This year—for the 12th straight production year—truck users are buying more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. That couldn't be true unless Chevrolet trucks offered more of what you want.

Already, 1953's official sales figures tell a remarkable story of clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks. But, this is not surprising, for truck users everywhere are discovering how far ahead of all others Chevrolet trucks really are.

They are discovering things like the tremendous new power in advanced Loadmaster engines in heavy-duty models. The remarkable gasoline economy. The extra ruggedness and strength. And that the Chevrolet line lists for less than any other trucks of comparable size and capacity.

So, before you buy any truck, stop in and see us, won't you?

Crime Rising

Crime throughout the nation rose by eight per cent last year over 1951, J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, announced recently.

Hoover reported that for the first time in seven years all classifications of major crime increased in urban areas, and for the first time in the history of recorded crime statistics there were more than two million major crimes in the United States.

Seasonal variations in crime during 1952 followed the pattern established in previous years. Murder started at its lowest ebb in early 1952, hitting its peak in the summer. As in the past, murders declined in the fall months before rising again in December, Robberies, burylaries and auta thefts occurred less frequently in the summer than in cold months.

The 232 cities over 25,000 population reporting showed that eight times as many males as females were orrested during 1952. A study made of an average group of 1,000 male arrests and 1,000 female arrests showed that a higher percentage of the women were charged with murder, aggravated assault and liquor law violations. This study further showed that a higher percentage of the men were charged with robbery, burglary, auto theft and driving while intoxicated.

Youth played no minor role in the crime theater. Of the over one million arrests reported by the 232 cities, 13.2 per cent were of persons who had not reached their 21st birthday. Persons under 21 accounted for 37.2 per cent of the arrests for robbery, 46.9 per cent of the larceny arrests, and 68.6 per cent of arrests for auto theft in the 232 cities.

More than 13 per cent of those arrested for auto theft in these cities were youngsters who had not reached their 15th birthday.

These figures show with stark reality that the war against crime is a never-ending proposition. Law enforcement agencies obviously have their hands full. To the average, law-abiding citizen the rising rate of crime in the nation is puzzling. The FBI in its report does not tell us why; that is not part of its job. There could be several reasons, such as: 1. A general decaying of morals among the people as a reflection of decadence among public officials especially during the last national administration...

2. The lowering of morals brought about by wars. Actually World War II has never ended and during periods of strife when killing is legal, illegal violence seems.

to increase. 3. A weakening of the bonds of the family circle resulting in the rising tide of juvenile delinquency.

4. Perhaps the adage, "Idle hands are the devil's workshop," might hold true. Could it be since the advent of the 40-hour week that people are finding more time to get into trouble?

In addition to the moral and sociological problems, the floodtide of crime presents a serious materialistic

Along with heavy property loss and damage, the taxpayers must foot the bills when it becomes necessary to increase the budgets of the law enforcement agencies and prisons and jails must be enlarged and modernized.

The taxpayer must pay the cost of crime investigation, prosecution and then if the culprit is imprisoned the public must pay his board and room during his term. If crime increases, then all these processes increase and

Taxes On Taxes

In the welter of dramatic news which confronts newspaper readers and radio listeners these days, many an important development is obscured or overlooked.

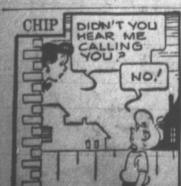

That was true of one of President Eisenhower's recent messages to Congress in which he recommended establishment of a commission to study federal grants-in-aid to the states. The President said: "In many cases, especially within the past 20 years, the federal government has entered fields which, under our Constitution, are the primary responsibilities of state and local governments. This has tended to blur the responsibilities of tocal government. It has led to duplication and waste. It is time to relieve the people of the need to pay taxes on taxes."

That statement can profitably be read in connection with one made by Representative Ostertag of New York, who said: ". . . government cannot give anyone samething for nothing. Government can only give you what It has first taken from you, and it keeps its brokerage fee in the process."

Russian Heroics

One of the things to watch for in Russian propaganda Is which of the new leaders they start playing up as the top man. So far, the Voice of Moscow has continued to extal Stalin as the great leader. But having a hero and hero-worshiping are part and parcel of the Communist book of tricks.

When the propagandists start playing up pictures and statements from Malenkov - or Beria or Molotov or some other figure - then and only then will it be known who has emerged as top dog in the Soviet struggle for power.

By R. C. HOILES

"The Education Of Free Men" When I read about a little book called "The Education of Free Men" by Herbert Read, printed in London in 1944, I wanted to read it. It seems to me we are not in this' country having an education for free men. Instead of educating men for freedom, we are educating the youth of the land to become docile slaves of the state.

It is impossible, of course, for tax supported schools that are based on compulsion to teach the students that they are to become free men and that they are to get things on a voluntary basis and be self-reliant rather than be dependent on the state for education and that the state should protect men from their own errors.

Under the heading of "What Is The Purpose of Education?" the author quotes William Godwin as

"The true object of education, like that every other moral process, is the generation of happi-

Then the author goes on to explain that happiness is an individual affair, which complicates the process of generation of happiness. The author comments in this manner:

"Let us note that the general tradition of education in Europe and America since the Renaissance has neglected or distorted this classical theory of education first by blurring the clear distinction between intellectual and moral virtue, and then by ignoring the essential priority of moral virtue, by attempting to inculcate intellectual virtue into minds which have not received the necessary preparation. It is only onto a stock of goodness that knowledge can be safely grafted: by grafting it onto stocks that are unbalanced, undeveloped, neurotic, we merely give power to impulses that may in themselves be evil or corrupted."

Tax supported training utterly fails in this particular. It cannot teach the exact opposite from what it is. It cannot teach morality because it is a violation of the great moral laws-the Coveting commandment and the Golden

Then Mr. Read emphasizes the theory of Plato: that the aim of education should be to associate feelings of pleasure with what is good and feelings of pain with what is evil. Influence Of Art And Love in pointing out how art tends to develop the child. He also explains how love should be substituted for coercion. He explains it in this

The author makes a good point

But how can the teachers in tax services?

The author points out the dif- heeded over 20 years. ficulty of transferring the love of a child for his parents to the teacher. He says:

"This is the situation of which the teacher has to take advantage and it is one which requires infinite tact and charity. It easily vpnotic dependence."

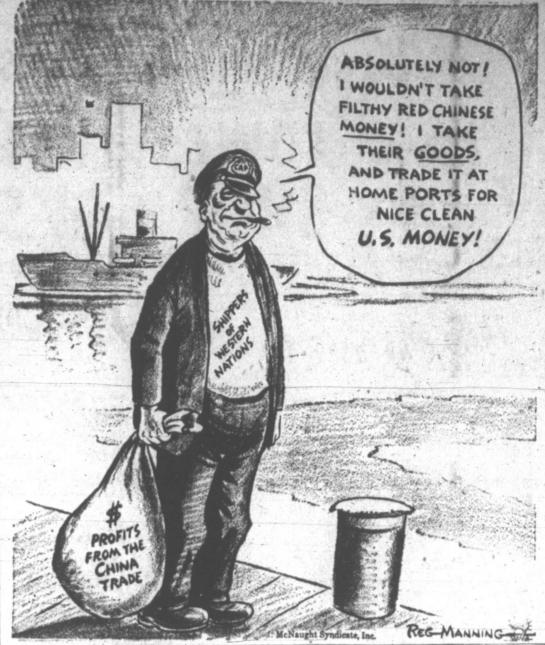

Have not the teachers in taxsupported schools degenerated into an attitude of dominance when they contend that they need not teach good enough or in a satisuntarily pay their salaries rather jewelry, furniture, toys, ect.

They argue that the administra than having them paid on a compulsory basis?

In his summary Mr. Read says: "I hope I may now expect from my reader a clearer understanding of what is meant by 'freedom in education.' We can now see that it is more exact to speak of nation into a depression. education for freedom."

Then he says: "For this reason the teacher must be primarily a person and is equally powerful. Yes, we need an education for freedom. And because we have not had an education for freedom during the greater part of the last century, we are reaping undesirable things that can only degrade our character and impoverish us. What we are reaping is a result of the kind of education we have been receiving-namely, long periods of unemployment, monopolistic labor unions, growth of tax supported schools, counterfelt money, ever increasing taxation, anxiety about our security, subsidies, tarifis, immigration quotas, drafting soldiers and almost continuous wars. These are the fruits of education for slavery rather than education for free-

The next time you find yourself alongside a new Cadillac at the traffic light-take a good look at the gentleman behind the wheel. The odds are overwhelming that you'll see

Yes, it's little wonder that the man in the Cadillac always looks so comfortable and happy and relaxed. In plain fact-he isl i
