Spy-Chiller Faces A-Bomb Conscious Americans With Arrest of Red Officer

Young Soviet Caught Trying To Flee U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—A puzzling but spine-tingling spy mystery confronted A-bomb conscious Americans today as FBI agents snared a young Russian naval officer preparing to flee by ship from Portland, Ore.

On the record, Lt. Nicolai Gregorovich Redin, 29-year-old member of the Soviet purchasing commission at Seattle, was arrested last night on espionage charges involving plans and information regarding the U.S.S. Yellowstone, a destroyer tender assigned to take part in the scheduled atomic bomb test this summer.

The formal charge was disclosed late last night by Assistant FBI Agent Julius A. Bernard at Portland, hours after FBI Chief Edgar Hoover had announced tersely in Washington that Redin had been seized as he was about to board a Russian fishing vessel for home.

Arrested before U. S. Commissioner Robert A. Leedy, the soviet officer, wearing the uniform of his rank, was asked whether he understood English.

Thumping Leedy's desk, Redin cried "I will not talk, I will not talk."

He then demanded to see the soviet consul, who was not represented at the proceedings.

But Leedy, fixing bail at $25,000, ordered the officer to be held in Multnomah county jail in default of bond until another hearing is set.

Redin, a graduate of the Russian Naval academy who came to this country four years ago, had been

Von Ribbentrop 'Blindly Followed Hitler's Orders'

NUERNBERG, March 27.—(AP)—Unexpected prosecution evidence that Joachim von Ribbentrop urged "extermination" of concentration camp for Hungary's half million Jews in 1943 brought from a defense witness before the international military tribunal today a declaration that the former German foreign minister "blindly followed Hitler's orders."

The prosecution presented captured minutes of a Hitler conference with Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, on April 17, 1943, which quoted Horthy's complaint that hundreds of thousands of Jews has been "deprived of all possibilities of livelihood" and had become a burden on the state.

Hitler, the minutes said, called these Jews "tuberculosis bacilli" and Von Ribbentrop was quoted as stating they should "either be exterminated or taken to a concentration camp."

BYRNES ADDRESSES UNO

No nation may "take the law in its own hands," Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, standing, told opening session of the UNO Security Council at Hunter college, New York. Left of Byrnes is Trygve

Miners' 'Rest' Will Affect Steel Industry

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Government agencies moved swiftly today to soften the blow due to fall April 1 when John L. Lewis calls upon his 490,000 soft coal miners to take a "rest."

However, spokesmen for the bituminous operators predicted the steel industry — core of the nation's reversion program — would be affected immediately and that some steel mills would be shut down by April 10.

These predictions followed Lewis' decision to terminate his present contract with the soft coal producers as of midnight Sunday.

On the government side, a spokesman for the solid fuels administration disclosed that an order is "in the works" to freeze coal shipments until some form of industrial rationing can be worked out.

Likewise, Howard T. Colvin, associate director of the federal conciliation service, said "the government will now interest itself in the case" on the basis of indications that negotiations between the United Mine Workers and the bituminous operators have collapsed.

Harry Moses, representing the so-called captive mines whose entire output goes to the steel companies which own them, told newsmen yesterday he could not indicate how soon steel mills as a whole would be forced to shut down because of a coal shortage.

The rapid-fire developments were sparked yesterday by Lewis' announcement that members of his UMW in the soft coal field would "be home with their families" next week, in line with the miners' tradition.

Drew S. Clifton of the Tarrant county, Texas, court of law, protested that "veterans want to know how it is that various warehouses throughout the southwest are able to advertise much hard-to-get surplus property for sale."

He told a reporter 8,000 separate vehicles were sold through the Fort Worth regional headquarters, but he claimed only 25 per cent went to priority groups, including federal, state, county and city governments and veterans.

A spokesman for WAA said two employees will be added to the Fort Worth staff immediately to "look into" all complaints.

Baruch Promises To Keep Security In Atomic Talks

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch has assured senators that national security will come first with him during forthcoming negotiations to share atomic energy secrets with the world.

Excused from a scheduled appearance on Capitol Hill today, the President's representative on the United Nations Atomic committee outlined his views in a telegram to Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

Chairman McMahon (D-Texas) planned to read the telegram to the Senate Foreign Relations committee, called to consider Baruch's nomination. He said he might make it public later.

Vandenberg said only that he had addressed "four or five fundamental questions" to Baruch and had received "satisfactory answers." As a result the Michigan senator withdrew his request that the 75-year-old park bench statesman testify before the committee.

Expected approval of Baruch's nomination will leave to the special senate atomic committee, the task of further inquiry into pending plans for making atomic energy developments available to other nations.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) said this phase will be taken up next week when the committee calls David E. Lilienthal and other members of a state department advisory group who urged world-wide pre-emptive control by an international authority set up under UNO.

Although some members have indicated opposition to the Lilienthal plan, Connally said he was favorably impressed with the idea of letting the international group control the production of ore and uranium.

The defense witness on the stand, Adolf von Steengracht, former first secretary in the Nazi foreign office, looked at the document when it was handed him by British Col. H. J. Phillimore and remarked:

"I would like to make a distinction between Von Ribbentrop's instincts and what he did when he became Hitler's hypnotized tool."

Von Steengracht also said the former foreign minister must have agreed with Heinrich Himmler in October, 1943, for the "eastward evacuation"—a synonym for gas chamber extinction—of foreign Jews trapped in German-occupied lands.

Vinson Says U.S. Still Needs OPA

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Vincent P. Vinson said today that "we are well on the way to a balanced budget" and asked that OPA controls on the national economy be kept "a little longer."

The committee is considering legislation to keep OPA going another year.

Vinson said treasury receipts are larger than estimated, expenditures are smaller than expected, and "the two together mean that we are well on the way to a balanced budget."

He disputed contentions of the National Association of Manufacturers and others that removal of all price controls would stimulate production of scarce goods.

Vets' Complaints Being Studied

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Complaints that veterans are having difficulty purchasing surplus army truck and cars in Texas were studied today by the War Assets Administration.

Drew S. Clifton of the Tarrant county, Texas, court of law, protested that "veterans want to know how it is that various warehouses throughout the southwest are able to advertise much hard-to-get surplus property for sale."

He told a reporter 8,000 separate vehicles were sold through the Fort Worth regional headquarters, but he claimed only 25 per cent went to priority groups, including federal, state, county and city governments and veterans.

Walter Reuther Leads Thomas In Balloting for UAW President

ATLANTIC CITY, March 27.—(AP)—Walter Reuther was leading R. J. Thomas by 761 to 463 for the presidency of the CIO United Auto Workers at 11:40 a. m. (CST) today.

UNOFFICIAL TABULATION

This was on the basis of an unofficial tabulation after 26 minutes of roll-call balloting at the union's convention.

A total of 8,830 votes were to be cast by the less than 2,000 delegates, some having more votes than others.

Reuther, the red-haired leader of the General Motors strike, had received a bigger ovation than his opponent when they were formerly nominated.

TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY

What looked to be about a two-thirds majority of the 1,877 delegates rose and paraded around the hall for Reuther.

R. J. Thomas, running for reelection, sat with a grim look on his face.

Ed Cote, of Detroit, placed Reuther in nomination. There was some heckling during his brief talk, as there had been when Thomas was nominated.

NO COMMENT MADE

The Reuther demonstration went on for 21 minutes. That was four minutes longer than the Thomas demonstration.

When Thomas was asked to comment, he said, "I can't say anything."

Ben Garrison of Detroit, made a nominating speech for Thomas, who has been UAW-CIO president for seven years.

Garrison was interrupted by heckling. Secretary-Treasurer George F. Adley banged his gavel and warned the supporters of Walter Reuther, "if you want your choice heckled, I presume you can get it. Let's quit this child's play."

Wheat Exports Fall Below Monthly Goal

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Government efforts to obtain enough wheat to meet export promises to hungry areas abroad continue to encounter difficulties.

It appears now that for the second consecutive month this year, export shipments in March will fall below the monthly goal of 1,000,000 tons.

Some food officials and farm leaders believe that additional measures will be necessary if goals for April, May and June are to be reached.

Several weeks ago, a shortage of freight cars was said by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson to be holding up movement of wheat from Midwestern producing areas to seaports.

Anderson said then that country elevators were full and could not accept additional grain from farmers.

Since then, the government took steps to make more cars available. As a result many country elevators which a few weeks ago were bulging with wheat now are empty.

Food officials believe many farmers are holding their wheat for several reasons, including:

- 1. Hope for better prices.
- 2. Belief they are too busy with farming to haul wheat to market.
- 3. They want to wait until they can determine how this year's wheat crops turn out.

The hope for better prices is, in the opinion of food officials, the biggest factor.

There is some basis for expectation of higher prices. The attack being waged by some farm organizations and business groups and by many farm-minded members of Congress.

Days of Old Pick and Shovel For Digging Ditches Are Over

The days of the old pick and shovel to dig ditches are practically gone and in their place is a huge ditching machine, capable of digging a trench 36 feet deep at the rate of 1,000 feet per day.

Few Pampans can really appreciate the size of the city's current sewer reconstruction program unless they get a first-hand look at the huge machine and the construction crew laying the main outfall line of the project.

At 3:30 yesterday afternoon, the crew was working along the west side of the airport, laying the 12-inch pipe in a ditch over 21 feet deep.

First step in the process is clearing a tract about 10 feet wide along the route of the new line with a huge, new bulldozer, one of the several pieces of new equipment owned by the Allred-Enix construction company, contractors.

The "dozer scoops out huge masses of dirt and pushes it up in piles higher than a man's head.

UNRRA Delegates Eye U.S., Red Larders

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 27.—(AP)—UNRRA's work-weary delegates turned back today to the task of finding food for the world's hungry but not very hopefully upon the larders of the United States and Russia.

They appeared scant likelihood that the full resources of either country could be mustered at this meeting for the gigantic job ahead.

Director General Herbert Lehman's declaration that return to wartime food controls was essential, such a step for the United States would mean a return to rationing.

Persons close to the British and the United States delegations have reported that the full resources of either country could be mustered at this meeting for the gigantic job ahead.

Program of Rat Eradication Is Now in Progress

A program of rat eradication to prevent the spread of typhus is now in progress in Pampa and Gray county under the direction of Ray Moore, of the U. S. public health service.

Both the city and county have detailed one man to work with Moore and to learn how the program is carried out.

City Manager Garland Franks said this was the first step in the elimination of typhus-carrying rodents in the city.

After the rats are killed out and dangerous areas sprayed, the city plans to adopt an ordinance requiring business houses to allow the USPHS to rat-proof their buildings.

The program was started after a USPHS official told the city commission that Pampa and Gray county was one of the "critical" spots in the state where the program was badly needed.

County Judge Sherman White agreed to cooperate with the program and it will be put into full swing in other Gray county communities also.

Franks said the program was one which every public spirited citizen should take seriously because if the situation were left as it is a serious typhoid epidemic might result.

Under the USPHS program the rats will first be eradicated and then buildings will be rat-proofed by a special process being taught the city and county men by Moore.

Deadline on Draft Vote Set April 9

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—The senate military committee today set April 9 as the deadline for a vote on whether to extend the draft law and if so, for how long.

Meanwhile it will hold hearings on the need for continued inductions. These probably will begin tomorrow with selective service, army and navy officials, as the witnesses. Opponents will be heard later.

A unanimous informal agreement on this procedure brought expressions of satisfaction from members contending both for and against a year's extension of selective service, now due to expire May 15.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) told reporters today his decision on the hearing meant "doing it the American way."

Senator Bridges (R-NH), who supported Austin's move, said those who believe there is "clear need for extending the law had received definite assurance against prolonged delay.

UNO Council Subcommittee Probes Case

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council's subcommittee, appointed to find a compromise formula in the Iranian case, adjourned after meeting on hour and a half today with the announcement that "no agreement has yet been reached."

Secretary of State Byrnes would make no statement. He referred reporters to Porter McKeever, press attache of the American delegation, who said he had been authorized to say:

"No agreement has been reached yet. The meeting is over. They adjourned at 12:45 p. m."

Andrei Gromyko, Russian representative on the council and the subcommittee said repeatedly: "I have nothing at all to say."

The subcommittee, made up of U. S., French and Russian representatives, will report to the chairman of the council this afternoon.

Iran stood fast today in her determination to seek a speedy hearing before the United Nations security council despite a Russian threat to walk out of the council if it takes up the dispute between the two countries before April 10.

The task of finding a solution to the impasse rested in the hands of a special subcommittee on procedure composed of Russia, France and the United States, which was named by the council last evening just before it adjourned with the question of when and how the council will hear Iran's protest still unsettled.

The committee was directed to report back to the council at 2 o'clock (CST) this afternoon.

The Iranian delegation leader, Hussein Ali, indicated last night that

Pension Must Be Cut Says Gov. Stevenson

AUSTIN, March 27. — (AP) — Gov. Coke Stevenson said today he could not see any way for the public welfare department to avoid an old age pension cut, probably in April. He agreed with Executive Director John Winters of the welfare department who said that a cut of from 40 cents to 60 cents may have to be applied to the average check in April. He did not anticipate a further delay in the cut. Pension rolls have been steadily growing since cutback in war production has returned many oldsters to the rolls who had previously been employed.

'Education' Is Study Topic for Varietas Club

Mrs. Felix Stalls was hostess to the Varietas Study club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Sherman White. Mrs. J. E. Kirchman acted as leader in the absence of Mrs. Dow King, and read Mrs. King's paper on education.

A synopsis of the paper gives the most recent goals of education as set up by educators. They are: Preparing the individual to earn a living, to participate in government, to enjoy literature and the arts, and to contribute to man's increasing store of tested knowledge. Twenty years ago there were the additional goals of thrift, attainment of a balanced social, moral, and religious life, and the care of health.

"Universal education is regarded as one of the most characteristic expressions of our genius, and we look upon organized education as the one remedy for practically every ill,—be it vice, crime, sickness, poverty, injustice, racketeering, political corruption, race hatred, class conflict, or war among nations. Education has become our nation's biggest business. One out of four persons attended school; however, it should be equalized for all sections of our country," the speaker stated.

An example of this equalization would be the education of the Negro. Some suggestions for their education are: 1. To teach them how to make a living with their hands. 2. Teach academic subjects to help them to become articulate and adjusted to the American culture. 3. Teach sane moral and religious principles to substitute for superstition and fear.

The paper closed by describing the educational plans and progress of some foreign countries. Since 1914, illiteracy in Russia has been reduced from 90 percent to 10 percent. Mexico's illiteracy has been as high as 50 percent, but great strides have been made in reducing the percentage.

Members answering roll call were: Mesdames J. G. Cargile, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, E. J. Haslam, J. E. Kirchman, R. W. Lane, Horace McBea, Luther Purson, Felix Stalls, Sherman White and Quentin Williams. Mrs. Ralph Thomas attended as a guest.

Pampans Attend I.O.O.F. of Texas And Rebekah Assembly Held in Waco

Grand Lodge of the I.O.O.F. of Texas and the Rebekah assembly was held in Waco recently, with the largest representation in recent years. An estimated 3,900 attended.

Sherman C. Reed, grand master, of Dallas, presided for the Odd Fellows, and Mrs. Mattie E. Knauff, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, conducted sessions for that organization.

Attending from Pampa were: Dewey Voyles, representing the Odd Fellows; Mrs. O. E. Wylie, Rebekahs; Mrs. E. N. Franklin, Mrs. H. M. Cone, Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Noland, Fred Paronto and Mrs. T. A. Mastin, who served as page at the assembly.

Pythian Sisters Plan Bingo Party For Monday Night

Mrs. John Spink was welcomed as a new member when the Pythian Sisters met Monday night in the Temple hall, and John Spink and Fred Tinsley, honorary members, were initiated.

Mrs. Fred Tinsley, Mrs. Clayton Dudley and Mrs. Fred Neimer, were appointed as the committee in charge of arrangements for the Bingo party to be held in the Temple hall Monday night.

Each member attending the party is requested to bring a pie, and guests may be invited.

Refreshments were served following the program.

Honorary members present were: Fred Tinsley, John Spink, Harold Hefner, Harold Payne and Fred Neimer.

Members were: Mrs. Harvey Downs, Mrs. Ray Barnard, Mrs. Clyde Lockhart, Mrs. Homer Doggett, Mrs. Russell Kennedy, Mrs. Harold Payne, Mrs. Ray Dudley, Mrs. Clayton Dudley, Mrs. Vic Burnett, Mrs. Frank Dorothy Cox, Mrs. Harold Hefner, Mrs. Richard Wilson, Mrs. Fred Neimer, Mrs. Allen Weathered, Mrs. Sam Goodlett, Mrs. Fred Tinsley, Mrs. George Flaherty, Mrs. Clarence Brown, and Mrs. John Spink.

Size Determines Your Food Needs

It's how big a girl you are, not the kind of work you do, that determines how much muscle-building food—meat, fish and eggs—you need in your daily meals.

That's food—or thought, dished up by nutrition experts for you to nibble on, if you've been mistakenly thinking that a desk-chair toiler needs less food than the one who labors over heavier tasks.

If you're a sedentary worker, you may need a smaller total amount of food than the woman who scrubs floors, digs in her garden, or swings a big household job. But both you and she need the same kind of energy-supplying food; how much depends more upon body size than the kind of work you do.

To lick undue fatigue, the daily meals each of you take should include at least a pint of milk and one or two servings chosen from such energy-supplying foods as eggs, meat, fish, cheese, dried beans, peas and lentils.

Dark Penciling Aids Pale Brows

MISS FISHER: Spills secret.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

To darken pale eyebrows so that even a ferret-eyed observer won't suspect your trick, use both a black and a brown pencil. Have sharp points on both.

Spilling her secret and telling you how to put your ruse across, Nelle Fisher, Broadway's singer-dancer-actress, says apply brown pencil first, using hair-like strokes. Then fleck with the black pencil, which says, "Nelle, kills the monotony of one solid color."

The idea, according to this clever miss, is to give the natural-looking effect of a varied pigment.

An all-brown tracing is apt to make eyebrows look painted-on," says Nelle, who also has a warning against marking too boldly with black. That is: it can make the gentlest face look as fierce as Mephisto's!

Pansy Bouquets

Church of Brethren Revival To Continue Through Next Sunday

Interest and attendance at the Church of the Brethren revival, 600 N. Frost street, have continued to be good, despite inclement weather.

Special music, furnished Sunday night by the McPherson college male quartet, and from time to time by other groups, has added greatly to the services. The Young People's chorus is scheduled to sing tonight.

Sermons by the evangelist, Rev. Guy M. West from Uniontown, Pa., have been short and to the point, and have centered on the responsibilities and opportunities of membership in the Christian church, the Rev. Russell G. West, pastor, reported.

Subjects announced for the remaining nights of the meeting are: Wednesday, "Life's Western Window"; Thursday, "The Choice of Allegiance"; Friday, "What Can Religion Do For Us?"; Saturday, "Rest Through Labor"; Sunday morning, "The Master's Terms of Discipleship," and Sunday night, "Now or When?"

Both the pastor and evangelist have been with a cooperative appeal in which converts are invited to select the church of their choice with the assurance that their names will be turned in to the pastor of the desired church. Several people have come forward on the invitation, and others are expressing interest.

The meetings will close on Sunday night. Baptism, for those desiring to unite with the Church of the Brethren, will be administered the following Sunday.

Shamrock Man Is Birthday Honoree

SHAMROCK, March 27 (Special)—Mrs. Ben Boyce complimented her husband with a birthday dinner Wednesday evening at their home on north Houston.

Following the dinner, games of "42" provided entertainment for the group. The honoree was the recipient of a number of gifts. A gift was sent by Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Eoff, who were unable to attend.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Huey Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Clell Gierhart and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ebeling.

Lefors Methodists Have Bible Study

LEFORS, March 27.—(Special)—The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. W. R. Combs, yesterday afternoon.

This was the third lesson in Bible study, which was taught by Mrs. N. S. Daniel. After the lesson, Mrs. Daniel led the group in prayer.

Refreshments of coffee, cake, and sandwiches were served.

Attending the meeting were: Mesdames Arlie Carpenter, W. T. Cole, L. R. Spence, Vernon Northcott, Clyde Rodscape, N. C. Jordan, N. S. Daniel, and the hostess.

The next meeting will begin at 10 a. m. on April 2. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. This meeting will conclude Bible study for this quarter.

Certified milk was originated by Dr. Henry L. Coit in Essex county, New Jersey.

WAR IS 'HELLISH'

The system of using secret agents to gather military information is "hellish," says Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace, and should be replaced by open and above-board international dealings.

Surely most of the country will say "Amen" to that. In fact, it is quite possible that most of the country had already reached this non-too-reconcile conclusion before Mr. Wallace delivered it to members of the Women's National Democratic club in Washington.

So now that everybody agrees on the hellishness of spying, what are we going to do about it? Shall we set a good example by dismantling our new peacetime information service? Shall we then call the nations together around the United Nations table and exact from them a promise that this subtle and sinister practice will be renounced from now on?

It would be wonderful if we could do that. Perhaps some day we can. But right now it seems realistic rather than cynical to say that we should be foolish to make the attempt. For we should be repeating past mistakes.

Heavy armament production and big navies are hellish, too. So, back in the early 'Twenties, the United States called a conference of great powers to scrap some existing warships, tear up the plans for others, and put a general stop to expensive, wasteful, provocative preparations for war. The United States lived up to all agreements and set a splendid example.

War itself was certainly hellish. So, back in the late 'Twenties, an American secretary of state and a French premier collaborated on an agreement renouncing war as an instrument of national policy. The Kellogg-Briand Treaty was signed by 62 of the world's nations.

If wars were to be outlawed, a large standing army was not only hellish but impractical and unnecessary. So the United States set a good example by maintaining, in the year that war again broke out in Europe, a regular army of less than 200,000 and a navy of less than 125,000 men—even though it had long been evident that the Kellogg-Briand Treaty was just another scrap of paper blown down the drafty corridors of history.

War and armament races and big armies and secret agents are all hellish. But this country has never corrected them by ignoring them. It has only weakened itself and brought suffering and death to its citizens.

It needs to be said again that America cannot assume world leadership by trying to exert moral pressure while dissipating her inherent national strength. She must at least provide herself with as full a complement of protection as her neighbors have. Only thus can she lend full power to the task of building an organization strong enough to preserve world peace.

Meanwhile, our leaders should not be put off by arguments as silly as Mr. Wallace's statement that infiltration of foreign agents into Russia in the 'Twenties contributed to Soviet suspicions today. Such infiltration was and is common in every major country, and Russian agents most certainly were and are participating in it. If a government's knowledge of foreign agents' existence were the signal and excuse for a foreign policy of truculent suspicion, the world would be an even sordid place than it is today.

Common Ground

By R. C. BOILES

Should We Make "Loan" To Britain?

There are many arguments used on the theory that we should "lend" Britain some three or four billion dollars.

One of the arguments is that Britain needs the "loan" to acquire dollars. Who does not need dollars if he wants to buy American goods?

But this is a very thin argument. The dollars that we "lend" England in order for the British to buy American goods will only compete with the purchasing power of our own workers when they get dollars for their production. It will only lower the real wages of our own workers. So that argument is null and void.

Another argument for "lending" Britain the money is that if we do not make the "loan" she will form a trade bloc against this country. The answer to that, of course, is that if Britain is that strong, she does not need the assistance of the "loan."

Another argument is that Britain will not join the Bretton Woods international financial agreement if we do not make the "loan." But when the Bretton Woods plan was proposed, it was claimed that this agreement was necessary to help Britain. So that argument does not seem to stand.

The only possible reason that we should "lend" this money to Britain is that if we do not "lend" or give money to her, her empire will crumble and she will not be able to defend herself against Russia. That it might be better for us to "lend" England money than to try to defend ourselves against Russia.

But the weakness of this argument is that the more we "lend" to England, the weaker we both become. We bailed her out of World War I; we bailed her out of World War II. And during that time she adopted all kinds of social palliatives attempting to make it easier and easier for the English workers to live without producing what they consume.

England has just turned her mines over to the government and the miners are demanding less work and more pay. If we "lend" her money, she can buy American goods and carry this program of coddling the people along for a while longer. We certainly are under no moral obligation to support the English people.

The real objection to the British "loan" is not only that we coddle and weaken her, but we weaken ourselves. Should we keep the same energy, the same wealth, the same country and thereby improve our own moral and social condition, we would be much better able to defend ourselves against the world than if we continue to let our own society degenerate, and attempt to strengthen another nation to defend us.

Real defense consists in our own nation being strong, not in pinning

Nation's Press

LET CONFIDENCE SUFFICE

(The Daily Oklahoman)

A brand new observation that may console everybody without helping to clothe anybody has just now been released by Chester Bowles, the public grand high mogul of the OPA. "The thing we Americans need more than anything else right now is confidence." And that should roll back all the shadows and make all the rough places plain.

If you have been laboring under the impression that you need a pair of shoes or a change of shirts or a new collection of nyons or even a pair of pants, you have been mistaken—terribly mistaken. What you actually need is confidence.

Actually, you can go without shoes until you are cloven hoofed. You can walk bare-footed as the chickens do, and you can make that frazzled collar do all the duties of a full length shirt. You can even throw away the "vest" you wear over trousers and use a pair of pants as a full fledged neckerchief. OPA! The thing we really need is confidence. Chester Bowles has just told you so.

VALOR AND DISCRETION

(The Memphis Commercial Appeal)

Staff Sergeant Rocco Marucci lives in Newark and is a veteran of the campaign in the Philippines. What makes him more notable than that about him, his tactics in a recent emergency convince us that he has learned about discretion being the better part of valor. A New York "pit" man, white shirts on sale, and more than a thousand women stormed the place and engaged in a near riot in the effort to buy the garments. Spotted standing quietly and at ease outside the emporium, Marucci was asked if he planned to buy himself a shirt. "Lord, no," the sergeant replied. "I sent my aunt in there." The sergeant evidently has the marking of a fine commanding officer, for he displayed a keen understanding of which of the forces at his disposal could be best employed on the mission in question, and realized his own deficiencies.

our faith on some other nation depending us against aggression. If England has become too weak to defend herself because of her majority-rule, socialistic ideas, which have retarded the initiative from developing capital and tools, no other nation can defend her. She can only reap in the long run what she has sown. No one can defend a large nation that is not strong enough to defend itself, and England is certainly no small empire.

It's not entirely clear about 1938, but apparently what Mr. Truman is trying to say is that he does not choose not to run.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

FAT—John L. Lewis has let the soft coal operators off easily on the question of wages and hours in current negotiations for a new contract in the bituminous fields. The united mine worker's boss, however, will stand pat on his demand for a ten cent per ton royalty to build up a miners-controlled fund of approximately $60,000,000 a year for health and welfare purposes.

Working overtime, which means about fifty hours a week, John L.'s men now take home slightly more than sixty dollars a week. He hopes to preserve this take-home amount for his men through consolidation in a flat contract of partial-to-partial pay, lunch-time allowances and other grants in the form of the operators' payment for miners' supplies.

FIGHT—But the bit and final fight will come also, says John L., over the ten percent royalty for setting up a health and welfare fund to be handled and dispensed, not by the coal company, but by the U. M. W. unions.

Both friends and enemies have wondered why the U. M. W. dictator seemed so mild in making his demands on the operators in his conference at the Shoreham hotel. The dramatic boss of the coal miners gave the operators a bad two hours at Washington's ritzy hotel when he called on members of his negotiating committee to describe mine fatalities which had killed or maimed members of their own families.

DISASTERS—"Tom Kennedy," he began, calling on the secretary of the united mine workers and former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, "how did your father die?" "Tom" told how his father died in a mine accident. Then John L. described how his own father, an early agitator, died from a disease derived from working in the mines.

Mr. Sabath got off on the wrong anti-lobby bill because he merely attacked opponents of the Wyatt housing program, power legislation and other administration measures. He failed to mention labor's veterans' bankers and Hamnegg lobbyists—omission which left him somewhat vulnerable.

When asked whether his proposed ban would penalize these groups, the 78-year-old chairman of the roster committee ran from the roster.

No anti-lobby bill will be enacted at this session for a practical, political reason. It is probable that ten senators and at least a hundred members of the house will be defeated in forthcoming elections. The voters' victims will settle down in Washington as well-paid lobbyists. So, they will not support any bill which will curtail their livelihood, Adolph and same to the contrary notwithstanding.

Formal education bears approximately the same relation to total education as the visible part of an iceberg bears to the largely submerged whole.—Dr. Everett Case, president Colgate U.

Peter Edson's Column: DR. 'GABE' GOES FISHIN' FOR GOOD

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—President Truman, having said that the international situation was going to come out all right, the day being warm, the magnolias being in bloom and the cherry blossoms all ready to pop, it seemed like a good idea to let the feudily and fussy "take care of itself and go to somebody about fishin'." Best authority, and the logical candidate for any such serious interview, was of course, Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

The other day Doc Gabrielson signed the last letter in his third floor Interior Building office and went fishing for good. He is retiring from his job after 30 years of government service. The resignation isn't effective until April 1, but "Gabe" had a little leave coming, and he and Mrs. Gabrielson, having rustled four new tires for their old car, headed for Florida to lie in the sun, watch the dickie birds—and fish.

Gabe was one of the most amazing characters in Washington. He is bigger than all outdoors himself, weighing 250, and he has one of the grandest smiles and friendliest faces in this whole capital community of verbal cutthroats and backstabbers. It probably comes from his lifetime interest in the funny, furry, and feathery friends who are, after all, pretty decent, compared with humans.

Salmon packers and duck hunters are among the few who declare all predatory humans and let me regulate the open season on 'em, we'd soon be rid of the pests, he says, with a twinkle in his gray eyes.

Dr. Gabrielson looks for a big increase in the number of fishermen and hunters this year. That happened after the last war, and it's going to happen again. That's why conservation is all the more important.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD. (NEA)—Epidemic of private detectives on the screen since Dick Powell's hit in "Murder My Sweet" has police departments all over the land writing letters of protest to Hollywood producers.

Chief complaint is that the private "eyes" usually outfit and outsmart the police. "We get enough complaints from citizens," one letter read, "without being pictured as dumbbells."

Now that Hollywood is having a touch of cold weather, Constance Moore is wearing only heads and bangles for her role in "Earl Carroll's Sketchbook." "It m-m-may be the first time," she says, "that they hand an Academy award to a g-g-goosepimple." After Irene Dunne landed the role of Winnie in the new film "The Sign of the Cross," Dorothy Stickney, creator of the part on the stage, wired: "Good luck, darling. Only a woman like you could have taken him away from me."

THEME SONG
Singer David Street, who is being sued for divorce by Lois Andrews, just recorded a new tune, "In Love in Vain." Now that spring is almost here, Bob Crosby's recording of "Let It Snow" is a big hit.

Bill Gargan has invested a small fortune in two San Francisco hotels, the St. Francis and the Fairmont. Republic studio publicity director Les Kaufman is blushing. The birth announcement cards of his new son carried the misprinted birthdate of 1911. The new English film, "The Seventh Veil," is a good example of Hollywood's "I'm worried about English competition. It is an excellent film. Comet Productions is talking to Notre Dame officials about a picture to be called "The Fighting Irish."

Julian Young, the Beverly Hills matry doctor, designer, will become a papa this summer. The cycle of portraying psychopathic cases on the screen continues. Laraine Day will play one in "What Nancy Wanted." Gene Raymond is reading the New York paper, "Blood on the Snow."

98-CENT PROFILE
Overheard: Brian Aherne posing for a sidewalk autograph fan armed with a 98-cent camera, with the fan demanding: "Gimme your best profile." Jean Hersholt had to turn down an offer to play the lead in "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." Jean would like to play a villain again, but can't because of his "Dr. Christian" air series. Remember his villainy in such films as "Greedy?"

Frank Loesser's song, "Rodger Young," written over a year ago, is due for a terrific revival with the acceptance of the dead hero as a symbol of all war veterans. Gall Russell is helping John Shelton forward Kathryn Grayson. Paul Henreid heads for Vienna this spring to see his mother and to arrange for her return to Hollywood.

Lynn Bari is celebrating her 11th year as a 20th Century-Fox star. Not in the Script: "Hollywood's best film propaganda is no propaganda."—Movie Critic Er Johnston.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

I see that a woman's organization in Southern California has broken into print with the suggestion that Uncle Sam be modernized. They want his whiskers shaved off and his old-fashioned costume removed. Though they don't say where he could get a new suit of clothes.

Personally, I like Uncle Sam the way he is. I don't want him to be wearing red-and-white striped slacks, a blue turtle-neck sweater and a star-spangled beret, and looking like a combination of Van Johnson and Charles Boyer.

But can you imagine what would happen if that's how he did look? Can't you just see the recruiting posters with the new Uncle Sam on them, pointing a finger and saying, "I want you? Why, in one hour we'd have the biggest woman's army the world ever saw!"

MACKENZIE'S Column

AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 27.—This is by way of checking out of Europe, because your correspondent is about to embark for that sweet place, the like of which I'm not sure exists.

In short, I'm flying home. And now, as always when returning back after a protracted trip abroad, I'm feeling mighty good.

We've had the privilege on this trip of seeing epochal history in the making, for Europe is in the midst of the greatest of the great crises it has known. Our observations have appeared daily in this column, but there remains one outstanding impression to be recorded—on the run, as it were, and it is this:

There is no way of life over here—social, economic, political—so good as that which our Uncle Sam has evolved.

The greenest fields always are those far away, and folk who are looking for Europe for guidance are chasing illusions. The fact is that the old world is pursuing all sorts of "isms" for the precise purpose of arriving at the state of well-being which exists in America.

The trouble with Europe is that, badly speaking, it never has achieved even a smattering of the democracy which America has established. This continent now is undergoing a great metamorphosis which is calculated to improve the position of the underprivileged, and achieve some of the advantages which Uncle Sam long has known.

The ideal is perfect, but my observation is that in many instances countries are going about the transformation through the application of theories which may raise the standard of living somewhat in the long run, but which at the same time are depriving the man in the street of personal privileges and the right of private initiative.

Well, everybody to his own taste, but your correspondent is glad that his passport has the American eagle stamped in gold right on the front cover. Any of his fellow countrymen who have the idea that they would like to see some European "ism" inaugurated in the United States should come over here and tour about for a while.

There is, by the way, still room in Europe for those Americans who prefer foreign forms of government to their own.

So They Say

"HULLO—won't you come in?" Ann replied mechanically.

That it seemed, was their intention. Also they demanded to be put up for the night. Nina had gone along with Jack when he drove up to Port Farrar, to interview a wealthy and bedridden client, and they'd gotten caught in the storm and decided it was silly to go on when they had good friends so close.

Colin explained that the temperature of their kitchen was enough to discourage Admiral Byrd, so if they were willing to eat what the Drakes intended to eat, they were more than welcome. He took Nina's fur coat, established them all comfortably around the fire, then set himself to making hot rum punch.

Colin was very competent, Ann thought dreamily, as she sat with a mug of the warming drink in hand and watched him stirring up batter, and putting strips of bacon in the waffle iron. She roused herself, presently, enough to measure the coffee and plug in the percolator.

Somehow, the evening wasn't so bad as she had expected. Maybe the St. Paul punch helped. Ann didn't talk very much, but she smoked a great many cigarettes, and listened to the others, who seemed to have no difficulty carrying on a normal polite conversation. Jack seemed a little remote, she thought, but Nina and Colin talked with the easy familiarity of old friends. It was midlight before she knew it, and Ann roused herself to be an excellent imitation of Connie as the competent hostess. She showed them to the bedroom, and got out pajamas for Jack and Ann, and a nightgown and robe for Nina. "It's a case of striking a happy

Texas Today

Tired of waiting for those new cars, Well, build your own. These Texans did:

In Wichita Falls Emory Kent, a mechanic, constructed a snappy model of discarded steel bed frames, a motor, transmission assembly, wheels originally made for use on wheelbarrows, heavy-gauge sheet metal and other odds and end.

It is five horsepower, goes 50 miles an hour, makes 55 miles to the gallon, weighs 500 pounds, is 36 inches long from bumper to bumper and 51 inches wide, and cost him $300, not counting the odd hours he put in over a six-month period.

The Kent car was built in his own back yard without benefit of blueprints in 240 man-hours, or 30 eight-hour days, spread over the six months.

It has three speeds forward, but no reverse. Parking is easy, he says.

It has all conveniences, even a cigaret lighter on the dashboard. The engine was used originally for stationary pump work. The transmission is from motorcycle. It has eight-inch Firestone tires.

He has given it to his daughter Helen, 14, who is too young for a driver's license. So he has put 1,000 miles on it himself.

His main difficulty is getting people to believe he made it, he says.

Eddie Stone 14, and Guyon Saunders, 16, of Amarillo, built their own car, too.

They made it from a 20-year-old transmission, an old motor, a few pieces of lumber, some scrap tin and lot of ingenuity. They burn only high octane gasoline.

Young Guyon said he has built about five cars, but the present is tops. It is built from parts of his previous cars, plus other odd parts.

It has a 52-inch wheelbase, stands three-and-a-half feet high, has three speeds forward, and a brake operated by hand.

The engine is five-eighths horsepower, and the car once got up to 60 miles an hour before it turned over on a bad place in the road. Cost was about $50 for parts.

4-Minute Rule, Coaches' Pain, To Be Modified

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—The basketball rule prohibiting re-entry of any player in the last four minutes of a game—a coach's headache during its one season in the book—went out the window today and a more liberalized version was ready to take its place.

The modification of the four-minute rule was one of four minor changes made in the case sports legislation by the National Basketball committee of the United States and Canada which closed its annual two-day rules-making session here yesterday.

Under the new rules, one re-entry per player will be allowed during the last four minutes of a game and the clock will be stopped automatically throughout that period whenever the ball is dead.

The committee also decided to:

- 1. Make the use of transparent backboards optional.
2. Make it mandatory to call a "jump ball" six feet from the boundary whenever the ball goes out after having been touched by two opposing players simultaneously, or if the officials can't agree who touched it last, or if their vision was blocked and they don't know who touched it last.
3. Amend the running rule so that a player who comes to a legal stop with feet parallel can use either foot as his pivot foot.

60 Register for AAU Boxing Tournament

DALLAS, March 27.—(AP)—Approximately 60 Texas amateur fighters have registered for the Southwestern AAU boxing tournament here tonight and tomorrow night.

Winners in each of the eight weight classes will receive trophies and the right to compete against teams from Nebraska, Missouri and Colorado in the regional AAU tournament at Omaha, Nebraska.

Aggies Capture Second Straight Basketball Title

By JOE REICHLER NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—Hank Iba, 42-year-old coach of the only school to win the NCAA basketball crown two straight years, believes his present Oklahoma A. and M. aggregation is even better than his "dream" five of last year which won the NCAA title and went on to defeat DePaul for the national championship.

In vanquishing a strong North Carolina quintet 43-40 at Madison Square Garden last night before 18,479 fans, the Aggies scored their 15th consecutive conquest and closed the season with a record of 31 victories in 33 games.

Seven-foot Bob Kurland provided a majority of the points. The red-haired giant center hooped 23 to raise his season record total to 643 points. His 72 point total in three NCAA clashes not only earned him the award as the outstanding player in the tournament, but enabled him to pass Elmore Morgenthaler of New Mexico Mines as the nation's top collegiate scorer.

"This team as a whole is better than the cagers I had a year ago," Iba, just concluding his 19th year as a court mentor, added. "It is more solid. While my 1945 champions were a higher scoring outfit, they were not as good on defense. Also this is a better clutch team. It will get those points when the ships are down."

Of this year's personnel, Kurland, Weldon Kern, Blake Williams and J. L. Parks were on last year's array, but the addition of Sam Autrey, Joe Bradley and the return of J. L. Bennett after three years in the army gave the Aggies stronger reserves than last year.

Standing a good chance in the field events but with an unknown quantity in most of the track events the Pampa Harvesters will meet the Wichita Falls Coyotes in a dual track meet here Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

Wichita Falls accepted the invitation last Monday and their coach, Elmer Brown, will bring along 15 boys to represent his school.

Pampa can expect most of its points in the field events—the discus, shot put, broad jump, high jump and pole vault—but has a few good dash or distance men.

Carl Mayes' will possibly be the only Pampa runner with a sure chance of winning his event—the 100-yard dash. Pampa's hurdles men, too, may stand a fair chance but little hope appears in the longer distances.

Randall Clay can easily take care of the discus throw and Pampa can possibly provide a second place in that event in Bill Speer, who throws consistently around 130 or more feet.

In the shot put, Lonnie Williams has hit 42 feet plus and can possibly win that event. Bobby Boyles or Zeke Griffin can furnish a close second and third if their luck holds out. Clay's broad jump, if he hits the 27-foot, 2-inch mark he set at Lubbock, may also be enough to win or at least a close second. His high jump, too, although not up to some standards, may win a few points.

Pampa's pole-vaulting chances appear to be fair although none has shown up too well this year.

In the track events, Lonnie Williams, Bernie Brown, Carl Mayes, Jim Wilson, Leon Gooch, Clay, and others may get enough points to give Pampa an edge.

By The Associated Press Domination of Texas schoolboy track and field by San Antonio appears definitely at an end after a couple of great years in which the title rested in the southern city.

Adamson and Woodrow Wilson of Dallas, Paschal of Fort Worth, Corpus Christi and Austin have pushed forward as leaders of the 1946 campaign.

No individual star runner has shown to compare with Charley Parker of 1944 or Perry Samuels of 1945 while Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio was winning the championship one year and finishing second to Brackley of the west. But here's a star of the field out in the South Plains who bids fair to equal Parker and Samuels as a point-getter. He's Randall Clay, the all-around athlete of Pampa.

The other day Clay pitched the discus 152 feet 2 inches—just 3 feet, and 5 inches under the state record—broad jumped 21 feet 7 1/2 inches and high jumped 5 feet 6 inches. In the latter event he could have gone higher but that's all he needed to win.

A number of athletics over the state are already nearing the best marks of last year. Raymond Peacock of Carlisle has bettered the high jump standard. He leaped 6 feet 1 3/4 inches at the Southwestern exposition meet at Fort Worth and that's an inch and three quarters higher than the winning mark at the 1945 state meet.

Clay is well ahead of his winning throw in the discus of 136 feet 3 inches and J. R. Tucker, Adamson's versatile star, jumped 21 feet 2 1/2 inches and high jumped 5 feet 6 inches. In the latter event he could have gone higher but that's all he needed to win.

Other top marks over the state this season have been: 440-yard dash—A. J. Fritz, Galveston, 51.2. Shot Put—John Seiler, Jefferson (San Antonio), 47 feet 10 inches. 200-yard low hurdles—23.3 by Albin Means, Brackley (San Antonio) and Robert Hall, Woodrow Wilson (Dallas).

Mile relay—3:35.5, by Adamson. The class A and class B schools will finish up their district meets this week. Class AA schools will decide district champions by April 13. The state meet at Austin is May 2 and 3.

Senators' Prize Rookie Develops Set of Blisters

By GAYLE TALBOT ORLANDO, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Easily the most tragic set of blisters in the south this spring are on the trotted feet of young Gil Coan, who reported to the Washington Senators tagged as a sort of combination Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth.

Gil, who hit 372 for Chattanooga last year and led the Southern association in virtually everything except gate receipts, wore an ill-fitting pair of shoes at the outset of training until his feet were festooned with white water blisters.

The result is that he has been able to show Manager Ossie Bluge next to nothing, and almost certainly will go back to the minors for another season.

To make the situation doubly ironic, another rookie named Roy Goolbsy, whom nobody ever heard of, is fast taking over the outfield spot that had been reserved for the unfortunate Coan. He is just out after a three-year cruise in the navy, and his only pre-war experience was in the Florida State league.

The Nat pilot is going to the field in the coming American league race perhaps the most outlandish crew of southpaw hitters on record. Only Gerry Priddy, his second-baseman, bats right. Even his catcher, Jake Early, is a lefty.

Asked what he thought his team's chances were this year Bluge confessed he expected to get a lot of good pitching.

"Also," he continued wryly, "we are supposed to have a little hitting power, ourselves, but it seems to have been misplaced lately."

Layne Pitches No-hit Contest

AUSTIN, March 27.—(AP)—Bobby Layne, Texas university's ace ball carrier on the gridiron, pitched a no-hit, no-run baseball game yesterday to give the Longhorns a 7 to 0 victory over Southwestern university.

Layne struck out 16 men, retiring 15 in a row. Only five Pirates reached first, four on walks and another on an error. He was also Texas' leading batter with two doubles and a single.

Phillies Get Rollie Hemsley From Yanks

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies returned here happy today, despite the fact that they were held to a single hit by the Baltimore Orioles of the International league yesterday. General Manager Hobb Penneck told the squad he had purchased the high-caliber catcher he promised to land before the season starts. The new backstop, Rollie Hemsley, purchased from the New York Yankees for $10,000, will join the Phillies today.

O'Neill Announces Opening Day Lineup

LAKELAND, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill today announced the opening day American league lineup his world champion Detroit Tigers will present. Dick Wakefield, Barney McCosky and Pat Mullin will be in the outfield. Hank Greenberg will be at first base. Jimmy Webb at second, Eddie Lake at shortstop and Jimmy Outlaw at third. Hal Newhouser will be on the mound and either Paul Richards or George "Birdy" Tebbets will catch. The lineup, however, is subject to change without notice.

Galveston To Stage 5-Mile Swim Meet

GALVESTON, March 27.—(AP)—An open five-mile distance swim meet with $1,000 in prizes to winners will be a special attraction of Galveston splash day, May 12. Sam Maceo, chairman of events of the Greater Galveston Beach association, announced.

Baker's Team Ties For 2nd Honors in Wichita Falls Meet

WICHITA FALLS, March 27.—(AP)—A foursome of Herb Schroeder, Lubbock professional and amateur Bob Wolf and Buddy Schultz of Wichita Falls and L. E. Rogers of Phillips won the first monthly West Texas pro-amateur association best ball golf tournament here yesterday with a 10-under-par score of 62.

Ted Wilks Receives Slight Arm Injury

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—X-ray picture of pitcher Ted Wilks' right elbow revealed no bone injury and his physician said the pain in the St. Louis Cardinal hurler's right arm probably was due to systematic infection from bad tonsils.

OVERVIRE, TRUCKS STAR

LAKELAND, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Detroit world champion Tigers are beginning to get top-notch burning from their pitching staff. Stubby Overvire and Virgil (Fire) Trucks faced only 39 batters and allowed just three singles between them in blanking the Boston Red Sox 4-0 yesterday.

TWO JOIN PHILS MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies have two more players in camp. Second baseman Roy Hughes, the former Cub who had been holding out, and Catcher Rollie Hemsley, bought from the New York Yanks Monday, joined the club Tuesday.

Congress Plans Easter Holiday

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP)—Congressional leaders have agreed to give members a little time for electioneering during the Easter season. No formal recess is planned, they told a reporter today, but from mid-April to May 1 major business will be shunted aside. Easter is April 21. Members of several committees still considering key measures will be expected to stay on the job, but other lawmakers will be free to make a jaunt home to talk with their voters. Whether such touchy issues as draft extension, a new lease on life for OPA and emergency housing legislation can be disposed of before the spring recess remains to be seen. Speaker Rayburn, D-Texas, said the Easter holiday is being cut shorter than usual, so congress can push through and close up business over the summer for the general elections. He set July 10 as a tentative adjournment date.

UAW Election

(Continued from page one) bellowed thunderously by the Reutherites. In the midst of it, Reuther walked up to Thomas on the stage and the rivals who have hurled bitter campaign epithets at each other smiled and exchanged remarks. Both sides continued to express confidence of victory. The Atlantic City broadwalk was strangely quiet last night except for a bit of natural thunder and lightning in the sky as the two candidates conferred in their hotel rooms with little knots of delegates. Yesterday's convention session again produced general confusion, heckling and loud protests from delegates who couldn't get the floor. Thomas went into the balloting with the support of Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes and Vice-President Richard T. Frankenstein, while Reuther stood along among the four top officers of the 600,000 member union.

"The navy is laying up ships because it has no fuel for them," Thompson said. Texas is the only present available source of the supply of crude from which fuel oil can be processed, and that John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary of the navy informed him he would send supply officers to Texas in an attempt to obtain the oil. UNO Council

(Continued from page 1) his government still has him under instructions to press its protests that Red army troops have overstayed their post-war occupation limit, despite a Russian contention that a mutual agreement has been reached with Teheran and that Soviet troops are withdrawing. He did not define his reference to "other matters." The members of the sub-committee on "procedure" to which the Iranian issue was referred are Russian delegate Andrei Gromyko, U. S. Secretary of State James P. Byrnes and France's ambassador to Washington, Henri Bonnet. Gromyko lost the first round in the council session when his motion to delete the Iranian issue from the proposed agenda was defeated 9-2. Poland alone supporting Russia. Havipe lost the first battle on procedure to majority forces led by Secretary Byrnes and Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain. Gromyko responded with a proposal that the Iranian charges be put over for discussion April 10. The Russian delegate said he could not before that date "participate or attend meetings of the security council in which the security council discussed the substance of matters raised by the Iranian government." Byrnes again argued for an immediate hearing of Iran, declaring that the Iranian delegation was present and should be given the opportunity to testify.

Wheat Exports

(Continued from page one) congress against keeping OPA alive after June 30 has created a state of uncertainty. Food officials say the best thing that could happen, from the standpoint of the foreign relief program, would be early congressional action on price control. Farmers then would know what kind of prices they could count upon. Then they would be more willing to sell their grain now than to hold it. The suggestion has been made in some quarters that the government attempt to hurdle this tendency of farmers to hold wheat by offering a special bonus price between now and June 30—the critical period of wheat needs overseas. But this proposal is being objected to on the grounds that it would be inflationary. Yet, there are only two ways of obtaining grain. One is by offering a price which the grower considers satisfactory. The other is by confiscation. There is no thought being given to the latter method.

Lummus Boys Arrive In Shamrock on Leave

SHAMROCK—Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lummus arrived here this week on leave. Harold, who is a First Class Seaman, has been in service for two years, and served with the armed guard for 13 months in the Pacific area, Philippine, Okinawa, Guam and Saipan. He has been at Treasure Island for the past six months and will report at Norman, Okla., April 5. Captain Lummus is with the merchant marines, and has been in service since last May and aboard the USS David Galliard. He is here on 29 day leave and will again go aboard ship when he reports for service.

Pick and Shovel

(Continued from Page One) After the exact line is marked off by string and red flags, the huge, masonry ditcher starts, moving inch by inch as the long 'arm' with toothed shovels revolves. Meanwhile, the workmen are following right along behind the machine laying the pipe—and standing in a ditch over 20 feet deep with the water being lowered to you is undoubtedly no child's play. Instead of tamping the earth down to hold the pipe stationary, cement is poured in around the edges of the joints, which will insure against the pipe's exposure to the earth's harmful elements. Also to be reckoned with along the line are the manholes, for which the ditch has to be widened—this is one of the few hand digging processes needed. After the circular widening is done, the walls will be lined with brick and the manhole equipment, some of which will go down 27 feet, is placed inside. The line will follow its current southward route to a point south of the city. From there it will traverse along the south edge of the Wilcox addition and then branch out into laterals. Today's rain, which completely halts work, will not delay the project too long, however. Two new pumps were brought here by the contractors and will be used to pump water and mud out of the ditch. A shortage of pipe caused the work on the 18-inch line to be delayed so workmen are going ahead on the 12-inch. More of the 18-inch, however, will begin arriving soon.

Someone Must Take Up for Prairie Dogs

This morning the agent who is waging a battle against typhus disease in Pampa dropped in at the News office to ask why we were sympathizing with the "poor little prairie dogs," which "everyone knows spread typhus." An article appeared yesterday in the News, quoting a couple of random statements from Miss Velma Flax Osborn, secretary to the county agent. Miss Osborn had said "It's a dirty deal . . . they think you're being nice to them, and sure enough you are," in describing how prairie dogs were baited with poisoned maize. It was not the intention of either Miss Osborn or the News to have the above remarks taken seriously. The poisoned maize has been around the county agent's office for months. It is a common practice in Gray county and wherever else prairie dogs are, to get rid of them, not only because of the fact they carry typhus and perhaps other diseases, but because they burrow into fields, causing harm to crops. The idea Miss Osborn was referring to, was that in baiting prairie dogs, you feed good grain to prairie dogs to accustom them to the practice, then you put in the poisoned grain. It is all according to well-known psychological "laws." Dogs are trained along the same fundamentals; criminals are caught by detectives by the same rules; and it is all what is called experience in every day living. The only difference is that after a prairie dog is poisoned once he doesn't have the chance not to make the same mistake again. We appreciate the seriousness of the effects from prairie dogs; agree wholeheartedly that the fewer the better, just like rats and mice, etc., but how many persons in Gray county or elsewhere would be able to express the idea of baiting prairie dogs, and all the implications of baiting seen everyday, so delightfully as Miss Osborn?

Spy Mystery

(Continued from page 1) under "intensive FBI scrutiny" for several months, Hoover said in Washington. State department officials and the Russian embassy were silent. There was no immediate clearcut answer to the No. 1 question posed by the arrest: Could atomic bomb secrets be involved? But a broad hint that they might be came from the house committee on un-American activities, which for several weeks has been digging into reports that a foreign spy ring is at work in this country. CLOSED DOOR MEETING Committee Counsel Ernie Adamson said the group headed by Rep. John S. Wood (D-Ga) has a closed-door meeting scheduled for today, adding to a reporter: "I assume after the meeting the chairman will have something to say about this arrest." At Portland, Bernard said Redin was charged with obtaining information about the U. S. S. Yellowstone for use and advantage of "a foreign nation, to wit the U. S. S. R." And had "induced another to obtain plans, documents and writings" relating to a warship of the U. S. navy. Bernard said the charge accused Redin of action "against the peace and dignity of the United States of America."

Choral Contests

(Continued from page 1) The Pampa Girls' Glee club, a group composed of 88 volunteers, not selected, sang "Let All My Life Be Music," "Rain," Curran, and "Come, Spirits, 'Tis His Day," Bach and Luvass, accompanied by Miss Angela Duncan and directed by Miss Scheffagen. Solos were entered by Wellington, Amarillo and Borger high schools. Small ensembles were entered by Borger and Amarillo. Towns represented in the Borger contest, in which about 500 students participated, were Amarillo, Borger, Wellington, Tulsa and Pampa. Solos and small ensembles were heard in the First Baptist church, the rest at the Junior high school auditorium.

Behind Russia's Iron Curtain

The Story of Stalin's Viceroy

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fifth of several dispatches dealing with the men "Behind Russia's Iron Curtain," written for NEA Service by a veteran foreign correspondent.

By JOACHIM JOESTEN
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 27—(NEA)—President Zoltan Tildy is the only ruler in the Soviet orbit not hand-picked by Stalin; he was elected by the people. Despite this slight irregularity in procedure, he now is a member in good standing of the viceroy's club.

While Tildy may not see eye to eye with the Soviet dictator on a good many points, he has resigned himself to loyal acceptance of the basic fact that Hungary, for a long time to come, will have to dance to Moscow's tune.

Tildy's appearance on the international scene has been truly meteoric. Six months ago he was totally unknown outside of his country. Suddenly he had won a national election. He became premier, then president. Before Hungary had a new strong man.

Zoltan Tildy is the most incongruous man in the Soviet setup. He is not only a landowner like Groz, but a moderate conservative like Paasikivi; he's also a baron and a clergyman.

STUDIED THEOLOGY

He was born in 1899 at Losone (Lusence), a medium-sized town in what now is Slovakia. This is one of the most hotly contested border regions in Central Europe. It belonged to Hungary before World War I, then was incorporated into the new republic of Czechoslovakia, was renounced by the Magyars after Munich and is now again part of the Czechoslovak state.

Young Tildy, after attending a Hungarian Protestant school at Pampa, went to North Ireland to study theology and history at the Belfast

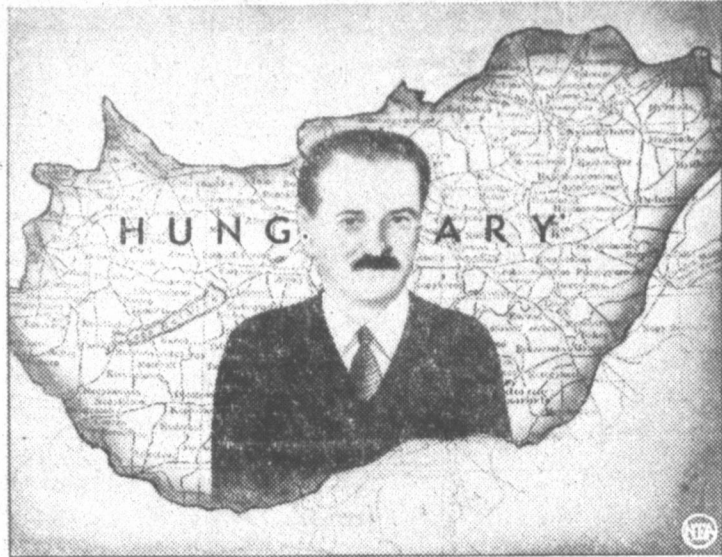

Presbyterian college. During this stay in Ireland, in 1913-14, he learned to like western life and thinking. After his return to his homeland, he became a Protestant minister and was for many years the head of Hungary's Calvinist church.

In the agitated years following the end of the first World War, Baron Tildy rallied to the Small Holders' Party, a moderately conservative group which was led for many years by Tibor Eckhardt.

He was elected to Parliament in 1936 and became one of the most influential leaders of his party, which worked hard to liberalize.

In 1937 he succeeded Eckhardt as party boss and two years later he concluded a political alliance with the Social-Democrats. The two groups attempted vainly to stem the rising trend of Nazi influence in the country.

As a result of the complete occupation of Hungary by the Germans in March 1944, Tildy, like other anti-Nazi Magyars, was forced to go underground. During the next few months he was one of the leaders of the Hungarian Independence Front which organized resistance against the German-controlled Budapest regime.

Eckhardt

months he was one of the leaders of the Hungarian Independence Front which organized resistance against the German-controlled Budapest regime.

On Oct. 15, 1944, Regent Horthy fled for an antidote. He was immediately deposed by Hitler and taken to Germany.

At the same time all Hungarian political leaders, not previously imprisoned were taken into custody, with the exception of the committee headed by "Arrow Cross" movement. Among the hundreds arrested and deported to German concentration camps was Baron Tildy.

His imprisonment did not last long, however. A few months later Germany surrendered and Tildy was set free.

RETURNED TO HUNGARY

He returned to his country, where an anti-Nazi government headed by General Bela Miklos had taken power. Although the new cabinet comprised three members of the Small Holders' Party, it was largely controlled by communists.

In the months following the re-establishment of peace in Europe, the country reacted sharply against Soviet occupation methods and the dictatorial behavior of the Miklos regime.

In Nov. 4, a national election was held in Hungary. It resulted in a sweeping victory for the Small Holders, who captured 89 percent of the votes and 61 percent of the seats in Parliament.

Miklos immediately resigned, and Baron Tildy was called upon to form a new government. The Soviet authorities did not oppose his selection but insisted that he include several communists in his Cabinet, among them the aggressive party chief, Matthias Rakosi, as vice-premier.

On Feb. 1, 1946, the Hungarian Parliament abolished the Regency and, for the third time, proclaimed the Magyar state a republic. (The first two republics, in 1848 and 1918, were both of short duration.) At the same time, the Assembly by acclamation elected Tildy president of the republic for a four-year term. Another member of his party, Ferenc Nagy, succeeded him as premier.

The powers of the president are limited, the new constitution being patterned on the French rather than on the American model. Tildy already has demonstrated, however, that he is not a figurehead and still runs the country.

Shortly before his election to the presidency, Tildy answered critics in the ranks of his own party who found him yielding too easily to pressure from the Left with this statement:

"The Government is not being led by the Left but by me. Many of the radical measures it has taken, I initiated myself, though they have been attributed to others. When I became premier I knew I would have to take unpopular steps.

One of the most unpopular of these was the ratification of the trade agreement with Russia which gave the latter a 50-50 interest in Hungary's economic life.

The treaty was protested by the United States and Great Britain, but Russia insisted on its acceptance. It was ratified with minor alterations.

The outlook for Tildy's first year in office is anything but pleasant. His own forecast, made as early as last August, that Hungary's food situation this year would be "inhuman" is now being sadly fulfilled. There is widespread starvation in Budapest and other Magyar cities.

MINORITY IN SLOVAKIA

President Tildy is also deeply worried by the forecasted border province now again under Czechoslovak rule.

Physically, Baron Tildy, is unimpressive—small, swarthy, with a large, domed forehead and wavy black hair streaked with gray. He has the typical gentle bearing and persuasive manners of a minister of a minister of the church. Despite his slight appearance, he is what the Hungarians call a "thick-necked Calvinist," a man who can be as stubborn as he is honest and austere.

When Tildy became premier last November, the United States had just recognized Hungary's provisional government. Since then diplomatic relations have been fully restored. The newly appointed Hungarian Consul General in Washington, Dr. Victor Chornoky, is President Tildy's son-in-law.

NEXT: The Two Tildys.

Both Mrs. Hancock and Mr. Richey were residents of Paris, Texas, where funeral services were to be held today. Mrs. Hancock was a sister, and Mr. Richey a brother-in-law of Mrs. Ethel McEwing of this city, who was with them at the time of their deaths, and also of Mrs. Harry Burden, who left Sunday to go to Paris. Mrs. Ernest Ends and Mrs. Ray Horn of this city are nieces.

"No wonder your diet isn't taking off any weight—you sit up late every night with those detective stories, and those 'box office' books."

Lefors Junior Play Is Success

LEFORS, March 27—The Junior Play "Mumbo Jumbo" was a complete success last night. Every seat was occupied, there were extra chairs in the aisles and in back and people were standing in the hall trying to get into the high school auditorium. The audience was composed mostly of young high school girls and their boy friends, with a sprinkling of junior high kids and their parents.

Right in the middle of the first act, the power went off, throwing the whole town into pitchblack darkness. But this did not dampen these Lefors kids. Instead of getting up and leaving, they sang. Someone played the piano while the audience joined in and sang such favorites as "Eastern Parade," "Some Sunday Morning," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "The Bells of St. Mary's," and many others.

Then a quartet, composed of Berryman Breining, Raymond Vanderlinden, Wade Stracener, and Noel Clemmons, sang "Down by the Riverside." Miss June Southwick sang "Symphony." Shortly after that, the lights came on and the play continued.

Between the first and second acts, a Negro girl, and Miss June Bull, a Negro girl, and Miss June Bull, dressed as a Negro boy, gave a tap dance.

After the second act, which was a riot of fun and laughter, Miss June Southwick sang "Stardust."

All in all, the whole play was a big success. Clell Breining as Dick Reynolds, and Vesta James, as Tweedy, were so natural that they did not seem to be acting at all, but actually lived their parts.

The money is to be used in the forthcoming Junior-Senior banquet.

Rainey Would Lower Voting Age

CORSICANA, March 27.—(AP)—Dr. Homer P. Rainey, frequently mentioned as a candidate for governor, in the democratic primary, would lower the voting age in Texas from 21 to 18 years and remove "other disfranchising shackles."

The former president of the University of Texas set forth these views in an address here before the Navarro young democrats club.
