House Reversal of Subsidy Stand Booms Administration Hopes for OPA

Home-Building Program Goes Into High Gear

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Administration hopes for the OPA soared today after the house reversed itself to vote $400,000,000 in subsidies for President Truman's emergency home-building program.

Democratic leaders attributed the change to the 10-day Easter recess, which gave many members their first chance in months to find out at home how their constituents are thinking.

Speaking privately for the most part, these leaders voiced confidence the house also would about-face on price control extension which the house last month hammered down to a 10-month OPA Administration Paul Porter said the agency would be without power after June 30.

The thumping administration victory on the housing bill broke a month long deadlock over the legislation which Mr. Truman hopes will permit private enterprise to build an unprecedented 2,700,000 homes—costing about $16,000,000,000—in two years.

Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt said of the vote: "This throws the veterans housing program into high gear."

Officers Arrest 33 Plant Pickets At Consolidated

FORT WORTH — (AP) — A squad of city policemen, directed by Police Chief Robert Dyart, this morning arrested 33 consolidated Vultee aircraft corporation plant pickets, members of the striking international association of machinists, after they had refused to leave Texas & Pacific railway grounds near the line's freight terminal here.

T. J. Buchanan, T. & P. freight agent, said charges of blockading private property and interfering with the movement of interstate commerce commission shipments would be filed against the men.

Police forcibly carried John F. Foster, Jr., district president of the striking machinists, into a patrol wagon. The pickets followed him peacefully into the wagon. Foster was not on the picket line.

District attorney Al Clyde said the pickets arrived about 8 a. m., and formed a circular, closely-packed line on a road leading to the T. & P. unloading docks. The pickets, he said, were protesting the unloading of a large piece of conveyor machinery from a freight car.

Tomorrow Is Named 'Straw Hat Day'

Even Old Man Weather may be decked out in his new straw tomorrow, which is proclaimed over the nation as official "Straw Hat Day."

Pampa merchants are currently featuring straws to suit any taste and any occasion.

As an influx of straw hats is a sure sign of spring, the weather man may take a hint and let up on the fine mist and low temperatures prevalent in the surrounding territory.

Anyway, drag out the new derby tomorrow before going downtown. According to an old baseball custom, "if you can't wear it, you can eat it."

General Committee Named For Soap Box Derby Race

Bob Grammer, local All-American Soap Box Derby general chairman, said today the Lions club, co-sponsor of the Derby races which will be held here the latter part of July, had named a general committee for the events.

This committee, he cited, will meet and name all members of about 17 committees which will be necessary to administer the various phases of the show.

It is expected that at least 60 boys from 11 to 15 from Pampa and surrounding communities will vie for the local award—the M. E. Coyle Trophy and a tree round-trip to the National finals at Akron, O., in August.

Bevin Attacks Russian Stand At Conference

PARIS — (AP) — Russian insistence on full agreement among the Big Four before calling a European peace conference was described in today's session of the foreign ministers as a "veto on permitting the nations which took part in the war to express their views" on the treaties, a British source said.

MEET AGAIN TODAY — This source quoted British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin as attacking the Soviet stand during the morning's two-hour council session.

A second meeting was scheduled for this afternoon in an effort to work out an agreement on the proposal of Secretary of State Byrnes' proposal to convene a 21-nation peace conference for June 15.

RIGHTS OF NATIONS — An American informant said Byrnes also opposed the Soviet stand and said the four governments had a responsibility before the world to settle that treaties were written and to safeguard the rights of the nations which participated in the war to have a say in the treaties.

Byrnes suggested that the ministers set a definite date for the conference now and then continue working in Paris in small, informal sessions to try to narrow down the measure of disagreement between them, prior to the conference.

Although the conferees were expected to make a last ditch effort today to compromise the divergent views of Russia and the United States on the convening of a general peace parley, most observers predicted that no such agreement would be effected and that the ministers would return to their homes early next week.

New Charge Made Against Doenitz

NUERNBERG — (AP) — Grand Admiral Doenitz was accused before the international military tribunal today of proposing to Adolf Hitler in 1943 that German troops occupy Spain so that U-boat warfare could be stepped up through newly-acquired bases.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, British prosecutor, said minutes of the Doenitz-Hitler conversations captured by the Allies showed the former German naval chief had informed the fuhrer the U-boat campaign was going badly and that the only strategic area left for operation was the Bay of Biscay.

Hitler's reply, the prosecutor said, was that such a step would have been possible in 1940 with Spain's cooperation but that the reich no longer had the resources for such a venture.

"I don't think I proposed to the fuhrer that we occupy Spain," Doenitz told the tribunal from the witness stand.

Wainwright and 600 Vets To Be Guests

ELECTRA — (AP) — Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and some 600 returned veterans will be honor guests at a chuck wagon dinner here tonight.

MATCHES EVERYWHERE — No shortage of matches around Pampa these days. Everywhere you go there's a carton of book matches, usually plugging candidates for office. The candidates seem to have "Miraculous Pitcher" pockets full of matches.

Variety Is the Spice of Life and Pampa Gets Hers the 'Weather Way'

Variety is said to be the spice of life and Pampa was certainly getting a lot of variety today in the way of weather.

The famed "Old Man," who allowed us to sweat in an 85-degree temperature yesterday afternoon, turned on his air conditioner and forgot to turn off the sprinkler system today as a cold wave and heavy mist enveloped the area.

The cold front struck here early today in the form of a 42-mile-an-hour wind with intermittent stronger gusts. The ceiling was zero and the temperature stood at 44 at noon today.

McLean came in for some rain last night, 36 of an inch, and some hail, too. Some fruit was reported damaged by the hail.

The Panhandle weather has Panhans guessing. First off this morning, County Agent Ralph Thomas said the weather was as changeable as a woman's mind. Hastily he added, "not quite."

Prince Umberto Takes Throne Until June 2

ROME — (AP) — The Italian cabinet approved today the assumption of the throne by Crown Prince Umberto, but specified his powers would extend only until June 2. On that day the Italian people will decide whether to continue the monarchy.

KING OF MAY — The ministers decided Umberto could sign decrees "Umberto II, king of Italy" but not use the phrase traditionally following the signature, "By Grace of God and Will of the People." Umberto's father, Vittorio Emanuele III, abdicated last night after a 45-year reign and sailed for Egypt.

Communists opposed Umberto, and the socialist press today called him the "King of May" and declared in its headlines "Fascist Prince Succeeds Fascist King for 23 Days, GREEDS WILL VOTE"

Greece also prepared to settle speedily the fate of her king, George II. Premier Tsaldaris announced that Greeks would vote on the question as soon as electoral lists are revised. Previously the Greek government had not planned to hold a plebiscite until 1948, but the populist party, largely monarchist, came into power in recent elections.

Recent announcements from Athens said the British and United States governments had agreed to the holding of an earlier plebiscite on the monarchy has the right to select a new king.

A socialist party manifesto termed the abdication "a diversion to the right."

Probe of Georgia Klans Is Urged

ATLANTA — (AP) — The Georgia legislature council today demanded an investigation by the treasury department and the federal bureau of investigation into the activities of the resurgent "association of Georgia Klans."

The council, which includes representatives of the A. F. L., C. I. O., and various independent unions, charged that KKK Inc. had an unprovoked suspension of activities in 1944 because of unpaid federal taxes amounting to more than half a million dollars, but had continued to use its original application and reinstatement blanks.

A spokesman for the council, who preferred to remain anonymous, said officers of the Klan were known to travel from state to state on Klan business.

The investigation was demanded following a cross burning ceremony on nearby Stone mountain last night. A thousand of the white-robed and hooded figures, assembled from Georgia and surrounding states, turned out in full regalia to initiate several hundred newcomers. Initiation fee is $10.

More than a thousand spectators witnessed the ceremony. Women quitted their infants and children as the eerie ceremony progressed.

SLIP OF THE TONGUE — SEATTLE — (AP) — Philippines high commissioner Paul V. McNutt provided himself a diplomat as he stepped from his plane here after a flight from the Orient, via Adak in the Aleutians.

"After Manila, this cool climate is wonderful," he exclaimed.

Then he smiled and added quickly: "After Adak, this warm weather is wonderful."

Another Side Of Texarkana Killer Voiced

TEXARKANA — (AP) — The Texarkana Gazette today quoted Mrs. Mary Jeanne Larey, 19, of Frederick, Okla., as saying she believed she was the first victim of Texarkana's Phantom who has shot six persons killing five.

BEYOND A DOUBT — Mrs. Larey told a Gazette reporter she was convinced "beyond any doubt" that the man who attempted to criminally assault her near Texarkana on the night of Feb. 22 was the murderer.

"I would know his voice anywhere," she said. "It rings always in my ears."

She moved to Frederick, Okla., 3 months ago to live with her uncle and aunt because, she said, she found living so near the scene of her experience more than she could bear.

ROADSIDE STOP — On that February night she said she, Jimmy Hollis, 24, and another couple had gone to a movie. They had left the others and en route to her home they had stopped beside the road.

"A man walked up," she said. "He wore a white mask over his head with cut-out places for his eyes and mouth. He told Jimmy that he didn't want to kill him, and for him to do as he was told."

He said they both got out of the car and the man told Jimmy to take off his pants.

COMPANION IS STRUCK — "After Jimmy had taken off his trousers, the man hit him twice on the head. The noise was so loud I thought Jimmy had been shot. I learned later that the sound was his skull cracking."

He searched the pants for a billfold.

"Then he hit me. He knocked me to the ground, but I managed to get up. He told me to run down the road."

"As I ran, I could hear Jimmy groaning. The man was beating and stomping him."

"Go ahead and kill me," she begged the man that night.

She said she remembers little of what happened after that, except that he finally let her in the middle of the road.

She said she thinks he intended to get his car and come back for her, but that apparently he was not.

Draft Extension Blocked in House

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An objection by Rep. Sheridan (D-Pa.) blocked immediate house action today on a bill extending the draft law until July 1.

Sheridan, a member of the military committee, objected to a request of Chairman May (D-Ky.) for unanimous consent for immediate action on the measure, passed yesterday by the senate.

The work stoppage was almost 100 per cent effective in Alexandria, where large forces of police and soldiers, some of them patrolling the main thoroughfares in trucks, were in duty. Diplomatic sources in Cairo said the strike was nationwide in Iraq.

In Palestine, where a few minor demonstrations were reported, the Arab higher committee made public the text of cables sent to Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia; President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee in which the committee said it would oppose the inquiry committee's recommendations "to the last man."

The house banned the drafting of 18 and 19-year-olds when it passed last month a separate bill extending the draft law until next February 15. The senate has not acted on that bill.

The July 1 extender received military committee approval in the morning.

Cabinet Meeting Brings New Move

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John L. Lewis today called for a 12-day truce in the soft coal strike, beginning Monday.

Lewis wired every local union president urging him to arrange for the 400,000 striking United Mine Workers to get back on the job as soon as the local mine management agreed to make retroactive during the truce any pay increase later negotiated.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman today asked John L. Lewis, president of 400,000 striking mine workers, and one representative of the coal operators to come to the White House at 4 p. m. (EST).

Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach announced this at the White House. He said Lewis had accepted.

The management representative will be selected by the operators.

This White House move to end the 40-day-old strike followed a cabinet meeting.

Presumably the coal crisis was the prime subject of discussion at the meeting.

Schwelienbach remained at the White House for more than an hour and a half after the cabinet session ended, conferring not only with Mr. Truman but also with other White House officials.

Mr. Truman's invitation to Lewis and the operators indicated the President will offer them a plan for bringing the strike to an end.

NO NEW PROPOSAL — Spokesmen for operators and the striking United Mine Workers insisted to newsmen as they resumed negotiations, however, that they had heard of no new proposal. John L. Lewis, UMW president, again stayed away from the government-sponsored conferences.

The White House threw down one report that the President has proposed a settlement on the basis of an 18 1/2 cents an hour wage increase and establishment of a minimum.

Lewis Calls for 12-Day Truce in Soft Coal Strike

(By The Associated Press) — In calling for a 12-day truce in the soft coal strike, set for Monday, John L. Lewis sent the following wire message to every local union president:

"This action is the contribution of the United Mine Workers of America to our nation's economy. Lewis telegraphed the locals, "which is being imperiled by the stupidity and selfish greed of the coal operators and associated financial interests and by demagogues who have tried to lash the public mind into a state of hysteria rather than grant justice and fair treatment to the men who mine the nation's coal."

Lewis acted less than an hour after President Truman invited the mine leader and a representative of the operators to a White House conference at 4 p. m. (EST).

The UMW chieftain told the union locals: "The coal to be mined during this two week truce period can be utilized for consumption by essential facilities and the nation's health and security thus safeguarded while efforts to negotiate a contract continue."

"Let every member be assured that the members of the national policy committee are determined to accept a contract that will not give to the mine workers the essential protection which is imperatively required."

Lewis called in reporters three hours before the scheduled White House conference and announced that the policy committee of 23 strike leaders had unanimously authorized sending of the telegram to each local union.

PALESTINE — Trouble flared in Cairo and Beyrouth and business halted in most important cities of the middle east as Arabs protested the British-American committee's recommendation of increased Jewish immigration to Palestine.

GERMANY — Winston Churchill suggested in an interview at Amsterdam that he would have isolated Prussia as the most dangerous part of Germany and introduced a mild regime in the rest of the reich aimed at restoring a self-supporting economy.

POLAND — The U. S. state department held up $90,000,000 in credits to Polish government while reviewing whether the Poles had lived up to conditions laid down by Washington.

Jaycee Bathing Beauty Contest Chairmen To Meet

A meeting of all committee chairmen for the Junior chamber of commerce bathing beauty contest has been called for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the chamber of commerce offices.

Several entries have already been received and President Joe Fischer said it is imperative that all chairmen attend the meeting to work out final plans.

Fischer also said that the date of the contest at Vernon has been changed from May 29 to May 31. The local winner, to be selected in a show here May 24, will go to Vernon to compete for the $500 first prize.

A special invitation has been extended to communities near Pampa to enter contestants. These entries should be telephoned to Miss Valerie Dyson, phone 103, at the earliest possible time.

Several Jaycees are to contact leaders in these communities.

Those merchants who wish to enter a contestant but do not have one in their employ should also contact Miss Dyson. There will be no entrance fee.

In addition to the first prize money at Vernon, the winner may make a trip to Hollywood under arrangements made by the Vernon chamber of commerce, sponsors of the show.

All entries so far received will be announced after tomorrow's committee meeting.

Judges for the local contest, to be held in the Junior high gymnasium, will be from out-of-town. A dance will be held following the local contest to raise funds to send the winning contestant to Vernon. Additional prizes may also be offered.

IF YOUR ENEMY HUNGER, FEED HIM By Russell Greene West

DEARLY beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, overcome evil with good.—Romans 12: 19-21.

FORMER-President Herbert Hoover, in commenting on the problems of durable peace, makes this significant statement: "We can have revenge or we can have peace, but we can not have both." Incidentally, some of us believe that—believe it with all our hearts. We are in danger right now of forgetting that Christ is the Prince of Peace. We say, "Let us hate our enemies and keep them down." He says, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you; that you may be children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust." We say, "Let our enemies suffer and starve. They are getting just what they deserve." Christ says, "Forgive until seventy times seven." He even prayed forgiveness upon those who drove the nails into his hands and feet. His Spirit is Love. Love is always redemptive. Paul was interpreting the Spirit of Jesus when he exhorts us, as "Dearly Beloved," to feed our enemies.

THAT attitude alone is constructive and redemptive. The Spirit of Christ demands that we "overcome evil with good." Positive, aggressive, militant goodness. This is the Spirit of the Prince of Peace. The reason Paul could say "feed your enemies" he himself had been crucified with Christ, and Christ was actually living in his heart. Paul also tells us in Romans 8, "He that hath not the Spirit of Christ is none of His." Love is stronger than hate. Forgiveness is more redemptive than revenge. So it would seem that what we need just now is to decide what we want in this world. Do we want revenge and future wars, or do we want Love and Forgiveness and a durable Peace? We can have either but we can not have both. "But," you say, "let's be practical." All right, "let's." Let us "over come evil with good."

impress the lesson with words. He taught them by example, washing their feet, assuming that He had come, not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His ransom for many.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive," He said.

The world still does not accept the values and standards of Jesus; but the world cannot help acknowl- edging the greatness of those who most truly put the values that He taught into their lives.

It is the Saint Francis, the Father Damien, the Dr. Grenfell, the servants and doers of their fellowmen, and the conquerors and exploiters, who stand highest in greatness and honor.

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
 Scripture: Matthew 18:15-22; Mark 3:13-14; 10:35-45; Luke 22:24-29.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
 Someone evidently had offended the Pharisee Peter, and Peter came to Jesus, inquiring how often a brother should offend against him and be forgiven, "until seven times?" asked Peter.
 But Jesus said "not until seven times, but until seventy times seven."
 That put forgiveness on a large basis, and that's where it ought to be. The question and he answered, however, remind us that even the good men whom Jesus had called to the inner circle had to learn to live together.

They had left all to follow Jesus, but they had not left themselves. They had still their ambitions, their desire to be first, their notions of greatness. Laying together and all, did not come naturally even to these disciples. It has to be learned, and the disciples were fortunate in having such a Teacher.

We, too, may learn in the school of Christ.
 True life consists in a right sense of values. If we haven't proper standards, if we don't value things rightly, all will be wrong.

The late Dr. V. T. Gunn, a former Moderator of the United Church of Canada, used to give an address on the theme, "If Your Square Square?" He told of putting up a little building with his two sons. Despite all their care things didn't seem to come out right. When they checked up, they found that the square they were using had evidently fallen on the hard rock of the island and been sprung so that it was no longer true.

There are standards of living that correspond to the square and the plumb-line. If the sense of values and worth is wrong, the life will be wrong.
 The hardest task that Jesus had was to make the disciples see what was most worthwhile, and what constituted true greatness.

They had the notions that have generally prevailed among men—that greatness consisted in place and position, in power and precedence. But Jesus said, "It shall not be so among you," and "He that would be greatest among you, let him be the servant of all."
 When He could not sufficiently

Lesson Subject Is Given for Sunday

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be held in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday May 12.

The Golden Text is: "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." (I Corinthians 15: 22).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For to be carnally minded is a death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace" (Romans 8:6).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We must destroy the false belief that life and intelligence are in matter, and plant ourselves upon what is pure and perfect." Paul said, "Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh" (page 222).

Up at the Red Cross office Mrs. J. T. White was momentarily gazing out the window, wondering about whether her flowers were going to be watered today. She said she had started to water them this morning, the sun was out bright, every thing was clear. Leaving the hose on she went indoors. By then it had clouded up and looked like rain. So she turned off the hose. As yet—no rain.

The wheat farmers are in the same state of wonderment as Mrs. White, only more so—not having a garden hose and with everyone clamoring for more wheat.
The weatherman said the north was moving in from the northwest at a rapid pace. He predicted turbulent weather throughout the day and tonight, with the front due to lift sometime tomorrow.

Although a 40-degree temperature reading was forecast for Amarillo tonight, the weather bureau said there was only "a slight possibility" of freezing weather in Texas.
Damage to crops from the high winds and expected scattered hail storms were predicted.
Last night a heavy hail storm was reported at Winters, Texas. Hailstones covered the ground and there was some damage to telephone lines and property. Abilene reported a light hail.

Local Pianists

piano bench to ask her father if she could have the roller skates. She got the skates, and a state award. Kay's primary interest now is softball. She says she likes to play second short best when she can but she doesn't always get the position. Usually, she says, she's a substitute, but softball is it. She also likes ice cream, malts, skating parties, Bible school and young people's groups, prefers comedies in the line of movies, has a definite disregard for westerns, likes Abbott and Costello.

She's an all-round kid, talks rapidly with much enthusiasm, looks as good in a cow-girl outfit as a formal, plays a clarinet in the Sam Houston band, brings down marks never below "satisfactory" in her fifth grade studies, has a three-year old brother, Jerry, who lets Kay do the piano work for the family. Kay likes vacations—no music lessons—although she does keep up her practicing.

Miss Ernestine Holmes, young piano teacher of Kay for the past year, has studied under Dean Clarence Burg of O. C. U. for two years, has gone to school the past year. She has returned to Pampa every weekend while attending school to give lessons to her 30 piano students. Lessons are given on Saturdays and Sundays. Ernestine takes the Sunday midnight bus for Oklahoma City each weekend, arriving there at 6 a.m. to attend an 8 o'clock class.

Next Tuesday Ernestine will play with the 60-piece O.C.U. orchestra which is composed of college students, alumnae and townsmen. She is the youngest member of the group and will play as soloist all three movements of Saint Saens Second Concerto in G Minor.

Ernestine returned to Pampa this morning to be present for Kay's recital. She will leave tomorrow, cancelling all music lessons in order to prepare for the Tuesday concert. After school is over Ernestine plans to give a recital in Pampa, having prepared for one at school which was cancelled because of unforeseen conflicts with Easter vacation. The recital will probably be given in June or July, said Ernestine.

For 12 years she has studied music off and on, similar to Kay, both discontinuing studies because of illness at one time. Ernestine was seven when she started, and when a freshman in high school started giving piano lessons.

Mrs. Carr, teacher of both Kay and Ernestine, recently had what might easily be called the top honors of the year in Pampa music. She directed both the Pampa Civic chorus and Pampa Piano ensemble during the musical Monday night in the Pampa high school Monday night. Mrs. Carr has been the mainstay of Pampa music since the early '30s, has won many state honors, was director of the music college established in Pampa by an Amarillo school. Majority of players in the piano ensemble Monday night were former students of Mrs. Carr.

The little lady, whose small hat invariably leads Mrs. Carr as she rushes to her studio, town and around, has one unspoken ambition, that some day Pampa might have a music college of its own and that Pampa may be known just as well known for music as for oil and gas and wheat and registered Herefords.

Italy's King

derange orderly preparation of the referendum" June 2. A republican party leader, Rinaldo Picciardi, said in an interview that the abdication would have no effect on what he called the nation's swing toward a republic.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi, to whom Vittorio's 17-word abdication document was being forwarded from Naples, commented only that he was confident the monarchy would abide by the decisions of the plebiscite and the subsequent constitutional convention.
The 42-year-old crown prince, who also is lieutenant governor of the Realm, returned to Rome from Naples, where his father formally renounced the throne yesterday after 46 years as Italy's monarch.

Observers said the renunciation was an eleventh-hour effort to strengthen the House of Savoy, under which Italy was unified in 1861-70, for its test with the advocates of a republic at the plebiscite three weeks hence. Even the most optimistic monarchists give the monarchy only a 50-50 chance of surviving the plebiscite.

Hom-Building

a compromise $100,000,000 subsidy sent the legislation back to the house-senate conference committee which had been deadlocked for weeks on the subsidy issue.

The senate earlier had approved the full $300,000,000 in subsidies requested by the President. He described that phrase as the "very heart" of his program.
The money is to be used for "premium payments" to building materials producers to bring about larger production of scarce materials without a general increase in prices.

Agriculturists Have 'A Time' With Tickets

Victor Joyner, assistant county agent, went down to McLean the other day and parked on the main street. So did County Agent Ralph Thomas. Also Raymond Knorp of the agricultural conservation agency office. They all had their own cars.

The men stayed in town for quite a while. Result, both the county agents got a ticket for parking over one hour time. Thomas paid his fine right off. Joyner didn't notice his ticket till he was half way back to Pampa—his fine was cancelled. Officers had missed Knorp. There is a one-hour parking limit on some of the McLean streets, designated by signs.

Top Commanders of Allies Get Together

TOKYO—(AP)—The top commanders of victorious Allied armies in Europe and the Pacific met today for the first time since hostilities began.
"We never thought we'd be getting together again out here," exclaimed General Eisenhower, whole leadership brought victory in the European theater, to General MacArthur, supreme commander in the Pacific.

They had not met since 1939, when Eisenhower as a lieutenant colonel led the staff of MacArthur, then commander in the Philippines.
"Well, Mac, how are you?" were the chief of staff's first words as he grasped MacArthur's hands.
"It's good to see you again," exclaimed MacArthur as he stepped Eisenhower on the shoulder.

Mrs. Harry Bryant of Carrollton, Mo., arrived yesterday for a brief visit with her cousin, C. C. Miller, and Mrs. Miller, 615 E. Browning. Billie Faust and his Western Okies will play at St's Old Barn for dances every Tuesday night.

'FAMINE GARDENS'
ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—They are no longer victory gardens in this section.
Howard Kemp, gardening columnist, groping for a more suitable name for his own "experimental plot," suggested that amateur gardeners adopt the title "famine gardens."

SPECTER OF HITLER LAUGHS

Throughout its national history the United States has pursued a policy of Christian forgiveness toward peoples it has vanquished on the battlefield. It has made no exception even in the current cases of the bestial Germans and fanatic Japanese who set out, jointly, to rule the world. These defeated enemies, not only of the United States but of mankind itself, have been accorded a kindly consideration which is, under the circumstances, little short of incredible.

They have been fed, clothed and housed by the American occupation forces. They have been entertained, befriended, pampered by Americans. They have been encouraged and aided in the exercise of their "inalienable and free franchise"—a franchise they never before have, in truth, known.

Curious consideration, this. But admittedly ph-so-complimentary to the American system of fair play, to the New World tradition of the good-natured pat on the back accorded the loser at the end of the game. No nation could fail to appreciate it, or to swear eternal admiration for so generous a victor. Or could it?

Whatever the psychological explanation, the bald fact is this: Germany and Japan not only do not love us for our kindness, but they actually despise us all the more for it—and they see in it an element of weakness which gives them the hope of bloody vengeance in the future.

Signs of that unreasoning hatred, carefully camouflaged at first, have become increasingly evident in Europe and in Asia these past few months, as the seemingly-unshakable American generosity has dispelled initial fear and original preoccupation with individual self-interest. And at Landsberg, Germany, the other day, the phenomenon flared into violent explosion for all the world to see. German rioters screamed "Gestapo" and "S. S. swine" at American military police who attempted to quiet them.

From the circumstance that the rioters were Jews held at a displaced-persons camp, it is easy to predict what the predominant American reaction will be. Our government will indignantly be told that it must hasten liberation of "innocent" D. P.'s, and our people will be told that the basic cause was hunger, which we must relieve with food from our own tables if we are not to be held personally responsible for a savage revival of bloodshed throughout Europe.

But these people have been hungry before. Yet they didn't riot under Hitler because they considered themselves fortunate indeed to be alive, and understood full well that death would be the penalty for any violent attempt to improve their situation. And they're far hungrier in the Russian zone of occupation, yet they don't riot there, for the same sufficient reason.

Uncle Sam, though, is different. He'll take all the foul abuse they care to heap on him—take it and apologize for the audience.

Let no one mistake the tremendous significance of this event. German burghers, the common people of Japan, people all over the world are watching closely. The ghost of Adolf Hitler is rocking with laughter. And the specter of the last great war grows ever closer.

We think it's time for the United States to end this comedy of errors which springs from the best of intentions, but which none the less surely points to the most tragic of consequences.

Common Ground

"Would Ger No Education"

A reader of Common Ground writes:

"Were schools not publicly supported, probably half our children would get no education. They would require no part of their time to defend themselves against other people doing something to them they did not want done. This kind of education would bring about civilization. As Ryan says, 'Civilization is the process of setting man free from men.'"

If men were set free from other men they could use all their energies to develop themselves and to be useful to their fellow-men. They would require no part of their time to defend themselves against other people doing something to them they did not want done. This kind of education would bring about civilization. As Ryan says, 'Civilization is the process of setting man free from men.'"

But real education, the process that brings about civilization, is the process of setting man free from men. It is not the process of setting man free from men. It is the process of setting man free from men. It is the process of setting man free from men.

But can tax-supported schooling educate in this manner when it is in practice preventing man from being free from men? It is the process of setting man free from men. It is the process of setting man free from men. It is the process of setting man free from men.

It would seem that tax-supported schools are the grass roots of teaching people that might makes right; that there is no law superior to the will of the majority; that the end justifies the means; that the majority does not respect the energy of the individual.

In fact, tax-supported schooling is a great university of moral palsy.

WASHINGTON

By RAY TUCKER

FEDERATION—An influential group of Anglo-Americans, aided and abetted by representatives of the smaller nations, has started a quiet campaign to substitute a world federation for the existing United Nations. It is understood that they will expand their efforts should the current session of U. N. and the Paris conference of foreign ministers fail to solve their batch of international problems.

The important role of ex-Justice Owen J. Roberts in the movement has provoked speculation that Charles Evans Hughes, former chief justice and secretary of state, subscribes to this movement. Mr. Roberts was a hero-worshiper of the venerable Hughes when the two served on the court, and they frequently discussed foreign affairs. It is also recalled that Mr. Hughes was one of the sponsors of an association of nations which he headed in the 1920 campaign for Warren G. Harding.

The Pennsylvania jurist has already condemned the United Nations as a "tri-partite alliance" which cannot keep the peace; he also criticized the setup for its apparent neglect of the little countries. He advocates a world union in which each nation will surrender sovereignty to the central organization, as the states yielded some portion of their power to form the United States.

ISSUE—Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill has advanced a similar idea. He has said that he is still a public figure and leader of His Majesty's opposition in parliament, it is believed that he speaks for British financial interests when he urges a binding "union of English-speaking nations." They are suspicious of the U. N. because of the dominant role Russia can play through use of the veto power.

Still another whose sympathy with this viewpoint commands interest is Senator "Joe" Ball of Minnesota, who usually expresses the thoughts of Harold E. Stassen, avowed presidential candidate. "Joe" has demanded elimination of the veto right, which would undoubtedly lead the Soviet to withdraw from the world body and pave the way for the Roberts-Churchill sort of organization.

English-speaking backers of this movement intend to push it inside and outside congress should the statesmen at New York and Paris fail in major agreements. It may become a key issue in the 1948 presidential campaign.

MISTAKE—Although the Mead (formerly Truman) committee gave a clean bill of health to the deal which enabled Gimbel Bros. department store of New York City to obtain 600 army trucks at a time when farmers and veterans could not buy these vehicles from the military administration, a sharp attack by

Peter Edson's Column:
THE WORLD ALSO NEEDS FATS AND OILS

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Next to wheat and bread grains, the most serious food shortage throughout the world is in what United Nations Relief Director Florence Lawrence, former mayor means edible fats and oils. Like bread, these gravies are calories, and calories mean life.

To the average American housewife, these life-giving fats and oils are principally butter, cream, margarine, lard, and vegetable shortening. The U. S. has always been one of the biggest fat-consuming countries in the world. Before the war, consumption of edible fats and oils averaged 50 pounds per person per year. During and since the war, it has been down to 40 pounds, and it may be that or less for another year or more. In some countries, supplies are down to practically zero, and the people are literally starved for gravity.

There are a few things, but not many, that the housewife can do to conserve supplies of fats and oils. Cut out deep fat and fried foods. Cut down on oily salad dressings. Use meat drippings to flavor vegetables. Render all meat fats and carry them to the butcher's as religiously as in wartime.

OTHERS EAT OILS AMERICANS USE FOR PAINTS, SOAP

Even the salvaged fats which go into soaps would be luxurious to most of the people in war-torn countries, who don't have enough soap. To the fat-hungry people of Europe and Asia, the fats and oils that would be such things as lin-

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) Col. Paul Tibbets, who piloted the B-29 which dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima, visited M-G-M the other day to discuss filming of "The Beginning or the End." Later, posing for a still photograph, Colonel Tibbets winced and said, "Those flash-bulbs scare me to death."

Charles Chaplin, Jr., just out of the army, is taking a drama course at UCLA. . . . The Match twins, former kid stars, are carrying on two acts of vaudeville with their twin daughters, Phyllis and Jane. . . . Loretta Young is studying fancy ice-skating for her latest, "Katie for Congress." She's never donned a pair in her life.

Phil Harris' campaign slogan in his race for election as mayor of Encino: "One-zy, Two-zy, why be choosy?" . . . Barbara Stanwyck's son, Tony, is going to boarding school in Santa Barbara. . . . Promised and hoped for: Gary Cooper, two-and-a-half-hour movie for screen in "Cloak and Dagger."

A PLUG FOR "HAM"

After all these years, we finally got a director, Robert Siodmak, to admit that "ham" is a pretty good thing in front of a movie camera. Especially for cinema-goers seeking a witness "The Suspect," "Uncle Harry," "The Spiral Staircase," and now "The Dark Mirror."

"As Prime and lovely ham as I've seen," Siodmak told us, "was Ethel Barrymore in 'The Spiral Staircase.'" Directed by the same Siodmak, Laughton is like sitting down to an eight-course banquet, each course a new and delectable experience in ham."

Humphrey Bogart still carries around his first Broadway press notice, written by Alexander Woolcott. "The young man who embodied the aforesaid juvenile," wrote Alex, "was what might mercifully be described as inadequate."

Right after the government ordered a 25 cent cut in national bread ration, Walter Wanderer went Uncle Sam 75 per cent better. He cut Susan Hayward off without a crumb for a big dinner party scene in "Smash-Up."

RAY MILLARD FROM LANA

Ray Millard, who has canceled his trip to Rio, Lana Turner's description of the mobs of fans convinced them they ought to stay in Hollywood. But Ray, you don't wear sweaters. . . . That Mardi Gras at stars at the L. A. Coliseum May 15, 1946, was a magnificent success. The committee with proceeds given to veterans' housing, sounds like fun. Among other things, Boh Hope and Bing Crosby will put on a golf putting match in the infield. . . . Robert Carson has written a book about his "bad" week titled, "The Battered Bride." Forgive it if our recent weddings gave him the idea.

Earl Carroll and Phil Wrigley are planning a swanky new night club on Catalina Island. . . . How to give an English-speaking audience a shaggy appearance for a closeup in M-G-M's "Tenth Avenue Angel." Give him the toupee once worn by Jimmy Durante for a comedy scene.

Mr. Mead now admits that his agents obtained no data on Arthur Price associates—whether it is an old concern or organized for the purpose of handling surplus; what interests own and operate it; whether it has a string of dealers who gobble up material at sales not announced to the general public; what its net profits were on the Cincinnati transaction. He has promised to find out and satisfy senatorial curiosity on this and similar deals.

HAMPERING RECONVERSION
(Wenatchee, Wash., Journal)

Election of Walter Reuther as President of the United Auto Workers Union bodes no good for industrial relations in this country. Reuther has given every evidence that he is much more concerned with changing our economic system than he is with getting better wages and working conditions for the men he represents.

He now becomes head of a big and powerful labor monopoly which is free of all the checks and restraints imposed upon industrial monopoly. There is no reason to suppose that he will now relax his efforts to make it impossible for private business to operate in the automobile field.

Unfortunately there seem to be a great many men in government who share Reuther's dislike for private initiative. A great many strong influences are at work in and out of government to hamper industrial reconversion and apparently these people want to be in a position to say: "told you so. Private business can't furnish jobs so government will have to do it."

That policy means ultimate socialization of business and along that line runs the road to slavery for the American people.

COMMUNIST SUPPORT
(Chickasha, Okla., Star)

Henry Wallace, a member of the President's cabinet recently made a trip to New York to speak in support of a communist candidate for congress in one of the New York districts. This communist was opposed by both regular Republican and Democratic nominees but Mr. Wallace chose to give his voice and support to the communist.

This man Wallace lacked only a few votes of being the present President of the United States. He even had the backing for Vice-President of the late President Roosevelt. Mr. Wallace talks about purging the Democratic party of some of the Southern regulars. What the Democrats need to do is to purge the communists from their ranks. When that is done America will once more be safe for our way of life.

Spring Flight

By WILLIAM MAIER

JOEL TURNS BACK XXIII

NOW the whole yard was bright, and she could see flames through the windows. And there were billows of smoke, like she had dreamed, only these were pink and bright. She picked up all the stuff she had dropped from the window and moved it back away from the house. Then she straightened up and said, "Where's Bull?"

"He's out all right," Ellie said. "Let him out. Listen, are you going for help or aren't you? I can't drive with this arm." "A lot of good help will do now." "They can save the barn—and all them decoys."

She looked into his face stolidly, almost stupidly, then turned and walked to the barn and backed the rear door. If she had been thinking better, she could have gone to the first house on the Beach Road, where they had a phone, but instead she went all the way to the village.

The fire department got together quick, all right, and they raced out to the Beach Road and in on the dirt road like mad, their siren shrieking. Debby didn't even try to stop with them. When she got here the house had collapsed, and it was burning all over the ground. All that was left standing was the front wall, along the sitting room and the bedroom, and the new heater in the dining room, and the pump in the kitchen.

Ellie kept saying, "The fire must be burning in the wall all the time." The barn hadn't started to burn at all, and the firemen put their ladders up against it and got up on the roof, ready to put out any sparks. But there weren't any sparks went over there, and the fire kept burrowing lower and lower as it was eating darker and darker around the yard. Finally they decided to leave just a couple of men, and they helped load all the stuff Agnes and Debby had got out of the house into the beach wagon and the fire engine.

Ellie said, "It must be a burn in the wall all the time," and he kept saying it over and over. Agnes went up to him, and put her arms around him and kissed him, and she said, "Don't you worry, Ellie. We're going to be all right," and Debby looked at her and started to cry.

One of the men drove the beach wagon, and Debby rode on the fire engine. Just before they got to the woods, the fire turned round and looked, and all she could see was what looked like a single big glowing ember. The rest of the way into town she sobbed softly and steadily. As they rode down the main street, the rain began to come down harder.

"Almost everybody in town was up, with lights in their windows, and they put Ellie and Agnes up at John Qualey's. Miss Parmelee got a room for Debby in the house where she boarded. Before she let her go to bed, she made her get into a hot bath, and then gave her one of her nightgowns. Pretty soon after Debby got into bed the doctor came and gave her some pills to make her sleep.

BART and Joel had a late breakfast, and they went right through the village and got as far as Orleans, on their way to Boston, before they heard about the fire. They happened to stop there for gas, and somebody happened to mention it to them. They came back, of course, getting to the Qualeys' late in the forenoon, and Bart offered to lend Ellie five hundred dollars until things got straightened around and he could collect the insurance.

Until that moment Agnes had forgotten all about the fire insurance Ellie had bought, and she sat there in the Qualeys' sitting room staring at Bart wide-eyed trying to make herself believe that they were going to have seven thousand dollars. It wasn't possible. Seven thousand dollars was more money than she and Ellie, or her father, or almost anybody else she knew well, had ever had at one time in their whole lives; and instead of being left with no house and nothing except those few odds and ends they'd been able to carry out, the way she had been figuring all morning, they were going to have seven thousand dollars. For the first time since she had waked up, she found she could begin to think about things.

Ellie and Bart were arranging about whether Bart would send the check to the bank or to Ellie, and Ellie was saying how much he appreciated it and how he'd get it back to him as soon as they got the insurance money. It was cozy there in the sitting-room, with a big fire in the stove and the smell of pot roast coming from the kitchen. It had stopped raining, but it was a blustery gray day with a wind that rattled the windows, which made it seem cozier. Agnes held her bathrobe tight around her and rocked back and forth in her chair, looking at Joel.

He was sitting there staring at the floor and not even trying to look as though he was thinking about what Ellie and Bart were saying. He had on the same suit he'd worn the night they arrived, the one with the frayed cuff. He avoided Agnes' eyes, and that was all she needed, somehow, to fill in the picture in her mind of what happened the night before at the dance hall.

Even with all the excitement about the fire, her mind had kept going back to Debby and to what had happened to her at the dance hall. Debby didn't cry unless she had something to cry about, Agnes had been trying to guess ever since, and now she was pretty sure she knew, although of course she didn't know just how it had happened. And whenever she thought about it she felt guilty, as though it had been her fault.

Brooklyn produced more than her share of heroes and medal winners. Her boys had guts as well as mouths. They learned their strange new trade well.

Many now lie from Casablanca to Pilsen, side by side under the Christian cross and the star of David.

But above their high courage even was the stimulus they gave to every level of army life by their refusal to let their troubles get them down, the way they met every hardship with a jeer and a quip.

Well, they won their war and now most of them are back hanging on subway straps. So here, from across the seas on the anniversary of the day they gave up walking, is a toast to the happy, scrappy kids from Brooklyn who always called a spade a spade but could never learn to call an oil burner anything but "oil burner."

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Notebook

By HAL BOYLE
 BERLIN—Who won the war? Brooklyn. Because her sons gave the army belly laughs you have to have when you either must laugh or go crazy.

You couldn't throw a horseshoe in the air without hitting someone from Texas, and what Texas was in the air Brooklyn was on the ground.

If you picked any five guys at random from the infantry, one of them was sure to be from Brooklyn. It was a hard adjustment they made—front pavements to foxholes, from crowded street corners to bare Tunisian desert. They team heat to bunks in Belgian snowdrifts. And they complained there was too much ventilation in the war, and that the next one should be fought indoors.

"Bum management," they said, and wanted to know why, if the army could bring over jeeps, it couldn't bring over taxis instead so everybody would be more comfortable.

They groused and hollered more than a calf caught in a beartrap, but their gripping always had a laugh in it. One Brooklyn boy was a better morale builder than any three USO camp shows. His dry humor and endless wisecracks as he labored up a cliff carrying a mortar plate would keep a line of weary doughboys grinning all the way.

Brooklyn produced more than her share of heroes and medal winners. Her boys had guts as well as mouths. They learned their strange new trade well.

In my opinion there's not a girl to touch the German girl. They are the hardest working girls I have ever seen.—British Pvt. Frank Allett of London, in Germany.

By JACK RUTLEDGE
 AP Staff Writer

Boys will be boys:
 Six-year-old Eddie Nunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nunn of Amarillo, followed a group of older boys to town. About 2 p. m. he decided to go home.

He didn't have to ask anyone the directions. He started off on foot, walking up one street, then under an underpass, past a cotton oil, by a refinery, around the fair grounds.

On and on he trudged, arriving at home at 7:29 p. m.—five hours later.

Instead of walking 15 blocks, he had walked close to ten miles.

He knew the route the bus traveled to get to his home, and that is the way he went.

Mrs. H. E. Jones of Abilene turned her water hose on a large honeysuckle vine and received a surprise. A young boy rushed out.

She asked him what he had been doing, and he said "nothing" and scampered away.

Mrs. Jones investigated and found that the boy had made a bed of pasteboard boxes in the vine.

She later learned he had been coming there almost daily to take an after-breakfast snooze before reporting to classes.

Teachers said he had been arriving after recess every day.

Young Edward Flinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Flinn of Orange, is not quite nine but he's an electrical wizard.

At the age of three he made an extension cord; at four he made a lamp out of a wooden ash tray; at five he made a workable flashlight out of a talcum powder can.

Recently he was one of three boys in Texas and Arkansas to be honored by a magazine to appear on a radio program.

Then there's (Uncle Bill) Marnsman of Palestine. At the age of 74 he wants to fly, has registered at the airport to take lessons. So has W. M. Coplin, 62, also of Palestine.
