New Furniture Reflects Trend For Casual Living

Changing living and social habits today has created a significant mood in this country—a mood heralded as "the trend to casual living." The current rage for ranch houses is the greatest evidence of this. Within these homes—and even in those houses and apartments which by the widest stretch of the imagination could not be called ranch—today's manner of living has changed the idea of how best to organize that space one lives in. Today's interior, for example, is usually a large area which can be broken up at will because the modern house is a flexible unit.

In reviewing manufacturers' newest furniture lines, the editors of Retailing Daily find that the changes in today's houses has brought about equally radical changes in home furnishings. Chairs and couches are being made low enough so that they don't obstruct any view. Cocktail tables are larger and locket to the floor for the same reason. Because furniture now comes into the middle of the room instead of being ranged along the walls, the various pieces must be viewable from all sides; they must have back interest. At the same time, furniture has become more versatile. What is a desk on one side, for example, is a series of book shelves on its reverse.

By advanced modern designers, is now appearing in less expensive price ranges. It usually has a thin low-back, narrow arms and a shallow apron, and often stands on metal legs.

Back interest is an essential in new sofas and chairs, according to Retailing Daily's fashion editors. They are so apt to be used in the middle of a large room that designers now finish them all around. This may mean a shell of expanded metal, lacing of plastic cord, instead of cane or exposed slats of wood.

The contour type chair is fast becoming a staple piece of furniture. Originally a high priced item, it is now available in many styles and at many prices. It fits today's theme of comfortable, easy leaving as neatly as a body fits its curves.

The chair and a half is news. Lounge chairs are either getting larger or smaller. The smaller version becomes a large occasional chair. But the conventional width today is becoming wider. In such a chair the occupant is not bound to a body width, but may comfortably twist or turn.

CHAIRS CAN BE FUN

In an effort to make modern chairs lighter in scale and at the same time graceful, a whole new concept of seating has been developed. These new chairs are not club or lounge chairs; they are not pull up or occasional chairs. Through the use of molded plywood, many of them have a shaped, rounded look which is soft and graceful. Interesting grain textures make them informal and natural. And wood grains contrast nicely with the metal rod legs used on many of the bases. They may have upholstered seats and backs, but are seldom solid. The light look, the suspended, the floating look are all terms applied to these new chairs.

NEW THEMES

Provincial is no longer synonymous with France. French Provincial is but one of many styles in a new kind of furniture design which today is sweeping in to favor. A store's new Provincial Shop will include a number of related themes such as Pennsylvania Dutch, Early American and Colonial. The southwestern influence is reflected in ranch styles and a rustic, rugged quality in design.

Many of the principles of other periods have been cleverly applied to Provincial lines, reports Retailing Daily. Manufacturers are now showing Provincial sectional furniture pieces as a new, comfortable dining space for two today. A drop leaf table makes a four or six people. It could be pushed into living room chairs. It can be used to serve a buffet supper, to a small group. And many people will welcome the ease with which a snack can be served around a television set. In fact, all the new tea carts are engineered to give as much service area and as many utility features as possible.

TABLES ARE USEFUL

Tables are no longer "occasional." They are designed for specific, practical uses. They often have protective tops of plastic, marble or tile. They may have small shelves that pull out to hold glasses or ash trays. Drawers may open on either side for easier access to the drawer may pull out of the frame and become a small utility table.

The free form is established. The elliptical shape looms as a significant form. Traditional tables are larger; there are fewer of the spindly, fragile what-not pieces. Then there are small, modular tables that are not only useful but versatile. They may be used in a group to form a large table, or used separately wherever needed. More dramatic shapes can be built; and this type of design may be used as a table, a table may be a stool and a stool a table. They are adaptable to any room in a house.

CASE GOODS ARE PRACTICAL

Now that multi-purpose case goods have become staples, designers are trying to get more interest in them. The severe look is gone and in its place is a more romantic look, even in modern. This may mean unusual base treatment such as a fluted base or a shaped wood base with a stretcher. It may mean the "pretty look" with hand painting or decorative inlays. Finishes are more natural, darker, and with textures achieved from natural grain highlights. Retailing Daily reports,

RETURN OF TEA CART

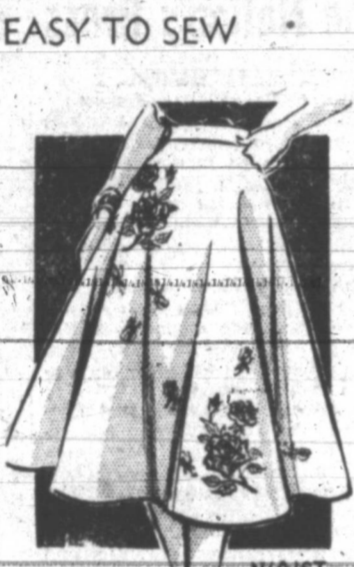

Back for a return engagement of popularity and welcome, is the tea cart. Originally a symbol of formality, this little furniture piece has a new, role comfortable dining space for two today. A drop leaf table makes a four or six people. It could be pushed into living room chairs. It can be used to serve a buffet supper, to a small group. And many people will welcome the ease with which a snack can be served around a television set. In fact, all the new tea carts are engineered to give as much service area and as many utility features as possible.

STRAIGHT LINE

The rounded look is currently gaining popularity in upholstered furniture. Graceful curves and drooping across a back and arm, free-form and kidney shapes are being seen in many lines. And the straight line, light shade seating piece, which was originated

Grace Friend

Dear Miss Friend

I have been reading your column for some time and now I have a problem.

Recently my only sister passed away leaving her husband and two children.

There is always the question of care for the children. My sister's husband would like my family, my husband and I and our two girls, to move in with him. He would not wish to change jobs or change his children's school so we would have to be the ones to do the moving.

Now I wonder if two families moving in together works out very often. I know he and I would differ about the care of the children as he does not believe in disciplining them. I think there should be a regular time for meals and bed etc.

BEST FOR ALL

I would like to do what I can for the children, but would it be the best for all concerned if we all moved in together when we are not too much alike?

I enjoy your column and thank you.

Dear Mrs. R. Mrs. B. M. R.

Frankly, I don't believe it would work.

Either you or the father would have to be responsible for discipline and if you kind would make him unhappy and his would do the same to you, there wouldn't be much chance for a peaceful household.

It is easy to understand the father's desire to keep his own home for his children and to have them remain in the same school. It is equally easy to understand your feelings in the matter. Your daughters should have the same consideration as his children. Perhaps they would not like to move either.

DIFFERENT BACKGROUNDS

Two families of different backgrounds seldom make a go of it when they share a home. Even with the best intentions in the world and all of the love possible it is hard to create a harmonious home life in those circumstances.

Perhaps a better solution would be to have a housekeeper for your brother-in-law's family. Probably it would be easier for you to contribute to her salary if your brother-in-law cannot afford one, than it would be to uproot your own happy home.

The Pampa Daily News

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence. Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Take US Out Of UN And UN Out Of US

Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, a Republican who is scheduled to head the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has struck a body blow at the one-worlders — he hit at their pocketbook.

Sen. Wiley has said that unless the United Nations does something about cleaning up the Russian mess among the UN employees that the United States may cut off its financial support of the UN. This, of course, would probably bring about an end to the futile existence of the United Nations and would be the best thing that could happen to America!

That the UN exists on the taxpayers of the United States is obvious by the seriousness of the threat of cutting off its money. Such an action would mean that we would also be required to withdraw our troops from the wonders and glories of dying on frozen Korean hills we don't want.

All that the United States would get out of such action would be the saving of American lives and American lives and American production and American dollars. Plus the advantage of having the possibility of building our own nation on a strong and firm foundation in order that we might be able to fully and properly resist the aggression of the Russians when and if they strike.

Sen. Wiley made it clear that he put most of the blame for the Red-believers in the UN right in the lap of our own State Department. He said that Congressional sentiment is building up to cut off U. S. money for the international organization "unless adequate security procedures have been worked out to guarantee that the UN and its organs do not remain a base for espionage and subversion."

(Right now the U. S. is paying a little more than one-third of the UN bills and has contributed $560,000,000 to it since 1946.)

What has not been made clear is the manner in which there is any hope for "adequate security procedures" in the UN no matter what steps are taken short of throwing out all of the representatives of Soviet Russia and her subject nations. So long as the representatives of Soviet Russia are permitted to move about freely within the United Nations framework it is silly to attempt to take adequate security measures to protect the United States. The first consideration ought to be determined by what it is we have in common with the so-called "free nations." Shall we call England one of the good pals in the parliament of "free nations?" England obviously believes in a Socialist-Communist form of government at the moment and the difference between the philosophies of government in England and Soviet Russia are only academic. It is probably trite to say so, but it ought to be remembered that "A Communist is only a Socialist in a hell of a hurry." Both have as the ultimate goal the subjugation of the individual and his rights in the interest of the State. No matter how it is called, it makes little difference to a slave whether he bows before a bureaucrat or a commissar. He is still a slave and it is to this end that the United Nations is pledged.

The answer is not to try and figure out a temporary means of keeping political secrets from Soviet Russia. The answer is to get the United States out of the United Nations and visa versa.

Controls Not Needed

In the near future, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee will meet to discuss the price and wage control program and chart a course for the future.

That Committee will perform a very important public service if it recognizes and acts upon certain inescapable facts.

One of these facts is that practically all consumer goods are now in ample supply, and in many cases the supply exceeds the demand. Excessive prices are impossible when this is the case.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
The PTA Program
Nothing is more important than what the youth of the land is being taught in the public schools and the beliefs and programs of those who are trying to influence the education—that the youth is subjected to.

The PTA has a membership of over seven million people. They collect over three and a half million dollars from their membership. Over $350,000 of this goes to the national PTA in Chicago.

The $3,500,000 is used undoubtedly with the best of intentions to too many better-education societies. Some of the policies of the PTA are undoubtedly some of the things that the parents strenuously object to. As an example, the educational platform that "The principle of teacher tenure should be continued." Of course, all members of the PTA must believe in the right of the state to conscript the youth of the land and subject them to whatever the state boards of education or the National Education Association prescribes for them to study?

It seems rather unfair to the youth of the land to be conscripted and be under the influence of a teacher who cannot be dismissed without being able to prove to a third party that he is not doing a good job. Most people who believe in the competitive system and the American way of life and the Golden Rule do not want to hold a job when those who are doing the paying want another employee. They want both parties to be satisfied and feel that they are getting full value. That is not the case when tenure prevails. Once a teacher gets established, he is there for life unless the school authorities can prove that he has violated some moral law or is negligent or incompetent. That is very difficult to do. The result is that too many teachers are not giving the kind of service that they would be obliged to give if there were no tenure law. Yet, the PTA advocates this kind of an educational system.

Another practice of the Parent-Teachers Congress is that any legislative policy that the Board of Managers has taken a stand upon is the PTA policy and all speakers who are in favor of that stand can be heard on PTA platform. In other words, when less than 1 percent of the membership represented by the Board of Managers goes on record for a policy, then it can't even be discussed but can be voted on at any meeting. It will be remembered that the president of the California State Board of Managers even stated that members should not discuss in their position matters that were decided by the Board of Managers. It is hard to conceive how the PTA Board of Managers can be very meek or humble and take such a position as that. Once an error is established, the only way it can be corrected is to have the Board of Managers change their minds. The millions of members must accept the "policy" of the State Board of Managers without question. That is very similar to the policies of a dictator form of government and it is also very similar to the way labor unions are run.

The Yearbook tells how the delegates to the National Convention are screened. It says: "Each delegate to the National convention shall be approved by at least three members of the State Board of Managers; preferences shall be given to members of the State Board."

These members in the local councils or districts cannot really select their own delegates. Thus the Board of Managers have to approve the delegates who might want to change the policies of the national PTA.

Even after the PTA has it in their by-laws that once the Board of Managers have decided an issue that it is closed, the Yearbook states that "the need for more discussion and undertaking of the kind of educational programs that direct the administrative activities of the schools or to control their policies. What in the world is the use of the members of the PTA talking about the policies of the schools if their constitution and by-laws prevent them from changing the policies?"

Down South Big Job For U. S. To Overcome Effects Of Welfare Practices

By THURMAN SENSING
Southern States Industrial Council
Nashville, Tenn.
It takes a people with lots of courage and self-reliance to overcome the damaging effects of a period of living under the so-called "welfare state" and make their way back to a state of free enterprise.

There is now currently passing before our eyes in the world two illustrations of such attempts. One apparently is failing and the other apparently is succeeding. France. He had held down government of France to return to a sound economy seems to have failed. For nine months Premier Antoine Pinay had taken the necessary preliminary steps to restore confidence in the French franc. He had held down government spending and had boosted revenues by tightening tax collections. He had also increased government revenue by borrowing from the public rather than by grinding out new money by means of the printing press.

For a time these methods seemed to be succeeding. After a relentless price climb, France's wholesale prices fell by a good percentage from February to November of this year. A new confidence in the government set savings up and gold and dollar prices came down.

But the addicts of the inflation habit in France never ceased their efforts to maintain a supply of the "dope." The people of France apparently are not willing to take the "cure." The "government" is particularly tenacious in its efforts. It is much easier than paying taxes and working for a living. The Pinay government has fallen. The franc is again declining in value and inflation is again rampant.

The illustration of France seems to tell us that there is no hope for a people who have lived long enough under a socialistic type of government. It destroys their courage and self-reliance. They are doomed for destruction. The other illustration is that of Great Britain. Fortunately, for the welfare of the British and the strength of the world generally it seems to be succeeding. Whether it is because the British have not lived as long under the enervating effects of socialism as the French or whether it is because the British are fundamentally more courageous and self-reliant than the French it would be hard to say.

But after five years of degrading socialism, the British have had better than a year of Conservative government and the efforts made by the government during that time to return to a sound economy seem to be bearing fruit. The pills which the Conservative government of Great Britain had to dose out during this period were not easy to take. They had to increase taxes, they had to economize, they had to restrict many of their practices, they had to export more and do without more at home. But they did it. They have improved their foreign trade, they have discontinued much of their rationing, they have cut many of their price controls, they have begun to denationalize some of their industries — and they are determinedly returning to a free enterprise economy.

There is a great lesson for the world in the illustrations — these two nations. There is particularly a great lesson for our own nation. For 20 years the forces of socialism attempted to fasten their ideologies on the American people. They made great inroads. In fact, they would have succeeded completely in Great Britain and France had not the conservative-minded representatives of the South in the Congress

Eisenhower, Taft Now Equal In Popularity In The Midwest

By RAY TUCKER
CHICAGO — In this Taft territory, President-elect Eisenhower has become as popular as his chief rival, Sen. Taft, whose policies he pursued because he had none of his own. Since Dewey "me tooed" the New Deal in his 1946 campaign, their temporary doubt and chagrin over Ike's victory at Chicago and the polls derived largely from their dislike of the New York Governor.

The Middle West expects to throw its weight around at Washington as a result of the Nov. 4 transfer of power there. It expects to supplant the South as the most influential force on Capitol Hill after Jan. 20, through its solid and conservative Republican representation and the membership's influential status in both House and Senate. They count on Taft to do his part to fulfill these long-deferred expectations.

Tired of Eastern Influence — In view of Eisenhower's tremendous majorities in the Mississippi Valley section, including Gov. Stevenson's Illinois, it is mathematically certain that he would have carried them even without his so-called "surround" to the attacks upon the Morningstar Heights conference. Taft's midwestern supporters, and he has a host of them, were never so concerned over his personal disappointment at the Chicago convention as they were by their belief that the Dewey philosophy would prevail in an Eisenhower administration. They have had their fill of eastern influence at the Capital, including its effects during both the Roosevelt and the Wilson regimes. They thought Truman even worse than the Republican "liberals" whose policies he pursued because he had none of his own. Since Dewey "me tooed" the New Deal in his 1946 campaign, their temporary doubt and chagrin over Ike's victory at Chicago and the polls derived largely from their dislike of the New York Governor.

Such appointments as Humphrey of Ohio for Treasury, Wilson of Michigan for Defense, Benson of Utah for Agriculture, and Burgess and Folsom for management of Federal Finance and Credit, have tended to reassure them. Although none of these men was a Taft nominee, they are regarded as the type of man he might have named, if he were in Eisenhower's shoes. The Durkin selection for Labor, as well as Taft's denunciation of the Illinois man, aroused fear of top-level dissension and a White House — Capitol Hill feud of the kind that eventually marred the Roosevelt and Truman years. By second-thought consideration convinced this section that picking a union official was a smart move. This heavily industrialized area wants nothing so much as labor-management peace and understanding.

Prospective choice of Taft as Senate Majority Leader has won the Middle West completely, especially as another man from the Mississippi Valley, Halleck of Indiana, will hold down the opposite position in the House. The Ohioan's elevation has reassured confidence because it is interpreted as a step-off-the-grass sign to Dewey during the formative stage of the first GOP administration in 20 years.

MID-WEST'S COCKINESS — The Middle West's confidence for the future — it might almost be characterized as "cockiness" — springs from the fact that it hopes to be the geographic last that will wag the national Republican dog. This section will have 13 of the 19 chairmen of the regular committees in the next House, Under the Democrats, almost the same proportion of control was lodged in Southern Democratic hands and for the same reason. Once the GOP voters elect a man to Congress from this area, he stays there, barring unusual election upsets, and piles up seniority inures.

And it was here, in Sen. Taft's broad ballistics, that Roosevelt's New Deal and Truman's Fair Deal met their heaviest opposition at the ballot box and on legislative roll calls, due largely to the Ohio Senator's inspiration.

MORSE THE MUGWUMP — Fellow-midwesterners will constitute Sen. Taft's political guard in the Senate, outnumbering legions from other sections. "The Valley" will have 16 members, as against 17 for the Northeast, 11 for the Far West, and one from the almost recaptured South. Since the GOP enjoys a slim majority of only nine in the House, an undependable margin of one in the upper chamber, thanks to Morse, the Mugwump, this area's hopeful spirit becomes even more understandable.

In the House, the lineup will be Middle West, 97; the Northeast, 89; the West, 35; the South, eight.

In view of this solid, political and legislative basis for his neighbors' great expectations, Sen. Taft would approach the close of his career — he has indicated that he will not run for re-election — in something less than a blaze of glory, if he dis appoints them by leading with Ike

TREATY MAKING
(The Chicago Daily Tribune)
The irresponsible and frivolous manner in which treaties have been considered in the senate recently makes it imperative that action be taken to insure that no international instrument shall be ratified unless a senate majority passes upon it.

The Constitution provides that the President "shall have power by and with the advice and consent of the senate to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur." Mr. Frank E. Holman, past president of the American Bar association, has pointed out that within the year treaties and conventions have been approved with less than a quorum of the senate actually present. In January, UN mutual assistance treaties with Greece and Turkey were ratified with only six senators present. Not because the constitutionality of this procedure was called into question, but simply because the Greek and Turkish ambassadors felt insulted that no greater interest had been taken in the matter, the treaties were again called up, this time with a quorum present, and ratified all over again.

As we noted in an editorial of Nov. 29, the treaty making process was rendered even more farcical last June 15, when two consular conventions and a protocol, involving Ireland and Britain, were ratified with but two senators present. The only other senator in attendance was Mr. Tye of Minnesota. Sparkman called upon the conventions and protocol, cast the only vote on each, and then ruled that "in the opinion of the chair, two-thirds of the senators present" had concurred and these instruments were duly ratified.

Sen. Tye said nothing during these proceedings. Later he conceded, "I did not object." To our mind, as to Mr. Holman's, this is the height of irresponsibility. It shows how little thought the country can be committed to grave and permanent international undertakings. Treaties of much greater importance could be ratified while the most of the senate had its back turned. If these precedents are to stand unimpaired, the country may wake up some day to find itself committed to sweeping pledges to other countries by the vote of a handful of senators.

Of course, Sen. Sparkman could not have got away with this business if a single senator had risen to suggest the absence of a quorum. That would have forced a roll call and brought senators scurrying to the chamber until a sufficient number was present so that the pending business could be considered. If a quorum were lacking, the treaty, or convention, would have gone over until another day.

Perhaps the very carelessness of the senate in insisting on the point of order relating to a quorum does not completely an in Great Britain, a rule that a majority must be present whenever a treaty is to be brought up for vote. If the senators are to disown their responsibilities to the people, a way must be found to require them to discharge their duty on one of the most important matters with which the senate must deal.

Thrown their strength in opposition to their own party leadership, with like-minded thinking in other parts of the nation to stop their attempts. That has been our salvation. We have much work to do to overcome the damage caused by the socialistic practices of inflation and government "aid" of recent years. But it can be done if we will only have the courage to do it. Now is a time for reeducation to the way of life under which our government was founded and under which we have prospered.

The philosophy of this way of life has been well stated by President-elect Eisenhower, when he said, "I believe that the two foundations of the American democracy are first, a deep and abiding religious faith, and second, a system of freedoms and rights for the individual that we generally refer to as 'free enterprise'."

THE CURIOUS AMERICAN

By WILLIS E. STONE
The confusion and strife of 1952 had a tendency to conceal the profoundness of the changes beginning to consolidate into a powerful tide of resistance against the practices of socialism in America.

As the year ends, the strength of the attacks upon us seems to be lessening, even though bureaucrats continue to demand more and more tax billions to socialize the taxpayers. This is a rebellion against the political conquest of the properties and enterprises of the American people appears to be the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" which provides that:

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES SHALL NOT ENGAGE IN ANY BUSINESS, PROFESSIONAL, COMMERCIAL, FINANCIAL OR INDUSTRIAL ENTERPRISE EXCEPT AS SPECIFIED IN THE CONSTITUTION.

Support for this proposal grew tremendously during the past year. Last January the Service Clubs, Trade Associations and Civic Organizations of the nation began to be aware of the proposition. The leaders of the business and professional life of the nation were appalled that their particular enterprises would inevitably be socialized unless the practices of socialism were outlawed.

In January of 1952 the first steps were being taken to get this proposal before the Legislatures of various States as the first actual step toward writing economic freedom into the Constitution.

So great became the support for this "Proposed 23rd Amendment" that Representative Ralph W. Gwinn of New York introduced it into the Congress on June 28, 1952, as House Resolution No. 491. The November election proved the effectiveness of the swiftly developing rebellion against the practices of socialism by trouncing the socialistic regime of 20 years ago. The more than 100 million who pledged to return America to the traditional adherence of Constitutional law.

As we look forward to 1953 we can foresee vast changes. Already a tremendous clamor is arising demanding activities by legislative bodies at all levels of government which will lead to the ultimate enactment of this "Proposed 23rd Amendment."

Mr. Charles E. Wilson, retired Board Chairman of General Electric, has submitted a program through which the sale of government owned utilities back to the American people can be arranged. Representative Frederic R. Couder, Jr., of New York, has declared he will introduce a resolution to authorize a thorough investigation of the alien practice of nationalizing our government enterprises.

Congressman Ralph W. Gwinn has asserted he will reintroduce the practice of socialism in America. There is some assurance that action will be taken on it in 1953. These are very hopeful signs to be sure, but the struggle has only begun. According to the American Progress Foundation of Los Angeles, sponsor of the "Proposed 23rd Amendment," all of us should now lend a hand to make this proposed constitutional protection for economic freedom the principal topic of public discussion. Good public policy is forged on the anvil of public discussion, and communications equipment.

TURPIN TO SEEK M'weight Crown
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—UP—Randy Turpin of England has bowed out of a shot at Archie Moore's light-heavyweight championship, the National Boxing Association announced Monday.

When Moore won his crown from Joey Maxim of Cleveland at St. Louis, Dec. 17, both men had agreed to defend against Turpin. However, the British Boxing Board of Control said Turpin has given up his British light-heavy championship in order to campaign for the middleweight title left vacant by the retirement of Sugar Ray Robinson.

However, beautiful trophies will go to the weight winners in the district tournament, both in the district tournament here and at the regional tournament.

District trophies are now on display at the Adlington's Western Store.

Mangrum Tops LA Open Field

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5—UP—Lloyd Mangrum appeared a cinch to capture his third victory in the $20,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament Monday as he teed off in final-round play with a commanding five-stroke lead.

Sixty-six linkers were in the last round of the 72-hole event at Riviera Country Club.

Mangrum, the lean, veteran from Niles, Ill., had a 34-hole total of 210. He carded a two-under par 69 Sunday, his second of the tournament, and only a major reversal of form could stop the one-time National Open champion from nabbing down first place—money of $2,750.

Callers estimated at more than 10,000 watched under ideal weather conditions Sunday as Mangrum's long tournament experience paid off and early pace setters wilted.

Jay Hebert of Erie, Pa., blew wide open with a seven-over-par 73 after leading the field at the halfway mark with 140 total, a stroke in front of Mangrum, Al McGeer of Spokane, Wash., and Art Wall of Tacoma, Wash.

Margert, making his professional debut after being runner-up in the National Amateur title in 1932, also fell apart. He had a 79 and slipped into a five-way tie for 14th place. Wall faded slightly better, getting a 74 which put him in a tie with Jack Burke Jr. of Houston for second place at 215.

Mangrum's sub-par round included four birdies and two bogies. It was his ability to come through with fine recovery shots when they were needed most that put the pressure on his foes. One of his best shots was a 25-foot putt that he sank on the 16th for a birdie two.

Ed (Porky) Oliver, Wilmington, Del., fired a 67, best round so far of the tournament in which only 14 sub-par rounds have been scored. His 210 put him in a five-way tie for seventh place.

Collegians Rip Pros In Hula Bowl, 33-14
HONOLULU, Jan. 5—UP—An Illinois passer and two Oklahoma linemen triumphed Monday with sparking the American college all-stars to a 33 to 14 win over Hawaii's all-star team in the 1953 Hula Bowl game.

Tommy O'Connell of the fighting Illinois and Oklahoma backs Billy Vesells and Buck McPhail combined to rattle-dazzle past the Islanders Sunday.

The fast-clicking backfield operation, combined with a powerhouse defensive line, was too much even for such Hawaii stars as Eddie Lebaron, Doak Walker, and Dante LaVeil.

But even in defeat, Lebaron, former College of Pacific great, was a standout on the field. He kept Hawaii in the game with accurate passing which set up two touchdowns.

Lebaron ran up a total of 196 yards gained by passing, against a combined total of 213 yards for O'Connell, Billy Reynolds of Pittsburgh, and Eddie Crowder of Oklahoma.

The collegians scored four touchdowns in the first half and one in the third period. The Hawaii all-stars hit pay dirt in the second quarter and again midway in the same period.

It was a battling game, but there were few real tussles until the 18,000 fans who paid to witness the annual Elks charity classic, which moved slowly because of long huddles and a rash of minor penalties.

Holiday Fun Over For College 5s; Begin Playing For Keeps
NEW YORK, Jan. 5—UP—The holiday fun, playing in tinselled tournaments or just loafing at home, was over for college basketball players Monday and they buckled down to the serious business of conference competition.

Starting with games Monday night which test such touted teams as Illinois, Indiana, and Louisiana State, every major conference in the nation has important action slated this week.

Indiana, current leader of Big Ten with victories in all three of its league contests to date, defends that lead in its game at East Lansing, Mich., against Michigan State.

One of the top games of the week since the Hoosiers are rated eighth nationally and the Spartans 17th, Illinois ranked on top nationally, but in second place in the Big Ten with one loss in three games, meet Purdue at LaFayette, Ind.

Funk After Revenge From Murdocks

One of the top tag-team matches ever held at the Southern Club Sports Arena will be unseated tomorrow night when Dory Funk and Cowboy Carlson, the Southwest State Tag-Team title holders, take on the Murdock brothers, Frankie Hill and Farmer Jones.

Funk and Carlson are putting their title on the line. It will be the best two-out-of-three falls or 90 minute time limit.

For Funk, the match will afford a chance for him to get even with the Murdock brothers who last week ganged him in the ring after a reverse decision gave Farmer Jones the decision over Funk in their main event. Frankie Hill climbed into the ring when the match ended after referee Billy Weidner had originally ruled Funk's hand in victory.

But Weidner, who had Funk been knocked out by a blow from Funk intended for Farmer Jones, reversed the decision when Farmer Jones had pinned Funk while he (Weidner) was out.

Carlson, being a tag-team partner of Funk and also a good friend, is expected to help Funk get revenge from the Murdocks.

On the supporting card, Whitey Whaley will meet Herb Parks in a 3-fall affair or 45-minute time limit.

Tickets for Tuesday night's show will be on sale all day tomorrow at the Sportsman Store.

17 College Quints Remain Unbeaten
NEW YORK, Jan. 5—UP—Little Rio Grande College of Ohio enjoyed a select spot Monday atop a 17-team honor roll of undefeated college basketball quintets that included such major powers as Seton Hall, Southern California and Fordham.

Led by the amazing six-foot, nine-inch Clarence (Bevo) Francis, who has averaged 46.5 points per game, Rio Grande has run off a string of 16 victories for the best record in the college ranks so far this season. The tiny Ohio school, with an enrollment of 125 students, seeks to extend its streak against Findlay (Ohio) College, Wednesday night.

Among the major college teams, Seton Hall of South Orange, N. J., tops with 13 straight victories, followed by Southern California with 10 and Fordham with nine. Seton Hall beat Loyome College last weekend. Southern California topped Stanford and Fordham rounded out a two-game Midwest swing by beating Dayton.

The other perfect record major college teams are Connecticut (8-0), Wichita (7-0), Navy (6-0) and Georgetown of Washington, D. C. (5-0).

The East led the rest of the nation in unbeaten teams with eight; the Midwest had three, the Southwest and Far West two each, and the Southeast and Midlands one each.

The highest scoring team in the group was Arkansas-Tech, which has averaged a fraction more than 100 points per game in running up seven victories.

The longest winning streak in the nation, covering the past two seasons, belonged to Cortland N. Y. State Teachers College. Cortland won its last 14 games of the 1951-52 season and is unbeaten in its first seven games of the current campaign.

Other unbeaten teams (with records in parentheses): Southwestern (Tex.) University (9-0); Wayne Mich. University (7-0); Gettysburg (5-0); Lebanon Valley (Pa.) (4-0); Morgan State (Md.) (4-0); and Mt. Union (Ohio) (4-0).

Kramer Foresees Profitable Year In Pro Tennis
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5—UP—Jack Kramer disclosed plans Monday to make his tour with Australian Frank Sedgman "the most profitable in the history of professional tennis."

Kramer's long, energetic pursuit of the 22-year-old Sedgman ended in triumph Sunday when the Australian signed contracts that will net him at least $75,000 in the next five months. Ken McGregor, who was Sedgman's No. 1 aide in bringing Australia's three straight Davis cup titles, also inked with Kramer for a $25,000 guarantee.

Kramer immediately launched plans that he hopes will result in bigger takes for the Australians and, of course, for himself.

The professional tour opens Tuesday night at Pan-Pacific Auditorium. Kramer will battle Sedgman in the first of 90 North American matches. McGregor's opposition will be furnished by Pancho Segura, the two-handed slugger from Ecuador.

Kramer lamented that he didn't have enough time to exploit fully the opening Los Angeles matches. He still hoped for sellout crowds of 7,000 each night with a $35,000 net for the two matches.

But once the troupe hits the road, Kramer said he was sure it would outdraw former tours which included such names as Don Budge, Bobby Riggs, Dick (Pancho) Gonzales and Ellsworth Vines.

As a feature of the tour Kramer outlined plans for his own version of the Davis Cup. Sedgman and McGregor will face Kramer and Segura in the pro "Davis Cup" competition that will involve 10 matches, including doubles play.

Kramer said he intended to use the "Davis Cup" feature in his city appearances, starting in New York's Madison Square Garden January 10 and 11. In the play, Kramer and Segura will face both Australians in singles matches.

Boxers Put Win Streaks On Line
NEW YORK, Jan. 5—UP—Middleweight Marvin Edelman of Philadelphia, who has won 28 straight bouts, risks his string Monday night in a 10-round bout against Charlie (Red) Williams of Newark, N. J., in the feature bout in Brooklyn.

WEEPS AFTER MISSING FIELD GOAL — Tulsa's end Tom Miner weeps as he kneels on the sidelines after missing a field goal that could have won the game for Tulsa in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., on New Year's Day. With two minutes to go, Florida was in front 14-13 and Tulsa was on the Florida five-yard line when Miner attempted his field goal and missed. Florida took over and kept the ball the remainder of the game. (AP Wirephoto)

Casey Thinks Yankees Will Repeat Title
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of interviews with the major league managers.

GLENDALE, Calif. — Pessimistic one moment and optimistic the next, unpredictable Casey Stengel Monday pointed to several obstacles in the New York Yankees' path for 1953 but felt his players could "pick up where we left off in the World Series."

Stengel, aiming for his fifth consecutive world championship, spoke of Cleveland and Chicago as "definite threats," but, in the final analysis, he liked the chances of his own club best.

Casey said he couldn't tell much yet about the newcomers who may turn up in spring practice but he spoke affectionately of the players who carried the Yankees to the American League pennant and victory in the 1952 series.

Mantle an 'Exceptional Player'
"Mickey Mantle improved every month he was with us this last season and he'll keep right on improving," said Stengel at his home here. "No, I won't compare him with anyone else. But I'll say right now he's the best player I've ever seen."

Stengel snorted with disbelief when asked whether he thought 33-year-old Alie Reynolds might be getting a little too old for the role of a starting pitcher.

Why he pitched more games this year than he ever did before, and what he did in the series for us was tremendous," declared Casey. "You can't say a guy with that kind of heart and will is slowing down. We're definitely counting on him again."

Stengel said he welcomes the return from the Army of Whitey Ford and said if he hasn't lost anything through his absence in the service he could be a highly valued performer next season. But Casey was cagey about whether Johnny Mize would again be his No. 1 pinch hitter.

Will Know Later
"Only time would tell," said Stengel.

Stengel is not sure where he will use the promising Andy Carey but said he definitely was shaping up for an infield berth.

Newcomers? Sure there'll be newcomers at spring practice but I don't want to say anything about them. I haven't even got the spring training roster from the front office yet, so how can I say who we expect will look good. But anybody who looks good gets a chance. I'll know 'em over and then decide."

Stengel agreed that Cleveland was the team to be feared most if the Indians start off 1953 with the strength they showed at the close of 1952.

"They were winning so many ball games we had to play like champions to keep ahead of them," he said. "But I can't say if they were the strongest team we'll have to meet. After all, everybody likes to beat the Yankees."

SMU, Rice Open SWC Race Tuesday

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer
The Southwest Conference basketball championship race opens with a bang—one loud enough that the sound may be echoing down through the two-months long season until it repeats itself on the curtain call next March 8.

Tuesday night's opening salvo finds Southern Methodist and Rice—the two teams who met in the finals of the pre-season tournament last week—meeting at Houston in a game that could go a long way toward determining the ultimate champion.

The same two clubs do not meet again until the final night of the season and there is a possibility that the crown might ride on the outcome of that closing contest.

SMU defeated Rice 71 to 62 in the tournament finals to complete a surprise romp through the pre-season affair that also saw the Methodists upset Arkansas 5 to 2 along the way.

Mustangs Are Contenders
Now Coach Don Hayes' five must be considered a definite contender to succeed Texas Christian as the champion with Rice and Arkansas as the top challengers.

The tournament victory didn't make a firm favorite out of SMU because observers weren't too sure that the club might not have just been riding a "hot" streak at the time.

Tuesday night's game against Rice should provide a better clue as it takes the spotlight away from the opening night's two other title games—Texas A&M vs Baylor at Waco and TCU vs Texas at Austin.

SMU figures in another game before the week is out as four other clubs also get in a second contest during the opening week of play for the chips.

SMU Plays Texas
The Methodists catch Texas at Dallas Saturday night while Baylor and TCU collide at Fort Worth and Arkansas opens its bid against the Texas Aggies at College Station.

As the clubs turn into the championship race, Rice has the best record—seven wins—against only two losses, while Arkansas starts next with five wins in eight starts—the latest defeat coming last Saturday night on the Porkers home court at the hands of Tulsa, 61 to 50.

SMU and TCU broke even in pre-season play, while Baylor, Texas and the Aggies each wound up with one win and one loss.

Schwinger Pulls Away
Gene Schwinger pulled away in the race for individual scoring honors as the Rice star maintained his 20.5-point per game pace. He now has 164 points to 143 for TCU's Henry Ohlen.

Arkansas' Gene Lambert dropped well back with 123 points, but was in third place, seven points ahead of Texas' free-shot specialist, George Scalling.

All of the top 10 scorers of a week ago still were in the select bracket.

But there were a few switches in the lower ranks as SMU's spearhead, Art Barnes, moved up from eighth to seventh, Rice's Don Lane from 10th to eighth and A&M's Don Binford dropped from seventh to 10th.

Temperatures Remain High

Cloud-tinted skies and rising temperatures earlier today indicated that Pampa and the Panhandle were in for their third straight day of June-in-January weather.

High reading on the Pampa thermometer for both Saturday and Sunday was a balmy 58 degrees. At 11 a. m. today in Pampa it was 40.

Over the remainder of the state — and the Southwest — the sun was beaming in what The United Press called, "nice, mild January weather."

Forecasters warned, however, that there was a possibility of a few, widely scattered showers in North and South Central Texas Tuesday. The UP continued, "But the showers 'won't amount to much — if we get any."

No rain was recorded anywhere in the state Sunday, according to the Fair and sunny weather Sunday covered most of New Mexico, Colorado, Louisiana, Kansas and Missouri. The UP reported.

Only evidence of winter in the area, The UP went on, was in Wyoming, Kansas and Missouri Sunday night, where traces of snow were reported.

Who Must File A Tax Return? Income Tax Primer: No. 2

By RICHARD A. MULLEN
FKA Income Tax Expert

Everyone — regardless of age or citizenship — residing in the United States who has a gross income in 1952 of $600 or more must file a tax return.

This article explains what is meant by "gross income" so you can tell whether you have $600 or more. And if you must file it tells which return is best to use for reporting that income.

"Gross income" means all income which must be reported on your return. If you look at the middle of page 3 of the official instructions, you will see examples of income which must be reported.

If you have income of $600 or more from any of these items, then you must file. Notice that page 5 also has a list of income items which should not be reported. These items are not included in "gross income."

Even though your gross income is less than $600, it will pay you to file a return if any tax was withheld from the earnings you did get. Many students who work during the summer and other workers part time earn less than $600 yet have some tax withheld from their pay.

They will have the withheld tax refunded if they file a return. And you can still claim your dependents even though they file a return to get back the tax withheld on earnings of less than $600.

For those who must file, the next problem is: which of the three forms should be used.

Read the section called "How to Choose Your Return" beginning on page 3 of the instruction pamphlet. This describes Form 1040A, Short Form 1040 and Long Form 1040 and tells who may use each.

Those of you with incomes under $5000 will find it helpful to fill out the form printed with this article. It automatically tells you which return to use.

If your income is $5000 or more, you must use Long Form 1040.

Married persons have to decide whether to file a joint or separate return. If there is any doubt about whether or not you are married in the eyes of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the official instructions on page 4 make the rules clear.

In all but a few isolated cases it is advantageous to file the joint return. The outstanding exception is when both husband and wife have large incomes and capital losses are involved. This will be fully explained in the ninth article which tells how to report capital gains and losses.

Unmarried persons who are heads of households now get a tax break. This is fully discussed in the fourth article. The third article tomorrow deals with the all-important subject of claiming exemptions.

TAX PRIMER Q. & A.
Q. I earned $500 in 1952 and a received $240 from the Veterans Administration as a disability payment. Must I file a return?
A. No, your taxable income was only $500 so you are not required to file a return. However, if any tax was withheld from the $500, file a return and the tax will be refunded to you.

Q. Does the Director of Internal Revenue's office charge for giving tax advice?
A. No, but if you have a question, go early and avoid the last-minute crowds.

Q. My wife and I are living apart. May we file a joint return?
A. Yes, so long as you were not separated in 1952 by court order. Remember, both of you must sign the return.

Q. My wife and I split up in April, 1952, and in January, 1953, we were divorced. May we file a joint return?
A. Yes, because you were not legally separated or divorced in 1952. Keep in mind, however, that each must include his income in the joint return and each is liable for the whole tax.

Q. My husband died in January, 1952. May I file a joint return?
A. Yes, provided you did not re-marry in 1952. If you re-marry, then you can file a joint return with your present husband.

Week-End Accidents Boost City Average
Two city automobile collisions, within five hours of each other, have been reported by Pampa police, upping the 1953 accident toll to four — more than a one-a-day average.

Both mishaps occurred Saturday. Cars operated by Thelma S. R. Head, 48, of Pampa, and Mrs. Wanda H. Hubanks, 20, of 409 N. Frost, were headed east on Foster at 2:10 p. m. Saturday, police reported, when the Head vehicle started to turn right into a driveway and the Hubanks car tried to pass on the wrong side and collided with Miss Head's car.

Mrs. Hubanks' vehicle skidded 45 feet, police records show. Damages to the Head car were calculated at $100. No citations were issued.

Osborn F. Epperson, 37, of 1137 N. Russell, was headed north on Frost exactly five hours later when a vehicle operated by Emma B. Montgomery, 50, of 720 Barnes, collided with the Epperson car at Browning. Mrs. Montgomery was going west on Browning.

Mrs. Montgomery was cited for running a stop sign. Damages to the two cars were estimated at $55.

Court Working On Civil Suit Trials

The process of setting civil suits for trial was underway late this morning by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich in 31st District Court, following expediting of the Gray County Grand Jury.

On the civil docket are 48 cases in three categories — non-jury; jury; and appearance cases.

Several cases were set for the first jury week, Feb. 9. Others will be set down for later dates, or passed over altogether.

Four of the sixteen men summoned for grand jury duty were excused. They were Felton K. Webb, McLean; W. C. Epperson, M. P. Downs, and Paul N. Brown, all of Pampa.

Cry of Help
She said that she entered the second floor bedroom of the Smith home that night in response to a faint cry of help from the colonel. She said she found Mrs. Smith holding a foot-long knife in her hand which recently had been purchased for her teen-age son.

The board of nine officers, including a WAC Lieutenant Colonel, first heard 17-year-old Richard J. Murphy, a high school neighbor, tell that he had heard Mrs. Smith tell the colonel two weeks before the stabbing, "someday I'm going to kill you."

The board could find Mrs. Smith guilty and sentence her to death, acquit her, or overrule the judgment of a board of medical officers, which found her sane and competent to determine right from wrong on the night of the slaying.

Flu Epidemic Closes Central Texas Schools

ELGIN, Tex., Jan. 5-UP—Schools in this Central Texas city remained closed Monday as health authorities fought a threatening influenza epidemic.
However, Dr. Harvey Morris, city health officer, said the action was a "preventive measure" and added the number of cases did not approach last year's figure when there were 113 at this season.
"Maybe 20 per cent have it this year," he said.
A School Superintendent Ray Coffman announced extension of the holiday vacation until Jan. 12 on recommendation of health authorities.

As many as a million tons of copper have been produced from ores in the United States in a year.

Texas Fared Well During Past Year Despite Severe Drought

DALLAS, Jan. 4-UP—The total income of Texans during 1952 was some 5 per cent above 1951 even though the state was visited by a severe drought during much of the year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas reported.

The bank's report on "Highlights of 1952," covering the eleventh federal reserve district, said the five states lying wholly or partly in the district gained even more during 1952.

"Only agriculture (of important sources of income in the area) failed to show a favorable comparison with results of the preceding year," the bank said.

The 11th federal reserve district includes Texas and parts of Oklahoma, Louisiana, New Mexico and Arizona.

Inflation Held in Check
"The record for 1952 in the Southwest is very favorable," the bank's year-end report said. "Potential inflationary forces were held reasonably well in check, and a relatively high degree of stability prevailed."

The bank said agricultural data for the five states lying wholly or partly in the district show that a slight decline in the production of crops was almost offset by a very small increase in the production of livestock and livestock products.

However, the bank said, this is not entirely representative of the district, since in several cases the slight decline in the production of the states other than Texas lies outside the eleventh district.

It mentioned a "very large wheat crop in the part of Oklahoma that is in the Kansas City federal reserve district and large rice and sugar cane crops in the part of Louisiana lying in the Atlanta federal reserve district."

Cotton Crop Hurt
The bank said production of crops in Texas declined seven per cent in 1952 compared with the preceding year, while livestock and livestock products rose about one per cent. On all farm commodity production, the decline was about 3.5 per cent.

"The most serious decline occurred in the case of cotton with the 1952 crop being estimated at about 3,750,000 bales, compared with 4,074,000 bales produced in 1951."

About 17 per cent more cattle were slaughtered in Texas in the first 10 months of 1952 than during the first 10 months of 1951, because of the deterioration of range due to drought.

The number of calves moving to slaughter increased about 16 per cent, and sheep and hogs were up 9 per cent.

Farm Prices Down
Average prices for farm products declined, mostly in the last half of the year. Beef cattle prices were about 30 per cent under a year earlier.

During 1952 crude oil production set a new record—about 2 per cent above the 1951 total.

During the first seven months of the year, new well completions ran about 12.5 per cent above 1951. Completions ran under 1951 for the rest of the year.

"Preliminary estimates indicate that total completions in 1952 were almost 20,000, or above the 1951 total," the bank said.
