Solon Calls For Hearing With Mac

INVESTIGATED — A woman judge in Johnson City, Tenn., is attempting to explain to investigators why she committed two youngsters to the city jail rather than to a juvenile home. Mrs. Ben H. Taylor, judge of the juvenile court, said she assumed custody of the two boys, 3 and 5-years-old, shown here in jail, when she found them emaciated and sick. The boys spent 48 hours in jail before they were taken to the juvenile home. (NEA Telephoto)

Spies, Or Else . . . UN Threatened By Loss Of U.S. Money

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) threatened the United Nations last night with a loss of its biggest chunk of financial support — that from the United States — unless something is done to keep the subversives and spies out of the U. N. Secretariat.

But in making his threat, Wiley — who is slated to head the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the new Congress — made it clear he thinks a major part of the blame for alleged subversives still on the U. N. payroll lies with the American State Department.

Wiley said in a statement that congressional sentiment is building up to cut off U. S. money for the international organization "unless adequate security procedures have been worked out to guarantee that the U. N. and its organs do not remain a base for espionage and subversion."

The United States pays a little more than one-third of the U. N. bills and has contributed 50 million dollars to it since 1946.

Wiley is serving as a U. S. delegate to the U. N. Assembly, but he emphasized that he spoke only as a senator. The American delegation to the U. N. was taken back by Wiley's blast and had no comment.

Milk Fund Gets $230

An estimated $230 has been turned into the local banks in the past two days for contributions to the Pampa Milk Fund but officials maintained that more was needed.

Date for the exhaustion of funds had been designated for Tuesday by Ivey E. Duncan, fund chairman; but bank officials thought the added contributions would extend the deadline till Christmas-time, at least.

Pampa's second annual Milk Fund Week has been underway since Sunday and is scheduled to end Saturday. But fund and bank officials emphasized that while contributions were wanted this week—money would be accepted gladly afterward.

Contributions can be taken or sent to either local bank to be deposited in the "Milk Fund," according to Duncan. Salvation Army and county welfare board officers will file with the banks the names of families in need of milk assistance.

Orders will be given to Pampa dairies which, in turn, will present a bill at the end of each month. Bills will be paid as long as there are funds to cover.

Rogers Tells Canyon C-C Bureau Power Out Of Hand

CANYON — Rep. Walter Rogers told the annual Chamber of Commerce meeting "we have been asleep at the switch in allowing legislation to be passed for the sake of expediency that puts complete power into the hands of a board or bureau."

Rogers was the principal speaker last night at the annual banquet and installation of officers of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, attended by 250 members and visitors from other cities.

"Pampa congressmen said too many people think more about seeking temporary relief from some economic problem than what that temporary relief may amount to in years to come."

He cited interstate commerce rules and regulations as "shining examples."

The intent of the Constitution and the circumstances bringing the interstate commerce control into being were designed to prevent states from robbing each other by heavy tariffs when the nation was young. Today it has grown to the extent that a farmer or independent businessman can be defined into interstate commerce if he merely deals with someone who deals with another who eventual ships across a state line.

He also pointed to technicalities which prevent a man from defending himself in the courts, forcing him to appear before a board or bureau instead.

"There is something we must do about such things; there is something the Congress should do. But it cannot be done by just complaining. Each of us must sit down and think out a way to curtail these laws encroaching on our freedom," Rogers said.

Representing Pampa at the meeting held in the West Texas State College cafeteria were Lynn Boyd, president of the Pampa chamber; City Commissioner Crawford Atkinson; City Manager B. H. Cruce, and E. O. (Red) Wedgworth, manager of the Pampa chamber.

Segregation Issue Handed To Justices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of racial segregation in public schools now rests with the Supreme Court.

The bitterly disputed question which the court must answer: Do separate school systems for white and Negro students violate the Constitution?

Arguments ended yesterday. It may be several months before the court gives its answer. When it comes it will either reaffirm or overturn an 1896 decision which established the "separate but equal" doctrine that segregation is constitutional if equal facilities are provided for both races.

In five different cases, the highest tribunal is being asked to knock out that doctrine and hold that segregation itself is unconstitutional.

Involves Several States

The case came to the court from Kansas, South Carolina, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

In all 17 states and the District of Columbia have laws making separate schools for Negroes and whites mandatory. Four states permit local boards to provide separate schools.

The crux of the argument against a court decree outlawing segregation is that nothing has happened since the 1896 decision to cause an upswing of the "separate but equal" doctrine and that the question of integrated or separate schools is solely within the province of the states.

Not so, replied attorneys representing Negro litigants, most of them under sponsorship of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Amendment Cited

They insisted during the three days of argument that the Constitution, particularly the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment, makes it unlawful for states to require white and Negro children to attend separate schools.

In two of the cases — those from Kansas and the District of Columbia — no issue was raised as to the equality of Negro schools. In the three other cases it figured, but only because it had been an issue in the lower courts.

Attorneys representing South Carolina, Virginia and Delaware told the court that facilities for Negro students either were up to par with those for white students or that programs were under way to bring them to (See SEGREGATION, Page 10)

County's Response Slow In USO Drive

Gray County residents were responding slowly to the annual USO drive here as only $10 and a few pledges were received by Mickey Ledrick, county USO drive chairman.

The drive for funds started here Sunday with Ledrick appointed chairman. Ledrick, at that time, said he would attempt to reach the county goal of $5 for every one of the 947 servicemen in the armed forces without setting up an organization.

"Everybody has been giving so much of their time to other drives, I just couldn't ask them again," he told reporters.

Ledrick said he wanted to complete the drive before the first of the year, if possible, and asked all those who want to contribute to send their check or money order to:

BITTERLY CRITICAL — President Truman, left, tells a news conference in the Old State Department that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, like any decent man, should give him his solution to the Korean war. Eisenhower Steers Clear Of MacArthur-Truman Fight

HONOLULU (AP) — President-elect Eisenhower, relaxing in bright Hawaiian sunshine from his Korean tour and policy-shaping talks, was steering clear today of any fight between President Truman and Gen. MacArthur over a peace plan for Korea.

Eisenhower planned to play at least 18 holes of golf today on the windswept course alongside the sea at Kaneohe, the Marine Corps air station across Oahu Island from Honolulu.

He also planned talks with John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate, and Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon, Eisenhower selection as secretary of the interior.

Two close associates predicted Eisenhower would shun public controversy with the President. Truman yesterday called the Eisenhower mission to Korea a "piece of political demagoguery" and said it was MacArthur's duty as a soldier to report to the President if he has any plan for peace in Korea.

The White House announced last night the resignation of John Leighton Stuart, 76, who has held the post of ambassador to China since 1946 but has not been active since mid-1949. He then came home for consultation, shortly later became ill and has not returned.

Stuart in a resignation letter dated Nov. 28, said he assumed Eisenhower "will wish to have a completely free hand in selecting diplomatic representatives."

In view of the oft-expressed Republican concern about U. S. relations with the government on Formosa, it is considered probable that the Eisenhower administration will send an ambassador there shortly after taking office.

The United States has not had an ambassador there since the government fled to the island in 1949.

Attack And Then Slide Under . . . Leagues Of Thick Polar Ice Said No Bar To Atomic Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leagues of thick polar sea ice which stand between the northern rims of the Western Hemisphere and Eurasia may be no barrier to the atomic submarines of the U. S. is now building.

That was made evident today by replies from the Navy to questions about the nuclear engine submarines it is now developing — submarines in which the crew as well as the boat can remain deep down for days, weeks or possibly months.

The northern approach to the mainlands of Russia and Canada, for example, always had been closed by the great areas of frozen seas or unyielding pack ice through which no craft could force its way — until the advent of long range planes.

Hide Under Frozen Sea

But an article written for Collier's magazine by Rear Adm. Homer Wallin, chief of the Bureau of Ships, spoke cryptically of the ability of atomic submarines to launch guided missiles with atomic warheads and then slide silently beneath the waves "or ice" to reappear at another point to launch another attack.

A reporter who asked Navy officials about this was told: "It is possible for even conventional submarines to operate under ice. Since a conventional submarine's submerged endurance is limited by its batteries, and it must have air for operating its engines to recharge its batteries, it has a limited endurance for under ice operation."

"The Nautilus (first of the atomic powered boats to be started), which will be independent of the earth's atmosphere, will, therefore, be able to operate under ice for longer periods of time. It makes no difference whether the ice is solid or mushy as long as there is sufficient depth of water beneath the ice to permit submarine operation."

The Arctic Sea apparently has (See POLAR ICE, Page 10)

No Messiah Rehearsal

A Messiah rehearsal will not be held today, according to Roy Johnson, director of the group presenting the program at 4 p. m. Sunday.

However, Johnson said, a rehearsal is scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Methodist Church sanctuary.

End To Curbs Is Demanded

SEATTLE (AP) — Elimination of wage and price controls, a curb on the federal sale of electrical power and return of title lands control to coastal states were demanded in closing sessions of the American Farm Bureau Federation convention here yesterday.

Action on these matters came as the federation's delegates stamped their approval on a 72-page report by the Resolutions Committee.

The delegates also endorsed flexible farm price support and criticized monopolistic power by "industry, labor, agriculture or the government itself."

Labor came in for a separate going over in a report on labor-management relations which noted what it called the trend toward labor monopoly.

The attack on price and wage controls came in a section of the committee's report devoted to national economic policies. The controls, it said, "have no place in this co-ordinated attack on the inflation problem . . . Price and wage controls impede the control of inflation by diverting attention from the fundamental requirements of a sound program."

"By wasting manpower, creating confusion and disrupting business procedures and relationships, ceilings make the job of getting necessary production vastly more difficult."

Dreams Wiped Out By Polio

CHICAGO (AP) — Two months ago Thomas Michiels, 31, appeared ready to fulfill his dream of acquiring a new home for his family and a fine practice as a dentist. Today he is paralyzed from the neck down, and may never practice again.

His wife is in even more serious condition, completely paralyzed and in a respirator. Their son, Robert, 5, is paralyzed below the waist.

Polio did it.

Michiels put all his savings into opening the dental office in suburban Park Ridge, commuting more than 30 miles daily from his home on Chicago's far South Side. In the few weeks he was able to practice before polio struck, he made fast friends.

While the Michiels' two other small sons, who escaped the disease, are being cared for by grandparents, his new friends went to work and set up the Dr. Thomas A. Michiels fund. So far have raised $600.

Immediate Session On Plans Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo.) proposed today an immediate extraordinary session of the Senate Armed Services Committee to look into Gen. Douglas MacArthur's views on ending the Korean War.

President Truman, with some barbed remarks about both MacArthur and President-elect Eisenhower, rejected yesterday a senator's suggestion that he call the two men to the White House to discuss Korea.

Truman said, among other things, that he doubts MacArthur has hit upon any new way to peace, and that he still thinks Eisenhower's campaign announcement that he would go to the Korean War zone was demagoguery.

Truman's words drew some GOP cries of "arrogant" and "slandersous" in Capitol Hill. Hunt taking no part in that row, told a reporter:

"I would like to see Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) call either or both generals to Capitol Hill to brief the armed services committee."

Russell is the committee chairman who presided over the 1951 Senate investigation of the President's firing of MacArthur as Allied Commander in Korea and the Far East. He is out of the city.

Hunt said he thought Congress should be "informed and consulted" at once if there is any new plan to end the war. "This is not a matter that I believe should wait until the new Congress convenes on Jan. 3," Hunt said. "And I am convinced most members of the committee would be able and more than willing to return to Washington on such an important mission."

Would Endorse Plan

The idea drew support from another committee member, Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.), who said in a separate interview: "I would endorse the plan if Sen. Russell sees fit to call a meeting of the committee."

Stennis also declined to comment specifically on Truman's remarks about MacArthur and Eisenhower, but he said he disapproves of the way the whole matter has been handled.

"Someone ought to do some peacemaking and bring these men together," Stennis said. "There should be no controversy about whether and when to consider any plan to bring this war to an early and honorable conclusion. But equally it should have been discussed secretly and at high military levels before there was a public announcement that it might even exist."

Haefs Heads Back To Prison Saturday

An official from the state penitentiary in Stillwater, Minn., arrived in town this morning to pick up Lowell John Haefs, a 30-year-old convict who was captured in Burger by Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard.

According to Sheriff Rufe Jordan, Haefs is scheduled to begin his journey back to prison early Saturday morning.

Having served one year of a 12-year sentence for first-degree grand larceny (paw theft) Haefs escaped from the Minnesota institution eight months ago and was caught by Haggard and three Hutchinson County deputies early Saturday morning.

Chinese Force Smashes Back To Hill Posts

SEOUL (AP) — About 750 Chinese Reds smashed back to the peaks of Big and Little North Hills on the flaming Western Front today, only two hours after rugged South Koreans captured the strategic heights in a bloody, hand-to-hand battle.

Fiercely fighting Chinese swept up the slopes of the two hills in a two-pronged drive shielded by cover of darkness and a devastating Communist artillery and mortar barrage.

The valiant First Republic of Korea Division earlier had seized Big and Little North, in the sixth of a series of bloody counterattacks in savage, day-long fighting.

The Air Force said its pilots flew about 150 separate missions in the general area of Big and Little North. Pilots said they hit a huge supply and troop depot that rocked with five violent explosions. Seven fires were started.

Thousands of bursting shells from Allied planes, tanks and artillery scorched the slopes of North's two hills.

Hundreds of dead and wounded of both sides littered the peaks.

Final Preparations Made For Unveiling Of Nativity Scenes

Preparations for the Nativity Scene lighting ceremony tonight were completed this morning, E. O. Wedgworth, manager of the Chamber of Commerce reported.

Wedgworth said a long rope has been strung along the hill of the park just above the scenes to be lighted. The audience is being asked to remain behind the rope so everyone will be able to see the full progression of the program.

The various scenes are so set that crowding in close at one end or the other, or in the middle, will prohibit the watcher from seeing the co-ordination of the lighting.

A platform has been erected in front of the park shelter house for the combined choir and those who might wish to join it for the carol singing.

The program will start at 7 p. m. and should last until 7:30 or 8 p. m., Wedgworth said.

Rev. Loye C. Albright, president of the Ministerial Alliance will serve as master of ceremonies. Dr. Douglas Nelson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church will be the narrator.

Ever Hear These?

In a newspaper column recently was a list of things "husbands don't hear."

- Here are a few that should be added to it: "I don't know what to wear to the Jones' party Saturday night. Whether to wear the blue taffeta, or the black velvet, or the gray faille. Any of them would be perfect. I guess I've bought too many clothes this season." "Let's not go out to dinner. I'd really rather stay home."

"Here's the money you left me this morning. I didn't need it."

"We've got more closet space in this house than we need."

"I heard some gossip today, but I promised not to tell a soul. So of course I can't repeat it to you."

"You're so much more thoughtful of me than you were when we were first married."

"I've invited Miss so-and-so to the party. She is so pretty and it's always nice to have an extra woman, especially one the men all find attractive."

"It wasn't a bargain. I just bought it because my sales resistance was weak."

"The house is perfect just the way it is. I don't want to make any changes."

"Of course I remembered to sew the button on your coat. I sat right down and fixed it before I did another thing."

"A woman's life is certainly a lot easier than a man's."

"You say you're going to quit betting on the ball games just because you've lost on three games in a row. After all, you can't expect to win all the time."

"Of course, I'm not upset because you forgot our wedding anniversary. With all you have on your mind, it's no wonder you forgot."

Village For Sale

Like to buy a small town, cheap? There's a neat, 300-home village in the hills of Tennessee that you can probably get for a song, because the residents are all moving away. In a few weeks, almost every house and store will be vacant.

The wage-earners all lost their jobs last week. Except for a few farmhands, every man in the village got his notice.

One man made them move. Not a plague, or a gold strike, or a war calamity. Just one bushy-browed prodder named...

The town is Royal Blue. It is a model coal town. The company owns the houses, which are exceptionally clean and well-built, and furnishes the jobs. Or it did until now. But it wasn't the "prosperous mine owner" who fired 300 men and their families.

Eloquent John L. Lewis, master labor relations strategist, after weeks of skillful preparation did the hatchet work when he presented this year's wage demands. He asked that the basic wage of $16.35 for an eight-hour, portal-to-portal day be increased $1.90, and that the mine owners pay 40 cents instead of 30 into the pension fund for every ton of coal produced.

Traditionally, in the desperately competitive fuel business, coal prices have been raised to cover wage increases. Lewis has made the coal supply so uncertain with his damaging industry-wide strikes, and the prices so high, that natural gas and oil are threatening the life of the coal industry.

Each price increase chips off more coal customers, and adds them to the growing pool of oil or gas consumers.

This year's demands are forcing the companies to shave their profits. In many cases, though, because there are no profits left after paying the higher wages the mines must be closed.

That's what happened at Royal Blue. Higher wages and fringe benefits would have cost about $14,000 extra cash each month.

That is more than the profits.

So the price of mining towns is coming down. Lewis is pricing his miners right out of them.

Laugh Of The Month

Popping off without bothering to give the brain a chance to think seems to be a trait common among politicians, especially the variety grown and cultured in Washington.

Now comes U. S. Representative Hoffman (R-Mich.) who says Congress should be given the power to limit the amount of editorial space that a newspaper can use to back a candidate in political campaigns.

In most newspaper circles editorial space means that space which is devoted to opinion. Usually a newspaper does not devote more than one page to that type reading. However, there is a possibility that the Congressman was referring to all space besides that devoted to advertising.

Regardless of what the gentleman from Michigan was talking about the whole thing is absurd. First, without doubt, it would be unconstitutional and in the second place it would be impossible to police every newspaper in the country.

It is no one's business except the publisher and editor of the newspaper how the space in his paper is used. If the reader doesn't agree with the political stand of the newspaper, he needs't read it.

It would seem that our friend Mr. Hoffman has had a run in with the press at some time or another. We would venture a guess that he was probably on the short and editorially at one time or another.

This thing is not so much a matter of freedom of the press, because we don't think that Hoffman's hair-brained idea will get any further than it has, but it does give us a line on the "thinking" of our congressmen.

SPOTLIGHT FOR THE NATION

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT ONLY EFFECTIVE PROTECTION AGAINST "TREATY LAW"

By FRANK E. HOLMAN

The result of all the dicta and decisions of our courts, coupled with the avalanche of United Nations treaties now being proposed, many of the provisions of which, if valid, would supersede or override our Constitution as well as our domestic laws, has been to lead to the conclusion on the part of many lawyers, including the American Bar Association, that the only way to make sure that a treaty shall not authorize what the Constitution forbids is to adopt a Constitutional Amendment stating this proposition in plain and simple English. The treaty-makers and the courts, as well as the American people, will then at long last know and recognize that there is no further doubt that a treaty, like a law of Congress, to be valid must not violate any provision of the Constitution.

In connection with this grave issue it should be pointed out clearly that if our law on the question is not settled and we drift along to where, following the doctrine of Missouri v. Holland, it is established by the courts that a treaty can change or amend the Constitution of the United States, then the "internationalists" can by treaties accomplish the following results:

- (a) Change our form of government from a Republic to a socialistic and completely centralized state. (b) They can put us into a World Government without the people either directly or through the Congress passing on the question. (c) It can increase the powers of the Federal Government at the expense of the States. For example, in the so-called field of civil rights, a treaty can do what the Congress has theretofore refused to do. The Congress has to date refused to enact the President's Civil Rights Program. To get around this, in spite of Congress, the President's Committee on Civil Rights now proposes that the Human Rights Commission of the United Nations incorporate the President's program in treaty form and thus circumvent the Congress (Civil Rights Commission Report, paragraph 10).

(d) A treaty can seriously affect our basic individual rights as, for example, the right of a citizen to be tried in American courts and under the protection of "due process." This was openly admitted in the Report of the American League of Nations for the Adoption of International and Cooperative Law to the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association in February, 1952, where it was stated:

"So far as the requirement of indictment by grand jury and trial by jury are concerned, these apply only to trials in the federal courts, and can have no application to an international court set up by a group of nations in the exercise of their treaty-making power—there is no reason why such courts may not be created in the exercise of the treaty-making power."

In other words, it is already being claimed, that under the treaty-making power provisions may be made for the trial of American citizens abroad, for offenses committed here, by methods and in places (See Sixth Amendment) which the Constitution forbids.

Our forefathers fought a revolution that we might be free and independent to make our own laws and to govern ourselves. But now with the turn of the wheel of fate and through the United Nations organization our laws are to be made by and through treaties concluded in the United Nations where the representatives of other nations have a majority vote.

We are taxed to pay the expenses of these new lawmakers for we pay a very large part of the expenses of the United Nations and its various agencies. As already pointed out under the provisions of the Genocide Convention and the proposed new treaty for an International Criminal Court, our citizens are to be transported overseas for trial. Make no mistake about it, this, and much more, is to be written into those who would govern us by "Treaty Law."

Benjamin Franklin once said: "Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety, deserve neither liberty nor safety."

Americans in their great desire for safety and peace should not be fooled into sacrificing either their individual freedoms or their integrity as a nation, for we can easily lose our rights and freedoms in the entanglements of international commitments and agreements if we permit our basic rights under the Constitution and our own Bill of Rights to be rewritten, leveled out, compromised and confused by nebulous and ambiguous United Nations "treaties."

We can also lose our independence and integrity as a nation financially, politically, militarily—through loose and general international commitments by passing such Constitutional provisions as that giving Congress the sole power "to declare war," which power now in the Korean situation seems to have been taken over by the President acting by and through the Security Council of the United Nations.

The only effective protection against all these dangers is a "Treaty Law" is an appropriate Constitutional Amendment. The text of the Constitutional Amendment should be designed to do at least three things, which, stated in simple language are as follows:

- 1. No treaty is to be effective until implemented by legislation. (This merely puts the United States on a par with other nations as to the initial effect of a treaty.) 2. No such legislation shall be valid if contrary to or in excess of the powers delegated to the Fair Enough...

Editors Get Verbal Spanking For Attitude Toward Industry

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The National Association of Manufacturers would put this nation deeper in its debt if it would get up the manhood to talk back to the impetuous and personal veils of journalism who have been waging a constant drive against "industry" ever since the great panic of 1929. Journalism, itself, would be the better for a little ceasing from a turning worm.

As I often do, I looked in upon the annual consistory of the NAM held at the Waldorf, and felt a compassion for American "industry," one of the greatest forces for material and moral good in all the world. These men, and the really priceless institution which they represent, take hypercritical abuse and suffer the infliction of supercilious compliments, diluted with its and built from the great American press when they should rear back and tell this pompous mountebank to look to its own defaults and venialities.

Who the devil is this great American press, that is its moral credentials, that it sneers that industry has abandoned the "public be damned" policy and that rascal captains of commerce are now perforce, but only perforce, reconciled to a fine new social "pattern" in which "labor" is treated with a deference too long withheld. What service does the press give that compares in any way to the service performed by "industry"?

This press, itself, is commerce. It is managed by men no more intelligent, noble, honest nor generous than so many manufacturers picked at random. From fear of the insensate "opinion" of a public which it knows too well to respect, this press threw in with the covert Communist campaign, managed through Roosevelt, his wife and their anonymous intimates 20 years ago, which had for its intermediate purpose the very subjugation of the people and the material assets of our country which today is a goal of Soviet slavery. The preliminary phases of that slavery are apparent even today in the status of the subjects of Dave Dubinsky, of the late Phil Murray and of Walter Reuther in the unions which his very press commends.

Upon what meat have these, our monitors, been fed that, being themselves either anonymous or notorious but rarely famous for moral courage, probity and brains, they praise American industry only with qualified compliments which should be unacceptable by decent men? Will you name some editors who tower over manufacturers?

This press has been guilty of sullen suppression of the truth of unionism. It has printed false doctrine that "good" unions were compatible with good American constitutional principles, knowing that the one concept warred upon the other and has never met the challenge to name one good union because it can't.

Our press knows that all unions are basically private clubs intent upon getting more money and other advantages for their members at the expense of all the rest of our people. Our press knows that the most dangerous of the unions are now intruding in the internal politics of many foreign countries with the connivance and financial support of our own government exactly as Soviet Russia meddled in our affairs. Our press has ignored this except to belittle the information.

The press demeaned the passing of Philip Murray whose one act in calling the steel strike this year was worse in all its effects than all the crimes of the whole undergraduate body of Alcatraz. It was an irresponsible, impudent violation of the sovereignty of the nation, of several of the states and of millions of our people which cost us countless millions. Yet Murray's political heirs have volumes of editorials whose whole content of genuine righteousness would not equal the fearless anger of one local paper against some drunken driver who had killed a child.

American industry can hold its head up in any congress of editors. It has fought harder than the press and suffered more for the freedom of people and I know of no expression by any editor

McGranery Belatedly Submits List Of 'Front' Groups In U. S.

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON In the Truman administration's belated attempt to expose and eliminate Communist influence at Washington and throughout the country, Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery is preparing a new drive against the insidious "front" groups which have enlisted so many respectable and patriotic Americans in Stalin's dirty work.

The Department of Justice compiled a comprehensive list of more than 100 of these organizations during the regime of former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGranery. But the compilation was made in a hurried, hysterical and slipshod manner, largely to answer congressional charges that the administration had been indifferent to this menace. It was a counter-offensive to the Hiss-Chambers revelations.

NEW LIST — This arbitrary method of red-listing dangerous groups was condemned by the Supreme Court in a recent unnoted but far-reaching decision. When the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee of New York contended in court that it had been booked by the D. C. without any hearing as to its status, the high tribunal condemned the government's procedure. As a result, McGranery is making out a new list, and will create an administrative board which will hear any complaints by alleged "front" units that they have been listed wrongfully. In order to comply with the Supreme Court's ruling, the FBI and other protective agencies are now combing the Communist "underground" as it has never been ransacked in the past.

DIFFICULT TASK — Unfortunately, the task of identifying and labeling and prosecuting Stalin's secret organizations has become more difficult because of the long delay in attacking the problem. During the period when Truman was ridiculing the Hiss investigation on Capitol Hill as a "rod herring," they have had plenty of time to disperse, to adopt a new false front and to hide their tracks. Many of the liaison men with Moscow have escaped to Mexico, Caribbean and South American countries, where they have set up cells of anti-American activity and propaganda. These same areas were fertile fields for Hitler's agents before 1939.

SACB RULING — McGranery can not release his new compilation, however, until the Subversive Activities Control Board hands down a final and official decision that the American Communist Party is controlled by and responsive to the Politburo in the Kremlin. Until then, there will be no judicial procedure or effective machinery for defending both active and merely sympathetic Reds in the United States. After a stormy nine months' hearing, a SACB panel ruled in late October that the Communist Party in this country was an active agency which took orders and funds from Stalin. But this ruling cannot become valid until it has been okayed by the full board, which is headed by Peter Campbell Brown of Brooklyn, N.Y.

In view of the damaging evidence submitted to the panel by government investigators and lawyers, full approval is expected soon.

COMPREHENSIVE — Once SACB has acted, there will be a definite and comprehensive check, perhaps for the first time, on both the central Red group, as well as its social, economic and philanthropic "fronts."

All these units will be required to register and make periodic reports on their financial contributions and expenditures, which will enable the federal police to maintain a vigilant watch on the Red-network's ramifications. They can be penalized severely for the slightest violation of the law.

JUDICIAL OPERATION — When the new method comes into force McGranery will forward to SACB the names of organizations alleged to be working openly or secretly on behalf of Russia. Then SACB, after a semi-judicial and open hearing, will decide whether the McGranery indictment is supported by the evidence.

Thus, seven long years after Russia's subversive operation against and within the United States were recognized and exposed, we will have in operation an effective but wholly judicial American system for checking the Communists within our borders.

MOMENT OF CONFUSION — It has frequently been charged that the United States has been confronted with "crisis after crisis" since 1933. That gloomy word seemed to be a favorite with Roosevelt-Trustman bureaucrats and politicians. It looks as if Eisenhower will banish it from the federal dictionary, however.

When the AFL-CIO labor chiefs recently conferred with him in New York City, the President-elect read the statement they planned to issue after the meeting. "I note," he smiled, "that you say I am taking office 'at a moment of crisis.' I would prefer that you use the phrase, 'at a moment of confusion.'"

Who said that Ike wasn't a "politician"?

LOOKING SIDeways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

Although I have never seen a shot fired in anger or in war, I seem to collect war correspondents as philatelists collect stamps. One of the outstanding braves is Bill Stapleton, a large, young and energetic war reporter built loosely upon the lines of an All-American tackle who moves a full life with the conviction that food and excitement must be scrounged for, since they are likely to be scarce. Bill was assigned to Korea early in the tumult and had earned a trip back to the United States. He got as far as Tokyo and the warm, friendly rooms of the War Correspondents' Club when a terse cable informed him that all heck our forces into the heart of Seoul, retreat. Not overwhelmingly dashed by this disaster at his vacation, he flung on his oversize trench coat and walked, with sure knowledge, to the food bar where he rifled the books of chess and saw a battle plan was a madhouse in which food for anyone would be a matter of opportunity and he did not intend to miss a bite or two. Into the valise-sized pockets were a bread, a round of salami and other delicacies warranted to keep Bill alive until a sniper's bullet got him.

He talked out to the military airport, snagged a ride on a flying boxcar bound for the vicinity of Seoul and soon was there, the giant plane sliding down on a blacked-out runway without mishap. Crawling out into the dark, Bill slogged his way into the heart of Seoul, stumbling over stones and masses of masonry hidden in the blackness. In time, footsores and weary of this bumping around in the dark, he faintly saw the broken outlines of a wrecked building. Three walls still stood in fair condition but the fourth was ragged and torn. The result was that the interior of the gutted structure made a sort of uncomfortable courtyard and Bill, who had had enough for awhile, eased his way into it intent on rest and a sandwich.

He scarcely had got in when, out of the dark, a tired voice said: "Who's there?" in English.

"Relax," said Bill, "and keep your gun to yourself, I'm an American." He added a few qualifying words which were meant to implement the fact that he was, indeed, an American and the young soldier who had challenged him sat back down on an edge of concrete that had fallen. The boy was dejected, bored, tired and annoyed. A rain had started to fall in hard gusts of accompanying wind and the soldier was thoroughly bilious about Korea, war, wreckage, nights and rain. He had had it.

Bill took a seat opposite him on another cut of stone and, after awhile, was able timidly to see the boy's features. They were strained and unutterably weary. Neither said much and neither struck a light for a cigaret. The rain sluiced down.

Tell her how important it is to you to live far enough out in the country to be able to have a little corner for a garden. You won't have to go very far out of town to find a little bit of land. Compromise on the size of your plot so that you won't have to be so far away from the activities your wife enjoys. See that a car will be available for her to get back and forth to town. She doesn't have to be within walking distance if you have a car. She will soon learn to readjust her life to having to market in the car.

You should be able to provide her with a means of transportation if you do move out of town. Would it be possible for you to acquire a little place out in the country where you could spend part of your time if your wife refuses to leave the town? Many people do live in town with a small place for farming in the nearby country. A very small place would do to house you and you could garden to your heart's content. Then when you would return to town you would be able to look upon it with more tolerant eyes.

Farm Costs May Go Up

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Farmers are apt to feel the cost-price squeeze even more next year an agriculture official says.

O. V. Wells, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, forecast that next year "farmers generally are going to become increasingly conscious of a cost-price squeeze and that net realized income of farm operators could be down some, perhaps as much as five per cent."

Wells addressed the Texas Farm and Ranch Credit School for commercial bankers.

Wells said he expects the farm outlook next year to be just about the same as it was this year.

But the Department of Commerce official predicted farm prices are likely to be mixed—with some commodities lower than this year—while farm costs are likely to creep upward.

Prices and costs paid by farmers in the future probably will remain "relatively firm" for several years, Wells noted. "Certainly farm costs will decrease slowly if at all," he said.

His forecast more cattle and calves are likely to be moved in 1953 and wheat stocks are expected to increase materially by July 1, 1953, as compared with the corresponding date of this year.

Traffic Group Meets Dec. 12

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tavern owners here will be urged to offer holiday tipplers "one for the road"—a free cup of coffee.

And the boss will be asked to see that a way home is supplied everyone who takes on too much liquor at the office Christmas party.

The idea was developed at a conference of Washington and Maryland traffic leaders and members of the liquor industry.

The object: to cut down the Christmas traffic death rate. The plan is local but the problem is nation-wide, December is the worst month for traffic accidents.

Able Air Force General Likes To Do The Job Himself

By PHILIP CLARKE

LONDON (AP)—A motorist drove into a Washington, D. C., service station one day last year and asked a man in greasy overalls to check his balky engine.

With an expert's touch the man replaced a faulty sparkplug and accepted 75 cents from the grateful motorist.

The man in overalls was Maj. Gen. Francis H. Griswold, United States Air Force, who had dropped in at the station to grease his own car.

Gen. Griswold, "Butch" to his closest friends, has always liked to do the job himself—whether it's tinkering with a car engine, piloting a plane or running the U. S. Third Air Force in Britain.

Can't See Enemy

When Griswold was named commanding general of the Third last May it meant coming back to a land he knew in 1943 as chief of staff of the famed Eighth Fighter Command.

"In a hot war," says Griswold, "you know your enemy. You know who you're shooting at. It's tougher in a cold war. You don't see your enemy."

But Griswold, a 48-year-old officer with 22 eventful years service in the Air Force, is tackling cold war problems of his command as he does all the other problems—head on.

A blunt talking, ruggedly built man, Griswold doesn't like to make public speeches. But in two days recently he flew to 15 major bases under his command to lecture American airmen on the importance of Anglo-American relations.

Griswold is no "paper general." When a problem pops up, he's likely to order his staff plane ready on 30 minutes' notice for a quick trip to see for himself.

Arrives Early

He arrives early and stays late at his neat-as-a-pin office at Third Air Force headquarters at South Ruislip, 12 miles west of London. He has a big job—responsibility for the 45,000 men and their 15,000 dependents, 28 installations and the secret hundreds of planes that make up the Third Air Force today.

But he still finds time to tear down and tune up the engines of his two English cars—mostly just for the fun of it.

He and his wife, the former Jeff Bradley Sutherland of Harrodsburg, Ky., take quiet pride in their two pretty daughters, Mary, 18, studies French at the Sorbonne in Paris, Marie, 16, goes to the Sadler's Wells Ballet School in London.

Griswold was born Nov. 5, 1904, in Erie Pa. He attended Columbia University and Ohio State University.

Rose Rapidly

He enlisted in the Air Corps cadet training program at 24 and won a reserve commission as a second lieutenant a year later. He got his regular commission at 26 and began a rapid rise in service in Hawaii, at Langley Field, Va., and at Maxwell Field, Ala. When Pearl Harbor came, he was a major in the Fourth Interceptor Command at Riverside, Calif.

A lieutenant colonel a year later, he was transferred to Air Corps headquarters in Washington as chief of the fighter branch and it was Col. Griswold when he transferred to the war's air front in England in 1943 as chief

Winds Trouble Rescue Party

ABERDEEN, Wash. (AP)—Rising winds early today spelled trouble for Coast Guard boats attempting to pull the grounded freighter Yorkmar free from its sandy berth off the mouth of Grays Harbor.

A Weather Bureau report said 30 to 45 mile an hour winds would continue to buffet the 7,207-ton Liberty ship through Thursday, complicating if not preventing a hoped for attempt to drop a messenger line aboard from a helicopter.

The vessel, inbound to the harbor from San Francisco, grounded 24 miles west of here Monday, suit without giving East the lead.

Unfortunately for declarer, East put up the jack of diamonds and subsequently won the third round of that suit. A heart continuation then gave the defenders three tricks in that suit to defeat the contract.

South should have seen the danger of a heart shift at very first trick. The correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of spades and go right after the diamonds.

East gets one diamond trick and can take two spades, if he chooses to do so. Dummy's eight of spades will then provide a second stopper in the suit. No matter what East does, however, he cannot prevent declarer from winning four diamonds, three clubs, and two aces.

Says Red Thinkers Redoubling Efforts

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) says he believes "Communist thinkers" are redoubling their efforts "to infiltrate the new administration" of President-elect Eisenhower.

"The efforts of Communist thinkers to infiltrate the new administration will be redoubled—as they are being redoubled today," McCarthy said at a luncheon given in his honor "yesterday by the Joint Committee against Communism. Although he said he did not know of any specific instances, he said, "It's the logical thing for them to do."

Watch Finesses To Win Bridge Games

The unnecessary finesse is one of the crimes most commonly nesses in the very first bridge player. A good friend of mine, now happily an expert bridge player, took four unnecessary finesnes in the very first bridge hand he ever played in his life. He lived to tell the tale, but he can still remember some of his partner's comments.

In today's hand, declarer took only one unnecessary finesse, but it was one too many. It cost him his game contract.

When West opened the seven of spades, South decided to lay low

Declarer won with the ace of hearts and entered dummy with the king of clubs in order to return a low diamond. The plan was to finesse the nine from his own hand and thus develop the

Harvester Cagers Race To 74-46 Win Over Roswell

Bond Paces PHS With 34; Clovis Here Tomorrow

The Harvester cagers chalked up their 33rd consecutive victory last night with a resounding 74-46 victory over Roswell's Coyotes of New Mexico in an inter-collegiate tilt at the Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Green and Gold quintet took a 15-11 first quarter lead and were never headed back after they stretched the margin to 25-26 at halftime and to 48-33 at the three-quarter stage. As has been the case in all Harvester games to date, the Pampans poured on the steam in the last quarter to turn the games into lopsided affairs.

Tall Jimmy Bond was at his old tricks again last night for the Harvesters. The 6-5 all-district performer last season dunked in an amazing 34 points and had a perfect night at the free throw line with 10 for 10.

Bond's free throw record in the past two games has been sensational. He canned five out of six against Stratford Tuesday night and last night's performance gave him 15 out of 16 for the past two tilts, an average of 37.

Bond's total point output last night ran his season total to 79 points in the three Pampa games to date, an average of 26.3 points per game.

Buddy Cockrell, regaining his form following his grid injury late in the season, was the number one scorer for the Harvesters and the game last night with 14 points. Ten of Cockrell's points came at the charity line. Cockrell, like Bond, enjoyed a good night at the gift line with 10 or 12.

In all the Harvesters made 30 out of 46 free throw attempts or a 65 percent. The Coyotes, on the other hand, didn't fair so good on free throw attempts, canning only 16 out of 20.

Roswell's all-state center of last year, Tommy Patterson, and teammate Mac McGuire led the visiting Coyotes' scoring with 12 points apiece. McGuire missed a chance of adding several more points to his total by missing right out of 13 gratis tosses.

Mustangs Surprised By Cowboys, 56-55

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
 Associated Press Staff
 Southwest Conference basketball teams all have seen action and his record is very good — five

Victories in seven games Texas, Texas Christian and Texas A&M started the campaign Wednesday night with decisions over Oklahoma, Hardin-Simmons and University of Houston, respectively, while Arkansas was losing to Tulsa.

Last night, the other three members of the league opened the season with Rice beating Sam Houston State, 75-59, and Baylor edging Lamar Tech, 41-39, but Southern Methodist, one of the conference favorites was surprised by Hardin-Simmons, 56-55.

SMU trailed the Cowboys for three periods, took the lead in the final stanza but faltered before a Hardin-Simmons rush in the last three minutes.

Hank Green, 6-foot-7 Cowboy star, roped 23 points to ride the Mustangs to defeat and win high scoring honors for the night.

It took a whirlwind finish at Waco for Baylor's Bears to beat Lamar Tech of the Lone Star Conference.

The Waco tussle was a ragged affair until the final period when Baylor wiped out a 28-22 deficit to twice tie the count and then go ahead on Soph Kenny Morgan's first varsity field goal.

Rice overwhelmed Sam Houston State of the Lone Star Conference with stellar Gene Schwingler picking up where he left off last season.

Although the rangy Owl center played only 33 minutes, he scored 22 points before fouling out in the rough and tumble game.

Things looked pretty bad for the Owls in the fourth quarter. Schwingler was out, Don Lanes fouled out, and Buzzy Bryan had preceded Lance to the sidelines. Rice held a shaky 57-53 lead and the Bearkats were bearing down.

A free throw by Tom Sewell closed the gap for the 'Kats to 57-54 but six straight charity shots took the Owls loose and five field goals and another surge of free throws left the SHSBC team far behind, at the close.

3 Games Set Today In Grid Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Three games Friday afternoon and five Friday night send two classes of the Texas Intercollegiate League football campaign into their semi-finals.

But the big show comes Saturday when the finalists are determined in the upper brackets. Classes AAA and AAAA — with Lubbock and Baylor favored in AAAA and Breckenridge and Temple in AAA.

Friday afternoon Stamford plays at Childress and Killam at Huntsville in Class AA. Friday night Stephenville and Terrell clash at Arlington and LaMarque and Yorkum battle at Wharton.

In next week's semi-finals the Stamford-Childress winner plays the Stephenville-Terrell winner, and the Huntsville-Killam winner plays the La Marque-Yorkum winner.

Maglie, Raschi Own Best Mound Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — Sal (The Barber) Maglie and the veteran Vic Raschi boast the best lifetime pitching marks in the major leagues.

Pitching statistics through the 1952 season disclose that Maglie, the New York Giants' righthander, heads the National League with a lifetime total of 64 victories and 22 defeats for a .744 percentage. Sal, despite an aching back, had an 18-8 record in 1952.

The dark-haired hurler from Niagara Falls, N. Y., who played in the Mexican League from 1946 through '49, enjoyed his best year in the majors in 1951 when he capped 23 decisions while losing six.

Raschi a New York Yankee mainstay during the last six years, tops all American League moundmen in lifetime average with 107 triumphs and 44 losses for a .709 mark. Vic won 16 and dropped six last year, the first season in the last four he failed to win at least 20 games.

The husky righty also had a 2-0 record in the World Series. Carl Erskine, Brooklyn's no-hit hurler, has lifetime 51-28 mark to rank behind Maglie at .646. Erskine, who pitched a no-hit no-run game June 19 against Chicago last season, won 14 and lost six in 1952.

New York's Jim Hearn is third with 63-38 or .624 followed by the Cards' Alpha Brazil (58-53) and Harry Brecheen, recently sold by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Browns, (128-79). Philadelphia's Robin Roberts, the major league's biggest winner last season (91-57); Larry January of New York (107-68); Brooklyn's Preacher Roe (113-77); and Ralph Branca, also of the Dodgers (80-58).

Behind Raschi in the American League comes Ted Wilks of Cleveland. The 37-year-old righthander has a (59-30) .618 record for St. Louis and Pittsburgh in the National League before he was waived to the Indians last season. He had no won-lost record in the American League.

Mel Parnell, a 12-12 pitcher for Boston in 1952, is third with 838 (80-51) behind Parnell come Bob Lemon, Cleveland (118-70) .630; Mike Garcia, another Indian, (67-40) .628; Bob Feller, Cleveland, (239-144) .624, and Allie Reynolds, New York (156-86) .619.

By JOE STEINSON
 Dog Editor

"The wife says it's O.K." Jack shouted, not waiting until his car came to a stop. "I mean she says a coon dog's O.K. I'm going to get me one and I want you to tell me what kind."

Telling a fellow what kind of a dog he should get is certainly sticking one's neck out, but I could at least give him an idea of the qualities I like in a good dog and he could take it from there.

"If it's breed choice you want me to name," I said. "I won't go much within a breed to recommend a coon dog by breed. You might find a good one among the blue ticks, Redbones, black and tans, treeing Walkers or any number of breed crosses. A dog either has or hasn't the qualifications, regardless of breed."

"What I can best do for you is tell you what characteristics I would like to have in a dog, and if you agree, you can try to get as many of those qualities in one animal as possible."

"All right," said Jack, "you know I've done just enough coon hunting with some of the boys to know that I'd like to do more of it."

"It's hard to say," I continued, "which attributes are more important, but I'll mention first things first. A dog must have a good nose. A dog should be straight on rcoon, as a dog that goes off after deer, fox, possum or skunk can waste a lot of time and cause a lot of trouble. A dog should have such desire to hunt as to inspire him to range wide enough to find track. He should bark treeing upon treeing the coon and continue to do so until you arrive."

"Traits which I like in a coon dog, but which may be considered less important by some, are voice on trail, willingness to honor another dog's strike and ability to distinguish between old and new tracks."

"Why do you like a dog to have a long tongue?" asked Jack, "Isn't a silent trailer supposed to get more coons?"

"Sure enough, Jack," I answered, "if it's meat you want you'll tree more coons in less time with a silent trailer, but there isn't nearly so much sport. A great deal of the fun in listening to the dog's voice, can lay a more interesting and difficult trail and the contest is far more exciting. You can hear your dog, and from the pitch and frequency of his voice, know what he's doing, when he has been checked, and when the check is getting hot again."

"Now you know what to look for, Jack. If you can get a dog such as I've described you'll really have something. If your dog can half measure up, you'll still have a lot of fun."

1953 Valley Open To Be Cancelled

HARLINGEN (AP) — The $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open, scores of some of golf's greatest rhubarbs, has been cancelled for a year because there might be another one.

In 1951 a group of golfers, including Jimmie Demaret and Vic Ghezzi, skipped the Valley Open to play in the Mexican National Open. The PGA fined the golfers.

Last year Harlingen was not on the PGA winter tour and there was a loud protest from this city which said it had been removed from the tour with no reason given.

Harlingen was restored to the circuit for this winter through efforts of sponsors of tournaments on the winter tour, who formed an association in protest against some of the practices of the PGA.

However, Lew Bray, president of the Lower Rio Grande Valley Golf Association, said last night the tournament was being cancelled because he could get no assurance from the PGA that the golfers wouldn't again pass up the Valley tournament.

Harlingen had, in confirming the dates — Feb. 19-22 — asked the PGA to prohibit golfers from competing in any other tournament in this hemisphere at the time of the Harlingen meet. The provision was to prevent golfers from playing in the Mexican Open which is scheduled for the same date.

T. W. Crane, executive secretary of the PGA, acknowledged the letter but asked the Valley group to wait until the tournament committee decided to accept the provisions. After a wait of 10 days, the Valley Association directors voted unanimously to cancel the tournament.

In 1948 the Valley tournament was strife-torn in an argument over the rules of play. Two golfers — Henry Ransom and Norman von Nida — came to blows on the course in a personal disagreement. In 1949 there was another rhubarb when Dick Metz, another of the touring golfers, was quoted by a sports writer as criticizing the relations of the PGA with the tournament sponsors.

Then after the 1950 tournament passed without incident there came the 1951 blow-up over the golfers going to Mexico City. Even the State Department got into the act, saying the disagreement hurt the good neighbor policy.

Dutch Harrison Leads By Stroke In Miami Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Doug Ford, a young pro from Harrison, N.Y., took a one-stroke lead into the second round of the $10,000 Miami Open tournament today.

While the favorites floundered in a 26-mile-an-hour wind that raked the 7,010-yard Miami Spring Municipal Course, Ford Carved a steady three-under-par 67 in yesterday's first 18-hole stretch.

His tee shots were low and accurate and Ford said, "I always play well in the wind." His putter was doing all right, too. He canned eight-foot shots for birdies at the fifth and ninth holes.

Ford, competing in a field of 168 players from 35 states and 16 foreign countries, finished his opening round a stroke ahead of Art Wall Jr., another comparative newcomer to the pro ranks and Johnny Palmer.

In fourth place with 69s were Jack Burke, Houston, who set a sensational pace on the winter circuit last year; Dick Mayer, Dick Chapman and John Cusano.

Light Workouts Put Life Into Raiders, Weaver Reasons

LUBBOCK (AP) — Hard work is the key to success, they say, but Coach Dwight Weaver wonders now whether the advice holds good for Texas Tech football.

After Tech dropped its sixth game in a row, Weaver decided something drastic would have to be done. He eliminated scrimmaging and some weeks cut out all contact work.

For the rest of the season, the Red Raiders won two upset victories, tied another favorite, and made the University of Tulsa puff to take a one-touchdown triumph. With only seven seniors playing regularly, Tech compiled a 3-7-1 mark and grabbed second place in the Border Conference.

Weaver admits that the no-scrimmage theory wasn't necessarily proved by the way the Raiders wound up.

"We just go to the point after losing to North Texas State where we had to do something drastic. Actually, we looked like we needed a lot more hard work. But we'd had so many boys laid up by game injuries that we couldn't take any chances on hurting anyone in practice. So, we eased up almost completely."

A relaxed Raider team then tied Hardin-Simmons 14-14; upset probably the best Arizona team in 10 years, 19-14, scared Tulsa in the closing seconds while dropping a 28-20 decision, and finally blasted North Carolina State, 54-7.

EUGENE COOPER ... to fight here tomorrow

Eugene Cooper To Box Here Saturday

Eugene Cooper, the all-time great in Pampa's boxing circles, is scheduled to return home tomorrow night to appear in the feature role of an inter-team boxing match between the Pampa Boys Club and Roswell Military Institute.

Cooper, two-time state Golden Gloves champion, is carded against another 2-time state champion, Junior Franklin of Oklahoma. Cooper's two titles were won in Texas while Franklin's occurred in Oklahoma.

Both Cooper and Franklin are stationed at the Amarillo Air Force Base. Both will see action tonight at Amarillo in an inter-team match between the Amarillo AFB and Perrin AFB.

Unless one or the other is injured in anyway on tonight's card at Amarillo, the two will come on over to Pampa tomorrow night to battle each other.

Tomorrow night's card at the Sports Arena will be the first boxing activity in Pampa since last winter.

About 12 bouts are carded with a possibility of there being more. An exhibition match pitting two Pampa Negroes is already on tap. The two, Springtime Davis and Eugene McKenzie, are 17-year olds and advance notice has it that both are quite comical in the ring and the fans are in for lots of laughs.

Boyle's Column ... Pavement Plato Questions Trip To Moon, Talking Horses

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A pavement Plato views the news: Plans for the first commercial rocket flight to the moon are going steadily forward at the Hayden Planetarium.

Thousands of prospective passengers have signed up for the initial voyage, including a number of canny real estate dealers anxious to open new areas of suburban developments for metropolitan New York.

The long waiting list also has on it the names of a number of spinsters who wish to see what the man in the moon is like. Others want to go simply because they have a desire to go anywhere out of this world.

Texas Volunteers

All that is really holding up the project now is the lack of a few billion dollars to build a proper space ship. Uncle Sam, the only guy around with that kind of money, is still investing it in jet bombers and other earth-bound toys.

Margaret Phelan, the beautiful Texas night club warbler, who also is a handy gal with a skill, recently volunteered to act as official songstress and cook for the proposed lunar voyage.

Dr. Robert R. Coles, chairman of the Hayden Planetarium, accepted the offer with alacrity, but pointed out some of the problems Miss Phelan would face in her double role.

"We have already signed up a good fiddler, and I think we could use you, too, in view of the long, frigid nights (two weeks from sunset to sunrise). We shall need plenty of hot music. The big difficulty is that there is no atmosphere on the moon, and therefore no one could hear your stuff unless you retired to the pressurized cabin of the space ship.

And there's "Lady"

"Your offer to serve as cook, also, is particularly welcome, especially if you can make flapjacks.

"It is so hot on the moon by day (about 212 degrees Fahrenheit) that you could fry them directly in the sunlight on the floor of a lunar crater. And flapping them would be most fun of all since, due to the moon's lesser gravity, they would rise six times as far into the sky before coming to roost."

Science Marches On!

This dismaying era has been made even more burdensome by an endless rash of "talking dog" stories. Now, truth being even stranger than fiction, a real life spelling horse has broken into the news.

The animal in question, "Lady Wonder" of Richmond, Va., for a buck will answer any three questions posed to her by a human being. She painstakingly muzzles out her replying letter by letter on a big spelling machine.

Talk Is Cheap

What is so wonderful about that she is 28 years old after all, and her spelling is even worse than that of an 18-year-old stenographer with a progressive school education.

Personally, I see no reason why any adult should let a semi-literate horse poke her nose into his problems. One of the most comforting things about animals through the centuries has been the fact they haven't learned to talk and give advice. Talk is cheap and perhaps that is why they have wisely and loyally remained silent for so long.

If Lady Wonder had any real horse sense, she wouldn't be answering questions she'd ask them. And the first one she would spell out would be the one that has plagued all non-human creatures through the ages:

Why do people act the way they do? What's wrong with you all anyway?"

Army Buys Armored Shorts For Its Troops In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it is ordering armored shorts for its troops in Korea. Together with the armored vest, the two garments will give protection to the entire torso.

The Army said the armored shorts resemble a prize fighter's trunks and weigh only four pounds. The vests weigh eight pounds.

Specifically designed to protect the hips, abdomen and groin, the garment has been tentatively designated "armor, lower torso."

It is made of 12 layers of flexible, laminated nylon duck encased in a water-resistant plastic layer with an outer covering of nylon fabric.

The vest, made of the same materials, has been demonstrated in Korea to deflect about 65 percent of all types of missiles and to reduce chest and upper abdominal wounds by about 60 percent.

The Army said 1,000 of the new armored shorts will be ready for delivery to Korea in February.

Both the Army and Navy have been working on armored garments. Most of the men under fire in forward areas of Korean battle line now wear the Navy type originally issued to the Marines.

The Army ordered a number of the Navy-Marine vests for immediate use while experiments continued on the type being developed by the Army Quartermaster Corps.

Korean Troops Are Reported Eager To Take Over At Front

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of several interpretive articles by an Associated Press editor who was in Korea when the present war started. He now is a member of the Texas AP staff.

By O. H. P. King
Associated Press Staff Writer

What do the "ROK's" (Republic of Korea soldiers) think about proposals to replace United States front-line divisions with Republic of Korea troops?

They are eager to take over even more of the front—where ROK divisions already heavily outnumber all United Nations units.

President Syngman Rhee has told AP's Bill Shinn since President-elect Eisenhower's departure that he made no commitments in their talks during the three days visit. But he said he made it clear to the general the ROK's want the statements ended as soon as possible—with victory—and would welcome a doubling of the present ROK Army. But continued U. S. aid is vital.

Rhee's position from the start has been:

Train us, arm us, supply us and we will do the fighting.

Why Poor At First?

Why were original ROK troops such poor fighters?

The speed of the Red invasion behind tanks cut off the first ROK divisions rushed to defenses below the 38th Parallel. As survivors trickled back, these units were reformed. The tanks were filled with untrained youngsters.

I am a boy and five years of age. I want a tricycle. I also want would prefer this manpower be used to win a decisive, final victory rather than to free American divisions to be sent home or elsewhere.

Good Foot Soldiers
But the point is, as long as this manpower reservoir is untapped, the ROK's doubt that the U.N. is doing everything possible to defeat the Reds.

Sea, air, and perhaps some artillery units of other nations probably will be needed in Korea for a long time to come. But those who have seen the ROK's fight are confident they will be satisfactory foot soldiers all along the line.

"There still are American commanders who damned the ROK's as cowards and runaways," American commander Gen. James A. Van Fleet said. "I assure them now that ROK units will stay and fight until ordered by higher headquarters to withdraw."

Gen. Van Fleet and Eisenhower were classmates at West Point. There is no doubt Van Fleet's words carry weight with Ike.

Lady Claims Grandma Male

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lady has settled the matter — Grandma is a man. Not only that, Grandma will rob another bank this month, this time in Oakland.

Lady, if you've been reading the papers, is the Virginia "talking horse, who taps out answers to queries on a typewriter-like contraption. Grandma, you should recall, is Los Angeles' elderly bank robber, with a stake of almost $4,000 in three holdups since October.

Plans of Interest
Because Grandma's activities and future plans are of wide interest here, and not only among bank clerks, the Los Angeles Mirror decided to get Lady's forecast, if any. It commissioned Bill McMillan of the Richmond, Va., News-Leader to quiz the 27-year-old horse.

It told the results in a copy-righted interview.

McMillan said he asked Lady five questions:

1. "Who's Grandma?" Lady, he said, tapped out "Grandma is a man."

2. "What's her address?" That, the reporter went on, "stumped her momentarily. 'But when he rephrased it to 'where does Grandma live?' she answered 'San Pedro.'"

3. "Will Grandma rob another bank?" "Yes."

4. "Where?" "Oakland." That's farther afield than Grandma has ventured before, 400 miles north of here.

5. "When will Grandma rob her next bank?" "December."

Oakland bank workers, if they believe in talking horses, would do well to keep a sharp lookout until New Year's.

TREASURE

What are your treasures? Where are they hidden? Which do you love most, God, or gold? Are you more interested in the work of His church or in the production of your mine? Do you get more pleasure from helping people or from hoarding wealth? What is the power of yellow metal? What is the hidden lure of riches that makes a man rise to the bait and be caught on the hook of destruction? Don't let this deadly paralysis seize you. Twenty of the world's richest men met in Chicago. All of them died poor men and most of their careers came to a tragic end. The real treasures are Heavenly treasures. Lay up a chest full where rust and thieves cannot break through to them.

tacked current arrangements on security between the State Department and the U.N. as "hopelessly inadequate."

Blames Washington.

He said U.N. Secretary General Trygve Lie had a "clearer conception" of the problem than some State Department officials. He blamed Washington officials for giving Lie inadequate information on which to act against American employees with allegedly subversive records.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State John Hickerson told the McCarran Senate internal security subcommittee Wednesday that the State Department had supplied Lie with adverse information on about 40 American U.N. employees, but that 14 of them still were employed by the U.N. Lie was reported to feel that Hickerson's statement implied that he had failed to act when presented with definite evidence against American employees by the U.S. government.

Lions Club Officials Seek Support For Children's Camp

A movement to support the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children is underway under the leadership of Boyd Meadors, a state director of the camp, and Dr. Philip Yates, Lions health and welfare committee chairman.

The camp is to be for those children between the ages of 7 and 17 who, for any physical or mental defect, are not permitted to attend general summer camps.

The action was begun at the Thursday luncheon-meeting of the club. Visiting the meeting was Jack Roe, state director of the camp, who showed a film, describing work being done at the camp site and explained its birth and method of operation.

"I do not know of another camp exclusively for crippled children in Texas," he said, continuing, "The camp symbolizes the spirit of our organization and will be supported by 37,000 Texas Lions in a fraternal movement that won't quit."

He said, six of 13 structures have already been built and announced opening will be in June.

Included in camp facilities, according to Roe, will be one instructor for every five children, a swimming pool recreation equipment and buildings, dormitories, an infirmary and sufficient medical personnel to care for the kids.

Many Lions members turned in checks to Yates at the meeting and others are being asked to support the movement by becoming members in the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children, Inc.

Members spoke in behalf of the camp saying it would be one of the most adequate crippled children's camps in the United States.

Milt Morris, Canyon, Lions district governor, was present.

Sherman White, introduced new Lions members and charged them with duties of the organization and explained club procedure.

New or transferred members include Rev. O. C. Curtis, Rusty Ward, George Friauf and Rev. Dick Crews.

It was announced by Ham Luna that the Pampa Boys Club will be matched with a New Mexico Military Institute boxing team in the Amarillo Sports Arena Saturday night.

Roy McMillen asked that Lions support the Harvester basketball team by attending all games.

POLAR ICE

plenty of water beneath the ice except possibly for some areas near land masses. Recent soundings have shown 14,000 feet of water at the North Pole.

Wallin mentioned that the Nautilus would be able to dive deeper than any present, conventional submarine. Navy officials, in reply to a question about this, said cautiously that "greater depth for the Nautilus, as with any other submarine, could be made possible by making her pressure hull stronger through the use of greater weight or greater steel strength."

The atomic power plant will require no air in creating the superheat to produce steam for the propulsion turbine, and thus can remain under water as long as the fuel lasts. This can be a long time — the fission of one pound of uranium releases energy equal to the combustion of 2,600,000 tons of coal.

That left the question of how long the crew of an atomic submarine could stay down, out of the earth's atmosphere. Wallin said the Bureau of Ships is working on a gadget to take oxygen from the water, and that this may be ready for use in the Nautilus.

In addition to the problem of providing air, the Navy is studying other physiological and psychological problems of men living for prolonged periods confined in a submarine.

equality in the reasonably near future.

But lawyers for the Negro litigants contended there can be no equality in educational opportunity so long as there is segregation.

John W. Davis, the 1924 Democratic presidential nominee who argued for South Carolina, said local self-government in local affairs is essential to the peace and happiness of each locality and to the strength and stability of the whole federal system.
