NEW YORK .- Shaming the prizewinners of the Ladies' Garden c. b. in size are the cabbage roses that bloom this spring on little black dresses.

Printed on fabric, the cabbage rose in shock colors is so spectacularly sized that there's room for only one or two on a dress. What take up more space are green leaves, also giant-sized, and sometimes a stem that looks a yard long.

The spacing of one or two flower motifs, such as these, by textile craftsmen and the manipulation of the posy by the dress-designer to give it the proper setting are two triumphs of Yankee know-how.

But whatever the struggle through the dye vats, printing presses or cutting boards may have been, it doesn't show in the finished fashion as the dresses pictured prove.

At left, a rad cabbage rose on one shoulder balances another on the opposite hip of a black crepe afternoon dress, designed by Adele Simpson. The news, besides mammoth blossoms printed on fabric, hieved by skillful draping.

WE HAVE OUR SHARE OF CARELESS DRIVERS

The national safety council headquarters, Chicago, recently announced 3,000 people were killed outright on the nation's highways in January and that many thousands more were temporarily or permanently injured. The material losses ran into the millions.

We use this to introduce the subject of safety in Pampa and this whole territory. It has been brought to our attention afresh by incidents that happen daily. More specifically, the subject is concerned with carelessness and utter disregard for the other fellow's position in the traffic.

It is reported that only yesterday afternoon, a careless driver-an elderly man, to be more specific-ignored a stop sign on a street leading into West Francis street, and pulled partway out into that street almost within the path of a rapidlymoving car. It was only by the adeptness of the driver of the second car that an accident-perhaps a serious one-was averted.

Last night a man made a U-turn at Somerville and Foster. A second driver happened to be a good driver, and he averted an accident. Last night on West Francis again, one impatient, and very reckless, driver wove in and out of a fast, long line of traffic on that narrow, one-way street.

No, there were no accidents in these cases, but the chances were great, inestimably so. They go to prove that there are motorists in our own city who either do not know the safe rules of the road or do not bother to follow them; and that the other motorists must always be on their lookout to take enough care for themselves and the careless drivers as well.

The penalty in dollars for such violations seems to be no great "persuader" for better driving. Perhaps it would be beter if the judge directed these violators to 'lay' out their fines; leaving them without the relative impunity which their dollars afford them.

"Who Should Educate

The Youth?"

A reader asks a couple of ques tions that need an answer. The two questions are, "Who should educate the youth if not the state?" and "Who should regulate the value of money? The individual?' I will try to answer the first question today.

In the first place, this is a question that assumes something that is not a fact. It assumes that mebody can educate somebody

No one can educate another any more than he can eat his food or learn to walk for him. presume the reader intended to ask, "Who should help educate the youth if not the state?" With this evision I shall attempt to answer. The people who should help ducate the youth are, of course, the people who themselves are ducated enough that they do not contradict themselves. In a word, to put it bluntly, the Soviet Union's co-

They should believe enough in their own ideas that they are willing to give of their life and energy to help others understand the eternal rules and axioms of life and should not be so exalted as to be willing to use compulsion to force others to help pay for their ideas of education.

Most education, most teaching by example. Most people learn by imitation. So the real educator will try to educate or teach by example, meekness, honesty, dis-cipline, courage, self-reliance, luty and the desire for truth. Real educators can call the atention of the youth to the great nen of the ages who have outstanding examples in these virtues. They can show approbation for these qualities in men and women.

When the state tric; to help educate the youth, it invariably gets men who have so exalted their ideas that they are even willing to use the compulsion of the state to make other people support their ideas of education Eventually their ideas become so distorted that they are winning to use force to restrain others from ducating in a manner displeasing those in control.

STATE MURDERS GREATEST EDUCATOR

The state when it had control of education over the citizens even urdered the greatest educator of all time-Jesus Christ. It murred Him because He was educating people to believe differently the education taught by the state. He was educating people to believe in the dignity of the individual rather than that man was a servant to the state. The state also murdered so great an educator as Socrates because he was educating people to believe in the dignity of the individual.

In modern times the great ducators for freedom are being urdered in Russia. Germany and murdered anyone who Italy taught different than the state taught.

Here in this country we have not yet gone so far as to murder men for educating in a manner different from what the majority wanted. But we put Henry D. Thoreau in jail because he was trying to educate the people not believe in slavery. The pretense was that he was put in jail cause he would not gay his taxes.

Tom Paine was put in jail in for educating people to be-France eve in freedom. England would have put him in jail for the same se if it could have laid hands on him. England put as great a man as Milton in jail for trying educate people to believe in edom of the press.

If our country continues to incase its monopoly on education will be only a question of time til we do more than put people in jail for trying to help educate youth in a manner different in what the state wants them first atomic bomb had been pro uced and tested, and at a time when there was great anxiety over prospective American casualties in projected invasion of Japanthe Roosevelt-Churchill acquiescence may perhaps be viewed haritably in retrospect. But it is difficult to feel anything but a completely cold reaction to the cicture of Stalin insisting that he to have his price before he could agree to help us in Asia, The contrast between this atti-tuor and the attitude of the toot ern Allies in Europe is a melancholy one. Britain and America at tached no land-grabbing conditions to the aid they gave the Russians against Hitler. It was aid of a gigantic kind, and although Stalin in his address the other night made only the slighest reference to it, it spelled the difference between victory and defeat for the Red Army. Viewed against this background, therefore, the Soviet pargaining at Yalta can hardly be said to have been inspiring or generous. Presumably, of course, the Kur-
