Kiwanis Told Nation Must Take A Stand

Only chance for America—and the world—is for "its men and women to stand for the things which have made this country great," according to the Texas Synod executive for the Presbyterian Church in America.

Rev. J. Hoytt Boles, Denton, discussed "For What Do You Stand?" at the Pampa Kiwanis Club's annual installation of officers and Ladies Night banquet Thursday night in the high school cafeteria.

On hand for the affair were 200 persons including local Kiwanians, their wives and representatives from the other 10 clubs in the district.

Officers Installed

Prior to Boles' talk, six officers and seven directors—four of them holdovers—were installed by Leslie Hart, incoming lieutenant governor of the district.

New officers—for 1953—are Clinton Evans, president; E. L. (Smiley) Henderson, immediate past president; J. B. Maguire Jr., first vice president; Frank Fata, second vice president; Warren Haste, secretary; and Aubrey Steele, treasurer.

Next year's new directors are Johnny Campbell, Ross Buzzard, and H. H. Keahy. Holdovers are Foster Whaley, Raymond Laycock, J. C. Cashion and Ralph McKinney.

And before either Boles or the installation was reached on the program, Fletcher Robertson awarded prizes—in a humorous vein—to Henderson, Fata and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson. Afterward, they received more serious—and useful—gifts. Robertson is managing editor of The Pampa Daily News.

Must Take Stand

"What you do in life" Boles continued in the main speech, "depends upon what your cause is—for you must tie your life to some cause."

If a person is to be worth anything in this world, the Presbyterian executive went on, he must take a position on an issue and say, "So help me God, I can do no other, here is where I stand."

Theft And Padded Payrolls... Witnesses Testify Mob Rule Pressed Upon Shipping Firms

NEW YORK (AP) — State Crime Commission witnesses say shipping firms must submit to mole rule, theft and padded payrolls to avoid labor strife on New York's vast waterfront.

The dock probe hearings, which went through a second session yesterday, are aimed at exposing rackets which take an estimated 350 million dollar annual bite out of the seven billion dollar yearly New York shipping business.

Thomas Maher, a 40-year veteran on the waterfront, testified how his employers—the Grace Line—listed a phantom employee whose wages went to an ex-covict.

Maher said Tim O'Mara, a public leader with a police record, collected more than $25,000 in wages over a seven-year period for a non-existent employee known as "Edward Joseph Ross."

"What did O'Mara do to earn that?" (See WITNESSES, Page 3)

HUEY LAYCOCK Scout finance officer Laycock To Direct Scout Campaign

Huey Laycock, superintendent of schools in White Deer, has been named chairman of the Boy Scouts' Santa Fe District finance committee.

Announcement of appointment was made today by George Newberry, chairman of the district committee.

Laycock's task will be to recruit a chairman and two assistants to head campaign drives in each of nine communities—Elgin, Canadian, Miami, Lorton, McLean, Alarred, Groom, Panhandle and White Deer.

Lie Expected To Fire Nine More Employees

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie was expected today to fire nine more American U. N. employees who refused to answer the McCarran committee's questions about alleged Communist Party membership or subversive activities.

A high U. N. spokesman said Lie would announce the dismissals this morning. Nine other American employees of the U. N. Secretariat already have been fired for talking at U. S. investigation questions.

The nine slated to be fired have been on special leave with pay—but banned from entering the U. N. Secretariat—since they refused to answer questions by the U. S. Senate internal security subcommittee, headed by Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), on constitutional grounds that their answers might incriminate them.

Lie was said to have served an ultimatum to the nine last Monday to answer these questions to him by noon yesterday or face firing. Their answers all were reported unsatisfactory.

The secretary general's decision was backed by the recommendation of a three-man panel of distinguished international jurists who advised him to fire any American employee who dodged questions about alleged links to the Communist party, Red espionage or subversive rings. The jurists said such refusals created a "climate of suspicion."

Contents of the nine replies to Lie's ultimatum were not made public.

$12,300 Goal Bowman To Lead RC Drive

E. V. Bowman, manager of White House Properties, has been appointed chairman of the 1953 Red Cross Fund drive in Pampa, according to Ross Buzzard, chapter chairman.

The $12,300 drive is slated to begin March 1.

In accepting the position Bowman said:

"With more men going into the service every month the calls upon the Red Cross will be even heavier this year. To give servicemen the support they expect from the local chapter we must reach our goal."

District fund chairmen are to be named at the January Red Cross board meeting.

Bowman came to Pampa in Dec., 1951, from Pollett, where he had been manager of the lumber company there for three years.

He is married and has two children. He is a member of the First Baptist Church, Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce and Masonic Lodge.

Resignations Face New Chief Of WSB

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new chairman of the balanced Wage Stabilization Board was faced today with probable resignation of at least some of the board's industry members in protest to President Truman's wage decision.

Charles C. Killingsworth, 35-year-old economics professor from Michigan State College, was named to the nation's top wage job last night a few hours after Archibald Cox quit the post with a blast at Truman's decision overruling the WSB.

Killingsworth has been vice chairman of the board for several months.

Cox said, in a letter to Truman made public last night, that approval of the full $1.90 daily wage boost for 440,000 soft and hard coal miners could mean only one of two things:

1. That stabilization would continue, but with the exemption of (See WSB, Page 3)

Doesn't Believe In Attack On China

SEOUL (AP) — U. S. President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower took a hard look at the Korean War situation for three days, inspected combat units near the front and departed today for the United States.

He indicated he does not believe in attacking Red China or otherwise spreading the 2½-year-old conflict.

Eisenhower was well guarded and he was in excellent spirits.

Shortly before his departure, Eisenhower visited President Syngman Rhee of South Korea for a hastily arranged conference.

A source close to Rhee said the two exchanged notes which may be made public tomorrow.

It was Eisenhower's last act in his three-day tour and lifted a veil of disappointment that had prevailed in South Korean government circles since it had been indicated he might not pay his respects to Rhee.

Allied Planes Plaster Reds For Third Day

SEOUL (AP) — Allied fighter-bombers plastered Chinese Reds on the Central Front for the third straight day today.

Other U. N. planes ranged deep into North Korea and attacked Communist supply and troop targets.

Action was virtually stopped along the frozen battle front. The Reds threw no more than 40 men into their scattered jobs at the Allied lines.

A U. N. raiding party shot up a Chinese outpost on the Western Front Thursday. The raiders drew to their own lines after killing a estimated 50 Reds.

Sub-zero temperatures discouraged action along most of the front. Allied artillery duelled with the Communist guns early today. Spotters reported 31 Communist bunkers were hit.

South Koreans standing firm on Sniper Ridge, on the Central Front, repulsed Chinese squads probing the icy slopes.

Hunt Spreads For Fugitive

HOUSTON (AP) — Police over the state pressed the search today for Raymond Fairris, charged in the $14,000 robbery of a Houston jewelry store, but they half expected him to surrender.

Sam Hoover, Pasadena attorney, told police yesterday Fairris telephoned him seven times Wednesday without finding Hoover in his office.

And Hoover said he would surrender the fugitive "the minute I can make contact with him."

Joyce O'Neal, 22, charged with robbery with firearms as an alleged accomplice of Fairris.

A nation-wide police broadcast for Fairris was made Wednesday night and the broadcast said the 20-year-old nephew of Ray Hamilton, notorious badman of the 1930's, was armed and dangerous.

Yesterday a dozen cars of Houston police and Harris County sheriff's deputies blocked highways east of the city in a vain effort to catch Fairris. Their only catch was a 29-year-old friend of the young hoodlum, whom police quoted as saying:

"I wouldn't even let my own brother in my car if he was as hot as Fairris is."

Santa Claus Arrives Today

Santa Claus will arrive on his platform at the north door of City Hall at 7 p. m. today, his Pampa-based assistants reported.

However, parents were warned not to drive to Perry LeFors Field with their kiddies to meet him. The road is not safe due to mud and water.

Santa will be whisked into town by secret express instead of coming over the airport road. Best bet on seeing him is to go straight to the City Hall lawn, assistants said.

"I promised him I would save his Christmas for him," said Mrs. Lopez.

Faded Tree Is Waiting For Marine Who'll Never Come

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The once-gaily tinsel ornaments are a bit faded and dusty now. The branches are brittle and the needles are dropping off.

But a Christmas tree in a modest Albuquerque home still is waiting for a Marine who'll never come home.

The tree was decorated two years ago as a special tree for a special Christmas for a special Marine. Cpl. Richard Lopez was coming home for good after two years in the Merchant Marine and six years in Marine Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Lopez had just turned on the lights two years ago when a letter came from Richard. He would be a little delayed; the Chinese had just entered the Korean War. Please save the tree.

Area Chairmen For Polio Drive Named

Organization work for the 1953 March of Dimes moved forward today with the filling of four key posts by County Chairman Warren Haste.

The appointments included three community chairmen and a district treasurer.

Mack Hitt, who served the drive treasury post last year, accepted reappointment to that job, Haste said.

Named as city chairmen for their respective communities were: Larry Fuller, McLean; Roy Gettel, Lefors; and Grady Darrell, Alarred.

The annual campaign to fight polio will get underway January 2, 1953 and run for the full month.

Farmhouse Burglarized

Articles valued at more than $100 are missing today, following the burglary of a farmhouse owned by Troy Purcell, Shamrock.

Taken sometime between 7 and 9:30 p. m. Thursday, Police Chief Jim Conner said, were two wrist watches, a pop-up toaster, a sand-wich grill and a radio that plays both by battery and by electricity.

Officers in the Shamrock and Pampa areas are investigating the burglary but have uncovered no leads at present.

Uncle Sam Will Call 8,000 Air Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 8,000 Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps students who will be commissioned between next May 1 and April 30, 1954, can expect a call from Uncle Sam soon afterwards.

The Air Force said yesterday the AFROTC men, to get their orders within four months after they are commissioned, will all be non-veterans or students not deferred for graduate study.

Frontline Troops Confident Of Ike... General Meets Varied Ideas On Path To Peace In Korea

By DON WHITEHEAD WITH EISENHOWER IN KOREA (AP) — U. S. President-elect Eisenhower is safely out of Korea and en route home tonight after three action-packed days of seeking a way to peace in this frozen land of war and misery.

Whether this unprecedented mission will prove to be a failure or a success only time can tell. Eisenhower kept to himself any strategy he might be forming. But he hinted one of the first moves would be a speedup in training South Koreans to take over most of the combat burden now falling on the Americans.

American officers working with the South Koreans feel much can be done—but no one should expect too much too soon despite the startling progress made in two years in building the Republic of Korea (ROK) forces.

Spirits Rise

Eisenhower's visit had a by-product of skyrocketing the spirits of American troops and giving them hope that if there is a road to peace, it will be found.

Soldier after soldier will tell you they believe that somehow and somewhere the general will find a way out of this war. And every man questioned by this reporter said Eisenhower did the right thing in coming to Korea. They weren't bothering about any political implications.

An Irishman in the British First Commonwealth Division—Sgt. Joseph Killian—felt like a great many American soldiers: "If anybody can end it, Gen. Eisenhower can. He's the man to do it, sir."

Action Wanted

These facts soon became apparent to those who accompanied Eisenhower:

1. There is strong sentiment among some U.S. military men here and among the South Koreans for an all-out offensive to smash the military power of Red China and North Korea. They argue privately this is the best and surest way to force peace in the Far East.
2. Some military men want to use Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa in the fighting, although this is opposed by the Koreans who say such a move would shift China's civil war to Korean soil.
3. The U. S. Eighth Army is strong and confident it can stop any Chinese offensive—even though the enemy has close to one million troops facing the U. N. forces. But sentiment for an all-out U. N. drive is tempered by the caution of some who think the United States isn't yet strong enough militarily to expand the war.
4. There appears to be little faith in this part of the world that the Panmunjon peace talks will produce an armistice.
5. Some fighting men believe it

The New Cabinet . . . Summerfield Began Late In Politics -- But Moved Fast

By NEA Service
FLINT, Mich. — (NEA) — The new Postmaster-General designate, Arthur Ellsworth Summerfield, made a late start in politics, but he's made up for that deficiency with a super-speed rise through the Republican Party.

That rise, from his first job of organizing a rally for Wendell Willkie in Genesee County, Mich., to National Chairman of the Republican Party and now a cabinet post, is the result of Summerfield's capacity for work and his ability to produce results.

It was in 1940 that Summerfield took the first step on the ship. By then he was a successful 41-year-old businessman in Flint, and an ardent, but amateur, Republican. A local rally, planned for the GOP nominee that year Willkie, fizzled badly.

Angered by that ineffective effort, Summerfield took over. He organized a campaign committee that not only produced a wildly successful rally, but went on from there to deliver the county and also the state into the Willkie column in the election.

ARTHUR SUMMERFIELD: He played a waiting game.

at the convention that nominated Eisenhower. He was the National Committeeman from Michigan and chairman of the Michigan delegation. In effect, he controlled a vital block of 46 delegates.

Summerfield refused to name his man before the convention. He played a waiting game, and his final move into the Eisenhower camp was a major factor in securing the nomination for the General. These tactics were rewarded the day after the convention, when Summerfield replaced Gabrielson as National chairman, and later, when he was named Eisenhower's campaign manager.

Now 53, Summerfield is a hearty, brown-haired, nattily-dressed man, who looks like a successful salesman — which he is. He quit school at 13 to go to work. His first job was on a production line.

From there, he progressed into the real estate and oil businesses, but kept coming back into the automobile line. Finally, in 1929, he opened the Summerfield Chevrolet Company in Flint. The depression that year hit him hard, but he hung on. Today, his company has branches in Grand Rapids and Clio, and is one of the largest automobile agencies in the nation.

His appointment re-establishes politics and government. The job of Postmaster-General has usually gone as a reward to the national chairman of the party in power. President Truman broke the tradition by appointing Jesse Donaldson, a career postal employe, to the job.

Marrying An Andrews Sister Brings Problems--In Triplicate

By DOROTHY ROE
 AP Women's Editor

"When you marry one of the Andrews sisters," says Lou Rogers, who did, "you acquire all marital problems in triplicate."

You have to cope with three sets of temperaments, keep track of three railroad tickets, take advice from three backseat drivers and light three cigarettes on a match.

"But," adds Lou hastily, "I love it."

This quiet young man is married to Laverne, the red-haired one of the famous singing trio. Patty, the blonde sister, is the bride of Walter Weschler, pianist for the act. Maxene, the brunette, is divorced—her former husband didn't fit into the act.

hotel rooms. Husbands are awfully comforting at times like this.

At this point Lou excuses himself, explaining:

"I've got to go buy a strap for Maxene's suitcase. We're leaving this afternoon and she broke the lock."

"You see what I mean," says Patty.

Takes Strong Man

Both current husbands say that wooing an Andrews sister is something to try the courage of the strongest man. Walter explains:

"You have to pass muster with all three of them before you even have a chance to hold hands with the one you want. It's sort of like standing trial before a three-judge court."

Laverne, Maxene and Patty have been crooning their syncopated ditties in night clubs, radio and movies for quite a few years since they left high school in Minneapolis to go on the road with a vaudeville act.

Today they probably are the country's best-known sister act, and despite the hazards of claustrophobic temperaments, split-second schedules and the general hysteria of show business, they still like each other. Says Maxene:

"Oh, we blow up at each other now and then, but that only clears the air. Each of us would fight anybody who made a dirty crack about either of the others."

Once in the organization, Summerfield found he liked the work and the Republican leaders recognized in him a worker of intense enthusiasm. Because of his business background, he was given the chore of reorganizing fund-raising methods in Michigan for the Party.

His success was so outstanding that his methods became known as the "Summerfield Plan" in Republican circles. Finance officers of other state organizations came to Michigan to study the plan, and the name of Summerfield began to be known outside Michigan.

By 1949 he was executive chairman of the Republican National Strategy Committee, devising the strategy for the 1950 Congressional elections. He resigned the post later, after a disagreement with Guy Gabrielson, then Republican National Chairman.

Market For Snails

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — If you are short of money in Italy just go out in the fields and pick up snails. They are worth about 4 cents a pound on the open export market. Americans don't like them usually, but snails cooked with garlic are a European delicacy.

Five tons of Italian snails cross daily the Italo-French frontier in special crates for French gourmets.

This career girl ends her business day with a new beginning as she reapplies make-up to a face freshly lotion-cleaned. All necessities are in one handy kit.

Having lunch with the Andrews sisters and husbands is an experience.

Trilled By Husbands

The girls arrive breathlessly laughing, full of apologies for being late, trailed by husbands picking up fur coats and compact and signaling headwaiters.

To avoid confusion each sister wears her name in diamonds and rubies, pinned to her chest. Laughing Patty:

"Sometimes I feel even our husbands might get us mixed up if we didn't carry identification. Not that we look alike (they don't) but actually we do often sound alike, act alike and rush around alike."

Crop Drying By Air

LONDON (AP) — Latest bit of agricultural machinery for crop harvesting is — an aircraft. Planes previously used for crop spraying with insecticides now are being tried out in Britain to dry standing crops from the air.

A chemical known as a desiccant is sprayed on wheat or barley about a week before cutting. The desiccant prevents water from moving up from the roots to the head and leaves of the grain — thus ensuring the dry can be harvested and stored safely without risk of rot.

Desiccants are aerial spraying costs about half as much as artificially drying a crop in store.

TALKING WALL TELLS TALES—Walls are said to have "ears," but this one, which embraces a portion of Rome's Piazza Del Popolo, also has a "tongue." The two men above are demonstrating how words spoken at one end of the wall, are clearly heard at its other extremity. Romans do not consider the 17th-Century structure a discreet location for a conversation.

Lloyds Of London Sure Of Coronation

LONDON (AP) — Lloyds of London is twice as certain as it was a few months ago that the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II will take place as scheduled next June 2.

The famous insurance institution now is quoting a 7-1-2 per cent rate on insurance against something happening to prevent the ceremony. Some time ago, some business firms paid as high as 5 per cent.

The insurance was taken out because many millions of pounds already invested in work connected with the coronation would be lost if anything—such as war or a death in the royal family—should cause postponement.

School Children Will Eat Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey may be a once-or-twice-a-year dish to most Americans but the 10 million children taking part in the government-sponsored school lunch program may get it a dozen times this school season.

The Agriculture Department has bought about 46 million pounds of frozen, ready-to-cook turkey since late August to help support producer prices and is turning the fowl over to the school lunch program.

Officials estimated turkey will be on school lunch menus at least 2 times this school season.

Helium is widely used now to fill balloons because it will not burn and is, therefore, much safer.

Reuther Maps Fighting Plans

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The CIO's new president, Walter P. Reuther, today charted a fighting program to keep the labor organization an active factor in America's industrial life.

Reuther, in a speech accepting the post as successor to the late Philip Murray, said he would strive for the biggest possible gains for workers already organized, and campaign vigorously to organize workers who are now non-union.

Election of the dynamic, 45-year-old Reuther, head of the big CIO auto workers union, came late yesterday as a climax to its capped a bitterly-contested fight pitting Reuther against a union old-timer and former coal miner, Allan S. Haywood, Haywood, 64, was promptly re-elected as the CIO's executive vice-president after losing the showdown to Reuther.

The split in CIO ranks over the election apparently was quickly healed, at least on the surface. Both the Reuther and Haywood forces pledged continued allegiance to the CIO.

Truman, Adlai Set Sights On Victory

WASHINGTON — President Truman and Adlai Stevenson trained the defeated Democratic party's sight today on victory in 1954 without endangering the nation's welfare.

The retiring President and the man he tried in vain to be his successor yesterday summed up in that way the goals decided upon during their White House meetings.

In separate news conferences during the day, they said Republican President-elect Eisenhower's administration will get a fair chance to show what it can do.

The Democratic party, they said, will try to wipe out its campaign deficit and then go after recapturing Congress in the 1954 elections.

Front line leadership will come from Democrats in Congress but party members outside Congress ranks, bunkered against sleet, snow and wind in the razor-edged mountains.

Talks With Troops

The general talked with troops of the U.S., Korea, Britain, Australia, France, Canada, New Zealand, Thailand, Philippines—the nations whose young men keep the northern watch in Asia against encroaching Communism.

The President-elect risked death from Russian-made jet fighters and from snipers and assassins on the ground.

The first announcement of his history-making visit was brief. It said in effect, he came, looked, and left.

Eisenhower appeared hardy and rested as he was whisked from command post to command post in light planes.

He jumped off on a backbreaking inspection tour the first day, talking to Sabre jet pilots, Marines and soldiers.

One of his first stops was at the headquarters of the U.S. First Corps, where he reviewed troops gathered from all 17 United Nations units serving in Korea.

Eisenhower's son, Maj. John Eisenhower, was assigned as his father's aide during his tour of Korea. Young Eisenhower is assistant operations officer of the U.S. Third Infantry Division in Korea.

He watched firing from artillery posts, tramped in the snow and visited freshly wounded at receiving stations in the field.

The long flight from the States apparently did not faze Eisenhower. He was in high spirits. He kept up a running fire of conversation with the field commanders.

Ready For Exercise

He apparently was ready for exercise after the long flight.

To maintain secrecy enroute to Korea, Eisenhower did not leave his plane until it reached lonely Iwo Jima in the Pacific. He had remained quietly aboard while the sleek Constellation refueled at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Hickam Field, Hawaii, and Midway.

The long-range Constellation could have made much longer jumps but the Air Force chose safer leaping island flights to insure plenty of fuel was aboard.

On Iwo, Eisenhower jeered to the top of historic Mount Suribachi, a symbol of Marine heroism in World War II.

Even on bleak Iwo, Eisenhower took time-out for talks and inspections and was briefed on the problems of the island.

Carried Two Crews

On the long jump from New York, Eisenhower's plane carried a double crew to insure that a rested and alert hand was on the controls at all times. The plane carried two pilots in addition to another veteran pilot as aircraft commander.

One was Maj. William G. Draper, Washington, D. C., the general's pilot in Europe when he headed the NATO forces.

Another plane followed.

This carried newsmen and the general's press secretary, James C. Hagerly. A Secret Service man was aboard each plane.

The general carried out a campaign promise to go to Korea and see what could be done about the stalemated war. But he kept a tight lip as to what he planned to do about it when he becomes U. S. President on Jan. 20.

A complete news blackout on all his movements prevailed from the time he walked from New York's Hotel Commodore as if he were going for a stroll.

The might of the U. S. Army and the American Secret Service combined to give him every protection possible.

A small party accompanied the general while his New York headquarters threw up a news screen by doling out the names of the general's future cabinet and aides.

As Eisenhower left Korea, General Clark United Nations Far East commander and the man credited with giving the President-Elect his first big chance as is better to go all-out against the Chinese now and take temporarily heavy losses to gain victory rather than continue the present stalemate with its growing toll of dead and wounded.

Others — and they are mostly infantrymen who would have to carry the load of battle — don't agree so readily.

6. The Chinese have well-equipped and well-supplied armies dug into heavily fortified mountain positions — and reports would indicate no break in their morale despite terrific battle losses.

7. On the other side, the South Korean Army has shown astonishing improvement in leadership, efficiency and fighting skill since that day two years ago when the Chinese entered the war and routed the South Koreans. Where American fighting men once shrugged their shoulders helplessly over the fighting quality of the ROK's, they now praise them lavishly.

Eisenhower gave every indication that as President he would see to it that the South Korean Army is made stronger and stronger. While talking yesterday to Lt. Gen. Chung Il Kwon, deputy commander of the U.S. Ninth Corps, the general congratulated him on the ROK Army and then said:

"As far as I'm concerned, we'll get it a lot bigger and better."

Earlier, Chung had told a reporter he would like to see a United Nations drive to the Yalu "with the ROK Army leading the way."

And ROK Maj. Gen. Bak Lim Hung said: "We would like to attack and push north to the higher headquarters would permit."

But these same sentiments were voiced by some American officers and enlisted men, too, and without doubt Eisenhower is aware of this feeling in the Army which he soon will head as commander in chief.

On every trip outside Eighth Army Headquarters, Eisenhower was accompanied by those who had flown from New York in his party. They were Defense Secretary-designate Charles E. Wilson, Chief of Staff Omar Bradley, Atty. Gen.-designate Herbert Brownell, Air Force Maj. Gen. Roger Ramey, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons ret., who will be Eisenhower's White House assistant; Secret Service Agent James Rowley in charge of the White House detail, and Lt. John Davies, who acted as secretary to Eisenhower.

At Iwo Jima, Adm. Arthur Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific, joined the group.

Security Tight

The security surrounding Eisenhower's arrival was so tight that soldiers and most officers in combat didn't know the general was in Korea until he arrived at their headquarters.

All across the Pacific, the pattern of surface and air travel was such that the general's plane was never more than 100 miles from a ship or plane.

Government and city officials in Seoul had drummed up a big welcome celebration for Eisenhower yesterday and thousands of men, women and children turned out apparently expecting a glimpse of the general. But he did not appear.

Authorities Seek Dangerous Convicts

CUMBERLAND, Md. (P) — Three dangerous convicts were hunted in this Western Maryland area today and police also kept watch on the Charlestown, W. Va., race track.

The three being sought are the only ones still at large after 10 prisoners made a mass break for freedom at the Western State Penitentiary in Pittsburgh last Sunday.

The search here was concentrated in a section of the city where a stolen car was located yesterday. It was the second of two stolen cars which turned up in this vicinity after they were reported missing in Oakland, Md., and Moundsville, W. Va.

Marines Save Child From Fire

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (P) — Two Jacksonville Marines, flagged down by a mother crying for help, rescued a 4-month-old girl from a burning house yesterday.

The baby, Linda Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Winn, was reported in fair condition suffering with third degree burns.

Sgt. Joe L. Smith, 24, was slightly burned on the ears, nose and lips. His companion, T. Sgt. Richard P. Musgrove, 29, was uninjured.

The Marines were driving their recruiting station wagon when stopped by Mrs. Winn, 18, running on the road, pointing to her blazing four-room house and screaming, "My baby's inside!"

Musgrove pushed in the bedroom window and Smith crawled into the smoke-filled room, found the baby, and handed her out.

Gen. Bradley May Make Trip To Spain

WASHINGTON (P) — Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint Chiefs of Staff, may visit Spain next February to discuss the diplomatically-tough plans for U.S. air and naval bases there, it was learned yesterday.

A final decision on the Bradley visit, however, hinges on whether the incoming Eisenhower administration approves and a formal invitation is issued by the Spanish government.

Three More Traffic Accidents In City

Three Pampa automobile accidents have been reported within a 12-hour period, hiking the 1952 city collision toll to 344.

It was the third straight day that the toll had maintained an average of more than one-a-day for the entire year.

William G. Crowson, 48, of 820 N. Ward, involved in a collision at E. Francis and Ballard about 6:30 p.m. Thursday, was cited on a charge of driving while intoxicated but pleaded not guilty this morning in county court. He will be tried before a jury panel Thursday.

The Crowson vehicle collided with a car operated by Shirley W. Woodridge, 22, of 1309 E. Francis, police reported. Estimated damages to the two cars were $325 and there were no casualties.

An automobile driven by Albert S. Stevens, 19, of Amarillo, collided with a Santa Fe switch engine at the Hobart St. crossing at 2:35 a.m. today, according to police.

Calculated damages to Stevens' car were $200 and there were no citations and casualties reported. Operator of the engine was O. L. Hodges, Canadian.

Vaiden S. Keahy, 72, of 700 N. Sumner, was headed east on Alcock at 7:30 a.m. today, police said, and had stopped at a signal light at Hobart when a vehicle operated by Ole P. Hall, 22, of 633 N. Neida, turned left onto Alcock and collided with the Keahy car.

Hall was cited on a charge of failing to grant the right of way. There were no injuries and calculated damages to each car were $50.

MEDICAL TECHNICIANS ORGANIZE — Six officers have been elected in the organizational meeting of the Texas Medical Technological Society, Pampa chapter. Both x-ray and laboratory technicians are included in the new group, organized in a dinner-meeting Thursday night. From left to right, officers are Mrs. Bertha Flowers, treasurer, and Ellen Haley, program chairman, (seated); Russell Allen, vice president; Rick Cutting, president; Emmett Mays, secretary and reporter, and Larry Stoddard, correspondence secretary. Sixteen persons — from Pampa, Amarillo and Dumas — were on hand for the affair. It was decided to open membership in the society to both registered technicians and those interested in that type of work. Meetings are to be held the first Thursday of each month. Next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 8 in Dumas. (News Photo)

Tough To Prove . . .
Britain Has Big Problem
In African Leader's Jailing

LONDON (AP) — The trickiest problem facing Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton just now is what to do with a bearded, raw-boned East African nationalist leader held incommunicado in a secret desert jail.

The prisoner is Jomo Kenyatta, a Mau Mau tribesman who have been sweeping down on farms maiming cattle, firing buildings and sometimes killing the occupants.

Kenyatta and five associates arrested in a roundup of Mau Mau suspects Oct. 21 pleaded innocent last week to charges that they aided in the management of the anti-White society when they were arraigned for trial. Strict security precautions prevailed as the magistrate adjourned the case for 30 days.

Administrator Ju-Ju Oatho Mau Mau members raised from Kenya's one-million-strong Kikuyu tribe — are held in thrall by witch doctors who administer poisons and ruthlessly torture and murder tribesmen who refuse to join.

Their aim is to drive the white man out of Kenya and the man they venerate as leader, although there is no proof he sought the honor or has any connection with them — is Kenyatta.

Officially at least, Kenyatta was — until his recent arrest — a completely above-board politician engaged in the legal task of championing African rights.

That's why he is much a problem to Lyttelton. Lyttelton wants African political movements to mature until they can join responsibility in administering the colony. As president of the most powerful group, the Kenya African Union, Kenyatta's fate is coupled with the political progress Lyttelton is seeking to encourage.

But Kenyatta's name is the heady slogan used by the witch doctors as they steel their followers on each fresh expedition of murder.

Kenyatta himself never has admitted any connection with Mau Mau. But he preached in public the same aim Mau Mau tries to achieve by force — the expulsion of the white man from Kenya.

Little Evidence

There seems little evidence against Kenyatta — and police will time at London University and in 1938 he wrote a book about the Kikuyu. Four years later he married an English school teacher, Miss Edna Grace Clarke, who bore him a son.

Kenyatta gradually rose to a commanding position among the Negro students and politicians who had gathered in London from many parts of the world. In 1945 he presided over a two-weeks Pan-African Congress at Manchester, which discussed the problems of Negro peoples. Delegates came from America, Africa and the West Indies.

That was the climax of his self-exile. Leaving his white wife and their child in England he returned to Kenya, where he quickly won an unrivalled place among politically conscious Africans.

Boyle's Column . . .
Like Vaudeville And The Dodo
Bird, The Vest's Day Is Gone

NEW YORK (AP) — Many a stubborn male sighs for the return of the faithful vest.

But wearing isn't going to bring back the vest any more than it will restore the dodo bird or revive vaudeville.

This is on the word of Spencer Witty, vice president of one of the nation's largest clothing manufacturing firms.

"The vest is finished," he said cheerfully. "It is very hard to get a vest today except contrasting or tattersall vests.

Suits now are priced for two pieces — the coat and pants. If the vest reappeared it would cause terrible repercussions. I doubt if the public would pay an extra 15 per cent just to get a vest.

Dulles Wears A Vest

Witty said the ordinary man was happy to get rid of vests and that only sentimentalists and "older, conservative business men" still want them. When I asked him for examples, he said:

"Well, John Foster Dulles does wear a vest and Dean Acheson doesn't."

Taking a squint at current fashion trends for the vestless male, Witty also predicted the decline and fall of the double-breasted suit.

"It's a poison now," he said. Fat men still cling to the double-breasted suit in the fond belief that it helps hide their bay window and makes them appear slimmer.

"Pure illusion," said Witty ruthlessly. "They might as well face the facts — the double-breasted suit has had its day and is now on the way out."

Somehow I began to feel a bit sad. The vest gone, the double-breasted suit going — could anything else depart from a man's wardrobe and still leave him with anything except a loin cloth?

Bold Look Is Out

"Well, yes," said Witty heartily. "The bold look and the natural look are now definitely out, as far as the better-dressed man is concerned."

The bold look? The natural look? I looked startled. I thought only women's clothes had a "look."

"Indeed, no," said Witty. "Men's suits had a bold look during the war days — wider shoulders, spread collar. Then right after the war we had the natural look, unpadded shoulders, loose fitting."

Well, it seems the bold look made a fellow look too wide for anybody to believe it was him, and the natural look made his shoulders look so narrow it depressed his wife.

"The present look is a compromise between the two," said Witty. "and it's a real benefit to the average man. It is less padded than the bold look and more flattering and athletic in appearance than the natural look."

Another nice prospect is that there is no immediate danger of men's suits vying with peacocks or the rainbow.

"Colors are going to be conservative," Witty summed up. "Flannels will be very big, and the gien plaid is very important again. Quite a revival there."

"Well, in that case," I began hopefully, "maybe the vest will—"

"No vest," said Witty with cold finality.

"I suggest you write to Santa Claus for a new wallet — this one's rather shabby!"

American Of Mixed Ancestry Has Narrow Escape In Egypt

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An American citizen who was born in Russia and educated in France has returned from making the first English-language movie in Egypt.

The international character who claims this distinction is Victor Stoloff, a genial producer-director and man of many talents. Among these talents is his timing, which allowed him to remove his film from Egypt on the eve of revolution.

First, we'd better get his nationality straightened out. "I was born in Russia," he told me. "My father was an artist and therefore had little knowledge of politics. Thus it wasn't unusual that he discovered himself in Munich in 1914 with a war breaking out. Since he couldn't return home, he decided to see the Orient. He got as far as Egypt and stayed there."

Early Days In Egypt

Stoloff spent his early years in Egypt and then was shipped off to school in Paris. He returned to Egypt and went into the movie business. He made about two dozen films, among them some distinguished documentaries. When World War II broke out, he came to the United States and became a Hollywood movie maker.

He is one of those energetic men who can put together what Hollywood calls a package. That is, he collects a script, a source of money and some talent and makes a movie. This is how films were created in the old days, but it's no small feat now.

Stoloff devised a package called "Tales of Cairo." It was an episodic feature about three phases of life in Cairo, which he knows well. Somehow the package managed to stay tied, and Stoloff gained permission to shoot the film from the Egyptian government. He used American actors, plus some distinguished Egyptian stars.

Almost Lost Everything

"After I had the picture finished, I came close to losing everything," he related. "I was ready to fly out of the country with the film just 17 hours before Farouk was deposed."

"The officials at the airport wouldn't let me leave with the film. I was afraid that some whim of the government would confiscate the whole picture. I frantically phoned all the top officials I knew. Finally after five hours' delay, I convinced them the picture was good for Egypt. I have an idea that men in the new government held up the film until they knew what it was about."

Stoloff said that his film is the first English-speaking film made in Egypt. But pictures in the Arabic tongue are a thriving industry, he reported. Cairo, the Hollywood of the Arabic world, has 10 studios which produce 35 pictures a year.

"They have a potential audience of 100 million people," he remarked. "Some of the pictures are good. But too many of them are patterned after Hollywood models. They are poor imitations."

Increase Is Seen In Texas' Auto Total

DALLAS (AP) — The regional J. S. Department of Commerce reports there were 9,108 more automobiles in Texas last June than in the corresponding month of 1951. The new total was 186,900 autos the report said.

"Ball" is good fun. Bob Hope and Bing Crosby keep the quips flying at a machine-gun pace. Their aim is not always too accurate, and there is a lack of real belly-laugh. But it makes for diverting and certainly painless viewing and listening. As usual Dorothy Lamour provides the ball to lure the two vagabonds into their misdeeds. More or less unscheduled are the appearances of Bob Crosby, Humphrey Bogart, Martin and Lewis, and Jane Russell.

PONTIAC FOR 1953 - The new Pontiac goes on display Saturday in Pampa and over the nation as Pontiac Division of General Motors introduces its new line of Dual-Streak Chiefline models, featuring longer wheelbase, increased vision and new curve-control front suspension. Advanced styling is marked by smooth contours, rear fender fin and high deck lid, one-piece curved windshield, wrap-around one-piece rear windows, roomier interiors and entirely new radiator grille and chrome treatment. Above is the new Custom Catalina, one of 11 body types in three Chiefline series. Wheelbase for all series is 122 inches with power steering as optional equipment. The new models will be displayed in Pampa at Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac, 120 N. Gray.

Noblitt-Coffey Remodels Car Lot

A newly decorated used car sales lot is to be opened Saturday by Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac Company, according to Jim Arndt, general manager of the automobile agency. The double-entrance lot is being opened in connection with the unveiling of the 1953 model Pontiac. One entrance opens into Foster and the other on N. Gray. Manager is Conie Lockhart. Designed to carry out an Indian theme, the lot entrance on Foster is marked by two large totem poles.

A seven-foot statue of Chief Pontiac stands on top of the lot sales office.

An Expert Can See Correct Play Here

When today's hand was played, South found an easy way to lose his game contract. It was so easy, in fact, that South still doesn't know that he could (and should) have made the game. Just for the fun of it see if you can discover where South might hold this type of hand the next time you play bridge. South won the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades and drew three rounds of trumps. He then led a low club from his hand and ducked completely in the dummy.

East won with the nine of clubs and was unkind enough to return the jack of diamonds. The defenders therefore took three diamonds, a club, and a spade, defeating the contract before South could get well started.

Have you spotted South's error? If not, look at the hand closely to find the correct line of play before you read on.

South was on the right track until he played the first card from dummy. Then, unfortunately, he went wrong.

The correct play is to let West hold the first trick with the king of spades. If West shifts to clubs, (the best defense) dummy wins with the king of clubs, and South enters his hand with the ace of hearts in order to lead the jack of spades. West naturally plays the queen of spades, and dummy plays low again!

West leads another club, still trying to get the lead to his partner, and dummy rises to take the trick with the ace of clubs.

Hank Sets Down Few Things He Understands, Few He Doesn't

By HENRY McEMORE
Things I'll never Understand: With England as hard up as it is, as sorely pressed for money, the lords of the realm must buy or rent ermine robes if they want to be admitted to the Queen's coronation next June.

What a gracious gesture, what a queenly gesture it would be, if Elizabeth III it be known that her subjects could come to the coronation in the best that they have, even though that be a tweed suit with shiny pants and worn elbows.

If she did this she would show her people that she appreciated what they endured during the war, and the shabby way they have had to live since V-day, I believe it would endear her to them more than any gesture she could make.

The Democrats already are planning to try to split the Republican party. What petty politics! What a mean thing to do to your country. It is tough enough as it is, what with boys dying every day in Korea, without a bunch of politicians, safe in their cars, safer in their Washington apartments, scheming to do their best to block Gen. Eisenhower.

That's patriotism with a lowercase, agate type, a "p." Men, sitting in freezing foxholes, and politicians are trying to get at the best of it. If I were they'd enlist and try my hand at fighting a lick or two. You can bet they wouldn't come home and not make a pitch for the men who are giving, or risking their lives for this country.

It baffles me why the young men are sent out to fight, not the old ones. I advocated long ago that the first wave to hit a beachhead should be made up of old codgers like myself. Colonels, limited colonels, fat and pretty bureaucrats and those who live off others. After you have lived out of the U. S. trough for a certain length of time, then you should be willing to fight for it.

Things I Do Understand: Ever since there is a mention of the United Nations troops I laugh. If the United States hadn't taken a part in Korea, there would be no troops, no tanks, no artillery, no nothing.

The use of the initial U. N. pure nonsense. Just a sop for the countries who have contributed practically nothing. For every cavalry another country has, the U. S. has fifty. For every dollar the U. S. spends, the other countries spend a penny.

Isn't it time the United States admitted it was fighting the war, sorry, police action—and told the rest of the world that the U. S. could protect itself, and if the rest of the world didn't want to help, then get out and stay out?

I know the last thing Russia wants is the ending of the U. N. What other group could give a vicious country such a sounding board? Where else could Russia find decent men to listen to its evil talk? Where else could its representative argue with the men who know the horrible truth of the country it represents?

I am glad that John Foster Dulles has been named Secretary of State by General Eisenhower.

Mr. Dulles has a backbone. It will take the country a long time to appreciate a backbone, but it will.

Van Reaches Class A Q-Finals By Ripping Honey Grove, 47-6

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The fight for state championships in the upper echelons of Texas schoolboy football—Classes AAA and AA—starts today.

Denison and Texarkana clashed at Denison this afternoon in the first game of the AAA division first round. Tonight finds both of the classes in action.

North Side (Fort Worth) journeys to Dallas to play North Dallas while Baytown and John Reagan tangle at Houston in Class AAAA. This paves the way for the favored teams—Lubbock and Wichita Falls—to swing into the fight. Lubbock battles Austin at El Paso at El Paso and Wichita Falls meets Ray of Corpus Christi at Corpus Christi tomorrow afternoon.

One game in Class AAA is scheduled tonight and it's a big one—it matches two of the three undefeated, untied teams left in the division, Edison (San Antonio) and McAllen. Tomorrow afternoon undefeated, untied Temple plays Port Neches at Terrell, and Brckenridge, the defending state champion, takes on Lamesa at Sweetwater.

Mayo Leads Van
The second round in Class A started last night as Jack Mayo led Van to a smashing 47-6 victory over Honey Grove at Greenville. Mayo scored four touchdowns, one on a 60-yard run, another on a 24-yard punt and the fourth on a five-yard blast.

Five more second-round games in Class A are scheduled this afternoon and night with Haskell at Wink and Crowell and Clifton at Vernon in the afternoon and these night games: Mart vs Smithville at Cameron, Deer Park at Vanderbilt and Lyford at Hondo. Tomorrow afternoon Olton will be at Denver City and Tomorrow night Gaston plays at Cedar Bayou.

The Class AA division in which Terrell and Huntsville are top favorites starts its second round today with Floydada at Chilless. Tonight Stephenville plays at Graham, Terrell and Center at Kilgore, Belton at Killen and Beville and LaMarque at Richmond-Rosenberg. Tomorrow afternoon Stamford and Seminole battle at Snyder and Ennis and Huntsville play at Huntsville while tomorrow night Weslaco will be at Yoakum.

Plainview Given Extension On Drive; Boys Club Seeking Additional Boxers

FROM PHOENIX, ARIZ., comes word that Plainview has asked and was granted more time on its drive to purchase the Pampa Oilers.

The deadline has been extended from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15, owner Doug Mills has reported.

Ernie Brock, representing the Plainview fans at the baseball convention now in progress at Phoenix, still has hopes that the drive will be successful.

Before going any further, we have been asked to correct a statement we made in yesterday's Golden Gloves story. The story said Oran James was the head instructor but James called this morning and said the above two men, Watt and Wilhelm and possibly two or three others, are the boxing coaches for the Boys Club.

James is the president of the Boys Club and of course runs the club's activities but says he doesn't want to take credit for coaching the boxing team of which Watt and Wilhelm are doing a splendid job.

About 25 boys are reporting regularly now at the boxing workouts but many more are needed to put on the district Golden Gloves. Whether you are in the first grade or a senior in high school, or whether you weigh 60 pounds or 250 pounds, the district GG will have a weight division for you.

There will be nice trophies for each weight winner, something that you can treasure always.

The winners of the 100-pound brackets on up will qualify for the regional meet to be held in Amarillo the next week following the District meet here.

Schools from Lefors, Shamrock, Wellington, Clarendon, White Deer and other points will fight in the District meet here.

To prepare its charges for the Golden Gloves, the Boys Club will schedule at least one match a week with other clubs of this sector.

Right now, the Pampans have a match carded at Clovis, N. M. Dec. 16.

The Boys Club furnishes everything to work out with except shoes and trunks so all you have to do is show up at 322 West Foster any day of the week from 4 to 6 p.m., except Sundays. The Boys Club has a nice ring, several punching bags and gloves.

THE ALL-DISTRICT 1-AAAA
The all-district sections are being made by sportswriters and coaches from each member city. All we know of the selection at this time is who we picked and named. So watch the Sunday sports section of the News for the outcome of the voting.

One-armed Pete Gray batted .218 for the St. Louis Browns in 1945. The Nanticoke, Pa. native played in 77 American League games.

Stolhandske, Vessels On 1952 AP All-America

By TED SMITS
NEW YORK (AP)—Michigan State and Georgia Tech, the two major undefeated college football teams of 1952, each placed two men on the Associated Press All-America based on the recommendations of eight regional boards of experts comprising well-known sports writers and sportscasters.

The Southeastern Conference led with five men on the two first teams, offensive and defensive, followed by the Big Ten with four and the Pacific Coast Conference with three.

The AP's all-star offensive backfield is composed of Billy Vessels, Oklahoma; Paul Giel, Minnesota; Don Heinrich, Washington; and Jack Scarbath, Maryland.

Two Repeaters
There were only two men on the first teams who previously made the All-America—Marvin Matuszak, Tulsa, at guard; and Heinrich, who was on the 1950 team but was sidelined last year by injuries.

Michigan State, the national champion, is represented by two stalwarts of its defensive unit—Frank Kush, guard, and Dick Tamburo, line backer. Georgia Tech, the runner-up, placed Pete Brown at center on the offensive team and Bobby Moorehead in the defensive backfield.

The AP All-America is based on reports and recommendations through the final games of Nov. 29.

The football trends of 1952 were clearcut:

1. Major teams use more and more players with the result that standout personalities became rarer.
2. The fumble as caused by fancy ball handling and sharp tackling became more decisive than ever in big games.
3. The NCAA's television program, restricting national video to one big game each week with some minor exceptions, held firm but there were rumbles of disension.
4. The offense took over more completely than ever from the defense.

Stolhandske Offensive End
AP's offensive unit has big Tom Stolhandske of Texas at one end and Frank McPhee, Princeton's 60-minute player, at the other. Kline Gilbert, a giant on Mississippi's surprising line, is at tackle along with David Summit of Wisconsin. Guards are a new school record. He scored 15 touchdowns, completed seven out of 20 passes for 209 yards and two touchdowns, caught seven passes and returned nine kickoffs for 145 yards.

Heinrich broke his own Pacific Coast conference passing record with 157 completions in 270 attempts for .567 percentage. Thirteen of these were touchdown passes. He won the major college national passing title for the second time, and had a year's total offense of 1,652 yards.

Defensively, the 1952 team was strong. Scott at end was termed by Virginia Coach Art Gueppie as his "team's defensive inspiration," while Brandy was called by Coach Del Ward of Colorado "the fiercest competitor I've coached in 25 years."

Offensive Team:
End, Tom Stolhandske, Texas, Senior, 21, 210, 6-2, Baytown, Tex.

Sugar Ray's Boxing Crown Taken Away

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission stripped Sugar Ray Robinson of his world middleweight title in a surprise move early today.

The action brought this report from George Gainford, Robinson's manager, "Somebody is screwing around and taking away in a ring."

Robert Christenberry, commission chairman, declared Robinson's title was being vacated because he had not met the rule which requires a champion to defend his title every six months.

"We had given him an extra month to decide whether to continue his boxing or go into a career as an entertainer," said Christenberry. "Up to now we have not had an answer."

To this, Gainford asserted he had mailed a special delivery letter to Christenberry before he and Robinson left New York.

"It is our understanding that we were only to notify the commission that negotiations were underway for a fight," Gainford said. "In the letter, which Christenberry should receive today we explain that we are negotiating with Ack Solomon, the British promoter, for a title fight with Randy Turpin in London next June."

Sugar Ray, 32, regarded as one of the greatest boxers of the current era, last fought June 25 when he failed to lift the light-heavyweight crown for champion Joey Maxim. He lost on a TKO when he was unable to come out for the 14th round because of heat exhaustion.

An Office of Price Stabilization official says an order will be issued before the end of the week granting manufacturers a 7 per cent increase in ceilings for pots and pans made of sheet aluminum and 8.5 per cent for utensils made of cast aluminum. The official said wholesalers and retailers will be permitted to pass the increases on to consumers.

Martin Takes Over At Texas Christian

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian had a new head football coach today — the first in 19 years. He is Othol (Abe) Martin, who succeeds his former teacher, L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, the oldest head coach in point of service in the Southwest Conference.

Meyer resigned yesterday and the reins of the Horned Frogs, whom Meyer built into national powers, were turned over to Martin, a man who was successful as a high school coach and who had been Meyer's assistant since 1946.

Meyer has been both coach and athletic director since 1950. He now will be athletic director only. Who will become assistant coach to replace Martin hasn't been determined but the new head coach said he probably would pick a former Texas Christian football player. The staff at present is composed solely of former TCU players.

In Martin, TCU gets that rare variety of coach who is willing to go on the line with a prediction of how his team will come out. When he was a high school coach, Martin's standard statement before a game was, "We'll run them out of the park." He usually did. In 10 years as a high school mentor, Martin won seven district championships. He coached at El Paso High, Lufkin and Paschal, Fort Worth.

Meyer, one of the most colorful coaches in the game and the man who exemplified the forward pass as a standard offensive weapon with such passing greats as Sam Baugh and Davey O'Brien to do the throwing, has been at Texas Christian since 1917. He was a student and athlete, then freshman coach for 11 years. He became head coach in 1934.

Meyer was one of the game's greatest offensive coaches. He invented a spread formation that carried his team to the conference championship last year. He then wrote a book on it. The book was published recently.

"I feel a great load has been lifted from my shoulders," Meyer said as he handed in his resignation as coach.

Meyer's teams won 119 games, lost 79 and tied 13.

King Ranch's Dispose threw a shoe on the clubhouse turn at Hialeah during the 1941 Flamingo yet went on to win the race.

Dick Morgan, West Virginia University star pitcher last spring, recently won his first game in pro ball for the Roanoke team in the Class B Piedmont League.

Minors Set July 31 Deadline For Giving Up Option Players

By JOE REICHLER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The minor league wind up their convention today after having adopted a new bonus rule, passed the old high school rule, put a "ver" rule designed to hold on to the star players and voted down a proposal that would have revolutionized the entire structure of baseball.

At the same time, the National American Leagues, on the eve of their official opening today, held separate meetings on television and radio rights which ended unsatisfactorily with each league divided into two camps.

The minors unanimously voted to accept the bonus rule proposed by the Executive Council that was designed to curb payments of $25,000 to $100,000 to untried youngsters. It must, however, be ratified by the major leagues at their joint meeting next Sunday to be effective.

The rule designates as a "bonus player" any free agent who has received in excess of $4,000 from a Class A club and up, or $2,000 from a Class B club or one of lower classification. The majors are permitted to pay $5,000 in salary and bonuses. A major league bonus player must be kept two years. A minor league bonus player cannot be moved up for a year, at the end of which time he becomes subject to unrestricted draft.

A major league club violator can be fined $2,000. A minor league violation costs the club $1,000. The individual responsible could also be fined $500.

The high school rule permits scouts to talk to boys but forbids them to be signed until their class graduates.

In an effort to stop the practice of major league clubs raiding their farms by bringing up promising athletes in mid-season, the minors voted unanimously to prohibit the recall of players after July 31. A player sent out on option must stay with the minor club for at least 10 days. Only in

Government To Hike Aluminum Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is getting ready to boost ceiling price on aluminum pots and pans.

An Office of Price Stabilization official says an order will be issued before the end of the week granting manufacturers a 7 per cent increase in ceilings for pots and pans made of sheet aluminum and 8.5 per cent for utensils made of cast aluminum. The official said wholesalers and retailers will be permitted to pass the increases on to consumers.

Miami 5 Meets Higgins Tonight

MIAMI — The Miami Warriors cagers will be seeking their third win of the season tonight when they invade Higgins in a non-district clash.

The Warriors swept to their second straight win Wednesday night with a 47-29 decision over Follett. Alonzo, Mitchell sparked the Warriors in the Follett title with 22 points.

The Miami girls team, who will also see action at Higgins tonight, will be attempting to snap a two-game losing streak. They bowed to Follett 37-29 Wednesday night in a preliminary game to the Warrior contest.

Lynn Gill, Miami freshman, led the Miami girls with 17 points. Regular Harold Greenhouse of the Warriors missed the Follett game Wednesday night.

Scout Chuck Ward of the Phillips, a former Rutgers baseball coach, played five years as an infielder with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Milk Bowl Tilt Carded Tomorrow

ROSENBERG (AP) — The fourth annual Milk Bowl football game matching Boys Town, Neb., with the Variety Boys Club of Houston goes on tomorrow afternoon with a crowd of 10,000 expected.

The game will be played in the stadium of Lamar Consolidated High School.

Each team is composed of boys not more than 14 years of age and no more than 100 pounds in weight. The boys wear regulation equipment with the exception of shoes. They wear special tennis shoes that have rubber cleats.

Pre-game festivities get under way tomorrow morning with a parade honoring the Milk Bowl contestants and also marking the golden anniversary of the incorporation of Rosenberg.

At the field, the program starts promptly at 2 p.m. with Pat Flaherty, Houston newspaper and radio man, as master of ceremonies. Bands of Wharton County Junior College and St. Thomas School of Houston and the drill team from Kirwin High School of Galveston will entertain before the game and at half-time.

The Boys Town team arrives in Houston this afternoon and will work out there.

Gigi Ferrean, the Hollywood child movie star, will arrive in Houston tonight. She will be crowned "Queen of the Milk Bowl."

Mmes. Thompson, Evans Give Religious Program To Twentieth Century Allegro

A program on Religion was presented at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Allegro at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Don Cain. Program leaders were Mrs. James E. Thompson and Mrs. James O. Evans.

Mrs. Thompson presented a biographical sketch of Martin Luther saying the Protestant Church as we know it today had its beginning in the mind and working of a man of inspiration, work, courage and conviction.

Luther was born Nov. 11, 1483
in Eisleben, Saxony and although from a poor family went to school in Magdurg, Eisenach.

She said he helped to support
himself by singing in church choirs
and in front of homes of the rich.

He attended the University of Erfurt, studying two years in law school. However, Mrs. Thompson continued, he felt he was called by God to become a monk and soon entered the Augustinian Monastery. After he became a priest he went to the University of Whittenburg to teach philosophy and theology.

"While teaching in the University he created his 95 Theses on indulgences and forgiveness and was consequently released, she said.

"Many times as his life was threatened and became a recluse in Wartburg Castle for 10 months at which time he translated the New Testament from the original Greek into German.

He is credited with introducing congregational singing and he wrote a number of hymns including "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" and "Away In A Manager."
Luther died in 1546 in Eisen-bach, Saxony. Mrs. Evans gave a review of the life of Peter Marshall, late chaplain of the United States Senate.

She said: "Marshall was born in Coatbridge, Scotland in 1906.
He ran away from home at 14
to join the navy but his parents secured a release.

"Six years later he entered the ministry and soon came to America to study. He studied in the Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Georgia.

At 27 he began preaching with a pastorate in the Westminster
Presbyterian Church in Atlanta, Ga. His next church was the New York Avenue Church in Washington, D. C. (one of the nation's twelve most important pulpits) Attendance increased in both churches.

In 1947 he was elected chaplain of the Senate and died following a 2-year period of poor health
June 25, 1948.

Present at the meeting were Mes- Mrs. Thompson, Evans, Cain,
Bill Waters, Billy B. Davis, George Cree Jr., Evert Duncan, James Leverich, H. Price Dossier Jr.,
Frisbee, Jerry Thomas Raymond
Reid, Carr, John M. H. Garman,

"Good Nutrition" . . . those two words so bandied about seem vague and difficult of definition.
Yet in terms of North American food customs, good nutrition simply means getting meat, fish or poultry, milk or milk products, eggs, vegetables, fruits, enriched and whole grain breads and cereals and some butter or fortified margarine in the daily diet.

This variety of foods provides those mysterious and scientific proteins, vitamins, minerals, fat and carbohydrates needed to maintain health.

How often though are one or more requirements of this basic food guide ignored. Perhaps a person skimps on meat; or other protein foods that build and repair body cells. Perhaps fruits and vegetables with their protective vitamins A and C, or milk with its calcium for bones and teeth, are slighted.

Certain foods for good nutrition are frequently omitted from the diets of senior citizens . . .
those persons over 60 years of age. Among this age group there is not yet enough acceptance of the fact that older people need the same variety of foods as in earlier years . . . but perhaps smaller quantities because of less exercise and energy output.

In the senior citizen household of one or two persons this good nutrition regime may call for a revised shopping program. Small purchases of most foods are thriftier for the small family. It's also more economical to buy food according to the cost per serving than the cost per pound. Frozen or canned vegetables, for example, may be cheaper than fresh vegetables with pods or outer leaves to be removed.

Senior citizens of the one or two household who use cans and jars of foods processed for infants will have ingredients prepared and cooked in small quantity. These foods can be served as is, or as an ingredient in attractive desserts and salads. The strained prunes, for example, might be used in a quick prune whip with unflavored gelatine.
Beets and carrots prepared for junior are colorful additions in gelatine salads for adults.

While it is best to prepare foods only in that quantity which will be used up at a meal, some meals and casseroles can be prepared in sufficient quantity so that there will be enough for another meal . . . a tip to save on meal time preparation. Packaged, prepared mixes can be considered out and used at one's convenience and in the amount needed for a small household.

Also there is the trick of preparing food so that it can be served two ways without monotony. A basic unflavored gelatine mixture can make both a dessert
and salad with one preparation effort.

Salad-Dessert Gel Duet
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1-2 cup cold water
1-4 cup hot water
1-4 cup sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup lemon juice
1 cup sliced cooked or raw vegetables
1 cup drained fresh or canned fruit

Soften gelatin in cold water.
Add hot water, sugar and salt,
stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. Chill until the mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. For salad use, fold in sliced cooked or raw vegetables to half of mixture. For a molded fruit dessert, fold in drained fresh or canned fruit to remaining half of gelatine mixture.

Turn fruit and vegetable mixture into individual molds, chill until firm. Unmold and serve.
YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Rare Reptile Inspires
A Flourish Of Poetry
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times ran a story recently regarding the public display of a tuatara by the Bronx Zoo. In

Grace Friend

Dear Grace Friend:
My husband and I have a problem that we hope you can help us with.
We have been married for 16 years and up till three years ago we kept hoping I could have a child, but no luck. Then three years ago
I had to have an operation and now I'll never be able to have a baby.

We have tried every place we know to adopt a baby with no luck.
It seems a shame to think there are so many little babies or small children who need a home and good loving care and we can't get one.

We would like a boy or girl up to three years old.
Would you please put this in your column?

Dear Mrs. W.: Mrs. R. W.
Actually very few small children need a home as there are many more people wanting to adopt babies than there are babies available.

About all I can advise you to do is to place your name with various adoption agencies and wait your turn. Sometimes it takes several years. I believe that some orphanages have older children who may be adopted. It may be that you can find one of eight or nine easier than you can a tiny baby.

BIBLICAL RULE
Dear Mrs. Friend:
I don't know whether you can help me or not. It is a matter of religion that I want cleared up.

Some church-going friends of mine tell me that I shouldn't drink a cocktail before dinner as it is against the rules for a Christian to imbibe.

Can you tell me on what they base their information? Does the Bible forbid drinking? Do certain churches forbid it or do they all?

Dear Richard:
I am not sure myself.
If anyone can answer your questions I will be glad to publish them.

I am quite sure that the Bible does not forbid drinking. However some churches may.

You might be able to find the source by inquiring of various ministers.

the course of explaining how to pronounce the reptile's name, the story said it would fit into the title of a poem, "Ode To Tuatara."

And try to remember the kind of compliments your husband used to pay you. It's important to keep on rating the same kind.
It's wonderful to have him praise your cooking. But not if you've partaken of it so heavily yourself that he can no longer praise your figure.

The story resulted in at least 19 tuatara poems being sent to the newspaper, one of which was published. The tuatara is a lizard-like reptile said to be the sole survivor of an order of reptiles known as rhynchocephalis which flourished between 15 and 150 million years ago.

Vicar Attacks British Carolers

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — A Church of England vicar has attacked the time-honored English custom of children singing carols for pennies at Christmas.

"It is a racket and a racket, it encourages children to be spivs (sharpies) and there is no Christianity in it at all," the Rev. Guy Stanbridge of St. Peter's Church wrote in his parish magazine.

For those who just can't stop themselves from giving away pennies, he suggested:

"Try to get value for your money by telling the children they must sing the whole carol. You will find they know the first verses of only about three carols. A few know the second but beyond that, nothing."

Swedes Worried About Children

FLEN, Sweden (AP) — A local child care committee urged Swedish parents today to keep a sharper eye on their children after dark, asserting that juvenile sex relations are increasing among the Swedes.

As an example, the committee told of an unmarried, 13-year-old girl who gave birth to a seven-pound baby on Dec. 1 here in Flen, 50 miles southwest of Stockholm. The father is 14 years old.

"Several cases of sex relations involving children 12 to 15 years old have been reported lately to the committee," Chairman Martin Langstrom said.

Taft Understatement

We disagree with Sen. Robert Taft in describing as "incredible" President-elect Eisenhower's choice of Martin P. Durkin as Secretary of Labor. In our opinion the use of "incredible" as an adjective in this instance was a gross understatement.

As a matter of fact, Sen. Taft, himself, warned back in his September "armistice" statement of the probable inclusion of men of the Durkin stripe in policy-making posts if Ike got to be President.

At the time the Senator said he had no grudge against Eisenhower but that he did entertain doubts about the caliber of men surrounding the general. He foresaw the influence Tom Dewey, Sherman Adams, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., et al would have on Eisenhower. These men don't think like Taft; he distrusts them.

We agree with the Senator, however, in calling the selection of Durkin, head of the AFL plumber's union, as an "affront" to labor voters who backed the GOP ticket and to Democrats who jumped party lines to put Ike in the White House. We'll also buy the Taft-statement that the appointment leaves without representation in the cabinet those millions of Ike supporters and gives representation to their bitter opponents.

The Durkin nomination must pass Taft's Labor Committee before it goes to the Senate floor for confirmation but indications are that the Ohio Senators will not attempt to block the appointment. Like many of his colleagues, Taft is known to subscribe to the notion that a President should be permitted to have the men of his choice in his cabinet.

However, chances are Durkin will have to answer a lot of questions on the Taft-Hartley law and other labor issues propounded by the Senator. Taft is sure to want to sound out further — probably in private and public hearings — the man he described as a partisan Truman Democrat who opposed Ike's election and who advocated repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

The man to see about jobs in the Eisenhower cabinet has been Herbert C. Brownell, Jr., a Dewey confidant who has been named attorney general. Taft recommended two men to Brownell for the labor post. They were Clarence Manion, dean of Notre Dame University Law School, and John Danaher, former Senator from Connecticut, both men of sterling qualifications who appear to be better fitted for the key position than Durkin whose biased thinking on labor issues does not need exposition here.

But Brownell turned a deaf ear to the Senator's suggestions. Taft also made other cabinet recommendations but they too were discounted.

The one possible exception is Ezra Taft Benson, a distant relative of the Senator, who has been appointed secretary of agriculture. Taft had suggested Benson. Apparently others had too. In this case the Taft recommendation happened to coincide with suggestions made by men surrounding Eisenhower.

Until the Durkin appointment, Taft had the healthy capacity to laugh at the way his suggestions were being ignored in the formation of Eisenhower's official family. He'd tell friends, "At least I've got Cousin Ezra."

What happens next is anybody's guess. Whether Eisenhower and Taft patch things up or slug it out in pitched battle is a matter of conjecture at this point.

What a Difference!

An interesting sidelight on the enormous difference between free competitive economy and a controlled, politically bossed economy is found in a news item concerning a change in the British government's policy on selling gasoline.

There has been no competition in the sale of gas in England since 1939 — all of it has been marketed under a pool arrangement. The new policy will mark a return to competition so far as premium grades are concerned. Brand names will be authorized and the consumer will again have the right to take his pick.

The story said, "Now that competition is about to be reintroduced, the oil companies have started courses in training their employees in service and courtesy." The inference here is certainly plain. In the absence of competition, there is no need for service or courtesy — and if the customer doesn't like it he can lump it.

This also provides a revealing contrast with the way gas and other oil products are sold in the U. S. When the customer drives in, his windshield is cleared, his tires are inflated, his battery checked, and it's all done with a smile. If a dealer fails to come up to scratch, he soon finds that the cars are going right by instead of driving in.

This is true throughout all American industry, big and little. Competition forces enterprise to give us what we want, when we want it, at fair price.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

There is this squad called the Broadway Association, see. The boys in it are all nice white-collar fellows who would like to see a tawdry street cleaned up and made to shine. All I can say, after whirling at it for a quarter of a century or so, is that I'd rather have the Augean stables job, but if they think they can polish up the old artery it's fine with me. What I don't dig is that they are now crying out loud because they feel that strip-teasers may come back to Broadway. This horrifies them. How you can get horrified about strip-teasers on a street infested with glunks, gimmick guys, sidewalk tin razor blade peddlers, a few dope hustlers, dance joints, night clubs with naked dame pictures out front and a general air of running down hill?

I earn my buck on Broadway and side streets thereto and although it is not a buck that is going to blind Uncle Sam at income tax time, it is a buck that I value and it is the only buck I have. I would be the first to pick up a lance for the Broadway Association if I thought they were doing an all-out job. But when souvenir parlors, hat stitching pitches, peanut stands, fake perfume drops and a few other less than glowing enterprises infect the street without being tossed out on their ears, I can't get up in court and state my opinion that the Association is doing its job.

The complaint seems to be that a theater has set up in business with a line of ladies who do not mind shucking a few dollars in the name of entertainment. Well, I never thought it was entertainment, actually, unless it was Old Gyp up there making with profound jokes about Schopenhauer and issuing a few political opinions while making the customers think she was taking off clothes. The truth is that it was a mesmeric act that Gypsy Rose Lee had, in which she carried away into believing that garments were coming off. Margie Hart was another cerebral stripper more adept at throwing away ideas than her clothes. Ann Corio was another high-class and brainy ecstasist who talked their way off and thus diverted your attention from the fact that she hardly took off her hat. These were artists. The rest, with the exception of a candid young woman named Rose Lee, were amateurs and whatever divesting they did was more bore than bump.

Just how a man or an association of men can claim a case of the horrors when you can't walk two blocks on Broadway without seeing enterprises that would make Coney Island bilious is something I cannot understand, I would rather have three strip-teasers working a pitch than walk by a place printing phone headlines, usually of an erotic nature, on fake newspaper pages. I would rather have an entire troupe of strip-teasers than a necktie pitch where they will do anything you want on a necktie, including the frankest kind of nudes and the most erotic type of sentiments. Let the Association go look at some of the hand-painted neckties hanging openly in a Broadway window if it wants to be shocked. I am no Victorian, but I claim that any three such ties are more deplorable than twelve strip-teasers working in concert.

I know a man who owns bolts of erotically printed silk shantung, who knows where on Broadway you can buy erotic books or photographs, and if pressured I don't doubt that his talents exceed even those sordid services. I know an other man who orders hand-painted ties illustrating the tags on noted and commonly recognized dirty jokes. He gives these out to friends. And I know that narcotics are available on Broadway.

It is a little tiresome to see the Association getting expensive newspaper space describing its harrowed feelings over strip-teasers when anyone equipped with seven-year-old brains knows that "roadway is ankledeep in depravities, cheap crime and pandering to sick tastes. There are corners of Broadway in the 40's where unemployed kids packing $2 pistols hank out waiting for a victim or a lush. They are accompanied by teen-age little female mermaids who get a kick out of hanging around these baby hoodlums.

Let the Association start there.

BID FOR A SMILE

Mr. Peck's wife had just purchased a grandstand ticket for an auto show and she was forced to carry it for several blocks.

As he labored along under his burden a man stopped him and asked, "Wouldn't a watch be more convenient?"

Junior—Sister and I are going to play elephants at the zoo while Mother and Daddy are gone. You can play, too.

Baby—Sister—What on earth can I do?

Junior—You can be the lady who gives the elephants peanuts and candy.

I once visited a school where the mascot was a beloved hound dog. It was somewhat surprised to hear the mascot referred to as "Principles" by that name? I asked, "Why do you call your mascot by that name?" I asked, "Well, sir," a student explained, "he just creeps in and out of the rooms all day."

Several years later I returned to the same school and found the mascot sound dog. But now he was referred to as "Superintendent." I asked about the change of name.

National Whirligig.. Intra-Party Strife In Ranks Of Demos Threatens Difficulty

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Intra-party strife over the leadership posts in Senate and House threatens to contribute to the accumulating difficulties of the Democrats in the next session of Congress.

While the situation has not reached a stage of outright revolt, covert opposition has shown itself against the automatic selection of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson as minority boss in the upper chamber, and of Speaker Sam Rayburn as the party spokesman in the House.

In view of their futile support of Gov. Stevenson in the Lone Star State, it is argued that they do not represent the dominant element among the Democrats.

The problem is complicated further by the Southern members' apparent refusal to recognize Stevenson as their actual political boss. He made such a poor showing, vote-wise, that he is in no position to serve as a partial or impartial referee in the dispute.

The Democrats, for the moment at least, are wanting both a captain and a quarterback.

DEBACLE RESULT — As usual, it happens when the Democrats suffer from the kind of sweep that struck them on November 4, the nucleus of the party on Capitol Hill consists of members from the South, the Southwest and the border states. Naturally, they insist on greater recognition than they enjoyed during the Roosevelt and Truman regimes.

The new Senate line-up appears to support their contention. In the 32d Session there will be only 13 Senators from outside the South, the Southwest and the border area. There will be only eight Democrats representing the vast area east of the Mississippi River and north of the Mason and Dixon Line.

With the exception of two or three men, the non-Southerners generally supported the Roosevelt-Truman program of the last 20 years. Dixie's delegation, generally opposed it, save for international issues.

Therefore, the Rayburn-Johnson devotion to Stevenson in the recent campaign, and especially the GOP victory in Texas, appears to place them out of step with the party's representation in the legislative branch.

INFLUENTIAL GEORGIANS — Two extremely able and likable Georgians could step into the Senate and House leadership assignments, if they merely lift their fingers when Congress reorganizes next January.

They are Sen. Richard B. Russell, the South's presidential entry at the Chicago convention, and Representative Carl Vinson, acknowledged Capitol Hill authority on national defense questions. It is doubtful, however, if they would accept the honor and title, although they will swing more influence in minority circles than any rivals.

Messrs. Russell and Vinson will lose their chairmanship of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees, but they will be come ranking members on those bodies. Both are great admirers of President-elect Eisenhower. Both are deeply concerned over the problem of national and collective security.

They have indicated that they prefer to waive the leadership so that they might concentrate on these questions. If Sen. Johnson and Speaker Rayburn are chosen, it will be only through the two Georgians' forbearance. In any event, the real authority will rest in a coalition of Dixie Democrats in both chambers.

President-elect Eisenhower's political advisers showed their awareness of this division. They are reported to have attempted to persuade the general to offer the Treasury post to Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, and succeeded in the case of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Houston publisher, for the Federal Security post.

Ike's acknowledgment of their campaign support is the surest indication yet that the reorganized GOP will try to invade the South vigorously and permanently.

FILIBUSTER DILEMMA — Although President-elect Eisenhower has indicated that he will use his "influence" to break the Senate weapon against filibusters, which has been the South's reliance in preventing enactment of Civil Rights legislation, he will suffer a major defeat in the attempt. He may side-step the dilemma on the ground that revision of legislative rules lies outside his province.

Southern border states can muster approximately 28 votes against repeal or modification of Senate Rule XXII, the filibuster's protection. Although generally sympathetic to the proposed legislation, another 10 Democrats oppose any rule change.

They think that the system of unlimited debate should be preserved on the theory that it is the only means for talking bad bills to death. Had it not been for this device, F.D.R.'s scheme to "pack" the Supreme Court might have been enacted.

Twelve Republicans, possibly more, can always be mustered against any revision of Rule XXII, because of their belief in freedom of debate. It is extremely doubtful if a new President needing congressional support for his program will try to buck this array.

Mexico's Fiesta Land Where Nobody Seems To Do Anything

By HENRY McLEMORE

CUERNAVACA, MEXICO — If I were a Mexican there would be no column today. There would have been no column Friday. Or the day before.

This is the land of fiestas when no one does anything. It took me a little while to catch on. Our cook was the first to say, "One day Dolores said to me, 'We could have the day off. We asked her why and she said because it was a fiesta day. That was a fiesta day. On Tuesday she asked if she could have the day off. Once more we asked her why. She said it was a fiesta day.'"

She didn't ask for Wednesday off, but her husband, Jose, did. When we asked Jose why he wanted the day off, he said, "It was a fiesta day. On Tuesday he was here, every third day has been a fiesta day. Fiestas days come and go in Mexico almost as regularly as trains leave Grand Central."

Just what fiesta days are about, I don't know. I can understand the big ones, but the little ones leave me wondering. Children march. The band plays in the zocolo, or square. Every known type of banner flies. White banners, green banners, blue banners, red banners, and black banners.

Paper-mache arches, all of which sag and threaten to fall at any moment, hang over our little town's streets. Five and drum corps file and drum. Hundreds of people all day long. In the afternoon lottery tickets to give potlones.

Fiestas in Cuernavaca start at dawn with the firing of sky rockets, and by seven in the morning the little town is fully alive. Burros who have been beasts of burden are no longer used for such purposes. They are dressed like circus ponies. They have ribbons around their floppy ears and tassels here and there.

For any American living in Cuernavaca to deny his servants the full pleasure of a fiesta day would be to deny them a part of their life. We never give our servants such privileges as they have in Mexico. Our servants at home are not little children in their hearts, to whom an ice cream cone, a walk by the band in its silly bandshell, or 15 or 20 cents for a few minutes of their attention wouldn't buy, brings untold happiness to their hearts.

American servants are wise and knowing. They understand what a dollar is worth, know what they should be paid, when they should arrive, and when they should leave. They know that their children, Chucha and Gabriel, romp and play in the wide out-of-doors, and do go to school where they are learning, among other things, English.

They are proud of us, too. Both Jose and Dolores are pure Indians. Not a drop of blood that is foreign. When I talk with them, when I watch their bearing, I am reminded of the old phrase, "The only pure gentleman is an Indian in tatters."

As far as I am concerned, I am proud to know them. They have done me good.

That's all right by me, but I wonder if they are much ahead of the servants here. Dolores and Jose make about half as much as servants do back home. But they have their house. (For free in our country, a house is yours in 12 months a year under the sun. Their children, Chucha and Gabriel, romp and play in the wide out-of-doors, and do go to school where they are learning, among other things, English.)

They are proud of us, too. Both Jose and Dolores are pure Indians. Not a drop of blood that is foreign. When I talk with them, when I watch their bearing, I am reminded of the old phrase, "The only pure gentleman is an Indian in tatters."

As far as I am concerned, I am proud to know them. They have done me good.

It is certainly possible that the enlarged veins in such a case are not true varicose veins, but are inflamed, but such veins are more likely to be inflamed than normal ones.

Those who have varicose veins are more likely to have swollen feet or ankles than with normal feet. Also, the poor circulation can produce ulcers. These ulcers sometimes become enormous, causing destruction of the skin and large open sores.

Everyone is born with folds or valves in their veins which carry the flow of blood upward. These valves prevent the blood from falling back and help to hold up the column of blood. They are especially important in the legs, where the pressure of the blood in the veins is heavy because human beings stand upright.

If people stood on their hands instead of their feet, the valves in the veins of the arms would be just as important.

Over the years the pressure on the valves in the legs' veins is great and they are often broken down. When this happens the necessary support is lessened and the veins become swollen. Most of them are near the surface because they are near the muscles and other tissues around them and this helps to prevent the valves from breaking.

She was an unusual mother-in-law in that she loved her son-in-law almost as much as her daughter. So it was with deep regret that she had to stand by and see them argue so much. During one particularly violent session she interposed.

"Mother-in-Law, now, children, can't you agree with a will? Daughter—Oh, yes, we agree, mother. We both want Tom's pay advance."

So the problem of stabilizing the currency — stopping inflation — is not a simple one. Stabilization can never be accomplished unless our government as a whole has the courage to re-establish a fully redeemable money despite all protests from those who prefer history profits and wages to stark truth and a sound economy.

It's Your Money

John Beck

STABILIZING THE CURRENCY MAJOR PROBLEM: Among the major problems facing the new administration is that of stabilizing our medium of exchange—stopping inflation. In this endeavor it will meet with no end of opposition; and surprisingly enough, there will be opposition by the very sources from which one would expect support.

If and when a stabilized currency is established, the anguished cries will be long and loud. No more will false profits, due solely to the increasing supply of currency with respect to goods, appear on statements of business and industry and among our banking establishments. Strangely enough, many of our business and financial leaders apparently like to show profit even when they know that profit is false.

By the same token, many of our politicians will dislike an accurate measuring rod, for they will no longer be able to brag about the people that they serve. Their life insurance, bonds, etc. are being cut in half by the two to one ratio seems of small consequence. When we examine a situation very well ask, who is kidding whom?

FOOLING OURSELVES When the economic history of the past 50 years is finally written, it will be a story of a people who permit the substitution of fiat currency and a governmental managed economy, which is actually brought about through the manipulation of such a currency, to have been fooling only themselves. The people will learn, too, that prices cannot be stabilized by law, but will directly reflect the relationship between real production and the quantity of currency passing for money at any given time.

Ever since 1914 (the beginning of World War I) every country in the world has been suffering a series of currency depreciations. These depreciations have literally wiped out the savings of whole nations, which, in turn, has given rise to dictatorships and the resort to war as an artificial means of stimulating production.

During World War I the governments of central and eastern Europe destroyed the stability of their currency by going off the gold standard. Because of these nations were bankrupt from a currency and monetary standpoint at the conclusion of the war. By 1922 the worth of the Russian ruble, the German mark, the Austrian krona, and the currencies of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia were completely destroyed, and the savings of more than 275 million people had been wiped away.

U. S. JOINS FAIRADE On the winning side, France fared little better and the franc was devalued by 80 percent in order to re-constitute stability. Inflation in England was a bit milder but severe enough that a 40 percent devaluation of the pound sterling became necessary by 1931. The depreciation of foreign currencies had a deadly effect upon world markets. Trade diminished, and the effects of this finally reached the United States in the form of the Hoover depression.

In 1933, in an ill-advised move without even the vestige of a real excuse, we mimicked the British by devaluing our gold obligations and depreciating the worth of our currency. Our gold stocks at that time were quite sufficient to meet all demands for redeemability.

Devaluation by England in 1931, followed by the United States in 1933, brought on in 1936 a new wave of devaluation of the currencies of France, Holland, and Switzerland. By this time, in a period of 22 years following the beginning of World War I, the depreciation of currencies throughout the world averaged 42 percent.

The destruction of savings brought about by this inflation necessitated drastic moves on the part of governments involved to take the people's minds off their losses, and all the world drifted toward World War II.

The second world war brought on a new catalyst in the now irredeemable currencies of the world over. In the 13 years since the start of World War II the currencies of 13 different countries, having an aggregate population of more than 712 million people, have been completely destroyed. They are Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, China, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Japan, Korea, Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia. And during the past 12 years 20 other principal countries to include the United States, having a total population of more than 718 million people, have depreciated their currencies, trading, wage, and saving units by 50 percent or more of their former worth.

"During the last 27 months, under the increasing pressure of international re-armament, at least 55 currencies have undergone a technical devaluation, which is the technical expression for the much simpler term of partial or complete state bankruptcy" (page 4, 1951 Black Market Year Book, by Franz Pick).

So the problem of stabilizing the currency — stopping inflation — is not a simple one. Stabilization can never be accomplished unless our government as a whole has the courage to re-establish a fully redeemable money despite all protests from those who prefer history profits and wages to stark truth and a sound economy.

WORLD REVIVAL

"Revive Thy work, O Lord," is a prayer God delights to answer. I need a revival. My church needs a revival. My community needs a revival... the whole world needs a revival. Revivals come in the hearts of people, not in the evangelist's suitcase. Jesus said, "All power is given unto me... go ye, win disciples." Revivals keep God in and the devil out. They are a cure for the blues, a tonic for the soul, and an antidote for sin. We need a world revival.

"What's the matter, Baby? You've been so fidgety all evening"

RESPIRATOR MOTHER RUNS HOUSEHOLD BY PHONE — Mrs. Mary Ann Huff, 30, confined to a respirator for three years after polio struck, is one of the busiest mothers in Van Nuys, Calif. She orders groceries, clothing, even haircuts, by specially built telephone which she operates with her teeth. She can move her head side to side, otherwise she is totally paralyzed. Sons Hank, 8 (left), and Johnny, 5, look up telephone numbers for her. (AP Wirephoto)

California Woman Rears Her Children From An Iron Lung

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Ann Huff is rearing her children and running her household from an iron lung.

She does it by telephone. The pretty 30-year-old victim has been in the respirator for three years. She can move her head from side to side, just a little. Otherwise, she is totally paralyzed. But she is cheerful and full of hope, and she says her home runs as smoothly as it did before she was stricken. The mouthpiece of Mrs. Huff's phone is much like that of a headset, and is in a special mounting. It curves up along the left side of her face. On the other side is a switching gadget with a slim, sensitive lever. When she brushes this lever with her cheek she makes contact with a central operator, who takes her number. To disconnect, she grasps the lever with her teeth. The slight pull of this biting motion is sufficient to break the circuit.

Sons Look Up Numbers Her two sons, Hank, 8, Johnnie, 5, look up numbers for her. A list of important ones is based on the back of her respirator mirror. These include fire, police and other emergency numbers, so that she can safely be left alone for reasonable periods of time. "This has given me my first feeling of independence in three years," she said today. "I order the groceries by phone. I order the children's clothing by phone. If they aren't right, I send them back. I even tell the barber how I want him to cut Johnnie's hair."

Grandma Warns Of Two More Holdups LOS ANGELES (AP) — A letter from Grandma says she plans to rob a couple more banks. The gun-toting old gal figures that will set her soldier son, now in Korea, up in business when he gets home. During the past seven weeks, Grandma had held up three banks and escaped with about $4,000. An agent of the FBI reported receipt of a letter yesterday and expressed a view that its authentic. He declined to release the text, but said Grandma announced plans to rob two more banks — she didn't say when or where — and then retire. The FBI agent said many letters have been received in the Grandma case, but all others have been discarded as false. In this one, the writer says she really is a grandma — the tag given her when victims described the gunman as a small, wrinkled old woman.

Puppy Still Growing CLEVELAND (AP) — An 11-year-old girl complained to police that the "Chihuahua" pup she paid $30 for kept growing and growing until he became a terrier — or something. Karla Jean Emery told an officer her little (?) Petro now is nine pounds over standard Chihuahua weight and is still growing. The dog's former owner was summoned to appear in court next Monday.

IT'S YOUR DEAL
Try Poker With A New Flavor

Some of the wilder forms of Poker would not be very attractive if you tried to play them for a whole evening, but they make an exciting change when you play them two or three times an evening. One of the most interesting kinds of Poker for this purpose is the game known as "Low Hole Card Wild."
This game is usually played as a form of six-card stud poker. (The seven-card game is different, and perhaps we can discuss it some other day.)
In the six-card game you are dealt two cards down and one card up to begin with. The usual round of betting takes place, and you are then given another up-card. This process is continued until you have four up-cards in your hand.
At this time, if you are still an active player at the final showdown, you must name your best hand. The lower of your two hole cards is wild, and any card that matches your hole card is likewise wild. For example, suppose your hole cards are a deuce and a king. The deuce is wild, and so are any other deuces that you have been dealt as up-cards.
Just as in any game that has wild cards, the best possible hand is five of a kind, with five aces ranking as the best such hand. The next best hand is a straight flush, and thereafter the regular rules of Poker settle the rank of the hands.
The ace is usually considered either high or low, at the option of the player who holds it. For example, suppose you are dealt an ace and a deuce as your two down-cards. If you get additional aces among your up-cards, you would treat your ace-in-the-hole as your lower hole card, for then all of your aces would be wild.
If you get additional deuces as your up-cards, however, you would treat your ace-in-the-hole the higher hole card, in which case the deuces would all be wild.
In playing this game the important fact to remember is that some player at the table will surely have two or three wild cards by the final showdown. If you are not the player, you do not belong in the pot.
As a general rule, you should drop out of the pot unless you have two wild cards by the time you get your second up-card. In other words, you may be willing to stay for one round of betting even though you have not matched your low hole card. If you don't match your hole card on the next round, however, you then drop out.
