Associated Press Writer

Political ally and foe alike today hailed Harry S. Truman as a common man who honored the nation with his courage and decisiveness when thrust into the nation's highest office at a time of international peril.

President Nixon said, "Harry S. Truman will be remembered as one of the most courageous presidents in our history, who led the nation and the world through a critical period with exceptional vision and determination. Our hopes today for a generation of peace rest in large measure on the firm foundations that he laid.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said. "Among the talents that Harry Truman brought to the presidency were two indispensible qualities of a great forthrightness and courage. #### City Resumes Its Operations After Holiday

Pampa business activities were resumed today after the long Christmas holiday weekend

Merchants were going through the annual Christmas present exchange ordeal along with after-Christmas sales and inventory preparations.

The city was closed down almost tight Monday with exception of a few food stores and service stations

It was not a white Christmas although temperatures remained on the cool side and the day's high reached only to 47 degrees. The early morning low today was 26 with expectation the mercury would climb into the 50s this afternoon.

Forecasters were calling for warmer tomorrow with a high reaching into the 60s.

Police and sheriff departments reported there were no major happenings to mar the holiday in Pampa or Gray County.

City sanitation department workers began their after-Christmas rounds today to pick up discarded Christmas trees and wrappings. Along with the rest of the state and nation, Pampans now head down the remaining days of the current week into the annual New Year's Eve festivities and celebrations to mark the birth of 1973.

HOF, Germany (AP) - An East German electrician caught Communist border guards napping early today and rammed his speeding auto through three border barriers on the Berlin-Hof autobahn to escape into West Germany, Bavarian police reported.

Not realizing he had already crossed the border, the refugee kept his foot on the gas and shattered another autobahn crossing gate manned by Bavarian border police. The police gave chase to the battered car. When they caught up with the electrician, his first question "Am I in West Germany?" Assured that he was, the refugee gave a sigh of relief. Apparently the entire East German guard detachment was all on the other side," a police spokesman said. The refugee, 18. gave persona and political grounds for his escape. He told police he took advantage of the predawn fog and a letup of the Christmas holiday traffic to make his es-asleep. There was no reaction at

A Quiet Holiday Weekend?

Peace justice courts processed the usual number of drivers caught in their Christmas rush...city police 'refereed" a couple of domestic bouts ... and vandals were about each night, but authorities termed it a quiet holiday weekend nonetheless.

Saturday night a shot from a B-B gun broke a storm door on Hazel street: someone threw a brick through a window on Hamilton while the residents were gone Sunday night and vandals took down a string of lights in a yard on Dogwood broke 39 bulbs on the lawn and left the light string. Two fighting couples, one with the eternal third party. were told to settle their arguments in court.

No accidents involving injuries or even serious damage were reported locally and only one case of driving while intoxicated was entered on the police blotter. Department of Public Safety officials noted that, despite advance pleas and warnings, there were still motorists on area highways who started too late or became too eager to get there and drove too fast through the heavy current of holiday

By ANDREW TORCHIA Associated Press Writer

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - It combines the raffish air of Coney Island, the glamour of London's antique row on Portobello Road and the exotic aromas of Main Street somewhere east of

It's Bazaar Street, 115 onestory shops in two bustling blocks bounded by a mosque and a glass-box office tower. This is the heartland of Asian dukawallahs-shopkeepers-in this African capital.

British housewives and chic African secretaries share the pavement under a forest of Asian store signs-Hirji Devraji, Karamshi and Co., Amratlal Stores. For a little less than downtown prices, you can buy oriental carpets, spices, plastic dishpans, Kikuyu wigs and uniforms once worn at a Pennsylvania military academy.

The mood of the dukawallahs has been gloomy since Uganda expelled 40,000 Asians in November. Many say Uganda has aroused such strong anti-Asian feelings among the African masses that nearly all noncitizen Asians may be forced out of Kenya within a year, with citizens to follow soon after.

Government pronouncements talk of interracial harmony and gradual Africanization of commercial sectors dominated by noncitizens. But the Asian community gets a bad case of nerves when the assistant home affairs minister, Martin Shikuku, tells Parliament: "Kenya is not a dumping place for citizens of other nations. Let the British Asians go home.

The Nairobi security and property markets have faltered. Christmas shopping has been dull, partly because anxious Asian merchants refused to lay in their usual stocks.

A panicky Asian contractor halted a residential project with the houses half finished. An Asian landlord who dropped plans to divide his property and build apartments is trying to

"Who's going to buy?" the landlord said. "Either the Africans don't have the money or Africans, they trick Africans they say, 'You're going to leave it all here some day anyway, so why should I buy? Reports abound of Asians suddenly preparing to leave Kenya, although official figures reflect no exodus so far. "We have no future here," said the Asian owner of a business grossing almost $300,000 year.

Africa's history is full of foreigners from East and West who came to settle, trade or colonize. The era of European dominance ended only a decade ago. More than 100,000 Asians live in Kenya, most descended from Indian railroad workers imported by British colonials 75 years ago, or from traders who came later

Under the British, the Asians moved into the civil service and became a middle class social buffer between white settlers and the blacks. After East African independence, some Asians took citizenship in Kenva. Uganda and Tanzania. Others stayed but held on to a "secure' British passport-some 40,000 remain in Kenya.

According to some estimates, 60 per cent of this city is Asianheld, with the balance mostly in the hands of Western corporations and investors

Black African governments, convinced that the lovalty of noncitizens lies outside Africa, found ways to lever them out. Nationalization of rented properties and foreign trade, along with foreign exchange controls, persuaded some 20,000 to leave socialist Tanzania last year. About 40,000 remain, mostly noncitizens.

Kenya, with a largely private economy, began withholding trading licenses from noncitizens in businesses the government believed Africans were ready to take over. It has been a gradual process resulting in the departure for Britain of about 5,000 Asians annually.

Now Uganda has revived a host of prejudices against both citzen and noncitizen Asiansthey smuggle profits out of the country, they keep to themselves and refuse to marry Realistic Asians acknowledge a grain of truth in African accusations.

"How can an African feel the reality, the pride, the exultation and the euphoria of freedom when he finds that nine years after Uhuru (freedom) shops in street after major street are still owned and operated by foreigners?" an Asian newspaper editor wrote.

But Asians say tribal divisions among Africans are just as wide as any Asian-African

They say Asians are not one people but many. Second or third-generation Shahs, Hindu Gujaratis from western India, predominate in Bazaar Street. Goans are prominent in Roman Catholic affairs. Many who left Tanzania last year were Ismaili Moslems led by the Aga Khan.

Uganda's Asian expulsion, although deplored by moderate African leaders, may be caus-

Kenya is cracking down on over-invoicing, reportedly a favorite racket among noncitizen traders to slip money past foreign exchange contols. A foreign supplier ships goods to a Kenyan importer, along with a bill for far more than the shipment's value. The importer pays the fraudulent bill, the supplier takes the amount actually due him and the balance goes into the importer's foreign bank account.

Kenya is moving to Africanize the tourist industry, an economic mainstay. Under new regulations, 51 per cent of Kenya's 90 travel agencies must be citizen-owned by 1975. Licenses will be withheld gradually starting next year from noncitizen hotel personnel, tour operators, tourist guides, discotheque operators and dealers in curios and game trophies.

Most Asians seem confident that Presidents Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya and Julius Nyerere of mands of African radicals.

Some whose trading licenses have been withdrawn are finding ways around the situation, like selling out to Asian cousins who are Kenya citizens. Others are planning to pull out of commerce and go into industry that requires more capital and expertise and thus may be safe for a while from Africanization.

Others say the tragedy of Uganda is that it occurred when the Asian problem in East Africa was nearly solved.

Prof. Dharam Ghai, an Asian, estimates that Kenya's Asian population has fallen by 40 per cent since independence. Asian economic dominance is already a myth, he contends, since only the main streets in Kenya's three largest cities- Nairobi, Mombasa and Kisumu-are still predominantly Asian.

Whatever East Africans feel toward them, Asians like East Africa. Some who left Tanzania have returned after finding Britain too cold and India or Canada too strange. "In a way, we are the Jews of Africa. Except that there is no promised

Failing Mao Marks Birthday Celebration

By JOHN RODERICK

Associated Press Writer TOKYO (AP) - The world's oldest and most enigmatic revolutionary, China's Mao Tsetung, turns 79 today.

A touch of rheumatism has weakened his legs and he no longer can eat the peppery dishes of his native Hunan Province. But after the rigors of 51 years of revolution, war and his own style of peace, he is by all accounts in remarkably good shape both physically and mentally.

As chairman of the world's biggest Communist party, with a membership of about 20 million, he is, at least on paper, the most powerful man in a nation of 720 million people.

During the great proletarian cultural revolution of 1966-69, which he instigated to cleanse the nation of wayward tendencies, he was something of a proletarian demigod. The little red book of his quotations was in everyone's hands. Heroic-sized paintings, statues and photographs beamed down from a million vantage points. He was described fulsomely as great, glorious and infallible.

The day of such ostentatious display are passing, reportedly at Mao's own insistence. On a visit to China in September this writer found fewer evidences of Mao glorification than he had in the spring of 1971.

Signs of the changing times also appear on 1973 calendars and seasonal greeting cards reaching Tokyo from the mainland. Buildings, landscapes, factory complexes and seascapes are the themes; few if any feature the once obligatory paintings of the cherubic-faced leader or his quotations.

Mao continues active although he has lost the drive he had when the writer knew him in the cave capital of Yenan 25 vears ago

The day-to-day affairs of China are run by Premier Chou En-lai. In business terms he is the executive, while Mao is chairman of the board, displayed on important occasions, consulted when critical decisions must be made.

Mao put the stamp of his prestige on the 1972 visits of a succession of international leaders. He smiled and grasped the hands of his old American and Japanese enemies. There has been no compromise with the Russians, however.

The Republic of Turkey, set up in 1923, became the Moslem state in the world that separated the powers of state and church

(AP) - Project Apollo, an unparalleled era of adventure, is over. History will record it as man's first effort to escape the environment of his planet and explore the universe

But, unless historians miss the point, they also will record that Apollo spawned a revolution in technology, bridged a gap between science and engineering, created new problem solving · management techniques and, for a time at least, lifted the spirits of Americans and much of

It asked in part: "Do we have a chance of beating the Soviets by putting a laboratory in space, or by a trip around the moon, or by a rocket to land on the moon, or by a rocket to go to the moon and back with a man? Is there any space program which; promises dramatic

A massive governmentindustry-military team that was to reach a peak of 420,000 responded, and the miracles began. The huge Saturn 5 rocket emerged from the drawing board. The spaceships were developed. In the swamps of Cape Kennedy, Fla., bulldozers cleared the way for a mammoth moonport. The pioneering Mercury and Gemini flights proved that man could work in space and perfected all the techniques for going to the moon.

There were technological breakthroughs to achieve, problems to overcome. Three astronauts died tragically in a launch pad fire because of a poor spacecraft electrical system. But America made it, and on July 29, 1969, astronaut Neil A. Armstrong became the first human to step onto another celestial body. He was followed minutes later by his crewmate, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. Two more Americans visited the moon before the decade was project.

The United States has no further moon-landing plans, and the Russians say they have none. So it may be a quarter century or more before man again sets sail for the moon or another planet

But man will go back. Most everyone is convinced of that. For the Apollo astronauts have carried man's quest for knowledge to another world and in so doing have opened the gateway to the limitless frontier of space, and that door likely will never close President Nixon, in a statement issued after the Apollo 17 splashdown, said

We have barely begun to evaluate the vast treasure store of extraterrestrial data and material from these voyages, but we have already learned much and we know we are probing our very origins ... The making of space history will continue and this nation means been three more Apollo flights from them the secret of the to the moon. But they were cancelled for lack of congressional funding and public sup-

In a world used to constant change and dramatic technological events, the romance of landing men on the moon soon began to fade. So we're sending three more men to the moon? So what?

There seemed to be more interest abroad in the flights than there was in the United States. The missions won worldwide respect for America in a decade when the United States acquired more disapproval and distrust than at any other time

The Apollo missions were hailed as the boldest, most imaginative 'and technically complex achievements of man and added a dimension to the human spirit that may not be measured for years, or dec-

The moon rocks, pictures and data obtained by the men on the moon will be studied for years origin of the moon, the earth and our solar system-all born 4.6 billion years ago in some convulsive manner

A large part of the 800 pounds of rocks brought back to earth will be stored in vacuum chambers, awaiting new techniques of interpretation-or for the analytic genius of a brain not yet born.

As fantastic as the lunar discoveries might prove, there were these other important results of the Apollo program:

-Restoration of America's position as the technological leader of the world-an image badly shattered in the wake of Sputnik in 1957 and cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin in 1961.

—Creation of new technology faster and on a far broader scale than would have been possible if not forced by the space program. It has been spread over many fields such as medicine, communications, education, navigation, urban planning, agriculture and earth resources monitoring.

Development of a spirit of and scientists who before Apollo went their separate ways. The earlier scientific criticism of manned space flight subsided with the demonstration on each mission of the scientific return made possible by engineering development of space hardware. Now the two groups are talking to and understanding each other better than at any other time. -The assembling of a vast government-military-industry team to solve the tremendous problems of Apollo pointed the way to achieving similar results in such areas as urban planning and pollution control. -And man's curiosity has been whetted by the knowledge of Apollo. He knows now there is much to learn by exploring space, and he will want to go

Many lunar scientists would like to see the Apollo flights to the moon continue. But there are just as many who feel that the landings have produced far more data than was dreamed possible data that has literally inundated 800 researchers around the world

The latter feel that maybe it's time to stop and evaluate what we have, find out what questions need to be asked, and then return to the moon at some future time for extended stays by large encampments of men

So for the foreseeable future, the United States will concento bring the benefits of space to mankind

Armstrong, the first human on the moon, recalled "As I stood on the Sea of Tranquility and looked up at the earth, my impression was of the importance of that small, fragile, remote blue planet. People everywhere have, by television and photographs, shared that perspective and shared our concern for the security of our

"I suspect it to be more than an accident that a phenomenal increase in the awareness of the importance of ecology, conservation and pollution control have characterized the years since the flight of Apollo 8 on Christmas of 1968-when man got his first view of this planet from afar," Armstrong said.

The next step for the United States will be Skylab, a twostory space station which will accommodate three different three-man crews for periods up to 56 days in 1973. The lab is to be launched next April 30.

The Skylab astronauts will conduct 87 different experiments aimed at developing techniques for surveying earth's resources from space, determining man's ability to live and work in orbit for long periods, extending solar astronomy beyond earth's obliterating atmosphere and experimenting with space medicine and manufacturing

The past tells the investor about the company's record, the present discloses if it is being maintained. Both are important items, but it is the unknown, the future, that fascinates, for that is where the money is made.

There has never been a successful broker who kept his eye on only the past and present. The world of investments is meaningful only in the context of the future. Otherwise it is

Nevertheless, the official policy of the Securities and Exchange Commission for nearly 40 years has required corporations to list massive amounts of data on the past and present while refusing to record projec-

That policy may soon change, however. Hearings recently were concluded in Washington to consider abandonment of the old SEC policy and permit companies to record estimates of future earnings.

Policy recommendations of ten take weeks to formulate, but there is speculation that this will be a speedy decision. The matter is close to Chairman William Casey's heart, and he must soon leave for the State Department Revealed in the hearings were lawyers' fears of the legal consequences of projections, the concern of officers about standards to be used, the doubts of accountants as to their role and responsibility.

One of the most consistent products misunderstanding. As Casey said in an interview last week:

Practical joker 'dies' laughing—often

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a practical joker. Before I realized what a nut he was, I nearly had a couple of heart attacks. When we were married a short time, we had our first argument and I stormed out of the house to go to the grocery store. When I came home I found him all sprawled out on the kitchen floor with the dog's leash around his neck. His eyes were rolled back and his tongue was hanging out as tho he had hanged himself. When I screamed and fell on him, he got up-laughing! [I didn't speak to him for two days.

Again [after another disagreement], he put a lot of pillows in our bed and covered them in the shape of a man. Then he poured some catsup on top of it to look like blood, and in the middle of the man he stuck a butcher knife. When I walked in and saw it I nearly fainted, then my husband came out of the closet laughing!

Tell me, do I have a poor sense of humor, or should this man be locked up? LENNY'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: I see nothing wrong with your sense of humor, but your husband is obviously using these little jokes to punish you, DEAR ABBY: A doctor's home is about to be broken up by a little homewrecker who is on her third try for a doctor. I know, because my husband was one of the doctors

She is a nurse and my husband confessed to me that he had succumbed to her charms a few times last summer while I was out of town. This woman nearly broke up a 30-year marriage a few years ago when she and her boss [a doctor old enough to be her father) got into an automobile accident. He claimed he was taking her home, but the accident occurred miles out in the country. Now this woman has been slipping around with a young doctor whose wife isn't aware of what's going on, and nobody wants to tell her. There are small children involved. I told my husband I think I should tip off his wife. He says I should mind my own business. What should I do? KENTUCKY CHICKEN DEAR CHICKEN: I'd buy my husband's prescription.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son who will be 8 years old soon. Almost all his friends have bicycles, and Jeff wants one very much. Jeff is a nail biter, and we have told him he could not have a bike until he quits biting his nails—and the day I had to cut his nails for him I would let him pick out any bike he wanted.

Today I got a letter from my parents saying they bought a bike for Jeff's birthday! I am not positive, but I feel certain they knew of our deal with Jeff.

If we do let my parents give Jeff the bike, what about our deal with him? Our pediatrician says not to make too much of Jeff's nail biting-it's just a nervous habit, and we should be glad it's not something worse.

TEXAS PROBLEM What is your opinion? DEAR PROBLEM: If your parents knew of your deal with Jeff, shame on them. In any case, tell them about the deal and insist on their cooperation.

And, in the future, take your pediatrician's advice. In addition to Jeff's "nervous habit" of nail biting, he could develop a feeling of unworthiness, guilt, and shame, which would compound his problem.

Year-End Income Tax Savings

COLLEGE STATION --'It's not too late to save money on 1972 income taxes.

According to Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, "a few tax-cutting steps that can be taken before Dec. 31 may be worth considering.

"In general, if the taxpayer's income is considerably larger this year then it will be in 1973, he may want to arrange to pay as many deductible items as possible in 1972."

'On the other hand, if his income wil be much larger in 1973, he may want to do exactly the opposite and plan to pay and include the deductions next year," she advised.

She outlined several tax-cutting steps for taxpayers who want to claim as many deductions and exemptions as possible for 1972.

'For_instance, deductible items such as pledges to church and charity might be paid ahead of schedule, or larger contributions can be made before the end of they year. possibly cutting the amount for

"Also, interest on debts semetimes can be paid early. "Persons planning to borrow money early in 1973 may want to borrow it now and arrange to pay part of the interest before the end of this year. Mrs. Myers suggested paying real estate or personal property taxes before the year's end or benefit of deducting the extra extra exemption. sales taxes

"The tax law provides the medical expenses can be deducted if they exceed three per cent of the adjusted gross

'Medicine and drugs are included in deductions if they exceed one per cent of the adjusted gross income. "It may be advantageous to pay as many medical expenses as possible for the year to carry the total into the deductible range," the specialist noted. "For instance, the taxpayer may want to pay off all outstanding medical bills before the end of the year. "In addition, purchases of needed glasses, dentures, drug supplies or other medical and health needs may be made before the end of the year to increase the deductible amount.

Providing the surgeon agrees, already prescribed surgery might be scheduled before the year's end enabling the patient to pay and include the costs as part of his medical expenses this year.

Turning to exemptions, Mrs. Myers noted that the dependency exemption is now

"An extra exemption may cut the tax bill. Taxpavers already aiding a dependent parent or other close relative might want to increase their aid so that the 1972 contributions, make up more than half of the even buying an already dependent's total support-thus

'Parents can claim an exemption for a supported child under 19 even though the child earns $750 or more. This rule also applies to a supported child in school--regardless of age. Both parent and child may claim a tax exemtpion on their separate income tax returns. For 1972, a child may earn $2,050 without paying any tax--however, a return must be filed by April 15 to get a refund of any taxes withheld from his earnings.

Mrs. Myers added that marital status may make a difference in tax liability.

"Couples already planning a marriage in 1973 may want to consider moving the date to December, 1972, so both husband ans wife can use income-splitting provisions of the tax law for both 1972 and

'For persons with larger incomes, tax savings can be considerable

"Income splitting may not be profitable in all cases," she cautioned. For a couple with small incomes, this may increase the amount of taxes owed.

."In most cases, taxpayers find it advisable to keep income and deductions in about the same proportion from year to year," Mrs. Myers concluded.

TEXAS DELTA ALPHA Texas Delta Alpha Chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha met in the home of Lib Mitchell for their December study session.

The program titled "The Artist" was presented by Peggy Baker. In her discussion Ms. Baker gave brief sketches of the lives and work of several artists beginning with Raphael and finishing with Picasso. In addition to autobiographical details she discussed the style of painting each preferred and in the case of Picasso the several styles he pioneered. Final plans for the Christmas party were made and a budge enrichment project voted on, Other members in attendance were Pauline Dorman, Thelma Webb, Knoxine Russell, Peggy Paronto, Hildred Cook. Ann Kenney, Ruby Sillyman, Mamie Peeples, Mary Symonds and Bernice Dunn.

TUESDAY, DEC. 26

Your birthday today: Most of the year is taken up with preparation for the upward movement of the last few months. Relationships may change levels of intensity. Today's natives accept few as close friends, but are hospitable to anybody with good manners.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Now comes a half-week for closing out the year and nearly all are in a rush; too much to do, too little time in which to do it.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Energy is available, along with a backlog of routine and half-finished work to use it up. Travel, should be done with caution.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Whatever you are giving out now comes back to you considerably enlarged, but of the same kind. Pace your efforts to avoid fatigue.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: This is a good time to consider your health and other matters of personal welfare, what to do to protect what you have.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Material success is promised in the fine maneuvers of your career effort. Get on with what is most important to you.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You may get so involved with settling details of family matters that you miss out on some business advantages. Never mind.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Confidential arrangements made now can become significant, hard to change later. Evening hours bring some confusion.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Make the best of your spurt of interest, excitement. Lingering too long on one spot does not pay - make the rounds.

Camouflage First

Camouflage stick used to cover up those dark rings under the eye should be applied before foundation. Blend well, then apply regular make-up and the circles should be gone.

Collage Effect

The collage effect is still popular with tiny knit vests in a rainbow of colors and patterns. The vest is layered on top of a colored sweater or shirt with a contrasting color for the pants or skirt.

Sexy Caftans

The latest caftans are nothing like the original formless ones. They're not only shaped closer to the body, these caftans also come in transparent materials for a very sexy look.

Scatter Sparkles Add some sparkle to a simple wool dress by scattering a few rhinestone pins all #### over it. Plaid Toppers

Plaid berets, big and floppy, are fashion topoffs for the classic coats of the season.

Stage Is Now Set For Super Bowl Semifinals

The road to the Super Bowl now leads through the cities of Washington and Pittsburgh after a couple of sharp turns.

In fact, there was only one smooth ride in the first round of the National Football League playoffs over the holiday

"We're ready for the Dallas Cowboys," said Washington quarterback Billy Kilmer after directing a 16-3 victory over the Green Bay Packers Sunday in the only playoff game without last-minute drama.

The Cowboys were involved in one of the three Hollywood finishes-beating the San Francisco 49ers 30-28 with two touchdowns in the last two minutes of play on Saturday.

The other survivors who'll play next Sunday in the second round—the Pittsburgh Steelers and Miami Dolphins-also served up a healthy portion of dramatics in their victories.

The Steelers' success was the most spectacular. They won their game against the Oakland Raiders 13-7 on Saturday with a freak pass-deflection play in the last five seconds

The Dolphins' victory was no freak, though. Earl Morrall directed an 80-yard touchdown drive, then Jim Kiick powered over for the winning score from the six with less than five minutes remaining, clinching a nervous 20-14 victory over the Cleveland Browns

The Dolphins did something this year that no one else didwon 14 games in a row en route to the championship of the American Football Conference East. And they were supposed to be an impossible mission for the Browns, the "wild card" AFC team.

But the upstart Browns halted the Dolphins' strong running game and even took a 14-13 lead in the second half on Mike Phipps' touchdown pass before Morrall and Kiick took over.

In Pittsburgh, the AFC's Central Division champs appeared beaten by Oakland. The Raiders, champions in the AFC West, had a 7-6 lead on a late 30yard scramble by Ken Stab-

But with five seconds remaining and Pittsburgh down to its last chance, quarterback Terry Bradshaw threw a desperationpass that was deflected by receiver John Fugua and Oakland defender Jack Tatum.

The football floated into the arms of Franco Harris, and the Steelers' rookie took it 42 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

"Unbelievable," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. "A miracle sent from heav-

Referee Fred Swearingen had to confer with his associates to confirm the legality of the pass. The Raiders protested that it was illegal, claiming Tatum didn't touch the ball, and instead, it was touched by two offensive receivers.

But the official verdict was 'simultaneous' contact by Fuqua and Tatum, making the ball anybody's property.

Madden Is Certain Referee Was Wrong

OAKLAND (AP) - Coach John Madden is certain NFL officials looked at a videotape replay before allowing the freak touchdown that ended his Oakland Raiders' title hopesand he's just as certain that they ruled wrong.

The officials on the field told me they didn't know what happened and they were going to check upstairs to see what it was," Madden said of Franco Harris' fluke pass reception that gave Pittsburgh a lastsecond 13-7 victory in Saturday's National Football League playoff game.

'The referee (Fred Swearingen) went in to use the dugout telephone and when he came out, he called it a touchdown."

Madden contended Swearingen called top NFL officials, including executive director Jim Kensil and supervisor of officials Art McNally, who were watching the game in a press box equipped with closed circuit television.

There was no decision from the press box, and television replay was not used in making the decision." Kensil insisted "The referee was simply clearing up a confusing situation ...

He could have done it much easier by just signaling a touchdown," retorted Madden.

And, after studying the game films Christmas Eve, the Raider's coach said he's convinced Oakland defender Jack Tatum didn't touch the ball but hit Steelers receiver John Fuqua all-star games for college seniors are supposed to give the pro scouts an opportunity to evaluate potential draft picks, but the North-South game here Monday night might have provided more questions than answers. Chuck Foreman, the University of Miami, Fla., running back-flanker who is expected to go early in the draft, was brilliant in the South's 10-17 losing cause as he gained 83 net yards in 22 carries and caught four passes for 60 yards.

Foreman, chosen the South's most valuable player, also made two critical fourth quarter fumbles. That's something that could dull his pro rating since he had his fumble troubles throughout the past season.

Rufus "Roadrunner" Ferguson, the 5-foot-6 Wisconsin star play with the big guys, was picked the North's top player after scoring on a two-yard touchdown run which enabled the North to tie the score at 10-10 in the fourth quarter.

But Ferguson had only 55 net yards in 21 carries, an average of 2.6 yards a try, and left doubts about his ability to block onrushing linemen.

Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson kept the Rebels alive with his passing effort—17 of 33 for 205 yards and an 18-yard strike to flanker David Knight of William and Mary for the South's lone TD.

But Ferguson was also the victim of four interceptions. The Rebels' other quarterback, John Madeya of Louisville, hit only five of 16 passes for 43 vards and was intercepted once. North passers didn't fare hoping to follow in the footsteps of former Purdue quarterbacks such as Kansas City's Len Dawson, Cleveland's Mike Phipps and Miami's Bob Griese, completed only two of 13 passes for 37 yards. Temple's Doug Shobert was successful on nine of 11 tries for 105 yards, but his two misses were both interceptions.

The North, held to a 21-yard field goal by Michigan State's Marvin Roberts until Ferguson's run, got the winning tally on a 13 yard scamper by Arizona's Bob McCall after Fore man fumbled at midfield and Villanova's Kevin Reilly recovered.

Harry S. Truman

It was just over a quarter-century ago that the heavy mantle of the presidency fell unexpectedly upon the shoulders of a little-known vice-president. A nation already mourning the deaths of thousands of its young men on battlefields around the world now grieved for the commander-in-chief and wondered what the future held.

There were few on April 15. 1945, the day Franklin D. Roosevelt died, who thought that Harry S. Truman, one-time captain of artillery ex-haberdasher, former county judge and U.S. senator, would be little more than a caretaker president.

The fighting in Europe was almost over; the collapse of Japan could only be a matter of months. Truman would merely preside over the conclusion of a war already won and fill out the remainder of FDR's fourth term while Americans went back, once more, to 'normalcy.

Surely there was no one that day who could foresee that the crises that were to come in the next few years would be as grave and as challenging as any in our history, that Harry S. Truman would be faced with some of the most difficult and far-reaching decisions any president ever had to make, that he would win a surprising election to the presidency in his own right and would again find himself leading the nation in can also see triumphs. Not the least triumph was the fact that Harry Truman, the most ordinary of Americans. had the capacity to rise, first, above the machine politics of Missouri to become an able senator serving the entire nation with his War Profits Committee and, later, to meet the challenge of the presidency in a manner that strengthened

Dear Dr. Lamb - I read your column daily and thoroughly enjoy it. Many times it has included things I like to know. I must have missed somewhere though, because I would like to know about arthritis. Osteoarthritis, sometimes called degenerative arthritis, is the type more commonly noted in later years, literally associated with wearing away of the joints with loss of bony tissue and reformation of bony tissue spurs and lipping joint spaces in the hands. limbs, and spine. The weightbearing joints are most often affected, which includes the

In case you like to worry, here's another item you can add to your list. If you eat hot dogs, bologna, cured ham, bacon or other cured meats, you may be ingesting a chemical which is known to cause cancer. Note I said may be, because this is one of the hottest controversies going in the food industry. The whole argument's about the use of nitrites in processing cured meats. The nitrites prevent the growth of the botulinum organism that causes botulism. This organism grows in areas where there is very little oxygen. That's why it grows in canned foods if the live organism is still present when the food is canned. It's possible for such organisms to grow also within the depths of cured meat. To prevent this possibility me meat is treated with nitrites.

Holidays on the Hill: Congress Eyeing Pay Increase of 30 Per Cent By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON - Those 'sugar plums' that danced through the night-before-Christmas visions of certain members of Congress were a very lush kind-a 30 per cent hike in pay.

If these legislators can pull it off, congressional pay will be raised to $50,000-from the current $42,500

Actually, there is a lot more to this juicy "sugar plum" than a vision. The stage is all set to put through this pay boost by next spring. That was foresightedly arranged last October in the hectic closing days of the 92nd Congress.

It was done by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz, liberal leader and loudly vocal clamorer for "congressional reform," who is the author of the original legislation by which Congress is able to garner sizable pay increases without directly voting on them. This cozy scheme paid off richly on its first use in 1969-a 41 per cent raise from $32,000 to $42,500

Under the Udall technique, this slick trick is sort of done by mirrors. A special panel is set up-called the Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries. Its nine members are appointed every four years by Congress, the President and the Judiciary (three by each branch). This body has six months in which to study the pay scale of these three branches and submit recommendations to the President. He in turn has another six months to send them to Congress-or junk them.

If he sends the commission's findings to Congress, it has 60 days in which to act. That is done in this roundabout way: If Congress does nothing, the co'm mission recommendations (a pay hike or, most improbable, a cut) automatically go into effect. In other words, if Congress does nothing, the commission's proposals become law.

But if Congress turns them down, that's the end of them. However, Congress has to do that by direct action; that is, vote on a motion expressly to

That didn t happen last time, and it's hardly likely to this

Oiling The Gears Rep. Udall set the ball rolling for a replay of the 1969 lush pay grab with an amendment last October, to a catch-all appropriation bill, providing $100,000 for the expenses of a

"At a time when we are asking all Americans to hold the line on prices and pay," said Gross, "and to endure personal sacrifices in order to stabilize the economy, we shouldn't even be thinking of granting ourselves and other top government officials inflationary salary increases."

It was a good try, but Gross's stern condemnation got nowhere. Self-righteously, Udall responded. "I join the gentleman from lowa in preaching economy. But he has departed from preaching and gone to meddling. The fact is the compensation of members of Congress in terms of purchasing power is not $42,500. In 1969 terms, it is now down to something around $38,000 or $37,000. With that, the House decisively approved Udall's amendment 196 to 135.

And thus the machinery was set in motion to produce in the next few months a handsome pay raise for Congress, top government officials and federal judges.

The odds are 100 to one the commission's recommendations for such a hike will go through. It's possible $50,000 for Congress may prove too raw-particularly in view of the Pay Board's 5.5 per cent guideline.

In that event, it will be either $45,000 or $47,500.

But you can be certain the pay of Congress will be boosted Santa Claus will come late, but he'll come!

Incidentally, salary is only one part of congressional remuneration. In addition to their pay, members get tens of thousands of dollars in perquisites, special privileges and other benefits-such as free official mail, local and long-distance telephone, large clerical staffs. handsomely furnished and equipped offices, travel allowances in the U.S. and abroad, medical care and facilities, and generous

For House members, these "extras" amount to around $250,000 a year; for Senators up to as much as $1 million, depending on state population.

Unctuous Reformer Rep. Udall, with characteristic self-righteousness, after clearing the way for a juicy congressional pay hike, sponsored an amendment to put a ceiling on the number of White House employees.

Solemnly he declared that was necessary in the interest of economy and halting the "erosion of congressional power. This pious argument drew a biting rejoinder from Rep.

"I regret," said Gross, "I did not have that kind of cooperation from the gentleman from Arizona when I tried to stop a 30 per cent pay increase for members of Congress. When I offered an amendment to recapture some of that power and restore it to Congress, the gentleman from Arizona voted dall did not reply Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., is up in arms about federal judges. He thinks they are too high and mighty and ought to be cut down a few notches. One way of doing that, he thinks, is to make them contribute to their pension funds.

Under the existing system, a retired federal judge gets full pay for life. Burke is sponsoring a bill requiring judges to contribute 7.5 per cent of their pay for a pension. It's doubtful the measure will get anywhere--chiefly because of questionable constitutionality.

Under the Constitution. federal judges hold tenure for life and their pay cannot be reduced.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith, let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it. - Abraham Lincoln
