Requisition On Austrians To Be Probed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 23—(AP)—Russia lost in a move before UNRRA today to prevent discussions of the manner in which Soviet troops are requisitioning land and other resources in Austria.

It was the second instance today of Europe's post-war political irritations cutting across the purely relief duties assigned to UNRRA.

Earlier Poland and the United Kingdom indulged in charges and counter-charges about the manner in which refugees were being cared for in Europe.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE
The suggestion to discuss Russian troop actions in Austria came from UNRRA's central committee, which wants the full council to discuss the effect Russian requisition on the Austrians has had on the UNRRA program there.

Russia's N. I. Feonov objected to UNRRA's debating the question. He contended it was purely a political question and should properly be decided by the Allied control commission in Berlin.

SYSTEMATIC PROPAGANDA
Only Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and the Ukraine voted with Russia and the matter will come up before the council later.

Earlier Poland charged that displaced persons in the British zone in Germany were "exposed to the See UNRRA MEET, Page 8

Soviets Sought Atomic Secrets Long Time Ago

MONTREAL, March 23—(AP)—Soviet agents were on the trail of Canada's atomic energy secrets at least five months before the world first heard of the atomic bomb last August, according to evidence submitted by the government in its spy trials today.

Special Prosecutor E. Philippe Brab submitted for the first time documents purportedly stolen from the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, documents which form the backbone of the government's case against its employees and others accused of conspiring to give Russia scientific and other wartime secrets to the detriment of the safety of their own country.

According to these documents:
1. Soviet agents as early as March 28, 1945, knew of Canada's work on atomic energy and were instructing their Canadian cooperators to report on it.

2. Canadian members of the espionage network accepted money for their services.
3. The Canadians were given orders through the Soviet embassy in Ottawa to get specific information on certain phases of Canada's secret research as well as to supply general information. Among the inventions sought was "a radar device for use in the Pacific" and a new explosive propellant alginate in which "the Americans are said to be very interested."

4. Many of the meetings between the Soviet agents and the Canadians were held at night on street corners in Ottawa.
5. The Russians ordered and had printed in a government publication an article on "The Conflict Between Dominion Parties" in last summer's Dominion general election.
6. "The Director," heretofore identified only in this way, the guiding hand in Moscow of the spy operations here, was "the chief of the See ATOMIS SECRETS, Page 8

Canadian To Vote On Bond Issues

CANADIAN March 23 (Special)—A bond election will be held in Canadian next Tuesday. There will be three separate propositions on the ballots as follows:
(1) $74,000 for overhauling and extending the sewer system, and taking up $40,000 of water bonds. These will be "revenue bonds, and will not increase the tax rate.
(2) $30,000 for paving. The plan being to pave about 30 blocks so as to connect the school streets to paving which already exists.
(3) $20,000 for a fair park and recreation grounds. This project would include a swimming pool, fair barn, and a rodeo set-up.

While there has been no public speaking for or against any of these issues it is generally conceded that the sewer project will carry without opposition, but private conversations indicate that the recreation grounds project will be defeated.
The same private conversations indicate that most of the voters are for a paving project, but that they prefer to see the sewer project completed first, then to vote an even larger paving project later when, they hope, more paving might be obtained for the same expenditure.
It is estimated that the tax rate will not be over $1. per hundred even if all three issues carry.

HST CALLS ON DEMOS TO 'UNITE' A-BOMB TESTS ARE INDEFINITE

Interest in World Amity Brings Delay

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—A possibility arose today that the atom bomb tests may be put off still further, in the interest of world amity.

Two high administration sources, closely linked with preparations for the experiments in the Pacific, said they may be postponed indefinitely, until the nations are pulling together better. Senator Huffman (D-Ohio) called for flat cancellation, describing the trials as "sheer folly."

CONTINUE PLANS
The joint army-navy task force went ahead with plans to carry out the first test on July 1, six weeks later than the original date. Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, the commander, said in a statement that his force was ready to meet the original schedule.

The two administration officials would not allow the use of their names in view of President Truman's announcement last night that the historic events, scheduled to start May 15, were postponed for about six weeks to permit at least one of congressmen who want to be witnesses.

REASONS FOR DELAY
One of them, however, said it was CONTINUE PLANS

Health Officers See 'No Danger' In Meat Incident

AMARILLO health officials discounted yesterday any imminent danger to Pampans as the result of the outbreak of a respiratory disease that struck an Amarillo packing concern last week.

Two brothers, both employees of the concern, died last week of an unknown ailment and several other workers were hospitalized, but practically all of the hospital cases have been discharged.

Dr. J. Hooper Amarillo city health officer, told Daily News reporter yesterday in a telephone conversation that there was no sign of any danger to Pampans or other out-of-town consumers.

"We have not found the disease to be traceable to any type of meat sold in retail stores," Dr. Hooper said. "The disease appears to result purely from the handling of freshly killed meat."

He continued by saying that any harmful bacteria could be completely destroyed by refrigeration methods employed in the distribution of the firm's output.

Dr. N. L. Nicholl, local health official, said all meat that could have possibly affected Pampans was recalled to the plant before it reached here and that the plant was completely closed until a thorough investigation could be made.

The state health department has sent technicians to Amarillo to continue the study, but all immediate danger is said to be passed as no further cases have been reported.

CONFERENCE RESULTS SECRET

Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, right, leaves the Washington, D. C., office of United States Secretary of State James Byrnes after a conference. Although the ambassador declined to reveal what he and Byrnes had discussed, he indicated that Russia would seek postponement of consideration of the Russian-Iranian dispute if the security council meeting is held on schedule. He also conferred with President Truman.

Russians Promise To Quit Manchuria

CHUNGKING, March 23—(AP)—The Chinese government announced today that Russia had promised to withdraw all red army troops from Manchuria by April 30 as reports circulated that Chinese communists were maneuvering to move in behind the Russians.

RUSSIAN NOTE
Relief was expressed over the Russian note, but the domestic scene was darkened by growing evidence of non-cooperation between the communists and Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang.

Foreign Minister Wang Shih-Chieh told the people's political council that Russia had delivered Friday the long-awaited reply to a Chinese note asking when the red army would carry out its agreement to quit Manchuria.

TROOP WITHDRAWAL
Wang promised to furnish a written ten report of negotiations over Manchuria.

Government sources said it was unlikely that the Soviet troop withdrawal would apply to Dairen or other ports where Russian rights have been established by treaty.

The Central News Agency said 5,000 Chinese communists had filtered into the northern Manchurian city of Harbin. The world Daily News charged that communists troops were massing in neighboring

Collapse of Iranian Crisis Seen Possible

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
NEW YORK, March 23—(AP)—Hope of a real break in the Iranian crisis ran strong among United Nations officials today, and it appeared the security council meeting Monday, might pass without injury its most dangerous test to date.

UNO SPECULATION
UNO speculation based on statements by Premier Ahmed Qavam in Tehran is that in the next few days the Russians may begin to pull their troops out of Iran and back into Russia.

Such movement would take the wind out of the Iranian crisis, reducing it to a situation the security council should be able to handle with relative ease.

RUSSIAN BACKING
This speculation privately expressed by many authorities here was checked, however, by their fear that nothing might come of the bright prospects raised by Qavam—prospects heightened by Prime Minister Stalin's assurances yesterday of Russian backing for UNO.

REF ASKING DELAY
Russia is asking for a delay until April 10. The United States, has come out for immediate action and so has Britain. However, if Iran says there is no need to hurry, or if it actually favors delay in the interest of more direct negotiation with Russia, the props would be knocked from under the U. S. and Britain.

Both American and British officials welcomed the possibility, however slender, that Russian forces might get out of Iran without waiting for the security council to act. The great concern of these authorities is that the Iranian crisis, Page 8

Coverage for UNO Meeting Planned

NEW YORK.—The Associated Press has assigned a staff of experts on world affairs—writers who know the countries represented, the peoples, their customs, and the statesmen who will be making the news, to cover the United Nations session in New York.

It is one of the largest and most experienced staffs of reporters and photographers the AP ever brought together on one assignment—men who have spent years in various world capitals and top flight reporters selected from the Washington and New York bureaus.

Headed by Glenn Cobb, AP foreign news editor who spent many years in the Orient and who is just back from an extensive tour of China and Japan, this staff of specialists will write and interpret every phase of the UNO deliberations. There will be an AP reporter covering every delegation.

Many of the lead stories and interpretative articles will be handled by John Hightower, AP diplomatic writer whose brilliant and frequently exclusive stories are page one copy in newspapers around the globe. He covered the recent United Nations session in London.

TRIAL IN PARIS

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—A French resistance leader testified today that Ivan Dreyfus, one of the 27 persons Dr. Marcel Petiot is accused of slaying, was a representative of American radio firms in France who maintained clandestine resistance radios with a stock of repair parts.

Capt. Henri Boris-Gourard of the French air force, who said he directed a shortwave resistance information service, did not elaborate further on the American connections of the victim.

Final Fight for OPA Extension Is Taking Shape

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—The severity of the attack on OPA before congress cast doubts today on the shape in which price controls will survive after June 30.

With large segments of business and industry demanding an end of OPA, Charles Bowles, and other members of the administration economic high command decided to return to Capitol Hill next week to plead again for a one-year new lease on life for the pricing agency.

Moreover, Bernard M. Baruch, presidential adviser, was invited before the house banking committee to give his views on continuation of OPA.

Bowles and Paul Porter, OPA administrator, will return to the committee to give their answers to the vigorous and often bitter criticism of OPA laid down by industry and trade representatives.

Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, senior committee republican, said today the OPA act will be continued after the June 30 expiration date, but he predicted "about two thirds of the law will be rewritten."

The assault on OPA was topped off by the National Association of Manufacturers, which urged repeal of the act.

Corrigan Will Run for Senate

LOS ANGELES, March 23—(AP)—Douglas G. (Wrong Way) Corrigan has taken a political flier.

Speech Given At Jackson Day Rally

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—President Truman bid strongly tonight for more "unity" and "responsibility" in a democratic party whose "enlightened internationalism" he credited with bringing America to a position of world leadership.

'IT IS THE PARTY'S RESPONSIBILITY'
It is the party's responsibility, he said, to "continue to lead the way" toward friendship with all peoples and strengthening of the United Nations.

To fellow democrats gathered at some 300 Jackson Day rallies here and around the country, the President emphasized in his first speech with a definite political tag that:

"I cannot make too strong my plea for party unity and party responsibility."
He referred only mildly, however, to a "diversity of opinion" in democratic ranks. He left it to Secretary of Commerce Wallace to swing hard both at dissident democrats and the republican opposition.

'GREAT HARM' DONE PARTY
Speaking immediately before the chief executive, Wallace declared "Great harm" had been done in the party by "those who have joined in a coalition against progress" who warp themselves with the traditions of Jefferson and Jackson, but "whose actions belie their pretensions," Wallace added.

"So to keep our party on the side of progress, we must call upon those democrats who have been harmful to our cause to return to the way of Jefferson and Jackson—and to join our side of the fence with their backs as well as their wings."

POLITICAL RESPONSIBILITY
Neither the President nor Wallace mentioned the latter's demand earlier this week that congressmen who jump over party lines be expelled from the party.

But the President asserted that under the party system, political responsibility must rest with the chief executive and with the majority in congress.

PARTY PROGRAM DELAY
To meet this responsibility, he said, "all our members in the congress must cooperate wholeheartedly and help carry out our party platform. Unless this is done, the party program is delayed. I cannot make too strong my plea for party unity and party responsibility."

Amarillo Murder Suspect Arrested

DENVER, Colo., March 23—(AP)—Denver Sheriff Tom Wellington, at Amarillo, Texas, and John W. Twyman, 37, charged with the slaying of Walter Fowler of Amarillo, was arrested here today.

Detective Chief J. L. King of Amarillo and Denver detectives Edgar Levitt and Leonard Hardley took Twyman into custody as he sought to make a withdrawal from a Denver bank.

Fowler, truck driver for a motor freight lines, was slain as he stood in a loading yard. Police found a pistol in a nearby hotel room and a screen of the hotel showed it had been fired through.

Police at Amarillo were unable to establish a motive for the killing of Fowler.

Only Free Play Can Guarantee Civil Freedom

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—Highlights of President Truman's Jackson day dinner speech:

"Our party system remains one of the massive foundations of our liberty. Only the free play of political opposition can guarantee the survival of our civil freedom."

"The domestic program of this administration has been a program to make the system of free enterprise work."

"Unless we can keep prices and rents under control until we have normal production flowing from our factories, our economic stability is in peril."

"I am confident that if new policy of wages and prices will pave the way for the greatest outpouring of consumer goods that the world has ever seen."

"We will never permit our national wealth to be wrecked on the rock of special privilege."

"Under our party system, political responsibility must rest with the President and with the majority in the congress. To meet this responsibility, all our members in the congress must cooperate wholeheartedly and help carry out our party platform. Unless this is done, the party program is delayed. I cannot make too strong my plea for party unity and party responsibility."

"We are on our way to a balanced budget and further reduction in the public debt. Full production, maximum employment, and a balanced budget." See CIVIL FREEDOM, Page 8

Solons Back Ship Canal Across Mexico

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A ship canal across Mexico, which they believe "would make the Gulf ports the great ports of the world," is being boomed by a Louisiana and an Alabama congressman.

Rep. Domengeaux (D-La.) plans to introduce a bill authorizing the war department to investigate the engineering and economic feasibility of a canal across the Isthmus of Tehauntepec.

Rep. Boykin (D-Ala.) said the measure will have his support as "the canal would be one of the greatest things that could ever happen." He said it has been discussed in the house rivers and harbors committee and he intends "to keep it alive."

Domengeaux proposes a canal larger than the one across Panama, which he says must be enlarged or supplemented with another capable of carrying the newest and largest warships.

"A new canal across the Tehauntepec isthmus would shorten the distance between Gulf and Pacific Coast ports by 1,500 miles and would place New Orleans, Mobile and Houston 1,000 miles closer to the Far East," Domengeaux told a reporter.

"Cost and feasibility is something for the U. S. engineers to figure out," he continued, "but it already has been reliably estimated that the canal would effect a gross saving of $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 to our merchant marine within 3 years after completion."

"Gross savings to Gulf Coast steamship operators would approximate $60,000,000 in 30 years, based on traffic already carried."

"It is my opinion that such a canal would make the Gulf ports the great ports of the world. The future of our foreign trade depends upon Eastern and Oriental markets, and the canal would not only put Southern manufacturers nearer the buyer but would cut 1,000 miles off shipments from the industrial Eastern United States."

"Two Atlantic-Pacific canals have been advocated for national defense, and if they are separated they would be harder to knock out. I agree with everything by colleague says," Boykin said. "Now is the time to put it through as a post-war project."

Domengeaux said his bill authorizing the war department study would provide that "due regard be given the sovereignty of Mexico," and reported he already had asked the state department to approach the southern republic regarding such a project.

The Isthmus of Tehauntepec is 183 miles across at the contemplated site of the canal, which would run from the Gulf of Tehauntepec on the Pacific to the Bay of Campeche on the Gulf of Mexico.

Salina Cruz, on the west, and Minatitlan, on the east, would be approximate terminals.

Two Hearings Set For First of April

April 11—Application of Fulwiler and Hughes for a discovery allowance on their Templeton number one well Coleman county regular field. The railroad commission ordered all operators in the old ocean field of Brazoria county to appear and show cause before the commission why the field should not be shut down in order to conserve 12,286,000 cubic feet of natural gas now being flared if such gas cannot be diverted to legal uses. Hearing was set for April 17.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

CAIRO, March 23.—(AP)—Mustapha Amin Youssef and his brother Ali Amin Youssef are identical twins and the "peck's bad boys" of the Egyptian parliament.

Both are six feet, two inches tall and weigh 230 pounds and look as much alike as two scrambled eggs.

When Mustapha announced his candidacy for parliament he met no opposition, but his brother Ali had to run against three other men. The territory was large, so the brothers dressed alike and both campaigned simultaneously as Ali Amin Youssef. The opposition was overwhelmed and Ali won easily.

"Such tremendous agility," said his constituents. "All seems to be two places at once."

Ali was educated in engineering in England and Mustapha studied government at George Washington university in Washington, D. C. They are co-publishers of the weekly news magazine, "Akbar Elyom," widely circulated throughout the Middle East.

Mustapha loves American and remembers most warmly a young lady there who he asked to attend his birthday party. She replied sorrowfully she was engaged for that evening.

"Oh, well," said Mustapha jocularly, "perhaps then you will come to my twin brother's birthday party?"

"I'd be only too delighted," replied the young lady seriously. "When is his birthday?"

Panhandle Pipeline Co. Asks FPC for Authority to Expand

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company has applied to the federal power commission for authority to increase capacity of its system by 90,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The increase was described as required to serve communities in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. A representative said the company also would continue its wartime service of gas to New York and Pennsylvania communities.

The company proposes to effect the capacity increase by a loop line installation, which would be a first step toward installing a new line similar to two lines the company already has extending from the Hugoton gas field in Texas and Kansas (CQ) to Detroit.

At 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, slightly more than $2,000.00 had been turned in to Perry Bear, secretary. Quota of the Shamrock area was $1,950.00.

Stuart Tisdal, chairman of the drive in the rural areas, reported that only one of his committees had reported. Bethel, with Harry Pace as chairman, had turned in an amount considerably above its quota.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

You want to give a party, but don't want it to be one of those dull, drippy affairs with the boys in one group and the girls in another. You want to be sure the games will click, the boys will dance and the girls won't encourage "pairing off." Right? Here's a letter from a hostess-to-be and the answer to a party question.

"I'm having a party sometime soon and I just can't ever be a good hostess. I've had a party before and believe me, it was a flop! We like to play games, but I can't get them started because I don't know what to say to the boys; they just sit around and talk about football. Another thing, when it's time for the party to end, I don't know what to say again."

Plan all the details of the party ahead of time and get everything ready in advance, so when the time comes, you'll know exactly what to do and have everything ready to do it.

Friday's Dance At Teen Canteen Is Huge Success

By JOHN LINDSEY
Publicity Chairman
Teen Canteen

The dance held at the Canteen Friday night was a great success.

The Canteen was so packed with bystanders and dancers throughout the evening that it was hard to get in the door. The dance floor occupied up until closing time.

Music was the slow type; the boogie woogie music was also very popular. Dick McCune, leader of the orchestra that played for the dance, said that most of the requests were for either "Star Dust" or "Symphony." All of the popular tunes were played.

Some of the jitter-bugs who have been dancing down at the Canteen for quite awhile are really getting down to business as far as cutting the rug goes. The jitter-bugs danced all evening long and could have kept it up longer.

Some knowing well they cannot dance were willing to learn and gave it a good try. There were a great variety of different sizes of dancers. Not only did boys and girls dance, but a great majority of the girls danced together.

Although it is a rule at the Canteen that membership cards must be presented at the door, this was impossible Friday night because of the huge number of teen-agers that turned out.

The crowd was possibly the biggest since the Canteen opened. A few of the women from the social and civic clubs were on hand to supervise things. However the dance was strictly in control of the Canteen council.

Interest in all activities at the Canteen is high but progress is slow. With the whole hearted cooperation and help from clubs and business men members of the Canteen believe they could make it one of the finest in the Panhandle.

At the present time the Berger Ten Town has at its meetings a representative from every Berger civic club. Their Canteen is highly recommended by everyone who has ever attended it.

Canteen goes believe that with the continued effort of the Canteen council and the help from the Pampa civic clubs the Canteen will become what Pampans hoped for for a long time.

Artists Desert Left Bank As Inflation Hits Paris

In time of peace, American artists could paint on the Left Bank of the Seine for a mere pittance. Today, cost of models, paints and frames makes it unprofitable for the artists to live and paint in the Greenwich Village of Paris.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 23 (NEA)—Even the artists, who once made Paris and the Left Bank a mecca for tourists and world Bohemians, are feeling the pinch of the black market. Before the war, for a mere pittance, struggling artists could live, love and paint in Montparnasse, the Greenwich Village of Paris. Studio rents were cheap. So were canvases, frames and paints. Models were plentiful at 25 francs an hour.

So embryo artists flocked to Paris and to the Montparnasse in particular. Art schools prospered and even set up shop along the sidewalks.

With the arty atmosphere came tourists, and with the tourists, such spots as the "Dome" and the "Rondelet." Smaller bistros thrived. Someone even found money to subsidize the "Cercle Francois Villon," a club for destitute intellectuals.

The war changed all this when prices began their upward spiral. Today an artist, unless he has a ready market, cannot afford to paint. Models cost him 200 to 500 francs an hour, studio rents are 30 percent, and the prices of paints and frames are 10 to 12 times what they were less than a decade ago.

With cost at 5000 to 8000 francs a ton, heat is just about out of the question. The result is that a small-sized picture cost the painter about 1000 francs, not counting his living expenses. And sales are few and far between except for the big name painters.

A FEW REMAIN
A few of the older artists still live on in their Left Bank studios, but the present generation of sculptors, painters, and writers has scattered to other parts of Paris or returned to their native countries.

Some of the famous art schools like the "Grande Chaumiere" and the "Ecole" still are there. But here too the atmosphere has changed.

"Too many young girls now take up art classes just as their grandmother took up embroidery," one painter says. "Old people come to keep warm when we have heat. It's impossible to do any serious work any more!"

The cafes are deserted, melancholy places. Montparnasse has returned to the sleepy Paris neighborhood it was before fame lifted it from obscurity and spread its name throughout the world.

4-H Boys Plan For Next Show

A county-wide search for calves is being made by boys in 4-H and FFA clubs who want to start preparing exhibits now for the 1947 Junior Livestock show.

However more boys will exhibit more animals in next year's show than in the past. The 175 4-H club boys in Gray county will be well represented, said Joyner. More hogs as well as calves will be entered.

Feeding calves should start now in order to get the animals in shape by show time. Hogs eligible for the show must be born after August 15.

Joe Louis Loses One Whole Pound In Two Weeks of Strenuous Work

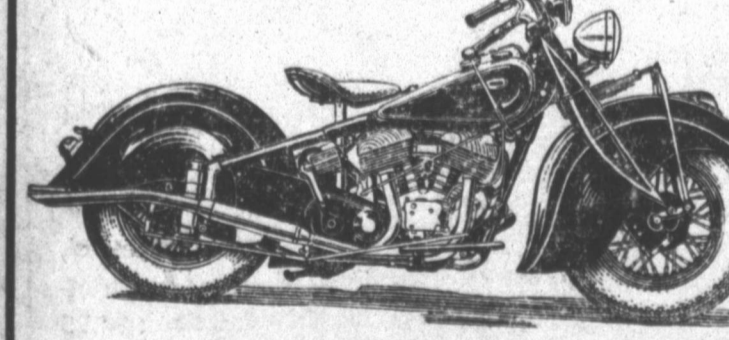

WEST BADEN, Ind., March 23.—(AP)—Deprived of one meal and required to walk eight miles every day, heavyweight champion Joe Louis had succeeded in losing one whole pound in two weeks of preliminary training for his June title bout with Billy Conn. Louis weighed 219 Friday, but his handlers said they aren't a bit worried. They are counting Louis' weight after a rest period, and figure the Bomber will get down to the serious business of losing poundage when he moves to Pompton Lakes, N. J., in a few weeks. The subject of boxing isn't mentioned very often in the Louis camp. Joe sports a little now and then, and his trainer, Manny Seaman, points out his errors, but most of the attention is devoted to other matters. Seaman says Louis will scale about 207 or 208 when he enters the ring against Conn. This is about five pounds heavier than his usual pre-war fighting weight.

All's Quiet on the Tahoka High School Front; Coach Hired

TAHOKA, Texas, March 23.—(AP)—Tahoka high school, center of a hot controversy last fall involving the football team, has a new coach and a new superintendent for the next school year.

Jim Foust has been elected head coach and will succeed Prentice Walker, local business man, who took over the grid squad when Coach H. W. Stewart resigned in mid-season.

The trouble last fall resulted not only in resignation of Coach Stewart but suspension of the 19 members of the football squad, proffered resignations of the superintendent, principal, board of trustees and various teachers, mass meetings, refusal to accept the resignation of all teachers except Stewart and finally reelection of all teachers except the coach. High school classes were closed for three days.

Disagreements over policies involved in handling of the football team preceded the controversy. Doctors average 12,923 miles a year on their automobiles, more than any other occupational group with exception of traveling salesmen.

Mack in 'Desperate Need' of Power Hitting Right Fielder

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—Connie Mack is desperate for a power-hitting right fielder and is willing to part with one of his brigade of starting pitchers to make the deal.

"We should be better than last year," said the 83-year-old baseball patriarch. "But the other clubs are better, too. We just do not have enough power and our outfield needs strengthening badly."

"First off I thought the Yankees were better than I have completely changed my mind. Any of the seven of them could do it, any team except us. We are just outclassed unless we can find some more strength."

The old gentleman admitted he had tried to pry Johnny Lindell away from the Yankees but without success.

"As I see it the Yankees have got to have a pitcher," Mack summed it up. "Any right fielder with a punch will suit me."

The A's actually are deep in starting pitchers although some of them might not be regulars with any other club.

Russ Christopher would be snapped up in a hurry if he were placed on the block but many others would not draw a nibble. Jess Flores had a disappointing year in 1945 and Bob Newsum, lighter than ever and reportedly in a mood for pitching, has made the rounds.

Lum Harris, Dick Fowler, Luther Mack, Jack Knott, Phil Marchioni and Porter Vaughan are other hurlers Mack names on his list of starters.

The outfield is strong enough as far as it goes but it only goes as far as two.

George McQuinn, who reconsidered an earlier decision to retire after he was traded to the A's by St. Louis for Dick Siebert, is playing first base with Benny McCoy of second. Rookie Jack Wallace is at short and George Kell at third.

Buddy Rosar is the top catcher backed up by Jim Preuett, back from Toronto where he hit 303, and Gene Desautels, acquired from Boston late last season.

Big Boys Return To Texas Relays

AUSTIN, March 23.—(AP)—Strong university-class competition registered for the 1946 Texas relays April 5 and 6 promised today by the organizers.

The relays are being held at the University of Texas in Austin. The show during wartime years.

Major duels are developing in high hurdles, 100-yard dash and 440-yard relay.

A swarm of dashmen, led by Baylor's surprising freshman, Bill Martin, is expected to give Clyde Littlefield's 19th running of the relays the best collegiate spring field since 1941.

The Baylor freshman Stone Cotton and Rice's Jim Bodiford placed in the high school hundred at last year's meet.

Texas has four dashmen, led by Andy Shurr, who won the event last year in 9.9. Ralph Ellsworth, Steer football star who won in 1944, Allen Lawler, who placed second to Shurr last year, and Johnny Robertson, Longhorn entries.

A fast 440-yard relay field is promised by Rice, Baylor and Texas. Baylor's victory at Fort Worth's sport show meet brought Texas their first loss in this Littlefield specialty in six years. A dress rehearsal in this event and in the hundred will be afforded in a triangular meet of Rice, Baylor and Texas in Austin Saturday.

Aggies In Bid For Mat Crown

STILLWATER, Okla., March 23.—(AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies made a strong bid to retain their NCAA wrestling title today by advancing five men to the finals of the championship tournament.

Iowa state teachers sent four men to tonight's finals, scoring heavily in the lighter weights. The University of Illinois' big ten champions qualified three, the University of Indiana two and Michigan and Ohio state one each.

Climax of the semifinals round was the victory of George Bolas, big ten champion from Ohio state, over Loyd Arms, Oklahoma Aggie national heavyweight champion in 1942. Bolas, weighing 295, decisively won, by a score of 3-1.

Rebels Down Indians In Exhibition Game

DALLAS, March 23.—(AP)—The Dallas Rebels downed the Oklahoma City Indians 7-2 in the opener of a two-game series here today. An error by Blabber Sanders, first base gave the Indians their only two runs in the opening stanza. Truitt and Brack cashing in on wild throwing.

Elk City Chosen As Training Site For Pampa Oilers

Elk City, Okla., has been selected as the training site for the Pampa Oilers of the West Texas-New Mexico Baseball league. Manager Grover Seitz announced yesterday.

The Oilers will begin training at Elk City, April 1 and will continue through until April 24, after which they will go to Lubbock for the opening game of the season April 26.

The Oilers will stay at the Motor Inn courts in Elk City and Manager Seitz has wired prospective players to join the club there.

The team would have trained here in Elmpa but the field at Roadrunner park is being resodded and will not be ready in time to start spring training.

Top candidates among the players expected to join the Oiler squad is Emmett Fulenwider, slugging outfielder, who formerly played with the Oilers before the league disbanded.

Fulenwider, who makes his home in Pampa, obtained his release from the Southern association after telling Seitz that he wanted to play for Pampa.

Another experienced player who will join the Oilers is Earl Harrison, who held down the shortstop position for one of Seitz' teams at Clovis. Seitz regards Harrison very highly and says he will hit him up against practically any minor league and a lot of major league shortstop.

Pitching prospects continue to worry the Oiler pilot however. Two or three rookies are "on the line" but Seitz probably won't know the status of most of them until the training camp opens.

Other prospects expected to report to the Elk City camp are Catcher James McGreal, Outfielder Bill Cox and Pitcher Ed Brady. In addition to several other players whose names Seitz says he is not at liberty to disclose.

Season box seats are now on sale by the club and may be obtained at the office of the club at 115 1/2 W. Kingsmill. Season reserved seats are now being printed and will probably go on sale next Saturday.

R. L. Edmondson, one of the club's backers, said the season tickets, priced at $43.55, including tax, would be sold at downtown stores and by a committee of fans.

Pampa Girl Takes Part in Meet

DENTON, March 23.—Beth Bailey, junior physical education major from Pampa, was one of the players on the officials rating team of Texas State Christian university and Texas Wesleyan college of Fort Worth during the annual basketball sports day and clinic March 9, in the gymnasium.

The clinic for the purpose of stimulating interest in earning official ratings, culminated with a round robin tournament in which TWU was the winner.

Miss Bailey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edward Bailey of Pampa.

A little more than 100 years ago there were only four grown horses in Australia.

Herman Barron Leading in First Round at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 23.—(AP)—Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., professional, scored a par 70 today to cling to the $7,500 Greensboro open golf tournament lead with 136, one stroke ahead of favorite Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va. Snead had 67 today, the day's best score.

They were closely followed by three other sub-par performers as the stage was set for tomorrow's final 36 holes.

Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Texas, ex-sailor who was counted on to give Snead the chief run for the money, scored his second 69 to share third place at 135 with Cyril White of Winston-Salem, N. C., who had 68 today. They led Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., by a stroke. He had 70 today for 139.

At par 140 were Jim Ferrier of Chicago, yesterday's runner-up who had 72 today; Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, with 71 today and Stewart (Skip) Alexander, Durham, N. C. He had 69 today.

Ernie Sadler was over par on two holes but five birdies made up for those shortcomings as he finished with a flourish, bagging birdies on the last two holes.

Wightman Tennis Team Is Named

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—An entirely new U. S. Wightman Cup team was named today for the first of the postwar competitions against the women tennis stars of Great Britain at Wimbledon on June 14 and 15.

Mrs. Hazel H. Wightman will captain the team of Pauline Betz, Margaret Osborne, A. Louise Brough, Doris Hart and Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd which will try for the United States' fourteenth victory over the English court queens in the 18 matches held.

The cup last was contested at Forest Hills, N. Y., in 1939 and was retained by the U. S. five matches to two. Alice Marble, Helen Jacobs, Dorothy Bundy, Mary Arnold, Dorothy Weston and Mrs. Sarah Coker made up that team.

Mrs. Coker was invited to compete again but said she would be unable to leave her home for that length of time.

National titles are no novelty to the team members. Miss Betz, now of Los Angeles, annexed the crown for three consecutive years before being dethroned by Mrs. Coker last fall; Miss Osborne of San Francisco and Miss Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., combined for U. S. doubles titles for the four past years; Mrs. Todd was the women's indoor queen in 1942 and Miss Hart was national titleholder in 1942 and 1943.

After the Wightman matches the players will compete in the Wimbledon tournament which gets under way on June 24.

Forum To Discuss Proposed Hospital

Three radio forums will be conducted over station KPND this week in connection with the forthcoming election—next Saturday—for the proposed county general hospital. Success Stories Come Everyday From Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(AP)—Four years ago a little 14-year old girl from Scranton, Pa., decided she wanted to be a movie star. She bargained into a talent scout's office in New York and told him of her ambition. No matter how hard or how long it would take, she knew she could make it. She was signed then and there.

Ten years ago one of the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s heirs left Mercersburg academy and decided to try his hand at acting. His father wanted him to be an engineer or a doctor, but the boy couldn't apply himself to studies.

The girl is Beverly Tyler and the boy is Tom Drake. Today they are playing the leading roles in MGM's "The Green Years." Their ascents to fame add two new chapters to the never-ending Hollywood success story.

Beverly arrived in Hollywood in 1942. Tom was spotted in a Broadway production of "Janie" and whisked out to Hollywood in 1943. He arrived on Monday and two days later was given a leading role in "Two Girls and a Sailor." There were all types of teachers at his disposal, but studying still wasn't down his alley.

Meanwhile the little girl was still pounding the books and high C's. Her friends in Scranton began to wonder if they would ever see her in a movie. She found it more and more difficult to say "I'm still training."

Drake continued to get supporting roles and was slowly being typed as an adolescent. The bobby-soxers filled his mail box with their letters. But he was becoming dubious of his potentialities.

However, four weeks from now "The Green Years" will have its premiere at the New York City music hall. The petite red-head (who very much resembles Greer Garson) will be able to be an "I told you so."

The tall, brown-haired heir who shut his books in the hope of fame via the entertainment field will have his chance to convince his set.

Miss Gregory has served in the County Clerk's office for the past seventeen years and has a wide acquaintanceship throughout the county. In making her announcement, she stated that she felt the experience gained in her work of the past seventeen years qualified her to serve as County Treasurer.

Action Runs High in Technicolor Film Story, 'Bandit of Sherwood Forest'

Linda Darnell portrays one of the two loves of Greg McClure seen in the title role of "The Great John L." co-starring Barbara Britton.

By SCOTT RAFFERTY Terrific action, beautiful women and magnificent color setting highlight Columbia's "Bandit of Sherwood Forest," which opens at the LaNora today.

Cornel Wilde, star of "A Song to Remember" and "Leave Her to Heaven," is very dashing as the son of the immortal Robin Hood. Wilde's part is even more interesting when you remember that he was a member of the 1936 Olympics fencing team.

Two great actors, Douglas Fairbanks and Errol Flynn, played Robin Hood in previous pictures but we think they'd have trouble holding their own against Wilde, who possesses that certain quality needed for a picture of this type.

Columbia went to a lot of trouble to make this picture realistic. They hired Howard Hill, the world's greatest archer, as technical adviser on "Robin Hood," and "arrow" parts and Wilde's ability with the sword adds to the effect.

Prominently featured in the cast are beautiful Anita Louise, Jill Esmond, Edgar Buchanan and Henry Daniell.

More rough and ready entertainment is found in "The Great John L." which shows at the Rex theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

This film is Bing Crosby's first—the first produced by Crosby productions, a firm owned by the old groaner.

Needless to say, the picture portrays the life of John L. Sullivan, and we do mean life. There's not so much fighting as there is drinking, failing in love, drinking some more—in fact, it's pretty near a lost weekend.

Greg McClure, a new find, is good as the gentleman from Boston and Linda Darnell and Barbara Britton are pretty. Also in the cast are Otto Kruger and Wallace Ford.

Two great Columbia smash hits, "Pennies from Heaven" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," return to the Crown Sunday and Monday.

We believe that "Pennies from Heaven" was the greatest picture Bing Crosby ever made besides "Going My Way." It's wonderful all the way through.

With the billing on the same program of the Gary Cooper starrer, "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," the day is complete. We don't need to extol the merits of this one. Jean Arthur and George Banroff are featured.

Developments In Politics Rather Slow

Elective offices news centered this week mostly on forthcoming school election, with three names already committed to the slate. The deadline for filing for the school board posts (there are two of them open) is March 27. The election is to be held on April 6.

Names already on the roster are those of George W. Scott, R. C. Wilson, and H. W. Waters.

One more name has been added to the list of those seeking the office of sheriff in the general election—that of Jess Hatcher. Although it had been rumored for some time that Hatcher planned to run, his name did not appear officially until a few days ago. Others seeking the office now held by G. H. "Skinner" Kyle, are R. H. "Rufe" Jordan, and James Barrett, and Kyle.

Earl Johnson's name has been added to those seeking commission of the office of county assessor. There is one other contest so far: Orville Cunningham and William Beck seek to represent Precinct 4 in the county court. Joe Clarke has no opposition in Precinct 1; Wade Thomasson, none in Precinct 2.

Miss Ola Gregory announced this week she would run for the office of county treasurer. Incumbent Mrs. Geneva Schmidt said she would not seek the office again.

No one has indicated he would run against F. E. Leech for the office of tax collector-assessor.

B. S. Via so far is unchallenged for the office of county attorney. Charlie Thut, incumbent, has the county clerk's race to himself so far.

Sherman White will seek re-election to the office of county judge. No one has indicated opposition. C. S. Clendennen has announced

The State Highway commission has awarded a contract to Bell and Braden of Amarillo for the highway work between Canyon and Amarillo, reports the Canyon News.

The highway will be widened to three lanes from the Amarillo city limits to the top of the big hill north of Canyon. From that point to the junction of highways 60 and 87 the construction will be a four lane highway, with the exception of two bridges which will not be widened.

A plan for financing an adequately supported Canyon chamber of commerce is to be placed before business firms and citizens by the board

"Uncle Bud" Burgess, who enjoys the honor of being a next-door neighbor to The Wheeler Times, reports the Wheeler Times, is proudly exhibiting the head of a huge catfish in his shoe shop window.

Uncle Bud had nothing to do with catching the fish; in fact, doesn't even know who caught it and mailed it to him. He received a big box the other day and not knowing what was inside he unpacked it in the presence of witnesses.

Word spread around Wheeler, and although Uncle Bud insisted to early questioners that he caught the fish, weighing 85 pounds, by himself, unaided, with one hand on the pole, he broke down when confronted by witnesses who had seen him take the fish head out of its packing.

Uncle Bud asked the Times to correct any misunderstanding about the fish. He said he did not intentionally leave the impression he caught the fish; that what he intended to say was that he had caught many a fish of similar size.

He recalls he was running some machinery in his shop when various people dropped in his office and asked him who caught the fish and says that undoubtedly the noise drowned out his voice, causing the misunderstanding.

NEW YORK, March 23.—"Flying mailcar," equipped like the present-day railroad postal cars but winging at 200-mile an hour speeds with a four to six ton load of mail probably will be the next step in commercial aviation.

Post office department and Air Transport association officials already have inspected designs for the all-mail packet plane. A modification of the army's "flying boxcar," used during the war for hauling tanks, guns, troops and supplies, it is built by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp.

With 93 per cent as much capacity as a boxcar in its 38-foot long cargo hold, the plane can carry payloads of mail up to six tons on 500-mile hauls, and up to four tons on 1200-mile non-stop flights. Double doors in the rear of the cargo hold open to form a truck-high loading platform to speed handling of mail.

FITS POSTAL NEEDS
Richard S. Boutelle, Fairchild general manager, said: "We have adapted the interior of the Packet's squared fuselage to the needs of the post office department, installing such postal equipment as a sorting table, letter racks, chutes, locked drawers for registered airmail, and bag racks. The equipment, lighter than that used in railcars, is more compact and more efficient."

Postal department officials expect an ever-increasing volume of airmail, especially if congress approves a five-cent airmail rate now pending before it.

And a report, recently submitted to Postmaster General Robert H. Hannegan, envisaged eventual carrying by air of all first-class mail going 300 miles or more. The report called for increasing the air branch of the postal service in progressive stages, both to speed up and increase efficiency of the service, and to provide a major fleet of commercial planes and trained personnel in event of a national emergency.

"The Packet looks like an ideal plane for this job," said Robert S. Burgess, superintendent of airmail service for the post office department. "It's large enough, fast enough, and quick to load. There's plenty of room for one, two or three clerks to sort mail en route."

"One of our greatest difficulties is to move the airmail as quickly as possible during peak collection periods—at the close of the business day, for example. Today, time is lost because the peak load of airmail is distributed among several planes leaving hours apart. If the

20th Air Force Chief Is Killed

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—The war department today announced the death of Maj. Gen. James E. Parker in the crash of his Army Flying Fortress in Northern Formosa, and listed as missing nine other officers and men aboard. Parker commanded the 20th air force. The plane, enroute from Shanghai to Nichols field, near Manila, crashed and burned Tuesday. Mrs. Parker lives at 107 East Oakland St., San Antonio, Texas. Next of kin of the others in the plane described by the department as "missing" were notified today. These and their emergency addresses were listed as including Capt. Robert F. Hutchinson, whose father, M. C. Hutchinson, lives at 2528 West 78th Place, Inglewood, Calif. The crash occurred in the north end of Formosa in terrain described by Tokyo dispatches as wild and rugged. A ground search party of Americans found the burned wreckage yesterday. The plane was the object of a huge air and sea search after it was reported missing.

UNO Meeting

"obvious" that this was not the sole reason for the delay, and that it was "rather dangerous" to talk in detail about the real reason at this time. He pointed to what he said was a hopeful trend in the disturbed United Nations picture, topped by Premier Stalin's expression of confidence in the UNO as "a serious instrument" for preserving peace. Stalin's assertion, made in an exchange of letters with Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent at Moscow, was just one of the signs of hope for the future, the official said. He added that there was strong sentiment for withholding a display of the power of the bomb until "all of us are pulling together for peace on all points." The announcement postponement would carry the tests close to the typhoon season, he said. The other official said that the reporter would be entirely safe in saying the first test before the typhoon season was "doubtful" and that the remaining tests necessarily would be postponed.

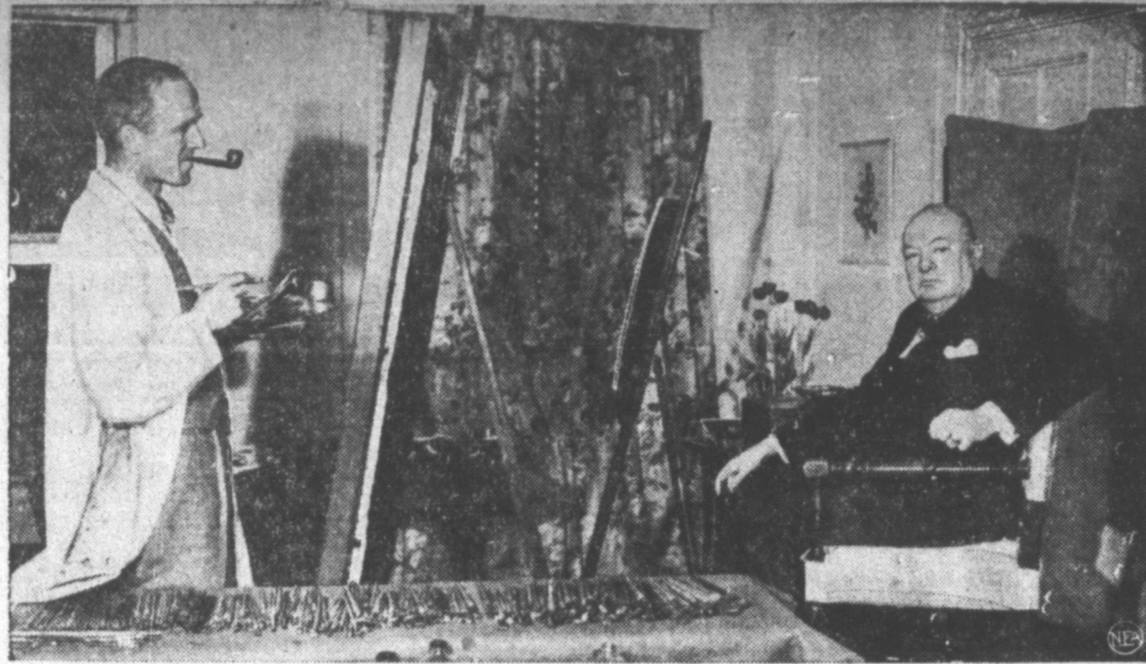

Kew officials in congress backed up Mr. Truman's sole announced reason for postponement by asserting that it was desired to avoid a mass exodus of lawmakers from Washington while a heavy legislative program is still pending. Talk of other contributing reasons continued on Capitol Hill, however. Legislators, who also asked not to be named, said congressional leaders had invited about 50 members to witness the tests. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the senate foreign relations committee, told a reporter: "I think it is a valuable thing for the congress members to be present. For that reason, I think the President acted wisely." Admiral Blandy said he expected the tests to be carried out at the later date along the lines originally planned. Senator Huffman in a statement at Columbus, Ohio, said he will aid the senate to pass a resolution calling for cancellation of the tests. "The postponement should be made permanent," Huffman said. "It is sheer folly to sink more than one hundred vessels and send to the bottom of the ocean millions of tons of iron together with goats, pigs and sheep, which are proposed to be used as guinea pigs, at a cost of more than $100,000,000."

Winnie Sits for a New Portrait

Sitting for his first oil portrait since before the war, Winston Churchill is pictured in the temporary studio, a Washington hotel room, of Douglas Chandor, noted artist commissioned by the late President Roosevelt to do portraits of the "Big Three" of the Yalta Conference. Churchill, something of a painter himself, inspected the preliminary sketch, seized a brush, and with a few deft strokes "revised downward" the proportion of his paunch and changed the line of the jaw. And that's the way they'll appear in the finished-job, says Chandor.

Iranian Crisis

ties to date has been that the Russians might not get out even if the council asked them to. Whatever the Russians do, officials said that some sort of Iranian case would certainly come before the security council. Iran has made two charges: (1) That soviet forces are in Iran beyond the March 2 treaty deadline (2) that soviet agents and officials are interfering in Iran's internal affairs. Still a third aspect of the case was taken up by Edward R. Slettinius, Jr., American member of the council, who wrote Secretary-General Trygve Lie that he would ask for Russia and Iran to report on their direct negotiations to settle their troubles.

At Hunter college, in the Bronx, all appeared to be ready for the opening ceremonies Monday afternoon when Secretary of State Byrnes, Governor Dewey of New York state, and Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City will welcome the council to the United Nations temporary headquarters.

Jehol province. Other Chinese dispatches said all Chinese government-appointed officials for Heilungkiang, northern province where the communists have been reported settling up an independent regime, would leave Chungking, Manchuria's capital, for Peiping because they were unable to assume their duties. Foreign diplomatic sources in Chungking took an extremely pessimistic view of the internal situation. They said General Marshall's personal influence was the dominating factor; in forcing the communists and the Kuomintang to sign the recent unification agreement and without him on the scene "the situation is rapidly getting out of hand."

OPA Extension

Manufacturers which told the committee continuation of price controls would encourage black markets, limit production and actually increase the dangers of inflation. The NAM asked congress to let OPA die June 30. Notwithstanding President Truman's request that OPA be continued unchanged for a year beyond June 30, a spot check of banking committee members indicated the act cannot pass without revisions.

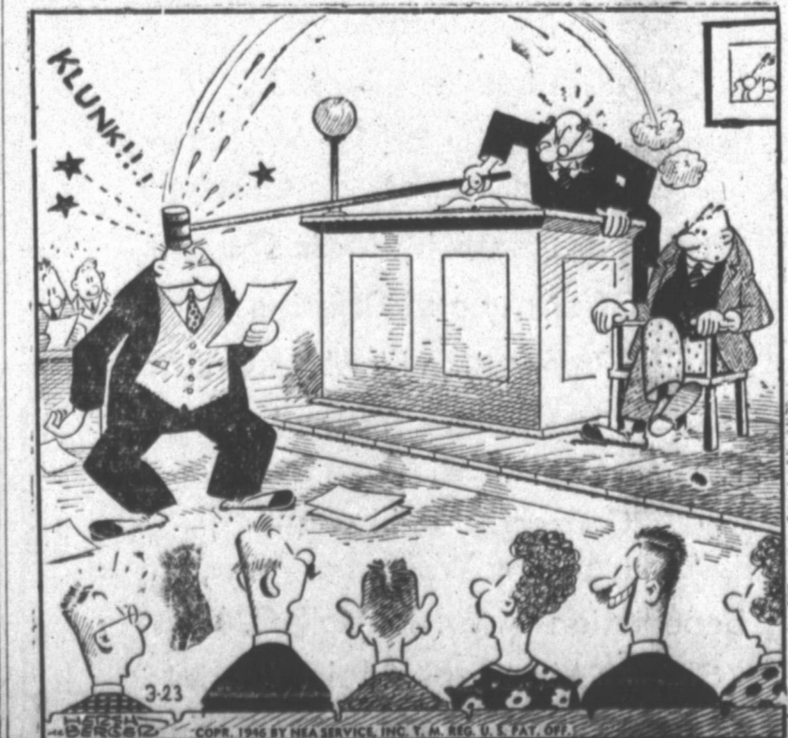

Cf the many far-reaching amendments proposed by businessmen and members of congress, there appeared strong support behind these proposals:
1. An amendment to force gradual liquidation of OPA as production in various industries approaches consumer demand.
2. That no maximum price shall be placed on any commodity that does not reflect to the producer the cost of production plus a reasonable profit.
3. Gradual removal of all subsidies, especially on agricultural commodities, and proportionate increases of the prices upon such commodities.

the explanation she gave for her nervousness when she returned here following her last visit to Switzerland. That was in 1939, and the war had just begun on the continent; it took her about three months to get back. Miss Blanche had been to America before she came to Pampa to make her home. She was both governess and teacher (in French and Swiss), having raised a child in New York and one in Galveston. Friends recalled yesterday that once, when they were making the typical remark "admiral of the Swiss navy," she curtly explained "Ah, but were would they put a navy?"

But, of course, her closest friends probably were the Schneiders—Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schneider, operators of the hotel. She first worked for the elder Mr. Schneider, Alex, Sr., in a hotel back in Switzerland. It was then she became acquainted with the sons, Alex, Jr., and Otto. Rosary ceremonies will be held for Miss Blanche at 7:30 p. m. today at the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral chapel. Final rites will be conducted by Father William Stack at Holy Souls, on Monday, 9:30 a. m. Interment will be at Fairview. Pallbearers will be Tom Aundragun, William Fingler, Pat Riley, J. P. Brown, Dan Gribbon, and Dan Kennedy. She leaves two sisters and one brother, all in Switzerland.

systematic propaganda of irresponsible troublemakers whose aim is to sow the seeds of another war." The statement was made by Poland's minister for welfare, Jan Stanczyk, as he and a United Kingdom delegate hurled accusations at the other's government in a sense UNRRA session on the politically delicate subject of the fate of refugees still in UNRRA and military camps in Europe. Poland is seeking a move that would cut off UNRRA aid to refugees, and a program that would speed the return home of persons "physically fit to take part in the reconstruction of their country." United Kingdom's Philip Noel-Baker, minister of state, told the session: "We have fought the war for liberty of the individual. We do not propose to sacrifice it now. Britain opposes a program that would throw persons into a hostile country with no means of livelihood." Stanczyk said people returning to Poland from displaced persons camps "are subjected to propaganda in the form. Unless this is done, the party program is delayed." For the most part, Mr. Truman dealt with problems at home. But he said that America must lead the way to a better world order and seek increasingly close friendship with all nations. "And we shall strengthen the foundations of the United Nations," Mr. Truman promised. "Surely, we shall never retreat merely because of dangers along the road to peace and progress."

"The United States of America has achieved world leadership," Mr. Truman asserted. "For that result the democratic party as the party of enlightened internationalities, is primarily responsible. We must maintain that leadership. And the democratic party must continue to lead the way."

The immediate audience of both Mr. Truman and Secretary Wallace was a banquet of party stalwarts here. Proceeds from the Washington dinner and from some 300 other dinners throughout the country will go to swell campaign coffers. Wallace, however, declared a republican congressional victory would have a "gravely disturbing effect" on the whole international situation because "the traditional republican isolationist policies would inevitably lead to world disaster."

Like Mr. Truman, Wallace upheld the idea of a two-party system. In it, he said, democrats must be the party of progress. "Now is the time when hard blows must be struck," he went on. "Now is the time for us to earn the bitter opposition of selfish men of special interests."

"And Mr. President, I know that you will forgive me here, for taking a little glance ahead at Tuesday, Nov. 5. We can stand the reviling, the insults—yes, even the lies—if we deserve and get the people's votes on that day." Wallace termed the republican party leadership "reactionary" and "true to their big stockholders." To them, he said, property always must come first. Mr. Truman referred once to "special privileges," saying that the national welfare never will be allowed to be wrecked upon its rocks. "This administration," he stressed, "will not be found wanting."

He put in another plug for a 2-700,000-home housing program which the administration submitted to congress. Inflation and a subsequent depression, the chief executive declared, are a source of danger. But he renewed assurances that the administration's domestic program is aimed at removing danger spots which threaten free enterprise and that establishing higher living standards for the nation.

first intelligence headquarters" in the Soviet capital. Fred Rose, communist member of parliament accused as a conspirator and the man directly on trial in today's hearing, "obtained data through free enterprise and that establishing higher living standards for the nation. camps which prompts them to inquire, on return home," about the probable time of the supposed approaching outbreak of a new world war. In an obvious reference to Winston Churchill's recent Missouri speech, Stanczyk said he considered the assertion that an "iron curtain" had been dropped over some countries, among them Poland, was: "A calculated attempt to besmirch the good name of Poland in the eyes of the world." He said that in the British zone of Germany (this was the only zone he referred to in his complaints) the Poles in camps had been permitted to read newspapers printed in London, Rome and Germany, but only since the first of the year have been permitted to see "exactly one newspaper and one periodical from Poland." Noel-Baker replied that Stanczyk's statement constituted "a formidable attack on the British occupation authorities in Germany."

Miscellaneous Shower Compliments Bride-Elect

McLEAN, March 23 (Special)—Miss Loujana Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Roberts of McLean, who is the bride-elect of Roy Warstall, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Warstall of Zanesville, Ohio, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. Sherman Crockett, with Mrs. W. A. Bock assisting.

A pink and white theme was used in decorative details, and peach blossoms were arranged about the rooms. In the dining room, the table was laid with a cloth of crocheted lace, and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake which was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Guests registered in the bride's book of white leather.

Wiedler will serve as vice-president; Mrs. Bob Allford, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Weathered, treasurer; Mrs. Hazel Poole, Parliamentarian; Mrs. Perry Gault, historian; Mrs. R. W. Polard and Mrs. K. E. Thornton, City Council delegates; and Mrs. John McFall and Mrs. J. D. Merchants, Tri-County Council representatives.

Mrs. W. R. Campbell, president, conducted the short business session, and Mrs. H. C. Wiedler was program chairman. Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist church, gave the devotional. Rev. Bowen stated that children were the greatest casualties of the war, and that the walls of the homes of America should be rebuilt, and the atmosphere of the homes improved, in order that children may have the security that is necessary to proper development.

Special music was provided by the school band, directed by Orland A. Butler.

Rev. Russell G. West, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, assisted by Mrs. Grace Hodges, former Amarillo police-woman, and Glenn Allison, senior high school principal, gave a panel discussion concerning "The Adolescent in the Family Group."

The speakers pointed out that 85 per cent of juvenile problems can be placed as the fault of the parents; that truancy, and petty crimes lead to more serious offenses; that children who had held good jobs are unwilling to return to school, and that parents in general are shirking their responsibility.

Parents were urged to cooperate with the teachers, to keep faith with their children, to improve their homes, and to become interested in all children in order to aid in the solution of juvenile problems.

WE, THE WOMEN Scarcities Spell Excitement

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA staff writer

It's going to be a guest day, we think, when the last shortage is over. When, that is, we can walk into a store and spend 15 minutes selecting just a few items. It's the right shade of stockings, then say calmly, "Three pairs, please."

We'll be able then, too, to get Junior's pajamas and his dad's shirts and shorts for the asking. We'll even be in a position to be snooty about color, price, etc.

Then the clerk will no longer eye use as critically as the would shoplifter if our market basket has two pounds of butter or two boxes of soap chips.

It will be nice. And yet... Isn't it going to be kind of a let-down for women? What are they going to talk about when the fact that they got paper handkerchiefs at Whoost's Store isn't important news? What kind of tips are they going to give each other when they can no longer win a friend's undying gratitude with a hurried telephone call: "Get down to Such's right away; they have nylon!"

What is to replace the thrill of the shopping excursions which now pack all the excitement of a treasure hunt, once we can buy anything we have the money to pay for? WIFE NOW "PROVIDER" Scarcities have made the job of keeping house infinitely more work. But they have put some excitement, some suspense, some life into the job, too.

'Pooch' Pouch Spices New Easter Bags

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK.—(NEA) — The names of bags — "pooch" pouch, Noah's Ark, and Week-ender, for example—give you an idea of what's coming up for Easter in big but not whopping, functional but not gadgety, carry-alls.

More leather bags are back in colors that match shoes and blend in with costumes. Peacetime-release plastics make the plastic patent bags which look as perennially Spring as shiny black shoes. Back from the wars are metal hinges for facie frames. For the better grip most bags have handles for arms or straps for shoulders. Newest strap swings a moroccan leather envelope bag from a woman's shoulder but is leath-long and has a metal fastener which snaps on Towser's collar, as shown left.

The two white bags shown below—Koret's three-tiered calfskin for daytime, extreme left, and a hand-beaded evening bag, second left—typify the importance of white for this season's accessories. Called "Week-ender" for what it will carry, the hat-box-styled Monocraft bag, center, is made of bengaline and is personalized by gold initials.

The Josef-designed patent pouch with a mock-tortoise shell frame, second right, is typical of the styling of plastic for smart handbags, which are impervious to temperature changes and won't crack or lose luster. The Noah's Ark bag, extreme right, is a Mark Cross designed "awe-struck" calfskin. So named because it is THAT big, this bag claims the two-by-two ark principle of wearing it either hand-slung or shoulder-slung.

In closing, Mrs. Daniel quoted: "As long as there is war within the hearts of the individual there cannot be peace without."

The seventh grade, with L. B. Penick sponsor, assisted by Miss Loyce Elliott, music director, gave the following musical numbers: "Over the Rainbow," seventh grade girls; "Have You Ever Been to Texas in the Spring," seventh grade girls and boys; and Schubert's "Serenade," a piano solo by Barbara Chastain.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barconate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blots disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Elegance Keynotes Paris Spring Styles

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures
PARIS—A long swing from wartime severity and austerity to extreme femininity and elegance in women's clothes is the pronounced feature of the Paris spring collections, and each designer is doing his variation of the theme.

In the fall collections it was noticeable that the French couture was doing wonders in making up for shortages of materials, buttons and metals. This season the shortage seems to be over, if one judges by the lavish use of fabrics and trimmings in the creation of new styles.

First and most important are the silhouettes of Balenciaga, Lelong and Schiaparelli.

Balenciaga says curved torso lines will be emphasized in every way, by natural sloping shoulders, wasp waists and hips accentuated by buckram or hoop skirts.

Lelong keeps his square, padded shoulders, but comes out strongly for soft, undraped clothes which highlight feminine lines in a different manner.

Schiaparelli has cut down the shoulder size but has not detracted from shoulder and décolletage attention. She likes narrow waists and slim skirts.

Also important is the trend toward longer skirts, led by Pierre Balmain, who asks women to wear ankle-length clothes for street wear; Jacques Path, whose day clothes touch midcalf; and Balenciaga, who started longer skirt lengths six months ago. Jean Patou, Worth and Molyneux are the only houses not affected by the apparent general feeling that women are tired of short skirts.

Menu for Easter Morning

Simplicity itself is this holiday breakfast—sliced peaches, shirred eggs, raisin toast, fragrant coffee.

East-er breakfast, or brunch—shared with friends—is a tradition in many households.

When it is served after church, the menu must be one that is simple and requires little last-minute preparation. Such a breakfast is the one following, the peaches and shirred eggs bright yellow, the color of Easter.

Sliced Peaches. Allow one No. 2 1/2 duraglas jar of sliced peaches for each six servings.

Method: Toast in electric toaster or under broiler of oven. Butter at once and place in covered dish.

Purple Lipstick Is For Exotics Only

By ALICIA HART

The danger of two-dark lipstick on a young girl whose back-talk to teacher or mother is "But I've got on practically no make-up" is that neither is convinced.

She can be right as rain, but somehow a glaring flash of deep color on her lips gives the wrong impression.

Those people who can wear the dark red and purple shades of lipstick are women of exotic coloring whose entire make-up and dress are as sophisticated as their rouge. Not able to qualify as one of these is the young girl whose best make-

AP Newsfeatures
DEAR JUDY:
Things are really buzzin' in the basement over at Sally's house. Remember I told you she had a great big cellar which was perf for jazz sessions but a big furnace was right smack in the middle of it and spoiled everything. Well the kids took care of that with a bucket of paint.

We got a big party together and a batch of coke and the kids scraped the ash dust off the flueways inside the clean-out doors; checked all the grates and plugged all the leaks with furnace cement.

Then they put a coat of sealer over the asbestos boiler. But if you are planning to paint a galvanized iron furnace, anthracite engineers advise washing the boiler with a solution of zinc sulphate (from the drugstore) and applying primer first. Finally we painted platter-size circles like polka dots in different colors, with record titles on 'em.

With the paint that was left over the kids wrote their autographs and favorite quips, freehand style, all over the boiler. You'd be surprised how slick the place looks now. The kids are full of tricks.

HENRY WALLACE HAS A FAMILIAR RING

The standard-bearer for federally-guaranteed full employment for 60 million workers, Henry A. Wallace, has spoken again. It isn't news that he has spoken again, nor is what he said news. It is merely proof that he is probably a more sincere "fellow traveler" than we had at first thought. That makes him quite sincere.

He "lived in a New York speech this week that democrats (and republicans) who oppose their own parties on major issues should be barred from seeking re-election on the party ticket.

As we had right to expect, the speech raised a remarkable ruckus in Washington. Both sides called him some pretty definite names, and we can understand that.

Let us hope that Wallace's stripe is going out. But we don't have too much ground on which to base sanguinary hope.

For instance, he has quite an audience in this country when he insists that we must concede a few things to Russia. He did a little Lindbergh-talking the other night when he said "the U. S. has nothing to gain but on the contrary everything to lose by beating the tom-toms against Russia." At the same time, we keep in mind that he is a political bed-fellow with Moscow-tutored Sidney Hillman and Caesar Petrillo. It's been less than two months since he was backing Socialist-Communist Johannes Steel in a special congressional election in New York's 19th district.

There are a good many things we could say about Wallace, and the "shoe" would fit a bunch of other feet—many of them closer to home. Out of the dim past we recall instances where such "purge" tactics have been sought to keep public servants in line with a machine program. "Thousand club" has a familiar sound to us.

Men like Wallace, who incidentally, used to be a strong voice in local republican circles back in Iowa, would like to see more rubber stamp congressmen. They do cause a lot less trouble. It's when they kick over the traces that the people begin to sense that there is something not just quite right. It is then the people are (or should be) more alert as to where their legislators are taking them.

Wallace is credited with saying, among other equally opprobrious things, that Stalin issued a "challenge to democracy in his speech of March 6, when he said democracy has 'booms, busts and war.' I suggest that we accept this challenge in the most peaceful possible way and see if we can't have full employment to prevent 'booms, busts and wars'."

It would seem Wallace's solution to that would be to institute a Stalinistic purge system in the two major parties of America.

Yesterday called attention to "The Crisis of the Free Market" by Professor F. A. Fayser, I explained that it could be had for 25 cents from the newspaper publishing this column. It was a quote further from this timely masterpiece.

Under the heading, "Objectives of our Economic System," he makes the following statements: "When any nation sets out on the road of reconversion it must have a destination. The following objectives, stated in general terms, constitute that destination for purposes of this discussion:

1. Free enterprise and individual freedom shall be preserved.
2. There shall be production of a maximum of goods and services up to the point where people as individuals prefer leisure to more of them; the goods and services shall be those of the people's choice as individual consumers and producers.
3. Rewards in the forms of goods and services to each individual shall be as nearly as possible, equivalent to his contribution to their production.
4. Individuals shall have equal access to markets, jobs, business ventures and opportunities to invest their savings.
5. Law shall protect the right of voluntary contract, encourage private savings, and protect the rights of property and other forms of wealth that have been acquired fairly in the eyes of the law.
6. Measures shall be avoided that have the effect of arbitrarily altering the real worth of savings, property, or incomes."

That certainly is a splendid summary of what a free economy means and the government should attempt to do in promoting a free economy.

The author goes on to explain that sound objectives alone will not guarantee a successful reconversion. I quote:

"Why should we wonder at confusion when public officials propose or endorse programs in direct conflict with their professed policies? Such a contradiction is the oft avowed devotion to free enterprise, accompanied by a series of programs which would prevent its enforcement if they were enacted and enforced. The public is further confused when anyone who points out these contradictions between profession and practice is labeled a reactionary. The only reason why public confusion is not complete under these circumstances is probably that so many of us fail to recognize these contradictions. Also contributing to the perplexity are many current books and articles which might well be grouped under the heading of "Economic Freedom through Slavery."

Professor Harper stresses the importance of prices being the guide as to what the consumer would produce. He expresses it thusly:

"Our most important reconversion problem is the recovery of our economic and personal freedom. The heart of that problem lies in prices. A free economy, free enterprise, and free men, cannot exist without free prices—all prices, and all types of prices."

He points out how government has fooled the public by implying that it has freed enough prices to let a free economy operate. He says:

"Only a few controls are retained, yet they are the key ones of our entire economic system—profits and the prices of important commodities. These controls will determine the rate of reconversion."

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

I see that Herman Goering testified that he didn't loot Europe of art treasures. He said he paid cash for everything he got, and I believe it. He probably called his playmate over at the restaurant, the bank and the shopping—printing some money.

What's more, Herr Goering complains that on several occasions he was cheated. Well, that shows you what happens when art connoisseurs indulge in little hobbies like trying to conquer the universe. Goodness, if Herrmann had had time to make a thorough investigation of those Rembrandts and Titians he bought, he probably would finally have found out they were really only French postcards.

But I guess between running like mad for his air-raid shelter and telling the population of Germany that they could never be bombed, he was really much too busy.

PLITICIAN—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., ordinarily a retiring young man, recently threatened a "well-earned" march on Washington in protest against the delay in enacting a national housing program.

Mrs. Roosevelt herself has taken several unkindly sidelong glances at the administration's policies. She gives the impression that she does not think Mr. Truman sufficiently active or courageous on behalf of the Roosevelt ideals she professes to support.

Since there is no room for them in the G. O. P. as an organized party, the tentative conclusion and worry among the President's friends is that they seek to recapture the democratic party from the Missouri plains. Indeed, a "Deloitte" of James Roosevelt and Henry Wallace has already been mentioned.

Note: the late F. D. R. said that Jimmie, next to himself, was the politician of the family.

POCKETBOOK—Although it is estimated that the cost of living has increased by at least ten per cent since V-J day, the American people have not felt even the partial effects of the inflation which will result from the administration's new

One cannot reform the hearts of the German people unless one keeps their stomachs reasonably full. —Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, Deputy British Military Governor of Germany.

America has come face to face with the need to assure higher education for its ablest youth. It will be fatal to avoid the challenge. —Dr. M. H. Trytlen, National Research Council.

He is particularly concerned about the type of thinking that apparently guides these regulation policies. He quotes President Truman, shortly after Japan surrendered, as saying:

"The government has a major responsibility to assist in the achievement of an orderly transition from war production to civilian production. This is essential to the war production that continues and to the development of a healthy national economy."

Then Professor Harper makes this statement:

"The controls are necessary for 'orderliness' is to say that lack of controls (the free market and free enterprise) is disorderly. If the free market and free enterprise comprise disorder, it is not strange how the United States during the last century and a half performed such economic miracles as to be the envy of the rest of the world today. Was all that achieved without an environment of 'disorder'?"

"The statement that government has 'responsibility' in the matter of controls reflects a concept of paternalism that is totally incompatible with free enterprise. Further evidence of underlying lack of faith in free enterprise is the statement that this government responsibility is 'essential' to the development of a healthy national economy. This is wrong in effect, that the economy cannot be healthy without these controls." (To be continued)

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

SPECULATION—The Roosevelt clans are rallying their forces with the not too vague hope of building up "Jimmie," son of the late President, into a possible presidential candidate in the democratic ticket in 1948 or prospective head of a third party that may be unveiled in that surprise political year.

The seemingly anti-Truman comments and activity of the members of the former chief executive's personal family and official associates have become the chief concern and topic of conversation in White House circles. It cannot be said yet that they have croaked openly with the administration, but there is every sign that they are walking—and talking—in the opposite direction.

Son James now serves as national political director of the independent citizens committee of the arts, sciences and professions, which is headed by Harold L. Ickes.

It is the first political office which Jimmie, who is not an artist, a scientist or a professional man, has ever assumed; he always remained in the background. His association with Mr. Truman's fiercest critic almost immediately occasioned speculation among the Hanneganites.

It would seem Wallace's solution to that would be to institute a Stalinistic purge system in the two major parties of America.

By all means let's have the pools and poolrooms, where needed and where they can be afforded—free of the "war memorial" hypocrisy. Then we can get down to the serious business of establishing real war memorials—memorials which will keep us permanently reminded of the essential necessity of war itself. There is nothing more needed by the living, or more deserved by the dead.

For what it may be worth, here's a suggested form such a memorial might take:

For only $15,000 (only 3 per cent of the total cost) a memorial fund nonchalantly talked of in many American communities, the following things could be done annually by any one or all of scores of cities and states:

1. A world war II memorial library established to acquire and make available 3,000 books, articles, studies, monographs and government reports (at an average cost of $1 each)—dealing with all aspects of the causes of war in general, and of American participation in foreign wars in particular.

Such a public library of war-causes to be housed in a six or 10-room home with a monthly rental of $80, under the full-time supervision of a highly-qualified librarian paid at the well-above-average rate of $70 a week.

The board of directors of such a war memorial library to award $4,000 each year either to the student deemed most qualified to attend a school of international law and diplomacy, or to the person deemed most qualified to produce a worthwhile book or article or to undertake worthwhile research on the subject of war-causes; to award $50 each month to the person submitting the best essay on the causes of war in general, or on the causes of American war-involvement; to allow $175 each month to rent a hall character of Mr. Fortas, and the interests of Puerto Rico will no doubt be well taken care of by the firm of Arnold and Fortas, attorneys-at-law. But it is really puzzling how Barrister Fortas talked himself into taking this account in view of his previous horror of such unethical practice.

This business of a lawyer's quitting government service and then going into private practice against the government is, of course, an old story in Washington. It pays handsomely. Look what it did for Tommy (The Cork) Corcoran.

There is a law—This V. Section 89, of the U. S. code—which provides that no former officer, clerk, or employee in certain government departments may act as attorney or agent in prosecuting a claim including a demand for money until two years after he has left government service. This act was passed in 1872 to check post-Civil War abuses, but no penalty was provided and the limitations made the law ineffective.

The Renegotiation Act of 1942 tightened this a little by providing that no one in government service between May, 1940, and six months after the end of the war could appear in any case against the government with which he had previously had official connection.

But still there are big loopholes. The whole business is open to many abuses. There ought to be a law. A better law.

Of course, no one questions the

UPTON CLOSE:

Why Not Give It Whirl in Your Own Community?

(First Lead)
It's raining "war memorials" again; but a fitting memorial to the war, and to the men it killed and crippled, is the one thing too often entirely omitted from the plans.

We're getting a little farther away from granite shafts and million-dollar marble plaques full of silk flags, bronze plaques and cement benches; but many of us who now suddenly condemn such extravagances as "useless" are losing sight of the "memorial" concept altogether, in our drift to the greater "utility" of a swimming pool, auditorium, stadium or skating rink.

The latter are no doubt pressing needs in some communities. No doubt they should have priority over the "useless" kind of memorial. But surely it will not be contended that they have any logical relationship to any aspect of war. Then why call it a world war II memorial skating rink? Isn't a skating rink or a swimming pool too trivial and too carelessly inappropriate a way to "hallow" the memory of thousands of men who can never skate or swim again? Will stadiums full of healthy all-Americans and auditoriums full of Shakespeare and Tchaikovsky summon to our minds the memory of our boys?

Maybe we'd better start searching our souls for the specific aspects of the war which we really want to memorialize in good conscience. Is it the war itself as a cataclysmic event—like a terrible cyclone? Then why not cyclone memorials? Is it the bare, tragic fact of death or desirability for hundreds of thousands of fine men? Then why not monuments to the tragic victims of earthquakes and floods? Is it the physical power with which our nation beat down the desires of other nations? Then why not a nation full of memorials to our Olympic teams, foreign traders and international bankers?

(Second Lead)
Surely we can be guided in making our plans for new "war memorials" by wrothier and less "war memorial" motives than a mere desire to enhance our own immediate, physical pleasure. Only a shallow consciousness and a petty greed can be soothed into believing that a half-million dollar world war II memorial swimming pool or sports arena is dedicated more to the eternal memory of the fallen G. I. than to years of exciting pleasure for our living selves.

By all means let's have the pools and poolrooms, where needed and where they can be afforded—free of the "war memorial" hypocrisy. Then we can get down to the serious business of establishing real war memorials—memorials which will keep us permanently reminded of the essential necessity of war itself. ## MACKENZIE'S Column

AP World Traveler
PARIS, March 23—France's appeal for assistance in inaugurating her five year economic plan is symptomatic of the shocking distress which blankets most of Europe and special envoy Leon Blum quite likely is only breaking trail for a long line of applicants from other nations.

Of course the big problem of the moment in most countries of the old world is finding food, on the basis that if you are starving it doesn't matter a figger's dam how much money you have in your pocket unless it will buy something to eat.

However, I take it that in the DEWITT MACKENZIE long run a full cupboard is dependent on a full purse, which means that there can be no permanent cure for hunger unless the economic situation is sound.

There was hunger in Europe after the first world conflict, and there was economic disturbance, but it was a happy interlude as compared with what is happening now.

The total war which Hitler inaugurated truly belonged to the atomic age. It not only stopped the wheels of progress but it destroyed the means of recovery.

That's why we find France knocking at our door. She's one of the hard hit countries misfortune is due to various reasons, including political confusion and spiritual hurt, but we find enough cause for economic distress in the despoliation of this great country by the Hitlerites.

Here, as in most other occupied territories, the nazis not only sent thousands of citizens to servitude in Germany but plundered the country of equipment essential to keep the economic wheels turning.

In short, when the war ended France had been so crippled that she lacked the basic means of recovery and had to look abroad for help. The same is true of most other countries which were overrun by Hitler. Another case in hand is little Holland which has been negotiating credits in Washington.

When I was in Holland a month ago, Prime Minister Schermerhorn told me that the Germans had taken all but 15 percent of the country's rolling stock.

The question naturally arises why these steam railway cars and the industrial machinery aren't returned to France, Holland and the other despoiled countries. Well, a little of the plunder is finding its way back, but I remind you again that this has been a total war. Much of the tremendous amount of wealth which Hitler collected in Germany was destroyed in the Allied hurricane that swept the reich.

Then, too, even where machinery and various kinds of supplies are found intact, it frequently is difficult to determine ownership.

So the stricken countries of Europe must turn to the United States for the wherewithal to rehabilitate themselves, since there's no other and pay the fee for an out-of-town lecturer on war-causes; and to use the remaining monthly $60-plus to print the essay and lecture in the month for widest possible distribution in the community.

If the gentlemen who seem ready to put up $500,000 for other huge "war memorial" undertakings would just invest it at 3 per cent, this kind of program could be carried out all over America without the expenditure of a single red cent!

Does anyone see a wrinkle in the plan that couldn't be ironed out? Why not give it a whirl in your community? (Copyright, 1946)

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, NEA—Miss Miss Dunne who has never had a lost weekend in all her life, told us that she was seeing snakes. "They crawl into my dreams," she said, "and slither all over the room."

The trouble began, she confided, when 20th Century Fox insisted which play scenes for "Anna and the King of Siam" with Blakey Dittmars, a six-foot-long blue indigo snake.

"I've gone through movie floods, tornadoes, battles, and fist fights," she said, "and never been scared. But that snake makes me shake all over."

Miss Grace Olive Wiley, who owns the snake, said, "Tut, tut, my dear, snakes are our little friends. You just don't understand them."

Miss Dunne grinned. "I hate snakes and rats," she said. "He wants who makes friends," said Miss Wiley. "What do I do?" asked Miss Dunne. "Shake hands?"

Miss Wiley whispered to us, "I'll have to educate that woman. It's just a matter of ignorance." We edged away from Blakey, who was snorting out of Miss Wiley's arms. We preferred to share Miss Dunne's ignorance.

SHOW MUST GO ON
Miss Dunne went into the scene. She sat at one end of a long table, teaching some scantily clad blonde beauty, including Linda Darnell, Gale Sondergaard, and Buff Cobb.

Coverhead was a big box where the prop men put Blakey. On a signal from Director John Cromwell, one of the men punched a button which electrically opened a trap door. Blakey fell into Miss Dunne's lap and squirmed across her bare arm. Miss Dunne, we beg to report, let out a scream that, had Boris

Carroll heard it, would have gotten her a role in the next Frankenstein picture. Cromwell congratulated her. "That was no acting," he told him. "That was the real thing."

Miss Wiley felt badly. "Blakey wants to be friends with you," she said. "He's hurt that you ran away." Miss Dunne said she never had read Dale Carnegie on snakes.

"He isn't poisonous," Miss Dunne assured us, "and it's silly to have aversions like that, but I can't help it. He gives me goose pimples." She rolled up her sleeve, and, sure enough, there were a few goose pimples.

Miss Wiley invited Miss Dunne to her home in Long Beach, Calif., to meet her cobras, rattlers, lizards, and Gila monsters which she rents to Hollywood studios.

AH YES, SLINKY!
She said that her Javanese lizard, Slinky, who has had a slight slithering acquaintance with Fredric March and Joan Bennett, possessed considerably more personality even than Blakey. Miss Dunne thanked her graciously, but we don't think she plans to take tea with Slinky.

Just then Irene was called to the camera for another scene with Blakey. "Oh, no, not again!" she said, imploringly. Miss Wiley came up with Blakey.

"He does want so much to be friends with you," she said. "Maybe you might pet him just once."

Miss Dunne looked as if she had seen the headless horseman.

The Heart To Find

Copyright Macra-Smith Co. Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

ANN and Colin decided he needs a vacation from writing and takes Ann on a trip of exploration through the great "Strike enterprises. They go on to Seattle for a few days."

It was fun living in a hotel—Ann never had before. It was fun looking up old school friends and inviting them to lunch with her—and more fun to be grand and impressive as Mrs. Colin Drake. Ann was very careful to choose the more literary of her friends, so her casual references to Colin and his books would not be lost.

It was fun dropping into bookstores where she had spent countless hours as an intelligent but undistinguished buyer, and have Colin introduce her to the attendants who fell on him with loud glad cries, and find herself treated with a new kind of respect.

There's just a night in town—although Ann had no idea it would be their last night, when they started out—they met Connie and Davey at a dine and dance spot north of the city. Ann, with more new clothes than she knew what to do with had changed her mind three times about what dress she would wear, and ended up by wearing the dusty-pink dress she had had for Jock's wedding—because Colin was a bit sentimental about it, as it was the dress she was wearing when he first met her. So they were rather late in arriving, and found Nina and Jock at the table with Connie and Davey. Connie and Davey were just getting up to dance. They paused to greet them, and Davey informed them that dinner had been ordered, and Nina and Jock had joined them. "Nina, who had bobbed her hair and was wearing a rather long, and curled at the ends. She decided she was just another pretty girl, instead of being the distinguished beauty she had been with Hugh hair. Nina looked up at Colin, and said, "Dance with me? Ann won't mind—"

"Might I point out that you have a perfectly good husband?" Davey demanded.

"Oh, I won't dance with Jock—he's doing his animal imitations again tonight," Nina said cheerfully, her hand on Colin's arm.

ANN sat down rather hastily, and smiled at Colin. The orchestra started to play, and Ann said, "Do you have a cigaret, Jock?"

"Forgive me," Jock said, proffering his case—a slender gold one, Ann noted, and remembered the crumpled packs he used to carry.

"What did Nina mean, Jock?" "Huh? Oh... pig and bear, chiefly, I imagine—also gander and mule, probably."

Ann didn't say anything. She stirred a little in her chair restlessly. What did she talk about to the man one had been in love with for years? Your wife should have left her hair long, she looks a little chichi, isn't the orchestra divine, how's your love life, and don't you think I look elegant in the old sackcloth I was wearing on the day you broke my heart?

"Want to dance?" Jock asked. "She weighed the two possibilities, both undesirable. Still, it would probably be easier to retain what little sanity she had left if she wasn't in his arms. "No, thank you. Do you ever think about me when I'm not there, how do you like being married to a wealthy girl, aren't you ever nice and silly and to hell with the consequences any more?"

"I suppose," Jock began, a little diffidently, "that I'd better ask your forgiveness for the other day, Ann. I did act like an awful ass, I guess—but Nina and I had been having a row for a couple days on end, and I guess I'd been drinking more than was good for me. That was all right," Ann said awkwardly. That was all right that was just ducky. I thought you meant it was all, haven't you any tact at all you utter idiot, oh my heavens, Jock, damn your beautiful face, what is wrong with us?"

ANN then the others were returning to the table, and the awful nightmarish quality left, and she was laughing and talking as if she were perfectly normal. Maybe she was perfectly normal, maybe that was what life was like, going along all nice and smooth and perfect and suddenly exploding a bombshell in your face. Between the cocktail and the soup she danced with Colin, and he didn't talk at all and she was deeply grateful. Between the soup and the salad she danced with Davey, and she said, "Sorry my eyes and listened to her heart-beats. Then Jock said, 'Let's go outside, Ann,' and Ann, so sensibly she could scarcely believe it was she who was talking, answered, 'Let's go back to the table.'"

All in all the evening was not an unqualified success. Driving back to the hotel, through the night that was crisp and cold and very dark, Ann huddled low in the seat, the big collar of her coat around her ears. She sat close to Colin, but he kept both hands on the wheel until Ann said wistfully, "Won't you even hold my hand, Colin?"

He looked at her swiftly, then took her hand in his. Ann wanted to cry.

The next morning they packed up and returned to Port Drake. (To Be Continued)

News of Interest To Oil Men

Two Oil Wells Added in Gray, Five Gassers in Wheeler Co.

Three oil and seven gas wells were brought in to the Panhandle Oil and Gas field this week. Two oil producers in Gray county accounted for 211 barrels of the added oil potential of 282 barrels.

OPA Grants Oil Price Increase Up to 35 Cents

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Price increases ranging from five to 35 cents a barrel were authorized today by the OPA for crude oil from 10 pools in five states.

The increases, retroactive to March 1, were granted under the stripper well subsidy payment plan designed to encourage low-yield pool production.

Under the program, the government reimburses first purchasers of crude oil from these pools—usually refiners—by the exact amount of the increase allowed.

The pools granted increases and the amount in each case, are: In Texas, Beddo pool 25 cents, Cayuga 31 cents, Sayles five cents, Stoneburg 14 cents, Tenney Creek 25 cents.

In Arkansas, Champagnolle 35 cents; in Michigan, Zealand 25 cents; in Kansas, Jerry (Lansing) six cents; in Oklahoma, Shawnee South seven cents and Weletka 10 cents.

Sayles pool previously had given an increase of 20 cents a barrel, while the Weletka pool was granted a 25 cent increase earlier.

Federal vs. State Control of Oil Tested at Austin

WASHINGTON.—The first decisive post-war test of federal versus state control of oil production came in Austin, Texas, last week, according to officials of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

The occasion was the monthly meeting of the Texas Railroad commission. The test was successfully met. It was a victory for state regulation of oil resources and for that part of the industry which advocates and defends the principle of state regulation in the interest of conservation.

The issue at Austin was that of increasing the allowable production of the state for April by more than 200,000 barrels daily over the March allowable.

A portion of the oil industry represented the navy, the War Shipping Administration and the Director of War Mobilization and Control, the fuel oil requirements could not be met because of OPA price ceilings and shortage of crude.

The navy and the other two agencies named telegraphed the State Railroad commission endorsing, in effect, the representation that crude oil was short.

Independent producers of Texas, acting as a statewide operators' committee, countered such assertion quickly and effectively with the facts on supply. Crude oil has been added to storage, in Texas and nationally, for months.

The Railroad commission reached its decision speedily. The April allowable production will be substantially the same as that of March, the small increase in the daily rate being due to the fact that the number of producing days in April will be the same as in March and April has one less day than March.

It is believed that an important gain was made here. A state commission has rejected firmly the attempt to continue the voice of Washington as the controlling voice after the war emergency has ended.

The attempt was made in this instance to make it appear that there would be a denial of supply to the navy and other shipping.

The one outstanding fact in contradiction of the crude shortage contention is that oil is going to storage. It is felt that the navy will get all the fuel it needs when the OPA's reported price raise of 21 cent a barrel on this product becomes effective. The trouble did not lie in the supply of crude oil.

Fellowship of Assn. Renewed at Texas U.

AUSTIN, March 23.—A fellowship offered last year by the National Gasoline Association of America for a study of the prevention of corrosion in gas well pipes has been renewed and expanded for the University of Texas, Dr. Norman Hackerman, director of the research, announced.

The fellowship was extended from July 1, 1945, through July 1, 1947. Studies for next year will be expanded so that a full-time research worker will spend most of his time in the field.

Dr. Hackerman, an assistant professor of chemistry, selects the recipient for the grant from among the chemistry or chemical engineering graduate students in the university.

Dr. Hackerman will give a summary of his studies of corrosion resistance in chromium when the Electrochemical Society meets in Birmingham, Ala., April 11-13.

It is clear that separations exceeded the reductions in our requirements, hence a steady increment of new men after June 30 will be necessary. Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

Warning!

If you happen to notice about 14,000 acres of land west of Pampa blowup tomorrow afternoon—'till be the West Pampa Repressuring Assn. project.

City officials and representatives as well as those of the 28 independent and major companies cooperating in the project will be on hand to witness the initial injection of gas in the complete system at the Skelly Kingsmill plant.

Actual delivery of gas is to start at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Yesterday meters were installed on the lease lines, main lines were tested and purged and lease pipelines were tested.

Also in Hutchinson county the Robinson Bros. No. 9 J. F. Weatherly, sec. 24, Y, A&B, was dry and abandoned at 450 feet.

In Wheeler county the Smith Bros. Refining Co. No. 1 A. P. Ripley "E", sec. 123, 23, H&GN, was abandoned at 2140 feet.

Location of the Stanolind Oil and Gas Co. No. 1 State tract No. 53, sec. 21, 3-N, 17-E, was abandoned.

Texans Failed To Answer Call —Explanation

WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—Should any good Texas voter question why his congressman didn't answer house roll call No. 53, on March 13, he can find the reason by reading page A-1497 in the appendix of the congressional record for March 15.

Because absent marks on roll call sometimes make political fodder for opponents of legislators seeking reelection, Texas members of congress asked their delegation chairman, Rep. Milton West of Brownsville, to explain the situation relative to roll call No. 53.

It so happened that the Texas congressmen were having luncheon in the house restaurant with Admiral Chester W. Nimitz. When the roll call bell buzzed Nimitz was in the midst of an after-lunch talk, explaining the needs of the navy in the future. Several members arose and started to leave, but were assured by Speaker Sam Rayburn that they didn't need to hurry back. (He is always kept informed if any important measure is coming up for a vote.)

Up to that point there was nothing unusual to warrant any special mention of the incident. However, when West went on the house floor later to give the explanation for the absence of himself and colleagues he unexpectedly ran into an objection from Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.). Some choice sarcasm followed.

Although the story of the absenteeism was virtually told, Cannon interrupted:

"Mr. speaker, I regret to raise the point, but the gentleman will not start a procedure which will return to plague us in the future. All of us understand that no member of the Texas delegation would fail to answer roll call unless he were fully warranted in being absent."

"The gentleman is very charitable; very Christianlike," West retorted.

That began an exchange of remarks in which republican leader Martin of Massachusetts sided with West.

The speaker arose in, after Cannon objected, to say:

"The chair does not understand just what is going on. The gentleman from Texas asked unanimous consent to proceed for one minute. It is the understanding of the chair that he did not intend to announce how any member voted. He was simply stating why some members of the Texas delegation did not answer a quorum call about 1 o'clock."

Cannon replied: "I reluctantly raise the point of order."

West: "I know he is very reluctant. I appreciate the gentleman's attitude."

Cannon: "It would set a precedent for resuming an objectionable custom which has long since been discontinued."

The speaker then expressed the opinion that West was not violating any rule of the house. The republican leader broke in to ask unanimous consent that West be given another minute.

Cannon snapped: "Mr. speaker, I regret to object."

West returned: "I see the tears running down your cheeks."

Again West's time expired, and two other members leaped to their feet to ask that he be given more time and allowed to elaborate on his

Writer Discusses Price Increases

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, March 23—(AP)—How about price increases? There's been a flurry of them since the new wage-price policy went into effect a little over a month ago.

Does that mean President Truman and Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles were wrong when they said there would be no retreat to a new and generally higher price line? It's too early to tell.

They predicted prices for some goods would go up—but that there would be no breakthrough.

And Bowles said most of the increases would be for metal products—autos, refrigerators and washing machines, for example. He said the new formula would have little or no effect on food and clothing prices.

What's happened? Steel prices went up first. That rise will bring the higher prices for metal products Bowles was talking about. But it's going to take time to find out how much, and for which products.

Take autos. OPA already has announced that manufacturers are going to get a price increase to offset higher wages they are paying. It will be about 2.6 per cent.

But OPA is trying to decide whether the public will pay none or only part of this increase.

But meat prices went up, too, and so did prices for some clothing fabrics. There are no higher price tags on pork chops in butcher shops yet, nor on shirts, dresses and suits. But there will be.

Those are things Bowles said the new wage-price policy would effect little or not at all. The policy already has had some effect on them.

In the cases of clothes, Bowles says the purpose of all of the increases is to put on the market big supplies of inexpensive clothes—so the public won't have to buy high-priced garments just because no others are available. He contends that if this works, clothing bills generally will be cut.

There have been other increases and there will be more—quite a number. That's to be expected under the new liberal price policy.

But whether it's just a bulge or a breakthrough, probably nobody will know for sure until the smoke has cleared away and the figures are in some months from now.

Modern astronomers do not look for new stars by gazing, but by studying photographs of the heavens.

The horse originated in China starting out as an animal no larger than a house cat.

I don't subscribe to the idea that the rights of labor are superior to those of the public. In my judgment, both capital and labor should be required to subject themselves to the rigors of law and order and to the preservation of the public welfare. —Federal Judge John C. Knox of New York.

Judge Predicts Normal Crops For South Plains

LUBBOCK, March 23—(AP)—Judge Clark M. Mullican, basing his prediction on an old Indian system aided by such modern devices as silk strings and cigar smoke, said today crops would be normal this year in 18 South Plains counties.

Farmers immediately began dreaming of new equipment, new cars, new homes and new clothes for fall delivery because the judge's crop predictions the past 18 years have been uncannily accurate.

Mullican, a former district judge, gets up before dawn each March 23 and checks the wind direction at sunrise.

Early today Mullican stationed himself in the open spaces west of Lubbock, and tied silken strings to bushes and fences. He also smoked a cigar.

As the sun crept over the horizon, he determined by his threads and smoke that the breeze was from the northwest. This, he said, means crops will be normal.

According to Mullican—and old Indian lore—wind directions indicate crops as follows: From the east or northeast, crops would be plentiful; north or northwest, average; southeast, poor; west, southwest or south, drought and crop failure.

Don Jones, superintendent of the state agricultural experiment farm, said that normal crops, such as indicated by the northwesterly wind, meant a rainfall of 20 inches, a cotton yield of a half bale to the acre, a grain sorghum yield of 1,000 pounds per acre.

At present prices, farmers agreed than an average or normal yield meant money in the bank.

Mullican began keeping his annual crystal with the wind back in 1931, when he took over the work originated years before by J. I. Wellborn, Garza county rancher.

Writers Have Trouble With Will Rogers Film

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23—(AP)—Hollywood is having trouble with the projected film story of Will Rogers, says his son, Will Jr., who has signed up to portray the noted humorist.

Rogers, who said his role as his from his campaign for U. S. senator from California to tell reporters about the difficulties.

"The script writers are having a tough time introducing an element of conflict into the story," he said.

"You see, my father never had an enemy. He always said, 'I've never met a man I didn't like.'"

"They may have to invent a fictitious villain."

Rogers, who said his hole as his father would be the extent of his movie career, wants to introduce something new to pictures. He wants a horse that will walk. Heretofore in movies, he said, they've always galloped.

In the recent radar contact with the moon, the feebleness of the "echo" received back is indicated by the fact that although the radar transmitter sent out 4000 watts of radio energy, the echo's strength was only 9/10,000,000,000,000 of a watt.

Behind Russia's Iron Curtain

The Story of Stalin's Viceroy

If gentleman-farmer and business man Petru Groza had lived in Russia, he probably would have ended his days in Siberian salt mines. In Romania, Stalin ordered King Michael to install him as Premier, gives him full Russian backing.

"Peer Under the Iron Curtain"—a British view of Winston Churchill's speech at Fulton, Mo.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third of several dispatches dealing with the men "Behind Russia's Iron Curtain," written for NEA Service by a veteran foreign correspondent.

By JOACHIM JOESTEN
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 24 (NEA)—Stalin's viceroy in Romania, Premier Petru Groza, is even more of a paradox than Finland's Paasikivi. He is the type of man whom the Soviets inevitably would exile to Siberia. Yet he heads a communist government.

Groza is anything but a proletarian. He is what the Russians would call a kulak—a prosperous gentleman-farmer. At one time or another he has been hotel owner, banker and industrialist. For all his wealth and social prominence, however, Groza stands very far to the left. He is not a member of the communist party, however.

Up to a year ago, he was virtually unknown abroad. Since he became premier, on March 6, 1945, he has been frequently in the news but details about his antecedents and his personality are still sparse.

A burly, tough-looking fellow, with keen eyes under beetling brows, white hair clipped close on the sides, and a Mussolini-type jaw, Groza is in his early sixties. He hails from Deva in Transylvania—a that picturesque borderland, ringed by the Carpathians, which for so long has been a source of trouble between Magyars and Romanians.

Son of a clergyman, who also was a wealthy landowner, Petru received a careful education in what was then the Austro-Hungarian double monarchy. Transylvania is populated chiefly by Romanians, but it has a large Hungarian minority, and a somewhat smaller German one.

During his youth, the Magyars were in full control, pursuing a strict racial policy. Thus Groza, though a Romanian, imbibed a predominantly Magyar culture at school. He still speaks Hungarian fluently and has recently stretched out the hand of friendship to the new Budapest regime.

As a young man, Groza added a great deal of the vast estate he had inherited from his father. When Transylvania was annexed to Romania in 1918, he possessed several thousand acres of farm land, three hotels, a bank in his home town of Deva, a textile factory in Sighisoara and a distillery in Arad.

About that time he also went into politics, joining the People's Party of General Alexandre Averescu. That party was born under the fear of Russia and communism, then so prevalent among the propertied classes of Romania.

Groza at that time stood just about at the antipodes of where he stands now. In the following years, however, he gradually worked his way toward the left.

He opposed the rise of fascism in his country. When General Ion Antonescu established his dictatorship with Nazi help, Groza was thrown into a concentration camp.

SOUGHT LAND REFORMS
He was released, along with thousands of other political prisoners, after King Michael's dramatic ouster of Antonescu on Aug. 23, 1944. He immediately re-entered the political arena as head of the newly formed Plowmen's Party, which advocated a drastic land reform.

One day, as he walked through the foyer of Bucharest's famous hotel, the Athenee Palace, Groza was set upon by two enraged fellow landowners. Fists flew as Groza, a man of athletic build and exceptional strength, charged back like an angry bull. After a brief and unhappy melee, the two assailants retreated.

The Plowmen's Party is a vital element of the so-called National Democratic Front, which, after Romania's defeat, made a determined bid for power with Moscow support.

On Nov. 5, 1944, Groza for the first time entered the government as deputy premier under Gen. Constantin Sănătescu. He retained his office also in the cabinet of Gen. Nicolae Rădescu, which was formed a month later.

Groza, and his political friend the N. D. F., did not get on well with either of the two generals picked by King Michael for the premiership. Both Sănătescu and Rădescu opposed the radical land reform and the nationalization plans favored by the N. D. F. and by Russia.

Late in February 1945, mass demonstrations organized by the communist-controlled N. D. F. led to bloody clashes with Rădescu's police.

The situation became so tense that Stalin personally intervened in the crisis. Vishinsky was hurried to Bucharest with written instructions to force Groza upon King Michael as premier.

At the end of three dramatic interviews with Vishinsky, the King bowed to Stalin's ultimatum. On March 3 he invited Groza to form a cabinet, which took office three days later. Rădescu fled into the British Legation.

RULES WITH IRON HAND
Groza has ruled Romania with an iron hand. One of his first acts, on March 12, was to proclaim a sweeping land reform, splitting up all estates of more than 125 acres.

Previously, Groza himself had voluntarily decided over his own vast farm lands to the peasants who used to work for him. He has not given up his other holdings, however.

Stalin, having handpicked Groza for the job as Romanian premier, promptly acted to provide him with a ready-made popularity. A few days after his installation in office, Groza appealed to Moscow for return of Transylvania (which Hungary had grabbed in 1940 with axis aid) and got it posthaste.

In Groza's own words: "We addressed the great Marshal Stalin and within one hour he gave us a favorable answer."

Transylvania's reunion with Romania as a festive event. It gave Groza a head start in popularity over his arch-enemy and fellow Transylvanian, Jullu Maniu.

Relations between King Michael and his Moscow-appointed premier have been marked from the first by a conspicuous lack of cordiality. The King repeatedly but unsuccessfully tried to get rid of his chief of government appealing even to the western allies for help.

Groza not only ignores all Michael's demands for his resignation; he even ignores the Crown's prerogatives. Since last fall he has governed by decrees in council, without bothering to obtain the King's signature.

U. S. BRITAIN WARY
The United States and Great Britain waited for many months before they finally granted recognition to the Groza regime on Feb. 4, 1946. Even so recognition was based on the understanding that the Romanian government would hold unfettered general elections no later than in May.

In the meantime, Washington and London are keeping a sharp eye on conditions in Romania which, from the democratic point of view, still leaves a great deal to be desired. The recent inclusion of some liberal elements has by no means broken the communists' solid grip on the Groza cabinet.

In spite of his dictatorial ambitions and at times rough-and-tumble banners, Groza is not an unpleasant person to deal with. He is good-natured, affable, and has a keen sense of humor. Straightforward and natural, as a rule, he sometimes overwhelms his visitors with the display of a vast erudition.

According to Sam Pope Brewer, he has a habit of emphasizing his points by jabbing a forefinger toward the persons addressed or stamping a pencil flat on the desk with loud cracks.

County Engineers To Hold Meeting

WACO, March 23.—(P)—Manton Hannah, county engineer of McLennan county, is receiving acceptance from all of the remaining 15 county engineers in Texas to attend a conference in Waco April 23-24, to discuss the possibility of forthcoming farm-to-market road construction allotments by the federal government to be handled separately by the counties instead of by the state highway department as now proposed.

Hannah says county engineers believe that satisfactory farm-to-market roads can be built by Texas counties which have county engineers for from $4,000 to $5,000 a mile. He says the state highway department would spend from $8,000 to $10,000.

"This is not to say," Hannah said, "that the state highway department farm-to-market building program would be wasteful. Rather, the savings would be affected by reason of specifications on the part of the county engineer program which would be some 50 per cent lower than those of the state highway department and still satisfactorily meet the basic needs of the counties involved."

Hannah insisted the county engineers' proposal was not a criticism of the state highway department. "Properly presented," he said, "I am sure the state highway department would adopt our proposal."

"If the proposal meets the approval of the state highway department, however, the fact remains that the federal government would not agree with it except in those counties which employ county engineers on a full time basis."

ABOUT THE PROPOSED GRAY COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

THE FACTS

1 From time to time for the past several years, various groups have tried to secure modern hospital facilities for Gray County. Investigation has proven the need is serious and that prompt action is necessary.

2 The maximum cost of building, equipment and site cannot exceed $505,000, to be covered by bonds not to exceed 20 years at not over 21½%. The County Commissioners have authority to sell these bonds at the best possible market.

3 At present under State law the tax increase cannot exceed 18c per $100 valuation as shown on County Tax rolls. As an example property, real or personal, rendered for $1,000 will cost the taxpayer $1.80 per year or a total of $36.00 over a twenty-year period.

4 The hospital will contain a minimum of 100 beds in a fireproof, soundproof, air-conditioned building with modern technical equipment. In addition the building will house 25 beds for nurses and a nurses' training program.

5 It is planned to take advantage of the County's priority to buy Army or Navy equipment. The best of new equipment can be purchased at this time at a great saving to the taxpayer.

6 The County Commissioners have authority to decide on who shall operate the hospital. Present plans call for a board of management who will be appointed by the Commissioners.

7 The site for the hospital has not been decided upon. The Board of Management or the County Commissioners shall select the site after the bonds are voted.

8 Anyone with property rendered on the County tax rolls, who has a paid poll tax receipt, a returned veteran over 21 or an exemption certificate is a qualified voter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. How much will it raise taxes?
A. By law the present maximum increase cannot exceed 18c per hundred dollars as rendered on the county tax rolls.

Q. Who will run the hospital?
A. This is wholly within the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners Court, but present plans call for an appointed "Board of Management" who will have complete charge of building and operation.

Q. Why vote bonds to build a hospital?
A. Private capital is not interested in hospitals as a business. Since this will serve all of Gray County, and since our county is almost free of debt, county bonds will be a more even distribution of this expense.

Q. Do the Doctors want a new hospital?
A. On November 15, 1945, members of the Gray-Wheeler County Medical Society passed the following motion: "After an informal discussion a motion was made and seconded to notify the County Judge and City Officials that the Gray-Wheeler County Medical Society is vitally interested in voting a bond issue for a county-city hospital. Carried unanimously."

Q. What Doctors will be eligible to practice in this hospital?
A. Any doctor licensed in the State of Texas will be eligible to practice in this hospital.

Q. Who is eligible to vote?
A. Any person having property rendered on the County tax rolls and who has a poll tax receipt, or exemption, or who is over 21 years of age and has a discharge from the armed services within the last 18 months is a qualified voter.

Q. Why should every qualified voter be sure to vote?
A. In order that the Commissioners Court may have a clear picture of the will of the tax payers.

Pending Legislation Directly Affecting Farmers Discussed

WHITE DEER, March 23 (Special)—The White Deer Creek Farm Bureau and one guest, Ray Ownbey of Slinnet, met with County Agent and Mrs. John Nelson recently for a report from Nelson on the District 1 farm bureau meeting.

This meeting, Nelson said, was conducted as a round table discussion, with J. Walter Hammond, state farm bureau president, acting as moderator. The discussion was concerned with pending legislation directly affecting farmers.

The plan to co-ordinate such overlapping agencies as AAA, Soil Conservation and Extension Service, Farm Security and Extension, and Forest Service and Extension was mentioned. The President has been given power to consolidate all these government agencies, according to Nelson's information received at the district meeting. Nelson had no comment on the plans to consolidate part or all of these agencies, but farm bureau members remarked that, is consolidated, the extension service could best handle them, since extension service personnel must be familiar with all these agencies anyway.

A new bill authorizing the secretary of agriculture to help construct and develop county agricultural buildings has been introduced. These buildings would be available to both federal and county agencies. The farm bureau believes it best to vest ownership of such buildings in county or farm organizations, rather than in federal groups.

Revision of parity is up for consideration in congress with several bills already having been introduced. The Pace bill would include the cost of farm labor in figuring parity, just as industry figures the cost of labor in setting prices on its products.

The Thomas bill would include farm labor in figuring parity and would change the base period from 1910-1914 to 1920-1929, as a period when the farmer's dollar came nearest to buying the same amount of commodities and service as industry's and labor's dollar.

The Corley bill, which would allow the Farm Security Administration, Regional Agricultural Credit Administration and the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan division of Farm Credit Administration to be grouped into one huge corporation which would also administer the Tenant Purchase Act, is being opposed by the farm bureau for numerous reasons. First, it would create a vast federal agency, run by a board of directors and officers, all appointed by the secretary of agriculture, with a borrowing

Shamrock Doctor Goes to Mayo's

SHAMROCK, March 23 (Special)—Dr. J. Oliver Gooch left Shamrock this morning for Rochester, Minn., where on April 1, he will assume duties with the Mayo Foundation as a specialist of the ear, nose and throat.

Dr. Gooch received a fellowship with the Mayo Foundation soon after his discharge from military service.

Since his release from the army on Jan. 25, the young physician has been associated with his father, J. W. Gooch, in the practice of medicine in Shamrock.

"I have enjoyed my practice here very much," Dr. Gooch declared, "and I feel that I have more friends here than anywhere else. I am fortunate in receiving a fellowship in the Mayo Foundation, however, and it is an opportunity which I cannot afford to turn down."

Dr. Gooch, who practiced medicine from July, 1940, until January, 1941, at which time he was called into military service, climbed to the rank of colonel during his five years in the armed forces.

Eighteen months of his military life was spent in North Africa and Italy.

Dr. Gooch was accompanied by Mrs. Gooch and their two sons.

Cox Comments

By ANNA MERLE COX
Randall Clay, who has received much publicity through the Associated Press and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram because of his outstanding athletic ability, is going to fly to visit Tulane University in New Orleans. He plans to go down just before the State Inter-scholastic meet May 2 and 3. Randall has had "offers" from many southwest conference schools but is still undecided about which to attend.

By the way of the grapevine we hear that the seniors are going to receive a new type of diploma. The one that told us said they were really beautiful.

We regret that Emory Menefer's name was not listed among the new members of the Honor society last week. Our apologies, Emory.

The faculty has been doing constructive work to eliminate the number of failures among the students of PHS. When one home room was polled on the question, "What Causes Failure?" fifty per cent said they didn't really try to do the required work. Fifteen per cent stated that they had too many other activities. About eight per cent stated that the teachers were too hard. Mr. Winston Savage is working on the percentage of failures in each class.

Twenty-two members of the "Harvester" and Little Harvester staffs attended the Panhandle High School Press association meeting in Canyon yesterday.

Beverly Candler, Joyce Pratt, Elva Jean Anderson, Bernice Brown, Emory Menefer, and Bill Nellis—all National Honor society members—are qualified to take the society scholarship test which will entitle the ten students making the highest grades in the United States to a scholarship for any school in the nation.

VFW Auxiliary Sponsors Contest

"What Can I Do For My Country" will be the subject for the 11th annual national essay contest sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

National awards will include $1,000 cash, first prize; $500, second; $250, third; $100, fourth; ten awards of $10 and ten of $5 each, plus appropriate medals for the first four winners.

Some of the contest rules are as follows: Essays shall not exceed 1,000 words in length. Students regularly enrolled in any high school and maintaining their class work at the time of writing the essays are eligible to compete. No age limit is specified. Post-graduate students may not compete.

Essays will be judged on literary construction, interpretative views and patriotic inspiration.

All entries must be in the possession of Miss Anne Louise Jones by March 29.

Mrs. Roy Chisholm is chairman of the local contest.

The aim of this contest is to encourage the development of a patriotic mental attitude among the boys and girls of today—the men and women of tomorrow who will inherit the benefits for which countless thousands of Americans have given their lives in the costliest war in all history.

Drive Carefully

Each morning between eight and nine a. m. a police car may be seen patrolling Christine, Mary Ellen, and Russell streets.

This fact does not bestow any honors upon our school, students or teachers. The policemen probably regret having to keep a special vigilance for fast and reckless student drivers who are on their way to school, but it is their duty to safeguard lives as well as the citizens' property.

Traffic problems have decreased since these streets are being patrolled, but the students would bring more and better commendations upon the school if they drive safely without a special police escort. Remember to drive carefully, start early to give yourself sufficient time, and when you arrive at the school, park your car without endangering the lives of fellow classmates.

Spring, at Last

Thursday was the first day of spring, the time when young men's fancies turn to love and new romances are made.

But it also brings in the same old fact that six-weeks exams will soon be here and that there are only two months in which to complete a successful year.

Study and work will be factors which will really make our minds turn to the lighter things when the harder ones are done. Let's pitch in and do our best in every way to make the last stretch of the nine innings winning ones.

Hobbies To Be Discussed In Paid Assembly Thursday

Karl S. Bolander of Columbus, Ohio, will discuss "Hobbies—How to Ride Them," in a paid assembly Thursday at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Bolander is founder and president of the National Art Hobby Guild and has earned the title of "Art Hobby King." He has many hobbies of his own.

He studied at leading schools, including Pratt Institute, Ohio State University and Columbia University. For several years he was associated with public schools as a teacher and correlating director of fine and industrial arts.

During World War I he served as one of 70 Navy camoufliers. He has directed the building of the Fort Wayne, Ind., and Columbus, Ohio, Civic Art museums. He has been a faculty member of the Applied School of Arts, Chicago, and the New York School of Industrial Arts.

Mr. Bolander has memberships in Tau Delta Sigma and Delta Phi Delta, honorary architectural and fine arts fraternities, Rotary International, National Soap Sculpture committee, State Chairman in Ohio and national lecturer for the American Artists Professional League.

He will give suggestions from some of the 784 hobbies listed by his organization in conjunction with the Chicago and New York Hobby shows.

The actual work of famous hobbyists which he has collected from all over the world will be shown. Among those from China, India, England and Africa and other countries, he displays unusual hobbies by many Americans. Mr. Bolander states, "It is high time that every one rides some worthwhile hobby."

Guy West Is Guest Speaker in PHS

The Rev. Guy West, brother of the Rev. R. G. West, Bible teacher, asked the question, "What are you doing here?" in assembly Wednesday morning.

He answered the question himself by stating that high school students are building character and developing the personality we will live with the rest of our lives. Mr. West, whose home is in Pennsylvania, is in Pampa conducting a revival at the Church of the Brethren.

The PHS band, directed by Mr. Ray Robbins, played "Men of Ohio," "Richard III," "El Caballero," and "Au Pays Lorrain," numbers it will play in the Enid contest in April.

Orin Allen, Wesley Geiger, Anna Merle Cox, and Donna Ruth Benson played "Coronation March" on saxophone quartet. Bill Payne, Bobby Hutchins, Dick McCune, David Plank, Don Kephart and Bob Oden played a medley of pieces from Stephen Foster as a brass ensemble.

Committees Chosen From Junior Sponsors

Miss Loraine Bruce and Mr. Ray Robbins will be the house managers for both performances of the junior play "The Bat" which will be produced April 11 and 12.

Tickets and bills will be handled by Miss Violet Durrett and Miss Katherine Simmons. Mrs. Mabel Torvie and Mr. Jack Nichols will take care of the advertisement.

A party for the cast and stage crew after the last performance will be planned and prepared by Miss Virginia Vaughan and Miss Edith Kral.

Homemaking Classes Have Breakfast Test

The first year cooking classes have been learning how to fix breakfast and the girls had breakfasts Tuesday and Wednesday in the homemaking laboratory to demonstrate what they had learned.

The breakfast was a test to complete the unit on breakfasts, and the girls could invite teachers to their breakfasts. Each kitchen consists of four girls and each kitchen had a breakfast at the time they chose on the two days. Some of the breakfasts were before school and some after school.

The teachers present at the breakfasts were: Miss Edith Kral, cooking teacher, Mrs. E. O. Stroup and Miss Dorothy Hoyle.

The girls have been making coffee and muffins in class and have invited teachers with off periods then in for coffee and muffins.

Air Field Is Home for Boys in Fort Worth

By LONNIE WILLIAMS
Army barracks, food and bunk beds are not had for two days but they wouldn't be too nice permanently, we decided when the Fort Worth Army air field was our home for two days.

We ate at the PX cafeteria and slept in double decker bunks in the barracks. The airfield is located near the edge of town and we got lost several times trying to find it. Once we drove several miles and then found we were on the road toward home. Coach Otis Coffey's unpredictable driving always provided unlimited thrills.

Over 1,200 high school athletes and nearly 300 college athletes took part in the Southwestern Exposition track and field meet.

Although only one Pampa boy, Bill Speer, placed in the meet, we gained a lot of experience and had a good trip.

We saw several well known southern college athletes, including Walter Schirman of Texas Tech, Neil Armstrong of Oklahoma A and M, August Entsch of Baylor and Bob Coffey of Texas A and M.

Personality Sketches Get Honorable Mention

Maxine Lane, Frank Stallings and Joann Conrod, who entered the Quill and Scroll feature contest in February, received honorable mention for their stories in the recent issue of the magazine.

The features were personality sketches of persons known by the writer.

The subject of Frank's sketch was Bob Reynolds, Pampa High student; a Mr. Miller in California was the person about whom Maxine wrote; and Joann's was on Dr. John L. Perkins.

Two students of Amarillo High, Hurshele Journey and Mary Jo Phillips, also received mention for their features.

The PHS Petites were victorious over the Panhandle girls in two out of three volleyball games played here Wednesday. Scores for the games were 15-10, 15 and 15-7.

Pampa To Have Chapter of NASS

A chapter of the National Athletic Scholarship society is being organized in Pampa High.

This is an honor society in which citizenship, scholarship and athletic ability are the factors in obtaining membership.

NASS was established in 1925 by the principals of several leading high schools, and since that time growth has been consistent. Last year there were 85 organized clubs and over 2,000 members.

The following qualifications have been set forth as requirements for membership:

Scholarship—grades must be equal to or higher than the general average among athletes, stimulate in four sports trophies are Pat Miller, Joan Clay, Delores Watson, Joyce Pratt, Peggy Kelly and Beverly Candler.

Animals seem to be in the limelight or we might say "on the shoulder" and showing off cute ones are Marjorie Lawrence with her black and white "kitty"; Marjorie Sloan who has a negro mammy made of yarn with green and red dress, Ramona Matheny's turquoise frog which she calls "Mr. Green," and Jere Hancock's red leather horse with big bushy tail. These cuddly little trinkets could walk straight into any girl's heart.

June Myatt and Guineite Killingsworth are both sporting jewelry (bracelets) from overseas. June is from Burma and Guineite's is from Leyte. Speaking of bracelets, we must mention Arvilla Patterson, who probably has more in evidence than any other girl. She wears as many as possible on one arm (they usually reach the elbow) and then starts on the other arm. Most of them are the ever-popular Indian bracelets.

Aurenia White, Sybil Pierson, Anna Lois Beesley and Wona Hatt have lovely chokers which add interest to any dress.

With this, we'll say "So long, see ya next week!"

Myers, King and Hyatt Are New PHS Veterans

By THELMA LINK
Three more veterans have enrolled in PHS. They are Tom King, Bobby Myers and John Hyatt.

Bobby Myers, an ex-Navy man, entered the service Dec. 24, 1942. He spent two years overseas.

While he was in the States, he was stationed at San Diego, San Francisco, McAlester, Okla., and Norman, Okla., where he received his discharge Feb. 1, 1946.

Bobby saw Hollandia, New Guinea, first when he went overseas. From there he was transferred to Wake, then to Leyte. Finally he moved to two Jima.

He is registered as a junior and is taking English II, Algebra I and Commercial Law.

Bobby plans to attend summer school and the University of Oklahoma in 1948.

Tom King, who took a 15-day vacation while in India, states that his hobby is winking at pretty girls.

Tom joined the Air Corps Oct. 26, 1942, and received his basic training at Pampa and took infantry training in North Carolina.

"I shipped over on a merchant vessel to Casablanca, took a train to Oran, where I received more infantry training and then I sailed through the Mediterranean Sea and Red Sea to Cairo, Egypt, on an English liner." Tom said in describing his movements.

In India, his duty was to ship supplies to China by air in C-46 and C-47 transports.

Tom plans to go to law school under the GI Bill of Rights.

He is now classified as a junior. Jan. 5, Tom left Karachi, India, and landed in Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2. He received his discharge Feb. 11, 1946.

John Hyatt, a post graduate of Pampa High, took a correspondence course and graduated in 1945. He entered the Army Air Corps and spent two years, seven months, 21 days and 20 minutes in its service.

He attended MIT and took radio, electronics and radar. While in the air corps, he was stationed at Amarillo, Trux Field, Mass.; Chanute Field, Ill.; Boca Raton Field, Fla.; Fairmont AFB, Geneva, Neb.; Biggs Field, El Paso, and was discharged at Fort Bliss Feb. 10, 1946.

John is taking English IV and Algebra II. He will attend summer school and take English, algebra, and trigonometry.

He plans to study Electrical engineering in college.

Fashion Flashes

By JOANNE COONROD
Clink! Clunk! were some sounds heard around PHS last week and it wasn't the bell, either. It was jewelry—jewelry of all different shapes, sizes, and colors. The varieties are wide; so don't anyone feel slighted, please.

A popular fashion seems to be the wearing of jewelry rings by lowerclassmen. Among these are George Anna Grogan, Margaret Price, Nicki Fraser, Clara Davis and Marjorie Sloan. These girls also have wide assortments of footbells, basketballs, gloves, baseballs, discs and track shoes. Girls going in for sports trophies are Pat Miller, Joan Clay, Delores Watson, Joyce Pratt, Peggy Kelly and Beverly Candler.

Animals seem to be in the limelight or we might say "on the shoulder" and showing off cute ones are Marjorie Lawrence with her black and white "kitty"; Marjorie Sloan who has a negro mammy made of yarn with green and red dress, Ramona Matheny's turquoise frog which she calls "Mr. Green," and Jere Hancock's red leather horse with big bushy tail. ## Smoke Now Cleared; Annual Is Completed

The smoke has cleared, the noise has subsided, the debris cleaned up—the annual is finished! Last Wednesday, with the sending of the last section, the momentous task of making this year's "Harvester" was completed.

This year's annual will have 96 pages and will be divided into five sections—classes, faculty, sports, activities and snaps. The editors for the 1946 Harvester are Alberta Williams and Erma Lee-Kennedy and it is under the sponsorship of Miss Clara Clark.

With its completion, it will now be safe to stray into the Little Harvester office and ask a stupid question without fear of being annihilated.

Thirty-One Colleges and Universities Chosen by Seniors in Poll Wednesday

According to a recent survey, 83 of the 128 seniors polled plan to attend 31 different universities and colleges throughout the United States.

Fifteen said they did not plan to attend college, and 17 were undecided about whether they will go to school or which college to attend.

Topping the list of colleges is the West Texas State college at Amarillo, which 11 plan to attend. Second were TSCW at Denton and Texas Tech, at Lubbock, with nine, and the University of Texas ranked third with seven.

The seniors who chose West Texas were Elva Jean Anderson, Patsy Husband, Bob Keller, Bob Troop, Dorothy Maddox, Freddie Jean Brock, Lonnie Williams, Mary Jean Meador, Wayne Donnell, Bobbie McClenon and Bill Hutchinson.

T. Bobbey, nolds; and Oklahoma City University, Betty Jean Boynton.

Battle Rages Between Saddle, Ballet Shoes

While walking down the halls, one hears the squeak of rubber soles, or the slippery slide of ballet slippers that are the rage with all the girls of PHS.

The saddle oxford, which has had ever gaining popularity since it was first introduced on the market now has the competition of the ballet slippers.

The saddle oxford comes in either brown and white, black and white or blue and white. The color, most white is seen most and is worn just about everywhere. It is often seen with sweaters and skirts, slacks and just general loafing.

The ballet slipper comes in every color of the rainbow and some colors that aren't there. The color, most seen is black with gold nailheads on the sole, colored beads on the strings or just plain black. Red is the most popular color. The slipper is seen every place. It is worn with formal usually in white satin or white kid. It is also seen on the streets with short dinner dresses and on down to peddle pushers of the same material as skirts or dresses.

The saddle oxford is still in style but the ballet slipper is fast taking over; but the ageless moccasin is still the favorite of teen-age girls.

Smoke Now Cleared; Annual Is Completed

The smoke has cleared, the noise has subsided, the debris cleaned up—the annual is finished! Last Wednesday, with the sending of the last section, the momentous task of making this year's "Harvester" was completed.

This year's annual will have 96 pages and will be divided into five sections—classes, faculty, sports, activities and snaps. The editors for the 1946 Harvester are Alberta Williams and Erma Lee-Kennedy and it is under the sponsorship of Miss Clara Clark.

With its completion, it will now be safe to stray into the Little Harvester office and ask a stupid question without fear of being annihilated.

Bill Speer Places At Fort Worth

Bill Speer, Harvester trackster, won second in the discus throw at the Southwestern State show track meet March 16 at Fort Worth. He was the only boy from the Panhandle who placed in any event of the meet.

Approximately 150 boys entered each event and the events were run in about 20 heats each. Two Harvester boys in the finals and three ran in the semi-finals, but were eliminated.

Going to this meet seemed to add vigor to the workouts since they have seen the champions from big colleges and universities run. Coach Otis Coffey said last week.

Carl Mayes ran his best time in the 220-yard dash, but was eliminated. Leon Gooch ran the quarter mile run; Lonnie Williams put the shot and Randall Clay, whose throw met March 16 at Fort Worth. He was the only boy from the Panhandle who placed in any event of the meet.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Bulls and scattered bearish materials displayed modest upward leanings in today's stock market although many leaders remained in the jangling division.

Transfers ran to around 600,000 shares. Buying again was attributed mainly to hopes for further lifts or eliminations of OPA ceilings and to the belief that the deal was in shape to resume the advance interrupted by the February slump. Brokers said that the Stalin interview, while cheering to Wall Street as an indication that international tension was easing still was more or less of a neutral market factor.

Ahead most of the time were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, American Telephone and Telegraph, Power & Light, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Montgomery Ward, Associated Dry Goods, Goodrich, Connecticut American Can, Texas Co., Amstar Allied Chemical and Kellogg.

Washington backed away as signs of a break in the company's strike against work lacking Western Union. A dip in wheat when the concern reported January operations resulted in a deficit due to wage increases and reduced volume of business. Steel and motor did nothing much either way.

Bonds and commodities held to a relatively-stable groove.
