Jury Indicts Ex-Taxman For Accepting Gifts, Lying

Eight Charges Face Veteran Collector

AUSTIN, Jan. 30 —UP— Frank Scofield, a former collector of internal revenue, was indicted by a federal grand jury on eight counts charging that he "solicited and received" political contributions from employees, accepted an expensive gift from employees, and lied to a federal investigator.

Dimes Drive Total Passes 5-Figure Mark

Gray County's March of Dimes fund for 1953 reached a five-figure mark today as $1,689.96 from Thursday's Mothers March in Pampa and $34 from a dance sponsored by the local Moose Lodge were added.

The grand total is "right at" $11,300, according to Warren Hasse, chairman of the drive now in its final phase. Proceeds from other activities "Thursday" have not yet been reported, Hasse stated, and five more events remain on the docket for the month-long campaign.

A bake sale sponsored by the local Firemen's Auxiliary has been in progress since 10 a. m. today in the Hughes building as part of the drive.

Veterans of Foreign Wars have scheduled a benefit dance to begin at 9:30 p. m. today in the VFW Hall. The public is invited to dance to the music of the Melody Men, local dance band. All proceeds will go toward the polo fund.

The drive in Pampa will be concluded Saturday by the local Girl Scouts with their weekly wash line campaign, a living posters program on local street corners and a "come-as-you-are" coffee in the Girl Scout Little House.

Final tabulation of results will be announced sometime next week, Hasse stated, after all iron lung contributions and dime cards have been tallied.

Although proceeds from Thursday's Mothers March fell slightly below those gained last year from this activity, results were "good," said Hasse.

The march was directed by Mrs. Carlton Nance and nine sub-chairmen in each residential district and the immediate surrounding oil camps Thursday night. A large corps of local women assisted in the house-to-house canvass.

Leon Howell and the Musical Men donated time for the Moose dance in the lodge's hall Thursday night.

MRS. A. T. PARTON . . . resigns as district clerk MRS. HELEN SPRINKLE . . . new district clerk

Long-Time District Clerk Retires Post

Veteran District Clerk Mrs. A. T. Parton at 10:10 a. m. today resigned her office, effective Feb. 1.

Mrs. Helen Sprinkle, mother of four children, was immediately appointed to fulfill Mrs. Parton's unexpired term of one year, 11 months and was being sworn in this afternoon by District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

The new district clerk was appointed as a deputy to Mrs. Parton on Jan. 1, 1952.

Judge Goodrich, as district judge, appointed Mrs. Sprinkle to the office and began preparations for officially swearing her in today since he will not be in Pampa Monday, Feb. 2.

Legal technicalities surrounding the change of bond for the office held up the proceedings this morning, forcing the swearing in procedure to be put off until the afternoon hours.

Mrs. Parton first worked for Gray County in 1928 as a deputy county clerk and resigned in 1929 when she got married.

In 1944 she took her first run at the district clerk's office and has been continually re-elected to the office for five consecutive terms. She served only one month of her fifth term.

The transition was completed without fanfare. Mrs. Parton gave the court only a verbal resignation this morning and the appointment was also verbal. Only the court reporter, newspaper representatives, the principals, and several persons having business to do with the court were in the court room at the time.

Mrs. Parton had been contemplating her resignation since she was recently married.

Mrs. Sprinkle, as district clerk, was appointed Miss Frances Genn, 19, of Lefors as deputy clerk. Miss Genn graduated in 1952 from Lefors High School.

Officer Is Fired, Rehired In Furo Over Operation Smack

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH DIVISION, Korea, Jan. 30 —UP— In the midst of the furor over Sunday's so-called ill-fated "scenario script" assault on T-Bone Hill in Korea, the U. S. Seventh division's public relations officer was fired Friday and then reinstated in his job a few hours later.

It was estimated that more than $7 billion was collected through his office during the more than 18 years he was collector.

When he resigned Feb. 12, 1952, he said it was "because of serious illness and upon repeated advice of my physician." However, two days later, Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap announced in Washington that Scofield was requested to resign for "the best interests of the revenue service."

The jury questioned three members of the Austin office Thursday before announcing Scofield's indictment.

Went Through Back Door — The 64-year-old Scofield went to the federal courthouse Thursday night, accompanied by his wife, and entered through the back door. Reporters were waiting on the front steps. However, Martin said later it was customary for Scofield to use the back door.

U. S. Attorney Bradford Miller said no date has been set for Scofield's arraignment.

Federal Judge Ben H. Rice excused the grand jury after it had returned five indictments. The indictment against Scofield was sealed but Miller revealed its contents to newsmen several hours after the jury recessed.

Mother Says Charge False — OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 30 —UP— A 24-year-old mother confessed today Friday that she threw her clothes away and gave a false report that she had raped in an attempt to gain sympathy from her husband.

The woman stumbled into the Naval Reserve Center here Thursday night, wearing only her coat. She said she had been raped. Her body was scratched and covered with lipstick.

Police questioned the woman for several hours before she finally confessed that she was trying to get sympathy from her husband and would let her make a trip to California.

She said she cut off her hair, left her clothes in a service station rest room, made scratches on her body and smeared herself with lipstick. She left her shoes on a road truck and then went to the Naval Reserve Center nearby and cried for help.

Skilled Crooks Seen In Grain Smuggling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 —UP— The Senate Agriculture committee halted hearings of Canadian wheat smuggling Friday pending further investigation but one member said evidence is piling up that "skilled crooks" are at work.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), committee chairman, said hearings on the importation of millions of bushels of sub-standard wheat will be resumed when investigations by the Agriculture Department and general accounting office have made more headway.

Farm state senators already alarmed over skidding agriculture prices, want to learn if the importation of about 50 million bushels of cracked Canadian wheat have hurt American growers.

Exported Under Agreement — The committee was told Thursday that some of the low-grade wheat has been mixed with American grain and exported under the international wheat agreement.

Sen. Herman Welker (R-Ia.) said the testimony so far indicated "the presence of widespread fraudulent activities" by companies engaged in the wheat transactions.

"Somewhere along the line in this business it looks as though there are some fairly skilled crooks at work," Welker said.

Department of Agriculture officials said 22 grain firms are being investigated.

Stephen E. Sarrapade, a department investigator, testified that the Justice Department is looking into the operations of the Transit Grain Co. of Fort Worth, Tex., which allegedly mixed Canadian wheat (See SKILLED, Page 2)

Air Force Lets Civilians Try Airman — LUBBOCK, Tex., Jan. 30 —UP— The Air Force will take a "hands off" policy while civil authorities try a handsome cadet who strangled, stripped and buried his 18-year-old fiancée, a spokesman said Friday.

The cadet, 20-year-old Walter E. Whitaker Jr., was turned over to civil authorities Thursday so he could be returned here to face charges of murder in the slaying of his sweetheart, Joyce Fern White, 18. A spokesman at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, who asked not to be identified, said that it was customary for the Air Force to "remain in the background in such cases" until civil authorities convict or acquit the suspect.

If Whitaker is convicted, he said, he will be dishonorably discharged. Whitaker was stationed at Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, when Miss White was killed. He was arrested at Lackland where he had been sent for cadet training. He confessed that he strangled Miss White with a venetian blind (See AIR FORCE, Page 2)

Excitement Soon Forgotten . . . Defense Appointees Assured Of Confirmation In Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 —UP— President Eisenhower's defense appointees were finally assured of Senate confirmation Friday and administration supporters hopefully predicted that the 15-day run over their industrial stocks soon will be forgotten.

It probably will be Monday before the Senate goes through the formality of confirming Roger M. Kyes as Deputy Secretary of Defense, Robert B. Stevens as Secretary of the Army, Harold E. Talbot as Secretary of the Air Force, and Robert B. Anderson as Secretary of the Navy.

But the nominees were already over the real hurdle—clearance by the Senate Armed Services committee. To get it, they had to part with stock totalling more than $2 million in defense contracting firms.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, a pro-Eisenhower Virginia Democrat who set off the whole controversy, called for peace.

He told a reporter that Mr. Eisenhower's nominees "have now satisfied the law" which forbids federal officials to transact business with any firm in which he has a private financial stake.

Local Explorer Wins 1st Silver Award In Area

A 17-year-old Pampa is the winner of the first Silver Award — the highest in Explorer Scouting — ever presented in the Boy Scouts' Adobe Walls Council.

Bill Phippen, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Phippen, 306 N. Somerville, received the award at "Bridge-of-Honor" ceremonies Thursday night in the basement of the First Baptist Church.

It was the first "Bridge-of-Honor" ever held in the Santa Fe District.

A member of Explorer Ship No. 22 (First Baptist Church), Phippen was one of the six charter members of the sea-explorer organization, formed last March. Now there are 34 members.

An estimated 30 - 40 persons were on hand at the "impressive" ceremonies which included the

Canadian C-C Installs Three New Officers

CANADIAN (Special) — A Clayton, N.M., businessman stressed the value of friends and the friendliness of the small town to those attending the annual installation banquet of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

D. D. Monroe was the featured speaker at the affair, held Thursday night in the Women's Christian Temperance Union dining room.

Newly installed officers of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce are Ben Webb, president; Edwin Crowell, vice president; and John Wilkinson, secretary.

New directors are Jim Reid, Wilbur Lalleger, Warren Harrington, Heral Fieder, Bob Ward, Tom Hill and Bob Dillman.

With a generous helping of humor, Monroe emphasized the importance of the individual and his attitude as the influence that fits the trend of the nation's thought and action.

W. B. Weathered, Pampa, installing officers pointed out that the chamber of commerce is an unselfish group working for the benefit of the entire community and that the plans of its officers and directors must have the support of its individual members to accomplish that goal of a better community.

A high school group composed of Larry Brezalee, Gary Gray, Jerry Cash, Wayne Blackwell, John Peterson and Sammy Wilbur sang "Crushing Down The River" and "High Noon" accompanied by Larry and Wayne on the piano.

Table decorations by Mrs. F. D. Teas depicted ranch scenes, miniature windmills, corals complete with cattle and horses and chuck wagon photographs of local men in the driver seats.

On the menu was a turkey dinner, served family-style.

NN Gas Honors Two Area Men

Two area men will retire from service with the Northern Natural Gas Company in the near future after being associated with the company since 1929.

Earl J. New of Pampa will retire Feb. 1 on his 60th birthday and Henry L. Vogt, Skellytown, will leave the company July 1 at the age of 65.

The two men were honored at a banquet in the Schneider Hotel Thursday night when fellow employees presented them with engraved watches and company officials gave brief talks in esteem of the two men, as well as all company employees in the area.

W. E. Barenthin served as master of ceremonies for the event. Approximately 64 employees, representing Skellytown Compressor Station and Pipe Line Company and Grayco Compressor Station, were present.

Troy F. Teel, superintendent, Skellytown, presented awards to the honored men and gave a brief appreciation speech. Others appearing on the program were Jack Waters, pipe line superintendent, G. T. Stuebaker, station superintendent, Sunray; Gilmer Parsons, pipe line foreman, Skellytown; and J. L. Mills, assistant superintendent, Skellytown.

Allied Pilots Knock Down Red Bomber

SEOUL, Jan. 30 — American Air Force pilots knocked two Communist planes out of the sky Friday, including a two-engine bomber, and damaged one Red jet.

The propeller-driven bomber, a TU-2, was sent spiraling into the Yellow Sea after it was blasted by 30 caliber machine gun bullets from a U.S. Sabre jet.

The other plane destroyed and the one damaged were MIG-15s. The MIG kill came when four Sabres, outnumbered more than six to one by 26 of the enemy jets, tangled near Sinanju.

The MIG destruction claim went to 1st Lt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif.

"There were MIGs all over the sky," one pilot said.

Jet Ace Col. Royl N. Baker of McKinney, Tex., damaged the other MIG in the same area in a battle between four Sabres and three MIGs.

Allied fighter-bombers, meanwhile, attacked a coal mine, a transformer station and pounded Communist supply routes.

In other air action B-29 super-forts bombed two Red supply areas near Pong, the Communist east coast port. The Communist east coast port. The Communist east coast port.

The Kunhuwa ridge area of the central front was particularly active. In the heaviest fight the Chinese failed to knock U.S. troops off an outpost on a finger of Sniper ridge. They were beaten off in 30 minutes.

The so-called "scenario" was a seven-page operational plan similar to scores drawn up for other operations, except for the fancy cover.

Steel, glass, and chemical industries use more than 20 per cent of total U.S. bituminous coal produced each year.

Youngsters Get Bicycles Ready

Pampa youngsters today were readying their bicycles to be equipped — free — with Scotchlite.

Beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, members of the Pampa Fire Department will stick the safety tape on the front and back of a new young Pampa's bike which is brought to the west side of the station's engine room.

Sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, the campaign has the full cooperation of Fire Chief Ernest Winborne who said today, "It will help us a lot if the kids who bring their bikes will have them cleaned off."

As there are on-hand only two 150-foot rolls of the tape — one red (for the back) and the other silver (for the front) — present plans call for two small strips to be stuck on the front and two on the back.

Idea for the program came from a Sunday "Peg o' Pampa" column in The Pampa Daily News, according to Mrs. W. R. Parish and Mrs. C. L. Marier, VFW Auxiliary president and junior vice president.

"We hope," they said, "that when the two rolls run out, some other local organization can see its way to continuing the program — so that all bikes in the area can be equipped with Scotchlite."

Cost of the tape is more than $9 per roll.

Senate Republican leader Robert A. Taft (Ohio) agreed. He said he does not foresee political repercussions from the squabble.

Some Democrats thought otherwise but they were holding their fire for the present.

Investment came hard, especially for Stevens, who pleaded with the committee at a long, emotional hearing Thursday not to make him give up his 42,886 shares in his family's big textile firm.

He finally surrendered in the face of adamant senatorial insistence that he could not be compensated for the purchase of approximately 400 shares of the stock.

Other activity at the get-together included a short historical talk on the group by Pegues and a speech by Harry McWaters, camping and activities chairman, on the forthcoming jamboree.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The dirtiest brat left on the Eisenhower doorstep by the departing Democrats is the now-celebrated international oil cartel case.

The inside story of last-minute handling of this problem child by the Truman administration is just now beginning to come out. It involved a wide split in the Truman cabinet and the National Security Council, which is the top government defense planning group.

The sequence of events leading up to this grand snafu goes back to Iran's 151 nationalization of its oil properties, then under long lease to the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

In July, 1951, J. Howard McGrath, the U. S. attorney general, granted to Defense Production Administrator C. E. Wilson authority to form a foreign petroleum supply committee from 19 leading U. S. oil companies, with complete immunity from any possible anti-trust prosecution. Purpose of this "voluntary agreement," as it was called, was to help meet the world oil shortage caused by the shutoff of 700,000 barrels of daily oil production from the Iranian fields.

By July, 1952, the world oil supply situation had been largely straightened out. The 19-company "plan for action No. 1," under which this had been accomplished, was therefore suspended.

Two of the companies dropped out of the agreement. But the other 17 continued to work together in a Park Avenue, New York, headquarters, which they maintained at their own expense, to furnish the government with world oil supply information on request.

McGrath Sought To Find Fault Last September, however, Attorney General James P. McGranery, who had succeeded McGrath, wrote to Henry H. Fowler, who had succeeded Wilson, that there was no longer any need for continuance of this voluntary agreement among the oil companies. Mr. McGranery requested that their association be suspended. This would automatically end the immunity from possible anti-trust action.

Mr. Fowler wrote back in October that in the opinion of the secretaries of Defense and Interior, the need for government cooperation with the oil companies still existed.

Some areas of the world had only a 10-day reserve of aviation gas on hand. It was necessary for the U. S. government to know what these supplies were at all times. The information could be secured only from the oil companies who could also get information on foreign oil stocks.

In spite of this, Attorney General McGranery on Jan. 7 repeated his request to Mr. Fowler that the voluntary agreement be suspended. The matter was then taken to the cabinet meeting on Jan. 16.

Mr. Fowler explained that with the crisis pending the world supply situation might again be upset. He then showed Mr. McGranery an unsigned draft of a letter in which he asked authority to con-

Jordan 'Ain't Got Nobody'

A multi-register rendition of "I Ain't Got Nobody" by Sheriff Rufe Jordan at the weekly meeting of the Pampa Lions Club dwarfed two other major parts of the program.

By means of putting a $1 roll of Scotch tape at the place of each member Lion during the Thursday noon meeting local Jaycees were able to achieve a 98 per cent selling record to boost their current campaign of equipping area vehicles with the safety tape.

Representing the Pampa League of Women Voters, Mrs. Leslie Hart gave assembled Lions a questionnaire in order to "take an inventory of their citizenship."

To promote further the Jaycees' safety-selling program, it was learned today, young persons of Harrah Methodist Church — currently working Long's Service Station, 321 S. Cuyler, to help raise $1,000 for a new church — have agreed to clean bumpers and install the tape Saturday, turning over the proceeds to the Jaycees.

Jordan's interpretation of "I Ain't Got Nobody" was a carbon copy — as much as he could make it — of his presentation over the radio recently when he contributed his voice from a sickbed for the March of Dimes.

A standing ovation greeted the completion of his performance Thursday.

Representing the Jaycees, Ed Myatt explained the advantages of Scotch tape, sanctioned by various law enforcement agencies throughout the nation, and kept on talking while the tape sale was going on.

At the end of the citizenship test, Mrs. Hart urged all Lions who missed questions on the quiz to look them up and remember them.

Harrah's young persons are working the service station the last three days of this week to raise money to be used for decorating the Sunday School class room of the new church, buying equipment and constructing regional facilities, according to Rev. Raymond Dyess, Harrah pastor.

Harvesters Meet Midland Tonight; Odessa Tomorrow Night

Bond Has Flu; May Miss Tonight's Tilt

With their star junior center sidelined with influenza, the Hustlin' Harvesters cagers take on the Midland Bulldogs tonight at the Harvester field house in a District 1-AAAA contest.

Jimmy Bond, top scorer for the Harvesters, missed practice yesterday due to a case of influenza and he will not be in the starting lineup tonight.

Coach Clifton McNeely said this morning that Bond had improved during the night last night and unless he gets worse today he will suit out tonight. But McNeely said Bond definitely wouldn't start the game tonight.

The fifth starter tonight will be Don Fagan, junior guard. Fred Woods will likely take over the center spot in place of Bond with John Odum moving over from his guard position to Wood's forward post.

Buddy Cockrell will be at his regular forward post and Fagan and Bill Webb will be the starting guards.

The Harvesters will be seeking their 18th straight win tonight and 18th straight this season. Their district record is 7-0 as compared to 0-7 of Midland.

However, the Bulldogs have been stubborn at times this season and with no pressure on them tonight the Midlanders could make a 11 rough especially with Bond on the sidelines.

After tonight's game, the Harvesters will meet the Odessa

Frogs - Ponies Clash Tonight

DALLAS, Jan. 30—UP—Texas Christian meets crippled Southern Methodist Friday night, highly favored to outplay the Mustangs and climb into a second-place tie in the Southwest Conference basketball race.

The TCU-SMU match is the only conference game of this week.

The Frogs were reported in top shape for the game. But SMU's top scorer, sophomore forward Art Barnes, was still sidelined from injuries received two weeks ago and there was some question of whether he will be able to play any more this season.

Coach E. O. (Doc) Hayes said Barnes' physician doesn't want to risk him getting any more blows.

Barnes suffered a deep muscle bruise and it has failed to respond to treatment, Hayes said.

The Mustangs have not won in three loop starts since they emerged as the pre-season tournament champions. The defending champion Frogs have been steadily improving and a victory Friday night would put them into a second place tie with Rice and Baylor, with a 3-2 record.

Texas, leading the race with a 3-1 record, is idle this week.

Mitchell, Berra, 3 Braves Sign '53 Baseball Pacts

By UNITED PRESS
Outfielder Dale Mitchell, runner-up for the American League batting crown in 1952, became the Cleveland Indians' third regular to sign Friday when he came to terms with General Manager Hank Greenberg.

Mitchell, who hit .323 last season, was understood to have received about $25,000—a raise of approximately $2,500.

Meanwhile, catcher Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees signed for about $37,500 and the Boston Braves corralled three of their stars—catcher Walker Cooper, outfielder Sam Jethroe and third baseman Ed Mathews.

Berra, accepting a raise of about $2,500, predicted that the Yankees would win their fifth straight pennant in 1953 and said he weighed only 159 pounds as a result of intensive water golfing.

Reynolds indicated that he and the Yankees were "not too far apart" and the big 20-game winner probably will come to terms this weekend.

Kiner Softening
Kiner, softening his rejection of a 25 per cent offer by Branch Rickey, said, "It is only a matter of getting together," and seemed to be reconciling himself to the inevitable.

On other fronts:

The Brooklyn Dodgers announced that first baseman Wayne Belardi, outfielder Sandy Amoros and catcher Dick Teed had signed bringing their satisfied list to 32 players.

The Chicago Cubs listed 26 players signed when they added catcher Tony Prameza, pitchers Omar (Tuck) Lown and Fred Backewski and first baseman Fred Richards.

The Pirates announced the signing of Carlos Bernier, Puerto Rican speedster who stole 85 bases in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Sedgman Widens Tennis Lead
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 30—UP—Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor swept the singles events in their cross-country tennis tour with Jack Kramer and Panch Segura Thursday night.

Sedgman widened the gap to 11 matches to 6 over Kramer with his 6-4, 6-4, victory. McGregor won his third match in 18 engagements against Segura, 9-7, 6-2.

Kramer and Segura came back in doubles play to win, 6-4, 6-4, before 3,350 persons. The troupe plays in Toledo, Ohio, Friday night.

Five Pampa Glovers In Action Tonight

J. N. Wright To Make Tourney Debut

Five Pampa District Golden Gloves champions will enter the ring tonight when the Regional GG tournament at Amarillo resumes after a night's layoff.

Three of the five Pampans to fight tonight will be making their initial appearance in the tournament that began Tuesday night.

Kenneth Wood of Shamrock in the 135-pound division; J. N. Wright of the Boys Club in the 155-pound bracket; and Dick Murray in the light-heavyweight division of the Open Class will make their debut in the '53 regional tourney tonight.

The other two Pampa District winners to see action tonight will be Duggie Jameson of Wellington in the 105-pound bracket and Bobby Wilhelm in the 147-pound class.

Both boys will be making their second appearance. Wilhelm knocked out Herbert Hartley of Plainview in the first round of his opening bout Tuesday night and Jameson won by TKO over Ira Eads, Amarillo (Buck's) Wednesday night, also in the first round.

Wilhelm will meet Johnny Boyce of Amarillo (Buck's) tonight while Jameson will take on Russell Sams of Lakeview.

Wood, bidding for his third regional title, meets Howard Millsap of Sudan in his regional opener.

Wright, loser in a close bout with Jimmy Pennington of Shamrock in the district finals here, contests Calvin Costley of Canyon in his regional debut.

Murray, two-time winner in the lightweight class in the high school division both at the district tournament here and at the regional tournament, makes his initial showing tonight against Harry Stoner of Amarillo (Borden's).

There were no fights last night as the fighters look a night off. Failure of Lubbock to send its district champions to Amarillo was responsible for cancelling the third of the five-fight tourney.

The third night of the tourney will be held tonight instead with the finals set for tomorrow night.

Guerillas Bow In AAU Play

Graham - Home of Amarillo loaded with ex-college stars, handed the Pampa B. team Guerillas their third AAU League loss last night with a 25-18 triumph.

The Guerillas played a ball-court game and it almost paid off in a victory. The ultimate outcome was in doubt until the final two minutes of the game when the Amarillo five pulled away.

The Guerillas battled the Amarillo team to a 5-5 tie in the first quarter, dropped behind 13-7 at halftime and it was 16-8 at the end of three quarters.

The Guerillas closed the gap in the early portion of the fourth but the winners stayed off the threat.

Ken Hinkle was high point man for the Guerillas with six points.

The Guerillas meet Borger B. in their next outing Monday night in another AAU Loop contest at Amarillo.

Skyline Loop Finds It Rough On Road

DENVER, Jan. 30—UP—Skyline Conference basketball teams, tough to beat on their home courts, have been plagued this season with the same misfortune whenever they take to the road.

So far this season, against conference and non-conference opposition, Skyline teams have won a better-than-average 71 and lost 56 games, including the championship of the Holidays Festival at Madison Square Garden in New York and runner-up spots in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C.

But only 11 of the 56 losses for Skyline teams have been on their home courts. The combined record of the four top teams in the conference—Wyoming, Brigham Young, Montana, and Colorado A&M—shows only one home-court loss this season, an early-season Wyoming setback by Missouri.

Miseries On Road
But once the teams leave home, the shooting miseries strike and winning streaks fall by the wayside.

For example, Wyoming had won 17 straight Skyline Conference games over the past two seasons. The Cowpokes were rated the nation's third best defensive team and had the two leading scorers in the conference. But last week, the Poles, traveled "southward" to play Brigham Young and Utah.

Against BYU they took a 71-to-49 drubbing and then barely edged mediocre Utah 94 to 81.

All four of Brigham Young's losses this season have been away from home, while the Cougars won all eight of their games on their own court.

Harvester Basketeers, During McNeely Regime, Have Won Nearly 90 Per Cent

The Hustlin' Harvesters, actually, will be bidding for their 18th straight win tonight when they take the floor against the Midland Bulldogs.

The Green and Golders won the last two games last year and those tacked on to this year's string of 15 given them a 17 game winning streak.

We stand to be corrected but this is the longest win streak ever run up by a Harvester cage squad.

Coach Clifton McNeely is building on quite a record as the Harvester cage boss. McNeely coached teams have won 134 games against only 17 defeats, a respectable .887 percentage. This is McNeely's sixth year as the Harvester cage boss.

While the Harvesters have already beaten the seven teams that remain on their 1953 schedule, their unbeaten record this year will be in serious danger in practically all of their remaining games this year.

OK Harvesters, let's run that win streak to 18 games this week.

Opponent over the Wildcats of course, will be the Nobilit-Coffey Chiefs. The Chiefs need little introduction to Top 'o' Texas cage fans. They can hold their own with the best of 'em.

Without further say, you better circle Feb. 11 on your calendar. A real show is in store.

Stydahar agreed on the telephone Thursday with Managing Director Walter Wolfner that he would replace Joe Kuharich, fired Wednesday, as the chief mentor of the Cardinals. Next Thursday he will appear in Chicago to sign his three year "bonus" contract.

Wolfner said the "bonus" would hinge upon improving the Cards' position in the league standings. This year the club won four of 12 games in Kuharich's first year as head coach.

UT-Baylor Frosh To Play At Temple

TEMPLE, Tex., Jan. 30—UP—Temple has been chosen as the 1953 site of the freshmen football game between the University of Texas and Baylor University on Oct. 1.

Athletic Director D. X. Bible of the University of Texas and Coach George Sauer of Baylor met with members of the Temple Chamber of Commerce recreation committee at a noon luncheon Thursday and completed the arrangements.

The game will be played on Woodson field starting at 8 p.m. with Baylor the home team. Plans also are being discussed to have the game played here in 1954 and 1955.

The Wizards were here last year and many of you know the kind of performance they put on. The Whiskered boys are being brought here by the Harvester Booster's Club, the organization that is backing the Harvester basketeers. Proceeds of the game will go toward honoring the Green and Gold cagers with a banquet at the end of the season.

Harrison's 64 Good For Tucson Lead

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 30—UP—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, an old pro with the confidence of a youngster, takes another whack at par Friday in a campaign to stretch his one-stroke lead in the $10,000 Tucson open golf tournament.

Most of the big name pros shattered par over the 6870-yard El Rio golf course in the opening round Thursday, but the easy-going Ardmore, Okla., veteran led the 135-player pack with a six-under-par performance.

Harrison, using his putter like a magic wand, fired a 30 on the back nine after a mediocre 34 showing on the front nine for a total of 64, one stroke better than a field of four challengers who were hard on his heels.

Harrison made it the easy way with six birdies, escaping bogeys completely on the flat, sunny course.

Behind him with 65's came Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N.Y.; Iveson Martin of Maplewood, N.J.; Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C. and the seemingly over present challenger Tommy Bolt of Maplewood.

Women Wear Right Shoes, Wrong Time

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

UP Staff Correspondent

Too many women try to cover approximately the same mileage as the cop on the corner beat without changing from their high heeled pumps to their walking shoes.

The result is not only sore feet, but tired backs, lined faces and various other unpleasant effects, according to a survey of the walking habits of 4,000 women made by the American Foot Care Institute, which is an association of pediatricians and chiropodists with national headquarters in New York.

"Fifteen years ago I was connected with a survey on women in the kitchen," said Dr. Benjamin Kauff, director of the institute. "Then we found that the average housewife walked 3-4 miles a day, and most of them were wearing old broken down house shoes or mules."

Included All Phases

Now, reasoning that women have been liberated from long hours in the kitchen, the survey concentrated on all phases of women's activities.

In brief, the fairer sex has a tendency to wear the right shoes at the wrong time.

"No woman would suggest that the corner cop walk his beat in a pair of high heels," Dr. Kauff said. "But according to our survey millions of American women walk around from six to eight hours a day in spike-heeled pumps."

He calls this "slow mutilation of the foot." High heels "force a woman to walk down hill," he explained, and she compensates for this by throwing her stomach forward and arching her back, all of which puts heavy pressure on the spinal cord.

He thinks it's fine to wear high heels on special occasions, but recommends a sturdier shoe for walking and long standing.

Live Graciously In 1-Room Apartment

It's entirely possible to live graciously and comfortably in one room today. With so many innovations in double duty furnishings, one room can easily serve the functions of three or four.

While the majority of dual purpose items are of contemporary design, there are also some excellent pieces done in period styles. Thus, both style preference and convenience can be achieved regardless of space limitations.

In planning a one-room apartment, the sleeping area is usually dominant. The first concern should be for the comfort of the sleep foundation since it will take hard wear for twenty-four hours a day, both for lounging and sleeping. It's always advisable to buy the best the budget allows.

Either good quality convertible sofa beds or slipcovered mattresses and bedsprings-on-legs with storage backs work out nicely. A standard twin bed slides under the cabinet or shelf space for a comfortable seating depth during the day. Two of these can be used end to end against a long unbroken wall or in a corner arrangement to form the focal point of a conversational grouping.

Sectional units which can be stacked up in a dozen different ways can be used as room dividers or along the wall to provide extra storage space. Large coffee tables with extension legs aren't actually working.

Second, get rid of the clutter. Systematically—room by room. And then stay rid of it—by having the courage to give things away or throw them away as soon as they are no longer useful to your family. Don't worry about the occasional times when you find yourself wishing you had saved something. Better to wish you had something back once in a great while than to spend your whole life confused by clutter.

Nothing will ever make housework a breeze or keep it from ever becoming boring. But following those three steps ought to make it much less frustrating and far less exhausting.

"You need a sturdy shoe with a leather sole that absorbs perspiration when you work as a salesgirl or in a factory," Kauff said. Leather soles also were recommended to minimize the chance of athlete's foot in warm climates. And women in cold areas who suffer from frostbite were told to save tight, pointed-toe shoes for spring.

A few simple rules for foot care would eliminate a lot of pain, strain and fatigue wrinkles in the face, the survey concluded. The experts recommend washing the feet daily and limbering up the foot muscles at night either with light massage or by rotating the foot; then getting a shoe wardrobe that includes sensible shoes for various occasions.

The Lesson-Sermon titled "Love" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday will point out that the degree of one's love of God determines his health, happiness, and success.

The Golden Text presents the theme with these words from Jeremiah: "Let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise loving-kindness, judgment, and righteousness, in the earth" (Jeremiah 9:24).

One of the citations to be read from the Bible is this verse: "A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly: and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother" (Proverbs 18:24).

Further stressing the universal brotherhood of man are these statements from the Christian Science textbook: "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it; seeking his own in another's good. Love giveth to the least spiritual idea might, immortality, and goodness, which shine through all as the blossom shines through the bud" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, page 818).

Is housework getting you down? Well, you may be interested to hear about the results of a study of fatigue among housewives by two psychologists.

They discovered that the women became most tired by housework when they did the most work. It is the women who had a long standing dread of housework, those who were bewildered by the clutter that surrounded them, and those who couldn't make up their minds where "to begin"—who couldn't decide which chore to tackle first.

DON'T DREAD IT

These findings seem to indicate that you can do something about hating housework.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS

All of the flavorful things that go so nicely with pork have been rounded up to make the stuffing for the chops suggested here. Whole kernel corn, apple, parsley, onion and sage are the savory ingredients which are coupled with bread crumbs and moistened with double rich evaporated milk. After the stuffing is tucked inside, the chops are seasoned with salt and pepper, dredged with flour and browned handsomely. Evaporated milk reconstituted with water is then poured over, the chops are covered and cooked gently until tender on top of the range. These pork chops are superb eating and filling! A green vegetable and pickled beets make a pretty and satisfying plate accompaniment.

CORN STUFFED PORK CHOPS

4 loin pork chops
1/2 cup frozen or canned whole kernel corn
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 small unpeeled apple, finely chopped (about 1/2 to 2/3 cup)
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1/4 teaspoon rubbed sage
1/4 cup evaporated milk
Salt and pepper
Flour
1 tablespoon fat
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup water

Chops should be about 1 inch thick. Cut slit in edge of chop about 2 inches wide, then cut pocket in chop from this outer edge to bone. When using canned corn, be sure it is well drained. Frozen corn should be thawed before using. This may be done quickly by heating the half cup corn without water in a small saucepan over very low heat for 3 to 5 minutes. Blend corn with crumbs, parsley, apple, onion, salt, pepper, sage and the 1/2 cup milk. Fill pockets in the chops with the corn mixture. Skewer outer edges of chops to keep stuffing in, if necessary. Sprinkle chops on both sides with salt and pepper, then dredge with flour. Melt fat in large fry pan and brown chops on both sides. After chops are browned, add the 1/2 cup evaporated milk mixed with the 1/2 cup water. Cover tightly

LaVelle Rhoades Is Bride Of Jerry Bolia

WHITE DEER (Special) — In a simple wedding ceremony performed recently in Portales, N.M., Miss LaVelle Rhoades, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rhoades, and Mr. Jerry Bolia, became the bride of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bolia of Ludlow, Vermont.

The bride, a 1952 graduate of White Deer High School, where she was a member of "Masquers," Pep Squad, and Future Homemakers of America. She recently completed her first year at West Texas State College, Canyon, where she majored in Primary and Elementary Education. She was a member of Theta Beta Epsilon, a Geographic History Society.

The bridegroom received his discharge from Amarillo Air Force Base after three years of service. He graduated from a private school in government, after which he attended the University of New Hampshire where he completed two years of pre-medical training.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolia plan to continue their education, and cook over low surface heat until tender, about 45 minutes. If desired, flour and additional diluted evaporated milk may be added to the drippings in the pan to make gravy. Makes 4 servings.

Capacity Audience Hears De Paur Chorus

By K. W. BAUMGARDNER

Last night Community Concert members were privileged to hear one of the best trained choral ensembles now before the public. From comments made during intermission and after the concert it was evident the audience, including large number of reciprocity members from Shamrock and Plainview, had their expectations realized.

The opening number "Credo," which the infantry chorus themselves inspired, was the embodiment of the entire program. The philosophy of the poem by George P. Lovell, set to music by Dai-keong Lee, "This I believe... Thou didn't make words the Language of the Mind and Music the Language of the Soul," explained how the unbelievable could be achieved by human voices.

Under the brilliant, dynamic and precise leadership of Leonard de Paur the program ran the gamut from the Cathedral-like Russian Liturgical, "Salvation is Created," Tchaikovsky - Norden, to the unrestrained harmonies of Ivan Langstroth's "Two Songs for Male Chorus" ("Deep Wet Moss" - "Crazy Medicine"). The program included songs in five different languages (not including English and dialects), songs from the illustriously simple unison, such as the melodic line of the "Chinese Soldier's Elegy," Chiang Ting - Hsien, to the massive clusters of six and eight part cords, many of which were interspersed with sixths, sevenths and ninths. Perfect vocal balance was maintained throughout the program, even with the numerous entrances of the nine soloists.

Though the program was in five parts — Contemporary, Latin American, Songs from World War II, Negro Spirituals and Work Songs and Songs of Faith — de Paur planned each group so that it was musically and vocally complete in itself.

The Latin American group was among the best received, owing to the rhythmic accompaniment effects for which this group is noted. "Waiting Matilda," the well-known, robust tune from Australia, was another favorite of the evening. As far as individual numbers are concerned, the "Calla No Llores" arr. Andre-de Paur, in the Latin American group was outstanding for its tonal balance and dynamic levels in each section. In the Negro Spirituals and Work Song group "Jesus Hung and Died," "Yissas Elam," and "No Bottom," Waits-de Paur, were especially descriptive, the former emotionally stirring, the latter dramatizing a scene on the Mississippi. Probably most skillfully executed numbers of the evening were the three Bach Chorales. If audience response was indicative, "Rodger Young," Loesser-de Paur, was the favorite of the evening. Certainly a most fitting ending to the concert was de Paur's arrangement of the well-loved Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," featuring one of the favorite soloists of the

Reality Of Dollars

From time to time, with hardly anybody listening, economists talk about the difference between dollar wages and real wages. The difference is really not hard to see.

Dollar wages are so many units of folding money and fractional silver. Real wages are the things the wage worker can get with the contents of his pay envelope, such as food, clothing, places to live in, cinema tickets, television sets — and discharge of his tax liability. The same difference exists between dollar income of any sort and its counterpart in real income.

And the same distinction applies perfectly to the government's dollar revenue and what it can get for its tax or its borrowings.

Over a run of years great numbers of citizens have been finding their dollar incomes increasing and are still having the same experience. But in the same measure that they buy things more freely than they need to they find that they are getting fewer or poorer things. That is, the rise in their real income lags behind that in their dollar income; for many, real income actually shrinks.

So it is with the United States Treasury and its thousands of procurement officers. The more billions of dollars they spend the less they get for them in things, actually or relatively. Particularly when the government is spending much for things of no economic usefulness or capacity to produce goods useful to civilians, it is unavoidably swelling the number of dollars in the hands of the people — dollars which can be and are spent on a supply of goods which the government itself is restricting.

All of which means that the government is in the same financial boat with the people as a whole, that in the measure of its spending beyond immediate strict necessity it rigs the markets against itself and so reduces its real buying power in comparison with its available dollars. To this extent the government's fiscal problems, now becoming more acute, are of its own making.

Your Husband?

A husband is a man who: Will ask indignantly, "Where in the world have you been?" if he gets home from the office 15 minutes before you get home from a bridge game, and will leave you to go on a week's hunting trip with what he considers a husbandly interest in your welfare, a reminder to "be sure and lock the doors at night."

Isn't even sheepish when he fails to notice the new curtains in the bedroom, the ones you spent all day making, but looks hurt if you don't mention that he has had a haircut.

Never says "I wonder what I did with such-and-such," but always asks "What did you do with my this or that?"

Needs you to hand him things if all he is going to do is put a light bulb in a ceiling fixture.

Insists that you've got to stop cooking such big meals because he is gaining weight, and the first time you serve him what he says is enough for anybody, polishes off a box of crackers and a half pound of cheese before going to bed.

Is the life of the party when you are dead on your feet and dying to go home, and falls asleep in his chair when you want him to be especially charming to a guest.

Looks unhappy when you call him a pet name in public, however pleased he looks when you call him the same pet name at home.

Groans to you that he is dying when he is ill, but starts kidding about his ailment the minute he has a man caller.

Can't understand why it exasperates you to have him tell you not to go "to any trouble" when you're having six for dinner.

Told you all the time that he was courting you that you were different from other women and then spends the rest of his life saying "if that isn't just like a woman" every time you do something or express an opinion he thinks is unreasonable.

Teach The Ladies

The U. S. Tariff commission wants higher duties on pipes imported into this country to protect the poor pipemakers of our own land.

The commission has looked into the matter and has found that foreign makers — even after paying tariffs up to 76 per cent — are making things too rough for American pipemakers. So the commission asked ex-President Truman to revoke tariff concessions on imported briars. It seems that if something isn't done pipe men will have to close their factories and take government jobs.

The nasty foreign pipemakers are grabbing off all the choice Algerian and Corsican briar which is the best root for pipe bowls and are flooding the American market with cheap pipes. This is the story of our domestic pipe men.

But Europeans scoff at this testimony. A British pipe maker says one-third of the imports are miniatures sold to children, and he claims the harm suffered by American pipe makers is due to the decline in the number of U. S. pipe smokers.

Since men are losing their taste for pipes, the solution is simple. Just teach the ladies the pleasure of a good briar pipe.

"The Devil's Advocate"

III

For the last couple of days I have been commenting on "The Devil's Advocate" by Taylor Caldwell. Taylor Caldwell, so the jacket of the book says, is devoting her life to promoting peace. It is a philosophical novel advocating a limited government.

The novel tells how the Minute Men, who had infiltrated the military, explained how the school teachers, as reported in the last issue, had been guilty of betraying Americanism. Then it goes on to tell how the farmers had been favored and how the Minute Men in the military took possession of the farmers' houses and land, which turned them against the Democracy and an expanding government. One of the Minute Men quotes Goethe as saying: "When the masses fight they are respectable." Then he continues by saying: "But the masses had not fought, so they were no longer respectable, and in losing their self-respect they had become serfs. The fighting was left to a few men. But hadn't that always been so throughout the history of the world?"

It seems to me that is the way it has always been. Remember, the Great Teacher said: "Enter ye in at the strait gate; for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

We cannot expect much leadership from those who are more interested in food and shelter and entertainment than they are in freedom.

The author of the book has been quite a reader because she quotes repeatedly wise statements from the philosophers of the Ages. She quotes Thomas Paine as saying: "Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered."

The book tries to get people to believe in themselves and be self-reliant. It has one of the Minute Men quote Henrik Johan Ibsen, the Norwegian poet and dramatist, as saying: "The strongest man upon earth is he who stands 'most alone.' The man who wants to be always with the majority is not anything but strong."

One of the Minute Men philosophizes by saying: "Do you think a nation is an abstract idea, that liberty is a thing apart from man?"

Another of the Minute Men remarked: "The business of totalitarianism was not only the death of the body but the death of the soul."

All through the book it has a lot to say about what the youth was taught. On page 231 the author has one of the Minute Men say:

"The young were the victims of evil semantics; the jargon of time-serving scientists had become part of the vocabulary of the schools. The scientists had been among the very first to betray America, and though they were now controlled by the Military, their enthusiasm for The Democracy had increased through the years. Not to the scientists, then (once considered by sentimentalists to be the clear-eyed sages of the centuries), but to the homely old and the middle-aged would youth have to turn for the nobility of words."

Down South... Arms Spending Won't Produce Prosperity In United States

By THURMAN SENSING, Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, Tennessee

Anyone who gives the matter any thought at all knows that absolutely unproductive expenditures, such as our present defense and war expenditures, cannot possibly produce prosperity. Yet the myth persists that they do, and this belief permeates all ranks, from high to low.

In his last major message to Congress, the annual economic report, President Truman predicted "unparalleled prosperity" through-out 1953, but added that there are "some signs of trends in the opposite direction," and said that adjustments will have to be made to take up the slack when defense spending levels off late this year.

The belief spreads into the ranks of the forecasters, such as a forecast in a popular magazine recently containing such comments as: Arms spending will underwrite active business, business setback will become less likely if war goes on; depression of a severe kind simply is not in sight, as spending on arms cannot be cut drastically as long as a war is under way.

A well-known economist recently said that a recession is in the cards in the not-far-distant future, that it seemed very probable whenever arms spending turns down substantially.

Even bankers, who should be as sane and sensible about such matters as people can be, fall into the same fallacious reasoning. A poll of the opinions of bankers in a certain city recently on the economic outlook revealed that they were optimistic but that they based their optimism on the government's continued heavy expenditures for armaments for the defense program.

It is even rumored that certain of the Communist leaders in Russia are of the opinion that they should allow the Korean War to end, in the belief that it is war spending that supports our economy and that ending of the war would bring economic collapse to this country, and they would gain their ends without further fighting.

Closely allied to this line of reasoning is the belief held by many people in Britain, Europe and elsewhere that lead-lease and Marshall Aid has helped us just as much or more than it has helped them, that it was devised for that purpose, that without the economic activity produced in the United States by these give-away programs, we would have had much unemployment and a consequent depression.

This whole attitude, of course, is part and parcel of the philosophy that has been promulgated among us in recent years — and that has misled so many of us — that we can spend ourselves into prosperity; that if we spend enough dollars — no matter what we spend them for — we can buy prosperity.

There was never any more fallacious philosophy than that defense spending and give-away spending can produce prosperity. Such spending may give the people generally a feeling of prosperity because they have more dollars in their pockets, but they are inflated dollars and inflation will eventually destroy a nation as inevitably as war and famine.

We had just as well make up our minds right now that if we cannot have prosperity in time of peace, then we don't deserve it in time of war. If prosperity must be bought with the blood of our sons in far away lands, then we shouldn't want prosperity.

But we can have prosperity in time of peace. It is ridiculous to take any other attitude. This belief that our prosperity depends

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JOHAN, M.D.

Stammering or stuttering (the words means the same thing) is an important problem, and since it usually begins about the age of three and rarely after the age of six, parents have the major responsibility in treating it promptly while it can still yield to relatively simple measures.

Furthermore, stuttering is important since it can influence not only all the activities of childhood, but the occupations and lives of those who are fully grown.

Stuttering not only varies a great deal from person to person, but also from time to time in the same person. However, whether the condition is serious or mild, it is the parents who are likely to notice it first.

There are a number of theories as to what causes some children to stutter while others do not. At present, the idea that stuttering is inherited, or even that there is a predisposition to it in certain families, is losing ground, and the theory that stuttering is a form of behavior problem is gaining.

According to the latter, any child, if unfavorably stimulated, subject to conflicts, or frustrated in various ways, would learn to stutter. In other words, stuttering is a slightly abnormal reaction in a perfectly normal youngster.

The reason that early intelligent management of stuttering is so important is that when it first begins, parents may show irritation, or else become too helpful, thus developing self-consciousness in the youngster.

It is felt, therefore, that in the early stage of developing stuttering, parents alone, if they have the proper advice, may be able to care for the situation.

Most young stutters respond rather rapidly when the pressure from their parents or other unfavorable aspects of their environment are removed, and if they have not become overanxious. This, of course, is the ideal situation.

The improvement of stuttering in those who have it badly, however, is a more complicated problem. In such cases, both parents and youngster have to be advised concerning their relationships to each other, the strains of the environment, and speech practice is often necessary.

It is encouraging to point out that the over one million stutters in the United States have greatly improved chances of proper treatment as the result of studies made in the last 25 years or so.

A number of experts in speech have been trained and can be consulted in many speech centers spotted around the country. A professional organization known as the American Speech and Hearing Association (11 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Illinois) is active. A booklet on stuttering for parents and others concerned with the problem has been published by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults at the same address.

National Whirligig... GOP Will Seek To Reestablish US Constitution's Supremacy

By RAY TUCKER, WASHINGTON — Re-establishment of the supremacy of the American Constitution, federal and state laws over United Nations decisions will be sought at the current session of Congress by leading Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Although the movement may embarrass the Eisenhower administration, it is believed that the President and Secretary Dulles are sympathetic to the basic idea. Otherwise, they will tangle with Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin.

chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and American delegate to the U.N., and with Sen. Jenner of Indiana, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Even former Secretary Dean Acheson favored a limitation on U.N.'s power in this field, but he never outlined his position officially. He was waiting until test cases raising the question reached the Supreme Court.

American Investments Abroad — The controversy has been revived in an acute form as the result of a recent anti-American decision in the U.N.'s Economic and Financial Committee. By the overwhelming vote of 31-1 and 25-3, this body jeopardized present, and prospective U.S. investments abroad.

The resolution, which had the support of the Soviet, South American and Arab blocs, virtually bars the U.S. government from extending any protection to private investments in foreign countries. Indeed, it prevents the State Department from making voluntary written representations against nationalization, confiscation or outright seizure. It makes no provision for compensation.

State's latest viewpoint was set forth in an official letter to Dwight C. Baum of San Marino, Calif. After reading a reference to the U.N. resolution in this column, he protested to former Secretary Acheson. Unless rescinded, Mr. Baum said that American economic assistance to foreign nations would be as "tuttle as the handing of a quarter to a bum" on Skid Row.

NO POSITIVE STAND — The need for congressional clarification is revealed graphically in the reply which Mr. Baum received from Walter Kotschnig, director of the Office of U.N. Economic and Social Affairs in the State Department. His communication shows that the State Department has no definite or positive stand on this extremely important problem.

Kotschnig admits that the resolution is "most unfortunate," and "still not acceptable" to the United States. He then refers to amendments supposed to safeguard the flow of private capital in international channels, but it is clear that these are only meaningless and pious hopes. They have no binding effect on public or private debtors overseas.

MAY CONTINUE PROTESTS — Next Kotschnig comes to the crux of the problem as it affects American sovereignty. He attempts to minimize the effect of the resolution by giving the "interpretations" which the State Department places upon it. He says that, according to our understanding of the resolution, the U. S. may continue to make diplomatic protests whenever "property of American national is nationalized by foreign governments."

Interpretation, obviously, is not the same as that read into the resolution by the 31 and 25 nations which voted against it. It will not give our government or aggrieved "nationals" any standing should a protest against nationalization be lodged with the United Nations or in any other international body which does not accept our one-sided "interpretation."

MUDDLED AFFAIRS — Sen. Wiley and Jenner, as well as a majority of the Congress, are not satisfied with such a muddled state of affairs. They insist that our top legislative body declare, by a constitutional amendment, if necessary, that no international organization in which the Soviet bloc has so much power, shall run the internal affairs of the United States.

In that demand they have the support of such powerful groups as the American Bar Association, the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Confederacy, and just plain Americans.

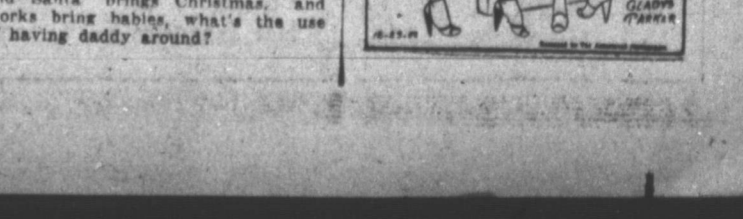

BID FOR A SMILE — Married Traveler — I want to catch a late train to New York. Information Clerk — Take No. 9 — that's usually as late as any.

Want ad in San Antonio Evening News: "Executive Director from 24 to 40. To sit at desk from 9 to 5 and watch other people work. Must be willing to play golf every other afternoon. Salary over $500 to start. We don't have this job! We just thought we'd like to see in print what everyone is applying for."

Refugee — I hear that Jim had an accident. Jerry — Yes, some one gave him a tiger cub, and told him it would eat off his hand. Rufus — It did. Jerry — It hit.

MOPSY — THEY'RE MOTHBALLS! I'M TAKING NO CHANCES WITH MY MEN! STOLE!

Modern youngsters are becoming weirder, said a little boy to his mother. If the Lord gives us our daily bread, and Santa brings Christmas, and storks bring babies, what's the use of having daddy around?

Officers Elected By Canadian Club

CANADIAN (Special) — The Men's Club of the First Christian Church met in the church dining room this week for the first meeting of the new year. The group had a steak supper and were entertained by an educational film. New officers elected for the year were Vance Stickle, president; Leslie Webb, vice-president; and Walter Burnett, secretary-treasurer. The group will hold its next meeting Monday night, February 23. It has been announced as their "Ladies Night".

Maybe Boy Wasn't Mistaken After All

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 30 — UP — Seven-year-old Ronnie Thistle will receive a puppy on a television show here Friday night because he thought the income tax collector was Santa Claus. Ronnie enclosed his request for a puppy with his father's tax payment.

EVANGELISTIC TEAM — Paul Levin and Bob Findley, pictured above, will be presented as evangelist and singer at a mid-winter evangelistic campaign at the Skellytown Community Church Feb. 1-6. Levin, a gospel preacher since he was 15, is also known in religious circles as musician and author of a number of gospel tracts. He and his traveling companion, Findley, will present special music including solos and duets with mandolin and guitar accompaniment during the Skellytown meeting. Findley is blind but sings more than 600 songs by memory. The team is heard regularly in radio transmissions and recordings over a number of radio stations. They have travelled together and presented programs since 1934. The public is invited to the Skellytown services.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Behind the Screen: There will be no teaming of Charles Laughton and his wife, Elsa Lanchester, as an intellectual Ma and Pa Kettle on those Paul Gregory - sponsored concert tours which are making a mint for some movie stars. Just back from a 14-week, 77-city trek as the star of "Elsa Lanchester's Private Music Hall" — two hours of Elsa in character comedy, recitations, songs and patter "spiced with a little seriousness" — she confessed a serious divorce from Laughton with: "We've grown apart artistically. He reads the classics and I'm a clown. He's learned to be himself — something he never did as an actor when he always became the character he was playing. I can't be myself. I have to be somebody else. Besides, if we teamed up and one of us became ill, we wouldn't have anything."

Elsa followed the concert trail pioneered by Laughton and blushed that she heard a lot along the way about "Charles blowing his top." She laughed it off with: "I can imagine what happened. He probably referred to the stage lighting, or something, as hopeless. But when Charles says something it is a little overpowering."

Merv Griffin, the ex-Fredrick Martin band vocalist due for a star buildup at Warner Bros., is confessing that he's in the same low-calorie league with Mario Lanza. Now a trim 160 pounds for his role with Kathryn Grayson in "The Grace Moore Story," Merv said: "In 1948 I was singing on a national radio show from a San Francisco station as 'America's Romantic Singing Star.' I weighed 240 pounds but I was too stupid to understand why the network never released my photograph. I didn't think I was too fat until I met Joan Edwards. 'She came to the studio, listened to the show and then collapsed. 'Look, boy, I think your singing is the end. But that blubber has to go.' 'That did it. I went out and lost 80 pounds in six months. But it's still a weight fight with me.'"

Barbara Stanwyck, who seldom gets riled, is at the boiling point over the rash of printed reports linking her to 22-year-old Bob Wagner. Re-echoing the denial she made to me months ago when she and Bob were working in "Titanic," Barbara declared: "I couldn't be less interested in anybody. He's a nice young person, but the only time I was out with him was when Clifton Webb was with us. I've never been out alone with that boy. Yet every day someone writes that I was with him at this or that place. I'm sick and tired of it. I'm past caring what anybody writes about me. Let them make up what they want to!"

They've given Tony Curtis a new haircut at U-I, eliminated the cascading curls, and handed him a script that calls for him to

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Learn When To Stay In Poker

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD Written for NEA Service "We play a game of stud poker pretty regularly," writes a Portland correspondent, "and some of the players are considered very daring, while others are considered very conservative. 'Our most conservative player never stays for a third card unless he has in his first two cards a pair or at least an ace or king. Our most daring player will stay on any two cards at all. 'What does a real expert need in his first two cards to stay in the pot?' The expert needs a reasonable chance to win the pot, and this depends only partly on what his first two cards happen to be. The rest depends on the cards that he can see around the table, the betting that goes on during the first round, and what he knows about the other players in the game. Obviously you are going to stay if you have a good enough hand in your first two cards. If you are lucky enough to be dealt a pair back to back you have a fine chance to win the pot. Even if you have only an ace or a king as one of your first two cards, your prospects are good and you should stay. If you dropped on all other hands, you would be just a spectator on two out of every three hands. This would make it a dull game for you and for everybody else, in addition to which you would soon be spotted as a very conservative player. You can usually afford to stay in a pot if one of your first two cards is as good as anything that you can see around the table. For example, suppose you have a jack in the hole and that no other player has anything showing better than a ten-spot. So far as you can tell, you have the best hand at the table and you can therefore afford to stay. There are limits to the application of this rule, however. It doesn't pay to stay in the pot unless at least one of your cards is ten-spot or higher. As we have seen, you like to have a pair, you are satisfied with an ace or a king, and you will tolerate a jack or a ten if nothing better is showing at the table. Even these rules should be modified, however, when the betting indicates that somebody has a very much better hand. For example, suppose a normally conservative player raises with only a nine-spot showing. You have a seven-spot showing with a jack in the hole. Should you stay in the pot? No. The conservative bettor probably has a pair, and this is no time for you to be stringing along with an absolute minimum playable hand.

Roberts County Schedules Livestock Show Saturday

MIAMI (Special) — Robert Marvins County Annual Livestock Show, sponsored by the Miami Men's Service Club will be held here, Saturday, Feb. 7.

Four calves are being fed out by FFA boys, under the supervision of vocational agriculture instructor, Charles Rogers, and the remaining 11 by 4-H Club members who are supervised by County Agent Vic Joyner. Although details of the show will not be completed until the Service Club meets next Tuesday night, cash awards are expected to be the same as in past shows. Rosettes and ribbons will also be awarded with cash prizes. Several other individual awards are also usually given by various merchants. Calves will be judged in two divisions — 800 pounds and under, and over-800 pounds. Cash prizes will probably range from $2.50 to $12.50, with five being given.

Weather permitting the calves will be shown on the lot adjoining the post-office. If not, they will be shown in the building formerly occupied by the Miami Feed and Grain, on Main Street. Tommy O'Loughlin will furnish hay for the show for the fourth consecutive year. FFA boys showing calves and the herd from which they were purchased are: Eldon Flowers — from James Flowers; Bob Clark — from Bob Campbell; S. E. Mayo — from ranch near Hereford; Jimmie Bean — from John Talley. 4-H Club boys are Eldon Flowers, one from R. T. Alexander and Sons; Bob Clark, one from Bob Campbell; Bill O'Loughlin, one from Bob Campbell; Tony Seitz, one from Bob Campbell; Jim Seitz, one from Bob Campbell; Bill Breeding, two from Buck Breeding, McLean; and Ronnie Gill, two from Hershall Gill.

Jackie Graham, who lives on the Bob McCoy Ranch, east of Miami was forced to withdraw his calf from competition about a month ago when the animal received a leg injury.
