Defense Opens 3-Gun Salvo In Smith Case

TOKYO, Jan. 8 — UP — Counsel defending Mrs. Dorothy Krueger Smith for the Oct. 3 knife slaying of her husband opened his barrage Thursday with a three-gun salvo intended to destroy the prosecution's contention that the murder of Col. Aubrey D. Smith was premeditated.

1. The U.S. Army's ranking psychiatrist testified at Mrs. Smith's court martial that all the records showed she was "completely without control" the night she fatally stabbed her husband with a 13-inch knife.

2. An Army doctor stationed in Tokyo had urged Smith to have his wife hospitalized only a few hours before she stabbed him to death.

3. Mrs. Smith's neighbor, Mrs. Joseph Hardin, testified that Mrs. Smith "seemed happy" about the fact that she and her husband were going to be transferred to the United States. The prosecution had tried to prove she felt she was being "abandoned" and sent back home alone.

4. Brig. Gen. Rawley E. Chambers, the Army's chief neuro-psychiatrist, was flown by the Army 8,000 miles from Washington, D.C., to fire the biggest gun in the defense case to prove Mrs. Smith was unable to control herself. She plunged a knife into her husband's side.

An Army medical board had condemned Mrs. Smith, attractive 40-year-old daughter of famed World War II Gen. Walter Krueger and mother of two children, "knew right from wrong and was able to adhere to the right" the night of the murder.

Chambers denied this when he took the stand as the last witness for the defense.

The general, who treated Mrs. Smith during four years of repeated neurotic "episodes" in the United States, testified that she "could not have restrained herself" the night of Oct. 3 if she were under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

Death Claims Social Queen

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — UP — Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the queen of a fabulous social world that faded with her own proud beauty, died of pneumonia Wednesday night at the age of 82.

The "grand old lady" of New York-Newport society died in her four-story, 28-room mansion on Fifth Avenue. Her daughter, Mrs. Robert Livingston Stevens, was at her bedside.

Mrs. Vanderbilt had been ill for several months and recently developed bronchial pneumonia. She died in the bedroom where she spent her final months in a wheelchair surrounded by photographs of old friends, back copies of the Social Register and other reminders of a glitzy past.

To the last she remained social sovereign of a dying empire of millionaires whose fortunes flourished in the lavish era before wars, depression and taxes took their toll.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by a son, Walter, and two grandchildren, Mrs. Charles McCain Jr., of Shreveport, La., and Mrs. Grace B. Stevens. Her husband, Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, died in 1942.

General Vanderbilt was the great-grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, who founded the family fortune in the nineteenth century as a builder of a huge railroad empire.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was born Grace Wilson, the daughter of a cotton speculator who made millions in the Civil War. Her marriage to the young Vanderbilt in 1893 went against his family wishes and touched off a social rivalry between her and her mother-in-law, Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt.

Soldiers' Big Hearted Idea Appears Doomed To Defeat

SEOUL, Jan. 8 — UP — Tough luck, Charley Company. Your big hearted idea may fail.

The high brass agrees with you. Korea-Jos should get the best medical treatment in the world. And with both his legs and both his arms blown off, he will need the care of top doctors and nurses for a long time to come.

But the Army looks at the case differently than you do, Charley Company. The Army figures that Korea Jos will do okay in the ROK Army hospital at Pusan. And the Army says it would be a "dangerous precedent" to single out one South Korean soldier for special

NEW EVIDENCE — Broadway writer Calvin Hoffman points to his discovery in New York of new evidence in his contention that Christopher Marlowe wrote the plays attributed to Shakespeare. In the First Folio of Shakespeare's plays, Hoffman found the surname "Marlowe," which is unknown in English genealogy. He believes "Marlowe" was deliberately inserted to indicate the play was "Marlowe's text." (NEA Telephoto)

Work committees for the 1953 Top of Texas Rodeo are to be selected at a Rodeo Association executive committee meeting at 10 a.m. Jan. 16 in the Chamber of Commerce office, according to Paul Cronch, association president.

Other members of the executive committee include H. L. Ledrick, first vice president; Frank M. Carter, second vice president; A. L. Mills, treasurer, and E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary.

The work committees are to plan activities for the annual rodeo tentatively scheduled in early August for 1953.

In the meantime, the Chamber of Commerce monthly directors meeting formerly scheduled Monday has been postponed until Jan. 10 due to the absence of Lynn Boyd, manager.

The meeting is to be a noon luncheon in the Palm Room and the premiere showing of the birthday celebration is scheduled.

Portions of the entire celebration from the parade on is to be included, according to Wedgeworth, and any person desiring to attend may do so by making reservations with the Chamber of Commerce offices.

The films are to be shown by Earl McConnell, cameraman, who announced they have just returned from the developers.

Other items on the agenda are routine business. Wedgeworth has urged all directors to attend.

Buchanan Rites Are Held Today

Funeral services for Miss Gertie Buchanan, 60, 1601 Schneider, were held at 2 p.m. today in the Central church of Christ with J. M. Gilpatrick, pastor, officiating.

Miss Buchanan died at 11:15 a.m. Wednesday. She had been ill two weeks.

Graveside rites and burial were to be at 5 p.m. today in Erick, Okla.

Miss Buchanan was born Nov. 2, 1893, in Arkansas. She had been a resident of Pampa the last year and three months, moving here from Erick in October, 1951, and was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include four sisters, Miss Jessie Buchanan, Mrs. Beula Simmons and Mrs. Mildred Brock, all of Pampa and Mrs. Addie Aylor, Seminole, Okla.; one brother, C. D. Buchanan, Seminole.

Gas Station Robbed Early Today . . .

Amarillo Death Site Is Picked For Repeat

A repeat holdup was pulled today at the same Amarillo gas station in which the attendant was robbed and killed two days ago.

"A little better than $50" was taken at gunpoint about 6 a.m. today from Kenneth G. Wallace, 25, of Amarillo, attendant for the Waits Gulf Service Station, 601 S. Fillmore.

Wallace had replaced Victor T. Smith, who was attacked, robbed of $48 and killed in a holdup between 7:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. Tuesday at the identical spot.

Possibility of a connection between the two robberies exists, Amarillo Police Chief Sid Harper said, "if anything can come out of anything."

Wallace, however, was not molested in any way, Harper said, and reported the crime "as soon as he pulled himself together."

Whether more than one person was involved in the holdups was undetermined, Harper went on. Evidence that there might be more than one came from the fact that Smith was knifed and beaten around the head with a blunt instrument.

Since a "feeling of alarm" (See AMARILLO, Page 7)

Challenge Unanswered

Three days have gone by since Pampa sports writers and sports casters have challenged their Amarillo counterparts to a March of Dimes benefit basketball game.

So far no answer. Last year Amarillo barely eked out a victory over the Pampa scribbles basketball team and carted off the cash to Potter County's March of Dimes Fund.

But the "has been" Sandies don't seem to be eager for a return match, Warren Hasse, county MOD drive chairman said this morning since he has received no answer from their camp.

Meanwhile the mailed coin cards were beginning to come back through the mails, filled with dimes, Hasse reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stallings, the county chairman added, made their annual contribution by turning over to the drive all the pennies they had saved during the past year.

Two other special events were announced, one by the Girl Scouts and one by the Pampa B & P W. Club.

The B & P W members will hold a game night on Jan. 29 while members of Girl Scout Troop 15 will hold a "Living Poster Day" on Jan. 24. The girls will form pictures by acting out the parts inside a huge frame and will accept donations, all for the March of Dimes.

MONTEPELLIER, Ida., Jan. 8 — UP — A nine-man ground party struggled through the wild, Rocky Mountain wilderness near here Thursday in a search for a C-46 Commando transport plane missing with 40 men and one woman aboard.

There was a hope that some of the passengers on the Army chartered plane survived the crash and the storm whipped right in the mountains after a farmer near here reported late Wednesday night that he saw flares on Hot Springs Peak, just off the plane's course.

Sheriff Gilbert Arnell of Bear Lake county and an eight-man search team left here Wednesday night to investigate the report.

The big plane was believed down near the Utah-Idaho border and only a few miles from Wyoming in what one official called the "most rugged terrain possible."

Air searchers were resumed Thursday.

The C-46, carrying 37 Korean veterans enroute to their homes, disappeared from sight Wednesday morning.

The twin-engined Commando took off from Seattle, debarcation point of the homecoming GIs, at 2:50 a.m. CST Wednesday. Its destination was Ft. Jackson, S. C. where the troops — all enlisted men — were to be processed and sent to their homes in the Carolinas, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

The plane, one of a pair of C-46s owned by the Associated Air Transport Co., San Antonio, Tex., was part of a 16-ship flight the Army chartered to airlift Korean veterans homeward. Loaded alphabetically, all those aboard had names starting with "H," "J" or "K."

The plane's pilot was listed as Lawrence Crawford. On the crew with Crawford were Maxwell Perkins, first officer and Dorothy Davis,

Mother Tries Suicide Again

HOUSTON, Jan. 8 — UP — A 23-year-old mother of three children failed again Wednesday night in an attempted suicide and Thursday showed no ill effects from her 60-foot leap into a bayou.

But she still was determined to kill herself because "if I'm dead my children will be properly taken care of in a home."

The woman said her common-law husband left her six months ago. She went to work as a barmaid at $30 a week. Two weeks ago she was forced to move into a one-room apartment for herself and the three children.

One week ago, she turned the gas jets on in her room off a neighbor's smelling gas, saved her.

Wednesday night she walked across Preston Avenue Bridge, slipped off her shoes and leaped into the bayou 60 feet below. Someone saw her and called police. Patrolmen J. O. Brannon and E. L. Kennedy pulled her from the water unhurt.

Raiders Turn Battlefront Into Fury Of Flames

SEOUL, Jan. 8 — UP — An Allied raiding party turned a sector of the central front southeast of the truce village of Panmunjom into a fury of flames and explosions for nearly an hour Thursday and left at least 35 Chinese dead on the battlefield.

Another 15 were believed killed and at least 10 wounded.

Allied war planes paved the way for the attack by a reinforced platoon of about 60 Allied raiders by pouring bombs, rockets and napalm down on the Reds, who were strongly dug into their caves and bunkers.

Storm Red Positions. Then the raiders attacked. With flame throwers, tanks and artillery they stormed the Communist positions and battled to within 100 yards of the Red lines.

They blasted the Red bunkers and caves with satchel charges of dynamite and other high explosives. The attack was called off after 55 minutes of steady explosive fighting.

Earlier Thursday, Allied light bombers, acting on a fast tip from high-flying B-29 Superfort pilots out on a bombing mission, surprised a 15-mile long Communist convoy 30 miles north of the Korean front lines and destroyed 55 of the enemy supply trucks.

Thief Feels Effect Of Stolen Champagne

HOUSTON, Jan. 8 — UP — A thief stole a bottle of imported French champagne from Miss Nettie Falk's home and police surmised he drank it on the spot.

Before he left the thief smashed an egg against the wall, took two tubes from a radio and put them in a refrigerator and took a bunch of bananas and cut each one in half.

BEAUMONT, Jan. 8 — UP — Deputy Sheriffs Thursday asked authorities in Marksville, La., to check out unidentified aspects of the strange poisoning case of Mrs. D. M. Morris and hinted the solution might be forthcoming soon.

But Chief Deputy Tommy Grant and Deputy Russell Bridges gave no hint as to what they had asked the Louisiana authorities to check or what the solution might be.

FORGER AND TIPSTER — Lee Riley Welch (left), 23, of Wichita Falls, a convicted forger, was arrested at 1:45 p.m. Wednesday in the Parker Courts No. 2, 324 E. Brown, by law enforcement author I-8 acting on a tip from Tommy Sorrels (right), 19, 415 W. Browning, branch credit manager in the Sherwin-Williams Paint Store, 113 S. Cuyler. Two Speeches Being Framed By GOP Chief

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — UP — President-elect Eisenhower buckled down to domestic problems Thursday, having explored with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, his old friend of wartime days, the courses of action open to leaders of a free world in an uneasy peace.

The 62-year-old Kansan who will become President in 11 more days and 78-year-old British statesman who has reached late evening in his astonishing career sat down together in a private room for more than an hour Wednesday night.

It was their third informal conference since Churchill arrived in this country Monday. The two moved off alone into a private room only 10 minutes after Eisenhower had arrived at the home of Bernard Baruch, Churchill's New York host. Distinguished guests—including the Duke and Duchess of Windsor—left them alone.

Churchill, Truman to Meet Thursday was Churchill's day for a meeting with President Truman in Washington. And it was a day of work for Eisenhower. He scheduled only two visitors at his headquarters and dug into the business of shaping and phrasing his inaugural address and state of the union addresses.

Eisenhower's press secretary or he will deliver the state of the said it had not been decided whether report in person or send it to Congress as a message. Preliminary drafts of both addresses have been completed. The President-elect is polishing them.

The farewell call on Churchill came shortly before the prime minister received Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York at dinner. Eisenhower didn't stay to see Dewey. He had a cup of tea with the guests who had gathered in the Baruch drawing room.

High Temperatures In Area Expected To Set A Record

Pampa is in for some record-breaking high January temperatures, according to predictions, and brilliant skies accompanied by a mercury reading of 48 degrees at 11 a.m. today gave evidence the forecast will be borne out.

And no relief is in sight for the drought-bothered farmers. A stationary warm front is holding clouds over most of the state but the clouds don't have enough moisture in them to produce any rain, the weatherman said.

The mercury dipped to 28 degrees in Pampa last night after a high of almost shirt-sleeve weather of 56 degrees Wednesday.

Temperature in the southern part of the state stayed above the 50's and 60's early today and though the mercury dropped below freezing in other states overnight, forecasts called for five to 10 degrees warmer weather the next two days.

Elsewhere in the nation temperature rose across the mid-section belt today but stayed low enough to turn highways into ribbons of ice from freezing rain and drizzle.

Ex-Con Nabbed On Tip From City Clerk

An experienced forger was in county jail today and could thank an alert 19-year-old Pampa paint store employe for his capture.

A tip from Tommy Sorrels, 415 W. Browning, touched off an extensive search early Wednesday afternoon for Lee Riley Welch, 23, of Wichita Falls, who was arrested in a local tourist court an hour and a half later.

"Recognizing the routine" of Welch, Sorrels called the sheriff's office at 12:15 p.m. with the information that Welch was in the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co., 113 S. Cuyler, and set in motion a search that was to include city, county and state authorities.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nickols spotted Welch's car outside Parker Courts No. 2, Cabin No. 4, 324 E. Brown, a bout 1:45 p.m. With other officers the arrest was made.

And the car was a stolen one, according to Sheriff Rufe Jordan. Welch took it Nov. 18 from his step-father, C. O. McDuffey, Wichita Falls, Jordan said, quoting Wichita Falls police.

Having served approximately one-half of a three-year sentence for forgery in the state penitentiary, Huntville, Welch was released Oct. 11, Jordan continued, and has been passing forged checks ever since — "some in Berger Wednesday morning."

Welch is known to have passed bad checks, the sheriff went on, in Pampa, Borger, Big Spring, Abilene, Plainview, Midland, Odessa, Wichita Falls and "probably one or two more." "Perhaps" (See EX-CON, Page 7)

Situation Picking Up . . . Getting A Job In Pampa Area Relatively Simple, TEC Claims

Getting a job in the Pampa trade area at present seems to be a relatively simple task for most persons.

And "the job situation is picking up" all the time, according to Bill Ragsdale, head of the local Texas Employment Commission office.

Three different barometers bear this out: (1) the number of Korean veterans who have applied for unemployment benefits;

(2) the number of persons who have visited the local TEC office in search of work; and

(3) the personal observations of Ragsdale.

Only 11 veterans have applied for unemployment benefits under the new GI Bill passed Oct. 15 — "surprisingly few," Ragsdale said. Under the law veterans can collect $26 per week for 26 weeks if they are unemployed.

Just six of those 11 are still "active claimants," meaning that they have visited the TEC office (See TEC, Page 7)

First Cafe To Serve Decent Pancakes Will Make A Fortune

By HENRY McLEMORE
 LOS ANGELES — The year 1953 is one day old and I feel it my bounden duty to tell my readers what will happen in the next 365 days, what won't happen, and how to avoid the trials and pitfalls of the year that has just gone, and the years that beat 1952 over the hill.
 Let us start with a limited list of things which will be the same in 1953 as in 1952.
 Nylons will run like an open tap. No one will perfect a stainless steel stocking for wives.
 Pancakes and waffles will remain the same in restaurants, meaning they will be as heavy as baby grand pianos. In all the world, and I say this without fear of contradiction, no restaurant has ever served a decent pancake or waffle. The first place that does will make a fortune.
 Hotel clerks will continue to act as if they were secretaries of state and will greet customers with noses in the air. This goes for every hotel I know of but two—the St. Francis in San Francisco and the St. Charles in New Orleans.
 Food will cost too much. When I was a youngster and worked in a grocery store on Saturdays (for 75 cents), a man needed help to load five dollars worth of groceries into his car. Now, a mouse can carry that much on his back without worrying about flat feet or stooped shoulders. Better for the mice, yes, but tougher for the breadwinner.
 What will be better in 1953? Let's take a look at that:
 To start with, there will be no ants at any picnic in 1953. After all these years ants have finally become tired of hard-boiled eggs, peanut butter sandwiches, potato salad, and hot coffee. And they have become weary of human beings who drop in once or twice a year and upset their homes.
 There will be scarcely any mention of Rita and Aly. Aly alone will make 1953 worthwhile. There were times in 1952 when a man couldn't find out what was happening in Korea because of the space given the no-haircut playboy and the woman who married him for love and love alone.
 John L. Lewis will open his eyebrows for public shooting. For the price of two dollars any American will be able to get a license to hunt in the old man's eyebrows. I confidently expect to bag a moose, a tiger, a brace of pheasants, and a two-horned raiate in pay the first day I go on safari in Mr. Lewis' veid.
 Moving picture theaters will light the aisles. The movie public has had this coming to it for a long time. The lighting, up until this year, has not changed since Wallace Reid was the hottest thing in town. Soon patrons will be able to do nothing but grope for a seat — not grope and stumble.

LONGER LINES distinguish the 1953 series of Oldsmobile "88" Holiday coupes, scheduled to be on display Friday at Reeves Oldsmobile Inc., 833 W. Foster. The new vehicle has a long silhouette and an extra large capacity trunk. The restyled front end features new hood lines and a new grille and bumper assembly with ornamental support brackets. The 1953 "88" Holiday is powered by a 165-h.p. engine with an 8-1-1 compression ratio. The luxurious interior presents fine upholstery in a choice of colors and a new instrument panel. GM power steering, Frigidaire car conditioning and power brakes are available as optional equipment at extra cost.

Olds Presents 1953 Models

LANBING, Mich., Jan. 8—UP—Oldsmobile presented its 1953 models Thursday with restyled front bumper and grille assembly, higher engine horsepower and a 24-volt electrical system.
 The cars go on public display in dealers' showrooms Friday. Prices are unchanged from 1952.
 Horsepower in the "88" and the Super 88 Rocket engines has been increased to 165 from 160, and from 145 to 150 in the Rocket 88 engine.
 The higher horsepower is achieved mainly from increasing the compression ratio from 7.5 to 1, to 8 to 1.
 The bumper and grille assembly now have two oval ornaments serving as supports for upper bumper arm. The name of the car is inscribed on this bar in mental letters.
 J. F. Wolfram, General Motors vice president and general manager of the Oldsmobile division, said the 12-volt system was adopted because of increasing electrical demands on modern automobiles.
 Air conditioning and power brakes are offered as optional equipment.

Alert Firemen Stand By As Disastrous Fire Burns Out

SHERIDAN, Tex., Jan. 8—UP—Firemen stood by Thursday while an oil fire, which already has destroyed half of the Shell Oil Company's $10 million cycling plant, "burned itself out." Four men were killed and three others hurt when a tank at the project exploded Wednesday.
 The explosion, so powerful it was felt 19 miles away, spewed burning oil over most of the plant. The fire which followed raged out of control for four hours.
 For a while it was feared it might set off more explosions. But there was no danger Thursday of the fire spreading.
 "It will just burn itself out," firemen said.
 The dead—all residents of this southeast Texas industrial town—were plant superintendent R. W. Rabb; Ernest E. Hillhouse, a shift foreman; and J. B. Harvey and N. W. Beard, both fractionating operators. The plant's fractionating unit was destroyed and a compressor house damaged in the explosion.
 Two men risked their lives to pull Rabb out of the burning building but they discovered he was already dead.
 District plant manager Joe Golaskinski said he left the building just before the explosion occurred. "I heard a relief valve pop on top of the tank," he said, and went outside to see what it was all about.
 "I saw a leak in the heat exchanger unit and started to yell a

Landon Lashes At Stevenson

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 8—UP—M. Landon, unsuccessful Republican candidate for president in 1952, charged Wednesday night that Gov. Adlai Stevenson has "persistently" rebuked American newspapers since he lost the presidential election last November.
 Landon, a former governor of Kansas, said that he was "distressed" by the attitude the Democratic presidential candidate has taken.
 Governor Stevenson has participated in persistent misrepresentation of the fairness and truthfulness of the American newspapers in reporting political events," he said.
 Landon said that President-elect Eisenhower must create a "new psychological atmosphere of working together."
 "The new Marxian line of propaganda no longer is centering on Wall Streeters but the American press," he added. "We face a crisis in public confidence if the objectivity of newspapers is undermined."

Reporting Income Tax Simple If Taxes Withheld... Income Tax Primer: No. 5

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

Do you work for someone else? Do you get a paycheck? If you do, this is one of the most important articles of the Income Tax Primer as far as you are concerned.

Here you learn how to report income from your employer. And what is just as important as far as saving you money on your taxes, this article tells you what expenses you can deduct on page 1 of your tax return, Form 1040.

But if you don't have "page 1 expenses," as they will be called here, for purposes of simplicity, don't worry. Your expense deductions will be explained in clear and complete detail in later articles.

Reporting income is simple for those who had taxes withheld. Each employer is required to furnish you by Jan. 31 a Withholding Statement (Form W-2) which shows total wages before payroll deductions. Write this amount in item 2 on page 1 of your tax return.

If tax was not withheld you will have to figure income from records, or ask your employer. Report such income items on separate lines opposite each employer's name in item 2. This includes tips received direct from customers and wages of a domestic servant, farm hand, or casual laborer.

Some employers pay wages in property other than cash. In such cases, figure the fair market value of the property at the time you received it and report that amount as income. You can get the fair market value of hundreds of items out of newspaper advertisements, classified ads, and stock exchange reports. If you receive property that isn't listed, get help from your Director of Internal Revenue's Office.

Now let's take a look at some income items listed on page 5 of the official instructions which do not have to be reported. Here are explanations of the items most likely to give you trouble:

Gifts from employer to employee.—To be a gift, the employer must intend to make a gift and should not take a deduction for it on his business tax return.

Do not report the value of quarters provided by the employer when it is necessary for you to live in to do your job properly. Quarters provided principally for worker's benefit, or as part of his wage, are taxable at fair rental value.

Do not report value of meals provided when you work overtime, without extra pay, or if meals are provided to have you on call during meal time. The fair value of other meals provided by the employer is taxable as part of your wages.

Small services, privileges, and facilities furnished employees for the promotion of good will, health, morale and efficiency are not considered income to the employee. This includes such items as medical services, courtesy discounts on purchases, group life insurance, railroad passes, and occasional use of official cars for personal reasons.

After showing all your income as an employee in item 2, page 1 of your return, you are now ready to consider whether you have any deductions which can be shown in item 2.

The law allows many deductions—but only two types can be deducted in item 2 on Form 1040. These are "travel expenses" and "business expenses reimbursed by your employer."

For example, if your job requires you to "travel" as defined below, those expenses can be deducted in item 2 regardless of whether you are reimbursed for the expenses. Of course, if you are reimbursed you must report that as income. Business expenses of an employee such as entertaining can only be deducted in item 2 if you are reimbursed for them by your employer and you report the reimbursement in income. Business expenses of employees NOT reimbursed by the employer can only be deducted on Page 3 of Long Form 1040 and will be discussed in the 11th article.

Read the information on pages 5 and 6 of the official instructions shown under "Travel Expenses of Employees" and "Reimbursed Expenses Other Than Travel." If you have any expenses which fit either category, do not file on Form 1040A. These expenses cannot be deducted on that form. They can be deducted on either Short Form 1040 or Long Form 1040.

Note that the Bureau instructions say travel expenses must be incurred while traveling at least overnight. The Tax Court, however, permitted one taxpayer to deduct as "Travel Expenses" the cost of a trip out of town and back in one day. The Bureau has not yet decided to follow this Tax Court decision so if you try to deduct in item 2 on page 1 of Form 1040 for trips out of town but not overnight, you may have to go to the Tax Court to win this point.

A deduction for travel expenses or business expenses reimbursed by your employer must be supported by a statement attached to your return. There is no set form. A simple statement is printed with this article to show you how it can be done, and incidentally, to remind you of what items can be deducted.

Watch for tomorrow's article if you have any dividends, interest or business income.

DEDUCTING TRAVEL EXPENSES

If you deduct travel expenses or business expenses reimbursed by your employer in item 2, page 1 of Form 1040, attach a statement, like this sample, to your return:

I made a three-day business trip to Denver, Colo., in July, 1952. My expenses were as follows:

Railroad, airplane and taxi fares.....	$27.50
Meals, lodging and hotel expenses.....	35.00
Telephone and telegraph charges.....	1.65
Tips, public steno.....	8.00
Total travel.....	$72.15

I entertained a business customer for my employer for which I was reimbursed. Said reimbursement is included in the total wages shown on my Form W-2.

Cost of entertainment..... $15.00

DO YOU HAVE ANY BUSINESS TRAVEL EXPENSES? BUSINESS EXPENSES REIMBURSED BY YOUR EMPLOYER?

IF SO, READ THIS ARTICLE CAREFULLY.

As Of Today, Unity In Europe Dead As A Dodo

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst

As of today, European unity is dead as a dodo.

The phrase "as of today" is used because there always is the hope that someone—perhaps president-elect Eisenhower after he takes office—may come up with the magic shot of adrenalin necessary to revive the corpse in cold and getting colder.

The hope of European unity always has lain with a few strong men. Such men as Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France and Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy.

Schuman Gone

Now it appears that Schuman is out, sacrificed on the chopping block of internal French politics.

His successor in the cabinet of Premier-designate Rene Mayer is expected to be George Bidault, who has held the job before and who also twice has been French premier.

But whoever gets the job, the make-up of Mayer's whole cabinet must of necessity be a hodge-podge affair, held together by string and chewing gum.

To win approval as premier from the French Assembly, Mayer was forced into many compromises.

One of those kills the whole idea of a European Army, and with it the hope of European unity.

It is his deal with Gen. Charles De Gaulle whose French People's Rally controls 85 of the assembly's 627 votes.

De Gaulle is one of those Frenchmen who believe that no good ever can come from any German.

Wants Germans Suppressed

He has opposed any plan which would put German soldiers on an equal footing with the French, he fears German reconstruction and he has accused Schuman of being a slave to the wishes of the United States.

As the price of his support, he forced Mayer to agree to insist on HOLLYWOOD (NEA)— Exclusively Yours: Jerry Lewis has been warned by his medical advisers to cut down on those comedy falls—or else pay the same price as Red Skelton.

Red's ailments which put him on the operating table are directly attributed to his umbrellas may be next on the list for the and Jerry has been told that he won't be white.

The grapevine may be twisting, but Leslie Caron's devious there is a big rift in her marriage to George Horne, the ham hair.

Displaying a wide gold wedding band, she assured us there would be no separation "now or ever."

Lita Grey Chaplin, ex-wife of Charlie, is resuming her nightclub singing career on March 10. For the last two years she's been a Hollywood agent.

Printed reports that Red Skelton is groaning over young Jimmy Conzidine's "score" in "The Clown" are false. Red literally shoved the kid into the camera throughout the film, then gifted him with a $500 watch.

The "old faces" scored again in the top-money-making stars-of-the-year poll of the Motion Picture Herald-Fame audit of the U.S. box-office. Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are the tops, followed by Gary Cooper, John Wayne, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, James Stewart, Doris Day, Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Randolph Scott.

Mark Douglas has been dating Gene Tierney in Paris but, says Gene, "He talks only about Pier Angeli. The guy is nuts about her."

The plush mansion in which Bette Davis lives in "The Star" is the home of the film's producer, Bert Friedlob. Bette's home was too modest to be photographed!

Hedy took the affirmative in a national magazine article a couple of years ago, but Ursula, who's turning the months of movie town gazers with her Helen of Troy looks, wants it known that "beauty doesn't have to be a curse," and adds:

"It all depends on the person. There's nothing unusual about being called beautiful. Hollywood is full of beautiful women. All I want to do is to prove that I can act."

Ursula, the German-born dazler, gets her chance in RKO's "Gambler's Moon" next March. Add high time, because "I'm tired of waiting around. It's been a year and a half since I signed my contract. I've been patient, Match at the Alcazar Theater in San Francisco.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Get Bridge Treat; Watch Great Play

By OSWAED JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Sidner Slodur is known far and wide as one of the best bridge players America every produced. Hence when Sidney recently brought out a new book, "Slodur Says," serious bridge students prepared themselves for an enjoyable and instructive treat.

One of the points discussed by Slodur in his new book is the meaning of a double of a no-trump contract when the doubler has previously bid a suit. Such a double, Slodur points out, means "Lead my suit, and I guarantee that this contract will be defeated."

In the hand shown today, as Slodur observes, West surely goes wrong except for the guidance furnished by East's audacious double.

NORTH		EAST
♠ 542	♥ 53	♠ KQJ109	♥ 53
♦ A J 10 7 3	♣ A Q 2	♦ K Q J 8 6	♣ K 2
♦ A 8 7 3	♥ A 10 9 7	♦ 9 8 4	♥ K 4
North-South vul.
West North East South	Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 N.T.	Pass 3 N.T. Double Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♠ 4

After hearing the double, West is compelled to lead his singleton six of spades. (The only six cases for not leading a spade, in this situation are a void spade suit and sudden death.)

This opening lead forces out declarer's ace of spades. South must go after the diamonds to have any chance at all for his contract; and East gets in with the king of diamonds in time to defeat the contract with the rest of his spade suit.

If left to his own devices, West would have opened the king of hearts instead of his singleton spade. South would hasten to win the first trick with the ace of hearts, and would then finesse the diamonds, forcing out East's town gazers with her Helen of Troy looks, wants it known that "beauty doesn't have to be a curse," and adds:

South would then have a second stopper in hearts, and could not be prevented from winning a spade, at least one heart, four diamonds, and three clubs, much longer.

Hugo Haas, whose latest picture is "Thy Neighbor's Wife," has been unable to talk his Mrs. into a reconciliation.

"If Zsa Zsa Gabor can murder the King of England, so can sister Eva. Eva's playing in "Strike a Match" at the Alcazar Theater in San Francisco.

"The good Lord took care of me!"—The gentle light of 1907 candles lit the path for Kari Gloeckner, of Eidersgen, Germany as he smoked a meditative cigar on the occasion of his 107th birthday. Gloeckner, West Germany's oldest citizen, claims to be the only German survivor of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-71. Favorite pastime of the still-active old gentleman is chatting with "younger folks" of 80 or 90. When asked for the secret of his longevity, Gloeckner said, simply, "The good Lord took care of me."

Pampans Not Hurt Yet By Folding Insurance Mutuals

While policy holders in 16 "county mutuals" over the state are having the bit up on them for assessments to meet obligations of those folding companies, none have been reported so far in Pampa.

Policy holders in these "county mutuals" never knew until now that they are actually stockholders as well as policy holders and are liable for the company's debts should it go into receivership.

The state law covering these companies sets up a minimum assessment of $1 for every $100 of insurance. However, the policy holders are receiving notice from the State Insurance Commission that they are being assessed $5 per $100 of insurance.

Many policy holders are criticizing the Insurance Board which licenses these "county mutuals" and is now assessing them to meet obligations of those companies going into receivership.

Local insurance agents have reported to the Pampa Daily News that they do not write insurance for these "county mutuals" and have turned down several requests by them to write such insurance.

People don't know that when they buy this "cheap" insurance written by these small county mutuals, they automatically become stockholders in those companies.

Mounted Police Short On Mounts

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—If the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were ordered to "mount up" now they would have to squeeze at least 37 men on a horse.

The RCMP's annual report showed Thursday that the force had 131 saddle horses and 5,641 officers and men.

There were about seven million high school students in the United States in 1951.

There were about 21 million grade school pupils in the United States in 1951.

New GOP Farm Policy Group Cultivates Hot Farm Politics

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—All have always regarded themselves of a sudden, farm politics in Washington has become hotter than a cornfield in August. Reason for this not a heat wave is President-elect Eisenhower's appointment of his interim, 14-member farm-policy advisory committee. The emphasis has been put on the "interim" but the committee may become permanent. Politically, the group seems to divide as four Democrats, one Democrat for Eisenhower, eight straight Republicans and one Independent Republican, Chairman William I. Myers of Cornell University.

The names on this list have farm belt congressmen and farm organization leaders buzzing. For the first time in years, the names of the big-three farm organization heads have been left off a farm policy committee. Conspicuously not present are Allan Kline of American Farm Bureau, Herschel D. Newson of the Grange and James Patton of Farmers Union.

Two other notable omissions from the list are Robert K. Goodwin and Harold McKinley of Iowa, who were Republican co-chairmen of the Eisenhower campaign in the farm belt, working out of the Chicago headquarters.

It was Mr. McKinley, a potato grower who has tangled frequently with the Democratic administration's Department of Agriculture, who first suggested the idea of a committee to advise on farm policy. The idea was put in the resolutions adopted at the Denver conference of farm leaders before the Chicago GOP convention.

The idea was later transplanted to the Republican platform, and it was endorsed personally by General Eisenhower in the campaign. So the naming of the committee carries out these promises.

Benson Approved
The committee was picked with the approval of the new Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson. But how much of a hand Mr. Benson had in naming them is not revealed. Chairman Myers and President-elect Eisenhower's brother, Milton, are generally credited with having put the committee together, according to Republican sources.

But the appointment of the group was not cleared with Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, nor Rep. Cliff Hope of Kansas, who will again be Republican chairmen of congressional agriculture committees.

Here may be the making of another cloud of trouble no bigger than a man's hand. The congressional agriculture committees

Luxury Of Santa Anita Makes If A Pleasure To Lose Money

ARCADIA, CALIF.—I am writing this in the press box at the Santa Anita track, and I'm mad.

Hoppin' mad. Those who own and operate Santa Anita have made it so lovely, so comfortable that a man doesn't mind losing money. You lose a race and don't care. That is dangerous. Not only dangerous, but very dangerous.

New York tracks aren't that way. If you don't have a sardine in your family line the chances are you can't get in. Everyone is allowed one inch of standing room. The view consists of smokestacks, three stunted trees, and an infield as barren as a billiard ball. So when you lose a few bucks at New York tracks you hiss like a cobra. There is nothing to take up the slack. You depart with a bruised wallet and ribs to match.

Santa Anita's only rival is Hialeah in Miami. When your sure thing runs out of the money at Hialeah you can find peace of mind by gazing at flamingos and royal palms. At Santa Anita there is an infield with 2,000,000 blossoms, the snow-capped mountains, a clubhouse and turf club with all the appointments of Buckingham Palace, and escalators to lift your weary body to the parking lot.

I am a two-dollar better. A two-dollar show better, too. But Santa Anita's magnificence makes you want to bet more than two bucks to myself. Before I knew it, I found myself in the two-dollar place line, and I no more belong there than I do in a Moslem temple.

I am now fourteen dollars in the hole, which means I will have to do my own washing next week. And there are four races to go. I am a cinch to lose twenty dollars and will have to miss a payment on my Christmas club plan.

(I lost the twenty and am now finishing this column in the home of Eric Guerin. A fair country jockey.)

Most horse players think that if they knew a good jockey, he could give them the hottest tips in the world. Guerin says this is a laugh.

"If jocks were allowed to bet," Eric told me, "and I had the job of bookmaker in the jock's room, I'd make a mint a day. The worst information in the world comes from jocks. Let me tell you the only time I ever gave any information: I had five mounts at Santa Anita, and my uncle called me from New Orleans and asked me if I thought I had a winner. I told him I thought one of my five horses was a cinch. He called aunts, cousins, nephews, and friends.

Houston Sheriff Holding Three in Flower Shop Killing

HOUSTON, Jan. 8—UP—Sheriff C. V. Butler Thursday held three young Negroes and searched for a white man in connection with Tuesday's flower shop murder but he indicated none of the four were "hot" suspects in the brutal killing.

Wake Up To More Comfort

Without nagging backache. Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes kidney function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor blood-urine irritations due to acid or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Harvester Quint Drills in Earnest For Cats, Eagles

Coach Clifton McNeely sent his Harvester cagers through a 2-hour workout yesterday in which about every phase of the game was covered as the Green and Gold boys prepared for two tough games this weekend against San Angelo and Abilene.

Both San Angelo and Abilene own 1-1 district records and both will be going all-out to down the Harvesters and stay in the thick of the title chase in the rugged District 1-AAAA.

In yesterday's drill, McNeely worked at length on offense with the usual regulars of Jimmy Bond, Fred Woods, Buddy Cockrell, Jon Oden and Bill Webb taking part in most of the offensive drill.

Woods, who has been slowed down with a crick in his neck worked fulltime in yesterday's drill and should be in top form by tomorrow night.

Three first line reserves were still out of action yesterday due to influenza. They are Gayle Trolinger, George Depee and Gary Griffin. It is still not known whether these boys will be ready to go tomorrow night.

McNeely brought three boys up from the Guerrillas to fill in for the flu-bound varsity lads and they may suit out for tomorrow's clash with San Angelo. Harold Lewis, Ken Hinkle and Doug Randolph are the three B teamers who took part in yesterday's drill with the varsity.

After working his charges on offense, McNeely drilled the Harvesters on defense, both man for man and zone defenses.

The Harvesters will give away plenty of height in the San Angelo fracas tomorrow. The Bobcats have two boys taller than Jimmy Bond, the tallest Harvesters at 6-5. Bobby Harris and Jerry Jones of the Bobcats both stand at 6-5.

San Angelo will bring a 9-5 won-lost record to Pampa and a 1-3 district slate. The Harvesters, the only unbeaten quint in the district with a 10-0 season slate

MEET THE BOBCATS — Shown above is the San Angelo Bobcat basketball squad who tomorrow night invades Harvester Fieldhouse for a crucial 1-AAAA contest with the Harvesters. The Bobcats have won one and lost one in district play. They defeated highly-rated Lubbock, 43-66, in last Friday's opener but bowed to "red-hot" Amarillo the following night, 60-71. From left to right they are: FRONT ROW — Billy McManus, student manager; John Richardson, Curtis Crook, Jerry Jones, Bobby Harris, Ralph Murphy, Bubba Duncan and Eddi Surface, student manager. BACK ROW — Coach Bill Hinton, Stuart Vaughan, Hal Dickerson, Milton Nickel, Lon Slaughter, Bobby Joe Walker, Hubert Whitley and assistant coach Max Box.

Reapers Set For SFA Tilt Against Harvesters Tomorrow

The Pampa Junior High Reapers will make their second jaunt to Amarillo this week tomorrow when they meet Stephen F. Austin in another Panhandle Junior High Conference game.

The Reapers have a 1-1 conference mark to date, defeating Dumas but losing to Home Face Mann. The latter defeat came Tuesday which knocked the Pampans out of a tie for the lead with Phillips. Phillips is the only unbeaten five in the loop race with a 2-0 record.

Dickie Mauldin, Reaper regular who missed the game Tuesday due to illness, is due to be ready to go tomorrow.

Buddy Sharp, may be in top form after recovering from a case of measles. Sharp, after missing school Monday, returned Tuesday and saw action in the Horace Mann tilt. Sharp led the Reaper scorers against Mann with 13 points but the Reapers were down, 33-50.

Bobcats To Have Height Advantage

By BOB MILBURN, Sports Editor

SAN ANGELO — The San Angelo Bobcats, darkhorse of the District 1-AAAA basketball chase, expect a cold reception, both weatherwise and cage-wise, when they invade the Panhandle this week. Scheduled for a Friday night stopover at Pampa, the Bobcats move into the Bonger Bulldog lair Saturday night.

Coach Bill Hinton, happy to get an even split in the opening district games against Lubbock and Amarillo last week end, sees little hope of improving the season record against the 60-favorites of the district.

The Bobcats, boasting possibly the tallest team in the circuit, are handicapped by lack of speed and experience, two of the top "essentials" in a district as tough as 1-AAAA. Smaller teams, notably Amarillo and Thomas Jefferson of El Paso, have demonstrated that a running club is poison to the tall Cats who can't seem to unravel themselves after unloading a shot at their own basket.

San Angelo, in 14 games to date, nine wins and five defeats, has shown a potent offense led by Bobby Harris, 6-6 and only regular returning from the 1951-52 squad. The team has netted 864 points for an average 61.7 per game.

But the Cats have left the fastest open when it comes to defense and the opposition has rattled in 776 counters for an average of 35.4 per contest.

Therefore, a high-scoring game is in prospect at Pampa Friday night.

McIlvain Is Top Guerilla Point Maker

E. Jay McIlvain, slender Guerrilla forward, leads the Pampa B teamers in scoring with 180 points in 10 games, for an 18-point average.

McIlvain, however, has been brought up to the Harvester squad and may not be with the Guerrillas anymore this season. He has played in all Guerrilla games with the exception of the four games in the Claude tournament last week.

Harold Lewis is second in the scoring with 137 points and Gary Griffin fourth with 116. Two others also are above the 100 mark. Ken Hinkle with 105 and Buster Carter with 101.

The Guerrillas have won 12 out of 14 games to date. Their two losses came in tournament finales. The Pampa B teamers lost to Stinnett in the McLean finals and to Stratford in the Claude finals.

Following are the individual scorers:

Cliff Signs As Coach For Seals

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8 — Harold Cliff, former St. Louis Browns infielder, has been named as coach for the San Francisco Seals, General Manager Damon Miller announced Wednesday.

Cliff succeeds Joe Sprinz, who was named chief scout for the Seals. The 40-year-old Cliff held several playing records during his 12-year major-league career, including three major league fielding records. He also is credited with 24 home runs hit in one season, in 1938.

Boosters Club Off To Slow Start But Members Aren't Discouraged

THAT WAS A DISAPPOINTING turnout at the boosters club meeting Monday which is being organized for the purpose of backing the Harvester cagers but optimists attending the meeting weren't discouraged.

It was recalled that the Quarterback Club encountered the same situation when it was first organized some three years ago. The QB Club now has grown to over 100 members.

The same is predicted for the club that is now backing the Harvester cagers. The name of club for backing the Harvesters, incidentally, is the "Harvesters Boosters Club."

Next meeting for the club will be Monday night, starting at 7:30. The meetings will be held weekly on Monday nights throughout basketball season.

There were about 30 fans that turned out for the first meeting, so let's double that next week and then over 100 the following week.

A movie will be taken tomorrow night of the Harvester-San Angelo game and it is due to be ready for showing Monday night at the club meeting.

Warren Hasse, Chairman of March of Dimes Drive in Pampa, Has Issued a Challenge to Amarillo for a Repeat Performance of a Basketball Game Pitting the News and Radiomen of Amarillo and Pampa for the Benefit of the March of Dimes.

The game was quite a success last year, we understand, both financially and artistically. Only last year Amarillo issued the challenge and Pampa accepted.

But the Pampa newsmen believe Amarillo was lucky to win last year's game (it ended 41-41 Amarillo, so we were a little) and they are anxious to revenge that horrid defeat.

The Pampa newsmen and newscasters will be stronger this year than last with the addition of some "hot-shot" roundballers. Possibly the top recruit is Ed Nash who set a scoring record while playing for Poduct Junior College.

Nash says he is far from being in shape for a basketball game but believes it will only take a couple workouts to get him ready.

At this writing, Amarillo hadn't accepted the challenge but we believe they will. Putt Powell says he is getting too old for the fellow scribblesmen (all younger) would be rarin' to go.

Seton Hall, Fordham Win

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — Seton Hall and Fordham continued on their all-conquering way Thursday but the defeat of Connecticut left only five major-college teams on the perfect record list.

Connecticut, which had moved triumphantly through eight games this season, was stopped 71 to 67 Wednesday night by a Holy Cross team rebounding from a 67-60 defeat by Notre Dame. In one of New England's top games of the season, the Crusaders gained their winning margin on four free throws by 5-foot-7 Joe Early.

Seven points by Togo Palazzi sparked a late rally that finally put Holy Cross in front 61 to 60.

Five Major Teams Unbeaten — The elimination of Connecticut's Huskies left only these major teams unbeaten — Seton Hall (14 games), Fordham (10), Southern California (10), Navy (7), and Georgetown, D. C. (5).

Seton Hall's Pirates were held to their lowest score of the year as 6-foot-11 Walter Duke was limited to 16 points, but they racked up triumph No. 14 by 64-57.

Fordham had little trouble coasting to an 81 to 56 triumph over Brooklyn College as Ed Parohinski showed the way with 22 points and Ed Conlin added 18.

Jansen's Return To Form Is Giants' (?)

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of interviews with major league managers.)
SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 8.—If Larry Jansen can return to his 1951 form in 1953, "it will be a sunshine" for his New York Giants, Manager Leo Durocher predicted Thursday.

Jansen, a 28-game winner in 1951, won only 11 games and dropped the same number last year, rarely making an appearance at all during the last two months of the campaign.

Durocher was exceptionally high on several newcomers who are slated to report to the Giants but was quite concerned over Jansen's back condition. He said he had not heard whether the veteran right-hander had recovered from the painful condition.

"But Sal Maglie got over the same kind of back trouble and I have hope for Larry," he said. "If Jansen doesn't, then I'll need another starter."

Of the youngsters, Al Corwin seems to Durocher to be on the verge of having an outstanding season although he may look bad in spring training, the Giant manager admitted.

Durocher said the rest of his mound staff would be composed of Jim Hearn, whom he called a dependable guy; Dave Koslo, Hoyt Wilhelm, George Spencer and Maglie with several youngsters as possible additions among his regulars.

Reports that Bobby Thomson might be shifted back to third base were branded as "premature" by Lippy Leo. He said that Thomson could play third if he was needed by Cezdemir Hutz...

There but he looked like he might not have to take it over.

"I've got some good boys coming up who could fill that spot," he said. This led Rance Pless, who led the Southern League in hitting, is supposed to be great. He might do. And then there's Drayl Spencer.

From all the reports I get, he's one of the best prospects to come along in many a year. He's tall and he's fast and he can hit. It looks like I'll have to play him some where. I'm not sure where yet, but I understand he can play either third or short."

Durocher was especially pleased with his material behind the plate. He said the return of Sam Calderone from the Army would give the Giants another topnotch catcher.

Cage Sport Dying In NY's Garden

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—UP—Madison Square Garden basketball appears to be dying.

This cage citadel once produced a full series of "bowl" games. The great teams clamored for dates, and the fans needed guile as well as money to snare the limited number of tickets.

But now there are some 10,000 empty seats per game. At times the entire upper balcony is closed off. The climax came Tuesday night when the subway alumni stayed on the subway, leaving only 8,694 to see the "sure sellout" Notre Dame - New York University game.

For the first nine Garden basketball programs this season, the average attendance is 8,065, more than 10,000 under capacity. The largest crowd was 12,752 and the smallest—for an afternoon "holiday festival" game—2,149.

Scandal Part of Reason
Why? The first guess is, of course the scandal which purged the sport of considerable support. Yet last season was a post-scandal season—and the average attendance for the first nine programs was 11,113. This was considerably below the 17,372 average per game for the peak 1947-48 season, of course. But things figured to improve, not get worse, as the scandal-based into the past.

The falling attendance figures themselves tell only part of the story. The nature of the crowds has changed. In the "old days" the Garden was jammed with 35 customers. These were "just fans," plus the gambling element. The students, paying out rates, were relegated to the balconies, and there were many less student seats than student fans.

Now the students still paying cut rates—are seated on the main floor.

A Greater Cash Drop
So the fall in box office money is even greater than the fall in attendance.

Ned Irish, the bald impresario who rose to the top level of the Garden hierarchy for his basketball promotions, has blamed a "bad press" for the sad attendances. He was especially incensed at a writer who dubbed the new "Holiday Festival" the "Turkey Festival." Yet the attendances were way below par for weeks before this jibe.

The one consolation is found in professional basketball. Attendance at Garden pro games is up about 4,000 per game over last year. That is as significant as the low college attendances.

For it may signal the beginning of the end. Critics followed the scandal with demands that colleges desert the Garden on moral grounds. The desertion may be high—but the grounds will be financial.

Gavilan To Put Title On Line Against Davey

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—UP—Kid Gavilan, the boko puncher, will make his fourth title defense Jan. 11 against undefeated challenger Chuck Davey, who while at Michigan State won four national collegiate boxing crowns.

Announcement of the Gavilan-Davey bout was made by International Boxing Club President James Norris. It was slated for 15 rounds in the Chicago Stadium, with national television and no blackout anywhere.

Norris said that the television receipts, yet to be settled finally, would be added to the net gate and that Gavilan would get 10 per cent of the total and Davey 20. Probably there will be no radio broadcast.

Tickets for the battle will be $25, $15, $10 and $5, and Norris said a sell-out would entail about 20,000 seats and a net of $225,000.

Gavilan was an early 12 to 3 favorite. He won the title two years ago from Johnny Bratton and later defended it against Bobby Dykes, Gil Turner and Billy Graham.

Davey has won 38 pro bouts and dflawn two more.

De Paul's Leading Basketeer Is Deaf And Partially Blind

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—UP—Bill Schyman, a first stringer on De Paul's basketball team for two years, has become the "most feared" player in the lineup, even though he can hardly see his teammates, the opponents, the basket or the ball.

Schyman, 22, was born deaf and with bad vision. He was unable to speak until he was 13 years old, and he couldn't "make people understand me" until he was 18, when De Paul coach Ray Meyer sent him to the Northwestern University speech clinic for a year.

Despite these handicaps he earned his first team berth with the Blue Demons.

"He kills them around the boards," Meyer said, "even if he can't see the basket."

Schyman can read lips so adeptly that in average conversation he apparently he can hear. But lip reading hasn't helped him in basketball.

"I know you're talking," he said, "because I know you're making a noise, but I don't know what you're saying unless I'm watching your lips. On the floor I just keep watching my teammates, the coach and the officials, and sometimes I just sense the play. I guess I've developed that sense, a sixth sense. When I get a chance, I read lips to find out what we're going to do."

Schyman played two years of basketball at Chicago's Lane Tech high school, and now is playing his fourth year at De Paul. Off the court he wears thick lensed glasses, and for the past six games he has worn contact lenses in games.

"Until this year he had no visual aid on the floor."

Without glasses he couldn't see a wall calendar six feet away, averaged 11.5 points per game. Last year, with thick glasses, he most of them coming on rebounds and short shots.

The Dirty Ones

A special committee of congressmen has been peeking at dirty magazines and filthy postcards — all in the name of law & order, of course.

We're not entirely certain what this investigation was supposed to prove, but the congressmen came up with a fine, ringing conclusion.

Salacious books, girlie magazines and certain comic books, they said, "have become a serious menace to the social structure."

This came as a bit of a surprise to us. We couldn't begin to define the term "social structure," but it seems to us it must not be much of a thing if dirty magazines and comic books can shake it down like a house of cards.

Here in our little dream world, we had been thinking that things like creeping socialism and growing government and confiscatory taxation were landing the low blows, when all the time we've just been suffering from girlie magazines and paper-backed sex stories.

Oh, it's a good thing we have congressmen to find out these things, you can just bet!

Now, this is not to suggest for a moment that the congressmen on this special committee had an eye on the headlines, but it's just a mite difficult to believe that salacious reading material is quite the menace it was cracked up to be.

And, for that matter, what is a "salacious" or "dirty" book?

A federal court officially permitted the importation of James Joyce's Ulysses not so many years ago; and James was a four-letter man from start to finish. The court said it was "art" and "literature," and that was that.

You can still buy Das Kapital at any book store, and if there is anything more un-moral than Marx' book we'll put in with the Commies and long live the revolution.

Das Kapital is the most obscene piece of literature published in our age; and if there is a girlie-girlie magazine in existence as dangerous as the Marx book, we'd be pleased to get a copy of it.

The point, of course, is not to "suppress" these books. Ideas cannot be legislated out of the human mind. Books cannot be obliterated by fire or law. One of the intimate failures of mankind has been his inability to learn that morality cannot be legislated and ideas cannot be poured into the human mind like water into an empty pitcher.

The magazine stores of Pampa offer the usual selection of girlie magazines and "thrill" magazines, but we'll need more convincing that they amount to very much of importance.

When a state or city goes in for censorship of books, magazines, movies or stage plays, it's worse off by far than it was before. There is nothing so immoral or obscene as the idea of a board of censorship imposing upon a free people its peculiar notions of what is lewd, what is art, what is beautiful, what is ugly and what is fit for them to see and hear.

It's the old, old trap the Prohibitionists lay for themselves and their fellow-Americans. In the name of "temperance," these intemperate people would make it unlawful for anyone to swallow a drink of alcohol.

Maybe alcoholism is a disease, a menace and all the rest.

But it's a darned sight less degrading than a law making a free American a criminal for taking a drink of whiskey.

Laws, compulsion and the police powers of the state will not take the place of education — now or ever. If a parent cannot train his child to exist morally in a world where there will always be dirty magazines and alcohol and drugs and prostitutes — then no law in the world will save the kid.

And it's sad to think how many people acknowledge their failure to plant morality in their children by appealing to law-makers to remove temptation — temptations which have existed since Eden and which will be with us as long as the human animal draws the breath of life.

Political Favor

President Truman, who has treated the Justice Department like a nice, easy proving ground for political faithfuls being groomed for the Supreme Court; apparently was unable to resist one last gesture of that kind.

As solicitor general in the department he named one Walter J. Cummings, Jr., a 36-year-old lawyer with no legal fame. According to custom, this post should go only to eminent attorneys, for the solicitor general is the top practicing lawyer for the government. He represents the United States before the Supreme Court on the major cases involving the federal authority.

Cummings is the son of a former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. He seems to have won the job, for a brief few weeks before the Republicans take over, after personal appeals to the White House by his father.

Since this is so, it is hard to draw any conclusions but that Mr. Truman handed out a political favor, allowing the young Cummings to bask for a time in the bright glory of an important government post.

Had the President been thinking of his public responsibilities, he would not have filled the vacancy from the outside at all, since it would not be fair to expect a truly eminent lawyer to serve such a short term. He would have permitted the work in the final days to be carried on by veteran government attorneys who have been carrying on since Philip Perlman resigned a few months ago.

"The Sorry Case For Free Enterprise"

Here is the rest of Frank Chodorov's article on "The Sorry Case for Free Enterprise" as published in the Free Economic Review of Bombay, India:

"You suspect, then, that the advocates of this 'free enterprise' idea are less idealistic than they claim. You don't get excited over it; the element of justice is missing. In fact, when you learn that the organization sponsoring the idea is on record as being in favor of payroll taxation — the meanest of all levies — an unprintable thought comes to your lips.

"The thing called 'social security' is lambasted unmercifully. It is class legislation; it is vote buying; it is the subsidization of the lazy. Quite true. But the literature fails to mention the subsidies granted the transportation companies, via mail contracts. Why is one subsidy good, the other bad? Even the best and most well-meaning of the free enterprise associations go in for special pleading. A recent pamphlet reads: 'Subsidies fall into at least two major groups: those which are intended to accomplish some tangible undertaking and those which are aimed at leveling incomes. The latter are a feature of the welfare state; the former are not.' One wonders whether those who finance this literature own stock in the railroad and airplane companies that profit by mail subsidies.

"To be sure, the labor leaders are taken in hand, particularly for bludgeoning the government into passing legislation favorable to the unions. But that sort of thing the businessmen have been doing since the beginning of the century. Labor lobbies are no more reprehensible than monopoly lobbies. Nor does it occur to the free-enterprisers that a minimum wage law is in line with fixing railroad rates so as to assure the investors a minimum return on their capital.

"The lack of consistency of adherence to a basic philosophy, is all too evident in the distributives against the Welfare State. This thing, which should be called the Mob-Controlled State, is the natural offspring of its ancestry; the Theocratic State, the Landlord State, the Mercantile State. Throughout history the legal machinery of coercion has been used by some group to gain economic advantages over society as a whole. The Welfare State does not change the incidence of privilege. Too much of the literature attacking the Welfare State does not aim at privilege as a whole, does not even define it, and is concerned only with the welfare of the State. As an example, I have not seen in any of the pamphlets or books opposing socialized medicine any suggestion about abrogating the prerogatives of organized medicine.

"If you were to eavesdrop on the private meetings of free enterprisers you would hear a common complaint: 'We are simply converting ourselves to the public domain.' The fact is, the public has long learned that the 'stuff' is without moral quality, the one quality it is quick to appreciate. Or, calling on its backlog of experience, it puts to rest the 'stuff' some embarrassing question. What about depression? What about monopoly? What about privilege? On that the 'stuff' is silent.

"At one of those meetings I ventured the remark that we could have a regime of free enterprise if the free enterprisers were willing to risk bankruptcy for it. I followed up on this by asking the suggestion that instead of concentrating their attacks on 'new dealism,' the free enterprisers should go after legislation helpful to dividends. The first Washington lobbyist should be instructed to ask for the repeal of every law involving, directly or indirectly, a subsidy to business. Their literature should say: 'We want no favors from government because favors are wrong.' Emphasis on the ethics, not the economics. That kind of campaign will get a following. The workers will say, 'If businessmen want no handout, neither do we.' And so on. They agreed I was an impractical anarchist.

"The case for free enterprise is hopeless because its leadership lacks both philosophy and integrity. They remind of the prohibitionist who, in the name of his big pocket, for personal use only a bottle of rum."

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JOHNSON, M.D.

Each year many parents come to the reluctant conclusion that one of their children is "slow." Perhaps the youngster should learn to talk as soon as others of the same age, or shows some other unmistakable signs of retarded mental development.

This is a tragic situation to be in, but such parents should realize that about one person in every hundred is mentally deficient, so they have company, and the problem should be faced and the best possible solution worked out.

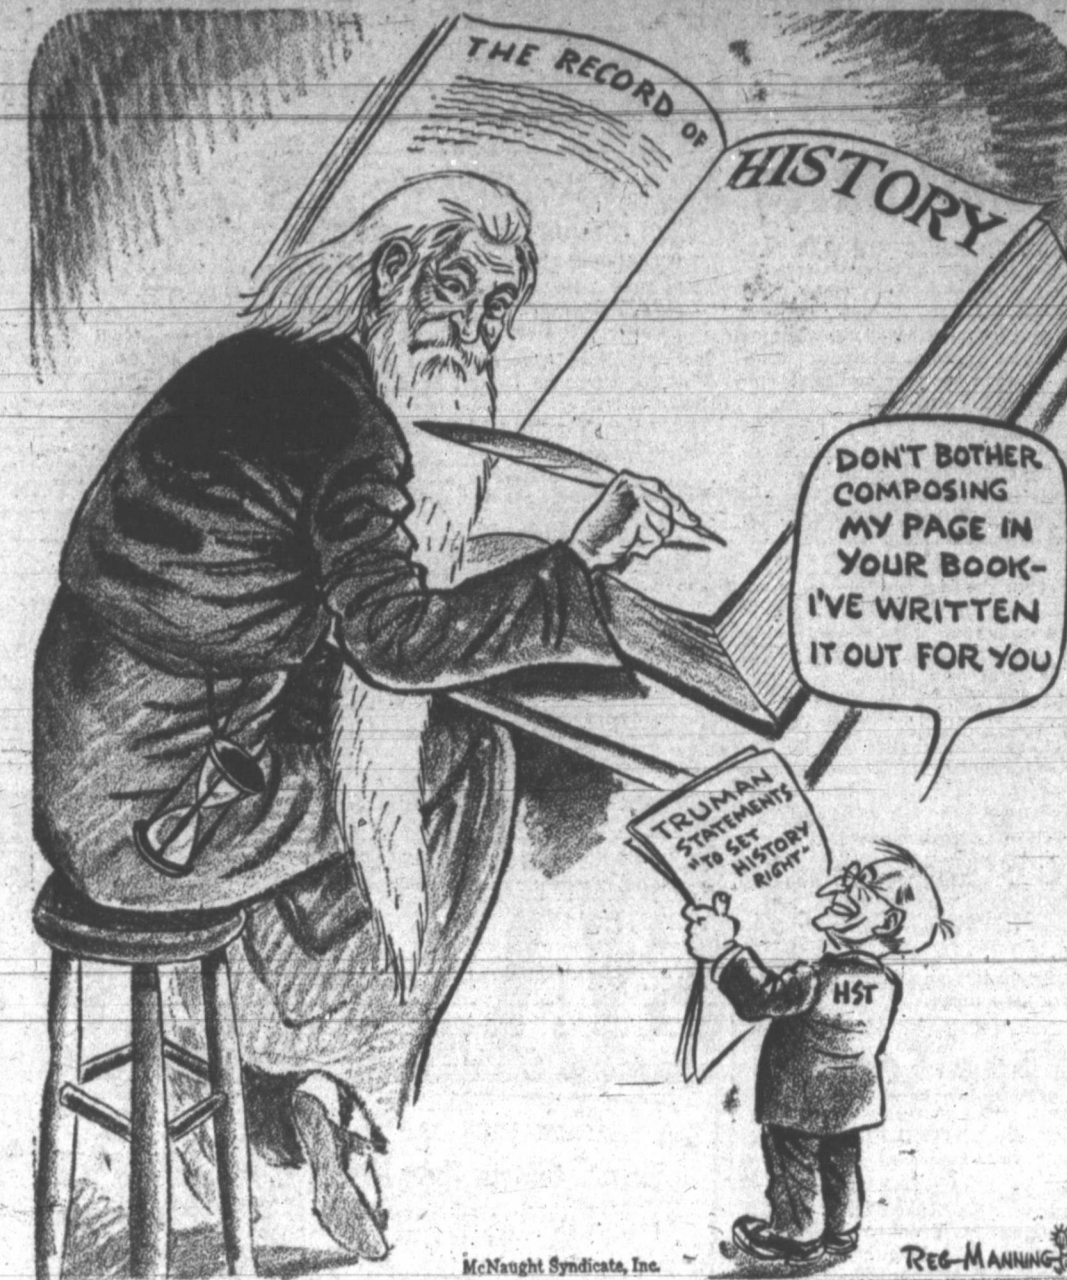

The first thing to recognize is that mental development of children at different ages can be measured by fairly reliable tests. The common term for the results of these tests is the "I. Q.," which stands for intelligence quotient.

This is a measure of the child's ability to learn rather than of what the child actually knows. The difference of a few points, however, does not mean much. Also, there are several kinds of such tests and the "scoring" of them is not always the same.

The "I. Q." is figured by dividing the mental age as calculated by one of the intelligence tests in common use by the actual age of the child in years, and multiplying the result by 100. Thus, if a six-year-old child has a mental age of three, the intelligence quotient would be expressed as 50.

If the "I. Q." is far below normal, the child must be considered a true idiot, and cannot be educated in school subjects; such children usually are best cared for in an institution. The next lowest

National Whirligig... GOP Will Distribute Patronage Jobs Under Streamlined Plan

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President-elect Eisenhower and his political advisers have devised a new system for handling the patronage problems that will beset the first Republican administration in 20 years after it has settled down in the White House. It is designed to relieve an overloaded Chief Executive of these contentions and harassments.

Instead of setting up all-powerful state or regional boards for distributing jobs, the candidates will be selected by local committees of representative Republicans. These groups will consist, presumably, of the Senators, House members, and local party leaders. The group are imbeciles, who can learn to perform simple household duties but do not go far in school subjects. Above these two low groups are the less seriously retarded children who can often be taught to support themselves in simple occupations, but are not likely to go beyond the elementary grades of school.

I. Q. CAN'T BE RAISED
It is not possible to drill or train a youngster with a low "I. Q." into a definitely higher group. Neither can this be done by punishment or praise. This may be a hard thing for parents to realize, but it should be faced.

Parents of mentally retarded children can save themselves and their children much grief by consulting school supervisors, qualified physicians, or mental health experts concerning the future which may be expected for their children and what they can do about it.

ington and throughout the field establishment, the New York lawyer plans to clean house from top to bottom. That is a full-time job, if done right. Summerfield has an equally arduous assignment at the Post Office. Despite the Civil Service protection, which many of the personnel enjoy, it is generally agreed that the P.O. has broken down during the Donaldson regime.

Due to his economics and the lack of physical facilities, activities of mail and parcel-post during the recent holiday season broke all records for delays, misdirected matter and poor handling.

REVOLUTIONARY — BUT LOGICAL — Finally, Eisenhower has long shared the general opinion that it is not fitting for the President and cabinet members to become immersed in the petty, routine grind of small-bore politics.

In his opinion, it is as if the Joint Chiefs of staff, while running the Korean affair and the "cold war" were plagued with passing on the promotion of second lieutenants in the field.

The proposed reform, though revolutionary, seems logical. However, the boys in the back room may not appreciate the committee method, if it operates so as to reduce their power and prestige and glow. It is always difficult to teach new tricks to the politicians.

THEY LIKED MRS. IKE — A small group of Lincoln, Neb., women think that "Mamie" Eisenhower is just the kind of a wife that a President of the United States needs in these troublous days. They found her "homey" and "comfortable" during her stay in their city in the campaign.

When Ike arrived there for a round of meetings and speeches, he asked the local chairman if he could arrange for that Mrs. Eisenhower could enjoy a quiet, restful day. "She is fed up with all these meetings and speeches and rushing around," the candidate explained. The chairman phoned his wife, and explained the problem.

"She invited about ten friends to lunch at home, and then asked 'Mamie' what she would like to do. Mrs. Eisenhower's first, feminine request was permission to 'take off my shoes' because my feet hurt." She wanted no formal party or tea, just to "sit around and talk." And there was hardly any mention of politics during the get-together and a short, sightseeing trip.

When the chairman phoned to announce that it was time for the campaign train to leave, Mamie said, wife-like: "I've been coming and going at their call for weeks. Now they can wait for me. I want to hear the rest of these stories."

FROM DOGHOUSE TO WHITE HOUSE — Although he was a pre-convention Taft cooter, Representative George H. Bender's New Year card reflects the general jubilation of Republicans on their return to power. The Ohioan's message was: "Out of the doghouse and into the White House!"

Fair Enough!... Pegler Tears Into Army Award Honoring Robert P. Patterson

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Army announces the award of a scroll and $200 cash to the outstanding graduate of the Infantry Officers' Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., in memory of the late Robert P. Patterson who was killed in a civil flying accident a year ago. Patterson was a renegade Republican who turned New Deal bureaucrat with a strong sympathy for Communist treachery.

He soldiered courageously in the first war, but nullified any honors which he earned there by his conduct in the Roosevelt-Truman betrayal.

During the second war, Patterson seized an opportunity to make propaganda for the Communists who had massacred civilians including many nuns and other women in Spain and, furthermore, had enticed many American young men overseas on a pretext that they were joining an army to defend freedom against Fascism. Testimony already has been taken by the Committee on Un-American Activities showing that some of the American young men who tried to desert or simply withdraw from Soviets Foreign Legion in Spain, because they had learned that they were part of a Communist army, were put to death by firing squads.

Patterson had no excuse to be ignorant of this fact and only a fool would concede that he was ignorant of it. Nor could he have been unaware that the recruitment of this Soviet Foreign Legion in New York and the transportation of the troops to Spain from New York were organized violations of American law by the Communist administration of which he was a member.

Perkins was an eccentric who held oriental rites in the attic of his home in Houston. He eventually snapped out of it.

Silvermaster was first named in public testimony by Miss Elizabeth Bentley, the repentant spy, who said some of the microfilm of secret documents filched from government offices were made in the basement of Silvermaster's home. Whittaker Chambers also named Silvermaster as a spy and it was shown that he was a close associate of Alger Hiss and Ethel Rosenberg.

LOOKING SIDWAYS
By WHITNEY BOLTON
Fellow I know down in Richmond, Virginia, comes right up to the tape of the New Year convinced that he is alive and aging in a world in which good manners are something deplorably absent from modern society. He is mainly gravelled by the truculent, mannerless demeanor of the young, but is broad enough to state that his own generation is sadly lacking in the old-time politesse. Well, as a man who works in a field noted for informality and casualness, I can go along with him most of the way. I think the manners of the young are deplorable and the manners of most of my generation except for people of the theater, are conspicuously bad.

When I get off the train before he does is in a general indictment of a whole era. The theater, and not only of the theater, is a prime example of the lack of good manners no matter how uninitiated. In the theater ladies are still Miss and gentlemen are still Mister. Eisenhower has long shared the general opinion that it is not fitting for the President and cabinet members to become immersed in the petty, routine grind of small-bore politics.

In his opinion, it is as if the Joint Chiefs of staff, while running the Korean affair and the "cold war" were plagued with passing on the promotion of second lieutenants in the field.

"She is fed up with all these meetings and speeches and rushing around," the candidate explained. The chairman phoned his wife, and explained the problem.

"She invited about ten friends to lunch at home, and then asked 'Mamie' what she would like to do. Mrs. Eisenhower's first, feminine request was permission to 'take off my shoes' because my feet hurt." She wanted no formal party or tea, just to "sit around and talk." And there was hardly any mention of politics during the get-together and a short, sightseeing trip.

When the chairman phoned to announce that it was time for the campaign train to leave, Mamie said, wife-like: "I've been coming and going at their call for weeks. Now they can wait for me. I want to hear the rest of these stories."

FROM DOGHOUSE TO WHITE HOUSE — Although he was a pre-convention Taft cooter, Representative George H. Bender's New Year card reflects the general jubilation of Republicans on their return to power. The Ohioan's message was: "Out of the doghouse and into the White House!"

The New York Times, reporting the award to the Benning infantry officer yet to be selected, wrote the award was established by "a group of friends of the former Secretary of War and jurist, headed by Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, vice president and general manager of the New York Times."

The Times has opposed the enemies of Communism and of the New Deal theology with a zeal as great as McCarthy's to the contrary and with contempt for truth as deep as that which it imputes to Joe. It has recently been advocating a departure which it calls "interpretive" reporting of events.

There is nothing in the regulations to compel any patriotic, self-respecting officer to submit to this affront to his honor. It is inconceivable that the Army would have the gall to trouble any decent American who should publicly tell Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler to keep his lousy scroll an this lousy $200.

On the contrary, it is conceivable that a non-political, Department of Defense should bring charges against Adler for trying to charge utterance of political propaganda at the expense of an officer much better than himself.

Attlemen Plan Fight Against Curbs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—UP—Edward Carr will find himself one of the steadiest bodies in the land. On the morning of Jan. 19, Carr, prominent Washington builder, will hop a plane for Chicago for opening of the convention of the National Association of Home Builders.

Hot War In Korea Is Mighty Cold Business

Using an empty packing crate for an altar, an Army Chaplain holds services in a driving snowstorm, just outside a heavy bunker.

The gun crew of this 75 mm. recoilless rifle clean their weapon during a lull in fighting in a deceptively peaceful snow-covered land.

What heats the heater? Crewmen at a fighter-interceptor base warm an F-86 Sabrejet with 300-degree air on a bitter-cold morning.

Need for warmth, and the necessity for using smokeless fuel has prompted some troops to build their own charcoal ovens.

As the Korean war drags into its third grim winter, American and allied United Nations forces once more face two of their worst foes—snow and cold. Troops find the going dangerous as they move over icy, slippery trails along these mountainous battle lines. Machines freeze up and bog down. Planes have to be pampered and warmed. Armaments behave in unusual fashion in the numbing cold. Living, at its best, is a burrowed-in existence. At worst, it is a battle just to keep warm in the howling, freezing icebox that Korea becomes in the winter.

INCREASED PERFORMANCE — Culberson Chevrolet Friday will unveil the 1953 Chevrolet in Pampa. The low sweeping lines of the new models are exemplified by this four-door sedan in the "Two-Ten" series, which this year offers increased performance and convenience in addition to a complete re-design. Apparent in this view are the enlarged front and rear vision, new fender and hood contours and a fresh grille treatment. Four-door sedans are also available in the "One-Fifty" and the new Bel Air series.

GM Showing New Line Of Chevrolets

DETROIT, Jan. 8—UP—Chevrolet announced addition of a new, more luxurious line of cars Thursday with introduction of its 1953 models. The new line, reaching up into the low medium price class, is called the "Bel Air." It will be produced in two and four-door sedans, convertibles and sports coupes. Chevrolet's two other lines are the "One-Fifty" (formerly the Special), and the "Two-Ten" (formerly the DeLuxe).

Oldster Being Careful For The Inauguration

DON'T STARVE TO TAKE OFF FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this diet. It's easy — no trouble at all, and costs much less than most reducing preparations. Just go to your drugist and ask for the new improved Barconate. Pour into a pint bottle and add grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose belly fat and hair regains slender, more graceful curves; if you reduce pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seek to lose weight with a smile. My friends say I look much younger, too. It really is surprising how simple it is to use Barconate and not gain back a single pound.

Washington Builder Plenty Busy During Inauguration

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 8—UP—Members of the American Cattlemen's Association returned home Thursday resolved to fight for elimination of all price controls during 1953 and for a return to free marketing. The association ended its annual convention here Wednesday night after re-electing Sam C. Hyatt of Hyattville, Wyo., as president, and selecting Jay Taylor of Amarillo, Tex., as the new first vice president. Five second vice presidents were elected—George Godfrey, Animas, N. M.; Cushman Radebaugh, Orlando, Fla.; Fred Dressler, Gardnersville, Nev.; Earl Monahan, Hyannis, Neb.; and John Guthrie, Porterville, Calif. The cattlemen gave their approval to the government's "Buy America" plan during final sessions. In other resolutions they called for a review of the Missouri Valley Authority and for protective import quotas. About 2,000 persons from 24 states attended the meeting. The National Cow-Belters Association, which held its first annual meeting here at the same time, got 1,000 delegates from 23 states. The Cow Belles elected Mrs. Ralph Cuman of McNeal, Ariz., as president and Mrs. John Guthrie, of Porterville, Calif., first vice president. Colorado Springs, Colo., was selected as the site for the cattlemen's 1954 convention. Village Too Small For Liquor Store PEMBERTON, Minn., Jan. 8—UP—This town isn't big enough for a private liquor store, it was learned Thursday. Villagers voted to license a private dealer but found that no matter where the store might be located, it would be too close to the village school. The law requires liquor stores to be at least 1,500 feet from school. There isn't that much room in Pemberton. Tin, a critical metal in World War II, is being replaced in some uses by plastics and other synthetics.

JOHN CRANE WILLIAM O'DWYER FRANK HOGAN
Says he did Says he didn't Wants the answer

Why They'd Like O'Dwyer To Come Home From Mexico

By JOSEPH ALVAREZ
NEA Special Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Right now, New York's former Mayor William O'Dwyer would be a cinch to win the 1953 title of "the man you'd most want to quiz."
The list of quizmasters who would like to peer into O'Dwyer's mind is impressive. But O'Dwyer has been languishing in Mexico since he resigned as U.S. Ambassador Dec. 6.

The attorney for O'Dwyer's former campaign manager, who is among those who would be happy to have O'Dwyer come home and talk, says the former mayor is "sulking," and that his presence South of the Border is a "sad spectacle."

O'Dwyer has denied he plans to stay in Mexico, but he is still there, despite the welcome mat by the door of the New York Grand Jury and the chorus of "wash you were here" being sung by a couple of district attorneys; a U.S. attorney, a pair of state attorney generals, treasury agents, and the New York State Crime Commission.

Their interest in a heart-to-heart talk with O'Dwyer ranges from $10,000 stuffed in an envelope to the corpse of Peter

Panto stuffed in a lime-filled pit. At the moment, the hottest chestnut is the $10,000. This is the sum John P. Crane, former president of the Uniformed Firemen's Association, says he gave to O'Dwyer in 1949 as a campaign contribution. O'Dwyer says he didn't.

The story popped up during the Senate Crime Investigating Committee hearings in 1951. What started out as merely a startling contradiction in the sworn testimony of two highly-placed public officials has now resolved itself into a big lie. The question is: who told the lie, O'Dwyer or Crane? New York County District Attorney Frank S. Hogan would like the answer to that riddle.

Suddenly, just the other day, the tale exploded anew, sparked by Alfred J. Scott, chief of Hogan's racket bureau.

Scott asked the court to find Jerry Finkelstein, who managed O'Dwyer's 1949 campaign, in contempt for giving the Grand Jury allegedly "evasive, equivocal, and contemptuous answers" about the money-passing episode. So, now, for the first time, there appears to be a witness to that asserted transaction.

It was Finkelstein's attorney, Harris B. Steinberg who described O'Dwyer as "sulking down there in Mexico" and added that the former ambassador "owed" it to the people to come forward and testify.

The corpse uncovered in a lime-filled pit on the banks of New Jersey's Passaic River stirs questions in the mind of Kings County District Attorney Miles F. McDonald.

Also gnawing at McDonald's curiosity is the question of why O'Dwyer dropped his Brooklyn waterfront investigation of the six International Longshoremen's Association locals run by the Camardese. These are the locals which partly spawned the power of "Mr. Assassin" himself, Albert Anastasia.

The corpse was the garroted body of a clean dockworker named Peter Panto. Tired of kickbacks, wholesale thefts, and mobocracy that dented the rank and file a voice in the affairs of its union, Panto, in 1939, started a drive to bring decency and honesty to the docks.

Spectators at the New York State Crime Commission hearing relived Panto's last horrible minutes, as, according to a long-hidden statement made by Albert Tannenbaum in 1941, Mendy Weiss admitted that he nudged Panto to death. At his life ebbed, Albert Anastasia was present, the statement read.

O'Dwyer when told about the Tannenbaum declaration, said Anastasia because the crime was committed in New Jersey. "Why don't they prosecute the — — — now?" O'Dwyer suggested irritably from his Mexican retreat.

The crime commission's rebuttal was that the Bergen County prosecutor in 1941, when Panto's body was found, had said O'Dwyer assured him Panto was murdered in Brooklyn. O'Dwyer was then Kings County District Attorney.

In light of this difference, the testimony given to the SCC reviser by Marcy Protter, legal adviser to Panto, is significant.

Protter testified that O'Dwyer, in backing for the political backing of the American Labor Party, told him that "he almost had an unbeatable case" in the Panto slaying. This conversation, said Protter, took place in the Fall of 1941, many months after Edward A. Heffernan, an O'Dwyer aide, had typed up Tannenbaum's story.

U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane also has a vital interest in O'Dwyer which partly parallels Hogan's interest. The possible perjury on the record in the Senate hearing is under his jurisdiction since that was a federal proceeding. A Grand Jury, at his direction, has been digging into the controversy.

Treasury agents, it is reported, are awaiting the settlement of the Crane-O'Dwyer business. Once disposed of, it's a cinch they will talk to one or the other of the parties.

Suggestion Amazing To Film Chief

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8—UP—Move pioneer Adolph Zukor said Thursday he was amazed that a suggestion of his turned out to be the biggest testimonial dinner in Hollywood history.

Zukor now is chairman of the board of directors at Paramount Studio in New York. He opened the first penny arcade and nickelodeons that later mushroomed into the gigantic movie theater industry; he released the first feature-length film in the United States.

Hollywood is finally getting around to recognizing its pioneers, even if it has to be prodded into it. So the plaster city feted Zukor with the town's biggest testimonial everybody from Bob Hope to Marjorie Main Wednesday night, with tin and Lewis entertaining the 1,100 guests in mink and black tie filling the huge Palladium dance hall.

Zukor, a bright-eyed, genial man, explained it this way:

"My 80th birthday was coming up, when I could celebrate 50 years in show business. Nobody else has that record."

"I—though, maybe," he said a bit wistfully, "of a little luncheon at the studio with the people I'd worked with."

"That's all I had in mind. Then they decided to take it away from the studio and make it an industry affair. I didn't know hardly anything about it until I arrived in town from New York Monday."

They even made a little movie showing my early theaters. It's like a history of the movie business."

The testimonial dinner is becoming the style in Hollywood after years of neglecting the old-timers. D. W. Griffith, the first great director, died alone in a friendless hotel room. He not only wasn't the guest of honor at a banquet; he couldn't even get a job.

"Griffith didn't have a testimonial because he was still in Hollywood and too close to them here," said Zukor.

"Besides, testimonial dinners come with age and time. Nobody else has had one like this because not one pioneer I started out with is alive now. I'm the only one left."

L. B. Mayer was given a testimonial dinner recently—but after he'd left his studio, MGM. At his dinner Mayer was credited with introducing the star system, but Zukor says HE did.
