President Is Determined To Obtain Passage

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman is determined to obtain passage of emergency labor legislation.

Ellender said he called to assure Mr. Truman of his own support for the draft-strikers program laid down by the President in his speech to congress Saturday.

On his own part, Ellender said he felt the President should have "sufficient power to protect the country from internal enemies, and from uncontrollable labor leaders."

Meanwhile the house voted to consider at once the permanent case strike-control bill.

A 235 to 96 roll call vote for immediate consideration of senate amendments for final passage of the measure within a few hours. It came on a rules committee recommendation that the amendments be accepted or rejected in total.

By approving the committee's recommendation, the house by-passed the usual procedure of sending conflicting versions of the same bill to a senate-house conference committee.

The differences between the two branches consist mainly of a senate ban against employer contributions to union-administered work-welfare funds and extension by the senate to 60 days of the house-voted 30-day pre-strike cooling off period.

The senate agreed today to vote by 3 p. m. (EST) on the question of knocking the draft-strikers provision from President Truman's emergency labor legislation.

The agreement, asked by Majority Leader Bradley (Ky.), came amid indications by an Associated Press poll that the senate would not accept the draft provision.

Frank also obtained an agreement for a limitation of debate on the measure as a whole to 30 minutes for each senator.

American Legion Memorial Park To Be Dedicated

Dedication of the American Legion Memorial park, one mile east of the city, will highlight Memorial day activities here tomorrow.

Most Pampa people will remain open under an agreement made by the chamber of commerce, retail trade committee.

All government and state officials, including the rent control, price control, county agent's office, A.C.A. office, United States employment service, and the post office will close.

City and county officials will remain open, it was said.

Dedication services at Memorial park will begin at 2:30 p. m. with a short ceremony and an address by Mayor Farris.

A special color guard will raise and lower the colors and a firing squad will fire a salute.

E. J. Dunigan, commander of the American Legion, has asked that all veterans of both world wars attend the ceremonies and added that the public is invited to attend.

The park is a memorial to members of the armed services who lost their lives in World War II.

Grounds for the park were leased to the Legion by the city of Pampa and total over 60 acres.

Since obtaining the area, the Legion has had trees planted, has torched the area and will set out shrubbery and make additional improvements in the near future.

Dunigan has asked that the public cooperate with the Legion in keeping the park clean.

At Least 10 Drown In Eastern Floods

Leaving death and destruction in its wake through North-Central Pennsylvania and Southern New York, the rampaging Susquehanna river flood crest surged southward today after overflowing its banks into cities and rich farmlands.

At least 10 persons drowned and four others were missing in the muddy waters, which started rising rapidly Monday night after four days of almost continuous rains. Estimates of damage exceeded $3,000,000.

Thousands were homeless.

The U. S. weather bureau in Harrisburg announced a crest of 31.7 feet—more than nine feet above flood—was reached at Wilkes-Barre and said the waters were near this peak in Scrubury, miles downstream.

The raging river crested at 31 feet in low lying areas and more than 100 families have been evacuated. Some arterial highways have been cut by rising waters.

The swirling waters of the Susquehanna river raced virtually out of control, striking hardest at Williamsport. Eyewitnesses said this Central Pennsylvania community of 43,000 lay helpless today in the most crippling flood since 1936.

The flooding river crested at 31 feet in flood level. Eighty percent of the city's industries are flood-bound, 60 percent of the residential areas are awash in several feet of water.

Hundreds of volunteers, in heavy trucks and roadsters equipped with radios, helped throughout the flooded areas.

The Susquehanna crashed through a sandbag-reinforced 24-foot dike at Athens, Pa., at 2 p. m. (EST) today. One quarter of the 4,000 residents were evacuated to higher ground as torrents of rushing water—as high as nine feet—reached first-floor windows of homes. The entire business section of the town was inundated.

All agencies in the three-state area, Pennsylvania, New York—and even in nearby Maryland—were alerted for disaster work. Volunteers readied for a "bad" day as authorities warned flood crest in danger areas would not be reached until late today—perhaps later.

Three highways were blocked by water in the Dallas area and the weather bureau predicted a major flood for the upper Trinity river and its tributaries following a steady breaking rain last night and today.

A 5.96 inch fall, heaviest in Dallas history for any 12-hour period, damped crops, fouled power lines and other electrical and industrial equipment and stalled traffic. Police rescued at least seven persons from macabre automobiles and homes on low ground.

The river was 32.5 feet at Dallas, four and one-half feet over its banks, and was held in check by levees.

More rains were predicted for this afternoon and tonight and the weather bureau warned farmers and ranchers to remove stock from lowlands.

Three Dallas county highways, U. S. highway 80 to Fort Worth; U. S. highway to Rockwall and state highway between Garland and Wylie were blocked by water.

A. B. Jolley, county agricultural agent, said corn, cotton and grain crops had been seriously damaged.

General rains fell yesterday in the 14-inch Amarillo to three inches in Dalhart. Between five and six inches fell at Texline, Texas, and Clayton, N. M. The Canadian river was up eight feet in its first rise since 1942.

From Palestine in East Texas came a report that heavy rains had damaged crops.

Fair weather prevailed over the western half of the state today. It was cloudy over the eastern half.

Conference Called on Maritime Halt Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The threatened maritime strike took top billing today in the government's drive to solve all major labor disputes.

With a co. settlement seemingly at hand, Secretary of Labor Schweitzer called in shipowners and maritime union chiefs for a 2 p. m. (EST) conference aimed at finding some way to prevent the shipping threat set for June 15.

That strike, if it comes off, would cripple America's merchant marine, halt shipping from Atlantic Pacific and Gulf ports and prevent the export of relief supplies for famine-stricken areas.

Joseph Curran, president of the CIO national maritime union, told a reporter on his arrival from New York that he expected the ship owners to make some "new proposals" at the meeting.

"If they don't," Curran said, "it will be a difficult situation. And I mean it."

Other unions have joined Curran's NMU in demanding a 30 percent wage increase, an eight-hour day, overtime adjustments and retroactive pay. The seven unions claim about 200,000 members on 3,100 ships, more than two-third of them owned by the government.

The other unions are the marine cooks and stewards' association of the Pacific; Pacific coast marine firemen, oilers, water-tenders and wipers association; National marine engineers' union of the Pacific; International Longshoremen's and warehousemen's union, headed by Harry Bridges; and the American communications association. All are CIO.

The inland boatmen's union and National marine engineers' union still have contracts with their employers, but they are pledged to assist the other five unions if strike develops.

Figuring in the situation is a fact-finding board report of May 13 covering the dispute between Bridges' Longshoremen's union and the waterfront employers' association of the Pacific coast. This report called for a 30 percent wage increase—less one cent—with the boost retroactive to Oct. 1, 1945.

The labor department said Schweitzer wanted to learn the positions of the unions and employers' association on the recommended wage increase and overtime pay increases.

Curran's NMU turned down an offer made in New York negotiating for a $12.50 monthly wage increase and overtime pay increases.

The two countries made a number of agreements in connection with the credit arrangement which President Truman and French President Felix Gouin announced jointly last night.

French officials estimated the money would finance at least one year of their country's four-year rehabilitation plan.

In addition to the credit the United States promises these things: 1. To help France sell her goods here. This might mean an ultimate reduction in American tariffs on French goods.

2. An additional credit—of perhaps $25,000,000—to buy about 750,000 tons of American shipping.

France, in turn, pledged itself not to raise its tariffs on American products and joined with the United States and Britain in their campaign to expand world trade through lowered tariffs everywhere.

Dachau Concentration Camp Head Hanged

LANDSBERG, Germany.—(AP)—Martin Gottfried Weiss, commandant of the Dachau concentration camp where thousands of Europeans were tortured and put to death, was hanged this morning in Landsberg prison.

Witnessed by his associates at Dachau preceded him to the gallows yesterday.

Weiss held hope for a reprieve until immediately before his death.

Another 13 will be hanged today, completing the largest mass execution ever conducted by the United States army.

Earlier officials of the war crimes branch at Weisbaden were reported meeting in an effort to determine whether a statement by a former Dachau inmate constituted grounds for a reprieve. Paul Grossman, a cook in a U. S. field hospital at bad Weisse and formerly an inmate of Dachau, said Weiss did all he could for prisoners while he was in command of the camp.

Chiang Reported In Command of Government Army

NANKING (AP)—Gen. Chou En-lai, China's No. 2 communist, today asserted that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek personally had taken over command of the government's Manchurian campaign.

He asserted the situation in civil war-ravaged Manchuria had taken a "critical turn."

The spotlight communist made his statement to the Associated Press a few hours after the government's Central News agency reported that the important city of Kirin (Yungki) from communists.

Government sources in Mukden said seven regiments of communist troops were routed at Yangsuo and retreated towards Yenching near the Korean border. Government reports from the north said vanguards of National troops were within 30 miles of Harbin.

In Peiping the Independent newspaper, Shih Chieh Pao, reported that government troops captured Liaoyuan, a railroad junction northwest of Szechwang. It said the troops then pushed northward along the Szechwang-Tatshar rail line to Wolungton.

Chou's assertion was the first jarring note to disturb the hopeful atmosphere that pervaded China the past few days. The communist leader in his party's negotiator at peace discussion with government officials and General Marshall, U. S. envoy.

Even as the peace members of the third party democratic league were arranging to resume peace talks with the Kuomintang (Chiang's government party). They were handicapped, however, by the continued absence at this critical stage of the Generalissimo, who remained in Mukden.

Communist leaders say that without Chiang present, any discussions would have little validity.

Decision Time Being Set at 2 P. M. Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—(AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill) told the senate today the coal strike will be settled at 3 p. m. (EST), or 2 p. m. (Pampa time).

In a floor speech asking support of the President's emergency labor legislation, Lucas said the Truman request for the legislation was responsible for settlement of the rail strike "and the coal strike, which I understand will be settled at 3 this afternoon."

Lewis in CONFERENCE

Lucas appeared shortly after John Lewis conferred for two hours with his policy makers at union headquarters.

The United Mine Workers' chief-tain smiles broadly as he emerged from the policy committee meeting but various reporters queries about a settlement with a terse, "no comment."

The policy committee remained in session after Lewis left, but Lucas said there would be no statement from the union at conclusion of the session.

IN POLICY SESSION

Shortly before the session, the UMW's district 6 headquarters in Columbus, O., expressed belief the strike was over and that final details of an agreement with government negotiators would be worked out to shape the policy session.

However, Lewis was scheduled to meet during the afternoon with Secretary of Interior Krug, who as federal mines boss has been conducting the negotiations with the UMW.

KRUG, LEWIS MEET

There was speculation that the conference between Krug and Lewis would be held at the White House and that President Truman would announce the strike settlement.

The 250-man policy committee is the group to which Lewis would report any agreement reached with government negotiators. It also

Settling of Coal Halt Runs Deeper Than Much Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Settling of the coal strike runs deeper than just a conversation between John L. Lewis and J. A. Krug, secretary of the interior.

When Lewis started to argue with the mine owners almost three months ago, he demanded a pay raise and a health and welfare fund for his miners, the fund to be contributed by the owners.

Even if the owners had been willing to grant him everything he asked and then wanted to raise the price of their coal to make up for what they had given Lewis, they couldn't do it.

The reason: The government has a wage-price policy. Unless the government approves, an employer can't raise wages if it means he has to raise the price of his goods to make up for the pay raise.

If the owners had been willing to give Lewis anything he asked without raising coal prices, that would have been all right with the government as it would be in the case of any employer raising wages but not prices.

But no one expected the owners to give Lewis what he wanted—or any part of it—unless they could make up to some extent for those benefits to him by raising coal prices.

Since the government would have to be consulted about that, the shadow of the government stood behind Lewis and the owners from the beginning of their talks.

The talks between Lewis and the owners got nowhere. The miners' strike, a health and welfare fund Secretary of the Interior Krug to take over the mines for the government and try to settle with Lewis.

The government didn't go into the mines to run them. It simply asked the mine owners to keep on operating their mines.

All they had to do was stick up an American flag and a notice saying the government had seized the property.

The owners don't approve a government takeover of the mines. Lewis, then this happens.

The government continues to hold

Spokesmen for Humanity

Three nations dominate the United Nations' Security Council. Five nations dictate its decisions. But neither the Big Three nor the Big Five speak for the millions who desperately desire peace and tranquility and a chance to recover from the horror and exhaustion of war. It is to the representatives of the six smaller nations on the Council that the apprehensive citizens of the world must turn for any assurance that the lofty and benevolent aims of the United Nations have not been forgotten in the great powers' bitter struggle to retain and advance their present empires. Unquestionably, the Russian representative's petulance and stubbornness have been chiefly responsible for the disharmony which has smirched the Council's brief history and shackled its activities. His intransigent attitude is dictated from above. And it is the same attitude that has been disturbingly apparent from the very first meetings held to discuss the United Nations' formation. But if the Russian representative has been the chief offender, it cannot be claimed that the British and American members have been entirely blameless. Granted that they have been forced into a defensive position. Still, there is a suspicion that their obstruction is sometimes for obstruction's sake, that their pride of sovereignty assumes too great an importance, that in blocking Russia's petty objections they have become a trifle petty themselves. There is little enough that the representatives of the smaller nations can do to ease the hostility of the Big Three. Because of the Russian-sponsored, American-approved veto, their role is an impotent one. They could not carry a vote to save the world from another war if one of the Big Three should disagree or abstain from voting. And it seems unappreciated that the Big Three cannot agree on any major issue. But at least the representatives of the smaller nations can act as conscience for their colleagues. They can at least turn the thoughts of the great-power members occasionally to the broader objectives and ultimate aims. They can recall heavy responsibilities that have not been discharged.

Mackenzie's Column

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst (Substituting for Mackenzie) In 1940 France and England were caught flatfooted by the German occupation of positions in Belgium and Holland from which the Nazis launched a death blow at the French army and drove the British to Dunkerque. Had there been cooperation between the lowlands and their natural allies in construction of defenses before the war the story might have been different. The United States is moving now to insure that, should peace efforts fail, she shall not find a similar situation on her flanks. Simultaneously with plans for an inter-American mutual defense treaty, congress is being asked to approve the transfer of U. S. army and navy equipment to the other American countries. General Eisenhower and Admiral Nimitz outlining a careful program, designed neither to create imbalance between the countries nor an overall increase in hemisphere militarization. It is an idea to "spread the work" of hemisphere defense. In undertaking at this stage to promise "no greater relative strength" for any nation involved than it has had previously, Nimitz must be

Peter Edson's Column: ABOUT NEW GOVERNOR IN PUERTO RICO

Wonderful Wizards Of Washington—Surpluses

There has been a slight hitch in this appointment. Several weeks ago Pinero was considered a sure thing, but now a number of prominent U. S. Democrats have their eyes on the job. Whoever gets it, the shift in the cast won't make too much difference in the way the play will go on.

Relations between the island and the U. S. congress may be somewhat improved with both Harold L. Ickes out as secretary of the interior and Tugwell out as governor. Rightly or not, some important Puerto Ricans believe that the congress is the only place where they can get their congressmen didn't like Ickes and Tugwell, who were in charge. Congress has no such grudge against new Secretary J. A. Krug, even though the house appropriations committee did his budget is tall. And Pinero if he gets the appointment from President Truman, will know his way around congress.

The fly in this soothing ointment is that Tugwell has been retained by the University of Puerto Rico as a consultant in the school of government administration and in social science research. The deal is that Tugwell will spend three months of one year, six months of the next, in Puerto Rico. So his influence will not be completely removed and that bothers the practical politicians.

TUGWELL INSPIRED FEW ECONOMIC REFORMS

Aside from that, Tugwell has been blamed for a lot of things that have gone on down here for which he doesn't deserve credit. What is generally overlooked in congress is that the reform program of the Popular democratic party was all mapped out and passed by the Puerto Rican legislature before Tugwell appeared on the scene, as an Ickes-backed governor, in 1941. These home-grown reforms included the controversial land law, agricultural and industrial development plans, and the unification of water resources and electric power systems.

Tugwell's principal responsibility has, therefore, been merely to administer the programs handed to him by the Puerto Rican legislature. The only reforms that are really Tugwell's include expansion of the university, institution of a civil service system, creation of a budget bureau, and the setting up of a municipal planning commission. All are recognized as contributions to good government.

The thing that Tugwell is most likely to be remembered for in Puerto Rico is, surprisingly enough, not that he was a great reformer, but that he was a good administrator and executive.

MRS. TUGWELL SET UP ISLAND FEEDING STATIONS

There is one other thing the Tugwell administration will be remembered for, though it is more the work of Mrs. Tugwell than of the governor. It is a private charity to feed the hungry school children one good meal a day.

Aided by a group of Puerto Rican women, Mrs. Tugwell has begged and brow-beaten everyone with money into supporting this endeavor. Feeding stations have been set up in many areas, and for the first time, Puerto Rican youngsters are being taught to like orange juice, cereal, and milk, when they can get it, in place of the traditional diet of coffee, saltfish, and rice.

This same nutritional feeding is carried on for older children in a government-supported school lunch program. For many of the poorer youngsters, it is the only decent meal they get all day.

Otherwise, as a reformer and member of the world and Puerto Rican economy, Tugwell has to take a back seat and give the bow to the Puerto Rican politicians in the Popular democratic party. The boss of that party has been, and still is, Luis Muñoz Marín, big, black-eyed and mustached, fierce-looking but soft-spoken. He is president of the senate as well as president of the party, and what he says goes.

Pinero, or anybody else who might be named governor, will have to go along with the party program much as Tugwell has done, and like it.

When Michelangelo painted his "Last Judgment" in the Sistine Chapel, he had a special wall of selected bricks for it in front of the real structural wall.

Hoover and LaGuardia Exemplify Of Blind Leading Blind

It is a travesty of justice to have Fiorello LaGuardia trying to raise food for starving Europe and Herbert Hoover surveying the world as to how to reduce starvation. These two men both have contributed greatly to the poverty of this country and to the terrible condition we now are in.

LaGuardia by the Norris-La Guardia Law hogtied the business man by preventing him from having the right to make a binding contract with workers that they would live up to an agreement to produce for a certain period of time. The Norris-LaGuardia Law prevents an employer from entering into a contract with a worker that he would not join a union or that he would not make a binding contract and that took away his conscience and his right to use his honor and judgment as to how he could best serve humanity. Thus LaGuardia's acts helped to throw production out of balance.

This led the government to try to relieve this great suffering caused by the practices of union labor. Government officials tried to do this by increasing the bank credit, and increasing the bank credit always means later on the wrecking of our money system and a great smash with more and more suffering. The whole world is suffering from this misguided use of bank credit to help the needy.

Herbert Hoover has also done much to bring on the poverty of the world. In 1921 he made this statement:

"The trade unions... can fairly claim great credit for the abolition of sweatshops, for recognition of fairer hours in industry, reduction of over-train, employment under healthful conditions, and many other reforms. These gains have been made through hard collective bargains, and part of the difficulty of the labor situation today is the bitterness with which these gains were accomplished."

Yes, we had had bitterness and it is due to blind men, like Herbert Hoover, leading the blind. This statement made by Hoover was reproduced by the CIO in an attempt to corral more people into the union. It was quoted in the CIO campaign in Long Beach in 1943. The author of Common Ground wrote to Herbert Hoover in 1944 asking him if he still believed this statement to be true. He did not even have the courtesy to answer the letter.

Herbert Hoover seems to think that he can relieve poverty by such things as giving his salary while he was President to the federal government. But poverty is not relieved to any degree by that kind of gift. It is relieved by getting people to understand the importance of all men being equally free, by getting people to understand the importance of living in harmony with God's law that all men must live by the sweat of their brow. But Herbert Hoover evidently thinks that labor unions by combining together to rob other workers are great gains.

Again Herbert Hoover was one of the people responsible for our not coming out of the depression of the late '20's and '30's when he called the business men together and insisted that they not adjust wages. He does not even seem to know that the workers' wages are paid by other workers rather than by the employers. One of the principal causes of the depression was unbalanced wages.

Hoover started the R.F.C. that really put the government in the credit business. And when the government controls credit it is only a question of time till there is inflation. That means eventually, more poverty.

Hoover and LaGuardia could do infinitely more for humanity to reduce poverty in the long run if they would spend their time trying to understand God's or nature's laws rather than by gallivanting over the country appearing to be great humanitarians.

They do not seem to understand the wisdom of Jesus' statement, "Resist not evil." By that He meant, resist the causes that bring about evil; in this case, resist the causes that bring about reduced production. This neither Hoover nor LaGuardia do. They are resisting starvation by treating the disease rather than by seeking and correcting the cause.

If the blind lead the blind they will both fall in the ditch, and certainly LaGuardia and Hoover are blind leaders.

Spring Flight

By WILLIAM MAIER

CLIMAX XXXIX

JUST then the food that Debby had gobbled up did something funny inside her, and she pulled herself to her feet and said, "Excuse me, Gordy." She got halfway across the room, but then she decided she wasn't going to be sick, and what she needed was some air. She went out of the door and closed it behind her and leaned against it, her head back, looking up at the stars. The night was clear and cold and very dark, and there were millions of stars crowding the sky. The wind shook the half-bare branches of the tall elms in the yard. She closed her eyes and gulped the cold air, and gradually the tumult inside her subsided. She stood there for a long time; she had no idea how long. The noises from the studio behind her were a blur of babble and laughter, and the rushing of the wind in the trees was a soft, melodious whining, like muted violins in the distance.

The wind cut right through her thin dress, and she wished she had her coat, but she couldn't go back into that place now. The air in the studio would be full of smoke and the smell of whiskey. Her stomach was much better, but she felt shivery and weary. She could sit in a car, she thought, and be out of the wind.

Her own car was out at the front of the house, but the Currier's new sedan was here beside the driveway. Its back seat was warm and luxurious, and there might be a robe in there she could wrap herself up in. She would sit there a while and then when she was sure she was feeling all right again she would go in and get her coat and go home.

lights went on automatically, and Ken and Shirley were in the back seat, their arms around each other in a very tender embrace. The back of Ken's head was toward Debby.

As the light went on, they broke away from each other quickly, their faces side by side as they stared at Debby. She stood with one foot on the running board, stooping, her head half through the doorway. They each still had one arm around the other. "Oh," Ken said. "It's you."

Debby said, "Yeah, it's me," and she was surprised at how calm her voice sounded. She looked at his face, and she had never seen him looking embarrassed and non-plussed like that before. But the funny thing was that she wasn't angry at all; she just didn't seem to care whether Ken kissed Shirley Currier or not. The one thing she did feel toward him was resentment—resentment that he wasn't even trying to be loyal to her, when she had been making herself sick for two weeks trying so hard to be loyal to him. Now she was admitting it to herself.

Shirley laughed. She wasn't looking the least bit embarrassed. "All in a spirit of fun, you know, Debby," she said.

Debby smiled, cheerfully enough, and said, "Sure. I know. It's Ken's birthday."

She wasn't mad at Shirley either. She knew all about her for years now. Shirley was what she was, and Debby guessed it took all kinds to make a world.

Ken said, "Look, Debby, I'm awful sorry about this. It was a damned fool thing for me to do, and I'm ashamed of myself."

Debby took her foot off the running board and stepped back. Now she was out of the circle of light, but she could still watch their faces. "That's all right, Ken," she said evenly.

"Do you mean it? You're not mad at me?"

"No, I'm not mad at you."

"And everything's all right between us?"

"Well, yes, everything except I'm not going to marry you."

KEN was pulling himself out through the door, and Shirley sat back against the cushions and said in an indifferent tone, "Don't be an idiot, Debby. You're the girl he wants. I had to make up my mind to that a long time ago."

Ken came and stood very close in front of her and took her hands. "Listen, honey, I said I was sorry, and I said I was ashamed of myself. Everybody makes a slip once in a while. It doesn't seem like you to take this one so seriously." He shook her hands, as though he was trying to wake her up. "It doesn't mean a thing, honest."

Debby's head was moving from side to side, refusing to look into his face.

"How about it, honey?" he said, pleading. "Say it's O.K., won't you?"

Debby stopped moving her head and looked up at his face. It was just a blur there in the dark. She was feeling very calm now, even faintly amused. "It's O.K.," she said.

"Atta girl. And everything's all right between us?"

"Well, yes—except I'm not going to marry you."

"Oh, God. Listen, Debby, I'll never kiss another girl as long—"

"It's not because you kissed Shirley."

"Well, then what—" He stopped short, catching his breath as though he had a suspicion of what she was going to say.

Debby left her hands limply in his. The weariness she felt now was a pleasant, peaceful one, a feeling that tonight she would sleep as she hadn't slept before in months. She said undramatically, "It's because I didn't care whether you kissed Shirley or not."

Ken said, "Yeah," in a flat, lifeless voice, as though that was just what he had been expecting her to say.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, (NEA) — Hollywood's "goldfish" school of acting—also known as dead-pan acting—is wrecking motion pictures, comedienne Ruth Donnelly means. "If you raise an eyebrow these days," she told us, "you're accused of over-acting."

Her pet peeve is a certain foreign glamor star who was told in a movie, that her husband had just been killed. The star said, without a wrinkle: "How utterly terrible."

M-G-M is looking for a story to reunite Clark Gable and Joan Crawford on the screen—Lassie, the dog star, is the puppy of 11 puppies. "Forever Amber" may be on the shelf, by an M-G-M cartoon short will be the title. A couple of shorts play forest rangers under the title, "Forever Ambers."

HOT-DOG PREMIERE

The film colony is getting back to normal. We received an invitation to attend the Hollywood premiere of the Tail of the Pup, world's most unusual hot-dog stand. The invitation read: "There will be stars, red plush carpet, uniformed doorman, bright lights, photographers, and autograph hunters."

What! No Lassie?

John Hodiak and Anne Baxter turned thumbs down on a studio-inspired plan to exploit their wedding. "Hollywood style it will be strictly a family affair—June Haver and Bob Hutton have been shopping for furniture. Wedding bells next?—Harry James and Betty Grable now have a stable of nine race horses.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke sails for England June 8 to star in Michael Balcon's "Nicholas Nickleby," from the Dickens classic—Radio's "One Man's Family" cast may wind up in the screen version. Fans are howling that film players would "ruin" the picture—Richard Norris, who plays Able in "Able's Irish Rose," will marry Karen Peterson immediately after completion of the picture. She's a former Chicago girl now studying at the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

YOUTHFUL MATRON

Nominated for the most courageous stress of the year: June Duprez, 25, playing the mother of 20-year-old Mona Freeman in "That Brennan Girl"—Jimmy Dunn's 78-year-old mother is seriously ill and is not expected to live. Now that Vera Hruba Ralston has become a U. S. citizen, she will drop the Hruba from her name. No one could pronounce it, anyway.

Raving about Charles Boyer to George Burns, Charles Allen said: "When an actress plays opposite Boyer, it's the peak of her career—the biggest thing she'll ever do."

foreign ministers, a British-American bloc waged an "offensive against the Soviet Union."
Byrnes, at a 40-minute news conference, refrained from accusing Russia directly of acting in bad faith.
But, reading directly from the stenographic records of international conferences at London, Moscow, and Paris, he made these main points:
There is no British-American "bloc" against Russia. The United States and Britain agreed at Moscow last December to support the American plan for a big four treaty to keep Germany disarmed for 25 years.
Molotov at Paris May 16 acknowledged that Stalin had agreed to the treaty idea. (Molotov denied this Monday.)

AMERICAN QUARTER HORSE SHOW TO BE HELD JULY 2, 3, 4

The American Quarter Horse Association again accepted the invitation of officials of the Texas Cowboy Reunion to hold an "Official" American Quarter Horse Show at Stamford, Texas in connection with the Rodeo on July 2, 3, and 4.
Mr. Jno. C. Burns, Executive Secretary of the American Quarter Horse Association, and Mr. R. A. Brown, Director of the organization met with officers of the Texas Cowboy Reunion to work out the prize list and other details of the show this week. Mr. Burns stated that in addition to the regular cash prizes offered, the association would offer, for the first time, a trophy to each of the first place winners of the open Calf Roping Contest, and the Cutting Horse Contest, provided the stallion, mare, or gelding winning the contest is registered in the Stud Book or Registry of the American Quarter Horse Association.
Roy Arledge, Chairman of the Quarter Horse Committee mailed entry blanks and prize lists to breeders in the Association this week. A record entry is expected from breeders over the nation.
Grand Champion Stallion of the 1945 show was "Star Deck" owned by Mr. A. I. Hunt of Tulsa, Okla. Grand Champion Mare was "Punch" owned by Mrs. Helen Michaelis of Eagle Pass, Texas.
"Wild Bill" Elliott, popular cowboy movie star is expected to attend the Texas Cowboy Reunion again this year. Elliott is a quarter horse enthusiast and last year purchased "Smokey" Waggoner from Carl Smith of Stamford.
Several entries have already been received, according to the Chairman, Roy Arledge, and he reminds breeders that June 20th is the closing date for accepting entries.

were not pin-pointed in the Siamese complaint, they apparently were located more than 300 miles north-east of Bangkok along the border of Laos colony, on the Mekong, where press dispatches have reported hostilities under way.
The post-war French colonial regime of High Commissioner Admiral Georges Thierry d'Argenlieu in Saigon has negotiated unsuccessfully with the Siamese since last autumn for the return of the parts of Cambodia and Laos which Vichy gave away to the Japanese, with whom Siam then was allied. Siam has contended the territory was rightfully hers—a position complicated by the fact the area has changed hands many times over the years.

Small Planes To Have New Device

WASHINGTON—Don't be surprised if you see a plane come to a stop 150 to 200 feet above the ground—it's just a new arresting device, Aviation News says.
"Designed to enable small planes to make emergency landings in very small fields, it weighs only a few pounds, is attached permanently to the plane and is operated by the pilot, from the cockpit."
"The arrestor uses a bazooka-like tube, from which a sturdy spike is shot by a smokeless powder charge. The spike is fired by the pilot as he approaches for a landing. It buries itself in the ground, anchoring one end of an elastic nylon rope. The other end of the rope is attached to the airplane and 'pulls up' the plane to a stop without ground looping or tipping over, after a very short run."
"Tested at duPont field, Wilmington, Del., using a Piper Cub plane, All-American Aviation engineers expect it to reduce greatly losses of lives and injuries and damage to small airplanes and equipment resulting from forced landings."

COAL STRIKE

would ratify any settlement.
Newsman at UMW headquarters noticed that a sign placed there a few days ago to announce deferment of any policy committee meeting had been removed. The notice had said there would be no further meetings of the group until the status of the miners under the Smith-Connally labor disputes act had been clarified.
The Smith-Connally act prohibits any person from inciting a strike or conspiring to strike in a government-operated mine.
District 6 headquarters said in Columbus, O., that "we think the strike is over" and that final details of the settlement would be worked out at 10:30 a. m. conference in Washington.
The headquarters' information was described as coming from T. J. Price, district secretary-treasurer, in Washington.
Lewis and other UMW officials in the capital declined immediate comment. But the gathering at UMW headquarters indicated the 10:30 conference might be a meeting of the union's policy committee.
At the office of Secretary of Interior Krug, federal mine boss, officials said a further meeting with Lewis on contract negotiations had not yet been set.
Krug reported last night some progress had been made in drafting a new contract.
Lewis arrived at the UMW headquarters at 10 a. m. (EST) and talked with a group of 15 or 20 union leaders on the steps of the building.
A spokesman for the soft coal operators here said they had heard "absolutely nothing" about the settlement terms reported by district 6 headquarters.
President Truman's official calling list for the day did not mention any meeting with the coal negotiators.
A spokesman for the soft coal operators here said they had heard "absolutely nothing" about the settlement terms reported by district 6 headquarters.

Maneuverable Kite Put on Sale

Junior may be in for a rooking from Dad again.
It's just the old story of the complicated electric train, which fathers proverbially buy for their sons, to play with all the time, themselves. Only this time, instead of trains, it's kites.
Kites which can be made to dive and maneuver like airplanes—originally designed for use as aerial targets for wartime training of anti-aircraft gunners—have been placed on sale by the War Assets Administration.
The kites are of two-stick, diamond shaped "Eddy" pattern, with a five-foot span and are five feet in height. They are covered with water-repellant fabric and are fitted with twin control lines and a rudder. An experienced operator can make them do many of the maneuvers that piloted aircraft can perform.
At an exhibition held recently in Washington, the designer of the kite demonstrated to newsmen and representatives of some of the nation's largest retail stores how the kite could perform. He dived a kite from altitudes of 100 feet or more to within a few feet of the ground, and then made it rise again.
WAA has approximately 130,000 of the kites and is offering them for sale at $2.65 per kite when purchased in quantities of 7,500 or more, and $2.79 each if bought in smaller lots. The kites are packed 10 or 25 to a crate and minimum purchase is a crate of 10. All purchases must be in multiples of 10 or 25.
Orders for kites should be submitted directly to the office of aircraft disposal, 425 Second Street NW, Washington 25, D. C. Price of the kites is $2.65 in various sections of the United States, and orders will be filled from the point nearest to the buyer.

Connally in Favor Of New Strike Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An Associated Press poll of senators will ing to state their views on the strike-draft provision of President Truman's emergency labor bill today showed Sen. Tom Connally of Texas for the measure and Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas, undecided.

The announcement was made yesterday by Sam Cantej, Jr., chairman of a committee appointed to fill the post.

the mines. The owners will have to pay out whatever pay increases and health-and-welfare fund money the government says Lewis should get.
This money comes out of the mine owners' earnings. If they still refuse to agree with Lewis on the government's terms, the government will have to run the mines, indefinitely.
If the owners lost money through all this, they'll have to file a claim against the government for damages.
If the owners agree to the government settlement, they'll be allowed some increases in coal prices to make up in whole or part for the increased money they give Lewis' miners.

Russian Makes No Specific Claim In Book, 'Prolongation of Life'

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK—(AP)—Dr. Alexander A. Bogomolets, the Russian physician whose serum has been heralded as promising a 150-year lifetime, makes no such specific claim for his medicine in his book, "Prolongation of Life," a condensation of which is published in the magazine,

Encore. However, Bogomolets writes, "If it should prove that the small doses of the anti-reticular cytotoxic serum, on repeated introduction into the body, are able to prevent untimely sclerosis of the reticulo-endothelial system, this serum will be a very valuable aid in the struggle for prolongation of life."

"We have begun to study this problem. Here a great deal of circumspection and long experimental first on animals and later on human beings is needed."

The Russian says human lives of 150 years are possible, basing this on history. He cites a long list of names of persons who he declares lived well over 100 and some well above 150. These are all moderns, starting in the seventeenth century.

The reticulo-endothelial system includes the blood vessels, vital organs, glands and membranes and other connective tissues. These all fall into one general class of human tissue, and theoretically all should be strengthened by a serum that is good for any one of them. This serum is presumed to just that, since it is obtained from tissues of this system.

"The serum has been widely used in Russia as a tonic. Bogomolets says he has evidence that the serum helps the body to dissolve cancer cells, although it will not cure cancer. But he hopes that the serum may reduce the number of relapses of cancer and perhaps be preventive for some persons."

Texas Today

AP Staff Writer

Locusts, says W. Z. Miller of Pampa, can be no worse than bees.

Recently he spent a lot of time budding his pecan grove on the San Marcos river. He used a mixture of bees-wax, tallow and linseed oil.

Then, he said, swarms of bees invaded his pecan orchard and did a complete job of consuming the bees-wax he had used.

He said they didn't seem to mind the extra added flavor of tallow and linseed oil.

A truck driver stopped in Marshall to inquire for directions when suddenly his cargo of bees went AWOL.

There was a bit of formation flying down a main street, then across the court house square, around the front of a department store, and on down an avenue.

There was no explanation as to why the bees suddenly left their hives in the truck, but the results are known: One Marshallite was stung on the head, several had to fight their way through the swarms in front of a store, and two said they captured a swarm each, complete with queen.

A bear hit the hand that was feeding it in Abilene, and Oliver Perry Little, of Gonzales, Texas, lost the middle finger of his right hand.

In Shamrock, Texas, Lyle Holmes is just regaining his composure after landing an eight-pound bass at Ramsdell lake.

"That was a prize fish in any man's language," said game Warden G. P. Davis, who verified the story.

GAVE IT ITS NAME
The name "vaudeville" came from the invasion area of Normandy. An ancient miller, Olivier Bassein, made the valley of Vaux de Vire famous with his entertaining songs, and from this name the corrupted term "vaudeville" arose.

Methodist Boys Leading League

Two games were played, two were won by forieit and two were positioned in the three divisions of the Kiwanis club Sunday school softball program yesterday.

In the senior boys league, the First Methodists walloped the McCullough Methodists 17-0 to take the lead in that circuit with two wins and no losses.

In the junior boys circuit, Central Baptist ran all over Calvary Baptist by a score of 31-1. In the girls league, First Presbyterian won over McCullough and First Christian over

Lane Takes 8-Round Fight at Houston

HOUSTON—(P)—In a terrific slugfest which had a near capacity crowd cheering wildly all the way, Harry Lane, 139, Houston, won a close eight round decision from Francisco Gonzalez, 142, Hermosillo, Mexico here last night.

Eddie Lee of St. Louis was slated to oppose Gene Kelly of Danville, Ill., in the last event, but Kelly cancelled the bout during the day.

The semi-windup was equally as pleasing with Chief Gordon House, 138 1/2, Houston, gaining a split decision over Catfish Bourgeois, 138 1/2, New Orleans.

"TOMMIES"

British soldiers are called "Tommys" because the British war office once supplied the soldiers with a pocket manual in which sample forms used the name "Tommy Atkins" to designate the British soldier (as we might use "John Doe" as our hypothetical American private).

Nazarene, both by forfeit.

The First Baptist-Barrah Methodist game in the junior league and the First Presbyterian-Central Baptist game in the senior were postponed.

Hubbers Rally With 2 Runs in Sixth to Defeat Oilers, 7 to 6

500-Mile Race Scheduled To Begin at 10

By DALE BURGESS
INDIANAPOLIS—(P)—There were several downcast individuals at the Indianapolis motor speedway today as workmen cleaned the track for tomorrow's 500-mile running of the 500-mile international sweepstakes. The race will start at 10 a. m. central standard time.

Bud Barowski, the Gary, Ind., boy, who bought a racer with army pay that piled up while he was in prison of the Japanese, was crowded out of the starting field at the last minute.

Bud Rush of Ruskin, Fla., had qualified Barowski's semi-stock car at 118.268 miles an hour. Then at dusk last night three cars qualified just ahead of the deadline and brought the number of qualifiers up to 35. Only 33 cars can start and Barowski's U. S. army recruiting special and the Singer Special drive.

Radio Station KPDR, through the facilities of the Mutual Broadcasting System, will broadcast the Speedway classic at four different times tomorrow, including both the start and the finish. The first broadcast will start at 9:45 and will continue through 10:05, five minutes after the start.

The microphones will pick up the race again from 11:15 until 11:29 and from 1:30 to 1:45 p. m. At 2:15 the broadcast will start again and will be carried through to the finish of the race.

The broadcast is being sponsored by the Perfect Circle Piston Ring company through its local wholesale distributor, the Motor Inn Auto Supply. . . . en by Charles Van Acker of South Bend, Ind., were nudged out of the lineup.

Rebs Slip Back To Second With Win Over Oilers

(By The Associated Press)
The Dallas Rebels climbed back into second place in the Texas league last night with a doubleheader victory over the Tulsa Oilers, 7-2 and 6-2.

Beaumont completed a three-game sweep over Shreveport, pounding two visiting pitchers for 19 hits in a riotous 9-5 victory.

The fourth place San Antonio Missions eked out a 3-2 verdict from the Houston Buffs.

Tom ranking Fort Worth Cats and the Cedar Oklahoma Indians festered when rain postponed their doubleheader.

The Rebels picked up a full game on the Fort Worth team with their double victory. In the first game the Dallasites cut loose a home run barrage to win 7-2 easily. In the nightcap the Rebels took Mack Stewart of the Oilers for 11 hits, including a four-bagger by Clint Comatser.

In the Houston-San Antonio game pitcher Eddie Cole of the Missions held the Buffs to two safeties. A two run rally by the Buffs in the seventh with none out was choked by Cole when he fanned the next three batters in order.

Two newcomers to the Beaumont lineup, catcher Ralph Frank and first baseman Rip Collins, paced the Exporter attack. Houk pounded out two singles and a pair of doubles and Collins rapped out two singles and a triple.

The Alamo, noted for its heroic defense during the war between Texas and Mexico, was built as a mission chapel.

Sens Close in On Yanks With Leonard's Win

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer
Washington's five-star pitching staff, with its accent on clipping knucklers and darting butterfly pitches, looms as the latest stumbling block in Boston's pennant path.

Only seven games off the pace and a scant half game out of the runner-up spot, Ossie Bluege's Nationals have "fluttered" into the flag chase on a sizzling two-week record of 11 wins in their last 13 starts.

Despite the recent batting surge of Mickey Vernon and Jeff Heath, Washington's mound record of 10 complete games in the 13-game string is the most important success factor.

The ancient Johnny Niggeling and Dutch Leonard each have accounted for three decisions in the recent hot streak. Roger Wolf, Mickey Haefner and Walt Masterson of the starting contingent each have one Veri and Sid Hudson and Rene Scarborough triumphed on relief.

Leonard's latest success was a neat 2-1 effort against New York last night.

Detroit also closed in on the leaders, picking up a half game on the Red Sox who were rained out of their tilt with Philadelphia. Freddy Hutchinson accounted for his second victory, 6-1 over Cleveland.

The Chicago White Sox ripped off their fourth straight triumph for their new skipper, Ted Lyons, slugging three St. Louis Browns hurlers for 15 hits and a 9-2 romp.

Brooklyn's National league lead was sliced to two games on a combination of St. Louis' 12-2 slaughter of Chicago and New York's 5-2 night game edge over the Dodgers.

Pittsburgh put on a big inning, scoring four in the seventh, to overcome Cincinnati, 6-3.

A scheduled Boston at Philadelphia night game was rained out.

TEXARKANA—(P)—The eleventh annual Four States invitation golf tournament will be held here Friday through Sunday with more than 120 expected to enter. Bill Clark of Texarkana, last year's champion, will return. Richard Smart of the Pine Bluff, Ark., former Arkansas state champion, also will be in the field. Qualifying rounds are scheduled Friday.

Airlines Propose New International Policy

WASHINGTON—The airlines shortly will propose to underwriters that a uniform international trip insurance policy be provided as soon as possible. Aviation News discloses. Two policies, for domestic and foreign flight, are now required by a passenger who starts or completes an international air trip in this country at a point off an international airway. Practices which tend to discriminate between national and international air travel are detrimental to the industry, officials will inform the insurance companies.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Notebook

By HAL BOYLE
 COPENHAGEN—AP—During the final weeks of the German occupation of Denmark one film company here began filming the story of Danish resistance to the Nazis.
 Friends of Lau Lauritzen threw an armed guard around his studio as his lone camera guard away.
 Whenever a German car drew near an alarm bell sounded and actors, prop hands, cameramen and electricians ducked out along a hidden ditch until the peril of discovery was over.
 Resistance leaders provided them with 20 German uniforms by way-laying Nazi soldiers at night. When Lauritzen said he needed a German major's uniform for one scene, the Danish underground leader replied: "That's a little more difficult. I guess we will have to kill one. But don't worry. We won't get any holes in his uniform."
 At this period patriotic Danes were also busy rubbing out their own collaborators. They cornered one on the fourth floor of a building.

 Someone called an ambulance and when the driver drove up to the door and called "where is the injured man?"—One of the resistance men shouted down "here he comes!" and they tossed him down to the pavement from a fourth-floor window.
 This resistance movie—"Red Aces"—has become popular throughout Europe and Lauritzen hopes it will be the first Danish film to have a wide showing in America. Hitherto Copenhagen-produced pictures have been shown only to Danish clubs in the United States.
 MAN AND WIFE WELL CAST FOR FRACTURE EPISODE
 SOUTH PARIS, Me.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Eimer Cummings were well cast but it was not for drama.
 Mrs. Cummings went to Portland with her husband who had a cast removed from a fractured leg.
 On the return trip, Mrs. Cummings wore a cast on her left arm. The day before she had fallen but didn't realize until Portland hospital attendants told her, she called for her husband, that pain she was suffering was due to a fracture.
