NO MONKEY BUSINESS — Income tax deadline is less than a week away today and even such educated chimps as Marquis of New York's Palace Theater found the complicated forms a maze of mystery. While Pampa had no educated chimps to solve tax problems, many local taxpayers feared the involved reports might make a monkey out of a fellow. Deadline is March 15.

Harvester Reception . . . Pampa Welcomes Champions Home

A big reception for the newly-crowned state basketball champion Pampa Harvesters was held early this afternoon when the team arrived on its chartered bus from Austin, scene of the tournament.

Superintendent Knox Kinard represented the schools at a welcoming party held in front of the LaNora theatre.

Dr. Joe Donaldson, president of the Chamber of Commerce sports committee, served as the master of ceremonies.

Johnny Willis represented the high school student body at the celebration. Willis is the student body president.

The Harvester band was on hand to furnish music for the gala occasion.

The Harvesters, who defeated Austin High School of Austin in the state finals Saturday night, 61-47, at University of Texas huge gymnasium, spent the night in Fort Worth last night.

The team, after lunching in Clarendon, arrived between two and three p.m. today.

Coach Clifton McNeely and his assistant, Terry Cullley, and the team co-captains, Jimmy Bond and Jon Oden, responded to the reception given them upon their return.

The Harvesters, in defeating Austin in the finals, finished their first unbeaten season in history of the school with 28 straight victories. The 25th straight win for the Harvesters came in the state tournament when they defeated Stephen F. Austin of Houston, 45-37, Friday night, in their tourney debut.

Representatives from the Board of Education and the city were on hand for today's reception.

The Harvester Booster's Club, which has backed the Pampa cagers this winter, will conduct its final meeting of the season tonight in honoring the newly crowned champs.

Only with such approval, the chairman continued, can contacts with potentially participating drive organizations be begun. Previously, such contacts had been on an informal basis.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Other survivors include his sister, Deborah Lynn Pittman, with whom he lived; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Verdell Pittman, Fayetteville, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morris, Lufkin.

Special Legislation For Dam Holds Interest Of Officials

Mayor C. A. Huff, out of the hospital and still weak from the flu, had little to say this morning on the present status of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority bill now before the State Legislature.

It was plain, however, that the mayor was more interested in the special legislation authorizing creation of a master water district than in the decision handed down by the State Board of Water Engineers, okaying an election for creation of such a district under the general laws.

Five amendments have been tacked on the bill, four of them dealing mostly with clarification of definitions. The fifth, however, would empower the district to lay down rules and regulations on recreation.

Pampa Starts Work On Yardstick For Local Real Estate

Work of rewriting a basic yardstick for valuating commercial real estate started in Pampa this morning with the assistance of E.M. McDonald, chief commercial real estate appraiser for the city of Dallas.

McDonald, Aubrey Jones, city tax assessor - collector said, is here only in an advisory capacity to help us work out a more workable yardstick in valuating commercial real estate. His findings and suggestions will be turned over to the tax advisory board.

The Dallas tax man is now on his vacation, Jones said. He will also be introduced to the city commissioners during tomorrow's City Commission meeting.

Monthly bills and library bills are on the commission's docket for approval.

Chamber Manager In San Antonio Meeting

E. O. (Red) Wedgeworth, Pampa Chamber of Commerce manager is in San Antonio today attending the Southwest executives of Chambers of Commerce conference.

Fear Political Tampering . . . Taft's War Probe Draws Senate Fire

WASHINGTON, March 9—UP—Senator Robert A. Taft's proposal for sweeping congressional investigation of the Korean war drew fire Monday from Senate Republicans and Democrats.

Democratic senators warned any such inquiry would open the door to political tampering with military strategy, and might give valuable information to the enemy. Influential Republicans, including Chairman William F. Knowland (Calif.) of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, agreed a general investigation of the stalemated conflict at this time "would not be possible."

A few GOP senators, however, decided with their party floor leader.

Taft made the suggestion Saturday after the Senate Armed Services Committee called Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and other defense military leaders for questioning Tuesday on Gen. James Van Fleet's report of serious ammunition shortages in Korea.

The Ohio senator said the inquiry might well be broadened to include the deadlocked truce talks, the prisoner of war problem, and other aspects of the 36-months old war.

Senator Homer Ferguson, (Rep., Mich.) a veteran of many congressional inquiries, said in an investigation of the Korean conflict, "particular care would have to be taken to keep Congress out of strategy matters of the conduct of the war."

Both Knowland and Ferguson said Congress' first task should be an examination of Van Fleet's "very serious charges that shortages persisted throughout his 23 months of command."

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), unsuccessful vice presidential candidate last fall, said Taft's proposal could lead to congressional tampering with military strategy.

"When you start out with a civilian trying to run a war you get yourself into a lot of trouble," he said.

Woman Files For Mayor In McLean

McLEAN (Special) — Politics, after being in the doldrums since Nov. 4, suddenly burst forth in the local city election to be held April 7.

In a last-minute filing, the name of Miss Ruby Cooke appears as a contender for the office of mayor, running against the incumbent, E. J. Lander.

Miss Cooke was an unsuccessful candidate for a place on the city council last year.

The race attracting the most entries is that of city marshal, an unsalaried job. There are four candidates for this job. John Sparks, incumbent, C.A. (Tex) Gentry, Luke Armstrong and Ike Kesse.

D. A. Davis, incumbent city secretary, has as his opponent, C. S. Rice, former justice of the peace. In the councilmen's slate, only two names are filed, those of (See WOMAN FILES, Page 2)

Short Session Seen For City Commission

Barring unforeseen last-minute developments and unexpected complaints, the City Commission should be finished with its agenda in almost record-breaking time tomorrow.

Due to come up are two ordinances on their final readings — the 1953 paving program, and annexation of 10 acres of land adjacent to the Lamar School.

Monthly bills and library bills are on the commission's docket for approval.

Little Girls Found Murdered

RAMAPO, N. Y., March 9—UP—Two girls, residents of an institution for children, were found murdered in a snow covered field and police said Monday the killings were the work of a sex fiend.

The victims were Marjorie Boudreau, 9, and Esther Nagy, 5, who lived and attended school at a home operated by the Edwin Gould Foundation for Children. Their bodies were found late Sunday. Autopsies will be performed Monday.

Police said Marjorie's father, Fred Boudreau, Staten Island, was arrested recently on a charge of felonious assault and released under $1,000 bail. The complaint was brought by his wife.

Esther's father, Brown Nagy of the Bronx, a plumber, collapsed when told of his daughter's death. Marjorie's body was discovered at dusk in a snow covered field on the school's 150-acre estate near Spring Valley, N. Y., by two young boys. Her head had been battered in, apparently with a stone. There were marks near her throat and police said she apparently had been raped.

State police, volunteer firemen, townpeople and local law enforcement authorities joined in a search the boots belonged to the killer, the lake the year-round.

Lions Club Plans Rehearsal Tonight

This third rehearsal for the 1953 Lions Club Musical, April 2-5, is slated at 8 p.m. today in the Palm Room, according to Ed Myatt, production business manager.

Bunny Shultz, director, requested all persons interested in singing in the chorus, both men and women, be present.

General admission tickets for the show, to be staged in the Junior High School auditorium, are now on sale from all members of the Lions Club.

Officers Seek New Clues In Canadian Poker Game Killing

Hemphill County officers and Texas Rangers today were making a full investigation of the Canadian poker game which dealt death to a Sanford surveyor.

Found beaten to death early Sunday morning in Canadian's first murder in history — first in Hemphill County since 1919 — was Arthur Bernard Smith, who had been working in Canadian.

Smith's body was discovered in the home of Hollis Spiller, Canadian optometrist, where the game had been in progress, by two men who dropped in about 3 a.m. to join the game, officers said.

Luther (Goatcye) Welch and Ray Mowles told officers they saw Smith lying on the living room floor, beaten around the head and either dead or dying.

Smith was dead when officers arrived on the scene. Both his pants and shoes were off.

Today investigating officers were working on the theory that Smith had been attacked in the kitchen and dragged into the living room, officers were quoted as saying.

Spiller, who told officers he went to bed before the party ended, was found asleep in another room — by Bill Rich, Canadian photographer called to make official pictures of the death scene, when he backed into another room to make a long-range shot and sat down on the bed and Spiller.

Having been awakened, Spiller told officers of the game.

Though there was a wet mist in the air this morning and it did rain some Sunday, only a trace (less than .01 of an inch) was recorded at the KPND transmitter, east of town.

Local temperatures have not varied much in the past day or so.

From a low reading Sunday of 35 degrees, the mercury climbed to 49 in the afternoon, only to settle back to 33 early this morning.

At noon today Pampa's thermometer read 43 degrees.

Elsewhere, the United Press reported rain fell all through West Texas in varying amounts. The upper Panhandle, where wheat was (See RAIN, Page 2)

Rain Clouds Tease Panhandle Farmers

Panhandle farmers and stockmen looked hopefully today for their share of the crop-saving rains, which, in some parts of the state, have been measured in excess of 4 inches.

Jubilant residents of the San Angelo area today were calling their 4.60 inch downpour a "million-dollar blessing."

But in the Panhandle, where wheat is turning yellow because of lack of moisture, only a trace of moisture — not enough to measure — had fallen by mid-morning.

A heavy bank of clouds, however, held out promise of more rain for the thirsty wheat and rangeland.

Violence Toll Heavy In State

By UNITED PRESS — Eight persons were killed in automobile accidents at Amarillo and Denton Saturday, the two biggest contributors of a Texas weekend casualty toll which soared Monday toward 30.

At least 27 persons died in accidents or by violence. Traffic accidents alone claimed 17 victims.

Four persons — including three members of a Ringling, Okla., family, were killed in a shattering two-automobile collision about 1 a.m. Saturday on U.S. 66, some 14 miles west of Amarillo's city limits.

A Texas Highway patrolman described the wreckage of the two cars as "one of the worst messes I've ever seen."

Near Denton Saturday night, one person was killed and three others fatally injured in a two-automobile collision on U.S. 377 about 10 miles south of town. Three of these victims also were members of the same family — a mother and two of her children.

Two Others Killed Two other one-car accidents each killed two persons.

Thomas Ledezma, 64 and his four-month-old grandson, Manuel Reyes Jr., both of Fort Worth, were killed Sunday in a one-car accident near Alvarado, Tex.

Two Boerne, Tex., youths, John David Sells, 20, and Roger H. Norris, 18, were killed at 3:25 a.m. Sunday when their automobile smashed at high speed into the Bexar-Kendall county line sign on U.S. 87 about four miles south of Boerne. Texas highway patrolman said Sells, the driver, apparently went to sleep at the wheel.

Burglars Loot Lake Boat House During Week End

Sheriff's officers today were investigating a break-in of the Lake McClellan boat house from which burglars took two cases of radios — and left a television set.

Burglary occurred sometime between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. Sunday, Sheriff Rufe Jordan figured.

Also taken in what "looks like a kid-job," Jordan said, were several fishing reels, six or seven lifejackets, three cartons of flashlights and three cartons of flashlight batteries.

Left behind was an estimated $1,500 worth of television and radio equipment.

Entrance to the boat house, the sheriff continued, was gained by prying off the rear door of the building.

Report of the break-in came from Mrs. DuWood Kilgo, who lives at the lake the year-round.

Sees Peaceful Co-Existence Of East, West

MOSCOW, March 9—UP—Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov speaking at the funeral of Josef Stalin, said Monday his new government's policy was peaceful co-existence for capitalism and socialism. But he warned of Russian armed strength and praised Communist Asia's fight "for independence."

"In the sphere of foreign policy our main care consists of not permitting a new war and in living in peace with all countries," Malenkov said in his first statement on foreign and domestic policy.

He said Russian friendship with China and all the countries of the peoples democracies was "indestructible." He praised the battles for "freedom and national independence" being waged by the North Koreans and Vietnamese.

Malenkov was followed on the rostrum of Lenin's tomb by his minister of security and interior, Lavrenti P. Beria. He said the Russian people approved government changes which made Malenkov chairman of the council of ministers—premier—and head of the Communist party.

Stalin was buried in a great demonstration of grief and sorrow. The body of the former premier was placed alongside that of his teacher Lenin in the red and black marble mausoleum in Red Square. The Russian nation paid a tribute of reverent silence to its dead leader.

Stalin's coffin was borne into the mausoleum and placed beside Lenin's exactly as planned. Then came a mighty thunder of guns in a last salute to the late commander-in-chief of the Soviet armed forces.

Men, women and children wept in the flower-banked square and in streets along the route from the hall of unions, as the guns sounded a hero's farewell.

County Schoolmen Planning To Attend School Convention

A District 9 Teachers Conference is slated to convene at 9 a.m. Friday in the Amarillo High School auditorium, according to B. R. Nuckols, Gray county schools superintendent.

Schools from the 26-county Panhandle area (comprising district 9) will not be in session that day.

Attending from Gray County will be all school superintendents, principals and teachers.

And presiding at the conference is to be W. B. Harris, Groom school superintendent and president of Texas State Teachers Association District 9.

The Phillips School band is to play a concert at the morning session. Ray Robbins conducting.

Feature speaker of the morning session is to be Dr. T. M. Stinnett, teachers education and professional standards national committee executive secretary, Washington, D.C.

Also scheduled to talk is Dr. E. T. McSwain, dean of education of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Various luncheons are slated at noon followed by meetings of the various teaching sections (i.e., music, administrative, business management, elementary language, homemaking, library, science) at 2 p.m.

A second general session is to begin at 7:45 p.m. in the High School auditorium headed by J. H. Fishera, Amarillo school teacher and vice president of the district.

Dr. E. B. Norton, State Teachers College president, Florence, Ala., is to give a talk and the Amarillo Symphony is to present a program.

4-H Council Meets Here Today

A 4-H Council meeting is slated at 7:30 p.m. today in the Home Demonstration office, according to Bill Goldston, assistant county agent.

Final plans are to be laid for the county-wide 4-H party at 8 p.m. March 16 in the American Legion Hall.

OFFICERS

The Hoovers and Mrs. Woodward were questioned today by officers, but Woodward was still missing late this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover told officers that they left the Spiller home. Mrs. Woodward said she and her husband left soon after the Hoovers.

After dropping her off at home, Mrs. Woodward continued to officers, Woodward drove off and she did not know where he had gone.

At the Spiller house — he both lives and works on the premises — officers found no sign of a struggle.

The poker cards and box of poker buttons (apparently used for poker chips) were neatly stacked on top of the refrigerator in the kitchen.

But the death weapon — believed to be a heavy blunt instrument — had not been found late this morning.

Smith had been struck five times about the head, officers reported. A blow at the base of the skull is believed to be the cause of his death.

Smith, 58, lives at Sanford, where his wife is a school teacher, but for several years he has done surveying for Hemphill County and several other counties of the Eastern Panhandle.

Sheriff Clyde Risley, who is leading the investigation, said Smith often stayed with Spiller when in Canadian.

Risley is being aided in the investigation by Texas Ranger Kelly Rogers and by Sheriff E. J. Tarbox of Lipscomb County.

Smith's body is at Stickley Funeral Home, Canadian.

(Continued from page one) argument that such united drives often fail. Steele pointed out that in 1951 more than 1,600 community chests over the nation reached 85 per cent of their goals — "which sort of cuts down the argument."

Local organizations whose officials told Fund Organizers Dr. J. B. Veale Jr. and Clinton Evans that they would go along with such a catch-all fund drive were the Red Cross, Heart Fund, Cancer Society, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and the United Service Organization (USO).

Long exception was the March of Dimes which is forbidden by its national charter from participating in such a united drive.

RAIN

Dalhart reported 16 of an inch — not enough to penetrate deep into the ground, but probably enough to put a little more life into crops. Amarillo had .13, Midland .58, Junction 1.18, Marfa .20, Big Spring 1.74, Abilene .37, Dallas .26, Waco 1.04, Del Rio 1.60, Fort Worth .38, Presidio .35, Mineral Wells .32.

Continues to Fall
The rain was spotty, but was still falling intermittently at many points Monday morning.

Points with rain below one-tenth of an inch were Austin, El Paso, Houston, Laredo, Victoria, Wichita Falls, College Station, Galveston, Cotulla and Childress. But the forecast indicates all points may expect more showers Monday.

The cloud cover which brought the rain was general over the state. The forecasts called for mostly cloudy weather with occasional rain.

Temperatures over the state were mild. Dalhart reported the overnight low of 38 and Laredo had the high minimum of 67.

Other overnight temperature reports included 50 at Big Spring, 65 at Brownsville, 43 at Dallas, 59 at Houston, 52 at San Antonio, 48 at Waco, 53 at Beaumont, 65 at Corpus Christi, 63 at Victoria, 46 at Wichita Falls, 52 at Texarkana, 42 at Childress, 39 at Midland, 41 at Marfa and 49 at Tyler.

Crops Get Relief
Although none of the rainfall reports were of drenching proportion, with the possible exception of the San Angelo region, most points received enough to give crops a new lease on life.

The Soil Conservation Service at Fort Worth has called the present drouth the worst since rainfall records were kept. The wheat crop in the Texas Panhandle has already been cut more than half by lack of moisture, and even the wheat which came up during the past winter was in from fair to poor condition.

In addition, the service said moisture content of the soil over much of the state was too low for germination of spring-planted crops — including cotton, one of the foundations of Texas farm prosperity.

Rainfall in West Texas was also expected to help livestock producers who have been forced to sell a large portion of their herds because of poor pasture and lack of sufficient drinking water for the cattle.

WOMAN FILES

Filing deadline was March 7 and all candidates were required to sign a "loyalty oath" and file their names in person.

There are no names filed for places on the McLean School Board which must elect three members. The terms of Guy Beasley and Clyde Andrews are expiring and a replacement for J. W. Carter who resigned about the first of the year. The deadline for filing for this election is March 25 and the election will be held on April 4.

Poll tax payments were only about half of the number paid in 1952 and it would appear that voting in both of these elections will be very light. Approximate voting strength is about 300 compared to about 700 for last year.

Printers Meeting Stated
AUSTIN, March 9-UP—Austin Local No. 138 will be hosts to the Texas Typographical Conference to be held here next Saturday and Sunday. Approximately 150 delegates are expected at the convention. Attorney General John Ben Sheppard will be a principal speaker.

MALENKOV

"Under the direct leadership of Comrade Stalin the Soviet Army was created and strengthened," Malenkov said.

Under Stalin, he said, "A mighty camp of peace was set up — including China, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania, Albania, the German Democratic Republic and the Mongolian People's Republic."

Malenkov also paid tribute to the Communists of North Korea and French Indo-China.

"In a stubborn battle the heroic Korean people are defending the independence of the motherland," he said. "A courageous fight also is being waged for freedom and national independence by the people of Viet-Nam."

Farewell, Comrade Stalin
He said the Soviet's efforts for the cause of peace were inseparable from the cause of peace of the world over.

"There are no forces in the world which can stop the forward movement of the Soviet society toward Communism."

"Farewell our teacher and leader, our dear friend, our Comrade Stalin."

Forward along the road to complete victory of the great cause of Lenin and Stalin."

Malenkov said in Stalin's death "all humanity has suffered a most grievous and irreparable loss."

Red Square Forest of Flowers
Red Square was a veritable forest of flowers flown in from the Soviet Union's subtropical areas.

The walls of buildings along the route the funeral procession followed from Hunters Row and the Union House to Red Square was banked with white and red roses, tulips and mimosa and narcissus. The weather was below zero and an icy silence covered the entire capital. It was broken only by thundering artillery — fired in Moscow and 23 other cities. The artillery were the guns used in the Soviet defense of such cities as Stalingrad, Leningrad and Odessa during World War II.

Hildegard Credits Sincerity As The 'Why' Of Her Success

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, March 7-UP—Hildegard has confessed she can't sing or play the piano, but her "sincerity" has made her one of the top hotel supper club singers.

The "why" of her lasting success is the subject of debate over medium-rare by many a hotel patron across the country.

To an ex-small townner like myself, Hildegard is the symbol of sophistication, especially in those ads that bill her as "The incomparable Hildegard," with her arms thrown above her head. But when you get around to viewing this phenomenon, as she says, it's "warmth" that gets her across.

Speaks in CAPITALS
"Oh, I can't really play and I have no voice. But I want the audience to be HAPPY," exclaimed Hildegard, who speaks mostly in capital letters. "I LOVE the feeling of being CLOSE to them. YES, dear, I do."

Hildegard's charm wears well, for she's been a fixture in New York hotels for nine years since an orchestra leader discovered her singing in Florida. She also tours other cities; her engagement at the new Statler Hotel here has been sold out.

She even has been honored by imitations from nightclub mimics. Mitz Green, for one, does a hilarious copy of Hildegard, complete with long gloves, flowing handkerchief, upswept hairdo, the roses she flings into the audience and her usually cheery greeting to the man of the spotlight, "Yoo hoo, Mister Alec Triclan'."

"Imitators Are Wonderful!"
"Those imitators are so wonderful," beamed Hildegard. "They're more like me than I am."

Don't Hang On To Useless Clothes

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

If you're a teen without a "thing to wear," maybe it's because you actually have too much. Does your closet confuse you when you look into it and your bureau drawers offer no inspiration?

Perhaps it's time to take an inventory with paper and pencil of each dress and suit, each skirt and top that you own, and the accessories you have to wear with them.

List colors of each item and the condition each is in. When you read over the list, maybe you'll find the answer to your wardrobe dilemma—a rainbow of colors and many garments in disrepair or too worn out to be of use.

Arrange a time to put the repairable garments in first-class condition—all spots and soil removed, all sewing jobs completed. Give away unwearable, outgrown or unbecoming clothes, and let your mother have the worn-out garments for cleaning rags.

Now your wardrobe should have breathing space. It's better by far to have fewer clothes that you can select from quickly and intelligently when it's time to dress.

As for color confusion, eliminate from your wardrobe the color mistakes you've made. Put away in storage good colors that go with nothing else. You may have a use for them another year. Resolve in the future to buy no colors that won't go with the basic ones of your wardrobe.

Manners Make Friends

Anyone can write a good personal letter who will remember these four points:
One. Write as you would talk. Two. Be cheerful and enthusiastic. A letter shouldn't be an account of all the dreary and tragic news you can think up. Three. Have the letter you are answering before you as you write, so that you can answer questions and comment on the news in that letter. Four. Don't put off answering a letter so long that you don't know where to begin with your news and so end up by saying practically nothing except that you've been terribly busy. The best letter writers are the ones who write most often, for they give the everyday news. And that, after all, is exactly what friends and family want to hear.

Tips For Tasks

If you have trouble making nice brown gravy try this little trick. Take an old spoon filled with granulated sugar and hold it in the flames on the stove until it burns and gets black. Stir this into the gravy and it will become an appetizing brown color. This will not flavor the gravy in any way.

UN Resolution Hits Free Enterprise

Action by the United Nations General Assembly in adopting a resolution approving nationalization of economic resources by member states has impaired the outlook for the economic development of the "free world."

"The Guaranty Survey," monthly publication of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, had this to say:

"The resolution does not contain a word in defense of private enterprise. It does not mention the rights of private investors who have risked their savings in the development of such resources. It says nothing about the sanctity of contracts or the long-established principles of international law. It depreciates any action by a member state to uphold the rights of its nationals against the confiscation of investments made in good faith.

"It is unfortunate that this action has come at a time when the need for large-scale international investment and the obstacles to it are exceptionally great. Ever since World War II it has been apparent that many underdeveloped countries are eager to raise their standards of living by expanding and modernizing their economies.

"It was evident from the beginning that technical assistance could be made fully effective only by substantial foreign investment.

"Modern productive equipment, as well as 'know-how,' was needed. Almost alone among the advanced industrial nations, the United States was in a position to supply equipment in large quantities.

Throughout history, economic enterprise has involved the use of credit. For countries with little industrial equipment and low productive capacity, this means foreign credit. Only with the aid of foreign capital and foreign technical knowledge can progress be achieved with reasonable rapidity.

The economic development of the United States took place in this way. Beginning in colonial times and extending through the nineteenth century, large amounts of foreign capital were invested here. Only within the last forty years has the United States emerged from the status of debtor nation. Now the situation is, to some extent, reversed.

Capital flows to borrowers with acceptable credit standing. Investors require a fair opportunity to earn a profit, and the right to bring the profit home. They need a political-economic climate in which contracts are performed and private rights are respected.

The effect of the resolution adopted by the United Nations Assembly must be to make worse an international investment climate that is already bad. The chief victims of this ill-advised action will be the economically retarded countries that voted for it.

Morse And The ADA

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the one man party, made a speech to the Washington chapter of Americans for Democratic Action, gathered to honor the sainted memory of Mr. Roosevelt, and said that "reaction" represented by the Eisenhower administration necessitated a new party alignment.

Morse may have been feeling lonely and looking for somebody to join him. He found nothing but "gutless liberals" in the senate when there were "liberals" at all. Walter Reuther, the labor potentate, joined Morse in viewing dorkily the "reactionary beauties" around President Eisenhower.

It is true that the new President has rounded up a number of representatives of business for executive posts. Some of them represent corporate affiliations usually known as "big business." It is practically inevitable that the Morges and Reuthers should call them "reactionaries." "Reactionary" is a stock term in the vocabulary of the wild-eyed apostles of social and economic change, who in general have found that the word tends to intimidate gentlemen who might make good sense in government if they did not score so easily.

Certainly this country would welcome the return of a large measure of conservatism and common sense in government, but whether it gets it is something else again. Just because a number of men whose business outlook is conservative and who should respect financial orthodoxy have been installed in positions of high responsibility in government is no assurance that they will live up to what people expect of them.

Government has a strange way of infecting these types with some subtle virus which tends to cause them to forget every method of procedure and habit of thought familiar from their past business practice. They are so afraid of being considered "reactionaries" that they sometimes set out to outdo the "liberals." If Sen. Morse has his "gutless liberals," others are familiar with "gutless conservatives."

We trust that the Eisenhower administration will muster the courage to live up to the billings given it by the A.D.A. We will take some conservatism, a lot of tax reduction, much shrinking of government, more modesty and humility in the executive, less reaching out for new administrative territory and more power, less pretension for omnipotence, and a great deal more respect for the rights of a free people, and we don't care whether the A.D.A. calls it "reaction."

If Mr. Eisenhower and his former business men start to buckle at the knees and prove to the New Dealers and the A.D.A. that their fears were unfounded, then we will agree that it's time for a new party alignment. The party that will be needed will be one that gives impetus to the yearning of millions of citizens that an administration elected to be conservative will, in fact, be so.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Blueprint For Freedom"

I am continuing to quote from Clarence Manion's address on "Blueprint For Freedom," which he delivered before the 65th Annual Convention of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association in Chicago:

"Now, let's go to the third cornerstone. Here is the third self-evident truth. We hold this truth to be self-evident that 'all men are endowed,' it says. Not by Truman or Stalin or General Eisenhower or the Bill of Rights. No, all men 'are endowed by their Creator' with certain unalienable rights. Among these rights are life, liberty and the right to pursue happiness. These things are God-given to each person at the time of his creation.

"We will all admit that life is important. Murder is a heinous crime. But what about liberty? It says here that liberty and life are equally important. God gave you liberty, too, and that is also unalienable. Liberty like life is an unalienable attribute of the human being.

"Here now finally is the fourth cornerstone, and here we find more confusion than anywhere else. Here the specifications for the Republic mention government for the first time. What is government for? Where does it come from? Well, it says right here. 'To secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.'

"Government, in other words is a tool fabricated by man for the purpose of preserving God's gift to man. Men are God-made. Rights are God-given. Equality is before God and the law, but government is made by man. Government is propelled by man. Government is financed by man. Government is created by man as man's appliance for the preservation of God's gifts.

"Now we brush the drawing-board clean of all the superstitious ideas that resulted from it. Here are the basic principles of Americanism. These are the things without which the Republic will not stand because here are its supporting cornerstones. Here are the concepts that must be burned into the consciousness of the American people before you shall be free from the debilitation of socialism, statism and communism. Of first necessity is the proper popular conception of what government was designed to do and what government therefore can be expected to do.

"Such an attitude is entirely unrealistic. When one is suffering from a serious disease, he must be operated upon to get well—but the operation itself is painful. When one is suffering from the drug habit, he must 'take the cure' in order to get over it—but the cure isn't pleasant.

"So it is with the financial jag we have been on for the last twenty years. We now have an administration which is apparently trying to effect a cure for our economic ills—a cure that we must have if we are to regain a sound economy—but there are some who are already hollering about the taste of the medicine. As the medicine is doled out to others, we shall no doubt hear more hollering. We may even reach a point where there are more people hollering than not hollering—or at least where those who are hollering are doing so in such an organized, effective manner that we shall abandon the use of the medicine and go back to our state of chronic economic illness. Should such be the case, we had then just as well abandon hope of survival as a strong nation. Look at France!

The illustration most immediately at hand and most in the public eye right now is the farm price situation. The farmers' share of the national income has been declining somewhat in recent months, a thousand uses for which it wasn't designed, then American government is going to be destroyed.

There are apparently a thousand people who think this nation can get back on a sound economy without causing anyone any inconvenience.

Such an attitude is entirely unrealistic. When one is suffering from a serious disease, he must be operated upon to get well—but the operation itself is painful. When one is suffering from the drug habit, he must 'take the cure' in order to get over it—but the cure isn't pleasant.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHEENEY BOLTON

Just about the last place you'd expect to find a Lieutenant Commander is in grand opera. The most skilled detective in the world assigned to find a ranking Navy officer, would think last of looking up a performance of "Lakme." But that's how it works out. I found the prettiest Lieutenant Commander I ever saw rehearsing "Lakme."

It's hard to tell where to begin this. You could begin, probably, in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, where Helga Elizabeth Karpelien was born, the daughter of a riveter working for Bethlehem Steel. Pop was born in Russia and when the revolution moved in, he moved out, back there around 1917 or 1918, when the Soviets hadn't become the menace they are now but were trouble enough. Karpelien wanted no part of the Reds.

Over here, he got a job with Bethlehem and it may be of interest to know what kind of people they are. The Karpelien's Pop had had his job for 30 years. No drinker, no malcontent. A solid citizen with a family to raise and a job to be fixed.

Back in 1938, Helga, out of high school, decided to become a nurse. She went to the hospital at the University of Pennsylvania and in three years she was a nurse. By then the war tension was strong enough to send her to the Navy people: did they need a young registered nurse as an ensign? They did. It was September, 1941, and in December Helga was glad that she was in uniform. They shipped her out to Hawaii and she soon was assigned to the First Marine Division. War nurse stories are, alas, a dime a dozen. But if you know what the First Marines went through all across the Pacific, you know that Ensign Karpelien saw some fairly disturbing sights in the wards. The war wound slowly on and the Ensign rose slowly up through Lieutenant J. G. to Lieutenant and when the sun began to rise for us in the Pacific, she was sent back to San Francisco and promoted to Lieutenant Commander. Not only because she was a fine nurse and had executive ability, which was true, but also because, without one hour of training of any kind in singing, she had become one of the strongest female forces in the Pacific. She had studied violin, at home. But in the Pacific she sang. She sang on ships, on the Solos, for one, a historic vessel. She sang on beaches and in wards, in Nissen and Quonset huts, in tents or at the fringes of the jungle. Anything she sang from jazz to operas, because she was a "sight reader," and could learn anything.

government must lend its weight to every round of wage increases requested by labor, regardless of increased production, or must guarantee every worker a fixed wage whether he earns it or not. Neither does it mean that the government must guarantee every business man a profit or very manufacturer an outlet at a good price for his production, or every banker a borrower for his money at a good rate of interest. And we can expect these groups to holler, too, if the return to a sound economy affects them adversely in any way.

The fact that most needs to soak in upon all of us right now is this: if we look to our government for security, then we have no security—for what the government can give us, the government can also take away. There is one thing sure—continually running to the government with our troubles would eventually more certainly destroy us from within than ever would aggression from without.

National Whirligig Like Retreat From Government Has Begun On Several Fronts

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower government has begun on several economic fronts where federal operations compete with a private enterprise. This disentanglement is one of the most significant but most unnoticed maneuvers of the new administration.

Although the beginnings are on a small scale as yet, they signify a determination to get rid of government holdings estimated to be worth from $10 billions to $25 billions.

Besides stripping several billions from the swollen public debt, the transaction will provide a new revenue source for the treasury and remove a constant threat and shadow from the nation's economy.

Most important, the disengagement operation represents a reversal of the New Deal-Fair Deal trend toward further federal encroachment on private, productive enterprise.

In the fields of power production and distribution, taxation and farm operations, it marks an attempt to decentralize the vast authority which Washington wrested from Congress and the states under emergency legislation enacted during the depression and World War II.

WARREN LINES FOR SALE—The federal barge line on inland waters, for instance, has already been offered for sale to private operators. Previous attempts to dispose of these properties since World War II have always been blocked by interested bureaucrats.

On the basis of a survey and report by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Eisenhower will soon submit legislation for disposition of 28 synthetic rubber plants, estimated to be worth $300 million. These are the last of 81 plants built after Pearl Harbor when the Japanese conquest of Southeast Asia cut off the supply of the natural product.

These factories, extending from Naugatuck, Conn., to Baytown, Tex., have been operated under lease arrangements by the nation's leading rubber companies. They earned $17 million for the government in fiscal 1952, and are expected to earn $45 million in fiscal 1953. Uncle Sam, of course paid no taxes on these profits as private owners would do.

RUM PLANT ON MARKET—Other federal holdings, including a tin smelter in Texas, a rum-making plant in the Virgin Islands and numerous World War II installations, will be put up for sale as soon as the necessary preliminary arrangements are made. All these government-owned enterprises have been money-makers in private hands.

The government's withdrawal from private industry is a more important step than is generally realized. It cannot be measured, alone from a dollars-and-cents standpoint.

As long as Uncle Sam remains in the rubber business, with the RFC formulating top policies, Washington dictates terms on prices, production totals, the amount of natural imports and many other particulars. Washington runs the show.

In short, the rubber industry becomes what Gov. James F. Byrnes calls a "galley slave of the ship of state." So does another industry similarly encumbered.

LAND-OFFICE BUSINESS—Cutting the government down to a smaller and less expensive size has become a land-office business since "Electric Charlie" Wilson, former defense mobilization chief, suggested wholesale disposition of federal holdings through out the nation.

Interior Secretary McKay announced the Truman-Chapman program for a near-monopoly of power production and distribution. Against valley authorities like TVA they will favor private development of federal-state contracts made after the Hoover Dam was inaugurated.

The administration's support of the states' claim to oil tideland has given Western members of Congress grandiose ideas. Sen. Hunt of Wyoming insists that the same theory be applied to mineral grazing and forest lands in the Far West. He has introduced a bill demanding their return to the states, or at least greater local participation in their operation and profits.

In short, Ike is staging a far greater disengagement maneuver than he ever did at Kasserine Pass in North Africa, or in the hedgerows of Normandy.

Farmer—Well, doctor, what's the matter with me?
Doctor—You aren't getting enough exercise. I recommend you spend the next two months in the city dodging automobiles.

Two travelers stood at a bar. One was doing most of the talking.
First—Yes, I arrived home one morning after midnight, and as I opened the door I saw a stranger kissing my wife. I closed the door softly and hurried out again. At 1 a.m. I returned. I opened the door softly—and there was the stranger still kissing my wife. So I went out again. At 3 a.m. I returned. Why did you keep going back into the street? Why didn't you walk straight into the room?
The talkative man frowned.
First—What? And have my wife catch me coming home at that hour?
Goodwin—George, who do you have that piece of cord tied around your finger?
Buddy—Grace put it there to remind me to mail a letter.
Goodwin—Did you mail it?
Buddy—No, Grace forgot to give it to me!

The Mrs.—Darling, that awful woman next door has a new fall dress just like mine.
The Mr.—Now, I suppose you want to go out and buy another one.
The Mrs.—Well, dear, it would be cheaper than moving.

It was at an auction of rare stamp collections that the policeman noticed the suspicious-looking character lurking in the shadows.
Officer—Come on, move along, buddy.
Man—I beg your pardon? I'm a philatelist!
Officer—I don't care what your religion is. You look suspicious to me, so move along!

quickly and easily. Also, she had a flair for languages.

In San Francisco, her Admiral decided this girl ought to be heard and he sent her to the San Francisco Opera Company. They heard her and she made her debut in "Lakme." Other operas followed, and then she came to New York because she had met and married a man she loved. He died just a year ago and left her with the kind of estate which will protect her for life. If she never sings again, anywhere, she will be all right in the cash department.

But with widowhood came renewed ambitions. She began studying this time. It had all been easy and a little fantastic, but she was sound enough in the head to know that you can't cut a swath in opera without training. You work hard and long and discouragingly and wearily and even then, sometimes, the second chance doesn't come. It is rare enough that the first chance comes. She had had her first chance and chucked it for marriage. Now her marriage was over and she was not really ready for a second. She is working night and day. She knows seven operas, which delighted San Francisco, is delighting exacting teachers in New York. The kind of teachers who don't fool around with misfits. They haven't time and don't need the tuition money. They pride themselves on sending their students into opera and won't compromise their reputations as tough teachers.

The second chance is here: she goes back to the San Francisco Opera Company next season. That's set. For a season. Then she wants to go to Europe and study more and perhaps sing at La Scala—if she asks.

She has not even thought of the Metropolitan Opera. I'll do it for her; I think you will hear Helen Carr, born Helen Elizabeth Karpelien, at the Met one day.

Life carries a double handful of luck for her.

The Doctor Says

By EDITH J. JOHNSON, M.D.

There are said to be nearly 800,000 people in the United States who suffer or have suffered epileptic seizures. Thirty years ago most of them would have become burdens on society; today more than three-fourths of them can play, work and live happily without serious difficulty.

Most cases of epilepsy begin before the age of 20. Although it is true that this disease has a liking for, and usually starts in, youth, it is no respecter of sex, race, creed or color.

About one person in every 200 is afflicted, but nearly one person in 10 has some abnormal electric brain waves which suggest that they too have a tendency toward epilepsy even if they never show recognizable signs.

Patients with a family history of epilepsy are potential carriers of the disease, but some patients who have convulsions do not show any sign of family pattern. An unfavorable ancestry seems to cause children to react to physical and perhaps mental injury with convulsions.

The usual convulsion of severe epilepsy is a frightening thing to see. It may occur at night, however, and without any knowledge on the part of the victim. When this happens, other signs are likely to be present so that some suspicion is raised and then proper steps can be taken to make a diagnosis.

Much research has been done on epilepsy and other forms of convulsions in recent years. This has brought forward several new drugs which are useful for many patients.

DIAGNOSE TAKES MONTHS—It is not always possible to pick the right drug at first, however, and it is said that an average of six months is required to select the best anti-convulsant preparation and the right dose.

Those afflicted with epilepsy should not engage in dangerous occupations, particularly with machines, but neither should they be denied employment or activity which they can readily do. Employers are rapidly learning that many victims of epilepsy can be employed entirely satisfactorily and the blanket stigma too often attached to this disease should be removed promptly.

Harvester Cagers Left Nothing To Be Desired On Their Play In State Meet

WITHOUT A DOUBT we got our biggest thrill, Saturday night, during our four years of turning out sports copy when the Hustlin' Harvesters walked off with the state championship at Austin.

Like most of the Harvester players themselves said after the game, "It was the greatest feeling I've ever had," holds true for us, too.

In many ways the odds were against the Harvesters winning over Austin in the championship game Saturday night. Mainly, Austin was playing before the home folk. An estimated 8,000 fans jammed the rafters for Saturday's game and we venture over three-fourths of that total were from Austin.

Of course the other one-fourth wasn't all from Pampa but the Harvesters did get the backing of the remaining fans, all of whom were out-of-towners or University of Texas students.

An estimated two or three hundred fans were from Pampa and believe me they let their presence be known all during the game and after each game when they swarmed on to the court to congratulate the team.

Another thing that pointed toward Austin before the title game was that their coach, the veteran Tony Burger, is bowing out of the Maroon basketball coach this season and his players were determined to give him a going away present with a state title.

And when the Austinites upset highly - regarded Poly of Fort Worth in the first round Friday night, it appeared as if the Maroons meant business.

But the Green and Gold charges of Clifton McNeely had other ideas of Austin winning the state crown. Each boy getting into the title game played his heart out for Pampa High School and as a result the Harvesters had their first state championship team.

We heard comment after comment during our three-day stay in Austin on what a terrific team the Harvesters had and how well coached they were.

That latter statement certainly needs to be brought out. "Who would have thought before the season started that the Harvesters, with only two returning lettermen back from last year, would march through the season unbeaten and nail down the state title?"

Well, even the most loyal Harvester fan would tell you that he or she didn't believe the Harvesters could do it.

So, Coach Clifton McNeely of the Harvesters gets our vote for the "Outstanding high school basketball coach for 1953." And, if a poll were actually taken on the school the first state basketball title with a 61-47 win over Austin High School Saturday night.

BOND GETS POSSESSION - Jimmy Bond, Harvester center, wins the scramble for the basketball during the first-half of the state championship high school cage tilt Saturday night pitting the Pampa Harvesters and Austin Maroons in Gregory Gym on the University of Texas Campus at Austin. Making a desperate bid for the ball is John Shafer, No. 21, of the Maroons. Looking over Bond's shoulders and ready to lend aid is Harvester Fred Woods. The Harvesters won the game and the state crown, 61-47.

McNeely will review the entire tournament for the club members. The Harvesters, in their first round game at the tournament, defeated Stephen F. Austin of Houston, 68-37.

All sports fans are urged to turn out for tonight's meeting which may be the last club meeting for the year. The meeting will be held at the Sam Houston auditorium, beginning at 7:30.

1953 State Basketball Tournery Rated As Most Successful In Texas History

AUSTIN, March 9 (UP) - A record turnout, combined with generous helping of top-flight play and several broken records put the 33rd Texas schoolboy basketball tournament in the record books Monday as the most successful in history.

Crowds which taxed Gregory Gym's 7,500 seat capacity saw Pampa take the Class AAAA championship, Beaumont South Park the AAA title, White Oak the Class A, Cayuga the Class B, and Bowie the Class AA championship for the third straight year.

All were first-time winners except Bowie and Cayuga. Cayuga won the Class B title in 1951 and whipped defending champion Big Sandy in the finals Saturday 50 to 46.

Scoring Records Topped
Pampa succeeded. Fort Worth Poly with a 61 to 47 win over Austin in the finals; Beaumont South Park replaced Alamo Heights with an 83 to 54 victory over San Antonio Edison; White Oak succeeded Dimmitt by beating Denver City 69 to 53; and Bowie bounced Dumas 81 to 44.

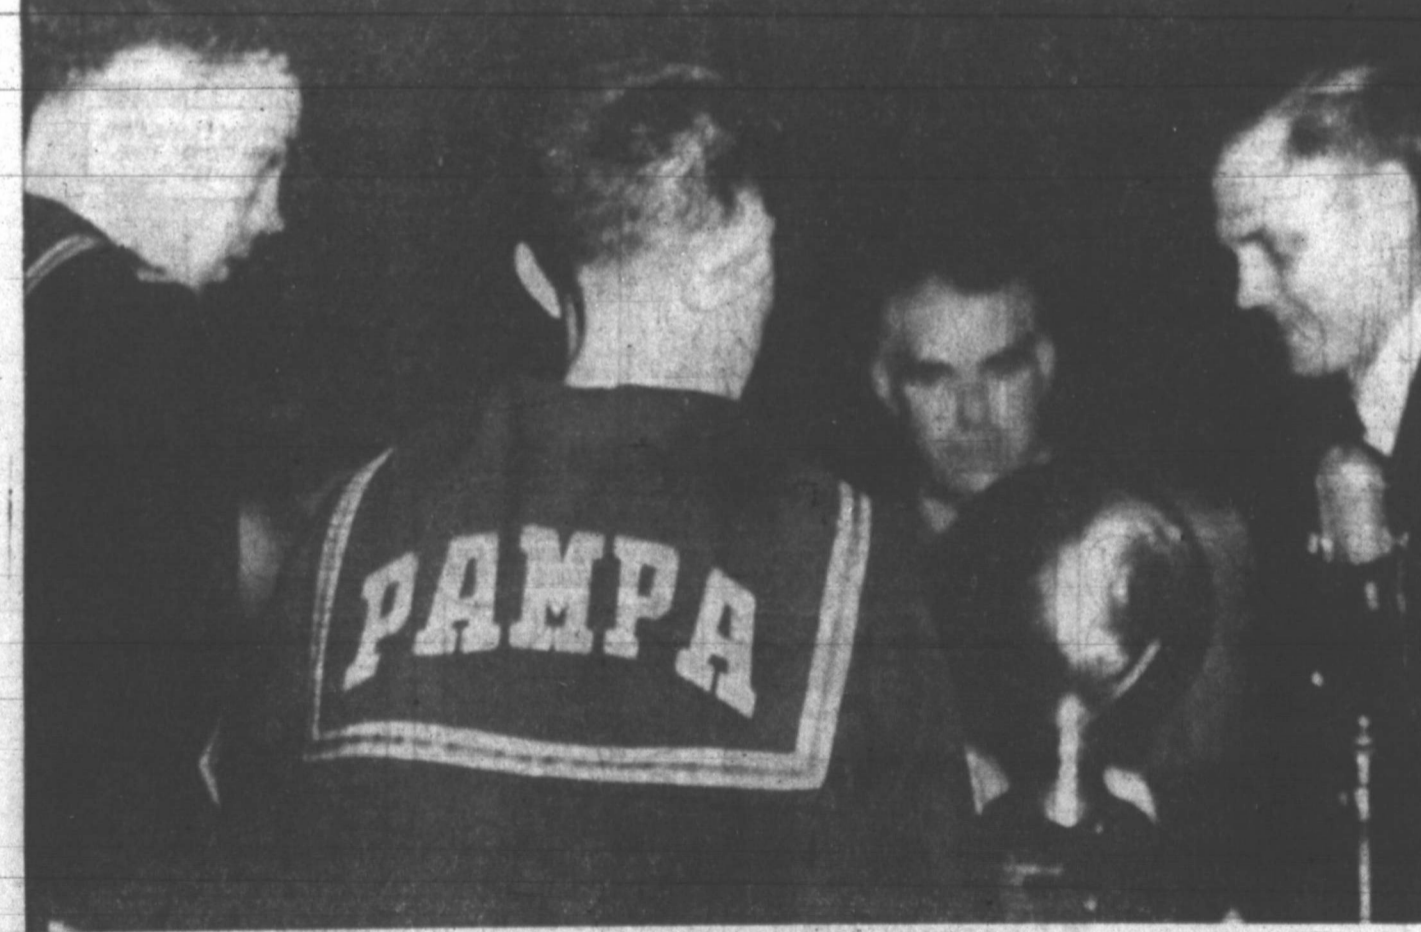

In the record department, Beaumont South Park's 83 points broke the single-game record of 81 that Bowie made against Dumas and the 77 point old record set by Amarillo in 1947 against Greenville. White Oak's 69 points against Denver City broke the Class A record of 62 held by Dimmitt last year and the White Oak-Denver City score total of 122 eclipsed the Dimmitt-Sweeny record of 108, set in 1952.

Cayuga Tallies 184 Points
Cayuga set a new series scoring record with a total of 184 points in three games, topping Hutto's record of 175 set earlier in the meet.

Hutto forward Kermit Decker set a new individual three-game scoring record with 79 points, breaking the old Class B record of 69 set by Kelly Duncan of Cayuga in 1950.

A new record for most points scored in one game was smashed as Houston Stephen F. Austin beat

MY, WHAT A TROPHY - That appears to be what Jimmy Bond, left, star Harvester center, is thinking here during the presentation ceremony immediately following the state title game at Austin Saturday night which saw the Harvesters down Austin, 61-47, for the 4-A crown. Bond and Jon Oden, to Bond's right, the Harvester co-captains, received the trophy from a Texas Inter-scholastic League official, Chancellor F. F. Hart.

Mat Tickets Put On Sale

Tickets for Tuesday night's wrestling show at the Southern Club Sports Arena that features Wayne Martin and Herb Parks will go on sale tomorrow morning at the Sportsman's Store.

Martin, appearing here for the third straight week in the feature role, is due to mix it up in another "knock - down and drag out affair." Martin has fought two "bloody" battles with Dory Funk the past two weeks.

While Funk is considered one of the "dirtiest" wrestlers in the game, Parks is a close challenger in this department.

The two men will grapple in a best of three falls or one-hour time limit.

Judo Jack Terry and Frankie Hart will clash in tomorrow's semi-final event. It will be the best of three falls or 45 minute limit.

Ace Abbott and Gust Johnson will open the program with a 20 minute preliminary match.

Famous Tubeless Tires Are Displayed At B. F. Goodrich

For the past six years the B. F. Goodrich Co. has been marketing a tubeless tire, the only one on the market today. This tire is called the Life Saver and is an answer to all three tire hazards. With the tubeless tire, you are safer from punctures, blowouts and skids. This tire may save your life, it can save you trouble and will save you money.

The tubeless tire seals its own punctures as you ride, with no loss of air! A gummy layer under the tread seals puncturing objects, plugs the hole permanently as object is removed.

The B. F. Goodrich tubeless tire changes blowouts to slowouts, and gives you time for a safe stop. Under blowout conditions, the Goodrich life-saver tire loses air slowly, instead of suddenly like a tire with inner tube. In case of damage, air is squeezed out slowly through a special patented lining. You have plenty of time for a safe, straightline stop. Your car will stop sooner on wet slippery pavements because the Goodrich tubeless tire has a new kind of tread with over 10,000 tiny "grip" blocks. In tests, the life-saver equipped car stopped a full car length shorter at 30 mph than auto with regular tires. Up to 40 per cent greater pulling power and 10 per cent increased tire mileage.

These tires will save you money in the long run, because they are serviced more easily, and are replaceable. Stop in at your B. F. Goodrich store, located at 108 S. Cuyler, here in Pampa, and look at the first in rubber products made by the B. F. Goodrich Co.

Since 1885, when B. F. Goodrich established the first rubber research laboratory in United States, a policy of continuous fundamental research has been followed. The latest achievement of the B. F. Goodrich Co. will bring more and better rubber products at lower cost to you. This new achievement is a development of a new lower cost process which makes "cold rubber" 50 times faster than current methods. This achievement is the result of 12 years research by company scientists.

Dean Monday stocks the famous Seiberling tires and tubes that insure the safety of all who ride in your vehicle.
