Iran Files New Protest With United Nations Security Council

Soviets Term Protest as 'Unfriendly'

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Iran has filed a new protest with the United Nations Security Council against continued presence of Russian troops in that country, an Iranian embassy official said today.

Gholam Abbas Aram, first secretary of the embassy, told a reporter that Ambassador Hussein Ala delivered the protest last night to Trygve Lie, UNO secretary general, who is now in Washington.

Ala acted on instructions received from Premier Ahmed Qavam-Essultaneh in Tehran late yesterday, Aram said.

APPEAR IN PERSON
Aram said he believed Ambassador Ala, if given the opportunity, would appear in person before the security council to present the Iranian case against Russia.

Russian troops had been scheduled to leave Iran by March 2. Instead they remained there.

CONFERENCE FAILED
Qavam last week announced his intention to take Iran's troubles to the security council, after he had failed in personal conferences at Moscow with Generalissimo Stalin and Foreign Commissar Molotov to clear up the situation.

Some doubt arose here later as to whether he would be able to follow that course.

The U. S. government had received word from its representatives in Iran that Soviet officials in Tehran were endeavoring to dissuade Qavam from making the protest to the council.

Sweden Rejected Suggestion They Mediate in War

NUERNBERG, March 19.—(AP)—Binger Dahlberg, a Swedish engineer, testified today that the Swedish government rejected a suggestion three weeks before the outbreak of World War II that it—King Gustaf V—attempt to mediate between Germany and Britain.

However, Dahlberg told the international military tribunal the government offered no objection to a private citizen attempting such intervention and he said he personally carried a six-point peace plan from Adolf Hitler to British Prime Minister Chamberlain four days before the wehrmacht marched into Poland.

Taking the stand as a defense witness for Hermann Goering, Dahlberg gave a vivid picture of a midnight meeting with the fuhrer in Berlin. He said Hitler, highly excited, shouted:

Byrnes Says 'Blue Book' Still Stands

By NORMAN CARIGNAN
WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—The United States doesn't want to see any nazi-fascist regime come to full bloom in Argentina.

That's what all the fussing is about now concerning Argentina and one Col. Juan Peron.

The trouble all started back in 1944 when the state department under Cordell Hull cracked down on Argentina.

Hull said the Argentine government was a "traitor to the Allied cause" and had given "positive aid and comfort to the enemies of the United Nations."

As a result of action taken at the Mexico City conference last year, Argentina was brought back into the fold and later into the United Nations.

But when James Byrnes took over the state department in June 1945, the tough policy towards Argentina was soon reapplied.

At that time, the United States was committed to signing a mutual defense treaty with the Latins, including Argentina, at a conference in Rio.

Meanwhile, the state department was receiving sensational information from Argentina from 600 tons of German documents found in attics, cellars and all sorts of hiding places in Germany.

Confronted with this situation, the department decided the United States couldn't sign a military alliance with Argentina and still maintain its self-respect.

At about this time, Col. Juan Peron resigned as vice-president and labor minister of the Argentine government and started campaigning for the presidency.

He's the man this country has its eye on.

Last month, the state department distributed to the Latins all the information it had on Argentina in the form of a document called the "blue book."

This document charged that Peron and other members of the government tried to work out a deal with the nazis.

Another Searchlight On State Department

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—A second congressional committee has turned its searchlight on the state department.

Members of the house committee on un-American activities disclosed today that for the last two months they have been quietly investigating reports that "persons of un-American tendencies are holding high position in the state department."

Disclosed that the un-American activities group has moved into the state department's jurisdiction came from Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.) and was confirmed by the group's member.

Mundt told a reporter, "what we have found so far indicated that there is more than rumor to reports that many persons of questionable background are employed in the department."

Mundt said the committee also will ask the state department for a report on how it will select an estimate 200 United States employees to be attached to the United Nations organization.

Mundt said his committee is concerned primarily with persons who "are pro-communistic."

He disclosed without elaboration that committee investigators have "gone upon a hot trail" in the atomic bomb inquiry and said they are cooperating with the federal bureau of investigation and with army and navy intelligence officers.

New Five-Year Plan Launched Today by Reds

MOSCOW, March 19.—(AP)—Russia embarked officially today upon a new five-year plan designed to place the nation in the forefront among the users of a omic energy and to boost industrial production to one and one-half times the present level by 1950.

The plan, which was presented last Friday to the supreme soviet by N. A. Voznesensky, head of the state planning department, was adopted unanimously yesterday by both houses of the Russian parliament.

Voznesensky asserted the soviet union would maintain and strengthen her military forces during the five-year period from 1946 to 1950, and that prizes would be awarded to scientists to stimulate atomic research.

Marchenry Minister A. E. Yefremov told the council of the union of the supreme soviet that if the aims of the plan were achieved Russia would be too powerful for any nation to overcome, even if an attack should come unheralded and by surprise.

The Moscow radio heard in London, said yesterday the principal task of the new plan was to equip the armed forces with the latest "weapons" and to consolidate the nation's defenses.

"The soviet union stands guard over the peace and security of all nations," the commentator added. "It is a stranger to any expansionist desires such as those of Mr. Churchill and his friends, who have put on the shoes of warmongers."

Actual Work in Laying Outfall Line Is Started

Following several weeks of delay due to equipment and materials shortages, work was started yesterday on the actual laying of pipe for the main outfall line of the sewer reconstruction project.

Contractor, the Alfred-Enix Construction company, project contractor, dug 1075 feet of ditch and laid 675 feet of 18-inch pipe yesterday.

The line begins at the disposal plant northeast of the city and traverses the 1,975 feet of ditch and trench pool where a junction of 12-inch pipe starts. The first part of the line will require 8,300 feet of 18-inch pipe, all of which has not been received as yet.

The issuance of bonds totaling $32,000 was voted here last year for the project. The Alfred-Enix company was granted the contract for the main outfall line on the basis of a low bid of $88,000. The outfall line is about six miles in length.

Following the completion of the outfall line, other contracts will be let for the remainder of the city-wide project.

Also voted was a $63,000 bond issue for the construction of storm sewers to keep downtown streets drained but this work is being set aside for the present in favor of the more critically-needed sewer.

Desires 'Best of Russian Relations'

OTTAWA, March 19.—(AP)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told parliament last night that his government was gravely concerned over Russian espionage activities which he said had extended through the Dominion into the U. S. and Britain, but he frowned on the idea of an open break between Canada and Russia.

Activities extended into U. S. Voicing his belief that Generalissimo Stalin was ignorant of the espionage activities, King emphasized Canada's desire for "only the best of relations with the U. S. S. R."

He told parliament that documents seized in the espionage inquiry and accepted by the government as being of undoubted authenticity "disclose among other things that Canada was being made a base to secure information on matters of very great and grave concern to the United States and also to Great Britain."

The prime minister said further that these documents showed "that information was being sought through agents here with respect to many matters that were of the utmost concern to Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom." He did not elaborate.

King said that operations continued through the secret channels in Ottawa went back as far as 1943 and 1944 and had created a serious situation as has existed in Canada at any time "having potentially far-reaching repercussions."

He drew a distinction, however, between the soviet agents, who he said, had conducted the espionage, and Generalissimo Stalin and the Russian people.

"I know," he said, "for those learned of Mr. Stalin from those who have been closely associated with him in the war that which causes me to believe that he would not countenance action of his kind on the part of his country."

"We in Canada," he said, "want only the best of relations with the U. S. S. R., as we do with every other country, and we must not be too ready to judge until we know all the circumstances connected with the particular situation."

Despite this appeal, King made no effort to minimize what he considered the gravity of the case itself. These were the highlights of his address, one of the longest extemporaneous speeches of his career.

As soon as he knew of the ramifications of the espionage network, he consulted immediately with President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee on a trip to Washington and London.

Announcement of the case was delayed until Feb. 15 for two main reasons. First, not to create an atmosphere of distrust at the Moscow conference of foreign ministers and subsequent United Nations meeting.

Second, to give the government time to prepare a full-scale investigation of the case.

Minimum Wage Bill May Be Laid Aside

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Senate leaders don't expect today shelving the new minimum wage bill temporarily because of the strong opposition to it, but they are talking of switching it to a later session.

Bankers of the administration's economic program seemed to feel that the bill would be their advantage. They talked of switching it to a later session by two pending appropriations bills.

One provision, $364,114,000, the bulk of which would go to meet pay increases for federal employees.

The other bill carries $3,347,200 for farm programs, including $1,600,000 for OPA and $1,500,000 for the grain production administration. Both measures are to cover the remainder of the current fiscal year which ends June 30.

Administration leaders reacted sharply to the tentative efforts of some farm state legislators to have the minimum wage bill provide for farm price controls.

The proposal they hit is sponsored by Senator Russell (D-Ga.). It would establish a new formula for setting farm parity prices by taking into account the increases in wages and other expenses on the farms.

With the public support of Chairman Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) the Senate agriculture committee and Senator Russell's amendment, Russell has called for a showdown.

The mood of the farm-state legislators was reflected in the vigor of Russell's comments on Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's statement that the Russell amendment would be filibustered.

The Georgian declared Anderson's remarks appeared to confirm reports that "the farmer has no real friends in any of the policy-making positions within the department of agriculture."

Food Shortage Presents Major UNRRA Problem

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 19.—(AP)—A desperate shortage of food in a hungry world posed for UNRRA today its major immediate problem—a matter to recommend sharp curtailment of relief aid to Japan and Germany in order to give preference to the rest of the world.

The issue was being squarely put to the north council of the international relief organization by ruddy-faced, student-faced Sir Carl Berenson, delegate from New Zealand, who insisted the first right to available food resources should go to the victims of Axis aggression.

Meanwhile, the organization set today a date for the opening of a full-scale debate on the whole question of food, with a move developing the seems to call upon Russia for substantial contribution of grain to replenish the larders in Eastern Europe. This stemmed immediately from the disclosure that Russia is planning to ship 500,000 tons of wheat and barley to France soon in Liberty ships now on their way to the Black sea.

Delegates weighed privately also the question of how best to continue the organization's relief functions after the deadline for the organization's expiration, the end of 1946 in Europe, the end of June in Asia.

Aside from the diminishing likelihood UNRRA would be given a new lease on life there appeared these possibilities:

1. That the organization's functions, along with a big part of its administrative personnel, would be turned over to the United Nations organization.

Independent Oil Men Go Before Senate Committee

A nationwide investigation for the purpose of establishing a realistic oil policy is being completed today by the Senate committee on un-American activities.

Dr. Archie Jones, professor of music education at the University of Texas, will be the critic judge, placing groups and soloists first, second and third.

Twelve organized vocal groups, several small ensembles, and from 45-50 soloists have entered the contest, reports Miss LaNelle Scheihagen, music supervisor of Pampa public schools, who has been in charge of arrangements for the contest.

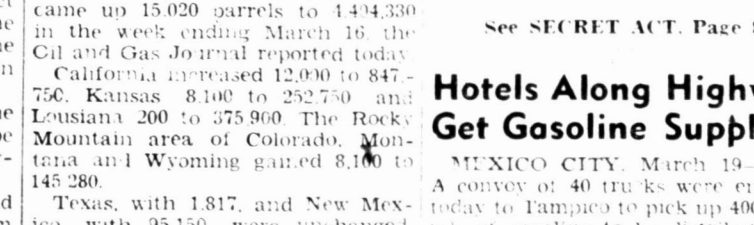

Entries from Pampa include the 69-member mixed junior high school chorus, the 88-member senior high school girls' glee club and 50 member senior high mixed chorus.

An Ear Burns in Brooklyn

Writer Relates Story Behind an Exhibition Game

By WHITNEY MARTIN SARASOTA, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—For those whose mental picture of a Grapefruit League game is a hazy blend of athletes using palm trees for bases and oranges for batting practice, this is more what it is like: It is hot in the Sarasota park but a stout breeze whips in over the new concrete outfield fence, making the 375-foot foul line about 450 feet. The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox are scheduled for their first exhibition game at 2 o'clock. About 11 a. m. the Red Sox amble on the field and start hitting the ball around. The tiny wooden grandstand holds only about 600 and the faded bleachers only about that many more, so the circus, wintering nearby, has come to the rescue with temporary seats slapped together by the circus men in about 15 minutes. The fans start arriving in earnestly about noon and soon the shaded stand is just about filled. On the field the Red Sox take their turn at batting practice. Ted Williams, without a bat in his hand only when the pitcher takes the outfield, is rapping the ball sharply against the ground and screen in a pepper game. The Yankees finally begin tricking on the field—Keller, DiMaggio, Rizzuto, Gordon, Henrich. Players of the two teams shake hands and trade banter. A press photographer assembles Dom and Joe DiMaggio for a brother picture. While he is adjusting his camera a spy little did lady with a Brownie box camera from nowhere, says not a word, takes her place in front of the brothers and snaps the shutter. Then she marches away, still without a word but with her face a picture of satisfaction. The Yankees come up for their turn at batting practice and the Red Sox players take everything in, as the Yankees still are the Yankees and a team which still awes its rivals. Good natured banter is hurled at the Yankee batters as they come up, with the nonchalant Charley Keller a particular target. The first Yankee batting practice pitcher is a tall, lanky guy named Earl Drews. He is wilder than New Year's eve. He hits DiMaggio and Gordon in the back with pitched balls and keeps little Rizzuto bobbing like a Funky and Jerry character to keep from being binged. He finally is relieved by a less dangerous pitcher. Suddenly there is the bare of hand music. The noise is traced to a small group of shirt-sleeved musicians wedged between the grandstand and bleachers. It is identified as the trailer camp band and the men turn out every game to blow their tops under the hot sun just for the fun of it. Not bad, either. The game finally starts with the players giving it the old college try and except for the casual setting, might be a game at Yankee stadium or Fenway Park. Even the hot dog and peanut vendors are there although it is suspected they also were horrified from the circus, as their sales line is right from the get-go. Probably just getting in a little spring training themselves.

Kentucky, Rhode Island Battle Tomorrow for Invitation Title

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—Kentucky's smooth five, first team to be picked for the National Invitation basketball tournament, and Rhode Island's wild-running Rams, last to be invited to the annual Madison Square Garden affair, will meet for the title Wednesday night. The Wildcats from the Bluegrass country were given a stiff battle by West Virginia's Mountaineers last night before they were able to pull out a 59-51 victory and advance to the final round. The Rams, once again paced by slim, tireless Ernie Calverley in their helter-skelter rushes up and down the floor, laughed off their underdog role and polished off the Mules of Muhlenberg 59-51. Calverley dropped in 27 points and set up at least a dozen more. Kentucky's Tingle and Parkinson, along with Ralph Beard, were the key men in the Wildcats' conquest. With the score tied for the 14th time during the spine-tingling tilt and less than two minutes to go, Tingle and Parkinson broke up the 51-41 deadlock by plumping four field goals in the net. Tingle who scored three of the late tallies, was high man of the game with 16 points.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor LALLAS, March 19.—(AP)—Coaches estimate that one-third of the track men in Texas high school this year will be barred from the state meet in Austin by the rule that says a boy 18 years old or over before May 1 may not compete. It does not appear quite fair to these boys either. Most of them are youngsters who stayed over in school so they might have another season of eligibility and they did it because the rule was so passed. Now they find they can run and jump and throw in all meets except the one they wish above all else to compete in. The technicality arose last year when it was ruled by the interscholastic league that although the state meet still was in the school year and that a boy was eligible for all other athletics he could not compete in the Austin track carnival because it came after May 1. The league doesn't want the technicality. The league doesn't want to ignore the rule because that would let the bars down. We think the league is quite correct in this attitude. The state meet, which will be held before May 1, there is a two-week lapse between regional meets and the state meet. Why not hold it on April 29 and 30—Monday and Tuesday? The league, of course, needs time to get its programs arranged and printing done. But just this once, they could hurry it up and if necessary eliminate some of the programs. Next year the rule will be amended but this year there'll be a lot of boys deprived of competition in the big met because of a technicality unless something is done.

Champion Oilers Barely Win Over Camp Hood Five

DENVER, March 19.—(AP)—Narrow escapes by two big name teams—Phillips 66 and Hollywood 20th Century Fox—heightened interest in the National AAU basketball tournament today as the big hoop meeting moved well into the second round. The going began to get rough earlier than usual as a couple of dark horses, Camp Hood, Texas, and Colorado A. and M. college almost knocked the National champion Oilers and the Movie men out of the tournament. Phillips, which has kept the coveted AAU crown in Bartlesville, Okla., for three years, was "hot" and had to squeeze out a 60-56 decision over the Oilers, and Hollywood had to come from behind in the last minute to survive, 47-45, against the Collegians. Among the seeded teams scheduled to face strong opposition today were the Salt Lake City Simplot-Deserts, who meet the Spokane (Wash.) naval supply depot; and the San Francisco Borlo Athletic club, which opposes the Camp Lejeune (N. C.) marines. Camp Hood's soldiers matched a good fast break and a quartet of sweet shooters against the great Phillips team and almost came out on top. They outshot the Oilers in field goals, 24-23, and Phillips had to win it at the free throw line.

'Harvey' Goes to Movie With Joe

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—(AP)—Joe E. Brown brought "Harvey" to the Billmore theater last night and in no time had the tough movie crowd, not the six-foot rabbit, eating out of his hand. The wide-grinned comic came with the Mary Chase fantasy into his home grounds to face what must be the toughest audience this side of Nuremberg. The film colony is notable for sitting on hands during public performances; Bob Hope almost gave up trying to thaw the Academy Award guests. But when Joe sauntered onstage last night, the spectators loosed a great ovation and stayed with him all the way. "Wow that's a cold bunch," Joe told me afterwards in his dressing room. He said the only colder audience was in St. Louis when the lamps had to be raised to let the top balcony see—but then it wasn't light enough to see the actors. Brown's performance undoubtedly will be compared with that of Frank Fay, who originated the role in New York, but there is little basis for comparison. Fay's evidently is a masterpiece of understating while Brown's has a wistful quality but is more resolute. It is by far the best role he has had in years. The play is refreshing after long hours of psychological movies, but it must have been a pretty slim year when "Harvey" got the Pulitzer prize. Marion Lorne was the standout in the cast, as Elwood P. Dowd's sister.

Boston Red Sox Are Set To Give Yankees Trouble

SARASOTA, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—There is strong temptation to say that if the Boston Red Sox fall to lick the Yankees this time they might as well give it up as a bad job. Joe Cronin, starting his 12th campaign as boss of the Sox, has his old gang of fence-busters back, including Ted Williams, and he appears to have better pitching than he had in 1941 and '42 when his team was runner-up to the Yanks. If there is anything the Sox lack for the coming race it is not obvious, unless it is a third outstanding batter. Williams, with his 356 batting mark the last year he played before entering the air corps, and the fleet Dom Dimaggio roaming the centerfield, are a pair any manager would cherish. The club has one of the game's finest infield combinations in Bobby Doer on second and Johnny Pesky at short. Not only can they field, but both wallpiped the ball well over 300 before joining up. A battle is going on for the moment at third-base, the job having been left open by the sale of Jim Tabor to the Phils. Ernest Adams and Ed Pelligrini, a pair of minor league stars just out of service, and the disputants, with the odds favoring Adams. The Sox are certain to get good pitching, and it could be great. Heading the staff is tall Tex Hughson, who posted an 18-5 record in 1944, and right behind him is Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the rookie sensation of last season who won 21 while losing 10.

Yankee Squad May Be 'Pruned' Soon

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—The New York Yankees' squad of 64, divided between here and Bradenton, may soon be pruned. President Larry MacPhail, George Weiss, his chief assistant and Manager Joe McCarthy held a lengthy conclave and it was believed plans were made for the distribution of players to the Yanks' key farms in Newark, Kansas City and Beaumont.

Tigers Snap Streak; Beat Yank "B" Team

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—A month ago it looked as if Tulane university would come up with an outstanding college baseball team. Now Coach Monk Simons is wondering whether he'll have a team at all. Three of the lads Monk had expected to play for the Green Wave now are wearing Yankee (or farm) uniforms and a fourth, overlooked by the Yankee scouts, was signed up by the Detroit Tigers. Tulane isn't beefing too much about the loss of Bob Brown, signed by the Yanks for a reported $35,000 bonus (or was it $60,000 as they hear in New Orleans?). Bobby has been listening to big since he was a 15-year-old in Maplewood, N. J., and Tulane only had him on lend-lease from the navy. But it seems like too much when the Yanks also signed Dick Woodring (for $15,000) and Pitcher Red Enns and the Tigers nabbed Outfielder Eddie Palmer. Simons will have a heck of a time with what's left trying to attract a little attention in a city that has a double-A team.

The Aggies last night defeated Kansas university 49-38 in a play-off for the Fifth district bid to the tournament. Baylor, representing the Sixth district, has played Oklahoma A. and M. once this season. The Bears lost to the Aggies in the finals of the Oklahoma City All-College tournament in December. Stepping Out at Easter

High-styled shoes stepping out at Easter will include the closed-toe calfskin step, top left, with its 1920-reminiscent suede spool. A pert bow and two parallel rows of pinked edges grace the toe of the calfskin flat, lower left. Rows of white pearls adorn the black open pump's square bow, top right, and gold drops accent the platform of the pump, lower right. Black satin pagan sandals, center, is for spring evening glamor.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Spring shoes will be as colorful and look as dressy as the fine duds with which they step out this Easter. Although shoes styled for the march on into summer will be opened up, cut out or freely vented for an airy look and a more comfortable feeling foot, they will not be as topless as they've been in the past.

The style idea in footwear, according to the Guild of Better Shoe Manufacturers, is to key shoes to their fashion companions with dressmaker details. Stitching, pinking, tucking, pleating and trimmings of bows, buckles, nailheads and pearl buttons do that very thing. Although shoes this season can be keyed to the color of costumes, high shades are not being used—because leather is not that plentiful—at the expense of black, brown and navy blue, which form the backbone of women's wardrobes.

News-flash, indicating what's ahead, are sling-style, side-buttoned spats in two-toned—gray and navy and brown and tan—combinations of suede and calfskin, which hark back to the high-stepping 1920's. Also reminiscent of the "It Girl" era are open-toed suede opera pumps, bedecked with big square bows centered with dozens of shiny white pearls.

Still platform shoes. If they add from one-quarter to one inch to feminine stature, they're liked and are favored most, in sandals. New fancy business on these are swirled "gold" drop nailheads used on platforms in parallel rows. Continuing—are suede and calfskin flats. This spring these boast the high-style interest of fancy footwear, namely pinked edges, open backs and toes, and softening bows.

In evening shoes, the clicking styles go into leather-saving fabrics—satin is tops—and are as naked-looking as pagan sandals.

Friendly Letter Is Bargain in Charm

The friendly or affectionate note which surprises a friend with your thoughtfulness has been called by those who claim to know "a bargain in charm." Invest in it by taking your pen and note paper in hand, and observe the rules of social correspondence by writing out the month and day and omitting the year.

Perhaps the Easter holidays ahead will provide you with both the leisure time and the inspiration for writing to friends and relatives. The hostess who invited you to drop in and meet her house guests won't expect a note but will be pleased by your gesture. The friend who is devoted to a certain book will respond to a note telling her of the vivid impression that it made upon you. When you write someone of an encounter that you had with a long-absent mutual friend, your news will be welcomed and your thoughtfulness will be remembered.

Spring Hats Are Shining Examples

If your spring bonnet costs a shine—few allude to the straws bejeweled with sequins and gems—your nails can be decked out in a polish which adds its bit to the fireworks.

That's the newest conceit on the fashion front. Made to tie in with the shimmer or sheen on spring hats or duds are high-fashion shades of iridescent polish. Proof of popularity is their adoption by top-flight models like chic Ruth Sherwood, who picks a golden-red shade of iridescent polish to wear with a sequin-trimmed green straw hat, tulle-tied under her chin.

Treasurer Won't Seek Relection

Mrs. Geneva Schmidt, incumbent county treasurer, said today she would not be a candidate for reelection to that office. She has served out an unexpired term and one term (2 years) on being elected.

Simultaneously, Miss Ola Gregory, who has been employed in the county clerk's office for the past 17 years, said she would seek the county treasurer office. She said she would formally announce her candidacy in the Sunday issue of the Pampa Daily News.

Mrs. Schmidt said of her terms in office: "I wish to thank the people for their support and cooperation during my tenure of office."

WE MUST HAVE RIGID TRAFFIC LAWS

ALTHOUGH we realize we have propounded the subject of highway accidents many times in this column, we make no apologies for bringing up the subject again. We have been prompted to discuss the subject again following a speech made last night by James P. Alexander, chief justice of the supreme court of Texas, before the emergency traffic safety conference which is being held in Austin.

We believe that a community should go in no direction except forward, and as it goes forward we believe that some of its laws may be in a state of obsolescence, or entirely obsolete. In a word, we believe that in many cases the rate of community progress might be measured by its laws.

Justice Alexander cites figures to the effect that during 1945, 1,502 people were killed and 9,490 were injured in traffic accidents in this state. Property damage is estimated to have exceeded 75 million dollars.

Here are some other sobering figures: on a three months' check ending in December, 50 percent of 936 cases of traffic violation were convicted on charges of driving while drunk; 38 percent, or a total of 358, of these intoxicated drivers did not have driver's licenses and had made no attempt to obtain one since October, 1941.

The speaker made interesting recommendations for eliminating drivers who have no license, one being: bar the owner of the car from obtaining a license tag until he had a driver's license.

Parents, he contends, should be held responsible for permitting under-age or children without driver's licenses to drive.

The fine for driving while intoxicated should be much heavier than it is now, he declares. We quite agree with this statement.

He remarked, on the subject of drunken drivers: "Just think, if you will, of the danger of sending a member of your family out on a highway with the prospects of meeting one of these drunk drivers. If you were told that there was a mad man down the road with a club in his hand striking at every passer-by, you would not think of sending members of your family wading down the road where they would have to meet him." But, he adds, the drunk "has a club weighing more than two thousand pounds with a striking force of 85 to 100 horsepower and a striking speed of 100 feet per second."

The law usually reflects the temper of the people. The people—everyone of us who loves life for ourselves and others—should register our temper by demanding more stringent laws regarding the highways of this state.

Government Still Paying a Week Grocery Bill

It is strange how people can fool themselves. The federal government is spending about two billion dollars a year subsidizing various food products. Flour millers for flour and producers of sugar, dairy products, meat and cheese products.

There are probably about 33 million homes in the United States. If we divided this $2,000,000,000 by the 33,000,000 homes, we will find that the government is paying a little more than $1 a week on each family's grocery bill. It is paying about $69 a year in subsidies to each family in order to make people think it is reducing the cost of living.

Our government is doing this while it is advising people to reduce the amount of food they consume. It is telling the people that the government will help make it easier for them to consume more by having subsidies, but that they should consume less so that we can help provide other countries with food.

Of course the man who eats the most of the things that are subsidized gets the most benefit. The man who is sick and eats practically nothing, or the vegetarian who eats less of the subsidized foods, has to help pay the cost. The man who is sick and eats practically nothing, or the vegetarian who eats less of the subsidized foods, has to help pay the cost.

We are doing this while most people have more money in their pockets than they ever had before in their lives.

Of course the whole purpose of it is to fool the public and make them think the government has some magical way of keeping down the cost of living.

It is not even honest to be borrowing money, which our children will have to pay or repudiate, to pay our grocery bills and then spend billions of dollars each year to "educate" the youth of the land. The eventual result of such subsidies will be that we will lead to so much poverty and confusion that we will have a dictator attempting to straighten out the resulting chaos caused by this dishonesty.

Every Lost Freedom Makes It Harder To Hold What's Left

What so many people fail to realize is that every bit of freedom we lose makes it more difficult to retain the other freedoms. As we give up one freedom we weaken our ability to keep the freedoms that are left.

Invariably the first freedom that is lost is one's right freely to exchange goods and services—one's economic freedom. When one's economic freedom is lost, it is only a question of time until one's freedom of speech and freedom of worship also are lost.

This is borne out in every country where economic freedom has been usurped by the state. Then it becomes only a question of time until the state takes over what people dare write, what they dare read and how they dare worship.

LUMBER FOR EXPORT

Sen. Knowland, California Republican says that enough lumber to construct 100,000 homes will leave the country this year if export authorizations fixed by the civilian production administration for the first quarter are followed.

The apparent reason for the big lumber exports is that when the OPA fixed ceiling prices for lumber in the domestic market it failed to take similar action in regard to lumber for export; so the sellers can realize from $10 to $20 more per thousand board feet in foreign markets than they can at home.

Lumber is in critically short supply, but while the administration sweeps over the plight of the homeless veterans and talks up a national housing bill as the cure-all, it is busy shipping out of the country the prime material for quick home construction. The citizen must often wonder if people can be as crazy as the actions of the bureaucrats demonstrate them to be.

Our government is doing this while it is advising people to reduce the amount of food they consume. It is telling the people that the government will help make it easier for them to consume more by having subsidies, but that they should consume less so that we can help provide other countries with food.

Gracie Reports

I've just met Governor Blue of Iowa (not to be confused with Governor Green of Illinois). Some people think he's visiting here to round up the votes of all the Iowans who have moved to California but I think he's just plain homesick for the sight of an Iowa face.

We have here enough Iowans to make Hollywood known as the movie studios and the radio programs. And plenty of refugees from other states, too. A typical Hollywood scene is a line of Kansans and Georgians waiting in line for a New Yorker to vacate an apartment owned by a South Dakotan.

In fact, California is so full of outsiders that you can scarcely blame a little boy who was born here for being upset. He came home from school crying because the other children had called him a native son.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By RAY TUCKER

DEFIANCE—John L. Lewis will test the presidential theory of fact-finding out the window in his forthcoming wage disputes with the bituminous operators over a new contract affecting 400,000 miners. It will be the Iowa-born Welshman's first open and outright defiance of the White House, although he has indicated that he does not hold President Truman in much higher regard than he did F. D. R.

The united mine workers boss has several valid reasons for not entering into a fact-finding pact. In his opinion, the presidential boards did not make any attempt to investigate production or living costs in settling on an average of a nineteen and a half cents an hour increase in the steel, meat, automobile and other disputes. He maintains that their decision was a political rather than an economic finding.

John L. thinks he knows the financing details of coal production better than any expert the White House could appoint to consider his position. As the coal operators themselves admit, when he enters a bargaining conference with them, he knows their side of the business as well as they do. So he will brook no outside or presidential interference.

CHANGE—Mr. Lewis never reveals his strategy in advance, but his friends say that he did not intend to demand a flat increase in pay for his men until recently. In an attempt to place C. I. O.'s mass strikers in a bad light with the public and to repair his own prestige, he had planned to content himself with a few minor requests.

He meant to consolidate into a permanent contract the gains he had won in settlements negotiated during the war years. They exist now simply on a year-to-year basis. He intended to stand pat on his previous insistence on a ten cent per cent royalty to be used to build a fund for health and welfare purposes. On the basis of a production of 600,000,000 tons annually, this would amount to $60,000,000 every two months.

But the pay envelope gains which the C. I. O. unions have won in major industries have forced change in his original plans. He will argue that the administration's surrender in the anti-inflation fight means higher living costs to his men. He will paint his erstwhile friend, Philip Murray, as the villain in his own drama, and try to make it appear that his new demands are based on the Truman-Murray-Bowles "bulge" formula.

BLESSING—The soft coal miners now get an average of a dollar an hour for a thirty-five-hour week, with time and a half for overtime. It is expected that John L. will begin negotiations with a request for a two-dollar-a-day increase, together with the other demands noted above. He may compromise for a smaller through a reclassification of all jobs and skills in the industry. Some additional gains have been made, but in general wage rates in the coal industry are still based on old pick-and-shovel mining standards.

Operators claim their costs of operation are now $2.93 per ton. Mine Workers' officials can be counted on to dispute these figures as being a dollar or more per ton too high. It is out of this margin that the union hopes to squeeze the increases it will demand in writing a new contract.

During the war, the government, in effect, sat in on all wage negotiations, in order to enforce its stabilization program. At what point the government steps in now, and how insistently, has yet to be determined. If new wage demands boost the operators' costs and the new wage-price policy prevents an increase in coal prices, a nice question is raised concerning how much of a wage increase can be granted.

To get increased coal production needed in the war, a supplementary amendment to the coal contract was agreed to, authorizing a 54-hour work week of six nine-hour days. In place of wage increases, the miners were given compensation for travel time in the mines, lunch periods with pay, and paid vacations. These extras amounted to a little over six dollars a week, in addition to which the miners got time-and-a-half overtime on all hours above 35 a week.

Actually, few miners ever worked the full 54-hour week. The bureau of labor statistics puts the industry average today at 45 hours a week, although the operators still get a 12 1/2-cent per ton increase granted them as reimbursement for producing coal on a 54-hour weekly basis.

The current $58 weekly earnings figure quoted by BLS for the industry includes supervisors and others whose higher pay rates step up the average salary. Reclassification of pay rates for these supervisors and other skilled workmen in the industry will be attempted in negotiating a new contract.

Employed in the coal industry today are slightly less than 500,000 people. Over 150,000 miners went into the armed services, and another 50,000 left the mines to take better paying and pleasanter jobs in war plants. How many of these 200,000 will return to the mines is questionable. Because younger men have left the mines the average age of the miners has advanced during the war from 32 to 51 years. There are an estimated 30,000 over-age miners who should be retired.

UPTON CLOSE: Time Now for Certain People Keep Shirts On

Our Leftists are taking an awful beating. Their party line since V-E Day has been "Side with Russia in everything—it's the only way to reserve 'Unity' and preserving unity is the only way to avoid the atomic bomb war."

Now, our delegates to the UNO have given the "Stop Stalin!" Signal. Britain's Scotland Yard follows the Canadian spy arrests with seizures of pro-Russian scientists under the Defense of the Realm Act. Truman is still too weak-kneed to permit Edgar Hoover's F. B. I. and the Department of Justice to make similar open cases here, although everyone concerned admits the spying and betraying has been more flagrant in the United States and Canada. But the department admits it has a lot of hombres and some women under long-time surveillance who are not far from getting out.

Mr. Lewis enters his stiffest battle with the operators with reinforcements he did not have in recent negotiations. He now has the A. F. of L. behind him, extending its blessing to his politico-economic defiance of the White House and the C. I. O.

PRONOUNCEMENT—The more evangelistic officials in the feed-the-world setup in Washington are growing restless at what they regard as ineffectual program of food economy established by the administration and President Truman's aides. Although not insistent on a return to rationing, they believe that more robust and courageous methods for tightening the Great American belt should be adopted.

Our Leftists are burned up. They are as angry and vicious as a swarm of hornets whose nest is torn from its moorings. Truman's philosophy of playing both sides of smiting Moscow and chucking Communist Frontiers under the chin is as childish and ineffective as J. Edgar's tactics of talking tough to Moscow while joining its Communist stooges in France in interlocking in Spain.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, (NEA)—No filling station would be complete without one of the September-Morm calendar-dars which Zoe Mozart paints.

The attractive little red-headed artist recently created nation-wide comment with her painting of Jane Russell as Rio in "The Outlaw." Zoe has her own favorite Hollywood "art models." They are Ida Lupino, Jeanne Crain, Mary Anderson, and Peggy Knudsen.

"They've got to be voluptuous but slim," Zoe insists, nervously tamping on another cigarette. "Lupino and Knudsen are perfect—and Jeanne Crain's figure is so interesting that I can forgive that over-sweet face."

"Mary Anderson's steeple is wonderful," says Zoe. "That's the final curve which makes a woman's legs good. And Mary's rib box is a honey."

The rib box, jutting forth over a concave diaphragm, is a pretty thing, according to Zoe. "You get from swimming," confided Zoe—and then went on in a famine and inconsistent way to say that Esther May.

Without doubt the Russian move will help the strong wing of the left, which France is experiencing along with many other countries. There's much speculation on how it may affect the women's vote, since the question of food is a vital one for them.

However, political prophets are thinking much and saying little, for the future of France—traditionally on the conservative side with its great farming population—is in the melting pot. Three main political parties have taken the place of the many which bedeviled the country before the war. They are the communists and socialists on the left and the movement republican populists on the right.

To these three parties has been added a fourth which is highly interesting. It is the republican party of liberty, which represents the more conservative element. It is against communism and follows the ideals which General De Gaulle advocated. This party doesn't hold with nationalization but wants freedom for private enterprise.

At Pittsburgh he got off in another man's shoes. You can take this is evidence of a strain that goes all the way to the Daily Worker office and the Communist Holy of Holies in Hollywood.

Now all I want to suggest about all this is that we of the Right who have clung to Reason have "brotherhood with Russia" for the force that it is, since the days when Eleanor Roosevelt began to pamper the pinkies—we who knew that the hypocrisy would have to show its lineaments some time just as it is now doing—I want to suggest that you and I laugh cynically and keep our shirts on as AMERICANS and not get taken into the BRITISH camp. There is more truth than fantasy in the Communist charge that this "talk tough to Russia" program, since it had to come, was timed to scare or cajole us into making the British loan.

The administration is in such a bad way right now, what with Ickes showing up FDR's lack of morals more than Pauley's, even that it may crave a dangerous war situation with Soviet Russia, on the tried and tested FDR formula of "new war scare, new emergency—new lease of Power!"

Be so far as you and I, AMERICANS, are concerned, the fact that the new deal administration and for a time this present postscript to it favored and helped Soviet Russia to the point of fragrance and every treachery to American interests (to say nothing of British)—that fact is no excuse for the same administration to start a war with Russia now for us to fight.

Let Jimmie Byrnes, who kissed Stalin with such gusto, take his humiliation now. He's no lady, to save whose honor you and I have to give our blood!

Old Intellectual Carter has appropriately taken on the presidency of Russian War Relief. With relief in his podium he is telling audiences that Churchill has reverted to Russian-baiting and Truman is trying to rebuild the Quarantine around Communism, and that Moscow troops properly should fill the vacuum in Europe and Asia left by Anglo-Saxon recession. The Old Boy is deeply worried. He gets frenzied with porters and things on

THE STORY: Ann discovers that Colin is paying $500 a month alimony to his first wife, MILDRED ROBERTS, even though she has married again. Colin suggests that Ann go in to Seattle on a shopping spree. Ann meets Jock on the street, accepts his invitation to lunch.

Let's get out of here," Jock said abruptly.

AUTOMATICALLY, Ann followed him. She didn't seem to have any will of her own. She might be a puppet, or a Ventriloquist's dummy. No, just a puppet. She couldn't find anything to say, her own words or anyone else's.

She went along meekly with him, and got into his car. A very nice car, quite new. Neither of them said anything more until they were out in the country. They turned off the highway, then, and plunged down the road that led to the Sound. He was driving very fast. He pulled up on a cliff overlooking the Sound, and stopped the car. Then his arms were around her, and he said in a voice that sounded strained and hard, "Oh, what fools we've been! How could we kid ourselves into thinking there ever could be anyone else? Oh, Ann—"

But, still automatically, she pulled away from him and avoided his lips. "No, Jock," she said, a little wildly. "It's no good, any of it. We can't do things like this. Not us, Jock."

"Ann, I love you. I've always loved you—"

But Ann interrupted him. "Drive me back to town, will you, Jock?"

Jock was angry, but he started the car, and didn't speak all the way back to town. Ann's left hand, that held her cigarette, made gestures while she talked, lightly and amusingly. Jock couldn't see her other hand, buried in the folds of her coat. Tightly clenched, its nails cut little grooves into her palm.

She had gotten herself well under control by the time they were downtown. She even could be gay, and she shook hands with him and said, "Thanks so much, Mr. Hamilton. It's been charming—and most instructive." She went into a store then, and

Colours

AP World Traveler
PARIS, March 19—A distinguished French friend—long a keen observer of the trend of events at home and abroad—remarked to me as we were discussing his country's politico-economic difficulties:

"France's problem is one of food. We haven't had a piece of meat in my home for three weeks, because it couldn't be bought. Even the black market hasn't got much meat. That's what the people are up against, and their outlook is being swayed by their stomachs."

It's true that most folk think DEWITT MACKENZIE with their eyes when they're hungry.

France had been expecting to get food from North-America and meat from the Argentine. On the strength of its hopes, the government abandoned bread cards last November only to find that they had to be restored the first of this year, thus giving public morale a nasty jolt.

When a few days ago the curation was given the sensational news that Russia had offered France 500,000 tons of grain, providing this country could find the shipping to move it, the French have crowed, but few have provided Liberty ships to help transport this badly needed food.

The reaction of many of the French public is what would be expected.

"Russia is giving us the help which we couldn't get elsewhere."

That fits perfectly into the program of the French communists, who are making a heavy propaganda campaign in preparation for the forthcoming national elections in crains. At Pittsburgh he got off in another man's shoes. You can take this is evidence of a strain that goes all the way to the Daily Worker office and the Communist Holy of Holies in Hollywood.

Now all I want to suggest about all this is that we of the Right who have clung to Reason have "brotherhood

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—The stock market enjoyed another recovery flurry in the forenoon today but there was little if any follow through and top gains running to 2 or more points were later trimmed in a number of cases. Steel, leading the initial advance along with assorted "blue chips," were among the first to back away. Transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 shares for the full proceedings. Most trading was attributed to the thought that international tension had eased a trifle although many Wall Streeters still were apprehensive over the Russian rift. Ahead the greater part of the day were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil, Texas Co., R-K-O, Standard Gas & Electric, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Union Pacific, Goodrich, Anaconda and Western Union "A." Occasional stragglers were Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Baltimore & Ohio and American Can. Bonds were relatively steady with some rails improving.

BUTTER LINES NEED WALKIE TALKIES

TAUNTON, Mass.—(AP)—A woman called the order department of a grocery concern with this request: "Will you please look out your front window and see if there is a butter line in front of the butter store?"

"VILLAGE OF LONG LIFE"

Only three deaths in 1933, and all of them centenarians, earned for Rivula the name of "Village of Long Life." This Portuguese town is located just outside Lisbon.

Collector Sees License Problem

As the deadline of March 31 approaches, Tax Collector F. E. Leech has visions of long lines of impatient motor vehicle owners waiting to register their vehicles during the last few days of March. He urges all Gray county vehicle owners to get their documents in order and apply early for registration to avoid waiting in line. Under the laws of Texas, a certificate of title in proper order and the current year's registration receipt must both be presented at the tax collector's office before new license plates can be issued. ASSIGNMENT OF TITLE "Certificate of title is the same to a motor vehicle that an abstract is to a plot of real estate," Leech points out. "Each time a vehicle changes hands, the assignment of title on the reverse side of the certificate must be completed and application made for a title in the new owner's name through the tax collector's office," he said. Buyers of used vehicles should insist sellers give an assigned certificate of title and the current registration receipt at time vehicle is delivered. Purchasers of new vehicles should obtain a manufacturer's certificate. Unless changes of ownership are recorded through the tax collector's office, the files of the state highway department at Austin will continue to show the seller as the legal owner of the vehicle. It is to the advantage of both buyer and seller to keep the titles clear. When a lien against a vehicle is paid, the owner should protect his interest by securing a release from the lien holder and submit it to the tax collector with application for a corrected title. Leech appealed especially to owners of vehicles bearing out-of-state license tags, urging them to apply early for registration, since it may require from five to ten days to get a proper Texas certificate of title required before the vehicle can be registered in Texas.

Valley Citrus Crop Season in Final Stages

MCALLEN, March 19.—(AP)—More than three-fourths of the multi-million dollar citrus crop in the Rio Grande Valley has been marketed and growers are headed down the final stretch of what may be their most successful season.

Also coming to its close is the annual fall vegetable deal, but just ahead is what looks like a bumper spring tomato crop that will last for several weeks. The latter harvest is scheduled to start in mid-April.

Orange marketing in the valley to date totals 3,700,000 boxes. The crop is expected to reach 4,700,000 boxes. Grapefruit sales by growers to both shippers and canners are placed at 1,675,000 boxes out of a 23,000,000-box yield.

Shipments the past week average well above 400 carlots per day.

The only citrus price change in recent weeks came when canning plants resumed full production following the end of the steel strike. The immediate effect of more fruit purchases by canners was an increase in the minimum return to growers of $5 per ton, placing the average at $25. During the strike the price had dropped as low as $20 a ton.

Cabbage is bringing a steady $50 per ton to growers, and shipments are averaging 40 carlots daily. Some high quality cabbage brings $60.

Cubbers Training Institute Opens

"Cubbing and the Boy" will be the subject of the initial course in the annual Cubbers Training Institute, which opens tonight at eight o'clock in the Palm Room of the city hall.

W. O. Pruitt, Pampa, has been selected by H. H. Beavers, Berger council training chairman, to conduct the course, which will be held each Tuesday and Thursday nights for the next three weeks.

Scout Executive Hugo Olsen said today that the institute was of real value to every person connected in any way with the Cub program and to the parents of boys in the program.

Purpose of the course is to explain new phases of the constantly expanding Cub program and to emphasize the value of the program to parents of boys who will soon be eligible to enter the field.

Segments of the independent division as advisors in developing a comprehensive presentation. Phases of being discussed by ten selected spokesmen for the group, authorities in their particular field, with a summary of their findings being given by H. B. Fell, executive vice president of IPAA.

The terrific drain on raw material resources occasioned by the war, plus a parallel disrupting of the normal advance of industry, has made post-war examination of essential industries desirable. The petroleum industry, which increased the reserves of crude oil last year despite curtailed operations, is becoming increasingly vital to the modern home and to the welfare and security of the nation. The hearings now being completed are to obtain and to maintain a healthy and progressive industry that will be able to meet all petroleum requirements of the nation in the years ahead.

Iran Situation

been apprehensive lest an Iranian protest to the security council might result in the overthrow of the Qavam government.

One report received over the week-end said Russia had warned Qavam against such action. Thus, Qavam's instructions to Ala to make the protest might be interpreted by the Soviets as an "unfriendly" act and lead to increased Russian pressure on Qavam's government.

Winter Planning of Spring Gardening Now in Full Swing

Winter planning of spring gardens and grounds is now in full swing by Gray county gardeners and landscapers.

This year the primary motive for spring gardens in the threat of food shortage, urgently stressed by President Truman recently.

As many if not more gardens will be cultivated in Gray county this year than during the war years in an effort to lessen the threat, predicts Miss Millicent Schaub, home demonstration agent.

About 850 gardens have already been planned in Gray county. Landscaping of grounds is being carried on by at least eight families through the cooperation of the Gray county home demonstration office.

All of the work is being done according to scientifically planned programs. The majority of gardeners have had their seeds inoculated and disinfected to improve the amount of production. Seeds have been primarily selected from an approved list obtained from G. F. Rostropovich, extension horticulturist at Woodward, and M. colleges of the Texas A. and M. college.

Last year Gray county produced about 300,000 pounds of garden produce valued at $30,000. This year's production is expected to surpass the Victory Garden yield.

Most of the 4-H and Home Demonstration club members have planted early garden varieties of onions, peas, radishes, lettuce, beets, carrots, potatoes, etc.

New varieties of produce recommended for planting in this area are the hybrid corn Iona variety, the improved Porter tomato and the Texas Resistant No. 1 cucumbers.

Landscaping of grounds carried on with the cooperation of the home demonstration agency is assisted by the Southern Great Plains Field station at Woodward, Okla.

E. W. Johnson, associate silviculturist at Woodward, has donated trees, shrubs and plantings for some of the landscapers.

Among persons in the county who are improving the appearance of their grounds are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Green, six miles north of Pampa; G. H. Anderson, on the west edge of Pampa; Mrs. D. L. Landford, on the east edge; Mr. and Mrs. George Dillman, 19 miles south of Pampa; H. B. Taylor, jr., W. A. Green, Mrs. John Spearman and Mr. and Mrs. H. Hiduke.
