham suddenly said: "Congratulations, Mr. Young."

"Really? Is that right. That's great. Wonderful."
Then his face suddenly was seriously, slightly suspicious. "Boy or girl?" he asked threateningly. "A beautiful girl," Miss Bellingham said.

"Oh," moaned Bob. "Then he turned to Johnson and grabbed an arm. "Listen, Johnson, you're a newspaperman. You're my friend. You've got to help me. Tell me how to fight this thing, these jokes. They'll be deluging me with those Eddie Cantor jokes. Tell me how to lick this, Johnson."
"It's nothing to worry about. Have a boy next time," we said. "You've still got time. After all, you're still Young."
Johnson got hit over the head.

SHOWDOWN— Non-partisan observers at the capital look forward to a strange political era in the next few years, as a direct consequence of the bizarre alignments and outcomes in the recent municipal elections in the country.

They indicate that 1948 will witness a violent showdown in the politico-economic struggle that has been generating between conservatives and liberals, regardless of partisan affiliations, ever since Franklin D. Roosevelt walked onto the national stage in 1932.

They doubt whether the political-minded and astute Harry S. Truman will be able to resist the pressure of the labor and radical groups that counted so heavily in the victory of Mayor-elect William O'Dwyer in New York, and in the amazing showing of Richard T. Frankenstein in Detroit, the C.I.O.'s candidate for City Hall. They expect the President to abandon all pretense of a middle-of-the-road course and to raise a refurbished new deal standard.

Such a White House reaction may not carry congress with it. The republicans and conservative democrats are enraged rather than scared by labor's outpouring at the polls. And they compose a majority which may seek to check the C.I.O.'s further progress in the field of politics.

INTERLOPERS— The Wallace-Hillman-Murray leftists and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt chose a definite goal when they threw themselves so wholeheartedly into the odd-year campaigns. They sought to hold Mr. Truman fast to F.D.R.'s "slightly left of center" stand by proving that he cannot win a second term without their active aid. They apparently have sold the idea to the White House.

The Wallace faction set out to demonstrate that the machine bosses—Messrs. Flynn, Hague, Kelley of Brooklyn and Kelly of Chicago—were wrong when they persuaded Mr. Roosevelt in 1944 that the Iowan would be a drag on the national ticket in the cities.

EASY— Mr. O'Dwyer would have won easily without this support. But an analysis of his vote reveals that the American labor party's 400,000 odd members can swing the Empire state in a gubernatorial or presidential scrap if the contest is reasonably tight.

It is true that the taxpayers were footing the bill, but the performers didn't land their jobs on the basis of talent. Most of them got on the payroll because they were faithful followers of the party line—at least the talent most of them exhibited didn't offer any other explanation of their presence there. Successful actors have nothing to look forward to in a communist dominated theater.

DAY-BY-DAY COUNT ON WASHINGTON'S ACTIVITIES GIVEN

By DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON—Former Governor Stassen of Minnesota is back in the political limelight. It begins to look as if he is going to be about as independent-minded as Wendell Wilkie in expressing opinions on current questions.

Mr. Stassen, who is still a captain in the navy but will soon be out of the service, has spoken forthrightly about the atomic bomb. He thinks that the plants of the United States could be used to furnish any more bombs needed and these only for an international air force operating under the United Nations.

This, of course, is directly in line with the school of thought which for the last two or three years has been insisting that the world be policed by an international air force. It comes close to the plan of many of the scientists of the atomic bomb project who recently joined with the "world government" group in urging that sovereignty be subordinated.

But Mr. Stassen is not ready yet to propose a world government. He thinks the subject should have further study and that there should be an improvement in both national and local government everywhere in order that the ultimate world government might be successful.

The Stassen point of view is refreshing because it grapples with the atomic bomb problem on a practical basis. Captain Stassen is not willing as yet to give up the bomb to other nations because that involves the matter of good faith and trust, and the world is no better off in assuming that other nations hereafter are going to be more trustworthy than we are.

Mr. Stassen is not ready yet to propose a world government. He thinks the subject should have further study and that there should be an improvement in both national and local government everywhere in order that the ultimate world government might be successful.

Mr. Stassen has taken the leadership in proposing a specific plan under which the atomic bomb shall not be used by any single government and he has overcome the main difficulty about "giving up the secret" by insisting that no more plants should be built and that the plants now in the United States shall manufacture 25 bombs for the use of the international air force, and then stop.

An international atomic bomb commission would constantly inspect all nations to see that there were no violations. This is a compromise which means in effect that, while other nations may some day find the secret, the use of the bomb ought not be sanctioned.

The idea of a "superstate" has been broached many times in history but not until the atomic bomb was invented has there been so much sentiment for it inside the United States and Britain. The theory, however, that a world government will secure respect, which a federation of government will secure, is not a new one.

World Today

AF Foreign Affairs Analyst

Yetterly was a real Anglo-American day, what with Prime Minister Attlee's address to congress and to the agreement between Washington and London to join hands in a committee of inquiry to deal with the problem of the Jewish national home in Palestine.

Attlee's job, I take it, was largely one of salesmanship. He wanted to convince America that there was no threat to our interests in England's new socialist government with its nationalization program, and that a loan is justifiable. As to the loan, he will find two schools of thought in this country, but probably most people will agree with one striking statement which is calculated to provide a basis for world cooperation. It is this:

"I look forward to an era of increasing cooperation and friendship between the U. S. A. and Great Britain—not as an exclusive friendship but as a contribution to the knitting together with all peoples through the United Nations organization in the bonds of peace."

"In our internal policies each will follow the course decided by the people's will. You will see us (Britain) embarking on projects of nationalization x x x we shall be working out a planned economy. You, it may be, will continue in your more individualistic methods. It is more important that we should understand each other and nations whose institutions differ from our own. It is essential if we are to build up a peaceful world that we should have the widest tolerance, recognizing that our aim is not uniformity but unity in diversity. It would be a dull world if we are all alike."

That's a thesis which seeks after peace can support. It means that America and any other nations which wish to pursue a policy of individual enterprise can do so and still be able to cooperate with countries which prefer nationalization and perhaps regimentation of the individual. A nation doesn't have to accept or even endorse the political aim of another country in order to be friendly.

The decision to create a joint Anglo-American committee to study the Jewish question, both in Europe and in Palestine, will bring literally cold comfort to the host of homeless Jewish refugees who are facing the tragedies of winter on the continent.

In its infancy, the atomic bomb may accelerate understanding of the importance of world cooperation, but so far as some other countries are concerned, they are even more bent on a nationalistic course today than ever before.

Mr. Stassen has taken the leadership in proposing a specific plan under which the atomic bomb shall not be used by any single government and he has overcome the main difficulty about "giving up the secret" by insisting that no more plants should be built and that the plants now in the United States shall manufacture 25 bombs for the use of the international air force, and then stop.

Texas Today

A whole Texas town is getting ready to move, look, stock and barrel. Engineers are surveying for a dam across the upper Colorado river and it's built, it will put water level into the second story of the Rock school house that sits on the highest point in Robert Lee up in Coke county.

Not only that, but seventy-seven farms will have to move, too. But Gerald Allen, rancher and owner of the big drug store in Robert Lee (population 1,575) says not a single objection has been made by anyone to moving the town four or five miles.

The cook in the cafe, who brags that he makes the best son-of-a-gun stew in America, said, "this country is so damned dry we would move anywhere to get water."

The dam has been a long time in coming. Back in 1891 the Coke County Rustler, oldest institution in Coke county, carried an item about a party of engineers surveying for a dam. Now R. Hunter, the fisherman-editor, is carrying similar items but it looks like it may go through this time.

The Amarillo Globe reports that preliminary engineering reports show that an earth and rockfill dam 138 feet high will provide a reservoir with a capacity of 670,000 acre feet.

Eventually it will irrigate 58,000 acres of land, and furnish a satisfactory water supply for several towns and communities. The reservoir, however, would cover Robert Lee's townsite.

A canal 19 miles long will serve 5,500 acres of land near the river and a canal 50 miles long, with two secondary 12-mile canals, will furnish water for 52,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Miles and Ballinger.

Present income of the project area is about $500,000. The new dam will jump this to $2,600,000 annually.

The project will cost around twelve million dollars, and the annual benefits from irrigation, flood control, recreation and wild life would be over two million. Repayment will be over a 40-year period.

Minister To Serve Alma Mater, WTS

CANYON, Nov. 14—Back to familiar ground comes the Rev. Hubbard Thomson of Wellington, new minister of the Canyon Methodist church. He has been at the Methodist church in Wellington.

Rev. Thomson received the B. A. degree at West Texas State in 1929 and the M. A. degree in 1940. His thesis subject was "The Status of Bible and Religious Education in the Colleges and Universities of Texas."

Glenz Thomson, a son, attended West Texas in 1939 and 1940. A daughter, Miss Earlene, is now a freshman at the college.

Rev. Thomson succeeds the Rev. C. C. Armstrong, whose new assignment is the Methodist church at Wellington.

El Salvador with a population density of 140 per square mile, is the second most densely populated of the American republics.

The war has proved that, for all practical purposes, the productivity of this country is without limit. Robert C. Goodwin, executive director, U. E. Employment Service, nish water for 52,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Miles and Ballinger.

Surveys show that with irrigation, crop yields are expected to increase to $4.75 an acre, in addition to providing pasturage valued at $2.50 per acre.

Present income of the project area is about $500,000. The new dam will jump this to $2,600,000 annually.

JAPAN'S OBJECTIVES

NOT only were the European partners of the Axis unable to coordinate their plans and resources and agree within their own nations how best to proceed, but the eastern partner, Japan, was working in even greater discord. The Axis, as a matter of fact, existed on paper only. Eager to capitalize on the preoccupation of the western powers in Europe, Japan was so greedy for her own immediate conquests that she had no strategy, not to help Germany defeat Russia and Great Britain, but to accumulate her own profit. Had the way been open Germany and Japan would have undoubtedly joined their armies in Central Asia, but to Japan this objective was secondary to looting the Far East while there was no real force to stop her. The War Department General Staff's analysis of Japanese objectives follows:

"The Japanese, for many years, bolstered by a fanatical belief in divine guidance and their own spiritual and military supremacy, had planned the domination of the Far East and eventually the world. Japan in her inland empire was not self-sufficient. She required broader land areas and access to oil, rubber, and other raw materials if she were to become a major industrial world power. This principle of expansion was outlined in the Tanaka Memorial purportedly prepared for Hirohito by the Jap Premier in 1927. Authentic or not, it provided the pattern which Japan here followed, culminating in the great Pacific conflict.

Time Was Ripe
"Strategically, Japan was well poised in 1941 to carry out her aims in Asia. All the major world powers who normally maintained the status quo in Asia were absorbed in the war in Europe.

Old Well-Spacing Method Is Found To Be Obsolete

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Derrick to derrick well-spacing, the petroleum industry's age old method for getting the most oil out of a given field, has become obsolete, the American Petroleum Institute was told today at its 25th annual meeting.

W. H. Barlow, Findlay, O., and W. B. Berwald, Tulsa, Okla., petroleum engineers, declared in a prepared paper that modern engineering had found that 60 acres per well was best for certain types of oil reservoirs and that even greater well-spacing might be best under certain conditions.

This is not only a distinct change from the days when wells were closely drilled derrick to derrick, the engineers said, but is even a radical departure from the wartime regulation of one well for each 40 acres.

Berwald and Barlow said methods now are available which permit reliable estimates of the behavior of an oil or gas reservoir throughout its entire life. These methods, they reported, permit a reliable estimate, based upon the known and estimated economics involved, of the number of wells that should be drilled to obtain the greatest possible recovery of oil or gas.

Well spacing is not however a simple arithmetical problem of dividing a given field by the number of acres involved, the two engineers warned. No two fields are identical, they said, and many factors enter into the calculations and proper spacing for ultimate maximum recovery that can only be determined after the reservoir has been well developed.

Two other petroleum engineers, S. E. Buckley and R. C. Craze, both of Houston, Texas, took issue with Barlow and Berwald. They presented an analysis of the expected ultimate recovery from 97 oil fields in the United States and declared that well spacing seems to have little to do with the optimum recovery.

The recovery from the fields studied, they reported, "is dependent upon the viscosity of their oil, their reservoir-pressure declines and their formation permeabilities."

A third group composed of Dr. W. V. Vietti and O. F. Thornton, Houston, Texas, J. J. Mullane, Tulsa, Okla., and A. F. Van Everdingen, Houston, reported that a study of closely similar fields in Texas disclosed that no more oil was recovered from closely-drilled fields than others where wells were farther apart.

"I don't know of one case of armed robbery in Central Tokyo in a month," said Hill, and Smith added: "We haven't had a bit of trouble from the Japs—and I don't mind saying how surprised I am."

Regaldo said he thought Tokyo was "as peaceful as California—but much dearer."

Military police are always uneasy, however, when things are too quiet, and Hill remarked:

"In another month, when cold weather really sets in, I wouldn't want to walk around here at night, even with my buddy along."

As the three soldiers marched off, a dirty, unkempt Japanese man crawled out from one of a number of squalid rubble shanties dotting the adjoining demolished area. He was naked except for a ragged shirt fragments of broken plaster that had been his pillow clung to his matted hair.

Shivering, he watched with an expressionless face as the military police swept on down the road. Then he stumbled over and began to drink his breakfast from the broken water main.

He is just one of thousands of Japanese "Jeeter Leaters" in Tokyo's real-life "toacco road."

F. Fairless, telegraphed Schwellenbach last night that further discussions would be fruitless until OPA acts on long-pending requests for steel price increases. The union had accepted the invitation to resume talks.

Fairless told Schwellenbach that "we believe in and strongly support" collective bargaining but "we feel no useful purpose could be served by the proposed meetings."

Fairless said the requested wage increase would cost the steel industry "at least $225,000,000 a year" and added this was more than all steel companies now are earning.

Although none of the conference's several committees so far has reported agreement on any single question before it, Mosher said he was "far from disappointed" as to the progress to date.

The industry group evidently hopes, by giving the labor group something to shoot at, to bring the discussion down to specific remedies for labor strife.

trouble in the world. Senator Morse (R-Or.) said he thought the Prime Minister had made an appeal for world citizenship that the United States is going to have to consider "and at the same time protect our national interests."

Senator Smith (R-N.J.) told a reporter he was confident that "a reasonable loan, on proper terms, can be worked out" for the British. America, he added, would suffer tremendously if Britain were down at the heels economically.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) insisted that "the whole problem" is that foreign countries say they can not buy from America, "except and unless we loan them the money."

throughout Palestine to Bevin's statement that Britain and the United States jointly would attempt to solve the problem, and to his intimation that eventually Palestine would be placed under a trusteeship. Britain at present governs Palestine under a League of Nations mandate.

The Jewish press generally assailed the Bevin statement. Typical of the comment was that of the Palestine Post, which said it failed "to deal squarely with President Truman's repeated proposals that 100,000 Jews should be admitted to Palestine immediately." The newspaper added that the Jews were "bound to reject the new policy which proposes an unacceptable immigration quota subject to Arab consent."

Arab newspapers also were critical. The Moslem Arab newspaper Al-Difah typified comment with the opinion that the statement was unfair to Arabs, and that Arabs would not consent to its stipulations.

to, at a formal surrender ceremony, held a full six weeks after the arrival of British troops. The Japanese generals surrendered their swords to Hawthorn, who is commander of the 23rd Indian division.

Indonesian nationalists at Soerabaya continued to put up stubborn resistance to steadily advancing Indian troops even as the new Indonesian premier, Sutan Sjahrir, prepared to go there in an attempt to bring about a cessation of hostilities.

At the surrender ceremony in Batavia, Hawthorn told the two Japanese generals, "you have, in my opinion, deliberately and dishonorably failed to carry out the terms of surrender imposed upon your nation by the Allied powers."

An almost entirely new cabinet of young university-educated men took over the reins of the Indonesian republic's government today, bent on ending the fighting at Soerabaya and restoring order throughout the country.

Club Discussion Is Quite Lively

The first Postmaster club program, held last night at the chamber of commerce office in the city hall, was entered into by all those present, either through brief talks or through a roundtable discussion which closed the evening's event.

Subjects discussed in five and 10-minute talks were priority surplus property, How to Kill a Pheasant Dead, and Selling Victory Bonds.

The roundtable discussion, which provoked a great deal of reaction, dealt with universal military training.

Several new members were taken into the newly-formed organization.

Corpus Christi Mayor Refuses to Resign

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 14—(AP)—A second request to resign was declined by Mayor Roy Self and three members of the Corpus Christi city council.

The better government league, represented by Hayden Head, attorney, yesterday urged the mayor and council members to submit their resignations, after more than 5,500 Corpus Christi voters had signed petitions for their recall.

Head, speaking for the league, asked the council and Self to resign and stand for re-election, if they chose, as a means of speeding procedure.

One of the councilmen, Nels C. Beck, said he would resign if the others would.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY DISCUSSED BY PAMPAN, CITES HIS OWN CASE

(Note: A few days ago a young man 24 years of age called the editor of the Pampa Daily News to say that he was interested in telling his own story of being a juvenile delinquent. He was interested, he said, especially because he had seen stories in this paper about delinquency. Following is his story which, he declares, he is telling because he "would like to help somebody.")

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

When I was 16 years old, I was in a dance hall and the next week I was in the pen. Why? Because I had no home as a boy should have. When I was 15 I had joined the army, so that I could have a home. I stayed in the army a few months and then I got lonesome; so another boy and I started dancing to have fun. I was drunk and ran out of money. We decided to get some money. We robbed a filling station and almost killed the proprietor.

We had our fun that night. We stole a car so we could have a way to get around, but we were caught the next day in Shamrock, Texas, and later sentenced to 15 years in the Oklahoma State reformatory. I stayed there three years and three months to come out into a different world. To whom? No one. I started looking for jobs, and couldn't get them. I have been from coast to coast working one place and then another, but everywhere I was they would find out about my record; then I would lose my job. I have been hungry lots of days, but never again will I break the law. I have been in Pampa for only two weeks and have heard and seen enough to make any mother and father sick. I saw young girls forge their names on a note so they could go to a preview. I have seen recently girls 12 and 13 years old who were drunk or drinking on dance hall floors. I went to find out why they were there. I found out all right. Their mothers and fathers were off somewhere else. I saw the proprietor of a dance hall pull a girl apart in the middle of the dance floor; they were kissing and hugging. If ask you proof of any of this, I have it. If you mothers and fathers don't keep your children at home, you won't have them long. They will wind up as I did when I was 16, and be branded the rest of their lives—and your name will be, too.

What I have said is not for my good—but for everyone in Pampa and other places.

I am trying now to get back into the army. I was happily married, but my wife found out about my record, so now she is gone. Please send your children to church and school—not to hell.

(This statement is signed by Arthur W. Richardson, General Delivery, Pampa.)

POSTMAN DISCHARGED

CANADIAN (Special)—Henry Logan Owens, CMM, received his discharge from the navy last Friday at New Orleans, arrived in Canadian Saturday morning, having caught a plane to Amarillo.

Owens had been employed in the post office for several years prior to his enlistment in July, 1942. He was assigned to the navy mail service where his knowledge of postal work soon earned him his rating of chief.

The mailman was stationed in the Canal Zone for two years, several months at San Francisco and several at New Orleans.

Will We Yield Sovereignty in Sharing Secret?

(Editor's Note: This is the third of three stories on the atomic bomb as it affects the future.)

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—(AP)—The word "sovereignty" stands like a red light on the track leading toward full world agreement—an agreement with real meaning—on controlling the atomic bomb.

We've always been jealous of our national "sovereignty." So have other nations. The word means simply this:

A free and independent nation will not let any other nation or group of nations tell it what to do. Would be willing—since the bomb is so catastrophic—to let a majority vote of the other nations make decisions on the bomb?

If we entered that kind of agreement—where we'd abide by a majority vote—we'd be yielding some of our sovereignty. So far we haven't been willing to abide by a majority vote on international affairs.

Yet in our domestic affairs we run our country by a majority vote and hold up that method as the truly democratic way of life.

Right now the problem of national sovereignty in connection with the bomb is being talked of widely.

The word sovereignty haunted the San Francisco conference last spring that led to creation of the United Nations organization (UNO).

Even in the fact of the atomic bomb, it is not likely the senate would be willing to yield any of our national sovereignty.

Yet some senators already have said the bomb must change our thinking, that we must enter fully into international agreements, even it means yielding sovereignty.

It has been argued here, especially by the British, no change would be necessary in the UNO charter if the security council took control of atomic energy developments because it would be part of the council's job to prevent wars and the bomb is a war threat.

The atomic bomb is our secret. Now the question is: If we share the secret, do we have to yield sovereignty to some extent?

ARRIVES HOME

Miss Miriam E. DeWoody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. DeWoody, 200 N. Ward, returned to Pampa Monday from 19 months overseas duty with the American Red Cross.

Miss DeWoody landed in New York last Tuesday, arrived by plane at Amarillo Friday.

The Red Cross worker, who entered the service in February, 1943, served as secretary in Red Cross headquarters in London for six months, Paris for 13 months.

As a civilian Miss DeWoody was employed in civil service, working for the army at Oklahoma City and Houston. She has resigned from the Red Cross, will take a brief vacation until the first of the year before considering further employment.

There are only four important deposits of uranium known in the world today; in Colorado, Canada, Czechoslovakia and the Belgian Congo.

Men of Canadian Will Aid Veterans

CANADIAN (Special)—The gist of talks given by veterans at the Men's club, organized in the Methodist church last March for the purpose of assisting servicemen, indicates that most returning servicemen orient themselves best if they can drop into their old familiar jobs.

The old job, even though they intend to follow a different type of work, gives the servicemen the feel of civilian life again, according to the veterans, and seems to be the best point at which to start a new peacetime career.

A splendid spirit of cooperation for the good of the community exists between the Methodist club and a men's service group was organized in the First Christian church last month.

PAY FOR CHANGING CLOTHES (Pittsburgh Post-Gazette)

In ordering two Pittsburgh companies to give their bakers 15 minutes' pay a day to compensate for time spent in changing to and from work clothes, the 3rd regional war labor board was no doubt following the precedent set by the portal-to-portal grant to miners.

What we are now trying to figure out is how much a fellow ought to get for shaving.
