Prime Minister King Makes Public Report on Leakage of Official Secrets

Asserts That Orders Came From Moscow

OTTAWA, March 4-(AP) -Prime Minister W. L. Mac-Kenzie King made public today a report on the leakage of official secrets which declared "the evidence reveals that these operations were carried on by certain members of the staff of the Soviet embassy at Ottawa under direct instructions from Moscow."

Russian agents were instructed by Moscow in August, 1945, near the end of the war in the Pacific, to obtain "information as to the transfer of American troops from Europe Labor Disputes to the United States and the Pacific," the two-man royal investigating commission declared in a report to King. WHY, THEY ARE OUR BOYS

Doughnuts will get you dollars that before very long you will be hearing a lot about a crime wave created by servicemen who have lost their respect for law and order.

Already the news columns are peppered with items about crimes of violence committed by ex-servicemen- armed holdups and even an occasional homicide of greed or, maybe, of passion.

Lumped together statistically, these will confirm the worst fears of those who have been saying that you can't take 11 million young men in their impressionable years, inspire and teach them to kill, without destroying their moral fiber. In anticipation of this imminent furor, we want to go on record in denunciation of these statistics we have not seen, and in defense of the veterans both as a group and, for the most part, as individuals.

The veterans are not so many statistical fictions, so many impersonal strangers. They are our sons, our brothers, our husbands, our nephews, the boys next door, the men who left desks in our offices or machines in our shops. They're just as bad and just as good as our relatives, our neighbors, our fellow-workers, because that is what they are.

Has your son, your brother, your husband lost al! mora! perspective and become a potential criminal? Has the boy next door, who used to roll hoops, with your children, become an unabashed killer? Why, then, suppose that the veteran, vestigations of great import on Capas a class, has done so?

You cannot take 11 million young men by lot without getting a few score thousands or actual or potential criminals. ate detectives of an older day-These would have been stealing, robbing, gypping, killing Tom Walsh, Hiram W. The Real Test Of Whom To Believe

About all there is in success is knowing what person to believe; to get. Keynes and Halifax can ex-knowing whether to believe your pect to move up a notch in the own judgment or someone else's. We cannot specialize in a great many things. For this reason, we are obliged to take the judgment of someone else. If a man learns how to test the wisdom or the practicability of pleasure. what other people are advocating or proposing, he will be well on is surely one of the biggest, inter-the way to success and usefulness. Is surely one of the biggest, inter-national financial transactions in One of the most important probems in knowing whom to believe is taxpayers are assuming all the determining which one to believe when people are advocating different methods of improving the lot of man; different methods of making it possible for all people to live better. The necessity of knowing whom to believe in this matter not only affects the individual himself but it affects all society. In fact, if men do not know whom to believe on social and economic problems. they cannot be really good patricitizens. If they are misguided in whom to believe, on what the government should do and what it cannot do, and what movements men should approve and what movements men should oppose, then they will do great harm to their fellowman.

For this reason, they should know how to test individual proposals. And too often the people who are proposing things that are not practical will try to avoid this test. They will camouflage; they will use alibis; they will change the subject; they will besmirch the character or manners or courtesy or breeding of the man who insists upon this test. And what is this test? It is simply that the man does not attempt to limit having his proposals analyzed by only those people who agree with him or who have not studied the subject or read widely on the subject. If a man proposing social practices refuses to let ev eryone question his proposals, co matter how obnoxious the questioner may be, then that man is not even himself testing his own formulas. He can go on indefi-nitely being wrong, if he selects his critics, if he limits those who dare question his proposals.

If a man's proposals are sound, practical and useful, he cannot be embarrassed. He will not contra-dict himself. He will have an answer to every question. If there are any questions he cannot answer, his whole scheme is visionary and impractical. There are no missing links, no weak points in any practical, useful plan of human relations. The rules of human conduct are just as immutable, just as infallible, just as eternal is the rules and laws that govern the celestial bodies.

And we will find that most all social ills, are due to following ple who are dreamers and le having their Utopian shortcuts of eliminating poverty ques-tioned by men who have helped reduce poverty by either helping people understand practical rules of human conduct or by them-selves adding to the wealth of the PARIS, March 4.-Will Generalssimo Francisco Franco capitulate to demands for a democratic form of government in Spain or will it take another terrible civil war to settle the issue?

When I made a survey of the situation in Madrid a month ago it seemed clear that Franco recognized his dictatorship was doomed by Allied opposition and that he wa naneuvering for through his military strength. The signs are that the generalssimo is maneuvering for a compromise. It wouldn't take much to set the civil conflict of 1936-39 in motion again.

Militarily Franco's position is far more powerful than it was when he unseated the republican regime in 1939 after three years of horror an established his dictatorship. The Spanish standing army estimated at 700,000 men and while it is equipped mainly with light arms that's a lot of strength numerically. In the vicinity of Madrid saw many concrete redoubts which commanded the highway leading to the capital. Obviously the generalissimo had anticipated the contingency of further civil war. It is equally clear he has had in mind that he who controls the army controls Spain.

I was in Madrid on the eve of the arrival in Portugal of Don Juan pretender to the Spanish throne, for further discussions with Franco's representative regarding a posrestoration of the throne These discussions had been going on quietly for a long time and I have small doubt that the generalissimo hoped an agreement would provide him with an avenue of escape from the dilemma created by the Allied insistence that his totalitarian government must go.

However, there are two things which the people certainly desire. They want an absolutely free national election at which they may choose their own form of government, and they want to achieve that election without another civil war. That presents a delicate problem

Well, I see a nudist organization is making speeches and urging people to join their movement when all they actually need is a little patience. If they'll just sit around and wait, the clothing shortage will make nudists of the rest of us whether we want to be or not.

The head of the nudists believes we'd be assured of world peace if everybody took their clothese off. He says that people understand each other better when they look alike and that in the natural state i would be hard to tell an American from a German. Maybe so, but my goodness, clothes or no clothes, I'd never make the mistake of confusing Hermann Goering with one of those Oklahoma Aggies basketball players.

The only argument I can see for nudism is that if I stayed out in the sun too long it wouldn't be so utes after reporting at 7:53 a. m. noticeable that my nose was peel-
