TEMPLE—(P)—Funeral services for Miss Tina Stewart, district home demonstration agent who was killed in College Station when struck by a train Tuesday night, will be held here today.

Miss Stewart began work with the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College as home demonstration agent of Bell County in 1936. She went to the staff of Extension Service in College Station in March, 1946. She was assigned as district agent of the Rio Grande Valley District in September, 1946, and served there until transfer to Central Texas District 10 in April of this year.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. L. L. Stewart, Sr., Temple; four brothers and two sisters.

Hollywood Turns To Sports World For Film Subjects

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—(P)—After a lapse of several years, studios are again turning to the sports world for movie subjects. Boxing and baseball pictures seem to be predominating. Ring films which are scheduled for the nation's screens include: "Body and Soul" with John Garfield; "Killer McCoy" Mickey Rooney; "Whiplash" Dane Clark; and the Budd Schulberg novel, "The Harder They Fall." The Diamond will be covered by "The Life of Monte Stratton." Van Johnson, "750 Smith," Eddie Bracken; "The Good Old Summer Time" Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra, and the proposed Babe Ruth biography.

Biggest movie gamble in a long time is being undertaken in Culver City, where Dudley Nichols is filming "Mourning Becomes Electra." The Eugene O'Neill play is pure tragedy and the film version will cost over $2,000,000 and run two and a half hours. When I asked Nichols if he thought the public would go for such a heavy drama, he replied it's no heavier than "The Killers." If he succeeds, it may open the rich field of tragedy to the movies.

Alexis Smith will appear as a singer in "Whiplash" with someone else's voice doing the singing for her. Alexis can dance, but instead of having her portray a dancer, she must be a singer. That's the way things go out here.

James Stewart gets his first trip to Mexico City when "It's a Wonderful Life" opens there this weekend—insiders hear Charlie Chaplin will attend premiers of his latest film in Paris, London and other European cities, but will make no appearances in this country.

The department previously told Ainsworth and Naylor that it was ready to open their cases May 7 or 14. But Major Raymond Hickman, recorder of the Army's Review Board, said he doubted that the depositions would be received by those dates. He explained that many of the 12 to 15 witnesses whom Ainsworth and Naylor have suggested be questioned are scattered throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

Ainsworth, a resident of Luling, and Naylor, of Fort Worth, were made brigadier generals of the Texas National Guard by Gov. Ben Buford Jester, subject to approval of the War Department. The War Department declared both were unsuited for the appointments. A rehearing was ordered by Secretary of War Robert Patterson at the request of Texas Congressmen.

Self Manufactured Sun Shines on Lewis

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(P)—The sun is shining on John L. Lewis again. He turned it on, all by himself. Quite a comeback for Big John. Just a month ago the Supreme Court flung him into the shadows in a way that was enough to make a man's bones melt.

It was the most sickening defeat Big John had ever suffered. This is how it happened: Last fall he had called a coal strike, strictly self-made. But that was one time the government didn't back down.

Big John backed down. He called off the strike when a federal judge fined him and his miners $3,510,000. The Supreme Court got his case and in March reduced his fine a bit but still socked him and his union $710,000.

But the Court did something else. The Court told him to cut out that staff about the miners quitting work April 1.

That was a killer. It must have stuck in Big John's pride like a hot wire. He told his miners not to quit April 1.

April 1 drew near and then—111 miners were killed in a mine explosion at Centralia, Ill.

Big John solemnly announced those 111 miners had been murdered by government failure to make the mines safe.

And, without changing expression he told his miners to go in "mourning" for a week by quitting work April 1.

So there was Big John—whom the Supreme Court had warned against a walkout April 1—telling his miners to walk out April 1.

Could he get away with it. Sure. Waving his contract with the government to mine coal, Big John said: Now, it says here.

Positively. There was a gimmick in the contract. It said the miners could quit work any time to go in mourning.

Big John was using the government contract to do the very thing the government had told him not to do: quit work April 1.

If the mine owners thought they had Big John in a box after the Supreme Court decision, they know now he's bounced back to cause them plenty of grief, and expense, too.

So it adds up to this: Big John, who might have looked crushed in a corner, took his miners out of the pits when the Supreme Court said they shouldn't be out; he will get the mines made safer; and he is back in the bright light, which he loves.

Local Barber Shop Quartet Singers Are to Receive Their Charter at Junior High Auditorium Sunday

Presentation of a charter to the Pampa Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, will take place Sunday afternoon, April 13, at the Junior High School Auditorium at 2:30.

The program will feature barbershop quartets and choruses from Lubbock. Over 25 members and their wives, of the Lubbock chapter, are expected to make the trip by bus. The Lubbock chapter of the SPEBSQSA, is the sponsor of the Pampa organization. Representatives are, also, expected from Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls and Houston.

The newly organized chapter of the local SPEBSQSA has been meeting about eight weeks, and now consists of three quartets: the "Squeaky Door Four," "Melody Menders," and the "What Four." Officers of the organization are Mack Hiatt, Jr., president; C. E. McGrew, vice-president; Dr. Calvin Jones, secretary.

Barbershop harmony is produced by four male voices unaccompanied. Rules of time and words are frequently sacrificed to obtain more pleasing harmony.

Wallace Sees Truman Policy as Possible Handmaker of War

By DeWitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Henry A. Wallace, who currently is on a speech-making tour in Europe, told a news conference in London yesterday that he feared the Truman policy of lending money for what Wallace described as "the political purpose of stopping Russian expansion" would establish during the coming three months a pattern which might lead to war.

That's an interesting appraisal of a tense situation, but the former vice-president has left something unsaid.

My understanding of the Truman policy is that it's aimed at aggressive communism, that is, against the Red.

Isn't being thrust down the throat of any helpless nation by strong-arm methods. The President, in asking Congress for money to aid Greece and Turkey, made it clear that his policy was "to help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes." And the other day the State Department asserted that the Greco-Turkish aid "is not directed against any legitimate interests of the Soviet Union."

So the Washington policy is to counter aggression. I never have heard any suggestion by responsible people in the United States that it is Uncle Sam's business to crusade abroad against communism, that is, non-aggressive communism.

The cases in which the United States and Britain have intervened have been where the Western Allies claimed that strong-arm tactics were being used.

That's the American attitude which Mr. Wallace thinks might lead to war.

Well, supposing we agree with him and decide to adopt a policy of hands-off outside the United States, what happens?

Russia has made no bones of its intention to spread the Red. It's supposing Moscow did take over Greece and Turkey, and with this vital strategic base was in position to extend Russian domination to the whole Middle East and to Western Europe. Supposing this process continued until the Western Hemisphere was virtually isolated, with the rest of the world teetering on the Russian line, either through desire or necessity.

What then? Would this be more likely to insure peace? Yes, there's more to the problem than Mr. Wallace set forth. We need the answers to the above questions in order to fill in the gaps—although there are a good many observers who think those questions answer themselves.

Man Is Arrested In Conroe Murder

CONROE—(AP)—J. R. Grubbs of Houston was held in city jail here today without bond on a charge of murder in what Montgomery County officials called the pantomime slaying.

Grubbs was charged in the shotgun death of James Everett, 26, an employe of the Foster Lumber Company at Fostoria.

District Attorney H. S. Holleman said the two men used pantomime instead of conversation in the mill where Everett was employed and that the shooting occurred after Grubbs had held up three fingers, then two and finally one to indicate a time limit.

Holleman said Grubbs told him the following story: Grubbs left Houston Tuesday morning for Fostoria to look for Everett. He borrowed a shotgun and a shell from a cousin and then went to the mill where Everett was working.

Everitt was taking lumber off conveyors when Grubbs approached within 25 feet and signaled for Everett to come to him.

Everitt signaled back and the two men engaged thus in pantomime for a short time. Then Grubbs held up three fingers. As the minutes passed he lowered one at a time. When he held his third finger he raised the gun and fired.

After the shooting Grubbs handed the shotgun to the mill foreman and went with the foreman to surrender to officers.

Funeral services were held for Everett late yesterday. He is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

And That Ain't Hay — Or Is It?

I guess all of us secretly hanker from time to time, for the good old days and the good old-fashioned pleasures. Leastways, Buddy Richards done a thriving business reviving the old-time hayride.

With a team of horses, and a stout straw-bedded rack, Buddy can take as many as thirty adults—at fifty cents a head!

Two or three times a week they start from Town Hall, and go out along the river; stop for a friendly glass of beer at Shoreline Tavern; and come home by way of Pound Ridge... nine miles in all.

Not very exciting, you might say. But from where I sit it's not excitement that we need these days—but those simple country pleasures that are part and parcel of America—the old-fashioned hayride, with its song and jollity; the horsehoe games; the friendly glass of beer; and the good companionship that they engender.

Prices Must Drop or Wages Hiked-Truman

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman said today that unless prices come down wage increases will be justified.

The President told a news conference the Justice Department is studying the question of whether manufacturing concerns can combine to lower prices without running afoul of the anti-trust laws.

Under one Supreme Court decision, Mr. Truman said, it would be unlawful to combine to cut prices just as it would be to group together to raise them.

The President said this survey is being conducted as one means of getting prices down since the government's power over prices ended last year and it would be impractical to reinstate price controls.

Mr. Truman added that he does not believe the people want such controls.

Continuing, the President said: "Business made very great profits in 1946 and in the first quarter of 1947. Business wants to be free of price controls and now that they are free it is up to business to do something."

The responsibility is squarely on business.

After Mr. Truman mentioned business profits, a reporter asked whether wage increase will be justified if prices are not reduced.

Replying in the affirmative the President said everybody, including labor and management, ought to have a fair deal on this.

The President said he feels there is no necessity for a recession.

He plans no message to Congress on the situation, Mr. Truman said. Then he added with a smile that Congress is getting plenty on this from the general public.

The President discussed the price situation for nearly a half hour. Asked about his economic survey yesterday with his cabinet and economic advisers, Mr. Truman explained.

The meeting was a regular quarterly review which had been postponed from last week. It was not a special meeting.

The study of prices will continue, Mr. Truman added.

When informed that many companies are afraid of violating the anti-trust laws if they combine to cut prices, the President replied that the Department of Justice could prosecute under the law, but if con-

U. S. Government Objects to Paying Back Mine Fines

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government objected today to giving back United Mine Workers at this time $2,800,000 of a $3,500,000 contempt-of-court fine imposed by District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett asked for a two-week delay to determine whether the union and John L. Lewis have complied with a Supreme Court order. The high tribunal in upholding the contempt ruling in last fall's coal strike, said the fine should be reduced to $700,000 provided the UMW withdrew a contract cancellation notice to Secretary of Interior Krug.

In Goldsborough's court today, Sonnett made this statement:

"As a result of the actions of the defendants, both before and after March 31, 1947, production of coal in the mines under government seizure has been far below normal since March 31st.

"On Monday, April 7, 1947, production was about 31 percent of normal.

"The amount of coal produced daily has been increasing since that time, but is still short of normal production.

Sonnett said the government has not been able to collect sufficient information to show whether "the defendants have in fact, as well as in form, complied with the directions of the Supreme Court."

The current low rate of soft coal production followed a memorial holiday last week which Lewis called because of the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster in which 111 lives were lost.

at all angles. Not one of them went without costly damage from the buffeting of the wind.

Occasionally, a lost and scared milk cow would bawl, peoples' voices would drift on high wind across from another block (or what was once a block).

One former soldier had a word for it: "I've seen the battle front. Tonight our hero, this looks like it."

Connail Says Reds Aiming at World Ominion

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.) told the Senate today that Russian expansion must be stopped short of Greece and Turkey because the Soviets are aiming for "world dominion."

The Texas Senator, top Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, opened the Senate's third day of debate on President Truman's proposal to extend $400,000,000 in financial and limited military aid to the two countries with a blunt declaration that Russia wants to "control the destiny of Europe."

"Soviet Russia, by her system of spreading creeping paralysis among smaller and weaker nations, hopes to bring about world dominion and to control the destiny of Europe," Connally said in a prepared address. "She hungers for 'all the land that joins me'."

The former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee said it is his view that the United States must be frank with Russia and must demand frankness in return. He added:

"There is no denial that one of the cardinal purposes of this bill is to enable Greece and Turkey to resist the encroachments of Soviet Russia and her satellite states."

"Russia is not unaware of that purpose. We should make that purpose clear. We should demand of Russia that she abandon the methods by which she subjugated the satellite states. We should make it plain that as a nation and a people, we shall resist this effort to destroy the independence or integrity of free peoples."

Connally, whose statements contrasted with the way most administration officials avoided any direct reference to Russia's, laid down a four-point program under which he said Russia could gain the friendship of the United States.

"To do that, he called on the Soviet Union to:

- "1. Cease to infiltrate other countries;
- "2. Cease to employ her armies as a threat to her neighbors;
- "3. Respect the sovereignty and integrity of other nations;
- "4. Perform her obligations to the United Nations to promote peace and peaceful settlements."

Asserting that this country wants only peace, Connally told his colleagues:

"The United States wants Russia to have her own government within her own borders, but no farther. Russia has a right to select her own system of government, but she has no right by political pressure, by the threat of armed force, to sap the strength of independent and sovereign peoples and to so enervate them and strip them of their strength as to be able to bring them under her dominion."

the community that afternoon.

Ben White, head of the Pampa Fire Department, was on the scene with floodlights and a portable power generator. He used the equipment all night at the two Texas tragedies.

Roy Webb, Jr., Pampa airport operator, said this morning he was taking to the air, covering the stricken area and the path to see if there were destroyed ranch homes yet unnoticed in the upheaval.

Scores of highway patrolmen, coming from Amarillo as well as from Pampa and other station points, sought today to control hundreds of cars that streamed out of Pampa and other communities, eager and curious as to what damage had been wrought. The traffic was heavy from Pampa to the scenes from eleven last night through noon today. A reporter returning from

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
AP Staff Writer

North Texans think spring is here because the grass is turning green and they don't have to wear overcoats at noon, Ah, spring!

Ah, nuts, says South Texas, which has so much spring it's bulging at the seams.

Turn the nose of your car South. You'll run headon into spring just South of San Antonio.

The sudden contrast makes you tingle.

North Texas is still crisp, and light blankets haven't been put in mothballs. Grass is still a greenish brown. Trees are dark, rich greens, their gaunt limbs barely covered with tiny buds, a green blanket like tinted dew.

But South of San Antonio, trees are thick with foliage, the dainty greens as varied as the shapes of the leaves. Fields are rainbows rippling under a soft South breeze.

The air is perfumed and fresh. It reminds you that the year is young and optimistic and the thought never enters your mind that it will grow up and have hatosis.

To the right there a cow is wading belly-deep in wildflowers. Birds are noisy and excited—red birds, blue birds, orioles, white wings, doves, mockingbirds. On an isolated bit of highway fringed with mesquite, a wildcat trots across the cement, scornfully ignoring traffic.

Then comes the valley. Spring has passed on, and it's summer down there. The temperature already has passed the 95 degree mark on days. But it's early summer and it's beautiful.

Orange blossoms perfume the air with an almost intoxicating aroma in places. Fields are green with growing vegetables. Attractive homes are choked with glistening lawns and exploding flower beds.

Heavy trucks lumber along highways, packed high with the fruit and vegetables you'll be eating tomorrow. Sports shirts, skinny dresses, straw hats. Perspiration. Soft drinks and beer. Swimming parties. Picnics.

If you're in the pre-spring belt, think of what's heading your way, at an estimated speed of 15 miles per day.

It won't be long.

When we show the effectiveness of our system in domestic crises as well as foreign and in all areas of our social and economic life. This is the responsibility of business, a responsibility to perform always with an eye to the public progress under this system.—Holger Johnson, president Institute of Life Insurance.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE
OCRAOKE, N. C.—(AP)—Ocracoke Island, a 16-mile-long curve of sand some 19 miles off the North Carolina mainland, is a "poor man's Bermuda" where wild ponies dig their own wells and a woman once lived to be 117 years old. It is a timeless isle where money means little and a man has to think hard to find anything to worry about. There are really only three things to do here—fish, hunt ducks and geese or just sit and listen to an everlasting wind push the sea against the sand with a muffled "flap flap flap."

Some wealthy people spend a lot of travel money just to come here to do these things—which the island's population of 100 enjoys free. The world washed by Ocracoke during the war between the states. Before that it had been a notorious pirate hangout, a focal point of operation for shore wreckers—some of whom made a business of luring ships into reefs, and an important port of entry. Now it is a peaceful, bypassed fishing village. You don't have to buy a state automobile license because there is only one small concrete road, built by the Navy. But it doesn't go anywhere. There are no police and no jails. The island was peopled by pirates and shipwrecked sailors, but there hasn't been a murder for more than one hundred years. There is no housing shortage on Ocracoke, no doctor, no street cars, no saloons or drug stores, no race problems. The one Negro family on the island has been there for three generations. Its members attend the white church and school and are well liked. There is a legend that the pirate blackbeard named the island. To elude pursuers, he is reported to have exclaimed impatiently "Ocracoke!" earlier sea charts, however, listed the island as Ocracock—so the story is plain tourist Ocracoke and bull, so to speak.

WALL STREET STOCKS
NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—Selling pressure faded in the stock market today and a number of leaders achieved modest gains.

After a brief early extension of Tuesday's retreat, the list regained its balance although activity was slow. Strength in some industrial shares helped to bolster the softer rails and utilities. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares. Advances and declines were well distributed.

United States Lines climbed to a new 1947 high 49.44 in early trading. The stock, which had been 48.50 the day before, and St. Paul Preferred also had a good response to dividends news. Other active included Pacific Western Oil (at a new high), Western Union, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, American Woolen, Kennecott, New York Central and such "blue chips" as aibotman Kennecott and Dew Chemical. Logcarts were Schenley, North American, Standard Oil (Philippine), and Westinghouse Electric. Some railroad bonds improved.

Three Major Problems Face Branch Rickey

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN—(AP)—Now that some of the shock of Leo Durocher's banishment from baseball for the 1947 season by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler has worn off, President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers is faced today with the task of solving swiftly three enormous problems.

First, Rickey must name a manager to succeed the exiled Durocher for the impending season which gets under way just five days from now.

Second, the Dodgers' Mahatma must make up his mind whether to retain or discharge Leo when the suspension is lifted at the end of the playing season, Sept. 28.

Third, Rickey has only five more days to make good on his winter statement that "a decision on Jackie Robinson will be made on or before the opening day of the National League season."

The first problem is probably the least difficult for the solemn faced Brooklyn head to solve.

Rickey said he was not ready to name a pilot to succeed Durocher, it was generally believed the assignment would go to either Coach Kay Blazes or Scout John (Pepper) Martin, the one-time wild horse of the Osage who starred for the St. Louis Cardinals' gas-house gang a dozen years ago.

Both previously had worked under Rickey as managers, Blazes at St. Louis and Martin at Sacramento, a Cardinal farm.

Dixie Walker, often mentioned in connection with the Brooklyn managerial post, was ruled out by Rickey. "Walker never has been considered in a managerial capacity," he said.

"I have an idea who the manager will be but I can't tell you now," Rickey added. "All I can say for sure is that we will have a manager on the field when the season opens Tuesday. That's a certainty."

Durocher's suspension does not become effective until April 15. It ends Sept. 28, the day the regular championship season ends, except that if Brooklyn wins the pennant the suspension also holds good for the World Series.

Mid and Far West Boxers Win First

BOSTON—(AP)—The cream of the crop of the nation's amateur boxers, judging by the results of the 59th National AAU championship—the most successful in its history—today appeared to be located in the Mid and Far West.

Taking over when the highly favored Hawaiian glove-swinging forces faltered with titles at stake, the Cincinnati and California teams shared domination by collecting two individual championships each last night while a total of eight were being decided before a capacity crowd of 13,371 at the Boston Garden.

And the other four titles were won by capable and durable representatives of Chicago, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Denver.

The pyrroloxia is a bird, a southwestern relative of cardinal.

Gold Sox Can Field Strong Team; Pitching Staff Is Questionable

AMARILLO, (Special)—As seems to be the case with most of the other West Texas - New Mexico League clubs at this stage, pitching is the interrogation point of Amarillo's Gold Sox, who are completing their third full week of Spring training on the home lot.

Joe Budny, young right-hander from Cheektowick, N. Y., who won eight, consecutively, and lost four last year, his first in organized baseball, is the only returnee from the strong staff of 1946. Gone are record-breaking Bill Evans, purchased by the White Sox, Bill Longman and Frank Mekules, a trio who won 56 and dropped only 19 among them a year ago. Such a loss is hard to repair.

Chris Haskins, another 1946 flinger, was sold to Clovis and Buck Weaver was released.

The club is certain to be solid otherwise. Two-thirds of the outfield is back. Veteran Bob Crues, who made the league All-Star selection at the close of the season, batted .341 and was second to Gordon Nell in total bases with 328, including 29 home runs. Al Duarte, agile Hawaiian, hit .327, including 45 doubles.

To the astonishment of all concerned, giant Joe Bauman, the home-run monarch, will be around again, to bedevil opposing pitchers and steady the infield. The 6-foot-11-inch first baseman, who set a new league record with 48 homers last year, has been ousted from the Little Rock job he seemed to have in the bag and was returned to the latters in 159 runs in 1946 and scored 137 himself, besides leading the loop in fielding at first.

Bobby Decker, last year a 344 hitter for Borger, was purchased from Little Rock, which bought him from the Gassers, and is installed at second base, where he's third there at home than he was at third. More's the pity that the shortstop slot between Frank Okrie, who was with the Evangeline League, and Walter Hansom, flashy 18-year-old Californian obtained from the Boston Braves.

Vincent Libert, Fort Smith, Ark., youngster who is said to have hit the longest ball in the national semi-pro tournament, is running ahead at third base, but Ransom might be moved over to compete with him.

Crues will be in right field, Duarte in center. The other outfield job probably will go either to Bill Oberle or Gilbert Korchov, two Arkansas rookies optioned by Little Rock, both big fellows and potential power hitters.

Manager Harry Lamprich, who takes the team over at the age of 26 after only one full season of professional baseball, will do most of the catching and is expected to be better than ever. He will carry a reliever, Joe Jubala, busy, little recruit from Newark, N. J.

Next to Budny, the best-looking pitcher is 20-year-old Steven Lagormasino, a Californian who won 20 of 28 games in service ball last year and is regarded highly by the team club. Eli Weskamp and Tom (Hoss) appears, both with Natchez in 1946, and Steve Kolesar, with Richmond of the Ohio State League, are others besides Budny with previous professional experience. All these are right-handers.

Also present are three southpaws. Ben Loraine, posted here by the

Thirty Pampa Golfers Wanted for Matches

Thirty or forty golfers, and that means anyone who can swing a club (scores don't matter) are wanted to represent the Pampa Country Club in the Four-Way Inter-city Club Matches to be held on the Ross-Rogers Municipal Course, Amarillo, next Sunday.

The other three teams that will participate in the match will be the Huber Club, Borger, Phillips Club, Phillips, and the Municipal C. C., Amarillo.

"Every player in Pampa is cordially invited to attend this meet," Frank Baker, local club pro, said this morning.

Baker urged those who are interested in participation in the meet to contact him as soon as possible so that arrangements can be made.

Fighters Ratings Released by NBA

PATERSON, N. J.—(AP)—The National Boxing Association today released its regular quarterly ratings in which are J. Greene, NBA president, discussed in his usual philosophical vein on the decided absence of logical contenders for Joe Louis' heavyweight title.

Greene made it clear that the category of "logical contenders" for Louis' crown was still vacant and then listed Jersey Joe Wolcott of Camden as still on top of the heap of outstanding boxers.

"Whether or not any of the contenders stands a chance against Louis is in the laps of the gods," Greene observed, "but since it is inevitable that an invincible fighting machine like Louis will eventually meet his Waterloo, until such time as a new heavyweight meteor sweeps into the field, the present crop of contenders will have to do, and Walcott has established himself as the best of the lot."

Turning to the light heavyweight field, the NBA rated Edward Charles of Cincinnati as the only logical contender for the light heavyweight title in the light of his knockout of Jimmy Blivins, buttressed by other best performances.

Most spirited competition in the list compiled by the ratings committee headed by Fred J. Saddy of Milwaukee was offered by middle-weight contenders with five top-notchers accorded a chance at champion Tony Zale's honors. Jake Launotto topped the field followed by Marcel Cerdan of Algiers, Rocky Greenleaf of New York, Bert Lyell of California, and Georgia Abrams of Washington.

Braves, and Sam Ryan and Nick Michetti, both picked up outright. The tiny Ryan, who was with the club in Spring training a year ago, looks the best of these. Michetti is a long-time battery-mate of Julian, the Newark catcher.

There may be pitching help before the schedule opens.

Alaska is larger than the three largest states combined: California, Texas, and Montana.

Neither Shreveport nor Oklahoma City got higher than fourth, with the former being placed on five ballots and Oklahoma City last on seven. Beaumont ranked from sixth to last.

Fire Breaks Out in Local Business House

Firemen last night quickly averted what could have been a serious fire when they extinguished a blaze, caused by a short circuit, in the Pampa Print Shop, 306 W. Foster St.

The fire broke out in the balcony of the store's display window from a short circuiting neon sign and was gaining headway when firemen, standing in front of the Central Fire Station, noticed it and sent out one truck.

The blaze was quelled before it could do any serious damage other than char some woodwork and destroy some wiring.

"A few minutes more and we would have had a real fire on our hands," Fire Chief Ben White added later. With the aid of a strong wind the fire would have threatened the entire 300 block of W. Foster St. There were no injuries.

Top Teams From Two Conferences Squared for 3-Way Meet Saturday

COLLEGE STATION—(AP)—Top teams of two conferences will clash here Saturday in a triangular track and field meet between Texas A and M, Louisiana State and Baylor.

LSU won the Southeast conference championship last year, A and M finished second in the Southwest Conference and is one of the title favorites this season. Baylor rates third or fourth in the Southwest Conference.

In Bill Martinen Baylor has the man who broke Texas' Charley Parker's strangle-hold on the 100-yard dash victories. The diminutive Bear star smashed the Parker string of 57 straight victories at Laredo and then to prove it was no fluke bested him again on Parker's home track in the recent Texas relays in Austin. Stonie Cotten, another Bear speedster, has run to that pair so should press his teammate there. However, Cotten has just nipped the Aggies' Webb Jay at the tape in two last tries and it could be the Cadets might slip in their first man for that second place. Cotten will be favored to win the 220-yard dash.

The Texas relays mile relay champions and record smashers from Texas A and M will also be trying to lower their 3:17.8 best mark on the year. LSU ran about 30 yards behind the Aggies at Austin.

Bobby Lowner of LSU is topping the javelin throwers with tosses nearing 200 feet. Roland Knecht and A. R. Johnson tied for fourth place in the high jump which saw Art Haws, Aggie, clear 6 feet, 5 inches to tie or first. The Tiger pair cleared 6 feet, 3 inches.

The Baylor 440-yard sprint relay team is the odds-on favorite on the basis of Martinen and Cotton but the run for second place should be close.

George Kadera of the Aggies should take both shot and discus events but will be hard pressed by Herb Graves, LSU, who was within about 8 inches of beating him in the discus throw at the Texas relays.

Johnny Davis of the Aggies will meet with trouble from Lowther, who doubles in pole vaulting with javelin throwing.

Jay, the Cadet sprinter, also a broad jumper, can win that event if he can repeat his season's best mark of over 23 feet.

Jim Mortensen of the Aggies appears to be the best of the hurdlers but none of the three teams placed any men in the Texas relays timber events.

On the basis of past meets the Aggies seem favored in the distance events.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The only conviction you get from the Leo Durocher affair is that Happy Chandler acquitted himself pretty well. You can take the word "acquitted" two ways—stories and comments from the South on the hearings gave the impression that it was the commissioner who was on trial, not Durocher, Larry MacPhail, Branch Rickey or any of the others involved—Now there's no doubt that Chandler can and will act decisively when necessary, though everybody won't agree that his decision was right—the guys who really want to blast him now can accuse Hepp of (A) low-towing to MacPhail (B) interfering with the freedom of the press in stopping Durocher's ghosted column and (C) denying freedom of speech to the guys who were "silenced." That's a good trick, too, if Leo, Larry, etc., really are silenced. There'll be no vocal competition for Happy.

Rio Grande Valley Requests Water Help

WESLACO—(AP)—The Rio Grande Valley has made its first request to Mexico this year for irrigation water relief after the Rio Grande River's flow dropped to a new low for this season of the year.

Mexico has been asked to release water from its Marte R. Gomez reservoir on the San Juan River, a tributary of the Rio Grande.

Engineer J. L. Lytel of the International Boundary and Water Commission, said the Rio Grande city gauge was 1,440 cubic feet a second. Last week it dropped to 1,200. Normal use in the Valley is a flow of 3,500 cubic feet a second.

A flow of 2,000 cubic feet per second is sought if Mexico releases the reservoir water.

JOSEPH PULITZER, JOURNALIST

If Joseph Pulitzer, German-speaking Hungarian whose centennial anniversary the nation celebrates today, had been a respector of precedent, he would not have had a place in the land he adopted as his home. And if the land he adopted had adhered to precedent, Pulitzer would probably not have wanted to remain here.

This man, who in his teens came to a strange land with nothing but a good education, and inhibited by a strange temperament, made a statement at the Missouri constitution convention of 1875 which serves as a measuring stick for his entire illustrious life. There, precedent was frequently cited as binding consideration in the formation of the state's new organic law.

Delegate Pulitzer said: "Precedent, precedent! The feeble expression of a feeble mind which, lacking the inherent ability to express original views, is compelled to seek refuge in a still feeble vestige of ancient, decayed precedent. . ."

This man's biography, which with all its ramifications would make interesting reading even for the disinterested, is rife with his philosophies based on that premise; and it has no doubt been no small force in building one of the Midwest's great dailies, the St. Louis-Post-Dispatch.

Born at Mako, Hungary, April 10, 1847, his life, like that of Henry Ford, was spent well in rising from humble circumstances, and in building an institution that will perpetuate his name.

His contribution to journalism and the free press conception is inestimable, and his deeds, heaving to rigid principles individually practiced, could well be read by laymen as well as by newspapermen. He had no more than bought a newspaper in St. Louis than he set out to break the gambling dens which infested the city. "The friends of decency," he wrote, "may rest assured that we will not close our records until the last chapter." And the chapter was not closed until he had closed the dens.

It was Pulitzer who first advanced the idea in America, accepted at first as quite revolutionary, that, even though public opinion is very important, the people can often form wrong conclusions. Therefore, he decided, the majority is not always right.

When he died at an early age, the world lost one of its great benefactors and, as Harper's Magazine said in 1911, "Not only the American people, but struggling and oppressed human beings throughout the world lost a powerful champion. . ."

It is proper that the Postoffice Department today puts on sale a special three-cent stamp in his honor.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON, NEA Staff Correspondent (Johnson on KPBN Monday thru Friday, 3 p. m.) HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—A movie queen whose name I shall not mention has been slipping at the box office of late. Her complaints to the studio is that the stories have not been right, the direction was bad, she was given the wrong co-star.

Yet the real reason moviegoers have stopped going to see her on the screen is so obvious. The lady has become an immobile actress. It's a disease frequently contracted by feminine stars. Here's what happens:

An actress makes a hit in a picture acting completely natural. The critics laud her, the public applauds her. The actress becomes conscious that she's a great star.

She notices a wrinkle on her neck, which she never notices when she is in the picture. She remembers that and never again moves her head that way. She falls in love with a certain way of smiling. She smiles that way in every scene.

STOCK ACTION She likes a certain gesture. The gesture becomes a stock trick. Her favorite cameraman, anxious to remain in her good graces, lights her beautifully in a closeup. She demands more closeups in every picture.

It isn't long before she stops acting and becomes completely immobile, afraid to move her head, giving wooden smiles, posing a series of quill closeups. People begin staying away from her pictures, and she wonders what has happened.

The lady we are talking about might study the technique of Betty Davis. They have always acted completely natural. Joan Crawford learned her lesson in two sad years off the screen. She had become immobile. She came back in "Mildred Pierce" as the lady who didn't care how she looked.

I haven't seen Maureen O'Hara on the screen recently. But every time I see one of her still photographs, she is wearing that identical smile. It's a sign of immobility. And immobility is fatal on the screen.

"OPTION-ITIS" Movietown doctors will tell you that the greatest ailment of the actor is "option-itis." Whenever they take on a new patient in the film business, most doctors ask: "Now when is the option due on your contract?" They carefully write down the date and treat subsequent nervous disorders and ulcers around that time accordingly.

There's a big demand for Les Brown's latest recording, but it's tough to pronounce. The title is "Frischkelephobia." . . . Louis Armstrong may rate another musical as a result of his work in "New Orleans." . . . Fully recovered from an ear ailment, Helen Forrest the singer, will sign a film contract any minute.

Betta's first starring film, "Silver Skates," is in its fourth re-issue in England. . . . Barton MacLane and Jackie Coogan were pooling several thousand dollars to open a chain of midget auto race tracks in the Middle West. . . .

Sam Levene won stardom in "Three Men on a Horse." Now he's a Hollywood actor and teaches acting on the side at the Actors' Lab. Sam is playing a role in RKO's "Crossfire." Just before a scene, Director Edward Dmytryk pointed out that Sam's coat didn't seem to fit properly around the neckline. Sam struggled with it for a moment, then turned helplessly to the director and said: "Oh, well, I'll just have to cover it up with talent."

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN Well, I see that a Moscow newspaper denounced Russian songwriters for turning out sad songs. George says the Russian press is government controlled, so this must be an indication that Russia isn't exactly anxious for trouble now. That is, if the Russian male psychology resembles the American.

He claims that when American males rear back and begin to warble sad ditties, a flock of disorderly conduct charges is just around the corner. When a man starts begging people not to bury him on the lone prairie, it is only a matter of moments until he takes a sock at a perfect stranger who he thinks imitates him in Sioux Falls twenty years ago.

Maybe it would be a big help to our diplomats to know if Stalin ever sings, and if so, what.

In London, during the blitz bombing, there were more cases of hysteria among men than women.

HOOSIER RESOLUTION

By Upton Close

For all the billions we are pumping through the national treasury it must be admitted that there is less disposition this year to dip into the golden pool for patronage than we have seen since the election in 1932 of the man who was going to reduce government spending.

Not so many delegations, not so many city bigwigs are trekking to Washington this year with their hats off.

True, this is not a depression year, anybody who puts out energy with a degree of intelligence can earn a living and is likely to earn a profit. Our cities and states have fat treasuries. There's no bread line (though the kind of government which was going to lift us out of a depression almost created a bread line last year in a time of great prosperity).

The question arises: Is the decrease in demand for federal patronage a temporary thing resulting from prosperity, or have we learned a lesson? For fifteen years we have been "experimenting in government" (the admission came from FDR himself and the words are his), apparently to find out whether or not it is possible to get something for nothing.

Some of us thought all along that any adolescent should be able to answer that question; yet it has taken fifteen years and cost us staggering sums of money to find out that for every grant of a federal dollar to build something in our home town we seem to have to dig down for $1.50 or $2, eventually.

Bring Government Home Maybe we are learning this sixth-grade truth. It is refreshing to recall a resolution adopted by the Indian General Assembly and sent to all members of Congress. Here it is in full:

Indiana needs no guardian and intends to have none. We Hoosiers, like the people of our sister states, were fooled for quite a spell with the magician's trick that a dollar taxed out of our pockets and sent to Washington will be bigger when it comes back to us. We have taken a good look at said dollar. We find that it lost weight on its journey to Washington and back. The political brokerage of the bureaucrats has been deducted. We have decided that there is no such thing as "federal" aid. We know that there is no wealth to tax that is not already within the boundaries of the 48 states.

So we propose henceforth to tax ourselves and take care of ourselves.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

Education To Kill Democracy—Freedom I attended a forum at Laguna Beach recently. The subject of the forum was "Educating for Democracy." The speaker was Malcolm Shaw MacLean from the Department of Education of the University of California at Los Angeles.

The real name of the speech should have been not "Education To Kill Democracy," but "Education for Democracy," but "Education To Kill Democracy—Freedom," that is if democracy means what Secretary of State Marshall defined democracy as being before the Council of Foreign Ministers at Moscow. He said it meant, namely "Freedom, provided the individual's exercise and enjoyment of that blessing does not hamper the other person's right to pursue life, liberty and happiness."

Professor MacLean related how medical science had prolonged the life of man, and that this resulted in elderly people holding jobs and that employers preferred elderly people rather than younger inexperienced people resulting in unemployment for youth. He said there are only four ways of taking care of this problem of unemployment for the young: namely putting them in military service, having them on W.P.A., sending them to school or letting them stay at home and rot.

He did not seem to know enough about government or human relations or moral laws to know that if the government's laws were in harmony with the Ten Commandments that all the evils of many of the evils he mentioned would be eliminated. He did not seem to know that man's wants increase faster than the ability to supply them and that these wants are only supplied as much as they can be by intelligent and efficient labor. There will always be unfilled wants that will require all the labor of all the people all of the time if we do not have mis-education.

He contended that the purpose of state education was to train the people the 43,000 different methods of making a living and develop the character of the students. When he was asked how the state could develop the character of youth and teach them moral laws when their acts were the result of force, he had no answer.

The only remedy for our educational problems Professor MacLean seemed to think of was more money for tax supported compulsory education. He complained about the shortage of pupils for each teacher. He did not seem to know that if the state offered $10,000 a day for teachers and got enough teachers so that there was only one teacher for every pupil, that teachers could not develop the character for that one pupil. The reason is simply that people learn by imitating and when the teacher is the recipient of pay secured without the consent of many of those people being the teachers, it is impossible to impress on the pupil that he should secure things by giving equal value for them instead of getting what he wants by force. There can be no noble character without this belief. The teacher thus could not teach voluntary agreements and a definite limited government. He could only use the force of the state to promote character. It cannot be promoted by force.

If there ever were a demonstration that Albert Neck's statement is true, that college is not a place to get an education but merely a training ground for collectivism which would destroy the kind of government aimed at in the Declaration of Independence, it was hearing Malcolm Shaw MacLean discuss public education. Wouldn't Discuss With a Stenographer Present

I personally talked to him after the address. He said he would give him $10 an hour for an interview with a stenographer present on the subject of compulsory education. I was to have the privilege of interrupting if the answers were unduly long and the transcript would show the interruption. He wouldn't agree to a date for the interview.

I asked him how much he would take. He wouldn't answer. He said he could profess to know his subject and not be willing to submit to an interview with a stenographer present on the subject.

Of course it is easy to understand how a man who is a show man, an actor and not a realist, couldn't afford to submit to an interview with a stenographer present for almost any amount of money. No realist, however, no man who knows his subject, certainly would refuse to submit to an interview if his time were rewarded several times more than he was making at his usual work.

"Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil; but he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that they are made manifest, that they are wrought in God."

No wonder we have confusion, booms and busts, have our government repudiate its debt when we have the juggernaut of public education poisoning the youth of the land.

Of course the columns of this newspaper are open to Mr. MacLean or anyone else who will answer questions without contradicting themselves.

Every living human being on earth today, if brought together, could stand in a single field only 12 miles square.

The center of population of the United States in 1790 was near Baltimore, Md.; now it is in Indiana.

As I See It--

By SAM LEWIS VEITCH

WASHINGTON—The fact that you just can't get steamed up over selling wheat at prices ranging from $1 to $1.80 a bushel when there's more demand than there is wheat in the world, became quite evident last week in London. Dispassionately the U. S. delegation to the conference trying to set up an international wheat agreement say that little if any progress is being made.

Further than that, Argentina, which is one of the "big four" producing countries, turned thumbs down on the proposed agreement without giving any reason for her action. No one had to be told that Peron just doesn't want to do business at those prices when he can get $3 and better. The chances that perhaps Argentina will be left out of the world wheat market later on if they don't sign now don't seem to bother the Argentinians at all. According to the original draft, announced several weeks ago, the Argentinians were to have 25 percent of the world market—or 100 million bushels a year at the guaranteed price. She says she doesn't want it.

Mr. Gerard Clausen, in confirming the report that Argentina refused to sign, said that they would now attempt to draw up some arrangement without her. What form that arrangement might take was not given out. But our own delegates had sent work back that there didn't seem to be much chance of any real work coming from this meeting anyway.

While it is probably true that we are being short-sighted in our thinking along these lines, the fact remains that demand is so much greater than supply that we are getting very enthusiastic even in this country over the projected 80 million-bushel U. S. share of the 400-million bushel world market. An official of the National Association of Commodity Markets, a trade association of the grain markets and others, said in Washington that we are getting dangerously low on our supply of wheat if we should have a crop failure this year, which is still a distinct possibility. We will find ourselves wondering where our supply will come from, he said. He urged Congress to make an investigation of the foreign shipping as it relates to wheat, to see if we aren't being a little unwise in our efforts to help others.

We normally have a 125 million bushel carryover, he pointed out, with a population of about 120 million. "Normal" here refers to about twenty years ago. Now, our population is gauged at some where around 140 million, and we have cut the carryover to 100 million bushels. If Divine Providence is not willing to give us another bumper crop, as he said, we could find ourselves in the midst of disaster.

So, with such a situation existing in the world, it's little wonder that the gentlemen in London are finding the going rough in working out an arrangement for "normal times." It's been so long now since times were normal, hardly anyone remembers how it feels. Starvation and downright hunger do not behoove anyone to think in terms of the "long pull." If enough wheat for bread is not forthcoming, there won't be any "long pull" for many of the countries in the world!

Surprise Payment

The "one world" boys around town have a new lease on life. They're the men who speak of the United States as "your country" when interviewed, and think of the world as though it were no bigger than an apple. They're the boys who have been keeping good old "Uncle" stapped down with philanthropy for the past several years—philanthropy in several different forms. Sometimes it was "loans"; sometimes it was "relief grants"; and then, again, it was "lend-lease." But always it was the same thing—give the dollars goodbye—they'll never come back. Their philosophy was getting a little tiresome of late, not to mention what was happening to their philanthropy.

And then, last week, the Minister from South Africa broke the long string of goose eggs on our balance sheet in this venture by turning over his government's check for fifty million dollars to Dean Acheson, Acting Secretary of State. It was the first of two payments for the settling of South Africa's account which ran up to about $160 million during the war. To be sure, we're going to be holding the sack for the sixty-nine million—but the very idea of getting anything back for the money is what's new.

We probably shouldn't say so, but we can't help thinking and wondering how much more it's going to cost the taxpayers now that the spenders can point to a partial success in their efforts.

Senators Pass Farm Labor Supply Program

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate passed and sent back to the House late Tuesday a six month extension of the Federal Farm Labor Supply program, which is scheduled to end June 30.

Under the program the government pays for moving, housing and medical care for seasonal farm laborers, including thousands from Mexico and Jamaica.

The House, which already has approved the extension, will act on two minor Senate amendments.

Senator Ken (R-Mo) fought virtually a lone-hand battle against the bill during the debate which preceded passage by a voice vote. He contended the program sets up "unfair competition" for "small farmers who work with their hands" because only large operators could employ the imported foreign labor.

But Senator from sugar, fruit and vegetable and citrus areas insisted that June 30 was no time to let the program expire. They said most crops must be harvested in the last half of the year.

Senator Millikin (R-Colo) said that in his state sugar beet growers are waiting to learn what Congress did on the farm labor bill before they plan to plant their crops. He added that when the last harvest season arrived, schools and stores closed down so pupils and businessmen could help with the harvest.

American Turkey Crop May Decline 30 Percent in '47

TOPEKA, Kans.—America's 1947 turkey crop may be 30 percent less than that of a year ago if growers are as timid in May as they were in earlier months, according to an article in the April issue of Capper's Farmer, based on a survey of the nation's turkey-raising areas by E. D. Parnell of Texas A. and M. College.

Parnell's survey included production prospects in his state which precedes close to 40 percent of the early eggs and poulters. It likewise covered key producers and college poultrymen in other areas. Texas turkey raisers plan to cut drastically the number of market turkeys produced. Similar heavy cuts appear certain in other areas.

Although Texas commercial egg producers had reduced the number of hens kept by a fourth, the market for eggs and poulters had become sluggish by February 20. Parnell found, egg prices dropped thereafter and shippers had eggs left over at a season when strongest demand usually existed.

Middle West states may produce no more than two-thirds as many birds as in 1946, the article says. Only 72 percent as many breeders were kept as a year earlier.

"The cut in Western areas was estimated at 22 percent, with greatest reduction in states that have been the heaviest producers," the article declares. "California reported only 60 percent as many laying hens as a year ago."

"There are many reasons why turkey growers are losing their nerve," the article says. The industry during war years shifted to Broad Breasted Bronze. Last fall, heavy tons of this strain brought 10 cents a pound less than hens in most markets. Many growers would like to shift a part of their production to smaller birds but they can't find the stock.

Current feed and turkey prices have narrowed profit margins sharply. That and uncertainty about conditions next fall are chilling factors.

Farm and Forest Facts in Texas

The future of cotton in Texas depends primarily on the success of the 7-Step Cotton Program being spearheaded by the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

This movement, which has the full support of all groups, agencies, and organizations, including the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, is a program of balanced farming, which includes cotton as one of the diversified crops.

If you haven't heard about it, or don't know its particulars, you should contact your County Agent, because where cotton is grown, or can be grown as a profitable crop, the 7-Step Cotton Campaign will come to mean a lot to business.

The seven steps briefly told are:

1. Fit cotton into balanced farming;
2. Take care of your soil;
3. Get together on the best variety of cotton;
4. Make your labor count;
5. Sell for grade, staple, and varietal quality.

Texas is close to the bottom of the list in average yield per acre. The only way it can climb up the ladder of more profitable cotton production is by taking the seven cardinal principles to heart and putting them into effect.

Diversification must continue to remain our goal. In cotton producing counties of Texas the 7-Step Cotton Program gives cotton its due recognition in diversified agriculture. It takes cotton into the family of diversification, instead of trying to shove it outside of the group as an outcast.

From cotton to trees.

Farm and Forest Facts in Texas

The future of cotton in Texas depends primarily on the success of the 7-Step Cotton Program being spearheaded by the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

This movement, which has the full support of all groups, agencies, and organizations, including the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, is a program of balanced farming, which includes cotton as one of the diversified crops.

If you haven't heard about it, or don't know its particulars, you should contact your County Agent, because where cotton is grown, or can be grown as a profitable crop, the 7-Step Cotton Campaign will come to mean a lot to business.

The seven steps briefly told are:

1. Fit cotton into balanced farming;
2. Take care of your soil;
3. Get together on the best variety of cotton;
4. Make your labor count;
5. Sell for grade, staple, and varietal quality.

Texas is close to the bottom of the list in average yield per acre. The only way it can climb up the ladder of more profitable cotton production is by taking the seven cardinal principles to heart and putting them into effect.

THE plane was leaving at four. Marcia was coming at three. Sherry was ready at two.

The day was warm and bright and the spatsnick looked queer with all her personal things out of it. Sherry wished Marcia would come earlier. She put on her hat. She put on a glove. No, that was silly. She took it off again.

The telephone rang. Marcia perhaps. It was Elsie Hilary. "How are you dear?" she wanted to know, without being really interested. "I just got in this morning, had to make that rotten trip to New York to settle up Jack's affairs. Don't ever take the plane! You look like a fright when you get off."

She told Sherry about the trip and the weather in New York, and she sniffed a bit about Jack now and then. She said, "And by the way, I saw your friend, Tony Dietrich, at the studio. He hadn't heard a thing about the accident and was shocked. He's writing you right away. Of course everybody had been talking about it, but he'd been away on his honeymoon."

Sherry said, "His what?" very quietly. "Oh, he's married!" Elsie told her. "About a month ago. She's a writer at the studio, and the funny part of it is, she's so amazingly like you! You'll be surprised when you see her, really—same height and build and coloring—just your type. Honestly you could be sisters!"

THAT letter had been the hardest thing she had ever written. It had had to sound happy about Tony's marriage, while she was sad about Peter. Well, it had. Tony had written back a lot about Joyce and how anxious he was for them to meet, and how well they would like each other. He was coming back to Hollywood about two months, but summer had come and gone and Sherry had had in a trade paper that he had been given another picture in the East.

Those awful days had been got through somehow. Famously enough all her emotion had been transferred to Peter then. When she had cried it had been about him, and after a while that had worn off too.

Then she and Marcia had busied themselves about the new house in the English gardens that they had taken together. There were pale, knotty-pine paneled walls and chintz-covered furniture. They found pewter tankards and old prints with wide margins that fitted into the atmosphere of the place.

After the house and their home routine had been systematically arranged, Sherry had felt a need for activity. She had found herself an agent and he had gotten her assigned as script-writer on her own story. Her salary was $400 a week.

Now as she adjusted her small felt hat, she smiled at herself in the mirror. She said, "Yes, you look the smart success-woman, but I'm thinking that you wanted to be. Well, how do you like it?"

She put on her gloves and carried her fur coat and handbag downstairs. On her way out, she stopped to tell Jenny about dinner. Jenny said, "Miss Barton. You better stay in tonight and go to bed early."

Sherry laughed. "I remember when you used to tell me I stayed home too much." She slipped on her coat and went out. The morning was colder than it looked.

Sherry walked down the neat brick path and turned at the hedge to go to the garages. Yes, she went out often. So
