War and Peace Absent On V-E Anniversary

American Troops Stage V-E Parade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world observed the first anniversary of victory in Europe today without war anywhere but also without peace.

The best estimate of diplomatic authorities here is it may be several years before real conditions of peace are restored among nations. The prospect, even for this, they say, has been clouded by the evident failure of the foreign ministers' conference in Paris to make progress on European peace settlement.

The parade in the headquarters city of the U. S. occupation zone featured two thousand American troops. Both light patrol cars and German onlookers exchanged amazed whispers. A few defied their hats when the American flag passed.

White scarved, steel helmeted volunteers of the 508th parachute infantry regiment were the only tactical unit in the procession.

Several hundred soldiers of the headquarters detachment strode weaponless at the heels of a military police battalion and in front of a company of WACs and jeeps loaded with Red Cross girls.

Except for scattered officers and non-coms, virtually no soldier in the parade had seen real combat action against the Wehrmacht.

Two bands sporadically provided martial music, but most of the march took place in silence, broken only by the splash of rubberized army shoes on cobblestones. Even the German children were silent.

The biggest item on the V-E day program to most American soldiers was the scheduled opening of the army baseball season at a diamond built on a converted Nazi parade field here.

After the parade had passed six American fighter planes flew over the I. G. Farben compound in formation, but there was no other aerial display.

Weathered Gives Charter to Scouts

W. B. Weathered, Pampa, president of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout council, presented the charter to a new 41-member troop at Clarendon in ceremonies there last night.

The troop, which is sponsored by the American Legion post there, is the first to be organized in Clarendon in nearly 10 years.

Andrew Jay, post commander, accepted the charter from Weathered. The candlelight investiture ceremony was conducted by Claude Gallman, scoutmaster of Troop 89 here.

Charles Robinson is scoutmaster of that troop. He is assisted by Ross Bullis and Charles Hearn. Clifford Davis is chairman of the troop committee.

As soon as possible, Barrett's Frozen Foods will have additional lockers.

21-Nation Conference Proposed; Confessor to 5 Slayings Sought

Police Seeking Red-Head in Green Sedan

TEXARKANA, Ark.—(AP)—Reports of a confessor to the five mysterious slayings in this area during the last six weeks, had officers from Texas and Arkansas on the alert today for a red-headed, hatless man driving a green Plymouth sedan.

The latest development in the series of slayings which began March 24 came last night, when officers in Kilgore, Texas, fished the word that a middle-aged Negro said he had been robbed by a man claiming to be the assailant of the five slain persons in this area.

The Negro, Herbert Thomas, told Police Sgt. Paul Landes in Kilgore, Texas, last night that he had picked up a young man who had offered him $5 for a ride to nearby Henderson, Texas.

Police Seeking Red-Head in Green Sedan

HELD AT POINT OF GUN

After arriving near Henderson, Thomas told the officer that the man stuck a pistol to his side, and threatened to kill him unless the Negro continued to Lufkin, Texas, a 30-mile away.

Thomas reported that en route to Lufkin, the man claimed he had killed five people around Texarkana. He specifically named Paul Martin, 17, and Betty Jo Booker, 15, who were found dead near a park April 14.

PROMISE TO RETURN

The Negro said the man then claimed he would return to the Texarkana area, and for Thomas to "keep his mouth shut." Thomas said the slightly-built confessor had told him that he wanted revenge, and would "come back to kill the dead Martin's father."

Landes, however, said that the confessor had promised to return to the area.

Enlargement of Camp Is Planned

Plans are now underway to enlarge the Boy Scout camp facilities in the Adobe Walls council, Scout Executive Hugo Olsen said today.

At a meeting of the council executive board here Monday night it was decided to expand facilities at the new camp at Lake McClellan. The present complete facility is at Lake Marvin near Canadian.

The board over to hold the annual summer encampment at Lake Marvin June 9 through July 6. Scouts from over the council will take part.

The Marvin encampment will be under the direction of Don Watkins, Perryville field executive, assisted by Francis Records, who is now attending the national camping school at the Boy Scout camp headquarters in New Mexico.

Jack Armstrong, Amarillo, is to be in charge of aquatic activities at the encampment. Armstrong is a graduate of the American Red Cross aquatic school.

Mine Superintendent Asks for Protection

HARRIS, Ky.—(AP)—The International Harvester company's coal mine at nearby Betham shut down operations today and its superintendent announced he would ask Gov. Simeon Willis "for protection" against a recurrence of yesterday's gun battle in which one miner was shot to death and six other persons wounded.

NO MORE 2-DAY DELAYS: DEPARTMENT OF STATE IMPROVES ITS SERVICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Until recently it took an ordinary message from four hours to two days to go from one state department building to another in Washington.

The department has offices in 37 buildings, and it has 180 messengers.

In the past, as now, an urgent message could be delivered with fair speed by sending a messenger on a special delivery errand.

But it was the delivery of ordinary messages that bogged down and took as much as two days.

This situation has been corrected now.

Now the average time is 30 minutes to 2 1/2 hours to deliver an ordinary message from one state department building office to an office in another building.

Speeding up the messenger service was just one of the modernizing jobs Secretary Byrnes had to tackle when he took office a year ago.

Why did it take an ordinary message so long to get to its destination? It had been like that for years. Here's an example of how it was done:

Ice Cream Is Incentive for Raising $211.84 in High School Food Drive

With ice cream as an incentive, the home rooms of the senior high school yesterday raised $211.84 in the first period classes as their contribution to the emergency food collection now being conducted in this county.

J. Herman Jones, who mobilized the students to action in all the Pampa schools, said today Miss Violet Burrett's room has been declared the winner with a total of $48.17 collected. Since students are in the last days of school, the drive there is finished. There were some cans of food turned in.

Second place winner was the room of Miss Madge Rusch, with $27.40. Third place—Mrs. J. R. Hale's room, with $17.51. Fourth—Miss Mary Winston's room, with $15.47.

Drives in the other schools are still going on, it was said.

Rev. Reeves, superintendent of the Lefors school, said this. See FOOD DRIVE, Page 6.

Group Would Air European Peace Treaties

PARIS (AP)—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes said by a British informant today to have proposed to the foreign ministers conference that a 21-nation conference be held in Paris beginning June 15 to discuss European peace treaties.

It was conceded the informant said that the foreign ministers of Britain, Russia, France and the United States could not agree on the treaties at the present conference.

There was no immediate acceptance of Byrnes' proposal for the peace conference but the other three ministers were said to have accepted another Byrnes suggestion that their deputies draw up a list of points on which they have agreed and another list on which they have disagreed.

SOVIET RUSSIA OPPOSED

The list, it was conceded, would show that the United States and Great Britain had opposed Russia on every major point, with France sometimes siding with the British and the Americans and occasionally taking a position halfway between that of the Western Allies and the Russians.

The foreign ministers at their 5 p.m. (9 a.m. EST), meeting tomorrow expected to have the two lists on hand, and also reports from their committees of experts which have been working on matters referred to them.

The conference agenda still calls for a full discussion of the German problem, said an American source who intimated that Byrnes might try to raise the Austrian question again also.

Byrnes' offer of a 25-year mutual assistance pact to assure Germany's disarmament also remains to be discussed.

The American position toward the proposed June 15 peace conference was that Britain, Russia and the United States on Jan. 17 had a stated Russian the 21 nation conference.

Gromyko Will Not Attend U.N. Meet This Afternoon

NEW YORK (AP)—Anrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the United Nations Security Council, said today he did not "think" he would attend the security council session this afternoon and that he knew of no Russian report on the Iranian case.

The Soviet delegate thus indicated that he would stand by his previous assertion to the council members that he would not discuss the Iranian case further in the morning.

As he left his hotel this morning, he was asked, "are you going to the security council's meeting today?"

"I don't think so," he replied.

"Has your government filed a report on the Iranian matter?" was the next question.

"I know of no such report," he answered.

Museum Aba, Iranian ambassador here for the council meeting, said this morning he had no further information from his government in Tehran beyond his statement made Monday night that the Russians have withdrawn from four provinces, but that the situation in the fifth province in question, Azerbaijan, could not be clarified.

The security council tackles the Russian-Iranian issue at 1 p.m. CST for the first time since the May 6 deadline for the withdrawal of Red army forces from Iran under a Soviet-Iranian agreement of April 5.

Texas Production Of Oil Increases

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Daily average crude oil production swung upward 6,702 barrels to 4,754,452 on the strength of a 77,300-barrel increase in Texas and smaller gains elsewhere for the week ending May 6.

The Oil and Gas Journal reported the Texas average at 2,131,900 and listed Louisiana up 12,300 to 385,150; Illinois 2,800 to 212,100; California 12,000 to 860,500; the Eastern area 1,250 to 66,000 and Arkansas 750 to 77,500.

Losers included the Rocky Mountain area of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming, down 3,330 to 154,640; Oklahoma 3,450 to 363,700 and Kansas 2,700 to 244,650.

New Mexico was unchanged at 95,300.

Mississippi's production was 57,050 barrels compared with 55,200 the previous week.

Contamination Threat Closes Lake at Park

A threat of contamination from sewer drainage has prompted the city commission to temporarily close the city lake at recreation park.

No fishing, boating, wading or swimming will be permitted at the lake until the temporary situation has been cleared up. City Manager Garbaid Franks said.

Franks added that steps had already been taken to eliminate the contamination but until it is cleared, extreme precautionary measures must be taken.

It was said that the sewer drainage originated from the Cities Service company plant south of the city, not from the city's sewer line.

Plans for Business College Here Dropped

Plans for establishing a business college in Pampa by an Enid, Okla., concern have been dropped, according to word received this morning from Samuel J. Drake, business manager for the concern.

Drake said he appreciated the interest shown in the college and is "more than sorry that it is impossible to go through with the plans at this time."

Labor Secretary Holds Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal coal negotiators interrupted soft coal strike negotiations today for a four-hour conference with Secretary of Labor Howard Callahan.

There was no hint, however, of any impending "break" in the stalemated negotiations. The conciliators, Edward F. McGrady and Paul W. Fuller, declined to discuss the conference.

From coal operators came word that "no progress" had been made during the morning session toward ending the 38-day-old strike.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, was absent from the morning session. Vice President John O'Leary said he did not know what had detained Lewis, but thought he would be present this afternoon.

The civilian production administration meanwhile rushed work on emergency measures aimed at conserving dwindling coal supplies of gas utility companies.

An official of the agency who withheld use of his name said CPA expects to authorize utilities using manufactured gas to curtail service at their discretion.

Auto Industry Stagers Under Burden of Strike

DETROIT (AP)—The automobile industry staggered today under the burden of the coal strike.

As the Ford Motor company began laying off 119,000 workers, management disclosed the period of idleness might continue for a month or more.

Chrysler of the industry's big three, General Motors and Chrysler, kept a close watch. Both expected ultimately to be affected, perhaps within a day.

An immediate layoff of 35,000 to 50,000 Ford workers in the Detroit area began today.

Ford officials consulted with representatives of the CIO's united auto workers union over plans to include the workers' plant operations within the lay-off period, thus offsetting the pay loss in part.

Under present plans Ford's nationwide shutdown will be complete next week.

Chrysler Corp. said its assembly lines and body plant operations may be suspended early next week because of the coal emergency, and General Motors Corp., announcing shutdown of its La Grange, Ill., unit, said other work may be affected "within a very short time."

Spokesmen for the auto industry's "big three" said curtailment of their operations was dependent on the government's general freight embargo, effective at midnight Thursday, under which auto parts are not eligible for transportation by rail.

The industry's assembly plants already have been curtailed more than four months behind schedule, with production at about 50 percent of capacity. About 800,000 cars and trucks have been produced since last July 1, in contrast to the 2,500,000 originally scheduled.

The Ford shutdown is scheduled by official spokesmen to follow several plant curtailments, the first of the year. Most of them had no effect on production, but were laid to strikes and material shortages.

Industry Hard Hit

Industry already was hard hit. Ford Motor Co. suspended virtually all operations "temporarily" because of the coal strike, impaired rail transportation and parts shortage. The shutdown hits 110,000 workers. Chrysler Corp. indicated it may follow suit. The Association of American Railroads reported about 51,000 railroad men had been laid off in its ranks, and another 100,000 were expected to be laid off.

Railroad Union Sets Strike Vote For Wage Boost

DENISON (AP)—E. Jones, general chairman of the brotherhood of maintenance of way of the Missouri Pacific, said today that the union would take a strike vote some time between May 20 and June 15.

Jones said the action was decided upon at the Chicago meeting May 2 of general chairmen of all brotherhoods, over the nation.

He attended the meeting.

The strike vote is for a wage increase.

Jones explained that the non-operating brotherhoods recently had asked for a 30-cent wage increase and that an arbitration board had awarded them 16 cents, which was accepted by the brotherhoods with protest.

The strike vote will be called, he said, to determine whether the unions wish to strike for the additional 14 cents.

The non-operating unions include all railroad employees of the nation except those of the so-called big four of operating unions, which already have called a strike for May 15.

Jones said this was the first strike vote taken by non-operating unions since before the war.

Bathing Beauty Contest Is Set

Pampa's own bathing beauties will parade before the public May 24 at the Junior high gymnasium in the Junior chamber of commerce beauty contest, it was announced today.

The event here is being held in connection with a similar contest at Vernon May 29. The Vernon chamber of commerce asked the local Jaycees to select a Pampa winner to compete for the $500 first prize at Vernon.

No, only contestants from surrounding communities have been invited to take part in the Pampa contest, in case the other towns have not already been invited to send a representative.

We want to include all our neighboring towns in the current activity," Harry Kelley, chairman of the Jaycee committee, said.

Members of the organization have begun contacting local merchants and organizations to enter contestants. Any business house or organization is eligible to enter a contestant, although no two groups may sponsor the same one.

Anyone wishing to enter a contestant should contact Kelley by telephoning 21-1 or Joe Fischer at the Hughes Platts agency, providing they are not called on by club members.

The strike vote is for a wage increase.

Jones explained that the non-operating brotherhoods recently had asked for a 30-cent wage increase and that an arbitration board had awarded them 16 cents, which was accepted by the brotherhoods with protest.

The strike vote will be called, he said, to determine whether the unions wish to strike for the additional 14 cents.

The non-operating unions include all railroad employees of the nation except those of the so-called big four of operating unions, which already have called a strike for May 15.

Jones said this was the first strike vote taken by non-operating unions since before the war.

Most Churches Take Part in Family Week

This is National Family Week, a nationwide observance of Protestants, Catholics and Jews. Most of the churches of Pampa are building their programs around the theme that the home is the basis of our society.

National church committees working together have stated that waste, hate, race prejudices and intolerance are detrimental to American democracy. The urge strengthened your family by reading daily from the Bible. Go to your church or synagogue each week.

Bathing Beauty Contest Is Set

Pampa's own bathing beauties will parade before the public May 24 at the Junior high gymnasium in the Junior chamber of commerce beauty contest, it was announced today.

The event here is being held in connection with a similar contest at Vernon May 29. The Vernon chamber of commerce asked the local Jaycees to select a Pampa winner to compete for the $500 first prize at Vernon.

No, only contestants from surrounding communities have been invited to take part in the Pampa contest, in case the other towns have not already been invited to send a representative.

We want to include all our neighboring towns in the current activity," Harry Kelley, chairman of the Jaycee committee, said.

Members of the organization have begun contacting local merchants and organizations to enter contestants. Any business house or organization is eligible to enter a contestant, although no two groups may sponsor the same one.

Anyone wishing to enter a contestant should contact Kelley by telephoning 21-1 or Joe Fischer at the Hughes Platts agency, providing they are not called on by club members.

FBI Arrests Last of Five Escaped Convicts

WASHINGTON—(AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced today the arrest of John Mansour, the last of the five fugitives who escaped from the District of Columbia jail Nov. 4, 1945.

The agents surrounded the cabin, Hoover said, and gave Mansour a minute to get out. He refused. They then fired a shot gun blast into the cabin and the fugitive came out.

Mansour, Hoover said, will be charged with violating the federal escape act. When he escaped from the district jail, he was under a charge of robbery, Hoover said.

BERLIN—(AP)—One year ago this week the finest army that ever fought under the American flag ceased battle operations, its victory won.

Because neither of the two men who commanded it had a flair for personal publicity, it never had the clamor won by General George Patton's famous Third Army. It gains many wearers of the square black "A" shoulder patch that the public and some staff officers of the Third Army still believe that Patton engineered the break through at St. Lo, took Paris and made the initial crossing of the Rhine.

It was the First Army that spearheaded into Normandy in the greatest amphibious operation of the war.

It was the First Army that captured Cherbourg, first great continental port to fall.

It was the First Army that broke the German defensive crust at St. Lo, turning the battle of France into a hare-and-hounds chase. Some Patton divisions were in the attack but the wedge was First Army troops.

It was the First Army that took Paris. The American Fourth infantry division had to boot skylarking French tankmen into town to claim the glory of liberating their own capital. The Third Army was miles and heading toward Metz.

It was the First Army that entered Germany on September 11, 1944. It was the First Army that captured the first German city, Aachen.

are assigned to various offices and divisions, sometimes two or more to one place.

The main message center for all 37 buildings was in the main state department building.

Suppose Jones, in building AAA, wanted to send an ordinary message to Smith in building BBB.

Jones would drop it in his basket for the messenger to pick up. If the messenger were on some other errand, it might be several hours.

Finally picked it up, he'd take it to the message center in his building.

There a truck, which made the rounds of the 37 buildings, in time would pick up Jones' message.

The truck took that message, and all other messages it had picked up, back to the main message center in the main building.

There the messages were sorted out and another truck picked them up and delivered them to building BBB. It was placed in the message center there.

In due time Smith's messenger would visit the center to carry the message up to Smith.

Now messengers circulate around their buildings every half-hour, picking up messages and delivering them to their message centers. From there they are sent directly to their destination.

Arriving at the message center there, they are picked up and delivered to the specified offices by messengers making the rounds every 30 minutes.

After arriving near Lufkin, the Negro said the man took back his $5, robbed Thomas of another $3, and then fled.

At Lufkin, Police Sgt. W. C. Turner said that a man by the name of "Camel" had reported his green Plymouth sedan stolen about the time Thomas claimed the robbery.

Turner said he assumed that the man Thomas picked up in Kilgore was the same man who had made away with the Plymouth.

Meanwhile officers continued to probe the death of a man whose mutilated body was found on a railroad track near Texarkana early yesterday.

Sheriff Jim Sanderson of Little River county said he believed the man killed by a train.

But Dr. Frank C. Engler, the county coroner, said his jury had returned a decision that the man died at the hands of persons unknown; that a deep cut over the man's temple was sufficient to cause death, and that it was inflicted before his body was on the tracks.

The man was identified as Earl Cliff McSpadden, and carried an identity card from the Shreveport, La.-U. S. E. S. office. He did not leave an address there.

EFFORTS REDOUBLED Against such a background, Federal Mediator Paul W. Fuller redoubled efforts to break the negotiations deadlock between Lewis and the mine operators, and the 38-day old stoppage which is keeping 400,000 miners idle.

Fuller met with no success in his first efforts to work out an agreement on the question of $3,000,000 in holiday overtime which the miners insist is due them. However, he kept at it, for this issue is one of the obstacles blocking discussion of major provisions in a new contract with the miners.

On Capitol Hill congressional tempers grew shorter, and support gathered behind demands that strike control legislation get No. 1 priority in a holiday overtime which the miners insist is due them. However, he kept at it, for this issue is one of the obstacles blocking discussion of major provisions in a new contract with the miners.

Brownouts and dimouts of lights were imposed by community after community across the country in an effort to conserve fuel stores.

The solid fuels administration reported that even gas and oil, now under heavier demand than ever, are becoming hard to get because of transportation difficulties as railroads slashed services requiring coal-burning locomotives.

The office of defense transportation imposed new restrictions on coal dealers, ruling that supplies must go only to those consumers with less than five-days' stock.

between the Western Allies and Russia.

The problem of the conference is to write peace treaties for Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland. Falling in this, the conferees may have to resort to a system of modifying present armistice agreements with the ex-enemy satellites.

This would prolong indefinitely their suspension between war and peace and might strengthen the position of occupying powers within them. Some British officials believe such action in effect would amount to handing over the Balkans finally to Russia.

In Asia the restoration of real peace and the elimination of sources of conflict among the great powers depend on three factors:

(1) Somewhat unifying China, (2) Winning Allied agreement on the long-range control of Japan, and (3) Putting into effect plans for the full independence of Korea.

These issues at present serve as constant sources of irritation among the big powers. The division extends even to the relief of millions suffering by food shortages.

Along with the famine problem and the immediate and long range political issues go the economic issues yet to be settled. These involve America's announced policy of seeking freer world trade, Britain's economic future and the great question of how private capitalism, British socialism and Russian communism can trade and work together.

American officials say that not until some of the economic and political problems are solved—and particularly not until confidence is established among the great powers in their respective good intentions—can the United Nations machinery be expected to cope effectively with problems of world peace and security.

And to this they add that not until the U. N. machinery begins to prove itself in this respect can it be counted upon confidently to accomplish the biggest task of all—prevention of an atomic war.

Fonda Faces Task Of Pleasing Fans

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—A new generation of movie goers has taken over the local Bijou since the war the actor returning from the service faces a big task in learning to please them. That's what Henry Fonda thinks.

"I wanted to be careful about my first film," the Grand Island, Neb., actor said on the set of "My Darling Clementine." "That's why I waited six months for the right role. There are many people going to the movies now who didn't four years ago. I have to please them too."

This point was driven home by Hank's oldest daughter, Frances, who was too young for movies when he entered the navy but now is an avid fan. When father came home with his long hair-do for the Western role, she remarked, "why daddy, that's absolutely moldy-moldy!"

"She typifies the new generation of enthusiastic movie goers," said Fonda. "Older patrons go to pictures once or twice every two weeks. The younger bunch goes far more often and are really critical."

Hank is looking more blue-eyed and handsome than ever, and the navy added a few pounds to his former slim self. He has lined up a heavy schedule for himself with two pictures after "Clementine" and then "Ethan Frome" with Bette Davis in September.

CUT-BACKS IN PROGRESS

The utility industry planned to launch a large-scale program of plant expansion and service improvement in 1946. Those plans have been wrecked by strikes which created shortages of necessary materials. Instead of spending a contemplated $750,000,000 this year, the industry will be lucky if it can spend $300,000,000 toward more and better electric service. With prices of equipment averaging 50 percent above the pre-war level, the $300,000,000 expenditure will mean less expansion than was made in the depression year 1933, when $164,000,000 was spent—at depression prices.

A late report in a leading financial publication observes that a quick, item-by-item survey of delivery time now quoted by manufacturers on key equipment needed for electric utility expansion, shows how dismal the outlook is. Insulators, essential on poles to support electric wires, if ordered today, would be delivered a year or so from now; transformers, in ten or twelve months; delivery of electric meters may be delayed as long as 18 months; wire, nine to twelve months. And so it goes through a long list of items.

It is pointed out that the army has considerable surplus electrical equipment but public agencies have first preference on it, and are exercising their privilege. Unquestionably, much of it will be used in tax-exempt government electric power projects to push forward the federal power socialization program while taxpaying private industry stands on the sidelines with its hands tied.

This is a sample of the handicap under which all industry is laboring today. And still we wonder why shortages and general confusion are increasing after nearly a year of peace.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLLES

Do I Believe in Education?

Evidently I have not made my mind clear on tax-supported schools. I get this idea from what a reader of "Common Ground" writes. I quote from a letter I received: "Mr. Holles apparently does not consider education essential to the making of good citizens."

Evidently the person who wrote that thinks that the only way people can be educated is by having them go to tax-supported schools. But there is no education outside of tax-supported schools. It is exactly because I do consider education essential to the making of good citizens that I am opposed to tax-supported schools.

I think the most important part of any education is teaching people to have respect for others and to consider the dignity of every other human being. Tax-supported schools do not do that. In fact, I would ask this reader to write a definition of robbery that does not make tax-supported schools the same as any other form of collective robbery. I would also have this reader write a definition of private property that would permit tax-supported schools, or a definition of freedom that would permit tax-supported schools.

The Romans or the Greeks had to real definition of property. They believed that human beings were property, and that the state or even private individuals had a right to use force and compulsion to take the energy of other human beings. That is exactly what tax-supported schools do.

And if no one who believes in tax-supported schools can give a definition of robbery that does not make tax-supported schools robbery, or write a definition of freedom or private property that can be harmonized with tax-supported schools, then how can the teachers in tax-supported schools teach the term that comes from robbery? How can they teach freedom? How can they teach what private property is when they are not respecting private property, when the majority by their acts are denying the freedom of every individual and are denying that there is any such thing as private property?

They are denying private property by giving authority to school districts to compel every individual, whether he wills or not, to support the majority's idea of education.

Certainly "education is essential to making good citizens" but if the state cannot educate in honesty, freedom, morals, peace and voluntary exchanges instead of compulsory exchanges, then it cannot educate the citizen in the essentials of good government or the essentials of good citizenship. It can educate them only in the Old World idea that the state is over and above the citizen; that the citizen is a pawn of the state.

Real education, of course, comes from calling the attention of those who are to be educated to the moral laws that govern human relations, to the laws that experience has taught us promote the spiritual, intellectual and moral growth of the individual.

If these laws are understood by the majority, Jesus was wrong when he said, "Wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many so enter therein; because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

Then Moses was wrong in the commandments, "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not covet." Tax-supported schools are a violation of these commandments. The majority is coveting, in short, is stealing a part of the energy of the people to make them comply with the will of the majority.

It is more possible for the majority to educate on moral principles than it is for a man or society to live itself by its own bootstraps. Moral education consists of coming in contact with people who believe in and understand moral laws and stimulate others to believe in them. The youth's moral sense is sharpened by coming in contact with these people just as steel is sharpened by coming in contact with materials harder than President Truman himself is a World War I alumnus, and the navy regards him as distinctly an "army man," in contrast to his predecessor. He has killed key posts in the diplomatic service and at Washington with army-navy officers.

Almost 200 of John J. Pershing's men now sit in house and senate, and ex-warriors will probably have a working majority in the lower chamber after next November's elections. It is expected that at least fifty World War II servicemen will out incumbent. Additional scores will run for local and state offices in an apprenticeship for preferment to higher posts in the coming years.

The men who wore the uniform in World War II may yet provide a President. With the notable exception of General George C. Marshall and Douglas MacArthur, the top officers of the recent conflict were much younger than General Pershing's staff aides, corps and divisional commanders. They also achieved greater popularity with

MACKENZIE'S Columna

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Britain's proposal to withdraw her military establishment from Egypt, after occupying that vital strategic base on the imperial life-line since 1882, is sensational and daring, but we shouldn't make the mistake of assuming that it's a harum-scarum scheme which has been cooked up overnight by the new socialist government.

Former Prime Minister Churchill in a heated attack in commons on the project characterized it as one of the most momentous he had heard in the house. He added ominously that "after sixty years of diplomacy and administration, things built up with great labor are cast away with great shame and Socialist Prime Minister Attlee's reply to his conservative opponent was that the plan was the best method to calm rising Egyptian nationalism. From Cairo we learn that the British offer is contingent on revision of the present Anglo-Egyptian alliance so that the defense of the Suez canal would be entrusted to Egypt.

Well, now, just what is behind this empire-rocking proposal? The British military occupation of Egypt began 64 years ago, but we need to go back further than the beginning of the first world war when Egypt in theory was still a province of Turkey. As soon as the Turks ended the war on the German side, England deposed the Egyptian Khedive and established a protectorate.

That protectorate lasted until 1922 and it not only bred strong anti-British feeling but stimulated nationalism. The British government chafed the position to see what solution might be possible for a permanent settlement of a dangerous situation.

The conclusion was: First, the protectorate might be carried on without bringing Egypt into the empire; second, Egypt might be incorporated in the empire to give the British a greater opportunity to participate in legislative debate.

The thoughtful Yankee has figured out that each representative spends the equivalent of thirty five-hour legislative days in merely answering roll calls. He bases this on the fact that the last time Congress was in session, he suggested an electrical device for recording votes, such as many state legislatures have now.

But the M. C. appear to like the sound of their own voices, even in simply yelling Aye or Nay, and the Vermonters' suggestion has evoked no favorable response so far.

For the moment at least the ex-soldier is the darling of the politicians from the White House down to the most lowly district clubhouse.

PLAN—A comparative newcomer to Capitol Hill—Senator William F. Knowland of California—gave an effective reply to Majority Senate Leader Alben W. Barkley's complaint about senatorial absenteeism a few days ago. Noting that there were only a few members in their seats, the Kentuckian delivered a sharp lecture to present and missing colleagues.

Mr. Knowland then advanced a remedy. He pointed out that if administration leaders would work on the La Follette-McCord program for streamlining congressional machinery, the legislators would have more time for chamber appearances. Few days later the plan for reducing the number of time-wasting committees, better liaison with the White House and a large clerical force was scheduled for at least preliminary action.

SCHEME—Representative Charles A. Plumley of Vermont has also proposed a scheme for giving mem-

DISAPPOINTMENT

SHE blushes and took off her coat and hung it on the hook outside the booth. Just then somebody started the machine again, and Joel came out and said, "Let's dance." He gave the order to the waiter, and then they started to dance, and he held her different from the way the high school boys used to hold her, and the steps he did were all different. She was rigid in his arms, and the first couple of times around the floor they seemed to do nothing but stumble over each other's feet.

Gradually it got a little better, but what with being so keyed up and it being so hot, Debby got to sweating more and more, and the collar of her dress kept slipping back and forth across her shoulders. And she couldn't seem to know ahead of time which way Joel was going to turn or what he was going to do with his feet. She knew he wasn't having a good time, and that made her so nervous she was almost panicky, and by the time they got back to the booth she was ready to cry.

She must have looked it, because suddenly he smiled across the table at her and put his hand over hers and squeezed it. It was like a straw to a drowning man; his face was just a blur, and she squeezed his hand and then left her hand in his. They sat like that, sipping their drinks with one hand and holding hands with the other. Their hands got hot and moist and it wasn't much fun, but if he wanted to hold hands Debby wasn't going to stop. Finally he took his hand away and tossed off the rest of his drink and took out his handkerchief and wiped his hand.

They tried to dance once more, and sometime later they had another highball. Debby kept waiting for the drinks to make her feel gay, but all they did was make her hotter than ever, until her face and neck felt as though they were bursting. And after a couple of hours she began to feel awful doxy and faraway, and the only other thing she felt was a bit dizzy and weak in the stomach when they went out to the car to go home.

SHE never could remember afterwards what they had talked about that evening except when they talked about Joel's coming back. It had started when he announced, looking off into space the way he had so much of the time that night, "This is my last night here."

Debby had felt that she should say something romantic and meaningful, but all she said was, "You're last night?" He nodded. "Start work Monday morning," he said. "In Chicago. That means I leave here tomorrow."

"I wish you didn't have to," said Debby. "So do I." "What will you be back?" "Back?" "Sure. You'll be coming back, won't you?" He smiled vaguely. "Oh, I suppose sometime. But God knows when, I'm going to be a working man, you know."

"But you'll have vacations." "Two weeks a year—if I'm lucky. And there'll be plenty of things I'll want to do with those two weeks." Debby stared at him blankly. "Things you'd rather do than come—come back to the Cape?" He was toying with his cigaret, looking down at the ash tray. "Well, I'll tell you." He looked up at her, and she thought he was embarrassed. "What you probably don't realize is how much of the with destroying the empire. Herbert Morrison, socialist floor leader in commons, replies that the alternative to British withdrawal from Egypt is "almost certain disturbance, riot and possibly even revolution."

The third alternative was adopted in general form in 1922. The protectorate was abolished but Britain reserved certain important privileges among which was the maintenance of armed forces in Egypt. There was a revision of this treaty in 1936, but still giving Britain the right to continue military occupation. And now the British government proposes a new alliance which would place the responsibility for defense of England's interests on Egyptian arms.

The conservatives charge the socialists in about so many words

Cape I managed to see last minutes I drove nearly three weeks, you know."

DEBBY was all confused in her mind. She shook her head. "Don't you like it here?" she asked feebly.

"Oh, sure. But with only two weeks a year, and so many things I want to try, and so many places I want to see—"

She was beginning to see what he was driving at. "Is that all you care about? Seeing things?" She looked at him, as she had never looked at him before.

"Oh, no. No. But when you're young I think you ought—"

"Don't you care anything about people? About havin' friends and seeing 'em again?" Now she knew exactly what he was driving at, and suddenly she was feeling terribly hollow and weak. "Don't anything else mean anything to you except seein' things?"

He was staring glumly into her face, and she looked straight back into his eyes. Slowly she shook her head, and she was ashamed of him. It was as sudden as that. But it hurt something fierce. All in one short moment she was knowing that never again in her whole life would she feel toward anybody the way she had felt toward him during the past week. Not even toward him, if he should someday come back to her. She might still be in love with him but she would always know there was something about him way inside that wasn't quite the way she had dreamed it.

He paid the check and they got out and drove home. As they drove into the yard he said, "No lights, I guess they've all gone to bed." And she said, "Yes, the animals won't be on display again until tomorrow morning."

He said, "I'm sorry, Debby," and she got out of the car and ran into the house, and she might not have cried if the house hadn't smelled so bad of foul oil. She ran up the stairs, sobbing, and tore off her graduation dress and stamped on it. Then she fell on the bed, still sobbing. She hadn't cried like that since she was a little girl.

Hapless Oklahoma City Indians Win Over Padres, 3-2

(By The Associated Press)
Oklahoma City finally broke into the win column today.
The Indians scored victory No. 3 last night when they took the favored San Antonio Padres, 3-2. But the tribe still rested not-so-comfortable in the Texas league berth.
At the top of the ladder, Dallas took a firm grip on the lead by packing up its fourth consecutive victory in a 2 to 0 win over the Shreveport Sports. It was the second straight for the Rebels.

In Beaumont, the Fort Worth Cats evened the Texas league series with the Beaumont Exporters by winning a 7 to 1 duck. The win for the Cats enabled them to stay in the loop's No. 2 spot.
First baseman Earl York banged out a pair of triples and a homer for the Tulsa Oilers as they took Houston, 11-4 last night in the fourth league contest.
Today's results:
Dallas at Shreveport, night game.
Fort Worth at Beaumont, day game.
Oklahoma City at San Antonio, night game.
Tulsa at Houston, night game.

CHOO CHOO RUNWAY
GLUEK, Minn.—(AP)—The Minnesota Western Roundhouse now has plenty of ventilation.
Foreman Frank Prindle explains it was an accident, however. The throttle slipped while he was backing a locomotive into the roundhouse and the engine went through the rear of the building.

CONTEMPT ENOUGH
VANCOUVER, Wash.—(AP)—Attorney Booth McAbee began arguing with the judge.
"Ten dollars for contempt of court," said Justice of the Peace Paul Elwell.
"Ten dollars would not begin to express my contempt of this court," snapped McAbee.

"Fifty dollars," said the justice. The attorney was silent.
Among primitive peoples, it is believed that a person can change his personality and avert threatening dangers by changing his name.

We're doing all we can to serve people waiting for telephones

THE urgent job of getting telephone service to those waiting is going ahead. We are nearing a milestone: Soon everyone who needs only a telephone instrument itself to get service will have it. That shortage is about over.

In the first three months of this year we have installed 150,000 new telephones in the five states we serve. This is as many as we would have installed in six months of a normal year.

Although 170,000 new applicants for service during this time kept the waiting list long (223,000 in the Southwest as April began), we now are getting service faster to those waiting longest. A great many of the people waiting for service on V-J Day now have it.

Two big jobs remain:

- As quickly as we can get it, we are wiring the precision, intricate machinery that handles your calls at the exchange. This takes time and skill. We must do years of work in the next few months.
- In a great many places we also need outside cable and wire. We plan to have this in and ready when the new equipment in the telephone office is completed. Where we can, we are wiring homes in advance for telephones, ready to connect them the moment we are able.

Meanwhile, we are trying every way we know to s-t-r-e-t-c-h the service... and we are temporarily squeezing in everyone we can with party lines, hooking more telephones to already loaded switchboards and dial equipment, putting disconnected lines back into service faster. If for a while telephone service is not always as fast as you'd-like it, it is because of this crowding!

We repeat: The telephone company is doing all it can to provide service for waiting customers. We're looking forward to the day we get in touch with you to arrange the details of installing your telephone.
