House Committee Slashes Truman Bill 60 Per Cent

Defense Dept. Hit Hardest By Spending Cut

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 — UP — The House Appropriations committee kicked off the Eisenhower administration's economy drive Monday by slashing $1,481,046,670 from a money bill originally totalling $2,313,719,590.

The 60 per cent cut in a request prepared by the Truman administration before the Republicans took over hit the Defense Department hardest.

Bulk of the savings resulted from complete elimination by the committee of $1.2 billion sought by the Defense Department to meet higher pay, subsistence, and other increased costs authorized, in large part, by the last — Democratic — Congress.

The committee directed the Defense Department to get such money as it needs to meet the new demands by dipping into funds already appropriated but not yet earmarked for some other purpose.

The committee approved a total of $905,672,920 in new money for various government departments and agencies. The money can be spent or obligated during the current fiscal year which ends July 1.

Chairman John Taber (R-N.Y.) of the appropriations committee told a reporter that the Defense Department already has all the money it needs to carry it through the remainder of this fiscal year.

"There is no reason to provide them the money they ask for in this supplementary bill," Taber said. "We know they can absorb these additional costs without new appropriations."

The committee said in its report that Defense Department officials admitted under questioning that their request "could in all probability be absorbed out of current funds."

Thunderjets Fire On Red Intruders

TOKYO, Feb. 16 — UP — American Thunderjets Monday fired on two warplanes believed to be Russian fighters violating the Northern Japanese border and drove them back toward the Russian-held Kurile Islands.

One of the Communist planes was damaged and limped back to its Soviet-held base.

Gen. O. P. Weyland, FEAF commander, said the planes had been identified as Russian-type LA-11 propeller-driven fighters. A spokesman said Weyland could not state officially the planes were Russian unless he had absolute proof, which he was unable to obtain.

However, the planes were a Russian-type and came from and retreated toward Russian held territory. They were intercepted over Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island the Air Force said and turned and ran back to the protection of Soviet held territory.

It was the first positively confirmed intrusion of foreign planes over Japan since the Japanese government warned the Reds Jan. 13 that U. S. jets guarding Japan would meet violators with bullets.

The two Thunderjets on a routine patrol over Northern Japan were guided by radar to Russian aircraft. Weyland said the interceptors closed in on the planes and identified them as Soviet LA-11s.

City Gets A Taste Of State's Worst Duster In 20 Years

Today dawned crystal-clear over Pampa and the Top o' Texas, following the state's worst dust storm in 20 years.

Pampa, however, only got a small taste of the yellowish, choking fog that started stripping the powder-dry soil from the Panhandle's fields and pastures Saturday.

Weather forecasters said the storm was the worst since the days of the Dust Bowl, when drought and wind nearly made a desert out of parts of West Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and New Mexico.

"Local mercury readings went from a low Sunday of 28 degrees to a high of 72 and by 11 a.m. today of 38 again. By 11 a.m. it had reached 40 degrees."

"According to the United Press, the entire state was scheduled to be able to see the dust and feel the wind blowing up to 35 miles an hour — by nightfall."

Elsewhere in the nation, New England got snow and the Midwest, high winds.

Veterans To Hold Benefit Barbecue

An open-house barbecue for all ex-servicemen, members of local organizations, and servicemen's organizations will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the American Legion-VFW Hall.

Net proceeds of entertainment following the barbecue will go to the War Fund, Paul Harris, club manager, said.

The barbecue will be prepared by Mrs. Brooks and will be served free to those attending the event, Harris added.

Junior Show Near Climax; Awards Due

The largest junior livestock show in the nine-year history of the big Top o' Texas show and sale neared an end today after judges selected a calf shown by Bob Clark, Miami, as grand champion and one shown by Joe Van Zandt, Mobeetie, as reserve champion.

The junior show was to be climaxed late today when the young stockmen and their parents were to be honored by the Pampa Kiwanis Club and the Agriculture Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Two banquets were scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Local Kiwanians were to honor 4-H club members and families in a banquet to be held in the First Methodist Church. Future Farmers of America (FFA) were to be guests of the Chamber of Commerce in the High School cafeteria at the same time.

Tonight Dr. D. D. Monroe, Clayton, N. M., was slated to be principal speaker when the Top o' Texas Heretford Breeders Association was to hold its annual membership banquet in American Legion Hall.

First placing in the Junior Livestock show was in the junior and senior swine classes when Homer Brumley, Hereford, performing judging duties, Sunday selected a pig shown by John Kramer, Skellytown, as grand champion and one shown by Butch Turgen, McLean, as reserve champion. Both championships fell in the senior divisions and will entitle the owner (See MIAMI, Page 2)

Growing Despite A Poor Year... Growth Of Jr. Livestock Show May Bring Changes In 1954

Directors of the Top o' Texas Junior Livestock Show today were considering two developments in the annual program, one of which may bring about a change in the make-up of a portion of the show.

First was the unusual growth of the junior division because of a poor year for stockmen and an uncertain and unstable cattle market.

The entire junior livestock phase of the Top o' Texas has shown a like increase, Carruth declared. "Uncertain conditions for stock raisers have been felt throughout the industry this year because of poor range conditions and an uncertain and unstable cattle market."

In spite of all this, the Top o' Texas livestock show has exhibited "outstanding growth," Carruth said.

Seamen Say Brawl Cause Of Murder

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 16 — UP — Federal authorities Monday studied testimony by six seamen who blamed a drunken brawl aboard the freighter SS Fairhope for the "apparent murder" of ship's steward, whose body was believed shoved through a porthole while the ship was at sea.

Seamen testifying before a Coast Guard Marine board of investigation Saturday said fights with a fire axe, a meat cleaver and boneing knife raged among crew members the night of Jan. 29.

That night the freighter's steward, Carl Thurmond, 36, was reported missing and the porthole in his cabin was found stained with blood.

Seaman Torlef J. Kismul of New Orleans said Thurmond apparently was murdered the night of Jan. 29 when he heard a commotion outside the mess room.

Kismul said he rushed outside and saw Thurmond and another crewman lying on the deck. Seaman Charles Burns was standing beside them holding a fire axe he had wrested from Thurmond, Kismul said.

Legislation providing for the tax cut was approved by the Ways and Means committee despite Mr. Eisenhower's statement to Congress two weeks ago that "until we can determine the extent to which expenditures can be reduced, it would not be wise to reduce our revenues."

In line with the Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said the tax-cutting bill would not be called up for action on the floor until a balanced budget is in sight.

Even if the bill passes the House in April or May, as Martin believes is likely, the measure still may never get through the Senate, which it would have to do before it could become law.

Senate Republican leader Robert A. Taft plainly indicated he believes tax reductions may have to be postponed until July 1, 1954.

Emphasizing the government "cannot afford" to turn up with an unbalanced budget next year, Taft said in a radio interview he "hopes" taxes can be cut earlier — he mentioned next Jan. 1 — but he said there "very definitely" should be a tax cut of at least 12 or 13 per cent by mid-1954.

RED ZONE OF DEATH

BERLIN Feb. 16 — UP — U. S. High Commission said Monday the Communists have moved to complete the isolation of the Allied sector of this divided city by creating a "zone of death" between western sectors and the surrounding Soviet occupied zone.

All the bodies found were transferred to the cutter Blackthorn, largest of the surface craft which had been criss-crossing the choppy crash area since dawn Sunday.

Identification of the bodies will not be announced until further search is called off and the Blackthorn makes port, the Coast Guard said.

Scouts Hold Fund Drive

Pampa's Boy Scouts kicked off their one-day fund drive this morning and the results were expected to be tabulated by 5 p.m.

And either Charlie Thur or E.E. Shelhamer, "colomels" in charge of the two divisions into which solicitors were named, was to receive a ride in a wheelbarrow at that time from the other from city hall to the LaNora Theater.

A gathering of 125 persons was on hand at 7:30 a.m. for the kickoff breakfast in the Palm Room, according to Paul Beisenherz, the Scouts' Adobe Walla Council executive.

At the affair there were a couple of gimmicks to help get things started.

Scott Hahn, Cub Scout, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hahn, 814 N. Somerville, was "auctioned off" for $10 to Purl Meaker, 949 S. Sumner. Troop 22 committee member (First Baptist Church), Scott is in Pack 14 (First Presbyterian Church).

And Shelhamer won a "pretty close" race — and a sack of chewing tobacco — from Thur in a duck-picking contest in which their fingers were first stuck in spit gum.

Whoever has his division bring the most contributions — not necessarily the biggest amount — gets the public ride this afternoon down Pampa's streets, Beisenherz said.

Featured, too, at the breakfast today were Sheriff Rufe Jordan's rendition of "I ain't Got Nobody"; Coy Palmer's piano-playing; and some quarter singing by Jimmy McCune, Bunny Schmitt, Cameron Marsh and Beisenherz.

"I was the discord," was Beisenherz's comment.

Bids On Hwy. 66 To Be Opened Tuesday

Bids for paving five plus miles of U. S. Highway 66, west of Alanreed will be opened tomorrow at Austin by the State Highway Commission.

The project calls for flexible base, structures and double asphalt-concrete surfacing for the five-mile stretch of the four-lane highway. Like the remainder of the highway running through Gray County, the new sector will have its four lanes divided.

The U. S. Coast Guard revealed a Navy jet plane was believed to have plunged into the Gulf a short distance west of the airliner's wreckage. Two Coast Guard cutters and two smaller patrol boats were joined by planes returning to the area at dawn for a combined search. Three cutters had crisscrossed the area nightlong.

Details of the reported jet crash were not announced immediately. A Coast Guard spokesman said many of the bodies recovered were so badly mangled he believed the plane must have plunged "with terrific impact" into the 15-foot waves lashing the Gulf at that time.

The plane was en route from Tampa, Fla., to New Orleans. Among those aboard were a former beauty queen, two members of the Polish diplomatic service, the former wife of a cartoonist, the wife of a New Orleans newspaper official, and a prominent Greenwich, Conn., utility company executive and his socialite wife.

E. J. Kershaw, National Airlines vice president, said investigation so far indicated "unexpected-tornado conditions" were to blame for the crash, Kershaw said there was no indication of mechanical failure.

The plane gathered its passengers at Miami and Tampa. Many of those aboard were believed planning to visit the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

Kershaw said there apparently

Zoning Board Slates Hearing Today On Eads Controversy

A Pampa Zoning Commission public meeting scheduled today was to deal with the rezoning of an estimated 110 acres of land in the southeast part of town — and a tiff between a poultry man and several nearby residents.

Get together was slated for 2 p.m. in the city commission room.

Since the last commission meeting, Jan. 28, letters have been sent out to each resident living either in one of the areas to be rezoned or within 200 feet of such an area.

Letters included descriptions of the areas to be rezoned and notification of today's meeting.

A controversy is being fought between H. G. Eads, 820 N. West, and Don Ealey, 312 S. Barnes, spokesman for nearby residents, developed in a city commission meeting Jan. 27 when Riley protested to commissioners that Eads was planning to build a chicken plant near his home.

As the area under discussion was "industrial," Eads had no trouble getting a building permit Jan. 26 from the city public works department, according to Roy Evans, director.

Fertile area — includes in that to be rezoned — is a triangular bounded by Tyng on the north, Barnes on the east, Grayson on the south and an alley — parallel to Starkweather — on the west.

Pampans' Relative Takes Entertainers On Korean Tour

A brother of two Pampans is planning to take his entertainment group to Korea.

Jess Willard, brother of Mrs. Amos Yates, 430 N. Davis, and Mrs. Jack Robertson, 443 Graham, will be overseas for two months.

A Capitol recording artist, Willard has in his show the Pine Ridge Slaters, Eddie Hazlewood, recording star; Billy Star, of "Grand Old Opera" fame, and the Saddle Kings.

Willard's latest release on Capitol Records is "Saturday Night For Love."

Father Of Pampan Dies In Stephenville

Funeral services for the father of a former Gray County attorney and judge have been scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday in Stephenville.

H. G. White, father of Sherman White, Pampan, died at 9:30 p.m. Sunday in Stephenville.

Burial is to be in Huckleberry, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman White, there for a visit, were present when Mr. White died.

Mr. White was born in Morganville.

Stephenville Funeral Home is handling the funeral arrangements.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Ira L. Ashler of Lamesa will make her official Pampa visit as grand chief of the Pythian Sisters of Texas this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Perkins were in Lubbock during the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Don Reed visited in Guymon, Okla., recently. Mrs. Bruce Francis of Vista, Calif., is visiting in home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Francis, 933 S. Nelson.

Baptist School To Open Today

The Group Training School, comprised of five Pampa Baptist churches and Baptist churches of Panhandle, White Deer, Skellytown and Lefors will start at 7 p. m. today in the First Baptist Church here. The week-long school is part of a statewide effort of Baptist churches covering classes on Bible, Missions, Evangelism, Doctrine, and Sunday School Methods for all age groups. An enrollment of 600 is expected from the nine churches participating. The statewide goal is expected to reach 60,000.

Bob Stroble, educational director of the First Baptist, who will conduct the school, said the local group will be broken down to 18 classes. Also on the agenda is a course of study for teaching children from ages four through 14. Stroble is being assisted by C. T. Aly Jr., of the Calvary Baptist Church and Paul Biggs of the First Baptist Church, Chester O'Brien, Central Baptist, will serve as secretary for the school. Pampa Churches participating in the school are First Baptist, Calvary, Central, Trinity and Hobart St. Mission.

The committee also allowed only $75,000 of a requested $350,000 for the President's emergency fund. Taber told newsmen that there is now $250,000 to $300,000 in this fund.
The committee's economy axe did not fall so heavily on Congress itself. The committee allowed $29,250—the full amount requested—for the purchase of 225 new swivel chairs for House members. Taber authorized the purchase of new cars—probably Cadillacs—for the Republican and Democratic leaders of the House.
The party leaders of the House do not now have government-owned automobiles at their disposal, Senate leaders do. Taber said the committee felt it had no alternative but to vote to give the House leaders government-owned cars.
The leaders affected in this case would be Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.), GOP leader, and Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, Democratic leader. Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., already has a car at his disposal.
The biggest cuts by the committee, other than in Defense Department requests, were $140,941,500 from a Veterans Administration request totalling $467,875,500, $32,137,000 from a request of $408,037,000 for the Federal Security Agency and Labor Department, and $20,020,000 from a total of $221,620,000 sought by the State, Justice and Commerce Departments.

RESERVE CHAMPION — Selected reserve champion of the Top of Texas Junior Livestock show today was this Hereford calf owned and showed by Joe Van Zandt, Mobeetie. Selection was made at 11 a.m. today culminating the youthful stockmen's show activity. It was to be second in the auction arena in the junior livestock sale which was to begin at 2 p.m. today. Band, Party Slated For High School

The students' events calendar for Pampa Senior High School is marked with only two more items this week outside of the Tuesday night basketball game with Borger.
Music by the Hardin-Simmons Cowgirl Band will be the main attraction for the entire student body at 1 p.m. Wednesday during the weekly assembly program.
Friday the annual Junior Class party will be held. Each of the juniors will be asked to come dressed in the costume of the profession of trade they hope to follow after finishing school.
Hours before basketball teams romp across the field house floor the building's rafters will echo to the sound of student cheering in a pep meeting rally at 9:40 Tuesday morning.
Jack Edmondson, high school principal, said the experiment of using the field house for basketball pep rallies is working a lot better than expected. "We can make more noise out there, too," Edmondson said.
The Hi-Y meeting Thursday night will consist mostly of a basketball game among the members in the field house, the principal added.

Ike OKs Yalta Agreement With Russia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—President Eisenhower acted Monday to make good on the GOP campaign pledge to repudiate the 1945 Yalta agreement with Russia.
Informed sources said plans for swift Congressional action on a resolution disowning Yalta's "secret concessions" were a main topic of discussion at Monday's (7:30 a.m.) White House legislative conference.
Chairmen of the Senate and House Foreign Relations committees were asked to sit in with the top Republican congressional leaders who regularly meet with Mr. Eisenhower on Monday to chart legislative programs.
The only question seemed to be what form the resolution should take. Congressional Republicans have been denouncing Yalta for years, and were ready to repudiate, all or any part of the agreement as the President wished.
Addressing Congress on Feb. 2, Mr. Eisenhower said he would ask for action repudiating "secret understandings of the past" which had resulted in the "enslavement of peoples." He did not elaborate before Monday's meeting.
There is no thought in administration circles that repudiation of Yalta would in itself free a single citizen of a Communist slave state.
Rather, it was seen as a move in the President's campaign of psychological warfare against the Kremlin, one which might help eventually in winning satellite states from Moscow's side.
It was at Yalta in February, 1945 that the late President Roosevelt, described by his friends as "Prince Swineherd," a dance-drama adapted from the Hans Christian Andersen story.

Rites Held In Canadian For Mrs. Annie Riley

CANADIAN (Special) — Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Riley, 89, were held at 10:30 a.m. today in the First Presbyterian Church with Rev. Carter McKenney officiating.
Mrs. Riley died at her home here at 2 p.m. Saturday after a long illness.
She is survived by one daughter, Mae Riley of Canadian, a nephew, Tommie C. Riley of Pecos, and one sister, Mrs. George Ficke of Amarillo.
Palbearers were Calvin Isaacs, Frank Cole, R. William Brown, Francis McQuiddy, Edward Brainard and H. B. Steele.
Burial was in Canadian cemetery under direction of Stickey Funeral Home.

Actress, Models Take Stand In Jelke Trial

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Two hand-writing experts, a blonde TV actress and a pair of shapely models were scheduled to take the stand Monday when the vice trial of Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke resumed.
Assistant district attorney Anthony J. Liebler said hand-writing experts would authenticate signatures on checks given party girl Pat Ward by her vice customers and allegedly double-endorsed by Miss Ward and the 23-year-old margarine heir. He said their testimony would virtually complete the portion of the state's case built around the 19-year-old Miss Ward's story that Jelke forced her into the life of a $500-a-week prostitute.
The heir to $3 million of a margarine fortune faced a possible sentence of up to 146 years, if found guilty on seven counts of an indictment charging him with compulsory prostitution and two counts involving him in a conspiracy to peddle the love favors of 11 night-club glamor girls and live off their earnings.
Liebler has lined up blonde Barbara Harmon, a TV actress who operated a call house on the side, for his next witness. She was to be followed by Marguerite Cordova, raven-haired hatcher and cigarette girl from Chicago, and Diane (Golden Girl) Harris, a Detroit model charged with not only making a fortune as a New York prostitute but answering love's call on an international basis.

And lower places in the senior division of the swine class went to entries by David Wilson, McLean, third; J. E. Rogers, Wheeler, fourth; and Alvin James Dauer, Pampa, fifth.
Junior division winners included pigs shown by Regie Barr, Wheeler, third; T. J. Weatherly, Wheeler, fourth; and Norman Warmski, White Deer, fifth.
Early activity in the show started off at 9 a.m. Sunday with the weighing in of all junior livestock at 9 a.m. by Ralph Thomas, county agent, Bill Goldstein, assistant county agent, and Paul Payne, Pampa High School vocational agriculture teacher.
Designated sale order in the pig division, placed by Brumley after the judging, brought the grand champion into the sale arena first, followed by the reserve champion and first-place winner in the junior division. Thereafter the swine were alternated between the junior and senior divisions according to numerical placing by the judges.

Winnie Ruth Judged Sane

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 16—UP—Trunk murderer Winnie Ruth Judd has been declared sane "within the meaning of Arizona law" in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed in superior court to free her from the Arizona State Hospital.
The petition, filed Friday, was expected to insure the sane hearing which Mrs. Judd pleaded for when she was recaptured after her sixth and last escape from the hospital, Nov. 27, 1952.
It found to be sane, she still would face commitment to the Arizona state prison. However, the State Board of Pardons and Paroles could cause her immediate release if the time she has spent in the hospital were credited to her sentence.
Judd had six classes, two of beef cattle, two of hogs, and two of sheep. In addition to the placing the students answered 10 questions on one class out of the group.
In the judging ring were Dr. M. R. Callahan, West Texas State College agriculture department head; L. A. Maddox Jr., Texas Tech; and Aubrey Crossland, WTSC agriculture department.
Quentin Williams was to announce all contest winners and award all prizes of the banquet tonight.
And winner of the $300 Frank M. Carr's Agriculture Scholarship award was to be presented at the livestock judging contest banquet which is to get underway at 9 a.m. Tuesday with the judging and placing of the order of the sale by H. A. Fitzhugh, General Manager, Straus-Medina Co., San Antonio. And closing out the record book is to be the auction at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday of 57 registered cattle consigned by area cattlemen.

The first official Japanese reaction came from Takejo Shimoda, chief of the foreign office treaty bureau, who said that since Japan asked the United States to defend it, "any responsibility is Japan's."
Asked if Japan would issue a new warning to Russia as a result of Monday's intrusion, another foreign office official, Yujiri Ieki, said, "it should not be necessary."

Committees Working On 3,000 Bills In Congress, Rogers Says

The House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee will hold its first discussion tomorrow since its organization under the 83rd Congress, Rep. Walter Rogers said in his weekly newsletter devoted entirely to listing committee meetings scheduled for this month.
The committee will hear several public land bills passed by the House last year, but not passed by the Senate. Rogers did not list any of the projects.
To date, Rogers reports, more than 3,000 bills have been introduced in the House during the 83rd Congress and about 875 in the Senate.
Meeting today, the House Ways and Means Committee will take up H. R. 1, introduced by Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.) which would cut income taxes by 5 1/2 per cent this year and 11 per cent annually thereafter. Since Reed is chairman of the committee it is highly probable it will be passed, but it must then get clearance from the most powerful of all committees—the House Rules Committee—where it can be held or killed by the committee refusing to clear it for floor action. Rep. Allen of Illinois, chairman of the Rules Committee, has been reported as saying Reed's bill will be held up until at least the first week in May.
The tidelands issue will be taken up tomorrow when the House Judiciary Committee hears witnesses on the question. Secretary of the Navy R. B. Anderson, of Vernon, Texas, will be attending the session, representing the Defense Department.
Other committee hearings listed by Rogers are: Senate Banking and Currency on Feb. 24; House Education and Labor, Feb. 17; Senate Labor and Public Welfare, first week in March. House Appropriations, no date. New administration bills, handled in amendments to ex-President Truman's budget.

Father-Son Banquet For Troop 14 Today

An estimated 100 persons are expected to be on hand tonight for the annual Father and Son banquet for Boy Scout Troop 14. New officers also will be installed at the affair, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.
Boys and fathers of both the troop and the post will be present, according to Garvin Elkins, Scoutmaster.
New officers are Robert Sidwell, scribe; Jay Baker, quartermaster; and Dick Elkins, treasurer.
A tie between John Nutting and Kenneth McWaters for the post of senior patrol leader will be resolved tonight and the winner installed.
Outgoing officers are Nutting, president; Fred Neelage, treasurer; and McWaters, quartermaster. Sidwell was reelected.

Burns Services Are Pending

Funeral arrangements are pending today for Ivan K. Burns, 36, of Skellytown, who died at 9 a.m. Sunday in Maxfield Clinic, Dallas. He since June, 1952, Mr. Burns had been in the hospital since Jan. 24.
Burial will be in Pampa.
Born near Ada, Okla., he was a gang-pusher, he was Skelly Oil Company and lived in the Skelly Camp, Skellytown.
Having attended school in Magic City, Mr. Burns moved from Kellerville to Skellytown about seven years ago.
He was a member of Skellytown's Baptist Church.

The Polish Embassy in Washington announced Mrs. Elenora Kurton-Kowicka, second secretary of the embassy, was a passenger on the plane. Another passenger was listed as Mrs. Rodmi Osman of the Polish Consulate in New York City.
Another passenger was Mrs. Alfred C. Bergman, sociologist of St. Petersburg, Fla., whose first husband was the late cartoonist Billy De Back, creator of the comic strip Barney Google.
Another aboard was Mrs. Nancy Rathbone, wife of J. C. Rathbone, director of the New Orleans Times Picayune and a prominent figure in Louisiana Republican affairs.
Also listed as passengers were Ebert F. A. Putnam, 61, of Greenwich, Conn., and his wife, Frenelia, 58. Putnam is president of the Greenwich Gas Co., the New Canaan, Conn., Water Co., and the New Rochelle, N. Y., Water Co.
Officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Civil Aeronautics Authority began immediate investigations and planned hearings to seek the cause of the crash.
The Coast Guard said the weather at the time the plane went down was extremely stormy, with high seas crashing 15 feet into the air and poor visibility.
Monday the seas were calm. The waves were only two to five feet high and there was only a light wind. Crews of the cutters pulled bodies and bits of debris afloat in nets.
Kersaw said the plane's four life rafts all were accounted for—three recovered and one lost while being recovered.
Faint SOS signals were reported heard Saturday night but they could not be located and it was not until early Sunday there was indication of the plane's fate.

POPULAR "HAMBURGERS"

The whole family loves ground beef! Mom finds it perfect for quick and easy dishes. Junior votes it tops in flavor; and Dad approves of the way it cuts down on the food bills. With beef in such plentiful supply, ground beef is a better-than-ever buy these days.

To cater to the family's fondness for ground beef, here are ideas for four different kinds of hamburgers—all destined to be favorites.

After Scout meeting, Junior's crowd really will go for these hamburgers with the hidden treasure tucked inside.

SURPRISE HAMBURGERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 4 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 4 thin slices tomato (medium size)

Mix ground beef with salt and pepper. Divide into eight equal parts and make a thin patty of each. Mix together Worcestershire sauce and onion. On half the patties place a slice of tomato and a tablespoon of chopped onions. Top each with a second patty and pinch edges together. Place in a shallow pan and broil about 15 minutes, turning once, 4 servings.

NUT 'BURGERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 teaspoons grated onion
- Dash of pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup ground peanuts or almonds

Combine ingredients; shape into flat patties and fry in a little hot fat. Dad will wear a pleased grin and ask for a repeat engagement when served these budget burgers. Soy sauce and ginger give them interesting flavor.

HAWAIIAN 'BURGERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger

Shape meat into 8 patties. Mix other ingredients in a small bowl and stir until sugar is dissolved. In a heavy skillet, heat a little fat. Dip hamburgers into soy sauce mixture, drain and fry in the hot fat until brown. Salt is not needed in the patties as the soy sauce provides all the seasoning. For the entire family's enjoyment, serve this broiled hamburger and peach grill. The combination is tops in good eating.

BARBECUED 'BURGERS AND PEACHES

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 6 canned peach halves
- 1 cup barbecue sauce

Combine meat with onion and seasoning and shape into six patties. Heat 1/4 cup barbecue sauce (use either homemade or bottled) to boiling and pour over peaches in a shallow pan. Place meat patties in another pan and over them pour 1/2 cup barbecue sauce. Refrigerate meat and peaches for 2 to 3 hours. Broil meat patties on one side; turn, then place peaches on broiler rack and continue broiling until both are lightly browned. Baste patties with remaining 1/2 cup sauce during broiling, 6 servings.

RUTH MILLETT

Architects are now designing living-dining areas so that the TV set will be clearly visible during meals, but if we turn over the dinner hour to that extra guest—TV—family life is bound to suffer. The dinner hour gives the family a daily chance to enjoy each other's company. At the dinner table there is opportunity for family discussion, for light-hearted kidding and for each member to relate the highlights of his day. It's a time that should be relaxed and easy and cozy—a time when every member of the family should have a chance to be heard.

But let TV pull up a chair and sit down and things are sure to be different. The child who is dying to tell a funny story he heard at school will be hushed. General discussion will be out. If the program of the moment is good, the meal Mama has taken pains to prepare won't be fully appreciated. If it is poor, at least one member of the family will say: "Why don't we turn that thing off?"

If that member is Papa and the children out-vote him, Papa is no longer the head of the table. TV will hog the show—like the loquacious dinner guest who doesn't let another person get a word in edgeways. Shushing will be the watchword of the dinner table.

And how are we to expect the

Eat Five Meals To Gain Weight

You teen-agers sometimes grow up so fast that your bones lengthen more quickly than flesh can pad them. You probably aren't happy with this string-bean look if it's yours. You'd like some curves. You burn up calories very fast if you're an average teen-ager, so you've got to consume more of them—if you want to gain weight than your activities require. When appetite is so slack that you can't eat much at a time, plan mid-morning, mid-afternoon and before-bed meals in addition to the regular ones. This doesn't mean candy. Malted milk, plain milk with a spoonful of honey added, ice cream, sandwiches with lots of butter would all be good. Getting enough vitamins is essential to appetite, so be sure your meals are balanced with plenty of fresh fruits, green and yellow vegetables, citrus fruits and juices, and whole wheat bread.

Your extra calories can be supplied from cream on your cereal and deserts, as much butter or margarine as you can possibly add to vegetables, sandwiches and bread, cream soups, creamed main dishes, and vegetables, ice cream, creamy puddings, graham crackers with jams, nuts, and quantities of buttered potatoes. Don't depend on lots of candy to build weight. Too much is bad for complexions, teeth and digestion. Enjoy some after lunch or dinner—preferably after dinner, because you can then brush your teeth—but foods with nourishing qualities in addition to calories will build up your all-around health and thus increase your appetite. Plenty of fresh air and exercise may increase your appetite if you also allow enough time for relaxation. You have to simmer down before meals and eat in peaceful, pleasant surroundings to get the full benefit of food.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend
I enjoy reading your letter so very much. Now I seem to be having a problem and would like your answer.

I am planning an open house for our 25th anniversary and am wondering if you could tell me just how to go about it. I don't feel we can spend much money. If we have just a few close friends would it be right just to send them invitations?

What should one serve? Should we put an announcement in the paper inviting all our friends if we decide to have a bigger party? How should the invitations be worded? Is it correct to give these ourselves? Bernice

Dear Bernice
Don't invite people to your open house through the paper but send invitations to those you would like to attend your party, which it is quite proper for you to give.

Word your invitations as follows:
Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts
at home
on Wednesday, the twelfth of February four to seven
1934 West Marshall Avenue
Send the invitations out about two weeks before your party.

MATURE PARENT Thomas McGarrity Honored At Party

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
"My over-weight daughter, 13 years old, is so sensitive about her condition that I cannot get her to discuss it with me. Since I find candy wrappers in her wastebasket, I know that she is secretly indulging her craze for sweets—but if I so much as mention diet, I am overwhelmed with tears and reproaches. Should I just stop trying to get her to diet?"

Yes, until an overweight child is himself ready to control his appetite, pressing him to do so only drives him deeper into himself and tempts him to shut us completely out of his confidence. It might be helpful if my reader thought of her overweight child as a combat soldier, isolated up front, with his supply lines broken. If we wanted to help him, our first problem would be the reopening of our communication lines with him. Before we can move up reinforcing encouragement and love to our overweight child, we must first be able to get through to him. We, too, have to reopen communication lines along which we can dispatch our constant and increasing supplies of reassurance. The fact that this mother's daughter is hiding her candy-eating from her suggests that she may indeed need emotional reinforcements. If she did not fear her parent's disapproval, she would be eating her candy openly.

Until her fear of disapproval is removed, until she can feel that she can expose her hunger for sweets to her mother without arousing anxiety and reproach, the communication lines between her mother and herself will be blocked.

Anxiety and embarrassment is usually the problem of parents of overweight children.

LOVE OF LOVE
For some time now, the experts have been telling us that obesity is rooted in emotional difficulties, rather than physical ones. Since this knowledge has become more general, the parent of the fat child often suffers as much anxiety as the youngster over his condition. The child's pudginess cannot be hidden or disguised.

There it is, the "insecure" overweight, hinting to relatives and friends that on home love is short-changed—on home love is mother's "acceptance." If we do not get on to this fear of other people's criticism, our overweight youngster can become a threat to us. The candy wrappers in the wastebasket will not move us to a rush of compassion for the little boy or girl who believes he must hide his need for comfort—but will be seen merely as new depressing evidence that we are inadequate parents.

Our concern becomes self-defense, not the defense of our child. Our need to justify ourselves may make us resort to all kinds of pressures to force him to release us from our uncomfortable position. We may try to criticize, "shame" or bribe him into self-control.

This is most mistaken of us. Until our overweight child has been fed a consistent, rich diet of unquestioning love over a period of time, we have no more right to expect him to forego his candy than we would have to expect a man on the top rung of a ladder to walk off into space. As soon as our lonely little fighter with fear and self-distrust feels quietness, support and love in us, instead of anxiety and criticism, he will want to tell us how worried he is. The supply lines are clearing, and as he receives the real comfort he has been seeking, he will lose his craving for the false one. He himself will say, "Would you help me try to diet, mother?"

Mr. Thomas J. McGarrity was honored by members of Holy Souls parish with a surprise birthday and farewell dinner recently in the Parish Hall.

The covered-dish dinner was sponsored by the Parish Council of Catholic Women. Mr. McGarrity was presented a rosary with the Knights of Columbus emblem as a token of appreciation from the four parish organizations: Knights of Columbus, Altar Society, Home and School Association and Parish Council. Guests present gave him a spiritual bouquet.

Lynn Boyd was master of ceremonies for the program. Mrs. Lynn Boyd led and Bill Hedley accompanied the group in singing "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. A. D. McNamara told of his efforts in bringing children from Lefors to the Catholic school for several years and how much he had enjoyed helping children attain higher education.

The smaller ones, he enjoyed playing Santa Claus in Lefors, Pampa and Amarillo. Mrs. McNamara also read a letter from the Sisters in Pampa expressing their appreciation for his acts of kindness.

Mrs. J. W. Garman spoke in behalf of the Altar Society thanking him for his work in making their projects successful.

Jerry Torrie, E. J. Dunigan, D. J. Gibbon, H. W. Waddell, Jack Dolan and A. D. McNamara expressed regret that Mr. McGarrity was leaving here but told him they felt he would be back.

Rev. Francis J. Kunz, C. M. and Rev. Ignatius Evening, C. M. praised Mr. McGarrity for his work in the parish and his Christian character.

Mr. McGarrity thanked the group for their thoughtfulness and kindness to him. Following his remarks, Mrs. Boyd led the group in singing several songs, accompanied by Mr. Haley.

Mr. McGarrity retires from the Texas Company next month after 24 years of service and will move to Florida. He has resided in Lefors for the past several years and formerly lived in Pampa.

Canasta and bridge were played after the program. Hostesses of the occasion were Mrs. Chisholm, chairman, Mrs. W. J. Haley, W. Waddell, W. B. Herr, T. Farwell, A. J. Martin and Paul Reilly. Mrs. Boyd arranged the program.

Taxes Hurt Economy

One of the dynamic forces in the American economy is found in the people's savings record of recent years.

Preliminary figures show that aggregate personal savings in 1952 forged ahead of the high level of the year before to reach the largest annual total ever attained except for the abnormal war years 1942 through 1945. At the same time, the past year brought an accelerated growth in the public's "nest egg" in life insurance and other accumulated long-term savings of individuals, so that now the aggregate is approaching the $200 billion mark.

These developments are a tribute to the ingrained thrift habits of the American people. They are the more noteworthy in view of the record tax burden, direct and indirect, borne by the public since the Korean outbreak in June, 1950. The Federal income tax bill alone, to cite one example, is now more than half again as high as it was at the peak of tax collections during World War II.

For the individual and for the society as a whole, savings of the present size and wide distribution are of psychological as well as practical advantage. They symbolize a further extension of potential purchasing power which increasing millions of Americans have been acquiring over the last decade. Of equal importance, from the economic point of view, is the fact that this thrift record provides the assurance of a continued flow of capital funds required for the high investment-high production country that ours has become.

It has become increasingly apparent that the voluntary saving and spending decisions of the people at large have regained their traditional role as an economic balance wheel. The part played by personal savings in helping to check the inflationary forces loosed by Korea is evidence of this.

But the new challenge lies ahead. Indications are growing that, barring a change for the worse in world conditions, we are heading into an economy less dependent on the outpouring of government funds for its stimulus and more on the saving and spending decisions of the people, business and the whole private sector of the economy.

The U. S. Department of Commerce in a preliminary estimate places the total of personal savings in all forms in 1952 at $19 billion, or approximately 8 cents of every dollar of the people's spendable income after taxes. This total is $2,000,000,000 more than aggregate individual savings in 1951 when they were the equivalent of 7.6 cents of the spendable dollar. This record was achieved by the personal choice of millions of people with respect to the use of their incomes and not by any shortages of goods as was the case in the abnormal savings of the last war. By comparison, personal savings in the boom year of 1929 were less than $4,000,000,000 and represented only 4 1/2 cents of every dollar of that year's spendable income.

Accumulated long-term savings of individuals in life insurance, U. S. bonds, savings accounts in mutual savings and commercial banks and in postal savings, and in savings and loan associations grew at the rate of $12 billion a year in 1952. This rate of growth was the highest for any year since 1944. As of the end of last June, these savings were estimated at $188.6 billion as against $182.4 billion six months earlier, and figured out at the equivalent of more than $4,000 per family.

A glance at the changing tax over the years shows one of the hurdles the people had to overcome to achieve this thrift record. High though the $19 billion of personal savings were last year, they were far behind the government's income tax bill of approximately $30 billion for the 1952 fiscal year which ended last June.

Thus the Federal Government took from the people more than $1.50 in income taxes alone in 1952 for every dollar of their personal savings for the year.

Since savings are the major lubricant employed in the capitalistic system for creation of new wealth — new tools and new productive enterprises — it is readily observed that high government costs are a drag and a deterrent laid upon economic improvement. Every extra cent channeled into the coffers of non-productive government is a penny stolen from funds required to improve the nation's standard of living.

Headline Harry

The man of Independence, Missouri (just call me plain Harry Truman) has retired from the front political office of the nation but not from the front page. Any other man who had become an ex-President might find it difficult to hold the spotlight if, indeed, he had not had more than enough of it, but not our Harry. Living on page one comes naturally and easy for him — even if it does require a bit of screwball thinking.

That statement about Russia not having the A-bomb illustrates the point. It was the then President himself who announced to the world several years ago that the Soviets had succeeded in setting off an atomic explosion. And it's generally agreed among those best informed on that subject that at least two other such explosions have been accomplished by Russia.

It is to be hoped that some day Truman will realize that he cannot make irresponsible utterances without doing considerable damage. To create the impression that Russia does not have the atomic bomb would be to create a false sense of security. Nothing could be more dangerous to our national preservation.

Of course, the big question today is not whether the Soviets have the A-bomb, but whether they have the H-bomb. Harry probably has as much information on that as any one outside Russia. But let's hope he keeps that to himself, at least as long as it might have some bearing on national security.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILE

A Mother Standing For Americanism

If there were a thousand mothers in America like Mrs. William Turner of Culver City, California, we might reverse our trend towards collectivism and get people to believe that the government is the agent of the individual rather than his master — as was the case of all governments prior to the one established by the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. and Mrs. William Turner insist on having the right to educate their own children. They object to the regimentation of public schools. They have seven children and have been educating the three older children at home. They have been hauled before the Los Angeles court on the charge of violating California's educational code.

Mrs. Turner is quoted as saying: "If I subject my children to the regimentation of the school system, I have only the drudgery of rearing them and not the pleasure of watching their minds and personalities develop. I want them to learn from babyhood how to become adults."

What a worthy motive of a mother. Would that more mothers realized their responsibility of developing their children. Remember Abraham Lincoln said that he owed everything to his mother. Abraham Lincoln never went to public schools and yet he was not considered an uneducated person.

The International News Service reports Mrs. Turner as saying: "They are my children, not creatures of the state, and I feel I have the right to rear them as I see fit."

"I will carry the case to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, and if I lose there, I will move out of the state or even the country."

She also contends that she and her husband can train their children faster and better outside the regimentation of public schools. It is their intention to educate them at home until they reach the second year of high school and are ready to follow their chosen field.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner are certainly correct in their contention that they can educate their children faster and better than they can in a political, regimented school. Does anyone contend that the state could have educated Abraham Lincoln better than his mother educated him?

It is extremely good that a mother has the courage of her convictions and is willing to fight — and fight almost alone — for the rights of her children and for the principles set down by the first original document of the American government.

It takes courage and willingness to sacrifice for the benefit of their children to be willing to move from a state that deprives the youth of the land from an opportunity to get an education from their mother.

It is hard to conceive how paid employees of the state run by politicians and bureaucrats can be as much interested in the well being of children as their own mother and father.

The Turners are not shirking the responsibility of training their seven children — and judging from their picture they are beautiful and intelligent looking children. The children are lucky to have such a mother. Would that more children had mothers like Mrs. Turner. Our future depends on the way the youth is taught. We have too long put up with children being regimented by people who profess to be educators but who are not even interested enough in education to try to educate themselves. All they want is a certificate from the state and tenure laws and they are satisfied.

National Whirligig.. Truman Aides Acted Illegally In California Water Litigation

WASHINGTON — American taxpayers will suffer a needless loss of more than $1,000,000 as a result of projects undertaken by the Navy and Interior Departments during the Truman administration in California. By-passing the U.S. district attorney, the operation was conducted from a well-guarded office inside Camp Pendleton.

CHAPMAN'S POWERLINE — Federal Secretary Chapman's insistence on building a nationwide federal power system is responsible for his difficulty. He authorized construction of a 41-mile power line from the government's Clark Hill generating plant to serve the Greenwood County Electric Power Commission, a preferred customer. Chapman disregarded another Appropriation Act provision that he must first try to buy power from two private companies and use their lines. He reported to Congress that he could not make a private deal. But both Warren and a federal district court have held that he made no sincere effort to negotiate of use existing lines. Warren has disallowed payment, here, too.

Fair Enough... Pegler Ties Drew Pearson in With Many Communist Friends

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Through Alfred Kohlberg, the national chairman of the American Jewish League Against Communism, I have just amplified my background knowledge of Drew Pearson's systematic resort to the courts to silence persons who have undertaken the difficult and unpleasant task of exposing his lies and taking and his closeness to the Communists. Mr. Kohlberg has been a front-line fighter against Communists for years. He has suffered the most painful abuse for his courage and integrity.

By coincidence, I learned that Alfred Kohlberg had had a serious conversation with Bartley Crum, a pro-Communist lawyer who has been representing Pearson against me in a lawsuit for the conventional million dollars.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

There was a stick of type from somewhere out of the Middle West the other day describing how a young lady of her locality had taken to wearing her mother's 30-year-old winter coat because it was precisely and exactly in style for the day. This is not exactly a comic piece of information and it got the four lines of B-p.t. that it deserved. It did, however, stoke up an idea — which settled down to this: some recent period plays, ranging from dates 250 years ago to 1907, have been opened in New York and, thanks to the elan and charm of Miss Vicki Cummings, the 1907 play won the pennant all the way down the line.

What brought Miss Cummings into even sharper focus than the lush feathers and swirling skirts she wears in "Mid-Summer," Vina Delmar's play laid in 1907, was an unfortunate ride on the Long Island Rail Road in a coach infested with teen-age young women bound for some sort of giggling lark in Manhattan. Their community thought in the matter of chic dress for wear to an afternoon in New York seemed to be ripped dungarees too tight across the derriere and too short in the leg, topped by some soiled and wrinkled white shirts which at one time must have belonged to their brothers. Their feet were shod in cracked and soiled loafers, saddle shoes and ballet slippers. Their hair was clumped up in rubber bands. They looked a mess. Over all this, with the exclusion of the clumped hair, was an assortment of synthetic satin windbreakers embroidered weirdly with a variety of occult messages. Watching this clutch of young females bound for fun and frolic in town, I could only think of the sleek elegance of Miss Cummings, the costumes she wears in the Delmar play and the exquisite, groomed and poised portrait she makes in these costumes.

I don't know why today's teenage girls prefer to look like somebody who has been repairing a truck instead of looking feminine and shining, and I have no intention of studying the problem. There seems to be some sort of tribal contempt for being well-dressed and well-groomed, as though these were something shameful. Not having any adolescent females at hand and being about eight years away from having any in the house, I'll simply have to assume that today's adolescent girls are passing through a phase that, hopefully, will be short-lived.

I had forgotten how lovely the costumes of 1907 were, although there are extant one or two photographs of my mother in gowns of the period. That was a magnificent age for women in flared skirts. Hats were a foam of feathers. An ankle was a seldom-seen privilege and when you did see it, I imagine, it was a bonus. The feminine figure received its loveliest framing in the 1907 period of dress and elegance was combined with good taste most of the time.

A door set off First Night audience sat up and took notice when Miss Cummings came out on the stage, complete with ostrich plumes, frilly parasol and a hat which Gainsborough would have painted on the spot. It isn't often that an actress comes out for her entrance and causes a chatter throughout the audience, but Miss Cummings did and I'm sure she would be the first to attribute this wind of comment to her costume rather than to herself. The women sat up and studied that gown from hem to bodice and commented on it. Clean-shaven men in the audience cleared their throats and mustached men were tempted to twirl the ends of their mustaches, even though most of the mustaches were the toothbrush type without ends.

I wish I had enough money and persuasion to corral the uniformed chit I saw on the train and herd them into the Vanderbilt Theater where I could make them sit down and face the stage and take a good, long gander at Miss Cummings in my personal notion of what a dame should look like.

In fact, the chances of being truly "frightened to death" are so unlikely that for all practical purposes we can forget about it.

HOST TOLD SECRET — A few years later, when the two met again, the old friend asked the younger man if he would eat a wild hen. He answered that he had been solemnly charged by a wizard not to eat that food. Thereupon, the host began to laugh and asked him why he refused it now after having eaten it at his table before.

"On hearing this news the Negro immediately began to tremble, so greatly was he possessed by fear, and in less than 24 hours was dead."

While it is interesting to study the possibility that the common expressions quoted at the beginning of this column may have some they must obtain permission from Congress for the right to sue the government.

Champion Harvesters Meet Borger in Finale Tomorrow

The Hustlin' Harvester cagers, who nailed down their first undisputed district flag since 1945 Saturday night when they downed the Amarillo Sandies, will attempt to finish out their unbeaten regular season in the history of the school tomorrow night when they host the rival Borger Bulldogs at Harvester Fieldhouse.

The champion Harvesters have won all 21 games to date. They are actually on a 23-game winning streak since they won their last two games in 1952.

Tomorrow night's outcome with Borger won't change the Harvesters' standings in the district race as they have already been crowned champs, but the McNeelymen would like very much to finish their regular season unbeaten and, of course, keep their winning streak intact.

The Harvesters defeated Borger at Borger in the first round of the double-round robin, 72-65.

About all that remains to be settled in the 1953 1-AAAB cage race is the ranking of the teams. Borger and Odessa are currently tied for third and fourth. Odessa will be almost a cinch to win their season finale tomorrow against Midland while Borger is here meeting the Harvesters.

Lubbock and Abilene are tied for fifth and sixth. Abilene has the easier final opponent in meeting San Angelo at Abilene while Lubbock must meet second place Amarillo at Amarillo.

San Angelo could tie Abilene and Lubbock for fifth by downing the Eagles, providing Lubbock also loses to Amarillo.

Midland, with 13 straight losses in district play, already has the cellar spot sewed up.

Amarillo Suffered Heavily In Saturday's Cage Tilt, Both At Gate And In Game

WE STILL HAVEN'T quite come down to earth following the game in which the Hustlin' Harvesters overcame the Sandies Saturday night. Of course winning the championship was enough in itself but more glory was added to winning the title in that the title clincher was done in the Sandies' "crack-box" gym.

The decision of the Sandies to play the game in their tiny gym at the Armory kept several hundred Pampa fans from attending, not to mention the several hundred Amarillo fans who couldn't gain admittance due to the limited seating capacity.

So, as it turned out, it didn't make any difference on the ultimate outcome of the game and the game was played in the huge Sports Arena in the Sandie city, the Amarillo High School athletic department would have realized about a couple of grand more revenue than they took in at the Armory Gym.

In paying tribute to the Harvesters cagers themselves, we'd also like to put in a good word for the few Harvesters fans who were fortunate enough to get a ticket for the game.

These fans, I guess there were 100 since that is all the tickets Amarillo sent to Pampa, were far outnumbered by the Sandie cheer section, of course, but there wasn't much difference in the noise made by the two cheering groups.

Every little bit helps and this backing could have meant the difference of the final outcome.

The game Saturday actually wasn't as close as the one played at the Harvester Fieldhouse. Possibly one of the chief reasons for this was the fine defensive work turned in by the unsung hero of the Harvesters, Bill Webb.

Webb did a magnificent job in guarding the Sandie ace, Melvin Wright. Wright is death on a 15 long one handers as most Harvesters fans who saw the first game with the Sandies will agree.

Wright Saturday held his number of shots down to a minimum. Wright got off only nine shots from the floor. He did make five of them and those combined with five free tosses gave the Sandie ace 15 points for the night. That was far below the 26 points Wright got in the first game with the Harvesters.

The Sandies two-pointed a 4-d sometimes three-pointed the Harvesters Jimmy Bond throughout Saturday's tilt but Jimmy proved too elusive and just plain out-smarted them to dunk in 20 points. It was the 16th time in the 21 Harvesters games to date that Bond has scored in the 20's.

We got worried only during the early portion of the game that the Sandies might stage an upset. The Sandstorm pulled away to a 6-1 lead in the first two minutes and it appeared that the Green-and-Golders might get started too late.

But once the Pampans started hitting we knew there was no stopping them. Guess we should have got a little nervous when the Sandies tied the score at 28-28 in the third quarter. But we didn't have time to worry about it since three rapid field goals by the Harvesters in about a minute's time pushed them ahead, 34-28, and it was the Harvesters' game the rest of the way.

Guess it's a little out of the ordinary to complain about the officiating when you won the game but to us that was one of the loudest officiated games we have seen this year.

The game got completely out of hand with only a minimum of fouls called. It appeared that the Sandies figured their only chance of winning was to rough the Harvesters out of the victory and they got away with it 90 percent of the time. But fortunately they didn't get away with the victory.

Tonight and tomorrow night will give Harvesters cage fans a good opportunity to show their appreciation of the fine work turned in by the Harvester basketballers this season.

Tonight, the Harvester Boosters Club, which backs the Harvesters, will convene at the Sam Houston auditorium.

Then tomorrow night, the Harvesters may be playing their last home game of the season when they meet Borger. There's a chance that the bi-district series will be played here but it all depends on who is the luckiest coin caller.

McNeely is already practicing up on the "coin tossing" game. Due to the extreme distance between here and El Paso, all of the bi-district games will be played at one or the other's home gym.

Unbeaten Quints Cut To Five

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Only five college basketball teams were left on the perfect-record list Monday after Lebanon Valley suffered its first loss after 13 triumphs.

Lebanon Valley was knocked from the list by Albright, 82 to 74, Saturday.

Of the five remaining schools, only Seton Hall is ranked as a "major" quiet. The Pirates from South Orange, N. J., who have won 24 straight games, risk their record Monday night in a home game against rugged Villanova.

Little Rio-Grande college of Ohio, boasting the high-scoring Clarence (Bevo) Francis, has the greatest number of wins among the perfect-record teams—52.

Build Up Your Bowling By Knockin' 'Em Down

With STEVE NAGY, Bowler of the Year

Thirteenth of a series written and illustrated for NEA Service. By STEVE NAGY, Bowler-of-the-Year

It is surprising to see the number of bowlers who drop the ball on the approach behind the foul line.

Yet most of these bowlers would swear they do no such thing.

The most common reason for dropping the ball on the approach, assuming you have a properly fitted ball, is a matter of incorrect timing. The upper half of our body—shoulders, arms and hands—is ready to deliver the ball before the lower half of your body.

This lack of coordination naturally causes you to release the ball before you have completed your slide to the foul line with your left foot.

Looking into the fault even further, this poor timing can generally be traced to an obvious attempt to force the ball into the backswing at too fast a pace.

Most people force a ball in an effort to obtain greater speed, believing that great speed is necessary for high scores.

This is not true.

NEXT: Timing and Control.

Harvester Foe To Be Named This Week End

The newly crowned 1-AAAB champion Harvesters will meet Bowie of El Paso or El Paso High in the bi-district play.

Bowie, last year's champ and who has four regulars back this season, leads the 2-AAAB race with a 6-0 record. But El Paso is also behind with a 4-1 mark.

The two teams meet Friday night in the season finale for both teams. Should El Paso win, the race would end in a 2-way tie and a one-game "sudden death" playoff would be held Saturday night.

Bowie won the first game from El Paso in the double-round schedule, 45-27. The Bears, however, must meet a tough Jefferson team Thursday night before taking El Paso Friday. Should Jefferson upset Bowie, then the winner of Friday's Bowie-El Paso "High tilt" would be the champion.

Jefferson fell out of the running last week by suffering its third conference loss.

Bowie met Borger in the bi-district series last year but lost two straight games.

A tip of the coin will determine the site of the bi-district series between the El Paso district winner and Pampa.

AL Slates 224 Night Games

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The American League announced a 1953 schedule Monday which calls for a record total of 224 night games—eight more than were scheduled last year.

The schedule also confirms the fact the St. Louis Browns will be denied playing at night in New York, Boston and Cleveland as a result of their wrangle over television receipts with those clubs. The Browns' night-game activity on the road will be limited to 19 games—eight in Washington, six in Philadelphia, three in Chicago and two in Detroit.

As usual, the Senators will open the pennant race a day earlier than the other teams in the nation's capital. Their opener, at which President Eisenhower is expected to be present, is with the world champion Yankees on April 13.

The next day the schedule opens in four other cities with Detroit at St. Louis, Chicago at Cleveland, Philadelphia at New York and Washington at Boston. On April 18, St. Louis will be at Chicago, Cleveland at Detroit and Boston at Philadelphia.

The Senators scheduled the most night games—57, followed by the Browns with 44 and the Athletics with 37. The Indians scheduled 29; the White Sox carded 20 while the Tigers, Yankees and Red Sox "held the line" at 14.

The All-Star game will be played at Braves Field, Boston, July 14.

New Stunts Added By Globetrotters

Basketball's fabulous Harlem Globetrotters, playing and showman cagers supreme, are coming to Harvester Fieldhouse Feb. 25, with a number of new comedy stunts added to their extensive repertoire.

The "magicians of basketball" worked on these new mirth-provoking antics on the 1952 around-the-world tour which closed little more than a week before their 1952-53 campaign began, and literally wowed the fans all around the globe.

In deference to the constant change from the stands for the "baseball" and "football" routines, the Trotters still perform their hilarious stunts based on those two sports, as well as their celebrated pre-game comedy warm-up, the epitome of ballhanding wizardry.

It is interesting how comedy came to play such an important role in the Globetrotters' scheme of things and helped, unquestionably, to make this the most popular sport aggregation in the world.

When the team first started out 26 years ago, Owner Coach Abe Saperstein carried only five players and himself utility player and general handy man in the battered flivver that carried them over the highways and byways of North America and Mexico.

Playing day in and day out, against strong and bustling local, quintessentially anxious to beat the famous edub, and traveling daily through all sorts of weather to reach the various game sites, the Trotters had to devise some way to slow down the opposition in order to conserve some of their energy for the arduous schedule.

Saperstein hit upon the idea of comedy routines and "slight-of-hand" ball-handling and passing to give his players a breather as the fans and rival players watching the comedy in amusement. It served its purpose well and also became so popular with the fans that comedy has remained an integral part of the Globetrotters' scheme of things. Being a perfectionist and outstanding showman, Saperstein insists on perfection in both the comedy and playing phases.

Tickets for the Trotters appearance at Harvester Fieldhouse are now on sale at five various business establishments in this city. Reserve seat tickets are on sale at Malone Pharmacy only. General admission tickets may be obtained at B & B Pharmacy, Cretney Drug, Richard Drug and Clyde's Pharmacy. General admission tickets also be obtained at Light's Grocery in The Plaza. Reserve seats are selling for $3.60 and general admission at $2.65.

Frogs Eye Top Spot In SWC

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs, steadily plugging along against the New Houston conference basketball leadership this week.

The defending conference champs, trailing league-leading Texas by a half-game, play cellar-dwelling Southern Methodist Tuesday and third-place Rice Saturday, both at Fort Worth, while Texas meets SMU Saturday at Austin in its only game of the week. If TCU sweeps its two games, it will move into a tie for the leadership even if the Longhorns trounce the Ponies.

Three other conference games and a couple of non-conference affairs complete this week's schedule.

In conference games, sixth-place Texas A&M, with a 3-6 record, plays fifth-place Arkansas, 7-5, Monday night at Little Rock; fourth-place Baylor meets Rice, in third place, at Houston Tuesday night; and the Bears entertain Arkansas Saturday night at Waco.

Holguin Surprise Texas Open Champ

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 16.—UP—The winter links tour had a new first-time tiddler Monday—stubby, little Tony Holguin, who broke the championship ice by sinking up the Texas Open crown under tremendous pressure before a home town throng.

The five-foot, eight-inch Holguin, whose only previous tournament victories were two Mexico City PGA prizes, started Sunday's final round a stroke in front of a par-wrecking field and finished that way with a 20-under-par 264 worth $2,000. Holguin finished ahead of disheartened Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., whose fine 268 brought him a $1,000 running check for the third year in a row on the tree-lined Brackenridge Park layout.

Gallery Pulls For Holguin

A huge gallery, estimated at 12,000—was pulling for the little San Antonio-born Mexican almost to the man, adding to the pressure under which he fought off determined hits by the tournament winner, Ford, Julius Boros and Lew Worsham.

He posted four birdies and a bogey for a 34-34—68 on the par 35-71 course and said "I knew I'd won it on No. 37 when I rolled a chip and run shot up 18 inches from the pin and got down for a birdie." Holguin plans to play in three more tournaments—Mexico City, Houston and Baton Rouge—before leaving the tour for a short rest prior to assuming his first head pro job at Middletown, Ill., country club April 1.

Succeeds Jimmy Walkup

He succeeds Jimmy Walkup as pro here after having served a "very profitable" two years as assistant under Walkup, another San Antonio product.

His term under Walkup was profitable, Holguin said, because his boss "improved my woods to where I'm no longer an in-and-out-er."

Holguin's winnings ran his winter tour total to $2,128.67, while Ford's second in-jury stretched his earnings to $3,824.17.

Worsham and Boros, who finished in a tie for third at 268, won $800 each, more than either had been able to earn in all their previous appearances on the "winter tour."

Walter Burkemo, the Fracklin, Mich., pro who led the first rounds of the tournament, wound up in fifth place at 268 and picked up a check for $700, running his tour winnings to $4,017.15.

Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C., was at 269, worth $600, and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., was alone at 270 and earned $550.

Martin, Davis Slated For Main Event

Wayne Martin of Tulsa, Okla., will grapple Dandy "Daisy" Davis of Houston in the main event of tomorrow night's wrestling show at the Southern Club Sports Arena.

The bout headlines a three-bout card lined up by promoter Howard Vineyard. Ben Davidson, who made his initial appearance in a Pampa ring last week, meets Frankie Hart of Canada in the semi-finals.

In the preliminary, Ace Abbott of Abilene meets Benny Truddell. Martin and Davis will go in a two-out-of-three or one hour time limit scrap. Martin has just returned to the wrestling business after a three year hiatus in the police man ranks. He is considered one of wrestling's most popular performers.

Martin is one of the cleanest wrestlers in the mat game while Davis is just the opposite. But Martin is capable of "matching" any opponent in unruly tactics so tomorrow night's match may turn into a knock-down and drag-out affair.

The semi-final event between Davidson and Hart will be for two out of three falls or 45 minute time limit while the prelim will be a 20-minute affair.

Tickets for tomorrow's show will go on sale at the Sportman's Store tomorrow morning.

Lions Near Lone Star Flag

East Texas State can clinch a share of the Lone Star Conference championship Wednesday night when the Lions, undefeated in league play and leading the conference, play host to Lamar Tech at Commerce.

The stage was set for the Lions' title drive last week when they won two games while Lamar Tech pulled the biggest upset of the season, by downing Southwest Texas in overtime, 61 to 57.

The wins gave East Texas a 7-0 league record with Stephen Austin and Southwest Texas tied for second place with 5-2 marks. Lamar Tech, Sam Houston and Sul Ross are out of the running.

East Texas beat Sam Houston, 67 to 58, and S. F. Austin, 60 to 57, and won a non-conference game against Mississippi Southern, 20 to 17.

Southwest Texas bounced Austin 82 to 61 before running into Lamar Tech.

Austin, owning an 11-game win streak as the week's play opened, also dropped a 60 to 57 decision to St. Edwards, Lamar Tech bowed to Brooke Medical, 42 to 30, and beat Texas Lutheran, 69 to 51, but lost two games to Trinity, 70 to 59 and 63 to 49.

Reynolds tied Dark on the 15th hole and went ahead with a birdie 2 on the 125-yard 16th after his tee shot landed only four feet from the cup. He halved the 17th and 18th holes to clinch the victory.

"My putter was my most effective club," Reynolds said after the match. "I've played better golf but today my scoring was very good."

The big right-hander gained the final round with a 2 and 1 victory over Bubba Church of the Cincinnati Reds while Dark entered by beating Fred Hutchinson, manager of the Detroit Tigers, by the same score.

George Abrams, formerly of the Reds, won the inactive major championship with a 3 and 2 victory over former Yankee Jack Russell; Heinie Manush, former Washington Senator, defeated Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Philadelphia A's, 1-up to win the major senior championship for former players over 50 years old and Ken Young of Augusta in the Sally League won the minor league division championship by defeating Pete Harris, former Nashville player, 6 and 5.

Semi-Finals, Finals Tonight

Amarillo's Perez Favored To Win State GG Welter Title

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16.—UP—The 1953 state Golden Gloves tournament—sixes with 24 semi-finals and finals bouts Monday night and Texas seemed assured of sending one of its strongest teams in years to the Tournament of Champions at Chicago.

The heavyweights, in a new twist to the event, were providing many of the thrills of the tournament.

Campbell (wildman) Woodman, last year's heavy champ from Wichita Falls, was the favorite but three other hard-hitting heavies promised to make things tough for Woodman to repeat.

Entering the final round with Woodman, who knocked out touted Bill Napier of Corpus Christi in the quarter-finals Saturday night, were Raul Flores, a slugging blacksmith from El Paso, Fort Worth's Donnie Fleeman, and James Sadler, a Big Foot, Tex., cowboy representing San Antonio.

Light Heavy Title Open

The light-heavyweight division appeared to be up for grabs between Roy Harris, Houston, last year's middleweight titlist, and hard-hitting Roy Johns of Tyler. Eugene Cooper, twice a state champion in the middleweight division, was the nearest thing to a sure champion in the tournament.

Cooper, who handles himself like a professional and hits like one, has fought only once in the tournament and then advanced into the semi-finals by default Saturday night over Robert Billot of Beaumont.

Perez Favored Welter

In the welterweight division, Pete Perez, Amarillo, last year's lightweight champion, was the favorite but the lightweight scramble could fall to any one of the four men left—Robert Rigby of Odessa, Richard Gernica, Dallas, Armando Quintana, El Paso, or Johnny Hernandez, Amarillo.

The three lighter weights, flyweight, bantamweight and featherweight, were all manned by strong contenders.

Indiana, Seton Hall Risk Loop Leads

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—UP—Indiana and Arizona risk their conference leads and Seton Hall its perfect record Monday night to usher in a "make or break" week for tournament hopefuls in college basketball.

Thirty-four berths remain open in the post-season NCAA and National Invitation Tournaments, which start in less than three weeks. But this week's hectic activity, featuring crucial games for both conference contenders and class independent teams, will narrow both fields.

Indiana's perfect 10-0 record in the Big Ten will be in real danger when the Hoosiers visit rugged Wisconsin, if Indiana stumbles. Illinois (9-2) could tighten the race by whipping Purdue.

Arizona vs Hardin-Simmons

Arizona, with an 8-1 mark in the Border Conference, faces a critical test against Hardin-Simmons, if the Wildcats should lose, that would give Texas tech (5-2) a chance to take over the lead by beating Arizona Tuesday.

Seton Hall, the nation's only major unbeaten team with a 24-0 mark, is virtually assured of a bid to either big tourney. But Pirates would like to maintain their perfect record to the end of the season—which they will be favored to do if they can get by Villanova and its high-scoring Larry Hennessey Monday and Loyola of Chicago Saturday.

So far the only team in actual possession of a tourney berth is Idaho State, which last week clinched the Rocky Mountain Conference championship to enter the NCAA meet. That leaves 22 NCAA spots to be filled, 12 of them by conference champions.

Loop by Loop

Big Seven—Kansas (4-2) plays runner-up Kansas State (4-2) in the "game of the week" Tuesday on K-State's court. Each has beaten the other once this season.

Missouri Valley—Things are moving toward a meeting of the Oklahoma Aggies (6-1) and Tulsa, (4-2) Saturday. But before then, Aggies must play Houston Wednesday and Tulsa plays Wichita Thursday.

Skyline—Wyoming (second with 8-2) meets Montana Monday night. A win would put the pressure on first-place Brigham Young (6-1) in its Saturday game against Utah.

Southwest—Texas (6-2) Texas Christian (5-2) and Rice (5-3) each face two games. The biggest game would appear to be Texas Christian-Rice on Saturday.

Southeastern—Louisiana State (9-0) needs to win only two out of four to clinch, could get one of them against Georgia Tech Saturday. Florida (6-2) meets Georgia Monday and Auburn Saturday.

Reynolds Wins Golf Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—UP—Allie Reynolds, who relies on his "high hard one" in clutches on the diamond, credited accurate putting under pressure on the links Monday for his victory in the 14th annual Baseball Players' Golf Tournament.

Two down at the turn, the 200 pound 20-game winner of the New York Yankees, rallied to defeat shortstop Alvin Dark of the New York Giants in the title round Sunday.

Reynolds tied Dark on the 15th hole and went ahead with a birdie 2 on the 125-yard 16th after his tee shot landed only four feet from the cup. He halved the 17th and 18th holes to clinch the victory.

"My putter was my most effective club," Reynolds said after the match. "I've played better golf but today my scoring was very good."

The big right-hander gained the final round with a 2 and 1 victory over Bubba Church of the Cincinnati Reds while Dark entered by beating Fred Hutchinson, manager of the Detroit Tigers, by the same score.

George Abrams, formerly of the Reds, won the inactive major championship with a 3 and 2 victory over former Yankee Jack Russell; Heinie Manush, former Washington Senator, defeated Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Philadelphia A's, 1-up to win the major senior championship for former players over 50 years old and Ken Young of Augusta in the Sally League won the minor league division championship by defeating Pete Harris, former Nashville player, 6 and 5.

Kramer Ties Sedgman

TEANECK, N. J., Feb. 16.—UP—Jack Kramer, who has won eight of his last 11 matches against Frank Sedgman, hoped to take the lead Monday night in his world professional tennis tour against the star from Australia.

Kramer, the defending pro king from Los Angeles, tied the overall score in the series, 14-14, by beating Sedgman Saturday night in Elizabeth, N. J., 6-2, 6-4. At one point in the tour, Sedgman led, 11 matches to six.

In the preliminary series, Pancho Segura of Ecuador leads Ken McGregor of Australia, 23-6. In doubles, Kramer and Segura lead Sedgman and McGregor, 15-14.

Angry House Republicans Talk Of Retaliation In Tax Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—UP—House Republicans talked angrily Saturday of "retaliation" against the Senate if senators carry out threats to scuttle a proposed July 1 income tax cut.

"You can take it for granted that we aren't going to stand idly by and let the Senate make the decision on tax reduction," a high-ranking Republican told a reporter. He asked that his name not be used.

"We originate many pieces of legislation that senators are interested in—the reciprocal trade program, for example," he added. "That program must be renewed this year or it will expire. It could be that we will be so busy we can't act on reciprocal trade in the house until the senate does something about tax reduction."

This Talk Spreads

This talk spread among GOP members of the tax-framing House Ways and Means committee as the committee prepared to meet Monday for expected approval of an income tax cutting bill.

This measure sponsored by committee Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N. Y.), would cut individual income taxes 10 to 11 per cent for the last half of the year, or about 5 per cent for the full year 1953. Experts estimated it would mean a cut of $25 to $50 this year for taxpayers with a net income of about $5,000 annually. For those in higher brackets, the cut would be more; for those below $5,000, it would be less.

Reed's bill would advance by six months an income tax reduction now scheduled to go into effect next Jan. 1. He proposes to make the cut six months sooner than scheduled.

Approval Expected

The committee is expected to approve the bill overwhelmingly despite statements from President Eisenhower and many congressional GOP leaders that the measure would not be passed until a balanced budget is in sight.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said he will keep the measure on the shelf after committee approval, until the House has a chance to show how much it can cut federal spending. Martin and other GOP leaders are confident they can show a good money-saving record by late April or early May. This would leave plenty of time for the Senate to act on the bill before June 30.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), Senate GOP leader, and other Senate Republicans have indicated they feel a July 1 tax cut cannot be justified.

Taft said Congress might find it necessary instead to extend the excess profits tax, now scheduled to expire on June 30. Many House Republicans don't like this talk.

Veterans Scheduled To Get Insurance Dividends Soon

DALLAS, Feb. 16—UP—Veterans in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi who have kept up their National Service Life Insurance will begin getting 1953 dividend checks early next week.

D. O. Nelson of the Dallas Veterans Administration office said the first checks would be put in the mail Monday, with the maximum dividends running about $60. The amounts will vary, Nelson said, with the plan and amount of insurance, age of the insured, and the number of months in force since the 1952 policy anniversary date.

Only the veterans who asked for their dividends in cash will get the checks, Nelson said. For other policyholders, the dividends are applied to future premiums, or held at interest if the premiums are paid up.

Ford To Double Output In Texas

DALLAS, Feb. 16—UP—Ford Motor Co.'s assembly plant here planned Saturday to nearly double its production by adding some 800 additional workers, plant Manager C. F. Jesse announced.

Jesse said workers were being hired immediately for a new night shift that will start April 6.

The Ford plant now produces about 258 cars and trucks daily. Jesse said the increased production will boost the number of employees at the plant to 2,300 and will raise the monthly payroll to about $1 million.

Bruins and Rangers

MONTREAL, Feb. 16—UP—The Boston Bruins have used only 20 players so far this season, less than any other National Hockey League team. The New York Rangers have used the most — 32 different men.

Tourney Is Scene Of Great Hands

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NPA Service

One of the most interesting hands of last year's European Championship came in the match between Sweden and Germany. Runolph Knell, of the Swedish team, was declarer at a contract of five diamonds.

West opened the door of diamonds, and dummy won the first trick with the nine. Declarer cracked the ace of clubs, led a diamond to his ace, and then led the clubs from his own hand. On the queen and jack of clubs both West and the dummy discarded low spades.

South next ruffed a spade in dummy and returned to his hand

Largest Crowd

HERSHEY, Pa.—UP—The Hershey Bears drew 8,910 fans—the largest crowd in the history of the Hershey arena—for their Jan. 31 American Hockey League game with the Cleveland Barons.

"Why doesn't that chump quit groaning and write to a lovelorn columnist for advice?"

Solons Don't Want Blame If GIs Are Not Promoted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—UP—Congress has a message for the GIs in Korea and elsewhere: Don't let anybody tell you that you can't be promoted because Congress refused to put up the money.

"That isn't so, insist members of a Military Appropriations committee who recently complained to the top brass about it. The discussions came out Monday in published hearings.

The subcommittee was considering Army demands for extra money, part of which was to be used to make possible promotions which had been promised deserving enlisted men. Members were displeased at reports some of the promotions had been denied.

Rep. Errett P. Scrivner (R-Kan.) added:

"Particularly was it embarrassing and unfair to the committee to tell them (the GIs) that when they did not get the promotions that it was because Congress had not provided the money for them.

"If the Congress did not, it was solely because the military had not made the request for the funds."

Brig. Gen. Herbert B. Powell, deputy assistant chief of staff, assured the subcommittee at this point "we are always concerned with giving these men their just promotions."

Later, Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes (D-Fla.) brought up the issue again. He said: "This committee in the past stood ready and still stands ready to provide such funds at any time we are given an estimate of the amount. I would like to be sure, gentlemen, that that is clear."

'Samaritan' Pulls Injured Driver Into Path Of Car

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 16—UP—A truck driver pulled an injured man out of a wrecked car and laid him on the pavement while he tried to summon aid, but the victim was run over and killed by another automobile, the highway patrol reported Friday.

The victim was Rodolfo Reyes of San Diego, Tex. Patrolman W. V. Weeks said Reyes' car rammed into the rear of a truck parked on

"Why doesn't that chump quit groaning and write to a lovelorn columnist for advice?"

API Endorses NPA Stand On 'Foreign Oil'

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—UP—American Petroleum Institute Monday reported it has endorsed the "foreign oil" and "imports" principles of the National Petroleum Council's National Oil Policy for the United States.

Frank M. Porter, president of the institute, said the endorsement places the API behind these principles:

- "That participation by U. S. oil men in the development of the world's oil resources is in the interest of all nations, and is essential to this country's security.
- "That U. S. oil men should be encouraged to develop global oil resources on equal terms with other nationals, and to work out stable agreements with foreign governments on a basis which will promote development by free enterprise methods.
- "That the U. S. government should use its diplomatic prestige and channels to reduce the political risks involved in such foreign operations, and permit U. S. oil men to operate abroad in conformity with the laws and customs of other countries."

Porter said the API also supported the principle that national welfare requires a policy on petroleum imports to encourage exploration and development in the U. S., making available a maximum supply of domestic oil to meet the nation's needs.

Thursday night, George Eldon Maxwell of Lubbock, the truck driver, pulled Reyes from his car and laid him behind the wrecked automobile.

He was run over by another automobile driven by Jack Butler of Kingville, Weeks said. Butler said he was blinded by lights. Reyes was Webb county's first traffic fatality this year.

Electronics Lab Turning Out Cosmic Guns For Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16—UP—The world's strangest factory is an electronics laboratory in the heart of Hollywood that turns out atom bombs, cosmic ray guns and artificial hearts.

This factory also makes such serious items as X-ray machines for hospitals and crystals for radars.

"We had a call to build a cyclotron or atom-smasher," he said. "We made this gadget that turns very fast and lights blink on. On a real cyclotron you don't see any thing turning — but that never would do for movies."

Oscar and his brothers have just perfected a masterpiece of a gadget—the buzzer, flashes and crackles for the mad scientist to use in "Donovan's Brain."

"Oh, yes, the dial on these things always work," he said. "The only thing that's never authentic is the story."

It is believed that light from the stars bends slightly as it passes the sun.

"Of course, a real atom bomb is a very dull-looking thing, so we make it look more interesting so it will be visual for the movies."

The Daltons have been furnishing weird machinery for pictures since an early Boris Karloff horror movie 20 years ago. For that they rented the studio equipment for a mad scientist's laboratory, featuring glass tubes and bottles that wiggled, lit up, showered sparks and belched smoke.

This was so successful that Hollywood launched a cycle of horror movies. The Daltons made a "freezer" in which a body could be kept for centuries and brought back to life. Then there was a mechanical heart, very authentic looking with glass lungs and bronchial tubes.
