Pampa Citizens Resist Invasion By Millers

PAMPANS USE VARIED WEAPONS in the fight against the current "plague" of millers, the worst seen here by many old-timers. Of the cutworm variety, according to Ralph Thomas, county agent, the millers are harmless now but are breeding cutworms to be dealt with on area farms and gardens next fall and spring. The short-lived millers feed on nothing except flower nectar and will have to die naturally before the infestation is over, Thomas said. They are a carry-over from cutworms in the area last spring. Temporary relief from the nocturnal insects is found in ways shown below.

Pampa Delegate On Airline Panel Expected Home Today

William J. Smith, local attorney named to serve on a 12-man steering committee for 156 southwestern cities seeking improvement in airline schedules centering in Dallas, is due back in Pampa today following a Dallas meeting of delegates from cities in five states.

Smith headed a Pampa delegation to the Dallas conference in session Monday and remained to begin civic activities toward obtaining new or revised airline service in the area.

The organization formed to be the Southwestern Aviation Congress and Smith will serve with W. A. Brooks, Lubbock, to represent West Texas.

In conference with a Pioneer Airlines official before the caucus got underway, Smith learned the company is asking the Civil Aeronautics Board to reconsider their application to serve Pampa and other cities on a north-south run from Amarillo to Fort Worth. Smith said Pioneer wanted Pampa also to file application for reconsideration with CAB. The original application had been denied.

The new organization, formed under the auspices of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, will file a petition by June 30 with the CAB for better service which needs CAB approval before it can be provided and air lines will be asked to improve service where no CAB authority is needed.

The company had statistics to indicate a potential 2,500 passengers annually from Pampa south. The proposed route would originate in Amarillo and extend through Borger, Pampa, Childress, Vernon, Lawton, Okla., and terminate in Dallas. No airline was recommended.

Spurned Lover Conquers His Grief, Weds Another Girl

TAYLOR, Wis., June 16 --UP-- A released prisoner of war, spurned by the hometown sweetheart he dreamed of in a Communist prison stockade, honeymooned with another girl Tuesday.

Marine Cpl. Lione E. Peterson and Dolores Larson, both 21, exchanged vows here Monday in a small, quiet ceremony. Only immediate members of both families were present.

The tall Leatherneck and his bride left immediately for a wedding trip into northern Wisconsin's vacationland, but would not reveal their exact destination.

More Hot Weather Slated For Pampa

It looks like the same old story today -- weatherwise. Local mercury had reached the 94-degree mark by 11 a. m. today, as it struggled to attain and surpass Monday's high reading of 106.

The 2 p. m., 3 p. m. and 4 p. m. temperature readings at the KPND transmitter Monday were all 104. But at 3:30 p. m. it went up those two extra degrees.

Monday's water consumption throughout the city was 6,828,000 gallons, according to Fred Brook, acting director of public works. That was an increase of 1.3 million gallons over the Sunday mark.

No cases of heat prostration were reported by officials of Pampa's two hospitals, though two Pampans were momentarily overcome on the country club's golf links.

Increase In Oil Prices Assured

HOUSTON, June 16 --UP-- The first industry-wide increase in crude oil prices since 1947 Tuesday appeared assured by announcement of two major purchasers of 25 cents-per-barrel boosts.

Phillips Petroleum Co. made the first move, saying it was necessary to encourage drilling of new wells, insisting she had never promised to wed the Marine, told reporters the "answer would have to be no" because she had found another sweetheart.

A few weeks later he began to see a lot of Miss Larson, a girl he used to go with "way back before" before he fell in love with Miss Stenson.

Wheat Galore In Oklahoma Town

ERICK, Okla., June 16 --UP-- Enough wheat to fill 15 railroad boxcars blocked Main street of this western Oklahoma town Tuesday because the local farmers' co-op elevators was filled.

Get Burma Donation

WASHINGTON, June 16 --UP-- Secretary of State John Foster Dulles revealed Monday that the government of Burma has donated $10,000 to help tornado victims in the United States.

In making the announcement to a news conference, Dulles said it was nice to have aid coming into the United States instead of going out.

The co-op had bought the wheat but could not obtain freight cars immediately in which to ship it. The grain dumpings started Sunday.

Chinese Take ROK Outpost In Reckless Power Attack

SEOUL, June 16 --UP-- Chinese infantrymen, lunging ahead over the bodies of their own dead, captured Finger Ridge Tuesday from South Korean troops and expanded their "bulge" into the critical east-central front.

American Sabrejet pilots shot down four Communist MIGs and damaged three in a new flurry of air fighting near the Yalu River. Communist propeller-driven planes flew over Seoul for the third time this week, causing a red air alert at 10:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. EDT).

Communists used 6,000 men in a reckless attack for their newest victory in the "battle of the Bulge." They struck in force after the Eighth ROK Division hurled back an attack by 1,500 Reds on Finger Ridge outposts.

United Press correspondent Frederick C. Painton reported from the front that the victory is believed to have cost the Reds "tremendous casualties."

Painton said the Reds regrouped after the initial throwback and then lunged forward in an attempt to take over a vital "pivot" point on the edge of the two-mile sag into ROK territory known as the "bulge."

After grabbing Finger Ridge, the Reds must still fight to another knoll called the "Link" and then to the commanding "Pivot" height.

Col. Garrison Flays Charge On Officers

SAN ANTONIO, June 16 --UP-- The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety Tuesday disputed a charge by Federal Narcotics Commissioner Henry J. Anslinger that Texas police do not co-operate wholeheartedly with federal narcotics agents.

The police director, Col. Homer Garrison Jr., said Anslinger made an "ill-founded assertion" in a public statement about Texas officers. Garrison told the 44th annual convention of the Texas Police Association that Anslinger "indicated that there was a lack of co-operation from state and local officers in Texas in assisting his agents in the enforcement of the narcotics law."

Wheat prices opened slightly higher on the Chicago board of trade but fell by mid-morning by as much as 2 1/4c a bushel. Corn, oats and rye also fell.

Bridges May Be Faced By New Action

WASHINGTON, June 16 --UP-- Justice Department sources predicted Tuesday the government will make a new attempt to strip Harry Bridges of his U.S. citizenship and deport him.

The department said officially it is "studying all aspects of the case" in the wake of a Supreme Court decision reversing Bridges' 1950 perjury conviction and restoring U.S. citizenship to the Australian-born boss of West Coast Long shoremans.

But department officials said privately they do not believe the year-old effort to boot Bridges out of this county as a Communist alien.

Four-Cent Stamp Seen

WASHINGTON, June 16 --UP-- The Post Office Department will propose boosts in first, second and third class postage rates to help cut its multi-million dollar deficit, an informed source said Tuesday.

The rate hikes will be submitted to Congress for approval within a few days.

For the moment, the department isn't saying exactly how much of a boost it will seek in the various mail categories. But it is expected to recommend a four-cent stamp for ordinary letters -- at least those going out-of-town: Out-of-town first class letters have been frozen at three cents for nearly 21 years, while rates on local letters went up from two to three cents in 1944.

Post Office Department Asks Increases On Mailing Rates

WASHINGTON, June 16 --UP-- Secretary of State John Foster Dulles revealed Monday that the government of Burma has donated $10,000 to help tornado victims in the United States.

In making the announcement to a news conference, Dulles said it was nice to have aid coming into the United States instead of going out.

Officers Seek To Establish Demarcation

PANMUNJOM, Wednesday, June 17 --UP-- The full truce delegations meet Wednesday for the first time in a week but officers gave no hint as to whether the renewal meant progress or fresh difficulties.

There were reports the Allied and Communist delegates might be ready to sign a truce by June 25, third anniversary of the Korean war. There also was speculation that the continuing Communist ground offensive was making it difficult to draw a line of demarcation.

The chief delegates had turned over to staff officers the job of setting the line that will separate the two armies during an armistice.

More Parking Meters For City

The City Commission this morning authorized City Manager B. H. Cruce to order 30 additional parking meters to be placed around the telephone company and on the north side of Browning from Ballard to the alley.

The meters had been requested by the B & B Pharmacy and the beauty shop next door on Browning. The meters around the telephone company office will not be installed until after completion of the building now under construction.

Rosenberg Attorneys Still Seeking Stay Of Execution

WASHINGTON, June 16 --UP-- Attorneys fighting desperately to save atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg from the electric chair appear before Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Tuesday to seek a stay of execution.

Douglas granted a hearing in his private chambers to the defense attorneys, who failed in three separate efforts Monday to persuade the full court to intervene on behalf of the condemned couple.

Douglas told the lawyers to come armed with whatever new arguments they may have for postponing the execution, scheduled for 9 p. m. est Thursday.

While a single justice may grant a stay of execution after the court itself has refused one, tradition holds that he should involve the power only if he is confronted with new evidence which he thinks would be of compelling significance to at least three other members of the court. It takes the votes of at least four justices to bring a case before the Supreme Court for review.

Rule On Segregation Blamed On Centralized Government

Advocates of a strong centralized government, especially those who are striving to abolish racial segregation on a nation-wide basis, apparently have received encouragement from the recent Supreme Court decision banning segregation in Washington, D. C. bars, dining rooms, and other public places.

This was the conclusion drawn by Rep. Walter Rogers in his weekly newsletter to his district.

Rogers said the decision "could well mean the end to states rights for all purposes."

The Court, Rogers said, when it handed down its decision postponed the school segregation problem for the District of Columbia.

"Those seeking to abolish all forms of segregation have no doubt concluded this recent decision by the Supreme Court is the beginning to a quick end to segregation on a nation-wide basis. In other words, they anticipate that the laws will be handled as a federal matter and that state laws, rules, or regulations will be subordinated to, and must bow to a federal proclamation. This is centralized government, undiluted," Rogers added.

Rogers told of a telegram sent by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the first Negro congressman elected in modern times from the eastern seaboard, to President Eisenhower, in which he scored two members of the cabinet and Admiral Boone, chief medical officer of the Veterans Administration. He charged Admiral Boone with refusing to change practices of running veterans' hospitals and would maintain them on a "local customs" basis (meaning he would continue seg-

Camping facilities are along the wooded section of the north side of the Canadian River for the visitors.

Cigaret Starts Fire

Once again, a dropped cigarette has been the cause of a fire—this time, not a very serious one.

In Monday's only fire run, firemen were called out at 6:45 p.m. to John Wilkinson's dairy farm at 835 S. Tignor where some trash was afire.

Damage was termed minor by fire department officials.

Man Charged For Mutilating A Tomb

It cost a former Midland man $25 and costs late this morning in county court for driving his car around Fairview Cemetery early today.

Arrested at 4:10 a.m. as he was attempting to pull his car from the spot where it was stuck, city police said, Braun was lodged in city jail overnight and handed over to county authorities this morning.

Braun had been using a truck owned by Rotary Drill Company, where he told officers he was employed.

Earlier — about 3 a.m. — the same officers had seen Braun

JACOBY ON CANASTA

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"A very peculiar incident happened a few nights ago," states a California correspondent.

"Everything was going well, and we had a score of about 3500, while our opponents had about 1700. Our opponents finally melted and were most fortunate in being able to connect their melds and go out. Our side had not melted, and we lost the total of our cards and three red-threes, for a loss of 685 points.

"While we were counting, I discovered that my partner could have melded 120 with about seven or eight cards. I made no remark, but reduced our score to about 2900 and proceeded with the game. We melded 90 in our next hand and boosted our score to about 4200.

"Again we needed 120 points, and again our opponents melted, added to their melds, and had very few cards in their hand.

"To make a long story short, the same thing happened again. I had a hopeless hand and never had a chance to make an initial meld. My partner could have made the initial meld with seven cards. He failed to do so, and we lost the count of our cards and once more three red threes.

"Could my partner possibly have a good reason for failing to make the initial meld in these two hands? If not, what was going on?"

"This looks like a chronic case of 'no-melditis.' The best cure for this is to wave the score pad rapidly under the patient's nose. It is sometimes unwise to see most of your cards to make the initial meld, especially when the opponents have all of their cards still in the hand. There is then great danger that you will soon be obliged to give away the discard pile. There is far less danger of losing the pile when each opponent has a reduced hand.

When the opponents have made substantial melds and are trying to meld out, your side can likewise afford to meld liberally and play for out. This is especially true when your side has a healthy lead in three scores, since then you are in excellent position to trade punches. Nevertheless, there is nothing my correspondent can do but grin and bear it. Canasta is a partnership game, and a player is bound by the acts of his partner. If your partner plays well, rejoice; if he plays badly, perhaps you can have the pleasure of playing against him on some other occasion.

Moreover, just think how miserable we would be if our partners always played perfectly. We, ourselves, being only human, would still go on making mistakes. As a result we would always have to do the explaining instead of the complaining. In the field of complaints it is better to give than to receive!

Racial Covenant Case Far-Reaching

WASHINGTON, June 15—UP—The Supreme Court Monday ruled the signer of a restrictive real estate covenant may not be sued for damages if he lets Negroes occupy his property.

Such agreements—designed to preserve "all-white neighborhoods"—blanket many sections of large cities from coast to coast. Justice Sherman Minton delivered the court's 6-1 decision. Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson dissented. Justice Stanley F. Reed and Robert H. Jackson did not participate.

Monday's case came from Los Angeles. The suit was an important sequel to the far-reaching racial covenant decision of 1948.

Congress To End Session July 31

WASHINGTON, June 15—UP—President Eisenhower's congressional leaders said Monday they "still think" that Congress will adjourn by July 31 until next year.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., (Mass.) reported the leaders' views after they met for 90 minutes at the White House. He thought Congress could finish its business July 31 and not have to return.

TV Antenna Breaks Fall

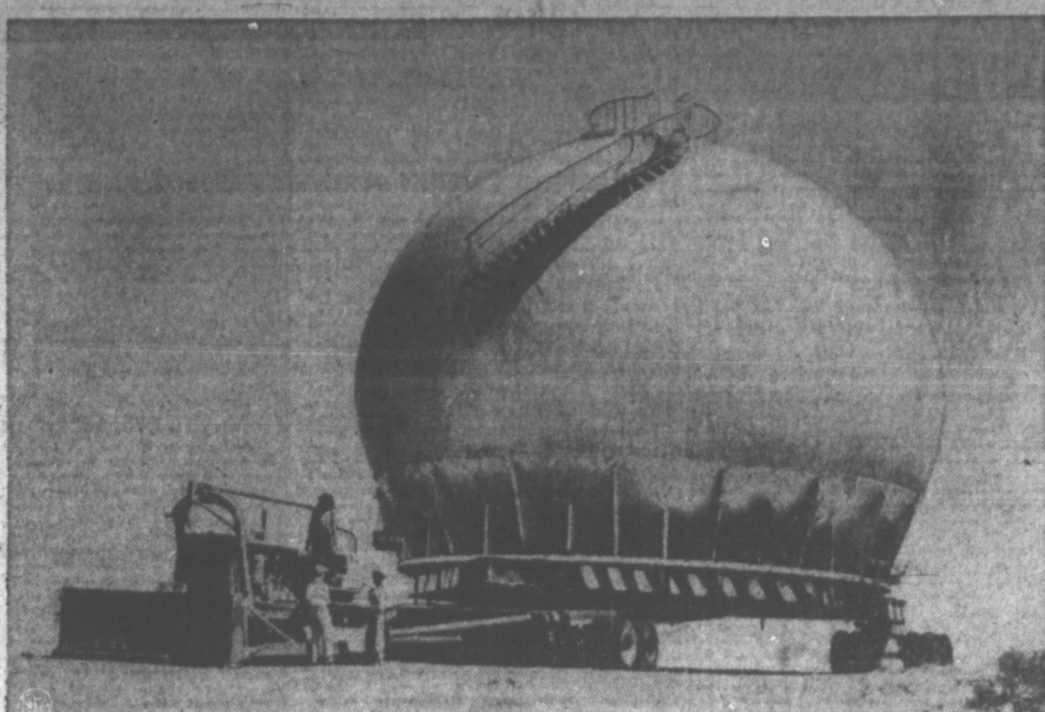

NEW YORK, June 15—UP—A two-year-old boy fell 13 stories from the window of his parents' apartment Sunday but doctors reported later that he had "a pretty good chance of pulling through."

Tiny Marshal Harris, son of an Army sergeant in Korea, landed in soft earth plowed for shrubbery around the apartment building, police said. His fall was slowed when he hit a television antenna on the 7th floor, officers added.

QUEEN'S FRENCH TOAST

Petty Officer Baker, of the Third Queen's Own Hussar Band, calls the tune as he marks time with Joy Rogers, dancer, at Meudon, near Paris. Joy danced, and Petty Officer Baker conducted the music for the coronation party given by the British colony at Meudon, in honor of Queen Elizabeth II.

WHERE'S CINDERELLA?—Resembling a huge pumpkin-like coach, this 60-ton spheroid oil tank rests on a multi-wheeled trailer, awaiting transportation from Abqaiq to Ain Dar, in Saudi Arabia. The big tank will be installed at one of the rich oil fields operated by the Arabian-American Oil Company. Crews juggled the huge "bubble" over the 65-mile route in four days.

Justice Wins Again

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15—UP—A tavern owner raided by police for serving liquor after hours Sunday attempted to destroy the evidence by knocking over four glasses on the bar, spilling the drinks. A patrolman outwitted him. He grabbed a towel, mopped up the drinks and squeezed the evidence into a bottle. He then arrested Joe Parente, the owner.

Red Remedy

DETROIT, Mich. (UP)—Tom K. Monahan suggested to Fire Chief Edward J. Blohm that persons who turn in false alarms could be caught literally red-handed by simply putting non-drying red paint on the alarm handles. Blohm, who said false alarms cost the city $200,000 a year, promised to think it over.

Schoendienst in Slump

NEW YORK, June 12—UP—National League batting leader Red Schoendienst of the Cards is in his first "slump" of the season—he's gone hitless two straight games for the first time in 1953. The Card second baseman, currently tops in the loop with a .355 average, was blanked in five trips against the Pirates Wednesday and four trips against the Pirates Thursday.

Serve Old-Fashioned Chicken Dinner With Perfect Buttered Corn

There's no meal more satisfying than a good Old Fashion Chicken Dinner complete with rich cream gravy and Perfect Buttered Corn. Fried chicken has a delectable golden crisp crust when you use thrifty canned evaporated milk in the batter. And adding a bit of paprika will give the chicken a ruddy brown color. The cream gravy is also made from evaporated milk, the same milk that you dip the chicken pieces in for frying. Mashed potatoes never taste better than when served with a thick gravy on top.

To complete this old fashioned meal, what could be better than Perfect Buttered Corn, either cream style or whole kernel, ready in the can for you to heat and serve. Canners across the nation have taken the utmost care to be sure the corn that comes to you in protective cans is of top quality, at its succulent best. To protect this flavor, corn must be heated properly. Though it may not seem to require a special technique, read the recipe for Perfect Buttered Corn and try preparing it in the way recommended. It'll be the best you've tasted—really perfect!

Furniture Prices Are Coming Down Due To New Cost-Cutting Production

BY KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

One of the happy surprises in store for newly marrieds, or even older marrieds, is that when choosing their first "good" sofa or chair, they will discover that prices are being cut. By "down," I mean a healthy 25 to 35 per cent lower than a collection of fine furniture introduced recently.

Thanks go to the large manufacturing company who recognizes that most of us have more taste than money, worked out new production techniques to effect the savings. Fine, upholstered furniture built to last for years is expensive. What has contributed to the cost is the great amount of hand labor involved in springing and upholstering the fully assembled frame. The new method, devised after three years of research and engineering, is an application of prefabrication principles which permit these operations to be done mechanically.

What this means to you and me is that we'll be able to buy a custom-crafted couch, covered in fine fabrics of our own selection, for as little as $160, and a comfortable lounge chair for $89. In the new collection of 55 pieces, Valenline Seaver designs, plus those of Raymond Loewy, Edmund Spence, and the Kirkpatrick's, the emphasis on comfortable contemporary lines. Fabrics used large-sized pieces.

Sunshine Ruby Says New York Men 'Look Pale'

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK, June 16—UP—The ways to fame are many and the people who succeed are varied, but the most unexpected to hit town in a long time is a 19-year-old girl known as Sunshine Ruby.

She sings, but she doesn't read music. She plays the "git-tar," but she left the instrument at home. She doesn't care about meeting any famous people "because I do not know any," she says. She came from Myrtle Springs, Tex. Nobody famous ever came from Myrtle Springs that she ever heard of, Ruby said, but on the other hand, nobody back home seems to think she is anything special either.

She made her first recording last February down in Texas, and now the song is number two on the RCA Victor western record selling list. The company invited Ruby and her mother, Mrs. Arthur Bateman, to New York, expenses paid for another recording session.

"I didn't bring my western hat because I didn't know how much room we'd have on the plane," said Ruby. "I'd never been on a plane before." She was wearing a black and gold satin fringed skirt and jacket.

That was her longest statement of the interview. Her drawn-out replies were short enough to suit the most terse western scenario. Asked her opinion of Manhattan, Ruby chewed her gum and finally said, "Seems like the men look pale."

She doesn't read music, so she was asked how she learns new songs. "Just listen to it till I learn it," the teenager drawled. Her favorite accompaniment, she added, was "a band—a fiddle, a git-tar, a bass and drums."

She doesn't especially want to learn to read music, or to study voice.

"I stay on key all right," she volunteered, inspecting one of her cowboy boots.

Ruby, who got the nickname "Sunshine" when she sang with a group called the Sunshine Boys, sings at a Western Jamboree and in Dallas every Saturday night and extra $15, which she shares with her four brothers and sisters.

Not Hollywood
"I dunno," she said, when asked what she'd like to do when she finished high school. Hollywood? "I couldn't go if I wanted to," Ruby answered. "My dad doesn't like it."

Her father, who works in a nursery, stayed home with the other children. After a little sightseeing and the recording session, Ruby will go back.

"I was gonna ride in a subway, but somebody said I'd get stomped," the young singer said. She walked from her hotel to Rockefeller Center for the recording session. In front of the 31-story RCA building, her first close look at a skyscraper, Ruby paused and looked up.

"Too many to count," she muttered and walked inside.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Charles is nine, the eldest of three children. His father died some years ago. He gets good school marks. But at home he is so disrespectful to his mother that she shirks from going out with him or entertaining visitors in the home.

In a temper, Charles often throws things at his mother. He also attacks her with four-letter words. "I wish," writes a friend of his mother, "that you could help this parent. In spite of Charles' treatment, she is a wonderfully loving mother to him."

No, she isn't. You have to be a saint to love someone who abuses you. Very few of us are saints. Our "lovingness" for people who abuse us is usually terror of their power to humiliate us. We are "loving" in the hope of making them kinder. We are simply begging the abusers to permit us to enjoy a little peace.

When the abuser is our child, our "lovingness" is often based on fear he'll physically hurt us.

So I'm wondering whether this wonderfully "loving" mother was spanked excessively in her own childhood. If she was, it may account for her acceptance of Charles' abuse.

When humiliation and defeat have been associated for us in childhood by the punishing contact of over-whipping, we may find it impossible to exert physical control on our own children.

At the age when he needs it, we may shrink from restraining the kick our four-year-old aims at our shin. Just as we shrink, not daring to defend ourselves against the whipping hand of our parent, we will shrink, not daring to defend ourselves against the kicking leg.

If we gained a general impression that our submission to severe and repeated spanking was virtuous and "loving" toward the spanker, we can get into bad trouble with Charles. We can go on believing that it is "loving" to accept his physical attacks, too. Moral control of Charles unfolds out of physical control of him. Charles' mother appears to have no moral control. This may be the result of failure to exert the physical restraint at the appropriate time. She may never have restrained the four-year-old's kicks, she and Charles have skipped a stage in coming to understand each other. I hope she can reject her delusion that it is "loving" to endure such abuse. It is not loving. She is her son's moral protection, and physical support. When he is permitted to attack her, she puts him in the appalling position of hurting his own security. That is why he is so angry at her.

Manners Make Friends
One dinner guest completely takes over after-dinner conversation and the other guests are obviously bored by his monologue. What can the hostess do, if anything? She can break it up by suggesting a parlor game, by turning the conversation toward another guest, or suggesting that her husband take the boring guest out to look at his workshop. It doesn't matter what she does.

Just so she does something before the evening is ruined.

Bid Varies With Opponents' Cards

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How should you conduct the bidding when you have excellent distribution but when the opponents have most of the high cards? As a general rule this is the time to make a shut-out bid. Sometimes, however, it is more effective to bid gradually and reluctantly.

He Wants To Be A Brave ... Hank Writes To Charlie Grimm Asking For A Job With Braves

BY HENRY McLEMORE
I had planned to bust open all my piggy banks this summer and buy the dime Mama put under my pillow when I lost a tooth last Christmas, buy me a seat on the Stock Exchange.

week hand, it was evident that most of the high cards were in the East and West hands.

The first ray of hope for South came when North raised spades. South immediately decided that he would play the hand at spades no matter how high he had to bid.

If South had jumped from two spades to four spades, it is quite possible that West would have taken the push and gone to five hearts. South didn't want to push the opponents into five or six hearts, because he would feel compelled to outbid them in spades.

The simple fact was that South knew he could not be badly hurt by a spade contract and that he knew no sound way of estimating what the opponents could make at hearts.

It was quite safe for South to pass at two spades even though he wanted to get to four spades. Somebody had to have all the high cards, and it was clear that West would be able to make another bid.

When West unsuspectingly took the push, South once more exercised restraint. He was quite sure that one of the opponents would bid four hearts if given the opportunity. When West did so, South could bid four spades with every appearance of having been pushed to a height beyond his strength.

South's careful tactics were regarded when he was doubled at an unbreakable contract. A heart bidding lead would have held clearer to four spades, but the actual diamond lead allowed him to make an extra trick.

Dummy won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, and South discarded his only heart. South gave up a club trick, ruffed the return, and gave up another club. He could then ruff the return again. South drew trumps, and ran his clubs for the rest of the tricks.

But I have changed my mind as to how to spend my savings. Someone else can have my Wall Street seat, because I want a seat on the Milwaukee Braves' bench. I'm dead serious about this, and I wrote manager Charlie Grimm only this morning asking him how much it would cost me to become a member of the team in good sitting. I told Charlie I would give everything I had, and would stand my own transportation and uniforms and, if he wanted me, I'd even be willing to play.

You needn't laugh at my suggestion of playing for the Braves. If you do laugh it means only that you didn't see the Braves when they were playing for Boston last year. They didn't belong in the major leagues any more than a woodpecker belongs in a coal mine.

Who knows but that I, inspired by the enthusiasm of the Milwaukee fans, might not become another Ty Cobb and be hailed on the sports pages as "the over-ripe Georgia peach"? But it isn't a dream of becoming a baseball immortal at this late date which makes me want to become a Milwaukee Brave.

My letter to Grimm was motivated by many things, not the least of which is the chance to make a barrel of money. Given a ain't it? I get a blister every time place on the team, and a uniform, I stop a liner, and many a ball a man couldn't help cleaning up. gang has been lost because of everybody in Milwaukee, as I get blisters. And we can't afford to it, is wildly in love with the loss too many games if we aim to players and will do almost any-thing for pennant and the world thing for them.

I'd stock up with every kind of merchandise from goldfish bowls to second-hand horseshoes and start peddling them.

Do you think a Milwaukee fan would refuse to buy, say, a goldfish bowl at ten times what it was worth if I gave him a sales talk like this:

"I'm McLemore of the Braves, I have to sell a dozen goldfish bowls to get enough money to buy a new glove. The one I have is worn to a frazzle, sir, and with the Dodgers coming in next week for a crucial series I sure don't want to have a decent glove. Look of mine, sees fit to accept my at this worn-out of glove. Awful, offer.

At ten dollars a bowl, a man should make himself upwards of three hundred dollars a night, or even more if he could carry enough lows without breaking down.

For the women fans I'd peddle something awful", boudoir cape autographed by all the Braves players, and girdles guaranteed not to rip, ravel or tear during the seventh inning stretch.

In addition, I'd be wined and dined at every turn, and I'd make sure there were plenty of turns.

I do hope Grimm, an old friend didn't have a decent glove. Look of mine, sees fit to accept my at this worn-out of glove. Awful, offer.

DUCK SOUP'S OFF THE MENU — Mama Duck, with her ducklings safely cruising out of harm's way, paddles as close inshore as she dares to quick insults at a lioness at the British Sector Zoological Gardens, in Berlin. Mrs. Simba hates the water more than she dislikes losing a tasty duck dinner.

USSR Peace Overtures Leave Allied Nations In Turmoil

By PHIL NEWSOM
The United States and Great Britain. . .
Increasing indications that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will have a rough time of it in next fall's west German elections. . .
Some Gestures
At Stalin's funeral last March, successor, Georgi M. Malenkov, said that all outstanding world issues could be settled by negotiation. Here are some of the Russian gestures up to now:
1. The return of British, French and American civilian Korea prisoners—held illegally, in the first place.
2. Extension of amnesty to a British embassy official sentenced to jail on charges he denied.
3. Expression of regret at shooting down an unarmed British bomber in Germany and killing its crew.
4. The granting of a few exit visas for wives and children of American citizens.
5. The freeing of American newsman William Oatis from a Prague prison—sentenced two years ago on trumped up spy charges.
Europe wants to believe that Moscow now really is trying to live in peace with the rest of the world. But there is also suspicion that by a sudden switch in tactics, Moscow hopes to fatten us up for the kill.

EBB AND FLOW of war was symbolized by this picture of American troops moving up to meet the enemy while terror-stricken Korean civilians flee in the opposite direction.

Name Of A Horse
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—A horse named Giddins, one of the owners of the Trio Stables, explains that his horse, Luffango, was so named because, when purchased as a yearling, "he acted like he was laughing, and when taken on the track he always wanted to go."

MEMORABLE is this picture of a chaplain administering last rites to a fatally wounded Marine—a picture fated to be repeated many times before the guns are stilled.

Oilers Climb To Third With 8-2 Win Over Gassers

Pampans Only 2 Games Out Of 1st

BORGER, June 15—Max Molberg chalked up his seventh win of the season and manager Porky Pawelek ran his current consecutive hitting streak to 21 games as the Oilers bolted into third place in the West Texas-New Mexico League standings with an 8-2 victory over the Borgers Gassers here Monday night.

The Oilers, in winning, moved to within two games of first place Lubbock who bowed last night to cellar dwelling Amarillo. The Oilers are only one-half game back of second place Clovis.

The Gassers and Oilers will conclude their two-game series here Tuesday night with lefthander Eddie Hughes due to take the mound for the Oilers. Hughes will be seeking his sixth win of the season.

Molberg was in rare form last night after a shaky start. He gave up both of Borgers' runs in the first inning and then blanked them the rest of the way. Only two Gassers managed to get on during the final eight innings. Frank Kempa via a walk in the third and Windy Edidge via an infield single in the eighth.

Manager Pawelek's 2-run double in the seventh enabled him to continue his current hitting streak that has reached 21 games.

Dough Lewis, with two doubles and a triple, led the 10-hit Oiler attack off Manager Lloyd Brown of the Gassers. John Sanderson and Manny Temes collected a pair of safeties—all singles.

Pampa opened the scoring in the first when Deck Woldt led off with a double. Sanderson singled him home and moved across himself on Lewis' double.

The game promptly became a tie in the bottom half of the inning as Frank Bounce's single, Verde Dickey's triple and Pat Lenzo's single pushed across two runs for the Oilers.

That, however, marked the end of Borgers' effectiveness for the evening.

Pioneers Take Over 2nd Spot

By UNITED PRESS

Clovis moved into second place in the quick-changing West Texas-New Mexico League standings Tuesday and Pampa took third as Plainview dropped from second to fourth.

However, the first five teams, from first-place Lubbock through fifth-place Albuquerque were crated by only three and one-half games and Abilene, in the cellar, was only nine games from the leader.

In Monday night's games, Amarillo steered off a ninth-inning rally to beat Lubbock 11 to 9 at Amarillo; Abilene trounced Albuquerque 19 to 2 at Albuquerque; Clovis whipped the visiting Plainview Pioneers 12 to 6; and Pampa beat Borgers 8 to 2 at Borgers.

Kremlin Knives Cupid's East-West Romances

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Albert Parry, author of the following dispatch, is chairman of the Department of Russian Studies at Colgate University and writes frequently on Soviet affairs.)

By ALBERT PARRY
Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Kremlin knives Cupid when he tries to unite hearts across the Iron Curtain.

We are reminded of this by the effort Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen is making to get exit visas for those Russian wives who want to join their American husbands abroad.

Many such wives, and in some cases also children, have been waiting for their passports for years. There are also wives and children of Britishers, Canadians, Frenchmen, and even one Chilean.

The governments of these and other countries separately and together in the United Nations, asked Moscow throughout the latter 1940s for this simple act of humanity. All in vain. But now, with peace talks waiting from the Kremlin, the world is once more asking Moscow for tangible proof of its "love-for-all" protestations.

The number of such hostages held by the Kremlin is estimated variously at anywhere from 300 to more than 1000.

For years 50 diplomats of assorted nations have begged for the release of their own Russian wives and children. At one time a British general was vainly waiting for the wife he married in Transcaucasia during the war.

What is the reason for the stubborn Soviet refusal?

In the United Nations discussions of the problem, Soviet delegates have said that by denying those exit permits the Kremlin is protecting Russian women from exploitation and humiliation by foreigners.

This is a revival of an ancient Muscovite claim. Early in the 16th Century, when the Danish government asked Moscow's permission for the Danish envoy Sidor to take his Russian wife to Copenhagen, the lofty answer was:

"It is not the custom in our domains to give free humans in bondage. The woman in question is of our domain, and it would be unseemly to give her in bondage to your man Sidor."

Today the Kremlin's official excuse is that Russians are the world's freest people while outside Russia most people are down-trodden slaves. By barring all these women and children's exit the Kremlin is saving them from becoming slaves to foreigners.

From time to time a campaign is launched in "Pravda" and other Soviet newspapers to prove that Russian women abroad are slaves of their Western husbands.

Sad tales are published, purportedly by women fleeing back to Russia to tell of their oppression in the West. At a United Nations meeting the Soviet delegate Samyuk K. Tsarapkin with pathetic one such complaint:

"I had to cook meals for my husband in England. Hot dishes had to be ready on the table."

Countered Hector McNeil, the British delegate:

"Is the General Assembly expected to weep because this woman is asked by her husband to provide a hot meal?"

Asked Mrs. Roosevelt:

"Who does the housework in the Soviet Union? Is it always done by the men?"

In Birmingham one Englishman revealed that his complaining wife had joined him in England for three days only, "for propaganda purposes solely." They stayed in a hotel all three days. Said he: "She had no real opportunity to form any opinion of what England was like."

It was Andrei Vishinsky who, with his blunt cynicism, let the cat out of the bag. On one careless occasion he admitted his government feared Russian women's low opinion of their own country and high regard for the West if they were allowed to leave Russia and remain abroad.

"Women talk too much," said Vishinsky.

He then added one more free reason for the Kremlin's policy on the subject:

"The duty of Russian women is to produce Soviet children and not to increase the birth rate of the United States or England or Canada."

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Gary Stefan, out to make a new life for himself minus Jane Powell, will be a skating instructor at a new ice rink in West Los Angeles.

Specialists are consulting with Dr. Danny Leventhal over the leg injury that has put Susan Ball on crutches. U-I high brass has given orders to spare no expense in saving Susan's leg. Margaret O'Brien is joining the warbling brigade. She'll sing two songs in her six-week straggle tour in "Kiss and Tell."

Add "The Song of Solomon" to the list of Biblical pictures coming up.

Joan Shawlee, the new looker on Bob Hope's TV show, thanked Bob for the break in a full-page ad in local trade paper. Featured in the ad was a photo of Joan in an eye-popping gown about which writer Herb Braverman flipped:

"You couldn't have worn any-thing you looked better in even if you hadn't worn anything."

Judy Holliday's down to her movie dimensions for "A Name for Herself" — 28 pounds lighter than when cameras aren't peering. It's 13 years of wedded bliss for Jon Hall and Frances Langford.

Steve Cochran is partnering with Art Lindletter, who has the Midas touch, in a Palm Springs housing project.

Eleanor Powell's denying printed reports that she's ben signed for a dancing stint in a Rio de Janeiro night club while Glenn Ford's working there in "The Americano." — the result of her "Veils of Baghdad" click — puts her in the salary class of Shelly Winterx and Tony Curtis.

Milton Berle is scheduled for minor surgery when the TV season ends.

Cameron Mitchell, in Canada, sent his agent, Bill Joseph, the tail of a moose with a card reading: "You always keep after me for that 10 per cent. Here's an exact cut."

Ludmila Tcherina, once adored by Orson Welles, will play Mary Magdalene in U-I's Biblical drama, "The Galileans." — Frankie Laine and Jimmy Boyd are being pegged for a co-starring British film, described by Frankie as "a man-and-boy story." — Quick action by assistant director Byron Roberts averted tragedy for the "Captain John Smith and Pocahontas" troupe at Lake Malibu. Roberts saved actress Josephine Parra from drowning.

Ballerina Jeanmaire learned English in a hurry-up series of lessons for her role in "Hans Christian Andersen." Other day in Paris she was called in to dub in French her English dialog in the film. She read the French translation of the script, arched an eyebrow and commented, "So! Zat is what I was saying!"

Question of the week: Is another actress dubbing Lili St. Cyr's dialog in "Son of Sinbad"?

HOLLYWOOD ON TV: Duncan Renaldo's broken neck, suffered during filming of a "Cisco Kid" film, will keep him away from the cameras for at least three months. "Time for Beany" and Paramount Television Productions are calling it a day. — Ann Sheridan's being pegged for another telefilm series. "The Magnificent Miss Boone." — Preston Foster will star in "Waterfront" as a weekly film series. — Virginia Field will headline CBS' "Vanity and Mrs. Fair," due in the fall.

STRAIN OF BATTLE is portrayed in the bowed head, the face-hiding hands and the posture of war-weariness.

Gold Rush Scene Now Modernized

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS
AUBURN, Calif., June 16—UP—They don't mine gold any more in the area that was the scene of the gold rush over a century ago. In this mining town, neon lights have replaced the gas lamps. The modern drinker gets his nourishment out of a long-stemmed glass and pays current prices. In the old days miners exchanged a pinch of dust for a shot of whiskey and bartenders with big thumbs commanded premium wages.

Men don't plug one another any more without having to contend with the law.

Names From Past
History is preserved in the form of bronze plaques along the golden route. Some of the towns bear the names they did in the rip-smoring 40s. Like "You Bet," near here. One fellow bet another there was gold in the hills. There was. Then there are "Piddletown" and "Whiskey Gulch."

The legends of the old days remain. Even men with gold in pockets or the vaults were frugal in the long back. There is a story about a banker with a lock on his money sack. One day a fellow in search of a loan came in and put up a hard tick story. The banker finally gave in. The customer was so relieved that he offered to part with a couple of pinches of dust to buy the banker a drink.

All About the New
AIR-CONDITIONED OLDSMOBILE!

FRIGIDAIRE CAR CONDITIONING*
BRINGS YOU COOL, REFRESHING DRIVING COMFORT IN HOTTEST WEATHER

Imagine—driving along on the hottest day of the year—through city traffic or along country roads—and enjoying the same cool, fresh comfort as you get in the finest air-conditioned room!

Imagine—parking your car all day long under the broiling summer sun—and then driving it away with the temperature inside cool and comfortable within minutes!

Imagine—driving along on the hottest day with windows closed—with no wind blowing your hair—with no discomfort from dust, drafts, bugs, humidity or noise.

Imagine—riding in an air-cooled car with no hot blasts of air to bother you—no damp, sticky atmosphere!

Oldsmobile can do all this for you with the new Frigidaire Car Conditioner, one of the greatest automotive advancements in 20 years.

Here's how it works—The Frigidaire Car Conditioner works on the same basic principle as a room conditioner. A compact refrigeration unit is "tucked away" in the trunk. The condenser is installed in front of the engine radiator. The air distribution system is located inside the body of the car.

Two flat sleeves—one on each side of the interior—distribute cool air evenly into the car by means of four sets of louvers and individual air jets. These louvers eliminate annoying drafts, and assure well-balanced air circulation throughout your Oldsmobile.

Here's what it does for you—No matter how hot the weather outside, your Oldsmobile is refreshingly cool inside. And the coolness achieved is a clear, dry coolness—free from high humidity and wind noise. You just roll up your windows and relax in a quiet, serene atmosphere—free from wind, noise and dust. Conversation is easier, radio reception is clearer and warm-weather traveling is much more enjoyable.

No more Heat! No matter how torrid the weather outside, you'll always be cool inside! You can drive all-day long and relax in refreshing comfort.

No more Humidity! Here's where you can find relief from high humidity on rainy days. Even in sticky weather, windows stay closed and you enjoy a clear, dry atmosphere.

No more Wind! Think of "windows-up" protection and comfort on hot, windy, dusty days! You'll breathe clear, filtered air even when you travel over country roads.

No more Road Noise! You can actually talk in whispers and be heard easily, and you'll enjoy your radio much more.

Widens Usefulness of Car—The Car Conditioner increases the efficiency of traveling salesmen and many others who depend upon a car in hot weather. And even on days that are not excessively warm, Oldsmobile owners find that "windows-up" driving is so much quieter and more comfortable.

Stop in and ask us about the Frigidaire Car Conditioner. This revolutionary new feature is typical of the advancements you expect from Oldsmobile—"Rocket" Engine and Hydra-Matic Super Drive—Power Steering and Power Brakes—Power Ride Chassis and Power Styling—the Airtronic-Eye and Custom-Lounge Interiors! Make a date with a "Rocket 8"—the Classic Ninety-Eight or brilliant Super "88" Oldsmobile.

Allies' Policy On Communism Is Foggy For Bermuda Parley

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In preparation for the Bermuda conference of American, British and French heads of state, a critical new look is being taken at allied foreign policy as it relates to world communism and the Soviet Union.

The main question of a Big-Three conference seems to be whether it will lead to a Big-Four conference, with Russia as the fourth hand for the bridge table. And the big question about another Big-Four conference is whether it would do any good.

One conclusion seems fairly easy. A Big-Four conference of the kind held at Yalta and Potsdam—even with three of the four principal characters changed—seems to offer no greater promise of solid accomplishments.

The principal reason is that after any such conference, there must be a communique. This would have to be written in broad principles and general terms because the four men can keep in their heads all the complexities of world strains and conflicts.

It would be impossible to come up with the right answer on every question. It would be too much to expect that world peace could be wrapped up at one short parley in a fool-proof package.

Easy answers to complex problems always lead to different interpretations. The varying interpretations of the Yalta and Potsdam agreements, for instance, are responsible for most of the world misunderstandings of today.

What Should It Do?

From this it might be concluded that a Big-Four conference would offer some promise if it attempted to reach no agreement and solved nothing. Thus it would be limited to exploratory talks.

It would, of course, be more useful if all the problems of Germany, Austria, Korea, Southeast Asia and other trouble spots were worked out in advance by detailed diplomatic negotiations. The Big-

A temperature of 136 degrees above zero has been recorded in the northern Sahara desert, while one of 92 degrees below zero has been noted in northern Siberia. But how to solve all the problems of these areas of conflict? The world has been working at that since the end of the war, with scant result.

In 1946, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal asked a young career minister in the U.S. Foreign Service to make a study of the subject. He was George F. Kennan, then a State Department staff director at the National War College.

The Kennan paper was subsequently published in the "Foreign Affairs" quarterly, as a study by a "Mr. X." For convenience it was tagged as outlining a policy of "containment" towards expanding world communism. It was not an official U.S. foreign policy statement.

When, however, Mr. X was identified as Mr. Kennan, and when he was later made head of the policy-planning staff created by Secretary of State George Marshall, the idea spread that containment was the official foreign policy of the Truman administration.

It has since been criticized as a "do-nothing" policy, which it was never intended to be. Its theory was accurately put into practice by the Truman doctrine with respect to Greece and Turkey. It was further implemented by the Marshall Plan, and by the North Atlantic pact. The North Atlantic pact was primarily a political alliance. But when the accent was placed on military preparedness, rather than on economic preparedness, the pattern changed.

At the time of the change—after the Korean war broke out—prevailing opinion in the U.S. was probably to the effect that war with Russia was inevitable. The year 1952 was frequently mentioned as the year of greatest danger. But 1952 has now come and gone. The year of maximum danger is being shifted to 1955 or 1956. Or maybe later.

The result is that Communist propaganda has been able to capitalize on two ideas. First—The United States has been crying "wolf." Second—the United States is intent on waging war against Soviet Russia.

Some place along the line the essentially defensive and peaceful objectives of the United States have been lost sight of. Certainly they have been distorted in Soviet Russia. Equally certain, they are not clear to many allies in Europe and even to some Americans.

PRINCE CHARLES HAS WINDOW "PAINS"—Most little boys love to look out windows, but for Britain's "Bonnie Prince Charles" the pastime is a full-dress affair. At left, all combed and brushed, he "pops" a salute while watching the Royal Guards rehearse Trooping of the Colors. At right, his nurse examines the royal four-year-old for un-princely-like smudges, as he makes an unscheduled appearance at a palace window.

Political candidates during the United Nations and going it alone last campaign made a point of rejecting containment because it wasn't aggressive enough.

Since inauguration, there have been statements by men like Senator Taft of Ohio on forgetting the

One thing the Bermuda conference might clarify for friend and foe alike is what the policy of the free world leaders is with respect to world communism. Then go on from there.
