Labor Launches Formal Drive For Overhaul Of Taft-Hartley

WASHINGTON, March 3 -UP- Labor launched a formal drive for drastic overhaul of the Taft-Hartley Law Tuesday in hearings before the House Labor committee. AFL President George Meany, appearing as the first union witness, urged Congress to rewrite the "oppressive" act by adopting 10 major amendments. The committee is studying proposed revisions in the law and will later hear from CIO President Walter Reuther who plans to ask for seven "fundamental" changes,

UP - Gen. James A. Van Fleet laid his Korean strategy views on the line Tuesday in a private White House talk with President Eisen.

The retired Eighth Army commander flew here through freezing rain to confer about Korea with the President and to receive a hero's welcome by the nation's civilian and military high commands.

Van Fleet is scheduled to answer congressional questions, in hear-ings starting Wednesday on what can be done to break the Korean stalemate.

His first talk, however, was with his old comrade-in-arms, President Eisenhower. Their private 30-mindier's honor.

Crocodile Tears

No one can equal a bureaucrat in shedding crocodile tears when he appears before a committee to pressure Congress for large appropriations of federal funds. The plaintive wails heard every spring are largely responsible for spreading the misconception that federal employes are underpaid and badly treated.

However, the simple fact is that the average government employe is far better off in every respect than the majority of employes in industrial operations.

The last report of the Civil Service Commission Indicates there were 2,559,168 civilian employes on the federal payroll. With few exceptions these employes work 40 hours per week and the annual payroll cost is in the neighborhood of $10 billion, which is much more than it cost to run the entire federal establishment, including the military, only short years ago. Every taxpayer hopes that these people are all usefully employed but we believe it is a safe assumption that 20 per cent of them could be advantageously dropped from the payroll with meritorious results.

Herbert Hoover once said that security is a myth but he could not have had in mind the federal employe. This fortunate individual runs little risk of losing his job even under the most unusual circumstances. No strikes plague him and even in illness his job may wait for him indefinitely. Indeed the brochures of the Civil Service Commission stress this fact, painting out that during a national depression the factory on the corner may close down but a government job runs on like the sands of time. In all kinds of national weather the officeholder has the paternalistic blanket of Uncle Sam guaranteeing his almost complete security.

Generally speaking, the federal salary scale is based on the Classification Act of 1949 which has been revised upward almost every year since that time. There are, of course, certain exceptions such as per diem employes, consultants, TVA, Foreign Service, etc. This scale runs from $1500 to $14,800 per annum. The average salary is now about $4000 per year.

Based on a 40-hour week, less some 8 holidays and an average of about 20 days off for annual leave, federal employes work about 1776 hours per year, so their average rate of pay is about $2.15 per hour. In addition, the federal employe may have up to 15 days' sick leave with pay, which can amount to 120 hours, or 3 weeks

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports the average weekly earnings in the monufacturing industry are some $66 per week, or about $3400 per year. These statistics are based on a full work year and do not reflect any loss due to strikes and layoffs

Our tax-supported employes also get automatic withingrade advancements merely by remaining on the job long enough. Their checks are sure to arrive on pay-day. There is no fear of bankruptcy or other financial difficulties, and furthermore, the federal employe need never fear a garnishee of his salary. For some reason government salary checks are protected by special legislation which insures that the "ghost will walk" each and every pay-day.

A new device to force salaries upward can be found in the so-called "super-grade" positions. The Classification. Act of 1949 permitted the creation of 400 of these lush jobs paying from $11,000 to $14,800 per

Both sick and annual leave privileges recently were revised downward to some extent; but they still are more generous than industry possibly could afford without marked increase in costs and sales prices. Most individual establishments permit two-week vacations annually to employes after they have been in the service one year. In some instances this is increased to three weeks but only after 15 years' service. This is generally computed on a calendar basis.

In contrast, the Government now permits annual leave to accrue to an employe the day he enters on duty at the rate of 13 work days a year. After three years this increases to 20 work days a year and after 15 years to 26 work days a year, or more than five calendar weeks. Unused leave may accrue to a total of 60 days, for which the employe may receive 12 weeks' pay upon severance. It has gotten to a point now where agency heads come before Congress and argue that it is cheaper to keep an employee on the payroll than it is to fire him because of the amount of annual leave he has accrued.

In the matter of sick leave the new law actually liberalized the provisions of the old law. The new law reduces the annual amount to 13 days a year but completely takes the ceiling off the maximum accrual. Thus a good healthy employe after 20 years service could remain on the payroll at full salary for over one year in event of illness.

Try to buy that kind of insurance and see what it will cost you!

There are a number of retirement systems within the government, some providing maximum benefits after only twenty years' service. For a six per cent deduction almost complete protection, is granted to the employe, the wife and the dependent children.

Industry cannot meet this kind of competition, particularly in smaller cities, without seriously raising costs. The government, of course, makes no allowance for differences in the cost of living around the country and pays the same in high cost-of-living areas as in rural greas, often enabling a government stenographer; for wample, to, enjoy a standard of living completely out of ine with her counterpart in private business.

The Civil Service Commission reports that with the exception of a few technical positions and good stenhers, there is no dearth of candidates for federal Why should there be? Uncle Sam is a soft touch!

A Negative Attitude "We have become indoctrinated with the negative idea that by 'freedom' we mean freedom from taking the risk and making our own choices and decisions. This negative attitude toward freedom exhibits itself in the very expres sions we use. Instead of freedom for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, we speak of freedom from want, worry and war (and work too, if possible). Instead of following the time-honored custom of honest men and enjoying the freedom to work for, and save for, and buy and have the things we wanted, we have thought that it would be easier to elect men to congress who would give us what we want at the expense of

The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Fhou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with ell; my cup rumeth over.

Surely goodness and me. Surely goodness and mercy shall blow me all the day of my life; and will dwell in the house of the Lord street. He maketh me to lie down in green astures: He leadeth me beside the li waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth he in the paths of righteousness for lis name's sake.

District Soil Conservation supervisors are preparing information and recommendations to send state legislators in support of a bill which would relax control on state funds allocated the SCD op-

Passage of the bill would repeal two bills passed by Congress in the last four years, winding controls tight around state funds used by the SCD.

Bill No. 90, passed four years ago, appropriated $5 million to soil conservation districts for a two-year period. Two years later Bill No. 197 reappropriated the funds but added a number of government controls forcing districts to take the "red-tape" road to financial operations.

Prior to the government aid, according to James Strawn, Gray County soil conservation agent, the districts were more or less self-governing until the $5 million appropriation brought them financially under the State Con-
