Comparative Quiet Settles Over Holy Land Epidemic Danger Is Seen Mounting

Postoffice Stages 'Operation Scram'

HAIFA, Palestine.—A nationwide offensive which three underground Jewish groups were reported preparing today failed to materialize by early evening, and a comparative quiet settled upon a still tense Holy Land after a troubled weekend.

The only unusual incident up to 4 p.m. was another "operation scam" at the Jerusalem postoffice which was evacuated for 40 minutes when an anonymous telephone call warned the place was to be bombed. This rapidly was becoming routine in a war of nerves.

A series of "spot identity checks" carried out by the military in Jerusalem in which passersby were stopped at road blocks for examination of their papers gave rise to the report that plans had been intercepted for a coordinated uprising by the stern gang, Irgun Zvai Leumi and Haganah.

Truman's Plan On Immigrants Being Bucked

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A move to slash immigration quotas took shape today in a back-fire to President Truman's announcement that he may ask congress to let more European refugees enter the United States.

Rep. Gossett (D-Texas) said he will re-introduce a bill as soon as congress reconvenes, calling for a 30 percent cut in all quotas.

Telling a reporter he has "wide-spread backing" for his proposal, the Texas said a similar measure was defeated by only two votes in the house immigration committee this year.

Another Southerner, Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) commented that nearly all Southern democrats would support the measure, along with many republicans.

Mr. Truman said in his statement on Palestine last week that he was "contemplating" asking congress for special legislation to authorize the entry of a "fixed number" of displaced persons from Europe, including Jews.

Even before Gossett's disclosure that he will reopen his fight to trim all immigration quotas, it appeared that the President's proposal, if he makes it, will be in for rough going.

Senator Andrews (D-Fla.) a close friend of Mr. Truman and his statement for several years when the President was a senator, said flatly in an interview that the senate immigration committee, of which he is a member, "will not be in favor of increasing the quotas."

One of the few to come to the Chief Executive's support was Senator Taylor (D-Idaho), who termed the plan "commendable" and said this country always has been a "refuge for the oppressed."

But Gossett said that most legislators are "fed up" with federal officials "winking at immigration restrictions, as they have been doing recently."

He said Americans should "continue to do what we can to aid the distressed in foreign lands," but "to admit additional refugees in the name of Christian charity or for the sake of appeasement is a dangerous policy from which only harm can come."

LOGANSPORT, Ind.—(AP)—A crowfoot hat which a squirrel hunter mistook for a turtle caused death of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Pfaff, 40, of Logansport, as she fished in Wabash river yesterday.

Prosecutor Harry V. Tutwiler said 28-year-old Peru Brakeman, Carl W. Copperrnoll, told him he fired at what he thought was a turtle along the river bank. The bullet struck Mrs. Pfaff, wounding her fatally.

Copperrnoll was held in jail here and Tutwiler said he probably would file charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Recent Trend In Politics To Face NY Test

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—New York voters write an indirect verdict on the 79th congress tomorrow. Their primary may prove whether the recent trend that has bowled over some prominent midwestern incumbents is likely to carry over into the populous east.

Three tided congressional races, one of which involves a measure of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's prestige in his home district, highlight battles in which party candidates for 43 seats—a tenth of the membership of the house—will be picked.

In New York City's 12th district, Clark Baldwin is being opposed for the republican nomination by state Senator Frederic R. Couderc Jr., backed by the regular GOP organization.

The race presents somewhat similar aspects to that in Wisconsin last week where Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., former progressive, sought to buck the regular republican organization and was defeated.

Baldwin has voted with the democratic administration on some major issues. While Dewey has said he is taking no part in the primary, politicians regard it as hardly likely that Couderc would have been endorsed by the regular organization against the governor's wishes.

Whatever the outcome of the republican primary, Baldwin is certain of going into the November election since he is unopposed for the American labor party nomination. But his petition to enter the democratic primary was invalidated, and democrats are standing by with Myron Sulzberger, wealthy socialite.

In Harlem's 22nd district, the republican organization has backed Grant Reynolds, young Negro former service man, to oppose Rep. Adam C. Bowley, Jr. Negro incumbent who is trying to repeat his feat of two years ago when he won both major party nominations and the election.

Republicans said heavyweight Champion Joe Louis is backing Reynolds. Up state, former Rep. Hamilton See U. S. POLITICS, Page 6

Rodeo, Horse Show Proves Huge Success

Officials of the Top of Texas rodeo and quarter horse show today declared the second annual event, which closed before a large crowd at the main arena of the Recreation park yesterday, was "a success from every standpoint."

"We had more cowboys—224—entered than ever before, and the attendance was very satisfactory, particularly at the night performances," E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth, secretary, stated.

"Crowds were not too heavy at the Saturday afternoon performance, but added, but we had expected that the weather would persuade most of the visitors to wait until the night show."

Wedgeworth said it was too early yet to tabulate the financial results of the rodeo.

To Billy Weeks, hard-riding cowpuncher from Grady, N. M., went the honor of being chosen the outstanding cowboy in the show.

Weeks placed first in the average for bareback bronc riding and won prizes in several other classifications in go-round events.

He was awarded, in addition to cash prizes, a $35 Stetson hat contributed by the Pampa News.

Among the cowgirl sponsors, Jackie Worthington, riding for the West Fort ranch of Jacksboro, won a new saddle as first prize. Her average time for the flag-racing and reining events was 31.3 seconds.

Second prize, a pair of boots, went to Lynn "Punkin" Moore, riding for the city of Wellington, with 34.0 seconds. Dude Barton, representing the Cross 6 ranch of Flomot, was awarded a belt buckle as third place winner. Her average time was 34.2 seconds.

Space restrictions preclude publication of day winners in today's News but the complete list will be carried in Tuesday's edition.

Average winners are as follows: Bull-dogging: First, Smoky Eppler, Graham, 19.1; second, Charlie Estes, Lindsey, Okla., 21; third, C. M. Coffee, Miami, 23; fourth, H. McDermott, Bañret, 24.

Building: First, Bobby Joyner, Wichita Falls; second, Louis Blair, Dundee; third, Smoky Eppler, Graham; fourth, Clinton Hill, Canadian.

Saddle bronc: First, Shine Bright, Campo, Colo.; second, Smokey Lavender, Wichita Falls; third, Billy Brown, Petrolia; fourth, split between Smoky Eppler, Graham and Ned Collier, Wichita Falls.

Reimer, of Alamored, was chosen best-dressed cowgirl.

Supreme Court Given Election Jurisdiction
AUSTIN.—(AP)—The supreme court today took jurisdiction in a Jim Wells county election contest.

It granted Halsey Wright's motion for leave to file a petition for mandamus. Wright seeks to compel District Judge L. Broeter of Jim Wells county to proceed immediately with trial of a suit in which Wright is contesting nomination of H. T. Sain as sheriff.

The supreme court set the mandamus for hearing Aug. 26. Wright claims nomination in the first primary, and no run-off was involved. Today's action of the court was not on the merits of the case, but simply assured consideration of the case.

Few Arrests Over Rodeo Week End
City police today counted up their week-end arrests and decided that the crowds which swarmed Pampa for the Top of Texas rodeo had behaved very well.

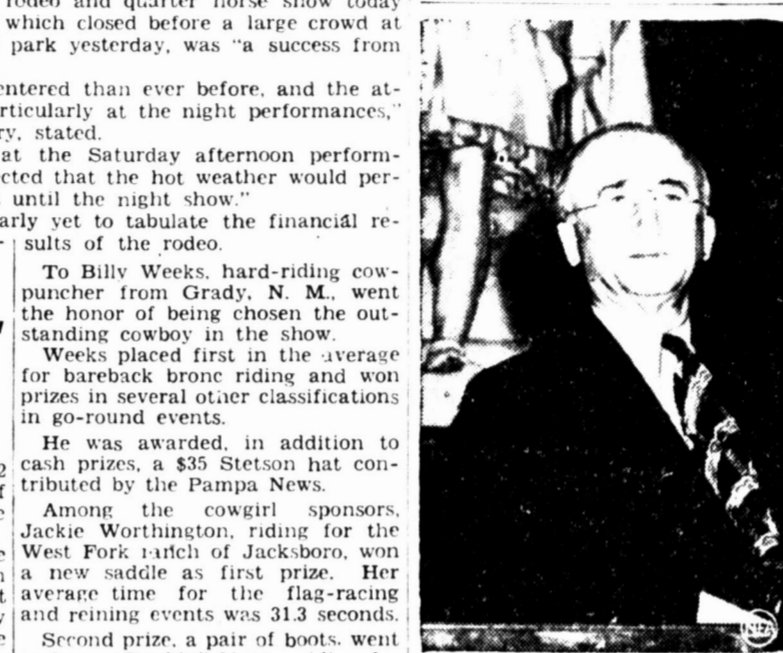

Officers said arrests, all of which were for intoxication, had come to only about 10—not above the average for any week-end.

Posse Searches For Ambushers Of 4 White Men
MAGEE, Min.—(AP)—A posse of 200 to 300 men closed in today on the swampland hideout of a negro family, including two war veterans, following the ambush wounding of a deputy sheriff and three other white men in a flare-up of racial violence.

One of the negroes was shot and brought to a hospital here.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Hester of Smith county was seriously wounded last night when he went to the negroes' home to investigate reports that one of them had fired into a carload of white men. He received a shotgun charge in the chest and right arm.

Those who were with him were: Thos. H. Sullivan, cafe operator, whose right arm was shattered by a shotgun blast.

City Marshal Wilson Dickerson of Mize.

There Ainsworth, Mize farmer, Dickerson and Ainsworth were not seriously hurt.

The negroes fled into the swamp country of Sullivan Hollow, old feeding ground of Smith county about halfway between Jackson and Hattiesburg.

The posse, organized last night, surrounded the area and began moving in today under the direction of Smith County Sheriff George C. Haskins.

The negroes, seven or eight of whom were believed in the swamp, are members of the Albert Craft family. Two of them, Johnny and Garfield, were recently discharged from the armed forces. The wounded member of the family was identified as "one of the brothers," but it was not immediately learned if he was one of the veterans.

At Jackson, State Police Chief E. R. Bradley described this area as a "trouble spot."

"Someone fired on one of our patrolmen there a while back," he said. "The negro boys just get out."

Borgon Killed in Motorcycle Wreck
Garland I. Brown, 29, of Borgon, was instantly killed yesterday morning when the motorcycle on which he was riding got out of control and crashed through a highway guard rail one-fourth mile east of Borgon.

Highway Patrolman Preston Wynne said today that the vehicle left the road and crashed into two of the guard rail posts, breaking one of them off at the ground.

Wynne said the motorcycle went through the rail and landed at the bottom of a short embankment.

The accident occurred shortly before noon yesterday. Brown lived at 315 West Coolidge in Borgon.

Tomorrow Is Last Day For Absentee Ballots
Tomorrow is the last day in which Gray county voters can cast absentee ballots for the second Democratic primary.

County Clerk Charlie Thut reported today that 21 absentee voters had been cast at his office, and that 20 more ballots had been mailed out.

The second primary is scheduled for next Saturday.

Epidemic Danger Is Seen Mounting

CALCUTTA.—P—Mo-lems and Hindus killed each other at a slackened pace today in the stinking streets of Calcutta, which in four days have been strewn with 2,000 to 3,000 corpses.

The situation was the quietest since Friday when the rival factions started the most ghastly riots in Calcutta's urbane history, quarreling over differences regarding the British proffer of independence.

Sporadic shooting continued. Eerie cries rang through the streets. Bodies were piled here and there, many of them dead four days and picked by vultures. Many were bleated. The danger of an epidemic which might dwarf the present number of casualties mounted by the hour.

Several thousands lay wounded.

The food situation worsened as stores remained closed.

Looting was rife. Police blotters were filled with accounts of women sadistically raped, mutilated, then lacerated or burned with their faces. One seven-year old rape victim was removed to a hospital in critical condition.

Fifty boats, owned mostly by Hindus were burned on the river. Troops with tanks stove to restore order. In one trouble spot, police during the night fired into a crowd, killing at least three. Two factories were burned; hundreds of homes went up in flames.

Hindu and Moslem leaders tried to gain control of the riots. They met yesterday and hostilities ceased for a few hours but soon erupted again.

When dawn broke the situation apparently was in better control than any time in the four days of terror. But sporadic shootings and clashes continued and more reports of killings reached authorities.

Disposal squads were extending their routes in picking up bodies in areas where the combined might of troops and police had restored order, generally on the main streets.

The bungler and passive Indians could see fruit, vegetables and eggs rotting on railroad platforms and in barred stores.

The Moslem league mauguration of a "direct action" campaign against the British independence program caused many of the stores to shut in a strike; the others shut when rioting made commerce untenable. European stores remained shut today because it was a public holiday.

Many of the poor now have been without food for days.

Telephone and telegraph offices worked with depleted staffs and services were hampered.

Some looting continued. Two shops on strand road along the water-front were broken into early in the day.

Moslem league leaders were expected to attempt again today to restore peace. The Moslem league, which asserts itself as spokesman for India's 90,000,000 Moslems, disliked the British independence plan because the strictly-Hindu congress party, far the largest political organization in India, gained wide control. Moslem league demands for Pakistan, or partition of India between Hindu and Moslem areas, were rejected in the independence scheme.

Evacuees from every section of Calcutta, a city of 1,250,000, continued to flock to the rail stations to rescue stations' police headquarters and precinct stations. The refugees were so crowded that hundreds had to sleep in the hallways.

Hundreds of hundreds of men, women and children were butchered or burned to death in the Buxtee (Tenement) areas.

The negroes, seven or eight of whom were believed in the swamp, are members of the Albert Craft family. Two of them, Johnny and Garfield, were recently discharged from the armed forces. The wounded member of the family was identified as "one of the brothers," but it was not immediately learned if he was one of the veterans.

Stevenson May Support Jester
AUSTIN.—(AP)—A possibility that Governor R. Stevenson would go on the air to aid Beauford H. Jester in his run-off race for governor against Homer P. Rainey was seen here today.

At his press conference this morning, Stevenson told reporters he would announce his plans tomorrow.

Asked if he had been urged to jump actively into the heated runoff race, the governor putting this and other questions off until tomorrow.

He did say that he had not yet made any negotiations for radio time.

"I'm not sure I could get it. It might all be taken up," he laughed.

Stevenson said during the first primary that he might come out for some candidate in the run-off. Thusfar he has not taken an active public part in the Jester-Rainey race.

Stevenson also replied to campaign statements bearing on his administration.

"Have you any comment on Dr. Rainey's charge that the administration has not fulfilled pension promises?" he was asked.

"I did not make any campaign promises," Stevenson replied. "Actually, pensioners were getting less than $10 a month average at the start of my administration and now the average is more than $23."

"This was without promise. Teacher's salaries have also increased an average of $42 a year during this administration, again without campaign promises."

"I made no promises. I just ran on my record."

County Grand Jury In Session Today
The Gray county grand jury convened this morning to investigate a total of eight charges.

Results of the investigation were not expected to be disclosed until later this afternoon, but officials said the jurors would probably clear up all cases at today's meeting.

The grand jury, according to District Attorney Walter Rogers, will also probe several matters of a general nature.

Three Million Bushels Wheat Piled Outside

SFOKANE, WASH.—(AP)—Three million bushels of wheat in the Pacific northwest, left begging for storage space because of an unprecedented crop and a shortage of railroad cars, are being piled in great mounds on the ground at the mercy of the weather, a survey disclosed today.

In the Big Bend country and other eastern Washington areas where the harvest is nearing its finish, railroad sources said 2,000,000 bushels of grain have been spilled out in the open near elevators along the rights of way alone.

In Umatilla, Ore., 60,000 bushels lie on the ground and 50,000 have been piled in flat warehouses.

Willard N. Crawford, Portland, Ore. field secretary of the Pacific Northwest Crop Improvement association, estimated the total now piled outside in Oregon and Washington at 3,000,000 bushels and pointed out more big mounds will be added as the harvest in the Palouse district of Idaho and Washington, now about half completed, nears its end.

Rains, if they come, only the grain could be moved, would cause a varying amount of loss. The wheat form a protective crust as a result of an moisture and when piles are properly covered, only the crust is lost, elevator operators said. However, on smaller mounds the loss will be proportionately greater.

The storage problem arose despite considerable building of elevators and the fact that all buildings had been emptied of grain this spring in the famine relief program.

One reason was the bumper crop. The Washington state production and marketing administration estimated it will total at least one-fourth larger than the previous record crop of 1944. The PMA predicted a harvest of 81,138,000 bushels, compared with 63,213,000 last year.

Also, in the Big Bend country, railroad officials reported that sustained warm weather this summer brought on the harvest of spring and winter wheat at nearly the same time, throwing a heavy burden on their overtaxed facilities. At the same time, the interstate commerce commission said that the demand for freight cars was unparalleled in the history of the nation.

Storm Fails To Hold Up Truman's Vacation
QUONSETT POINT, R. I.—(AP)—A northeast failed today to daunt vacation-minded President Truman.

He took off shortly before 11 a. m. in an air-sea rescue boat from his yacht, "Williamsburg" over choppy waters of Narragansett Bay for the navy war college at Newport in a driving rainstorm.

The President told reporters he would have lunch at Newport with Admiral Raymond A. Spruance and Mrs. Spruance in the admiral's quarters at the college.

The downdraft started shortly after the President's departure from a two-mile, 30-minute walk to his naval air station with puffing, panting reporters trailing sleepily in his wake.

The patrolman delivered his 25th baby yesterday. And when a doctor arrived the mother—Mrs. Frances Bova, and daughter were doing fine.

Nelson Concedes Setback Before Tourney Starts

By GAIL FOWLER
PORTLAND, Ore.—There will be a new champion crowned this week. It might be somebody who has won it before—but it won't be me.
So declared weary Byron "My Golf" Nelson, defending champion from Toledo, O., and Denton, Texas, as a field of some 150 of the nation's best professional golfers teed off today in quest of the 28th annual PGA title.
Nelson and Little Ben Hogan had lost the "Texas against the world" dream match to U. S. open champion Lloyd Mangrum and British open champion Sam Snead, 2 and 1, while 5,000 spectators looked on.
Mangrum and Hogan shared scoring honors. Mangrum had a 32-35-67 and Hogan also gave under par with a 34-37-67. Nelson was credited with a pair of 34s for a 69, and Snead took a pair of 35s for a 70.
"That 69 was conceded, though," Nelson declared. "Actually I figure I had a 71."
He said his sore back was feeling better, but despite Nelson's moans, there were many who still consider him the No. 1 threat and they regarded his complaints as a smoke screen to switch the heat of him and center it on someone else.

Shirley Unable To Handle Love Part

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—You'd think after all these years Shirley Temple would be able to handle any movie role. But no—she finds making love difficult.
"I can't see what people think when they make love on the screen," she said, blushing through her make-up.
"My kind of acting is to pretend that everything in a film plot is real. And to do that in a love scene with anybody but Jack is well—out of embarrassing."
The Jack she speaks of is her husband, John Agar. There is a good possibility that Shirley will one day be able to make movie love with confidence. Her boss, David Selznick, also has John under contract and the couple may be contracted.
"That would be swell," she said, "because he's the only leading man I'd feel at ease kissing."
As age creeps over the actress (she is now 18), her screen roles are being made and more kissing. In her latest, "Boys n' Girls," she smacks both Guy Madison and Franchot Tone. Lina Romay tried to assist by suggesting Shirley imagine the actors were her husband.
"But they wouldn't work," said Shirley. "Making love to Guy and Franchot isn't at all like kissing Jack!"

Harriman, Richardson Combine Stickwork to Give Hacker Win

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
News Sports Editor
Big base plays by Earl Harriman and Virgil Richardson, combined with a heavy rain that stopped play at the end of six and one-half innings, gave Pampa's Oilers a 4-2 victory over the Albuquerque Dukes here last night for Pampa's seventh consecutive win.
The victory also enabled the Oilers to hold their slim half-game margin over the third-place Amarillo Gold Sox, who defeated the cellar-dwelling Lamesa team, 7-2.

Seventh-Place Hopes of Tribe Nearly Extinct

(By The Associated Press)
Hopes of the Oklahoma City Indians of climbing out of the Texas league basement, a position they have monopolized practically all season, were shattered last night as the seventh place Houston Buffs swept a twin bill from the Tribe, 3-1 and 2-1.
The defeats placed the Buffs six and one-half games ahead of the Indians, who last week had crept to within a game and a half of the Houston club. The Oklahomaans have only 21 games remaining on their schedule with only two of them against Houston.
The first place Fort Worth Cats took a loosely-played contest from the Beaumont Exporters, 5-4, while the second place Dallas Rebels scored a couple of late runs on squeeze plays to shut out the Shreveport Sports, 2-0.
At Tulsa, the Oilers split a double-header with the San Antonio Missions. Tulsa taking the opener, 5-1, and the Missions the nightcap, 10-4.
Roman Brunsvich of Houston won his thirteenth victory of the campaign in the first game with Oklahoma City. He scattered five hits after his mates had given him a 2-0 lead in the first inning.
Art Nelson batted Brunsvich in the nightcap, setting the Indians down with only three hits in a game called at the end of the seventh because of rain.
Fort Worth's Eddie Chandler notched his eighteenth victory although he gave up nine hits to the Exporters. Benvis (Dutch) Woyt, with the score tied 4-4, opened the seventh inning with a single, advanced on a sacrifice, stole third and scored the winning tally on Bob Borou's fly to deep center.
Dallas squeeze plays broke up a pitching duel between the Rebels' Walter Wilson and Bill Reeder of Shreveport. In the seventh, Clint Comar and Red Davis scored on hits by Eddie Borom and Wilson. Dallas took six hits off Reeder while Wilson allowed the Sport 9.
Tulsa bunched four hits, a walk and an error for five runs in the third inning of the opener with San Antonio. In the second game, the Missions pounded a trio of Tulsa hurlers for ten hits to sew up the game in the early innings. Three San Antonio double plays nipped Tulsa and pulled pitcher Boyd Jolly Sorelle out of trouble.
Today's schedule: Shreveport at Dallas, Beaumont at Fort Worth, San Antonio at Oklahoma City, Houston at Tulsa. (All night games).

Detroit Disappoints Biggest Cash Crowd With Double Loss

AP Sports Writer
The major leagues already have drawn 14,500,000 cash customers, with six weeks of the season still remaining.
Already three and a half million past their previous record attendance, the majors should have no trouble reaching 18 million, and with good weather may yet approach their twenty million goal.
Three teams—the Chicago Cubs, New York Giants and Red Sox—scored past the million mark over the week-end to boost the million membership club to six—another record. The others are the New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and Brooklyn Dodgers.
The Red Sox' second largest crowd of the season—33,437 paying fans—saw the league leaders come from behind in the second game to defeat the runner-up New York Yankees 4-3 and earn a split in their double header. The Yankees, behind Floyd Bevens' six-hit pitching, won the opener 5-0. The split left the Yanks still 14 games behind.

2 Leagues May Arrange Series

DALLAS—Milton Price, president of the West Texas-New Mexico league, announced here that he was waiting to hear from the East Texas league concerning the possibility of a series between the champions of the two leagues.
"West Texas-New Mexico clubs want such a playoff," Price said. "I have checked the matter to the East Texas league but haven't had word from them so far."
Price said a best-four-out-of-seven game series between champions of the two leagues could follow the championship games in the individual leagues.

Shortages are holding him back...
We in the Bell System were adding telephones at the rate of three million a year until shortages started getting worse. Now it's harder and harder for us to get materials for manufacturing and building.
We aren't complaining for we are in the same boat as everyone else. But we thought you might like to know the supply situation on some of the biggest items in the telephone business.
RUBBER—Synthetics are in fair supply, but natural rubber is on government allocation.
LUMBER—It is scarce, due to both unusual demand and dislocation of the lumber trade.
BRASS MILL PRODUCTS—These are used in telephone central office switches and other equipment. Supply will be short until disturbed conditions in the copper industry are settled, permitting brass mills to get back to full-scale production.
It's a tough situation, but we aren't giving up, any more than you have given up trying to get butter or sugar or shirts.

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

CHAPTER I THEY brought Miss Charlotte into Saint Gregory's Hospital just after the fire.

I had been on vacation and had returned late that night, so I knew nothing about it until the next morning when one of the little probationers told me the story.

"The house was burned to the ground, Miss Hart. Even the trees are gone," she said. "But she wasn't burned badly. She's suffering mostly from shock, Doctor Franklin says, and they've put her in maternity because we're so crowded down here."

Mrs. Stark was presented a red carnation corsage. Guests registering were Mesdames O. L. Brodnax, Andrew Stark, R. H. Stewart, A. P. Stark, A. R. Sanchez, W. A. York, Claude Wilson, Jimmie Russell, Misses Leticia Gillespie, and Lillian Stark, the honoree and the hostesses.

Unable to attend, but sending gifts were Mesdames Carmen Scott, Dick Simmons, L. A. Leonard, Elvin Gillespie, W. A. York, Tony Smith, R. L. Whitlock, Jack Seatt, J. W. Julian, O. L. Chewning, M. D. Stark, Misses Billie Bynum, Peggy Noel, June Bull and Herran Sanchez.

"She's not bad-looking," the probationer was saying now. "You know, I thought she'd look like a hag, but she doesn't."

Somehow it annoyed me to hear a little snip of a girl with a paper-doll face and no figure say so scendingly that Miss Charlotte was not bad-looking.

"Why should she look like a hag?" I demanded. "When I knew her she was beautiful. That was 10 years ago when she was 23. That makes her only 33 now."

I was faintly amused by the look of horror on the probationer's face. My ability to remember back 10 years put not only Miss Charlotte but myself definitely in the rag class.

Washing machine, once, however, and went on. "It was odd, wasn't it, the way she never went out? And they say they had an awful time getting her down the stairs."

"The stairs?" I said sharply. "What stairs?"

"The front ones," she told me. "The back of the house was a mass of flames, but the front stairs were still all right, and yet she refused to take a step. Are you all right, Miss Hart?"

"I'm quite all right," I said. And then as she turned away I suddenly realized that I hadn't inquired for the others at Innisfall. I called after her. "Clancy, was anyone else hurt or burned?"

"No, Miss Hart," she said. "Every one else got out all right. But my hands were trembling and after she left me I still sat there staring blankly at the charts on the desk before me."

STARING at the charts and not seeing them. Seeing, instead, the front stairs at Innisfall, and trying to realize that the house was no more, that nothing was left of the place, not even the sugar maples.

Like soldiers they'd been, those sugar maples. The tall ones marching in formation straight up to the front door, a scattering of smaller ones at the rear of the house, like scouts on reconnaissance, peering over the ledge at the shallow, winding stream below, as if they expected to find the wretched enemy in little Lost River.

The house itself had seemed to possess two distinct and contradicting personalities, for there was the old part, with its low-ceilinged rooms and straight narrow staircases, crouching humbly behind the new, that swaggered across the entire front, where a huge living room opened with French doors onto a formal garden.

I thought the living room magnificent, even after I heard Mark's views on it. An atrociously he called it, and though I had the greatest respect for Professor Mark Fitzgerald—indeed, stood in considerable awe of the gentleman—secretly I always admired that living room.

Perhaps, subconsciously, I agreed with my mother, who considered the Fitzgeralds an insufferable lot, opinionated, snobbish and arrogant. In spite of Cousin Ellen, to whom the Fitzgerald point of view was the only point of view whatever, it happened to be at the moment.

"SURE, they're no peasants, those Fitzgeralds," Cousin Ellen would say, taking great pride of ownership in them, for, after all, had she not been their housekeeper for so many years that they were like her very own? "They've got the blood of kings in them, that's what they've got," she would boast.

"Have they, indeed?" my mother would say scornfully. "Well, maybe that accounts for their bad dispositions."

And Cousin Ellen would be outraged. They were arrogant, to be sure, all three of them: old Honora Fitzgerald, who was desperately fighting a losing fight with death that summer; Mark, who taught science and mathematics at the Academy, and Colin.

Colin, debonaire world traveler, just returned from Indo-China or Malaya or some other such place of high adventure and romance.

Ah, yes, Colin was delightfully arrogant. And they lived their lives at Innisfall aloof from others, as the house itself was aloof on its hill above Lost River.

So perhaps they were snobbish, as well, and certainly they were opinionated. And yet—there was some magic about them. What was it they had? I was never able to determine why they made everyone else that I afterwards met seem drab and uninteresting. All I knew is that it was so.

AS for Charlotte Brent, such was my almost servile admiration for her that when Cousin Ellen insisted on my calling her "Miss Charlotte," I was all for adding a bobbing curtsy and "Yes, m'lady" quite on my own.

I remember that I thought Charlotte beautiful, which she was; I also thought her quite old and extremely wise, which she was not. She was very young and not wise at all. Gay she was, and quick to laugh, but her laughter, though sweet, held a faint note of hysteria, something I was too young to recognize.

"Miss Charlotte's father lost all his money and died of heart failure," Cousin Ellen told us. Which was not an unusual situation, though this, naturally, was the nearest it came to us, no one we knew having any fortunes to lose.

"She neverly had a nervous breakdown, herself, after he died," Cousin Ellen went on. "Then she came to live with us. The old lady's her godmother, you know."

Of course we knew. We had heard it often enough. And how Mark had fallen in love with Miss Charlotte and how pleased his mother was at this, old Honora being very much taken with the girl herself.

"They're engaged to be married, Miss Charlotte and the Professor," she said, beaming. "Ah, they'll make a fine couple, those two."

Then she told us that the old lady was very bad, and since they weren't telling what was the matter with her, she, Ellen, feared the worst. And they had sent for Colin to come home.

And this brought Ellen to what she really wanted. Which was for me to come to Innisfall and help her out during the summer. (To Be Continued.)

Connoisseur Praises American Glass, China

By ADELAIDE KERR (AP Newsfeatures Writer)

"It seems to me," said Carol Stupell, "that the effects of war on glass, china, and allied industries in Europe and the stimulus the same war gave to American design may well constitute a real hazard to prosperity in certain European countries."

Miss Stupell, who went to work in her mother's Brooklyn Economy store in her teens, now has New York and Washington shops, where she established a reputation for unusual table settings. She has just returned from her first post-war buying trip to Europe.

"European technical skill is there, just as it always was, but I found nothing new in creative ideas and designs," she said. "You'd be surprised how many people walk out of Czechoslovakia without buying a single thing. Besides, Europeans are faced with all kinds of post-war difficulties of manufacture and transportation."

"Inflation in most European countries, when formerly bought, has raised prices from 300 to 500 percent. A dozen European plates which I once sold for $22.50, now would have to sell for $80. I didn't buy them."

"Of course I found some beautiful things—Swiss lace, Venetian and Swedish glass and Italian pottery among them. But deliveries are far behind schedule—in some countries as much as two years—due to raw material and transportation difficulties."

"Meanwhile in America since 1938 we have made great strides in quality of design and productive capacity. True, we are not doing things that are comparable to Venetian and Bohemian glass and personally I doubt if we ever will, but we are doing things that are comparable to Swedish glass and some French china and we are doing a wonderful job in both."

"Now business of this type meant much to the economy of some of these countries. Of course the present situation in Europe probably will relieve individual craftsmen and blue roses. Miss Mary Lou Hofmann assisted in the dining room.

Fifty six guests called during the receiving hours.

to me it will take years to overcome the present production difficulties and price limitations. Meanwhile this country's manufacturers have a wonderful opportunity to retain their present favorable position on comparable goods.

"Of course there are other factors to take into consideration—for one thing the great numbers of prospective buyers in South America. For another there is the fact that in America, our best glass blowers are men in their seventies and very few apprentices are training to take their places. Americans do not like long apprenticeships. Europe, on the other hand, has many such apprentices. How all this will sift down in the future is a question. But I think it would certainly be worth Europe's while to bend all the efforts to the creation of new designs."

Miss Stupell delivered this piece-meal often warning to amend her words. She talks with her shoulders, her eyebrows, her hands, as well as her lips.

She is the wife of Harry Mervis, former actor, now associated with her in business, and the mother of two small sons. In the field of table settings she attracted attention by scrapping the snowy damask and sets of one-patterned china which grandmother used for modern table ensembles that combined place mats, china and glassware with colorful contrast and originality and could be stored in less space.

"The thing which impressed me most on my trip was what I saw in Milan," she said. "I saw stacks of nylons, pure silks, whipped cream patties, gobs of butter—lots of things which have been scarce or lacking at home. And such well dressed men! The women? Er... Well... I'm afraid I didn't look at them."

Housewife Fears New 'Labor-Saving' Devices

By RUTH MILLETT NEA Staff Writer

Sometimes these inventors go too far. Now one has dreamed up a grass-cutting gadget that looks for all the world like a vacuum-cleaner. The manufacturer says suction makes the grass-blades stand up to be clipped.

There is even a detachable bag to collect the cut grass, like the one that collects the dust picked up by the vacuum-cleaner.

Any woman can find the flaw in this latest electrical invention. It looks so much like the vacuum-cleaner Mama has been pushing around for years that it is sure to wind up as Mama's plaything.

And if it is as easy to run as it sounds, Papa is sure to point out that it's simple enough for a baby to handle—meaning, Mama, of course.

That's what so often happens when the family purchases a new labor-saving device—Mama takes on a new job.

Before Papa bought her a shiny new washing-machine, Mama sent the family laundry out or had a laundress come once a week to do it. Now the laundry is Mama's job.

"Nothing to it with one of those machines," says Papa, who knows because he watched it work once. MAMA KNOWS PAPA Papa used to beat the rugs on Saturday, too, back in the days before the vacuum-cleaner. Now rug-cleaning is Mama's job.

And what husband offers to help with the dishes after he gets his wife an electric dishwasher? No, the old-time lawn-mower that took brawn to push and made men-mowing look like a man's job was perfectly okay by Mama.

A lawn-mower that looks like a vacuum-cleaner is a dangerous invention, as far as women are concerned.

LION IS GOAT IN DRAMA AT ZOO JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—(AP)—A mountain goat at the Johannesburg Zoo leaped a wall into the lion enclosure. Satan, a maneless lion, began to stalk the goat. But Satan in captivity had lost his native agility.

The goat was took quick for him but, dashing about in panic, fell from the perpendicular rock face separating the lions from the public. Injured, the goat was carried back to its own quarters, while Satan lashed his tail in chagrin.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

The second annual Top 'o' Texas rodeo and quarter horse show is now a matter of history. It is also a matter in which every citizen of Pampa can take great pride. The event took months of planning and untold hours of unremitting work on the part of the officials, but the results would seem to justify every minute spent in preparation.

Capacity crowds jammed the main arena of Recreation Park for almost every performance. The Kid Pony show, the Palomino show and the Quarter Horse show were unqualified successes. The rodeo performances necessarily went off a bit slowly at first—the tasks inherent in running an amateur show sometimes seem insurmountable—but at no time were there real lags between acts. The cowboy participants, down to the last man, went out for the prize money with a vigor and determination that could be displayed only by men who actually make their living on the ranch with horse andariat. And the crowds loved it.

The rodeo was a credit to Pampa, to Gray county and to the Top 'o' Texas. To Wade Thomasson, rodeo association president; to Crawford Atkinson, who directed the Kid Pony show; to Dr. R. M. Brown, who handled details for the Palomino show; to Quentin Williams, organizer and director of the record-smashing Quarter Horse show; to arena director Rex Barrett; to E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth and his tireless chamber of commerce staff, to the judges, participants and numerous committee heads and members—we owe a vote of thanks.

A tough job—well done.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—New players checking into Paramount are handed a 10-page questionnaire composed by the studio publicity department. The form asks more questions than a credit manager does.

Q. Have you been under contract to any other studio?
A. In my family we've never even heard of any other studio.
Q. Get peeved or aversion?
A. Guess who?
Q. If you weren't in films, what other profession would you like to follow?
A. This question is absurd. What would my public say?
Q. Do you have any outstanding bad habits you are always trying to overcome?
A. I am sometimes rough on autograph hounds. But lately I've gotten so that if they don't take it after I choke them once I quit.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN
I see that there's some confusion over the sale of Hitler's yacht. Well, I can't understand why anybody would want it, realizing who the previous owner was.

Q. What type of movie do you like best?
A. Oh, a good comedy about a road going homeplace.
Q. What type play do you like best?
A. Anything that ends happy, like Hamlet.
Q. Favorite color?
A. Robin's-egg blue—or did you know I could lay them in color?
Q. Do you like to cook?
A. Are you sure you sent this to the right guy?
Q. Do you like to entertain?
A. For a small fee.
Q. What kind of clothes do you like best?
A. I sort of favor those with pants.
Q. Are there any other members of your family in the theatrical profession? If so, please list their names and what they do.
A. Uncle Tom Hope, a stableboy at Republic, and I have a distant cousin who is assistant croquet-mallet polisher for Darryl Zanuch at 20th Century-Fox.

Q. Interesting facts about your family?
A. We are particularly proud of my greatniece No. 346789, who made Lincoln so natural on fives that the bank-tellers used to shave him every day.
Q. Any outstanding embarrassing moments?
A. There was one fairly-exciting moment, when my radio sponsor walked into my room and found me brushing my teeth with salt.
Q. When did you sign with Paramount?
A. Right after the eighth lash.

Peter Edson's Column: INTERNATIONAL RECORD ON PELAGIC WHALES

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—If you have the dog-days feeling that romance is dead and Washington is a very dull place indeed, you'll be cheered to know that just before congress adjourned the high and mighty senate foreign relations committee approved, and the senate ratified without dissenting vote, a new international protocol on pelagic whales.

A pelagic whale is one that lives in the ocean. Land whales and flying whales aren't covered by the protocol.

Somewhat the front pages overlook these important things, but don't be deceived by this particular protocol. It doesn't prescribe the etiquette for ceremonies of state when whale meets whale, nor does it designate which one spouts first.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON
By RAY TUCKER
INEFFICIENCY—The same sort of secretarial inefficiency which dogged Franklin D. Roosevelt toward the end of his regime now plagues Harry S. Truman and makes him helpless enemies on and off Capitol Hill.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES
Federal Council's Propaganda In The Congressional Record

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America should hang up the sign, "In the State We Trust" instead of "In God We Trust."

We have evidence of this in the Federal Council's statement adopted at a special meeting in Columbus in March, 1946. This statement was published in the Congressional Record at Washington, D. C., in a little wonder that we have so much economic confusion when leaders who are claiming to be Christian endorse things that are so absolutely opposite to Christian principles.

Listen to this as an example of the Federal Council's worshiping the state instead of God:
"The nature of man and the structure of modern industrial society have caused the right to an equitable wage to become a basic right. The responsibility for assuring full employment therefore rests upon all people as members of management, organized labor, agricultural, consumer, and other groups, and through their Government."

For the government to guarantee employment is to use force to take from one group of people to give to another group more than they can get voluntarily. It is the complete repudiation of the American way of life.

To do that is to do something that God, through the individual, has no right to do. The individual has a right to use force to make another man employ any man. But that is exactly what the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America advocates.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Reporters on assignment got down hurried notes that aren't too difficult to decipher if they sit down in an hour or so and write their stories.

Once these notes get cold they're about as intelligible to everyone, including the reporter, as an Egyptian hieroglyph is to your son Jimmy-Russie and express the hope that the Russians would participate in the inter-Asian relations conference.

The pandit made a highly important addition to this startling declaration. He asserted that India should "develop closer relations with Russia," and expressed the hope that the Russians would participate in the inter-Asian relations conference.

Apprehension isn't lessened when we make a quick calculation of the populations involved. India (400,000,000), China (500,000,000) and European Russia (200,000,000) alone total some half the population of the whole world. When the other Oriental countries are added, the east would have the balance of power in numbers.

Hot tamales, ice cream" the book says. That referred to the odd Latin American character in Balinger, born in Monterey, a Texan for 30 years, who makes his living pushing a cart he made himself, insulated so one side contained piping hot tamales, the other side ice cream. Ringing a little bell, he chants "Hot tamales and ice cream."

"Mirage" was easy. You see lots of mirages out there on the plains. They probably drove our thirsty ancestors nuts, but today you just step on the accelerator and head for a service station and get a drink.

"Bridges" the drouth being what it is, you can't help but notice how many bridges and how little water you find in West Texas today.

"Foil" During one campaign speech, a representative of the Gallup poll circulated among the audience asking questions. About the atomic bomb.

This gives you a rough idea what the reporter faces. Next time you're interviewed, talk slower, won't you?

The immediate purpose of any plan for control of atomic energy is to put an end to the possibility of a state of international hysteria and fear in which other negotiations will become so difficult as to be impossible.

These misguided leaders of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America seem to know no universal, impersonal law or rule in regard to human relations. They would substitute their will, or the state's will, for God's.

Insurance Man Is Drowned in River

NEW BRAUNFELS.—(AP)—Lester Jordan Vann, 36, Houston insurance man, was drowned while swimming in the Comal river here yesterday.

The body was recovered a short time after he was reported missing by his wife and members of his party.

Funeral of Pioneer Woman Set for Today

MARLIN.—(AP)—Funeral services were to be held today for Mrs. Sallie Jane Kennedy, 77, widow of the late J. M. Kennedy, former mayor of Marlin and founder of the Marlin Democrat Mrs. Kennedy died here Saturday night.

America's sacrifices in war casualties Dec. 7, 1941 to June, 1945, were 1,012,000. The total of motor vehicle accidents during the corresponding period was 3,200,000.

DIFFERENCES—Military Aide Vaughan's unfortunate relationship with V. M. I. Superintendent R. J. Marshall is held responsible by distinguished Virginians for their failure so far to obtain an appointment with President Truman.

Supernatural Marshall is a cousin of our ambassador to China, and he served as General Douglas MacArthur's deputy in the Pacific theater. General Vaughan, then only a colonel, was under his command, and military men recall that their association was not too friendly.

When differences arose, Colonel Vaughan was summarily shipped back to the mainland by MacArthur's deputy, Sood after his arrival in the United States, Mr. Truman's World War I buddy was named military aide to the President and raised to the rank of major general. As such, he handles all matters for the President that pertain to military questions.

TURNDOWN—Senator Harry Byrd, a V. M. I. patron, asked for the endowment drive appointment many weeks ago. He suggested August 15 as a convenient date, although making clear that this was only a suggestion. He was, however, eager to arrange an early reception so that the money-raising campaign could get under way. So far he has had no answer.

This is the second tentative turn-down the senator from the Old Dominion has received from the White House. He invited the President to attend a state celebration at Arlington cemetery for late this month, but Mr. Truman replied that he would be away from Washington at that time.

NEGLECT—Southern politicians and legislators cannot understand Mr. Truman's apparent neglect of their section of the United States, especially in view of his ancestral connections with Dixie. His family fought on the side of the gray in 1861-65, and he has always considered himself a Southerner rather than a member of the North.

The President angered the North Carolina delegation last fall when he backed out of a visit to that state after the folks had gone to a great deal of entertainment expense on the basis of an earlier promise to be on hand.

In fact, certain White House difficulties on Capitol Hill stemmed from the resentment of Robert O. Anderson, the Tar Heeler who heads the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

Subsequently, Mr. Truman found it necessary to cancel plans for a swing-around that would have taken him into Speaker Sam Rayburn's state of Texas and other sections in the Southwest. The more sensible men on Capitol Hill understand that grave penalties prevent the President from granting all requests for personal appearances, but they find it hard to square themselves with the folks back home.

CRITIC—Senator Byrd himself may be partially responsible for his ill luck at the White House. The conservative Virginian has been a constant critic of both the Roosevelt and Truman administrations. He is also on close terms with many southern legislators who blocked enactment of a major portion of the White House program at the recent session.

In his recent primary fight, too, Mr. Byrd accepted the challenge of the C. I. O., which had branded him as its "No. 1 enemy" during a stinging oratory pierced the hide of numerous top-flight Truman advisers.

EVERY NICKEL COUNTS IN BANK ACCOUNTS

HASTINGS, Neb.—(AP)—Scene in front of a Hastings bank. A man was going through all his pockets trying to find a coin to put in a parking meter.

To get to his pockets, he had to shift from hand to hand several cloth sacks—full of coins he intended to deposit in the bank.
