Lassie Becomes First Canine To Star On Television Screen

HOLLYWOOD, April 9—UP—Another movie star has switched to television, and this glamorous red-head was getting in shape Thursday by chewing on an old gunnysack.

Lassie, otherwise known as Greer Garson with fur, becomes the first canine star on television when she starts his own half-hour TV movies next fall.

The four-footed actor, like many a two-footer, quit MGM last year at the ripe age of 10 when the studio ran out of stories for mature, worldly dogs. The famous Collie is bored with sitting around the house and will be happy to get back to work, reported his trainer - owner, Rudd Weatherwax.

rights. Weatherwax bought the rights to the name, Lassie, from MGM, since the dog got the tag from his first movie of the same name in which Lassie, a male, was a female impersonator.

Despite his absence from the screen, he still gets fan mail and has three fan clubs.

"You should see those kids back east on our personal appearance tours," smiled the trainer. "Why, they even pull hair out of the dog."

Falls Asleep at Own Trial
NEW BERN, N. C., April 8—UP—Albert Williams, 45, fell asleep during his own trial for illegal possession of whisky.

Williams' lawyer had to awaken him to hear the jury's verdict of innocent.

Each TV movie will star Lassie
In his usual role of making bad men into heroes or pulling small fry and beautiful ladies out of distress. Or, rather, the movies will star five Lassies.

"When I work other dogs at the studios I take Lassie along for the ride," said Weatherwax while his star romped on the lawn with that gunny sack.

"He seems to think he's working, too, and it keeps him happy. He also has kept in condition by doing personal appearance tours at dog shows. And I let him play with one of his sons and that gunny sack. He's better looking now than he's ever been in his life."

Each TV movie will star Lassie in his usual role of making bad men into heroes or pulling small fry and beautiful ladies out of distress. Or, rather, the movies will star five Lassies.

Lassie has four doubles, his sons, a record no other TV actor can match.

The four Lassie, juniors, were carefully bred and trained to resemble their father. Weatherwax uses the sons for the chase scenes "because I wouldn't let Lassie do that rough stuff." He insists, however, that the original Lassie still is the star of the close-ups.

"I wouldn't leave that boy at home," he said. "He's still the star. The other dogs live in the kennels out back, but Lassie lives in the house."

After he packed up his dog his bills and moved out of MGM, Lassie was offered other contracts for theater movies but he turned them down when he couldn't get TV.

Charge On Women Drivers Proves True

NEW YORK, April 9—UP—Those things they say about women drivers apparently are true, the Automobile Club of New York reported Thursday.

The ladies can't steer straight, according to driving tests given visitors to the international motor sports show here. Out of 112 women tested, 31 per cent could not drive in a straight line. Only 11 per cent of 433 men flunked the test.

JOHNSON ★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

By ERIKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Guys and Dolls: "I made the biggest hit and the biggest bust in the shortest period of time of any female to hit Hollywood in the last 20 years."
That's Lauren Bacall, back on the sound stages in "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Being a Millionaire," groaning over some of the pictures that were tossed at her after she hit stardom in "To Have and Have Not."
"The trouble was that I didn't belong to the heavy drama school and Warners wouldn't let me get out of it," bass-voiced Mrs. Humphrey Bogart said. "I took more suspensions than B. G. B. Warner Bros. didn't know what I was talking about and I didn't know what they were talking about."
"This is comedy and people had better laugh at me. If I have any forts at all, it's comedy. Time and the dear critics will tell that. If I'm not good at this, I'll meet you at the race track."

Now it's John Payne who's turned literary. He just completed the first draft of a screenplay, "A Time to Kill," a thriller he will produce independently with Phil Karison.
If Paramount doesn't summon him for a picture and "If I okay my own script," John says he'll go to Yellowstone Park and Borrego Springs in July for his first venture as star-producer-writer.
Number 1 on his casting list: An actress with a southern accent who looks like Marilyn Monroe.
No Middle Ground
Mobydick's going to catch Janet Leigh getting out of shape for musicals again when she finishes co-starring with Donald O'Connor in U.F.'s "Walkin' My Baby Back Home."
Janet didn't bother to do her high kicks after "Two Tickets to Broadway" and nearly took the count of 10 with swollen ankles and weary muscles preparing herself for her second musical comedy dancing stint.
"This is a strange business," she told me. "Tony's doing 'All American' and he has just four weeks to look like the greatest football player who ever lived. He had five weeks to look like the greatest magician for 'Houdini.' Why is it that you're never mediocre at something in a movie? Why doesn't somebody write a screenplay about a character who's just average?"

Rock Hudson is admitting that movie make-up wizards have found a way to make him look older than his 27 years and it's opened the way for roles that he couldn't have played when the studio regarded him as "too young."
It's going to win him some senior movie queens who are fussy about smothering opposite a junior movie king, too.
"A couple of years ago, I looked like I was 19 years old and I found it tough," Rock told me on the set of U.F.'s "Back to God's Country." "Then they found out how to age me with make-up lines around the eyes. But I'm going to slug the first person who calls me Rock of Ages Hudson."
There will be no verbal slaps at Marilyn Monroe from Virginia Mayo. But she is aiming her darts at "all the frightened actresses, mostly brunets, who are changing their type and going blonde now that Marilyn is a top star."
"There's just too much hysteria about Marilyn," Virginia confided. "The hardest thing to find in Hollywood these days is a brunet. It's not fair to real brunets." Asks Virginia: "Why can't actresses be natural? Other girls come off being phony when they try to imitate Marilyn. There's nothing more charming than a woman who's herself."
Hollywood tried to change

Virginia once, "but I didn't let them. It was when Lauren Bacall was the big thing. They wanted me to be mannish like Lauren. I couldn't be. I wasn't built that way."
"All I ask is that I be allowed to play my own age."
That's Jane Powell talking about her future on the set of "Three Sailors and a Girl," and adding that playing her own age at MGM "is a problem because they've known me since I was a kid. They still remember me as a wide-eyed little thing."
Jane's headed for a night-club tour but she has no plans for a concert jaunt: "That takes more after just 7 days you'll say...

How Much Do We Know About Cancer?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: How much do we know about cancer? Year after year, the search goes on to find the secret of this killer that takes the lives of a quarter of a million people every year in America alone. Here's

Danger Signs Of Cancer

1. Any sore that does not heal.
  2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
  3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
  4. Any change in a wart or mole.
  5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
  6. Persistent hoarseness or cough.
  7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

the first of two dispatches in a progress report on the battle to find a way to stop the killer.)

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Cancer is normal cells gone berserk. Without any reason that science has yet discovered, honest, hard-working cells suddenly change into evil organisms, seemingly bent on the destruction of the animal in which they live. Unchecked, they accomplish that destruction.

While science is attempting to find something that will do that checking, the present consensus is that the best way to beat cancer is to recognize it early.

Here is how cancer operates, as closely as science can paint the tragic picture at the moment.

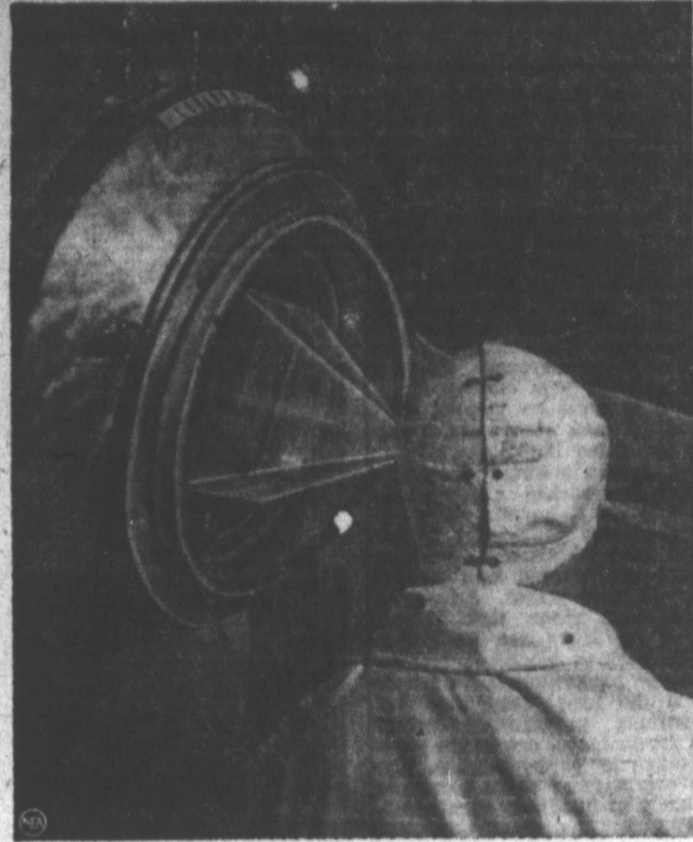

There is always an orderly replacement of cells going on in the body. Old cells wear out — as when you peel after a sunburn — and new ones are manufactured to replace them. If you are injured, this function is stepped up automatically, but, after the injury is healed, it slows down again.

In cancer, this stepped up production becomes the rule. It starts in some part of the body. Cells are turned out faster than the body can use them. The unneeded cells just pile up, forming a tumor.

If this dread stock-piling is on or near the surface of the body, a lump is noticed. If it is deep inside the body, the signs are harder to detect. At this early stage, the growth is slow.

But a point is reached when the cell production shifts into high gear. Cells multiply endlessly, ceaselessly. The pile increases. Bits of it break off and, in a process called metastasis, are carried to other parts of the body where they settle and grow and form new tumors. Tumors which do not metastasize are called "benign" tumors, and are not cancer.

If these cancers are not located in or near a vital organ, the patient may live for years. He may be completely unaware of his at-tion. That is one of cancer's greatest dangers.

Eventually, however, a growth will begin that pushes against, or grows in, a vital organ. Perhaps the windpipe is closed, perhaps a lung is overrun, perhaps the stomach or intestines become cancer-wrecked. Thus, these accumulated cells eventually kill. Cancer's death is slow and painful.

That is the course of a cancer. In the U.S., 225,000 people will die of cancer in 1953. Hundreds of thousands of others will contract it. If the current rate continues, one-quarter of these will be cured, the rest will die.

Cancer will kill 15,800,000 Americans, now living. Among or cancer last year could have survived had they gotten treatment soon enough.

Later in the disease's course, there is still some hope. Cancer therapy uses three weapons — surgery, X-ray and radium. Basically, these are the same methods that have been used for 20 years. Techniques have been improved, but the methods themselves are unchanged.

The new techniques save some lives. Surgeons, for example, can do more than ever today because of better anesthetics, infection-preventing antibiotics and similar advances. They can remove a lung or a stomach to get at a cancer. But there are still many cancers that are inoperable.

Radium and X-ray — and the new cobalt "bomb" at New York's Montefiore Hospital — aim at destroying the cancer by bombarding it with particles that halt its growth. They destroy nearby blood vessels, thus depriving the cancer cells of the food they need. But that has been advanced to respond to this treatment, or too near a vital organ which might be damaged.

If all treatment fails, science can at least make a cancer patient's suffering less intense, with new pain-killing drugs.

Actually, there are hundreds of types of cancer. Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease, which attack the bloodstream, are forms of cancer. Cancer can occur in the bones or on the skin. It can start in any part of the body where the cells divide, which means all cells except the lens and cornea of the eye. The commonest is cancer of the colon and rectum.

What causes a cancer to start? Some causes are known — a fair person may get skin cancer by staying in the sun too long over a long period of time. And people who paint radium dials on watches and point their brushes by licking them may get cancer of the stomach from the radium they swallow. Constant irritation can cause cancer, such as a lip cancer which may attack long-time pipe smokers.

But the sun, the radium and the irritation are probably secondary causes. There is probably one common cause behind these and other cancers. It could be a physical change in the nucleus of the cells. It could be something

Reds Use Dope To Pry Atom Facts

(Last of a Series.)
 EDITOR'S NOTE: NEA Reporter Douglas Larsen, who has covered atomic energy activities for several years, first got wind of the startling facts about atomic security, reported below, when he was covering recent nuclear tests at Yucca Flats. To dig deeper, he teamed up with Doyle Kline, managing editor of the Albuquerque Tribune, and his staff. Both checked their information with the most responsible sources. This is the last of their four dispatches.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN and DOYLE KLINE
 NEA Correspondents
 ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. —(NEA)—There's impressive evidence that the latest Communist espionage technique — the use of narcotics — is being widely employed in this area, which contains the heart and brains of the nation's nuclear weapons program.

Albuquerque Chief of Police Paul Shaver revealed exclusively to these reporters that within a little more than a year there have been more dope cases than in all of the city's previous history.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Stagnating backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be signs of kidney trouble. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday conditions, such as stress and strain, cause this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause peeing up nine or ten times a day. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. They have involved military personnel and civilians from bases where top-secret projects are being pursued.

Federal officials admit only that they are aware of it. They move in swiftly, and dispose of each case confidentially.

This is one facet of the bigger security situation. Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, a former FBI agent, said: "I recognize the especially difficult problem in my state occasioned by the existence here of major atomic-weapon and guided-missile projects. And in an effort to maintain maximum security, all members of the New Mexico State Police Department are cooperating in every way with federal investigatory agencies."

This means working with probably the greatest variety and concentration of federal agents to be found any place in the U.S. They include the Central Intelligence Agency, Air Force Office of Special Investigation, Office of Naval Intelligence, the Army's Intelligence Office, and Criminal Investigation Division, AEC's security forces, Armed Forces Special Weapons Project security men and Treasury's Secret Service and narcotics agents.

Yet in spite of this impressive force, vital secrets are leaking out. One asks "why?"

One criticism levelled at the present setup is the lack of a central authority to coordinate security efforts.

Security officials frankly admit that numerous problems arise which cut across the arbitrary boundaries created by federal statutes under which they must operate.

Unfortunately, they say, there is no federal law which provides machinery for coordinating their efforts.

Nevertheless, they agree on a common evaluation of the security problems involved:

1. The 20,000 atomic workers

GOVERNOR MECHEM: He sees an especially tough problem.

in the area are "walking dictionaries of restricted data." Locking up this mass of detail is the big headache.

2. The presence of so-called "sleepers" agents of the Klaus Fuchs stripe must be considered a constant possibility.

3. The "physical" problem entails trying to hide such things as tunnel entrances in a mountain, "classifying" roads, buildings, and placing some kind of a cloak around the myriad components of nuclear weapons which have to be handled by thousands of persons.

A costly, continuing education program is maintained to answer problem No. 1. Motion pictures, posters, lectures on how enemy agents operate, are poured on

Near Glass Mountains . . . Scientists Unearth Ancient Animal Skeletons In Texas

WASHINGTON, April 9.—UP—The Smithsonian Institute reported Wednesday that its geologists have unearthed some "fantastic" creatures that lived 200 million years ago in a sea of mud where the Glass Mountains of Texas now stand.

The geologists recovered the ancient skeletons and shells by dissolving about 30 tons of yellow-brown limestone taken from the area. They washed the stone away with hydrochloric acid that did not damage the creatures buried in the rock.

"The job of dissolving these fossils out of the rocks, which has been in progress for 13 years, now is nearly completed," the institution reported. "The job of classification remains to be done. With the material already at hand, however, it is possible to reconstruct a vivid picture of ancient seabottom habitat."

Dr. G. Arthur Cooper, Smithsonian curator of invertebrate paleontology and in charge of the project, reported that the Glass Mountains have proved one of the richest fossil areas in the United States.

"Probably those rocks, or rather the mud from which they were made, were close to the shore of an ancient warm ocean," the institution said. "A bewildering array of creatures lived in that sea."

The institution reported that the most abundant animals of the an-increases the hazards of security leaks.

 Most recommendations for security reforms deal with tightening present methods.
 Bernard Baruch, in his recent appearance before a Senate committee, said:
 "All this talk about government secrecy is a lot of hokum. Foreign agents know more about our military matters than our own people. They went to the heart and center of the atomic bomb before I knew one was being made."
 It's a tough problem. Your national security may depend on somebody finding a solution.

Amateur Hour Due To Return To Air

By JACK GAYER

NEW YORK, April 8—UP—It's time for the country's eager amateur performers to tune up the "Pies," dust off the dancing shoes, resin the fiddles and rinse out the musical glasses.

The "original amateur hour" is on its way back to the air. The date is April 25, the time is 7:30 p. m. and the television network is NBC.

The auditions for talent around the country will be in full swing soon. In addition to the orthodox performers, they can be expected, as usual, to turn up a fair quota of oddities that may run the gamut from a virtuoso on the willow whistle to a maestro of a balling-wire harp-sichord.

The late Major Edward G. Bowes originated the program on local radio station WHN back in 1934 after he had made his weekly "family hour" broadcasts from his capitol theater a favorite radio show.

"Amateur hour" grew quickly in popularity and just a year later, in March, 1935, it became an NBC radio network feature, consistently attracting sponsors that made it one of the biggest money-makers for 10 years.

An off-shoot was the organization of "Major Bowes units," consisting of winners on radio programs who toured the country in profitable public appearances.

Some of the graduates of "amateur hour" who went on to make names for themselves include Robert Merrill and Mimi Benzell, opera stars; Frank Sinatra, comedian; Jack Carter, dancer; Ray Malone, singer; Thelma Carpenter, and Paul Winchell, the ventriloquist, now a TV star in his own right, who gets his pocket money from Jerry Mahoney.

After Major Bowes died in 1945, the program was off the air for a few seasons, but it returned as a television feature on the Dumont network in January, 1948, with Ted Mack replacing the major as master of ceremonies.

Government's Cook Booklets Look Silly, But Have Purpose

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Department of Agriculture has just put out a little leaflet telling the housewife how to broil a steak, cook a pot roast, fry a steak with onions, stuff a flank steak, whip up a ragout (stew, to you), Or, if you want to get real fancy, the new handout tells how to make Swiss steak — either with macaroni or tomatoes.

About the only thing missing from this new abbreviated beef cookbook is how to create hamburger. But maybe that was considered too obvious; hamburger being one of those things that people make by instinct rather than reason. Even a male cook can be trusted with hamburger — behind a counter or in the back yard.

Word from the Department of Agriculture's Office of Information is that 8800 copies of this leaflet are being sent out, on a national basis. Newspaper food editors, farm and home magazine food editors, radio and television food editors and the branch offices of the Production and Marketing Administration are all getting this handout. And they're supposed to do something about it.

So if cooks across the country begin to be bargained with beef-dish recipes in the next few weeks or months, they'll know why.

Along with the recipes, another four-page pamphlet, "Facts About Beef," is being put out. To quote the subheadings it says, "Beef Is Plentiful, Beef Is Body Builder." It then lists sources of other information about beef, and gives all the cuts from top round to bottom sirloin, from neck to
