Famine Areas Are Hard Hit Until Harvest

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman informed the international food conference today that the remaining weeks before the 1946 grain harvest will be especially critical in famine areas.

He said the United States and other countries in a position to help "must continue and heighten their efforts."

Mr. Truman's statement was made in a welcoming talk read by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson before an opening meeting of the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations, called to map a broad flight on long-term famine conditions.

"In meeting at this critical period," the President's message said, "you have heavy responsibilities and great opportunities."

Herbert Hoover, addressing the session, urged the creation by Sept. 1 of a broad international food administration to spur production and guide distribution of supplies. He declared there is need for drastic reorganization of the world fight on famine.

Mr. Truman's message said: "What this conference accomplishes or fails to accomplish will make its mark not only in the areas where people are hungry as the aftermath of war, but in all parts of the earth and for a long time to come."

The President said any steps toward feeding the world's families better and making the fullest use of the products of farms and fisheries is "a step toward winning and securing the peace."

The world wide scarcity of bread grains, Mr. Truman said, cannot be completely overcome with the 1946 harvest. Deficits in livestock products, he added, will continue for a long time.

"The remaining weeks before the 1946 grain harvest in the northern hemisphere are especially critical."

Week-End Storms Bring Much Ruin To Texas Cities

(By The Associated Press) Tornadoes, floods, high winds, hail and lightning moving eastward across the southern part of the United States, took at least three lives in Texas during the week-end, caused well over a million dollars damage, and indirectly caused four other deaths.

The tornadoes struck in north Texas, the hail fell in more damaging sizes and heavier in the Central and South portions of West Texas, the floods were on the coast, severe winds in East Texas and lightning set two expensive fires.

Texas could count 10 damaging nights of storms in the last 11.

Killed in the tornadoes were J. L. Howard, 30, of Stoneburg, and Joyce Hammon, 2, of Sawyer.

Killed while attempting to swim a flooded street at Houston was Eldris Connitt, 24-year-old Negro. Rain at Houston totaled 4.48 inches in four hours yesterday.

At Arp, a fire said to have been caused by lightning set fire to 18 oil storage tanks and 11 railroad cars. Damage was estimated to be between $500,000 and $750,000.

At Corsicana, two 55,000-barrel tanks of the Magnolia pipeline company did considerable damage in Navarro county.

Severe winds cut a 40-mile path across East Texas leveling homes, forests and telephone and power poles. Mrs. Albert Holt, Sr., of Atlanta, Texas, died at the height of the storm of a heart attack, and Mrs. Dashi Thomas of Bloomberg, Texas, died of "shock" after the wind unroofed her home.

Hennegan Kidd of Texarkana was killed instantly when he came in contact with a power line and fell 30 feet from a power line pole at Atlanta.

Stoneburg was a shambles after the tornado struck, with some houses demolished and almost all damaged. The tornado also struck near Henrietta demolishing a house and barn.

Despite the fact that both the front and side entrances are barricaded, the police department is definitely open for business, Chief Louie Allen said this morning. The reason for the barricades is that the station is undergoing its annual re-painting.

The floors are being painted a long-wearing grey color while the walls are green and white combination.

Azerbaijan Said To Be Under Seige

LONDON (AP)—British dispatches from Tehran today said the Iranian war ministry denied any fighting was taking place in Azerbaijan and Kurdistan as reported by the Tabriz radio in the Azerbaijan capital.

No orders have been sent from the Iranian capital for government commanders to attack the Azerbaijanis, the war ministry said.

The British Broadcasting corporation also quoted an Iranian government spokesman as declaring it was "unlikely" that fighting was taking place.

The London broadcast, which did not give the source of its information, added that the Iranian spokesman said the government forces "have strict orders not to start any fighting."

"It may be possible," the broadcast quoted him as saying, "that some over-eager frontier units had fired a few shots at Azerbaijanis who were provoking them."

The Tehran radio today made no mention of the reported fighting.

Radio reports earlier from Tabriz, Azerbaijan capital, indicated that civil strife had broken out.

Reuter in a Tehran dispatch said the Iranian war ministry denied that fighting was taking place in Azerbaijan and Kurdistan. The ministry added that no orders had been sent from Tehran for commanders to attack.

The Tabriz radio, as quoted by BBC and Reuters, said that Iranian central government troops had attacked Azerbaijan. Reuters quoted the broadcast as saying the attack had come from Kurdistan and Azerbaijan.

Martial law was proclaimed in Tabriz, BBC quoted the broadcast as saying, and a "Mr. Padman" was named.

Conservative Cabinet for Japan Named

TOKYO (AP)—A liberal conservative cabinet was named for Japan today by Prime Minister MacArthur, demanding that "orderly minorities" cease their violence and the physical process of intimidation or the would-be that they did.

Chief cabinet secretary Toy Hayashi announced selection by premier-designate Shigeru Yoshida of 17 men—six liberals, five non-partisans and four progressives. Complete approval by supreme headquarters, however, was reported doubtful.

Informed Japanese commented they doubted that one Dr. Hiroshi Nani nomination for agriculture minister would be accepted in view of his war "conspicuous" record. They pointed out that he had been associated closely with the ultranationalist imperial rule association and was former advisor to the Japanese government in Manchuria.

Yoshida himself could retain four posts, prime minister, foreign minister, first and second minister of demobilization.

Yoshida earlier in the day had been declared by associates ready to admit failure in his attempt to form a cabinet because of his inability to obtain individuals to fill the various posts. He was beset by the same criticism that caused Baron Kijuro Shidehara and his cabinet to resign four weeks ago.

Labor organizations, communists and other leftist groups criticized Yoshida's plan for a "conservative" cabinet, called for a "popular front" government and demanded more food.

Yoshida decided to continue his attempts to form a cabinet after General MacArthur's demand for cessation of "mass violence." The statement, although not identifying the "disorderly minorities," was interpreted by officers close to MacArthur as applying to those demonstrating publicly against Yoshida.

At Tarkington's bedside when he died was the author's wife, Susanah.

Tarkington's literary output was prodigious, and the quality was equal to the quantity. Two of his novels brought him the Pulitzer Prize for literature—the "Magnificent Ambersons" in 1919 and "Alice Adams" three years later.

His first successful novel, published when he was 30, was "The Gentleman from Indiana," and Tarkington himself often was referred to by this title in later years.

Tarkington preferred to be remembered for his mature novels, such as "The tales. After the hood which won him the greatest audience. He wrote "Seventeen," "Willie Baxter, Jr.," and "Little Orvie," and created his most remembered character, Penrod, in the novel of that name.

Tarkington would devote 10 or more hours a day to his writing, turning out each page in brightland on yellow manila paper. These efforts, finally paid in 1930 when he became blind. An operation partially restored his vision but his stories were dictated thereafter.

Tarkington was best known for his novels, but he ventured into the field of play writing on occasions. His "Monsieur Beaucaire" was staged in 1901 and he followed it with a string of hits. After the production of "Magnolia" in 1923, he said he was through with the theater. Critics had said he was a novelist, not a playwright. But in 1931 he was back with "Colonel Satan," based on the life of Aaron Burr.

Nazi Says U. S. Ships Violated Neutrality Rules

NUERNBERG (AP)—Grand Adm. Erich Raeder testified before the international military tribunal today that United States ships repeatedly violated neutrality rules before America entered the war.

The former Nazi chief said that the German navy received orders from Hitler not to attack U. S. ships, despite the alleged neutrality violations.

Raeder's statements were made in answer to questions by counsel for Joachim von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign minister.

The admiral testified that American "neutrality patrols" during the summer of 1941 operated more than 1,000 miles from the United States, although the so-called neutrality area extended only 300 miles.

He testified that shortly after the Nazi attack on Russia the United States declared she would help the Soviet Union. Raeder said he had told Hitler that Germany should continue to leave American ships alone despite the disadvantages arising from such a course.

Raeder said the late Frank Knox, U. S. secretary of navy, had announced at a press conference on the day of the Pearl Harbor attack that U. S. warships had been ordered to fire on German vessels.

He said Hitler in turn decreed that "on no condition could we be permitted to fire first, but we could defend ourselves."

Hermann Goerring was absent from the courtroom with what was described as a "slight sciatic condition." Physicians said his condition was not serious. During much of the six months since the trial started, Goering has kept his legs and hips wrapped in an army blanket as he sat in the prisoners' box.

Brilliant Final Round Wins Rich Meet for Hogan

FORT WORTH—Ben Hogan, golf's amazing atom, lapped the field in the final round of his course record five-under-par 65 that brought him victory in the rich Colonial National invitation tournament pushing his total earnings for the year to $17,819.50—more than $7,000 ahead of his closest pursuer.

Colonial Country club's 6,953 dandies were conquered yesterday by little Ben with the greatest round it ever has seen. Hogan's privilege to witness. Coming into the last 18 holes three strokes behind leader Harry Todd of Dallas, the Hershey, Pa., pro who got his start in golf as a caddy on Fort Worth's links, cut the margin to one stroke with a first nine 33 and wiped it out with a blazing 32 on the final nine.

It was all over except the shouting as Ben roared No. 13 and roared into the stretch. Three straight Hogan birdies had sealed the tie of the Dallas player for his first triumph in professional ranks. Todd finished with a fine 69 but all Ben had to do was par the remaining holes to win. That, for Hogan, was easy.

Hogan closed out with 279 strokes for 72 holes—one under par—to win $3,000. Todd finished with 280 and drew down $2,000. Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, six months a pro, shot a 66 on the last 18 to capture third prize of $1,300 with 281.

Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., was fourth with 282 and Bob Hamilton, Chicago; Henry Picard, Cleveland; and Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, each ended up with 283 and a tie for fifth.

As the PGA tour sped on to St. Louis for the western open byron Nelson of Toledo, O., was in second place in money winnings for the year with $10,478.75; Snead was third with $10,176.16; Jimmy Demaret of Houston, fourth with $7,785.00, and Horton Keiser of Akron, O., with $6,431.24.

Cats Hold Lead in Texas League

By The Associated Press.
 The Fort Worth Cats continue to lead the Texas league with a 4-2 defeat of San Antonio yesterday raising the total to 22 wins and nine losses for the season.

The second place Dallas Rebels beat Houston to the tune of 9-2.

Tulsa grabbed both ends of a double header from Shreveport, Beaumont and Oklahoma City split.

In the Fort Worth-San Antonio battle, Eddie Chandler of the Cats, won his fifth straight mound victory against no defeats this season.

The Cats broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth when Jake Phillips pounded a triple to right center and scored on a single. Another tally in the seventh lengthened the lead.

Lalla scored first against Houston in the opening inning. They added two more in the third, then ran wild in the seventh and eighth to add six more. The Houston Buffs scored once in the third and again in the fifth.

Tulsa eked out a 1-0 win over Shreveport in the opening of a double header. The game was scoreless until the ninth. The Oklahoma man won 2-1 in the second.

Beaumont rode high all the way in the first of a double header with Oklahoma City, winning 8-5. In the second game, Oklahoma City scored twice in the first and again in the fifth to win 3-0.

Babe Ruth Enjoys First Bull Fight

MEXICO CITY—Babe Ruth, the former sultan of the swat, got a bigger kick out of a bull fight than he did a baseball game yesterday.

Oilers Split Series With Dukes, 9-6, 6-10

Pampa's Oilers returned home today from a five game road trip which saw them win three and lose two to retain their game-and-half lead over the Amarillo Gold Sox.

The Oilers won from the Albuquerque Dukes 9-6 Saturday night but lost 10-6 yesterday. Amarillo failed to gain on the Oilers when the Gold Sox divided a two-game series with Abilene.

Weather permitting, the Oilers will meet the Lubbock Cubs tonight at 8:15 in the first of two game series. Fans are urged to keep tuned to radio station KP-DN as announcements will be given at 5 o'clock or 6:15 as to whether the game will be played.

Warren Hacker won his fourth game of the season Saturday night in the Oilers' 9-6 win. Every Oilers batsman hit safely, but Hacker was the real star as he struck out seven and collected two doubles himself.

Starting pitcher Ed Leiker was the loser in Albuquerque's 10-6 Sunday win. The Dukes tamped him for three runs in less than three innings. The Oilers failed to pull ahead, although they rallied in the eighth for three runs.

Hacker, Oiler pitcher, went into right field late in the game, replacing Al Johnston, who pitched the last inning. Hacker hit a home run with two on for the Oilers' three runs in the eighth.

Conn Shows 'Zip' in Eight Spar Rounds
GREENWOOD LAKE, N. J.—(AP)—Billy Conn showed plenty of zip in an eight-round session with four spar mates yesterday.

After working two heats each with Jimmy Smith, Frankie Poreida, Mickey Belluscio and Mickey McAvot, the heavyweight champ, preparing for his title scrap with Billy Conn at the Yankee Stadium June 19, went a round each with Al Hoosman and Perk Daniels and two with Jimmy Bell in his last exhibition before Thursday.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(AP)—Joe Louis continues to pack training in at his training camp, turning away more than 2,000 fans yesterday as he sparred four rounds.

The heavyweight champ, preparing for his title scrap with Billy Conn at the Yankee Stadium June 19, went a round each with Al Hoosman and Perk Daniels and two with Jimmy Bell in his last exhibition before Thursday.

Ferris Shooting For 20 Victories In Second Season

Associated Press Sports Writer
 Dave (Boo) Ferris, the Boston Red Sox drawing righthander from Show, Miss., had a fine start today toward becoming the first pitcher to win 20 or more games in each of his first two years in the major leagues since Jake Weimer turned the trick for Chicago's Clubs in 1903-'04.

Ferris, who last year nabbed 21 victories despite joining the Sox just a few months after receiving his army air corps discharge, boasts five wins without a setback this season following his 4-0 shutout victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday. The 24-year-old sophomore's fine performance gave the American league leaders an even break in the twin bill, for Detroit's Hal Newhouser beat the Sox 3-1 on four hits in the nightcap.

The second place New York Yankees moved within four and a half games of the Red Sox by sweeping their double header with the Indians 2-0 and 7-1 before 53,210, Cleveland's largest crowd of the season.

In the opening game Spud Chandler outpitched Allie Reynolds in a brilliant duel to gain his sixth triumph against one defeat. Red Ruffing, aided by Joe DiMaggio's two-run homer, had an easy time in the nightcap as he chalked up his 297th big league triumph.

St. Louis Cards' manager Eddie Dyer led with his southpaw ace, Max Lanier and Harry Brecheen, and they rewarded him with a 9-5 and 4-0 wins before a Philadelphia crowd of 35,049.

The triumph put the Redbirds back into the National league by one full game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers dropped a full game behind the Cards when they succumbed to the righthander wizardry of veteran Ed Heusser who permitted seven hits in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-0 victory.

The up-and-coming Washington Senators, backed by the Chicago White Sox twice 4-3 and 7-1, coming from behind to win the opener from 45-year-old Ted Lyons with two runs in the ninth. It was Lyons' 28th consecutive complete game over a three-year stretch.

After blowing a 6-0 lead and losing 8-6 to Chicago's Club in the opener, the Boston Braves came back to win the afternoon 5-3 on a three-run seventh inning rally.

In a parade of lefthanders, Pittsburgh and the New York Giants divided a double header, the Pirates winning the opener 3-1 and the Giants the second half 5-1.

Following up a 4-3 opening game decision over the St. Louis Browns, the Philadelphia Athletics unleashed an 18-hit attack, including eight homers, a triple and home run double, a triple and homers by Hal Peck and George McQuinn to swamp the Sewellmen 13-2 in the nightcap.

Don't Look Now, Paris, but There's a Fashion Show in Moscow

Puffy is the word for this little number—an evening gown with puffed ruffles at shoulders, waist and skirt hem. Neckline is much higher than western styles which currently feature décolletage 'way down to there.

Russia's expanding "sphere of influence" will not extend to the fashion front, judging by the Soviet styles recently shown at Moscow's Fashion House. The models seem a far cry from Paris and New York creations and the models an even farther cry from western salons' slim-limbed mannequins. Photos below show Moscow salon and typical styles.

A hefty Russian model displays a white summer suit of lightweight wool. Colorfully patterned gloves and handbag match blouse worn under the suit jacket. The outfit appears something less than "svette."

Teen Talk AP Newsfeatures Dear Judy:

Are you plotting a super suit for the beach? You should glamp the one that Dottie got. It really is a honey. It is a new romper affair with cute little bows on the side and has a matching bra. The shirt-tail beach coat is of the same candy striped material. It really looked dreamy on me—if I must say it myself. Now I'm trying to persuade my mother to get me one something like it. Only the one I want is gingham and has cute little ruffles all around the rompers. It's gonna take a lot of baby sitting to buy it—but it'll be worth it. If you haven't heard who won the Doebla Art competition open to students, here's the news: Florence Smith of Washington Irving High school in New York won first prize with her tempera showing an 18th century dandy and his lady entering a carriage on a snowy night. Second prize winner, Marion Goy of Tuley High school in Chicago, did a gay backyard scene with a mother ranging out clothes while children are riding bicycles on the lawn. Sidney Levy of Hazelton, Pa., high school won the third prize. He did a watercolor of a group of people singing carols before church on Christmas Eve. Speaking of campaigns to get the girls vitamin conscious, Herman Amster, a New York druggist who started a cosmetics club for girls where its 2,000 members could get cosmetic information, advance notice of sales and special offers, came up with a new idea. He urged all his members to try vitamins and discover that "beauty is more than skin deep." Agreed? Or have you given up your carrot and spinach program? Well we really had a jam session the other night. All the kids got together and went swingero for the evening. We had the Benny Goodman album and really worked it to murder. "Tiger Rag," one of the most popular Goodman favorites, is now recorded with Slam Stewart's growls and the low register clarinet chorus. Some of the kids wrote in from Warren, Ohio, with a list of questions about beauty, boys, dates and parents. Can't tell you who they are because I promised to keep it a secret. One thing they want to know is whether girls of fashion should have dates. What do the other kids think? Most of the deb-hops here think it's old-hat to have a date all alone with a boy. The kids have more fun in groups—and the parents like it better too. Will give you another of their questions next letter. Meanwhile, Be Good, Good, Good. VIVIAN. Sharing a party-line telephone! If you're sharing a telephone party line, you're helping someone else here have telephone service now. Otherwise he'd likely be waiting his turn for service. Party-line service is one way of stretching the telephone system here—to serve as many people as possible now instead of asking some to wait until we've had time to put in the wires and cables and switching equipment needed to serve everybody who is waiting. It's a big job—catching up with four years of backed-up demand. But we're hard at it. As soon as possible, we'll bring service to everybody who is waiting for it. And, after that, we expect to be able to furnish one-family telephone service to those who want it. "GOOD NEIGHBOR" SUGGESTIONS for party-liners Before calling, please listen to see whether the line is in use. If it is, hang up gently and try your call again a little later. When talking, remember your party-line neighbor—he may want to make a call—so please be reasonably brief. Between calls, try to allow a little time so the other people on the line may have the opportunity to use it. Ask the children to follow these good neighbor suggestions, too. Thanks a lot. THE TIME HAS COME

At about the same time that John L. Lewis, in his infinite mercy, was deciding to let the nation's life continue at a slowed-down semblance of normal for another fortnight, a statement from Sen. Claude Pepper was read to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' convention in Atlantic City. The senator regretted that he could not make a scheduled appearance, but explained that he was staying in Washington "to help carry on the fight to protect labor."

That statement, coming when it did, might have seemed a trifle ironic to some. But obviously it didn't to Mr. Pepper or to the ACW convention. Indeed, the convention seemed somewhat perturbed.

It sent a message to Mr. Pepper stating that "it would be nothing short of calamitous if the forces of reaction were permitted to capitalize on the national crisis precipitated by the coal strike in order to force through ill conceived and hastily considered legislation aimed at the destruction of the hard-won rights of labor." The message also asked that the coal strike be considered and dealt with "on its own merits."

There is much good sense in the ACW's warning and request. Certainly, there is little to be gained in angry legislation aimed solely at Mr. Lewis's swift and personal punishment. One such piece of legislation is still on the books—the Smith-Connally wartime strikes act, which, directed specifically at Mr. Lewis, was applied generally with harmful and ridiculous results.

By all means, the coal strike should be dealt with on its own merits. And in all honesty, the facts and merits in the case are these: The strike and its consequences are not basically the fault of Mr. Lewis or of labor, but of a law of the land, enacted by the United States congress, which allows and all but invites such a strike.

Under the Wagner Act, any labor leader with as important a union and as much brain, brass, and bluster as Mr. Lewis possesses, could not do the same thing. The steel workers could do it. So could the transport workers, the teamsters who haul our foodstuffs, the workers who supply our communities with light and water, and others. It is one of the "hard-won rights of labor."

It seems to us that it will be "nothing short of calamitous" if this particular "right" is not in some measure curbed and amended. The amending need not be done in anger, since congress has only itself to blame for the present condition. Nor does it need to be aimed at the destruction of the hard-won rights of labor when those rights are legitimate and to the public good. The remedy does not even need to be drastic.

The time has come, however, when employe representatives, no less than employers, must be held accountable for failure to act in good faith. The time has come to revoke the license which permits John L. Lewises to engage legally in practices which would be illegal if they were not John L. Lewises.

Until that is done, Mr. Lewis can continue or resume his cannily stage-managed role of economic boss of the United States, when and as it pleases him. Until that is done, no one, not even the President, has the legal power to raise a hand to stay him.

Thoughts From a Meeting of The Society of Individualists

I want to quote a couple of statements made at the annual meeting of The Society of Individualists in Longton, N. H., which I enjoyed very much reading the printed proceedings.

In an address before this meeting, Dr. Douglas, professor of history at Bryn Mawr, gave a warning to the English people about the prospects of their losing, by compulsory health insurance, the right to select their own doctors.

"I wonder whether the ordinary Englishman is really looking forward to becoming just a mere number on some enormous card index, to be treated and physically massaged according to the latest administrative policy initiated from Whitehall. I think the idea is repulsive."

State Education
Professor Douglas goes on to say:

"Even more repulsive do I find certain trends in our educational policy. School after school is being based on typecast, or bribed, to come under the ever closer and closer control of the Board of Education or the Local Education Authority."

"I think there is a great case to be made out for the independent school, dispensing an independent type of education. But it is not of the school I am thinking at the moment. It is of the ordinary Englishman in his capacity of patient. I think there is a deep question here. I think it is a monstrous suggestion to say that the Englishman has ceased to be capable of selecting the type of education he thinks best for his children. I think it is a still more monstrous suggestion to make to say that he will not make that choice any more with loving care."

"To my mind this question goes very deep. The road towards dictatorship and serfdom in every country of Europe has started with the State trying to get into the minds of little children and moulding them on a uniform scale and pattern. . . . This is the beginning of totalitarianism in one of its worst forms."

The American people should realize how rapidly they are approaching the European system of controlling the minds of the youth by way of local boards of education via the state, by way of the bureaucrats. Professor Douglas warns very clearly the cause of so much statism, so much control of the rights of the individual. . . . One reason why England stood up is that its leaders were not taught by the state. They were taught in private schools or by private tutors. Even through the ages the great moral benefactors of humanity have never been

WHY IS THE ARMY RUSHING BOMBERS TO GERMANY?

(The Christian Century)

According to the Associated Press the United States army is feverishly building up a huge airplane striking force in Germany. After V-E Day, says the A.P., our air forces in Europe were allowed to go down until there were not more than 38,000 men there in that branch of the service, and great quantities of planes were sent back to America or junked. Now, how back to 50,000 men, and there are to be 71,000 "highly trained men ready for any emergency" by July 1. Huge bombers and the speediest types of new fighter planes are being rushed in. Two hundred B-29s, which were never used in the European war, have already been shipped and 300 more are on order. Hundreds of A-26s, a new and faster attack bomber, are being sent into Germany. The first shipment of P-80s, the sensational jet fighter plane, has reached Bremen and more are on the way. Four big new fields for these planes are being rushed to completion in France and four more are to be built in Germany. The picture, as the A.P. gives it, is one of extreme haste, with the army air command going all out to get a tremendous force concentrated in France and Germany within the next two months. Why? What national policy lies behind such a rush to get this plainly is to this particular overseas spot at this time?

Jap Postal System To Be Reestablished

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Joseph W. Lasman, Dallas, Texas, postoffice inspector, has been selected as one of nine men to go to Japan at the request of General MacArthur and devise means of reestablishing the war-disrupted postal system there.

The earliest relief may be expected in the harvest of 1947 crops. Studies by FAO food experts, economists, and statisticians who have been working on the problem indicate that Europe and North Africa will be a third short on grains next year. It may be three or four years before seed and fertilizer are available in quantities adequate to supply feed for poultry and dairy and meat animals for normal food supplies.

WASHINGTON

CONTRACTS—The nation's record-breaking, postwar army of vacationers in the forests, mountains, canyons and streams of the federal government's vast park areas—Yosemite, Yellowstone, Glacier, Grand Canyon and even less famous spots in the South, Middle West and East—will eventually enjoy these paradise places for far less money than it costs now. They can become almost as inexpensive as a night at Coney Island.

But there is a catch, as the house appropriations committee learned when a special subcommittee visited and investigated the principal areas under the general supervision of the National Park Service. Their discoveries led them to ask why former Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, apostle of conservation and friend of the "forgotten man," did not try to remedy conditions during his long tenure in the cabinet.

The delay in reduction of vacation costs is due to the fact that the contracts permitting private concessionaires to reap huge profits will not expire for several years—from 1950 on.

Next summer's tourists will spend an estimated six billion dollars at the present stiff rates negotiated by Mr. Ickes and his predecessors.

SHOCKED—The appropriations committee's shocked members spotlighted Yosemite National park in their special inquiry, but they learned that similar or worse conditions exist in almost all the other resorts owned and maintained but not operated by Uncle Sam. The Yosemite concession does not expire until 1952.

The existing contract with the Yosemite Park and Curry company was executed in the closing months of the Hoover administration in 1932 by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who became secretary of the interior after he resigned as president of Leland Stanford university.

The concessionaire corporation is owned chiefly by a group in which the family of Don Tresidder, the present head of Leland Stanford, has heavy holdings. The Tresidder-Curry family controls 147,842 of 340,000 shares.

HIGH—Even after deducting what a committee member characterized as "substantial salaries" from a gross revenue of $2,900,000 in the wartime year of 1944, the corporation declared dividends of $162,626.20.

Uncle Sam's "take" was a meager $5,000 for that period. For that return the government maintains the roads, supplies, light and power, handles garbage disposal, and provides police, fire and forest protection for the operators and millions of annual visitors. Like all other parks and amusement centers, Yosemite looks toward an unprecedented increase in the next few years. Large original investment in facilities, but it is contended that it has been repaid already. If the contract is not renewed with the present holders on its expiration six years hence, the government or the succeeding concessionaire must reimburse the Y. P. and C. Co. for its pending at a negotiated figure. Most of the present facilities and equipment were installed or built at depression rates.

The congressional investigators maintain that the prices charged for lodging, food, bus trips, services, sports supplies and all forms of entertainment are outrageously high. They demand the rates be reduced in future agreements affecting all national parks, memorials and resorts or that the government operate them at cost.

SURPLUS—The Brown-Manasco controversy over the proposed waste, graft and mismanagement in the disposal of surplus property marks the first serious start of an anti-administration campaign to survey the Roosevelt-Truman conduct of the war and subsequent problems arising from the conflict.

Representative Clarence J. Brown, a republican bigwig as a member of the powerful rules committee, has proposed the appointment of a special group to conduct the inquiry. He has two major objectives in urging a more sweeping examination than a regularly constituted committee might make.

The Ohioan figures that an extraordinary body would have the time to produce evidence to support current charges before November, and thus affect the decisions of a special group to conduct the inquiry. He has two major objectives in urging a more sweeping examination than a regularly constituted committee might make.

My observation is that while the Indians certainly aren't prepared to accept anything short of absolute independence, the most of them do want or expect that the British shall forthwith get out of the country.

MACKENZIE'S Column

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The British socialist government's empire-rocking decision to quit India and Egypt was impelled mainly by two factors, we are told by John A. Parris, an Associated Press correspondent in London. These are:

1. Britain's need for trade and the consequent necessity of maintaining good relations with potential markets.
2. Because of the development of the atomic bomb, imperial defense no longer DEWITT MACKENZIE requires the presence of huge armies in places like Egypt and India.

In the contrary, maintenance of troops in such countries is worth the risk of creating political warfare. Members of the British government say England is determined to eliminate from her policy anything which might cause hostility and mistrust on the part of other nations.

To these reasons I think we must add another or let us say, place a rather wider interpretation on those already given. The new epoch upon which our old world is entering, provides no parking space for imperialism, or different races which bination of different races which are held together by anything else than ties of blood, friendship and mutual interest.

England, having recognized this trend a quarter of a century ago, was under an actual protectorate during World War I and when the British commonwealth of nations in which the sovereignty of the dominions was acknowledged, is now further tiding up her house. It is a great contribution to world peace.

So far as Egypt is concerned, while she isn't a part of the British empire, she has been under what amounted to a protectorate. She was under an actual protectorate during World War I and when the British commonwealth of nations in which the sovereignty of the dominions was acknowledged, is now further tiding up her house. It is a great contribution to world peace.

Most of the British classes, however, she isn't a part of the British empire, she has been under what amounted to a protectorate. She was under an actual protectorate during World War I and when the British commonwealth of nations in which the sovereignty of the dominions was acknowledged, is now further tiding up her house. It is a great contribution to world peace.

As regards Britain's offer to give India complete independence and withdrawal from the country, it is only fair to say that this isn't an idea born overnight in an emergency. England made an offer of domination status in 1942 when the mission under Sir Stafford Cripps was sent out there. That failed.

The situation has continued to be one in which there could be only one of two answers—Indian independence or a terrific upheaval of that sub-continent.

The British government has placed no strings on the offers, though it expresses the hope that India will choose to remain an independent member of the British commonwealth.

My observation is that while the Indians certainly aren't prepared to accept anything short of absolute independence, the most of them do want or expect that the British shall forthwith get out of the country.

Indeed when I was in India three years ago there were many Indian leaders who wanted and expected Britain to assist in establishing a provisional government which might be agreed to.

the part in the proposed inventory of war and postwar deals.

FOOD POLICY NEEDED TO PREVENT DEFECTION
This is tremendously important. Under present food shortage conditions, all food prices are abnormally high. The desire of many countries to buy ahead, to contract now for 1947 purchases, only tends to drive prices higher.

High prices are a normal stimulus to increase production. But, at the end of a four or five-year period, most countries were back in a more or less self-sustaining basis, the danger of over-production and a resulting collapse in food price levels would be great if it could well lead to world-wide financial depression.

The job cut out for FAO is to keep a constant survey of world food requirements, production and distribution. Then it can advise individual countries on action that can be taken to avert disaster. The Food and Agriculture organization itself may prove to be too unwieldy to take over the problems of world food allocations. Consideration is being given, however, to the setting up of commissions or corporations to avert disaster. The necessary international trading in fertilizers, farm machinery, feed and livestock, and human foodstuffs.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Our nomination for the best acting performance of the week goes today to Miss Joan Bennett. While the camera's inquisitive eyes peered through a tent-flap, Joan looked "a little like after" for a fleeting shot in the picture, "The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber."

It was Director Zoltan Korda's idea, we must report, but Joan followed through like a Barrymore. After all, looking "a little like after" is quite a trick.

The movie is about an African lion-hunt, based on a 22-page short story by Ernest Hemingway. Joan and her husband (Robert Preston) are hunting lions, with a handsome devil named Gregory Peck as their guide.

It isn't long before Joan, a lady with a roving eye finds Peck much more exciting than lions. (Hollywood has a way of a triangle, even in the desert.) So one night Joan snips her tent and climbs back into bed, unmindful that husband Preston had awakened and knew what was going on all the time.

A PRETTY PROBLEM
Joan wondered just how she should look as the camera followed her back to bed.

Director Korda thought for a while and then said: "I think Joan should just look a little like after." So Joan looked "a little like after," thereby winning our nomination for the best acting performance of the week.

"The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber"—and you can bet the title will be changed—is Hemingway's best, short story. Producer Benedict Bogeaus bought the film rights for $85,000.

The lion-hunting sequences will be filmed near Rosarita beach, in Mexico, about 50 miles below San Diego.

The company is taking along a big rubber buffalo, which Preston has to "shoot." But Preston himself is the "biggest game on the hunt." Joan shoots him right between the eyes with a high-powered rifle and stands trial for his murder. As you can see, it's a mighty exciting plot.

PECK HAS THREE BOSSES
While Joan was looking "a little like after," we sat on the set's sidelines and talked to Peck. Three studios, Fox, M-G-M, and David O. Selznick, share his contract now.

He said his next picture probably will be based on the life of the traitor Benedict Arnold.

"Selznick sees me as a heavy," he said, "but after 'Duel in the Sun' I don't think I ever want to play another heel."

Peck, along with everyone else in Hollywood, is amazed at Selznick's million-dollar "Duel in the Sun" publicity campaign. The other day, Paul MacNamara, was called down by the manager of the RKO-Pathé studio.

MacNamara slapped the follow on the back in what he thought was a gesture of good fellowship," said Peck. "But as he walked out of MacNamara's office, all of the secretaries got hysterical. Stuck on the guy's back was a big 'Duel in the Sun' label."

Life was simple for me when I was an isolationist—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) of Michigan, at Big Four conference in Paris.

any money of my own until I started working here, and what's left out of that each week doesn't amount to much. It's going to feel funny to have a lot of money all my own. Not that we're poor," she added hurriedly. "We've well off now, ever since we got that insurance money. It's just having some all my own. That'll take some getting used to."

"Sure," said Mr. Nickerson. "Funny about that insurance money," she went on musingly. "Sometimes it seems as though it was what made all the difference. Before we got it, I try to make a dollar was like pulling teeth. Only I'll ever had was once when Ellie struck it right on striped bass, shippin' 'em to Boston, and got a hundred and fifty dollars, and gosh, if you could've seen the way we planned and argued and fussed over how we were going to spend that hundred and fifty dollars."

By HAL BOYLE

BERLIN—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, alive or dead, is becoming a German legend—comparable to Siegfried or Friedrich Barbarossa.

One year after his weird and cloudy downfall, the little man with the mustache still has a strange hold upon the affections of his defeated people.

They don't curse him as the Italians curse Mussolini. Hitler has a secure place in their minds and memories because the Teuton clings to his leader longer than other folk.

Many Germans who disliked Nazi extremes and now foresee decades of humiliation and economic slavery for their nation still look back longingly on the man who brought them to this story dilemma. They find excuses for the inhuman excesses practiced in his name. They want to keep him in their hearts without stain out of old loyalty, as a fond son would overlook the sins of a spite father. This applies to young as well as to middle aged Germans.

"Hitler was a sincere idealist who tried to do the best he could for his country," one intelligent, well educated girl told me. "He was a German through and through. He didn't know the man who brought that were done in his name. He was betrayed by men around him who withheld information from him."

"In the last months of the war he broke down under the strain and did things he normally wouldn't do. He wasn't crazy, but sometimes he didn't know quite what he was doing."

There is no widespread wish to have Hitler back, but even those who opposed him are glad of one fact—that he isn't being tried as a war criminal.

"It is well that he died on the battlefield," said one German. "It would have been a national shame to have had our fuhrer sit before a foreign court to be condemned to death. We wouldn't like that."

Most Germans believe Hitler is dead. Among the lower classes, however, there are thousands who think him still alive and perhaps still even in this country. Some fanatical followers have elevated him to the rank of demi-God and believe he will return at some future hour to restore his battered fatherland.

Debbie: when the trap poles were driven and the nets started were driven and the fishing started there were many times when it was nothing but nerve and asphyxiation that carried her through the long hard days in the office. Her circle of acquaintance was spreading out over the Cape; at every party she met new people, and at their houses she met more new people. There were few unmarried girls, unless you counted high school kids, and the Cape at that time of year, said Debbie, with her thoughtful frown, was a pleasant, husky voice and her figure and her passive, watchful reserve, which kept her from ever making plays for other girls' men, was increasingly in demand.

Only once during the summer did Debbie go over to see the Wynmans. That was enough; she had had a desire to go again.

All the time when she was sitting there on the porch with them, with everybody acting in the same old way, cracking the same old jokes, talking the same old talk of boats and crabs and bird dogs, and blues and ducks and bird dogs, that they felt in some subtle way that they were watching her, appraising her and the changes she had made it herself—and not approving.

Strangely enough, the only one of them who said anything was Mrs. Wynman, and what she said she said so quietly and casually that the fact she had said it didn't really impress itself on Debbie's mind until she got home.

Debbie had been telling them about a party in Provincetown she had been to, and Mrs. Wynman had asked softly, "You're learning a great deal, aren't you, Debbie?" Debbie had smiled deprecatingly and said, "Well, I'm getting around a lot more than I used to."

And Mrs. Wynman had bent over her knitting and said, "You're learning a lot, aren't you, Debbie?" Debbie had smiled deprecatingly and said, "Well, I'm getting around a lot more than I used to."

And then the conversation had gone right along and it wasn't until Debbie got home that Mrs. Wynman had said, "You're learning a lot, aren't you, Debbie?" Debbie had smiled deprecatingly and said, "Well, I'm getting around a lot more than I used to."

A NEW KIND OF LIFE
XXX
It was an elegant office, its walls unpaneled and insulating board, it's only light a strong one hanging from the middle of the ceiling, its furniture—ill-sorted shiny oak, blackened walnut, and green paint. And there was always a scattering of cans around, sand lodged in the corners of the window sills and tracked across the floor and on the table and sometimes even inside the pages of the big ledger.

But the walls were covered with charts and unframed pictures of famous racing schooners. All in all, Debbie thought, it was the way the office of a freezer ought to be. And now, after a year and two months of sitting in the middle of it, she was beginning to feel possessive toward it, although it had certainly never occurred to her that she might ever actually own part of it.

"There are two hundred and fifty shares in the company authorized and not subscribed. That's fifty a piece for the five of you," Mr. Nickerson said at the meeting.

Debbie poked his elbow with her penit and wiggled her finger, pointing along the line at the four men. "Four," she said, holding up four fingers.

"You're the fifth," said Mr. Nickerson. "Me?" "Why not? Aren't you an important part of this business?" She looked at him blankly, her lips parted. "Am I?" "Of course you are."

"Gee," she said, and all the men laughed. Later, when she had a chance to talk to Mr. Nickerson alone, she said, "Gee, that was swell of you, cutting me in like that." She straightened up and smiled into his face, and gradually her eyes grew thoughtful. "I never had

However, lest these talks follow last week's pattern and wind up in a new stalemate, the government pressed its efforts to soften the blow of the strike if it does come off.

Under consideration are plans for the army and navy to fly first class mail and for the diversion of vital foods and other critical freight to air, water and highway transportation.

One of the first actions of Federal Manager Charles H. Buford after taking over the 337 seized lines was to direct the railroads to hire new men to replace strikers wherever possible and to call upon the army for protective troops if necessary.

Iran Situation

(Continued from page 1) appointed military governor of the city. CURFEW ANNOUNCED Reuters said the broadcast announced an 11 p. m. curfew and proclaimed the death penalty for violators.

BBC said the Tabriz station interrupted a transmission in recorded music at 6:30 p. m. London Time (1:30 a. m. Central Standard Time) yesterday to announce the alleged attack.

(NBC in New York quoted BBC as saying that the Tabriz radio reported that casualties had been inflicted on an unspecified number of central government forces, and that 40 central government soldiers had been taken prisoner.)

There were no reports of Russian participation or direct assistance to Azerbaijan.

The reported outbreaks came on the eve of the deadline fixed by the United Nations security council for a report by the Iranian central government on whether Russian troops had been evacuated from Iran.

Premier Ahmed Qavam from Iran informed the council Saturday night that he was still unable to ascertain whether the Russians had withdrawn.

Negotiations between officials of the self-styled Azerbaijan democratic government and the Iranian central government on the possible return of Azerbaijan to the jurisdiction of Tehran broke down last week.

Joseph C. Goodwin, Associated Press correspondent in Iran, reported in a delayed dispatch from Tabriz that the city was an armed camp, with the three-month-old Azerbaijan army preparing for any eventuality.

Goodwin's dispatch, which was written Saturday but was delayed 24 hours in a telegraph office in Tehran, said the uniformed Russian army had completely evacuated the strength of the Azerbaijan jan.

He said that there was some doubt, however, whether all of the Russian armor had been removed from Azerbaijan and quoted informants as saying that some armor was seen moving southward last week.

Every second man in Tabriz is in uniform, Goodwin said. Troops with tommyguns patrol the streets and airport. Troops who marched in a review last Friday were followed by warriors and Azerbaijan youth wearing bandoliers. Small boys, goose-stepping and carrying toy guns, brought up the rear.

Previous dispatches had estimated the strength of the Azerbaijan army at about 24,000 men and the Iranian army at between 60,000 and 80,000. The Azerbaijan troops have been reported attired in Russian-type uniforms.

Goodwin said that a Tehran commission arrived in Tabriz Friday to check on whether Russian troops had withdrawn, and was met at the airport by Azerbaijan officials.

He said the Tabriz radio and newspapers were urging last week that the dispute with Iran be settled on a friendly basis, with the provision that what was termed the "Azerbaijan Liberal Program" be retained and even extended to the rest of Iran.

Wheat Being Shipped To Market by Truck FORT WORTH (AP)—The Southwest's wheat crop was moving to market by truck in volume today. Burrus Mill and Elevator company, largest receiver of the grain in Ft. Worth, was unloading the truckloads of wheat at the rate of 3,500 bushels per hour.

The truck shipments started Friday. By this morning some 230 trucks had hauled more than 100,000 bushels into the elevators, officials estimated. In all, almost 1,000,000 bushels are expected at the mill by truck before the run tapers off in about 10 days.

Pete Riddle, head grain buyer, said the wheat was coming from around Vernon, Chillicothe, and Electra, in Texas, and Tillam and Chattanooga, in Oklahoma. Farmers in those areas were harvesting 18 to 20 bushels per acre for "an exceptionally good yield," Riddle said.

Instructors Courses' In Water Safety Set

Red Cross Water Safety Instructor courses are being planned with the expectation of holding them within the next two or three weeks, stated Jack Skelly, water safety chairman of the Pampa Red Cross chapter, this morning.

Time of classes and pool fees have not yet been determined. The two divisions of water safety classes, junior and senior, are to be given by Noel Blackwood, Bernie Brown and Glenn Emrick, qualified Red Cross water safety instructors.

Qualifications for those entering the junior instructors' course (12 to 16 years of age) are: 1) ability to swim 100 yards using the crawl, back and side strokes; 2) do surface dive and swim two body lengths' distance under water; 3) float on back for one minute; and 4) tread water for one minute.

Qualifications for entering the senior classes (15 years and over) are the above plus the ability to swim 220 yards.

Persons interested in enrolling in the classes may do so at the swimming pool or at the Girl Scout office.

ALEXANDRIA (AP)—Two British soldiers and a military policeman were stoned by an Egyptian crowd yesterday after a British truck collided with a streetcar, injuring four persons among whom were three Egyptian policemen.

The British were rescued by two truckloads of special Egyptian police.

Goodwin's dispatch, which was written Saturday but was delayed 24 hours in a telegraph office in Tehran, said the uniformed Russian army had completely evacuated the strength of the Azerbaijan jan.

He said that there was some doubt, however, whether all of the Russian armor had been removed from Azerbaijan and quoted informants as saying that some armor was seen moving southward last week.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN My goodness, a St. Louis eye expert says we all ought to wear glasses because nature intended our eyes only for long-distance work, like hunting, and most people are using them for close-up stuff at desks and machines, not to mention windy corners.

Personally, I know there's nothing wrong with my eyesight. With one eye I can spot a quarter of a pound of butter at a thousand yards right through the clerk's pick off a hat sale over my left shoulder with the other.

Maybe we do use our faculties in a slightly different way than nature meant, but what of it? Some expert will be telling us next that we should all live in trees because nature intended us to. Come to think of it, that's exactly what a lot of us are doing.

Flour Distribution Starting in Japan TOKYO (AP)—The distribution of 8,705 long tons of wheat flour from the United States will be started in the Tokyo-Yokohama area this week, Capt. H. F. Smith, Allied chief of staple foods, said today.

The normal ration distribution is running from eight to 10 days behind schedule with the food situation at a "critical stage," Smith said.

More than 2,000,000 gas ranges in the United States are operated with liquefied petroleum gas.

The conference named Secretary Anderson its permanent chairman. Hoover said the food administration he suggested should take over the food and agriculture activities of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration and the British-Canadian-American combined food board, as well as all other world agencies connected with food and agriculture.

Hoover said the food administration, which he suggested be named the United Nations food administration, be directed by a single food administrator and a small advisory committee.

He said that it should be the administration's purpose to return to normal commerce the food, fertilizer and farm supply business of the world "with all speed possible."

"Moreover," he said, "the world must quit charity as a basis of widespread flood distribution. I cannot too strongly emphasize that charitable distribution is hugely wasteful and inefficient."

DOUBLE TROUBLE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Giving up hope of finding another apartment after receiving an eviction notice, Kenneth Gruse, 22, marine veteran, started loading his trailer, preparing to go back to his home town, Tulsa, Okla.

He made the last trip back into the house, to get his radio. Gruse is still here, listening to that radio, wondering who drove off with his car, his trailer and his household goods.

While awaiting dinner, Vivian Truman and his sons took the President out to the barn and showed him a new milking machine. Hundreds of motorists, hearing the President was at the home, drove past hoping to get a glimpse of him.

Byrnes Launches 'Offensive for Peace' Giving Russia a Choice

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes gave Russia its choice today:
Stop blocking a European peace conference this summer, else the United States will walk out of the dragging big four treaty talks and carry the whole matter before the United Nations.
Proclaiming an American "offensive for peace," Byrnes left no doubt in his radio address to the nation last night that it would be carried out even at the expense of the basic postwar ideal that the great victor nations should act in unison to fashion the future.

The cabinet officer made it perfectly plain that he held Russia responsible for the disappointing outcome of the foreign ministers conference which recessed in Paris last Thursday until June 15.
His formal report on that conference listed a half dozen outstanding issues with Moscow on which he indicated the United States would not compromise.

From the aggressive but confident tone of his speech, however, it was apparent—and officials confirmed this—that Byrnes is counting on Moscow conference between Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Premier Stalin during the recess to reverse or modify the Russian position on these questions.
On the one looming biggest in his estimate—the making of peace treaties so that the nations of Europe can begin to "live and breathe" again, Byrnes declared he was confident that there would be a peace conference of the European nations and other interested powers this summer.

Recalling that at Paris Molotov blocked such a proposal, Byrnes said this power to stop "efforts toward peace" must not be left to any one nation.
The half dozen top problems which Byrnes listed as involving

Russia are these:
1. The holding of a peace conference. He said that when the big four reconvene June 15 the United States will insist on a peace conference for either July 1 or 15, whether or not the big powers have agreed on treaty drafts.
2. Solution of the problem of Trieste. This is the main obstacle in writing a peace treaty for Italy, Byrnes said the United States, Britain and France favor a settlement of this boundary-territory dispute along an ethnic or nationality line which would give Trieste, and not all the surrounding to Italy. Russia uncompromisingly backed Yugoslavia's claim to the entire area.

3. Future economic arrangements in the Balkans. Byrnes said the United States is insisting on economic clauses in the Bulgarian, Romanian and Bulgarian treaties which would develop free commerce in the eastern and central European nations. Particularly he declared that if Russia opposes "exclusive political and economic blocs" Molotov will not continue to refuse to allow these nations "to open their gates to the commerce of all."

4. Long range suppression of Germany. Byrnes said that while his proposal for a 25-year big four alliance to control Germany received British and French support, he also had thought Russia would go along because Stalin had promised to do so at Moscow last December. Molotov, however, opposed the treaty, and it did not go through.

5. A German peace treaty. Byrnes proposed at Paris, but the Russians blocked a plan for creating a council of special deputies who would begin at once the task of drawing up permanent peace arrangements with the beaten Reich. The Russian objection to this was that Molotov could not

Big Hungarian River Fleet Is Raided by U. S.

VILSHOFEN, Germany—(AP)—Four thousand American troops, striking by surprise at dawn today, raided a Hungarian river fleet suspected of smuggling SS fugitives, ammunition and black market supplies along the Danube river in Southeastern Germany.
Vilshofen is on the Danube 12 miles northwest of Passau, which is on the Austrian-German border.
Nearly 400 boats, including many former units of the Hungarian navy, were boarded and searched by heavily armed U. S. constabulary troops. Hundreds of the boats' occupants were removed for investigation by U. S. army counter-intelligence agents. The report said that many machineguns and other weapons, radio transmitters and receivers, quantities of U. S. army food, clothing and other contraband were found.
No armed resistance was encountered. The only shots fired were by American troops at three German river patrol boats cooperating in the raid, which were improperly marked and slow in heeding commands to halt. One German patrolman was wounded.
The raids covered a 45-mile stretch of the Danube from the Austrian border to Degendorf.
At least 30 of the vessels seized—including 12 gunboats—were part of the Hungarian navy and fought alongside the Nazis against the Russians, army officials said.
Aboard them were believed to be several hundred ex-enemy sailors and high ranking officers of the Hungarian navy who fled from the Black Sea up the Danube ahead of Soviet forces near the end of the war and found sanctuary in the American occupation zone. There they remained comparatively unmolested for a year.
Counter-intelligence agents declined to explain the long delay in See U. S. RAID, Page 8

Polio Victims Hospitalized at Lubbock Today

(By The Associated Press)
Two victims of poliomyelitis were hospitalized at Lubbock in West Texas today as the southern part of the state continued its fight against an epidemic of the disease.
A Lubbock physician said the two patients had contracted the illness "elsewhere."
The victims were Marion Nevitt, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Nevitt, whose condition was described as very serious, and Robbie Webb, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Webb, whose legs were paralyzed.
A McAllen, Texas, school teacher, Mrs. Robert Bell, was taken to a San Antonio hospital today for treatment of what her physician diagnosed as a mild case of polio.
John Gregory, McAllen superintendent of schools, this morning closed the school in which she had been teaching. Other schools will finish their terms tomorrow.
New reports of polio and encephalitis cases were received yesterday from the South Texas area as clean-up campaigns continued precautionary efforts.
Three suspect cases and one positive case of polio were reported yesterday at San Antonio. A six-year-old boy, a suspect since Saturday, was listed as the latest case.
Georgia Mae Kubala, 12, of Columbus, Texas, was brought to a Houston hospital for treatment as a polio victim.

Farmers Strike Against Union, Local Dissolved

LOCKNEY—(AP)—A local of the American federation of grain processors whose members worked for a Lockney alfalfa mill had been dissolved today, following the "strike" of a south plain farmers association against the union.
The farmers, members of the Lockney alfalfa growers association, agreed in a resolution not to sell any of their product to the Denver alfalfa mill and products company as long as union members were employed there.
Dissolution of the union climaxed developments at the mill during the past two weeks. Normally the mill opens with the cutting of the first alfalfa crop during the first week in May. Operations remained at a standstill yesterday.
In their resolution, the growers said: "A small labor unit is preventing operation of the mill and is thereby detrimental to the farmers of this area in that the mill cannot handle any hay crop."
Earl Rogers, chairman of the union local was out of town and could not be reached for a statement.
George T. Wilson, manager of the mill, said: "We are strictly neutral."
Following is the resolution:
"We, the Alfalfa Growers association of Lockney, Texas, being in a meeting assembled, have reached the following conclusions:
1. That the alfalfa mill of the Denver Alfalfa Milling & Products Co., located at Lockney, Texas, is a definite asset to the farmers of the area and that it is absolutely necessary that this mill operate if the present hay crop is to be handled.
2. From our view point it is apparent that the union is preventing the operation of this mill and is thereby detrimental to the farmers of this area in that the mill cannot handle the hay crop.
3. Therefore we resolve among ourselves that we will not sell to any labor union, any alfalfa as long as a union labor man is employed at said mill. Furthermore we refuse to employ any of our farms or in our fields and we will not allow any member of any labor union to operate a harrow or any other equipment on our fields.
4. Furthermore we as members of the above mentioned association hereby declare that we will refuse to deal with any merchant who extends credit to any member of any labor union.
5. We as individuals are of the opinion that the labor union formed at the local alfalfa mill is attempting to dictate the wage policy of the community. We have lived and prospered and paid for our farms without the aid from a labor union for the past 50 years and we feel that we can continue to progress without the aid or dictates of a labor union.

Five Officers Killed In New York Crash

NEW YORK—(AP)—An Army transport plane, lost in dense fog as it groped for Newark air base, smashed into the world's fourth tallest building amid the towers of the New York financial district last night and hurled four army officers and a WAC lieutenant to instantaneous death.
The plane, a twin-engine Bechcraft C-45, sped out of a 400-foot overcast and struck the 99th floor of the 71-story 937-foot high bank of the Manhattan company on Wall street. The plane disintegrated in a blinding flash and showers of flaming debris fell to the pavement.
"NOTHING BUT FLAME"
John Gunther, a Chase National bank guard, who was an eyewitness, said: "It showered down like a rain of fire."
Another witness said "the flames seemed to pour down from floor to floor."
Occupants of the building, estimated at the time by police as between 300 and 2,000, were not injured. Five persons were struck by flaming particles in the street below.
EXAMINATION BEGINS
A five man army investigating board, ordered formed an hour after the crash, began an examination of the tragedy today. The board visited the scene, made technical inspections and interviewed witnesses.
Army officials said the plane was on a navigational training flight from Beaumont, Texas, to Newark.

Ala Informs U. N. Council Of Activities

NEW YORK—(AP)—Hopes of effecting an early settlement of the vexing problems of Iran, scheduled for consideration by the United Nations Security Council tomorrow, faded today following a new Iranian charge that "Soviet interference in the internal affairs of Iran has not ceased."
Furthermore, Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala informed the council in a report last night, "if the reports of armed conflict in this strategically—critical area are true, obviously the danger to the international peace and security is both serious and imminent."
NO INFORMATION
He added, however, that he had received no "authentic information with respect to the reported clashes" between central government troops and forces of the self-proclaimed autonomous government of Azerbaijan province in northern Iran.
Ala said his government had been unable to investigate reports that "Soviet soldiers have been left in Azerbaijan in civilian clothes and that military equipment has been placed at the disposal" of the self-proclaimed autonomous government.

Lourdes Grotto Dedication Held

In out-of-door ceremonies impressive in their simplicity and sincerity the newly finished Lourdes Grotto of the Holy Souls church was dedicated last night.
The grotto will be known as the "Grotto to Our Lady of Lourdes," in commemoration of apparitions of the Virgin Mary appearing 18 times to 14-year-old Bernadette Soubirous in Lourdes, France, in 1854, in honor of the Virgin Mary.
Erected in the yard between the church and the rectory, the grotto is made of cemented rocks triangular in form, the apex being about 20 feet in height. Inside of the structure, open as a cave, a large figure of Bernadette has been placed, as she stood bearing a candle on one of the times the Virgin Mary appeared to her in the Lourdes grotto.
Children of the church presented the coronation program of the ceremony, during which Mary Keough placed a wreath on the head of the statue of Bernadette.
The program opened with His Excellency, the Most Reverend Laurence J. Fitzsimon, bishop from Amarillo, reviewing the procession of children from the rectory porch. The procession consisted of a group of young children in formal attire and choir robes.
Mary Keough, queen, led the procession.

Army Air Force Display Arrives

The United States army air forces opened an intensive recruiting campaign in this area today with the arrival of a mobile recruiting unit from Enid army air field.
Located across the street from the post office on Foster street, the display includes an A-26 attack bomber, the "Invader," which has just been brought back from the Pacific theater.
Young men interested in the air forces may examine the plane, including the instrument panel and the remote control turret assembly.
Also on display is a Pratt-Whitney 2,350 horsepower airplane engine. This is the type of engine which powers the A-26.
Young men interested in an air forces career are invited to inspect the display at any time, according to Sgt. W. A. Egge, who is in charge of the air forces recruiting program here.
Sergeant Egge's headquarters are at the United States employment service office. He may also be reached at the Hillson hotel after regular hours.
The air forces display will remain here through Thursday.

their peace talks with John R. Steelman, White House labor adviser, but preparations for a strike Thursday were going ahead.
Deep silence surrounded the activities of the soft coal operators and united mine workers whose two weeks truce will expire Saturday.
"COMMITTEE DECISION"
One top labor authority said privately that John L. Lewis has not given clear cut assurance that the miners would stay on the job if the government seized the mines.
At an unheralded meeting with President Truman Sunday, Lewis was reported to have referred to the UMW policy committee a decision on union strategy in event of federal seizure.
The UMW chief refused to discuss the situation, however, and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the soft coal operators, declined to confirm or deny his participation in Sunday's White House conference.
Meanwhile, it was reported without confirmation, that Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles is opposed to any wage increase for the 400,000 beyond 18 1/2 cents an hour, and to favor a joint union-management welfare fund.
Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) said he hoped to win a stipulation to limit the length of speeches in chamber with the aim of final action on labor See LABOR, Page 8

Peace Prevails In Azerbaijan

TABRIZ—(AP)—The government of self-proclaimed autonomous Azerbaijan lifted martial law after one day today with the announcement that "conditions no longer justify the measure as peaceful methods prevail."
"Dispatches from Tehran, capital of the Central Iranian government, quoted Prince Firouz, director of propaganda, also as declaring that "all outstanding questions between Tehran and Azerbaijan will be settled peacefully, compatible with Iranian unity and independence."
LONDON—(AP)—Premier Ahmed Qavam broadcast strict orders to Iranian troops today "not to go further from their positions" along the Azerbaijan border, where some clashes have occurred.
The broadcast said the premier had established a commission to prevent further clashes and had announced some persons accused of causing the clashes would be court martialled.
His message on the Tehran radio came some time after the Tabriz radio, mouthpiece of the self-declared autonomous province bordering Russia, had asserted that bloody civil strife prevailed for the second day.
"Rumors about a state of war are untrue," the Tehran radio of the Qavam government said in English and Russian language broadcasts. It asserted that Qavam was trying "to solve the conflict in a friendly manner" and said persons outside Iran were magnifying the skirmishes "in order to influence public opinion."

All Postal Workers Get $400 Pay Raise

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman signed into law today a bill giving all postal workers a $400 yearly pay increase.
Those who don't get the $400 boost are fourth class postmasters, who receive a 20 percent raise, and part-time workers, who receive a gain of 20 cents hourly.
All the increases are retroactive to January 1, 1946. Approximately 400,000 workers come under the measure. The total cost was estimated at approximately $180,000,000 yearly.
Postal workers received a $400 yearly increase July 1, 1945. Supporters of the newly-signed legislation said, however, that it was required to make up for added living costs and a reduction since last July in the number of hours worked by most employees. The cut in hours eliminated overtime pay received by many.

Texas Will Have 'Top' Production

AUSTIN—(AP)—The railroad commission today issued a statewide proration order calculated to result in daily production of 2,293,000 barrels of crude in Texas during June, the highest production Texas has ever been granted, even during peak war years.
Under the June order, the average daily allowable will be 2,425,013 barrels daily, but estimated under-production of 5.44 per cent should reduce the estimated daily flow of crude oil to 2,128,504 barrels.
Highest previous allowable ever set by the commission was in July, 1945 when 2,270,000 barrels were granted to meet high wartime demands.
June's calculated production represents an increase of 213,092 barrels daily over the United States Bureau of Mines estimate of crude oil demand in Texas.

Truman Trip

He stopped just outside the hotel to chat with a policeman and then began his brisk walk accompanied by three secret service men and trailed by newsmen and photographers.

Truman found his mother, who had been abed with a cold, well enough to be waiting for him with other members of the family at the Grandview, Mo., airport when his plane arrived yesterday afternoon from Washington.

The President went immediately to the small, cream-colored cottage at Grandview where his mother and sister, Mary Jane Truman, live. Later they went to the home of his brother, Vivian, who lives on the old Truman farm where as a boy the President plowed corn.

There, the nation's first family ate steak, ham, potatoes, vanilla ice cream and home-baked bread made of the new, dark 80 per cent extraction flour. The President reported the bread baked by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Vivian Truman, was fine.

While awaiting dinner, Vivian Truman and his sons took the President out to the barn and showed him a new milking machine. Hundreds of motorists, hearing the President was at the home, drove past hoping to get a glimpse of him.

Iran Situation

Reuters said the broadcast announced an 11 p. m. curfew and proclaimed the death penalty for violators.

BBC said the Tabriz station interrupted a transmission in recorded music at 6:30 p. m. London Time (1:30 a. m. Central Standard Time) yesterday to announce the alleged attack.

(NBC in New York quoted BBC as saying that the Tabriz radio reported that casualties had been inflicted on an unspecified number of central government forces, and that 40 central government soldiers had been taken prisoner.)

There were no reports of Russian participation or direct assistance to Azerbaijanis.

The reported outbreaks came on the eve of the deadline fixed by the United Nations security council for a report by the Iranian central government on whether Russian troops had been evacuated from Iran.

Premier Ahmed Qavam of Iran informed the council Saturday night that he still was unable to ascertain whether the Russians had withdrawn.

Negotiations between officials of the self-styled Azerbaijan democratic government and the Iranian central government on the possible return of Azerbaijan to the jurisdiction of Tehran broke down last week.

Joseph C. Goodwin, Associated Press correspondent in Iran, reported in a delayed dispatch from Tabriz that the city was an armed camp, with the three-month-old Azerbaijan army preparing for any eventuality.

Goodwin's dispatch, which was written Saturday but was delayed 24 hours in a telegraph office in Tehran, said the uniformed Russian army had completely evacuated the strength of the Azerbaijan jan.

He said that there was some doubt, however, whether all of the Russian armor had been removed from Azerbaijan and quoted informants as saying that some armor was seen moving southward last week.

Every second man in Tabriz is in uniform, Goodwin said. Troops with tommyguns patrol the streets and airport. Troops who marched in a review last Friday were followed by warriors and Azerbaijan youth wearing bandoliers. Small boys, goose-stepping and carrying toy guns, brought up the rear.

Previous dispatches had estimated the strength of the Azerbaijan army at about 24,000 men and the Iranian army at between 60,000 and 80,000. The Azerbaijan troops have been reported attired in Russian-type uniforms.

Goodwin said that a Tehran commission arrived in Tabriz Friday to check on whether Russian troops had withdrawn, and was met at the airport by Azerbaijan officials.

He said the Tabriz radio and newspapers were urging last week that the dispute with Iran be settled on a friendly basis, with the provision that what was termed the "Azerbaijan Liberal Program" be retained and even extended to the rest of Iran.

Wheat Being Shipped To Market by Truck

(Continued from page 1) The South-west's wheat crop was moving to market by truck in volume today. Burrus Mill and Elevator company, largest receiver of the grain in Ft. Worth, was unloading the truckloads of wheat at the rate of 3,500 bushels per hour.

The truck shipments started Friday. By this morning some 230 trucks had hauled more than 100,000 bushels into the elevators, officials estimated. In all, almost 1,000,000 bushels are expected at the mill by truck before the run tapers off in about 10 days.

Pete Riddle, head grain buyer, said the wheat was coming from around Vernon, Chillicothe, and Electra, in Texas, and Tillman and Chattanooga, in Oklahoma. Farmers in those areas were harvesting 18 to 20 bushels per acre for "an exceptionally good yield," Riddle said.

Gracie Reports By GRACIE ALLEN My goodness, a St. Louis eye expert says we all ought to wear glasses because nature intended our eyes only for long-distance work like hunting, and most people are using them for close-up stuff at desks and machines, not to mention windy corners. Personally, I know there's nothing wrong with my eyesight. With one eye I can spot a quarter of a pound of butter at a thousand yards' sight through the clerk pick off a hat sale over my left shoulder with the other. Maybe we do use our faculties in a slightly different way than nature meant, but what of it? Some expert will be telling us next that we should all live in trees because nature intended us to. Come to think of it, that's exactly what a lot of us are doing.

Instructors Courses' In Water Safety Set

Famine

(Continued from page one) hemisphere are especially critical," the President said, "and the United States and other countries in a position to help must continue and heighten their efforts."

The conference named Secretary Anderson its permanent chairman.

Hoover said the food administration he suggested should take over the food and agriculture activities of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration and the British-Canadian-American combine food board, as well as all other world agencies connected with food and agriculture.

Hoover said the food administration, which he suggested be named the United Nations food administration, be directed by a single food administrator and a small advisory committee.

He said that it should be the administration's purpose to return to normal commerce the food, fertilizer and farm supply business of the world "with all speed possible."

"Moreover," he said, "the world must quit charity as a basis of widespread food distribution. I cannot too strongly emphasize that charitable distribution is hugely wasteful and inefficient."

DOUBLE TROUBLE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Giving up hope of finding another apartment after receiving an eviction notice, Kenneth Gruse, 22, marine veteran, started loading his trailer, preparing to go back to his home town, Tulsa, Okla.

He made the last trip back into the house, to get his radio.

Gruse is still here, listening to that radio, wondering who drove off with his car, his trailer and his household goods.
