The commission will also continue its discussion on the advisability of having one or more commission meetings tape recorded for broadcasting later on. City Manager B. H. Cruce said. The request was made last week by the League of Women Voters.

Financing the summer recreation program will also be brought before the commission. The program, budgeted at $3,000 per year has heretofore been jointly sponsored by the city and civic clubs; the clubs putting up $1,500 and the city footing the remainder of the cost.

An ordinance on the new "Field Right-Of-Way" signs is scheduled for presentation by City Atty. Bob Gordon. The new-type traffic signs have not been listed as standard equipment yet by the State Highway Department and are not included in the state traffic code.

Other items on the agenda will be closing the hearing on a group of city blocks up for paving, approving the annual audit for the city and the purchase of 200 feet of 6-inch sewer line in the Green-Novotny subdivision. The line was laid before the area was inside the city limits, but the city desired it could make good use of the line, Cruce said.

At the same time the commission will face the possibility of abolishing parking on Hobart between the railroad crossing and Alcock.

100 TIMES A "BRIDEGROOM"—Thomas H. Finigan, Kansas City, Kan., attorney, is one of the most "married" men in the country. This comes about because at the wedding pictured above he was a proxy bridegroom for the 100th time. He has arranged a total of 150 such ceremonies, with his wife standing in as a proxy bride in 32 of them. This time he was stand-in for Sgt. William A. McDaniel, now stationed in Tokyo. Here he places the ring on the finger of the bride, the former Sharon Fink, as Judge O. Q. Claffin III performs the ceremony. At left is the bride's father, William B. Fink, who was best man. Also in the group is Mrs. Paul Insley, matron of honor.

Human-Related Hormones Can Change The Sex Of Tadpoles

NEW YORK, May 25 (UP)—are embryonic humans. That is point one. Point two is that pregnant females manufacture estrogens at an increased rate but in varying amounts.

By putting point one and point two together, there is a possible connection between embryonic frogs and embryonic humans—That is, we may start out as one sex but be the other sex by the time we're born, depending on the estrogen output of our mother's chemistry.

May Bring On Cancer

Dr. Witschi's further implication was that the mother's hormonal output might predispose the offspring to some types of cancer and to such an abnormal condition as "virilism." This latter involves an enlargement of the adrenal glands which stimulate a huge production of male sex hormones which masculinize young females and make young males prodigiously masculine.

In tadpoles, he found that the high doses of estrogens which converted girl tadpoles into boy tadpoles increased the weight of the adrenals ten-fold. The adrenals produce sex hormones on their own and give off other hormones that stimulate the sex glands into producing sex hormones. In this connection, it must be kept in mind that normal male chemistry produces a limited amount of female sex hormones and normal female chemistry turns out some male hormones.

Dr. Witschi's greatest fame in science is based on his laboratory "monsters"—mainly frogs. He produces them by altering hormones, by surgery, by delaying egg fertilization. He has functionally bisexual frogs which lay eggs and fertilize them, too.

GOP Fiscal Policy Confused, So Congress Spells Its Own

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Eisenhower's television and radio talks to the nation can do a great deal to clarify public understanding of what has become a thoroughly confused presentation of the administration's fiscal policy.

On Feb. 9 the President announced his 11-point, high-priority legislative program for action by this session of Congress. Item No. 2 called for all appropriation bills to clear the House of Representatives and be ready for Senate action by May 15.

To date, the House has completed action on only three of the 14 money bills which are scheduled for the year ending this June 30. They are the Department of Interior, Post Office-Treasury and the Independent Offices appropriations. Four others have been reported out by the Appropriations Committee and are ready for action when the House gets around to them. They cover State-Justice-Commerce Departments, Agriculture and Labor-Health, Education and Welfare Departments.

But the whopping big National Defense, Foreign Aid, Army Civil Functions and other appropriation bills are just now emerging from the egg. And the Senate hasn't taken action on a single money bill for next year.

Earlier this year, the President had announced that all recommended appropriations would be in the hands of Congress by the first week in May. That target has been missed by 16 days.

These delays in the Executive departments haven't helped the Congress in its work. In general, however, the congressional appropriations committees have been going ahead on their own ideas. They have based their cuts on the budget estimates prepared by the Truman administration. There has been little regard for what the President may have had in mind.

Estimate Not From Budget Bureau

When President Eisenhower on April 30 told his press conference that "we can see our way clear to ask the Congress to appropriate at least $8½ billion less... than the previous administration has asked for," the Bureau of the Budget had not completed its review.

When questioned about this figure, Bureau experts actually working on budget revision had to confess they didn't know where the President got his estimate.

The President's statement had not been prepared by Budget Bureau and so it was not in the jargon that fiscal experts use. The President's statement made no estimate of actual expenditures, which is the important figure.

This is the figure that must be determined before it is possible to say with any accuracy whether the budget can be balanced or how big the deficit will be. And until then, everybody is just talking or working in the dark.

This situation in Washington has been so bad that even the U.S. Chamber of Commerce tax letter has been forced to admit that "all is confusion as to whether sufficient cuts can be made to balance the 1954 budget."

Administration officials and congressmen have made conflicting statements on this point, and the confusion is made worse by the fact that seldom if ever have these statements distinguished between the cash and the administrative budgets, even though they differ by more than $3 billion.

Officials Talk Differently

The statements of Defense Secretary C.E. Wilson and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey have been at odds for this very reason. One has talked in terms of estimated expenditures, the other in terms of estimated appropriations. One in terms of 1953 cuts, the other in terms of no tax cuts.

Secretary Wilson declared the budget couldn't be balanced before 1956. Secretary couldn't at first said the budget couldn't be balanced before 1955. Then he revised that and said it might be balanced before June 30, 1954.

Incidentally, Secretary Humphrey is emerging as the top administration spokesman on all money matters—far more so than his Democratic predecessor. The new budget director, Joseph M. Dodge, hasn't been heard from publicly

German Church Encounters Formidable Foe Under Reds

By PHIL NEWSON
United Press Foreign Analyst

The German church which survived 12 years of Hitlerism now is engaged in a life and death struggle against another foe just as ruthless.

The Soviet East German regime has declared open warfare against both the Protestant Evangelical and the Catholic churches.

It has outlawed Protestant youth groups, accusing them, among other things, of spying for the United States.

So far this year, the Reds are known to have arrested 28 Evangelical pastors and two Catholic priests, when they also accused of being Western spies and agents. Some sources say the number of priests and pastors arrested in the last few weeks actually is close to 50, since many are not publicized.

Long Prison Sentences

One Protestant pastor was seized at the doorway of his church. Several have received long prison sentences.

Religious leaders believe the East German government aims in the church the only organized force in the Soviet zone which stands in the way of complete Sovietization and is therefore determined to crush it.

In East Germany, the Communists control the government, police and schools.

All political parties and mass organizations are Communist controlled. Only the church is independent and only the church still maintains close, regular ties with the West.

The pattern of persecution is all too familiar.

Clergymen are warned they face trial under the "law for the protection of peace." This is the "war-mongering" law by which the Reds also hoped to frighten West Germans away from their ties with the Western Allies. It carries the death penalty.

Properties Confiscated

In an effort to isolate the church, the Reds have begun confiscating church-run homes, hospitals, orphanages and welfare institutions on the grounds that the occupants are mistreated and deprived of "progressive education."

One orphanage was nationalized because the Protestant director refused to allow the Communists to hang portraits of Stalin in children's dormitories.

The Soviets control the Soviet zone press and radio and have banned church publications. But the church is fighting back strongly from the pulpit.

Every foreign embassy or legation and the ground on which it stands is part of the nation it represents, not part of the United States.

Affectionate Thieves

WINDSOR, Me., May 25 (UP)—Police were looking for two young women Friday who invaded the home of 82-year-old Fred Merrill and "hugged" him out of $200.

"They kept hugging me and I kept pushing them away," Merrill said. When the girl left he discovered his billfold was missing from a coat pocket.

Rev. Albert Smith, 85, a cemetery caretaker, lost his wallet and $20 when the same pair showered him with their embraces.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Miss Friend I just don't know where to turn. My husband and I have been quarreling off and on since we were married but lately it is much worse.

I asked him to sit down and talk the situation over with me. I told him that I like to be made to feel that I am wanted but my husband said it isn't his nature to make over anyone even me.

While we were talking he suggested that we might be better off if we separate for a while and see if we are really in love anymore.

Mrs. Friend, I know I am in love with him and the thought of leaving him, even for a few months simply kills me.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Leggy Lili S. Cyr, the high-salaried Wrong Way Corrigan of burlesque — she starts from scratch and puts 'em on instead of taking 'em off — is bubbling-bathing for the 3-D cameras now to the tune of "Soap Gets in Your Eyes." — an RKO tongue-in-cheek fantasy, is the second movie bringing the runway nudist to the masses who wear Polaroid glasses. There's even some smothering for her this time as a harem queen with a passion for Dale Robertson.

Lili, wearing a smile and not much else, may be box-office wallop, but rugged western hero Dale, in the title role, is scratching his head and wondering how the fairy tale plot will explain his Oklahoma twang. Director Ted Tetzlaff is wondering about that, too — "The writers are working on it. I'll let you know when they figure it out."

The film's ending, says the studio, was written with a sequel in mind but Dale says he won't be around to don a turban and fancy silk pants again even if Lili takes a bath without bubbles. "If RKO wants a sequel," he told me, "they'll have to hire Tony Curtis and call it 'The Grandson of Sinbad.'"

Acting Mayor Bows Out Charles Farrell is bowing out after eight years as mayor of swank Palm Springs when his term ends next April. Now busy with radio and TV versions of "My Little Margie," he explains: "I agreed to one more term and this is it. I just don't have the time anymore."

Defending Palm Springs against the "gangster haven" charges recently made by the Crime Commission, Farrell points to a law passed there a year and a half ago requiring the registration of ex-convicts 24 hours after arrival but claims: "How can any town check up on the past of all its residents?"

Geary Steffen was in the audience for Jane Powell's Desert Inn opening at Las Vegas but there's no change in the strained relations. He left the next morning and Jane, a lefty, went to the golf course for a round with Danny Kaye and Peter Lind Hayes. Lou Costello is sitting over George Raft questioning the cost sheets of his TV films, "I'm the Law," which they made together as partners. Lou says Raft collected $1500 a show, plus 50 per cent of the profits, and he can look at the books any time he wants.

Lactile Ball and Desi Arnaz aren't a bit worried about their TV fans not accepting them as newlyweds when they co-star in the film version of "The Long, Long Trailer" for MGM. "We'll be playing two entirely different people in a plot that has nothing to do with 'I Love Lucy,'" is Desi's argument. Maybe he's right.

Fox can take a bow for honor and decency. The studio could easily have cashed in, but didn't, on the sensationalism of a movie queen who became a nun with all the sexy bathing suit art slated as a come-on in billboards for her latest flicker, "The Girl Next Door."

Darnell is All! Linda Darnell is burning over that movie mag article that compares her friendship with Italian producer Giuseppe Amato to the Ingrid Bergman-Rosellini idyll and goes on to say that Linda is acting to make a film on Stromboli just to complete the likeness of the romances.

Hank Is In A Dither . . . CIO To Keep Tab On How Ike Spends His Days As President

One of my hobbies is the collecting of pettiness. Over the years I have put together three warehouses full of petty people and petty acts. My collection is the envy of my fellow pettiness collectors, but they aren't petty enough to deny that in my field I stand alone.

If they did I'd collect them. Without boasting, I can say that I am the Duveen of pettiness collectors. Let others bid for Raphael and Gainsboroughs, snuff boxes and colonial chests, Cellini salt and pepper shakers, and Buiton Gwinnett signatures. What I want are teeny gestures by teeny people.

So you can imagine how my heart skipped a beat or two the other morning when I read what the C.I.O. has decided to do about President Eisenhower. In case you missed the story of the C. I. O.'s plan for the Chief Executive, let me tell you.

The C. I. O. — and you'll find this hard to believe, but apparently it is true — has decided to keep a day-by-day check on how much time President Eisenhower spends on recreation. When he plays golf a C.I.O. man will jot down something like this: "President left White House for Burning Tree Club at 2:10 p.m. Wasted people's time by stopping to pick and smell flowers upon leaving White House. Played 18 holes of golf, and did not return until 6:45 p.m. Seemed to enjoy self. Bad. Very bad."

Or this: "After 13 hours at desk President played bridge last night for two hours. How come? Appeared relaxed, and was heard to laugh when he made a small slam, vulnerable, doubled. Country going to dogs."

Or this: "President Eisenhower spent today (Sunday) by going to church and then loafing like other men. Didn't go near desk, but read newspapers, took nap on sofa, walked in garden with Mamie, made a few personal calls. Acted too normal. If you ask me."

The C.I.O. man who thought up the idea of keeping check on the President's leisure hours is a must for my collection. I'd rather have him than any single item in my warehouses. He is, to my way of thinking, priceless. He is the

Public Relations

Most people think that public relations men are hired to help "mitigate misunderstandings, interpret policies in a way that will clarify erroneous impressions, and create a more favorable working relationship between the public and the organization." That's what public relations men claim they are hired for.

Actually, many are hired to tell tall tales. Sometimes, in the case of corporations, they tell white lies with benevolent intentions. They photograph the boss at home with his family, dandling his baby on his knee and forcing himself to smile on Rover while Rover rakes a muddy paw lovingly across his master's $200 tailored suit. This picture conveys to the public the idea of "one big happy family" love, benevolence and good will; while actually, the type boss who poses for this type picture may be an old rube who chases chorus girls.

While some public relations men are telling tall tales about the company to the public, they also tell whoppers about the public to the company. The movie industry, where the public is supposed to have ten million taboos, is an example of this.

The moguls go broke listening to the public relations man while some upstart independent producer, so unenlightened that he won't afford a P. R. man, comes along, makes a picture with an unhappy ending and otherwise violates the P. R. O. conventions in a dozen ways and the picture makes millions.

While many public relations men do incalculable harm to business (in the steel industry, they were the boys who wanted to give in to the unions, they do even worse harm when hired by government.

In government they suppress news unfavorable to the government and exaggerate news favorable to the government.

We heard of a city which sent over a man from the City Manager's office to read the proofs of all stories on the City Council.

Stories with his deletions and suggestions were published as a "public service" to inform the readers of what was going on (which the city government wanted them to know about) and to generally spread confusion and suppress scandal.

That is an example of what public relations men are for... to hide those facts, and to blow up alleged good deeds.

William H. Whyte Jr., editor of Fortune magazine, has written some cogent comments about the kind of society the social engineers who call themselves public relations men, personnel experts, social scientists, etc., would like to have.

In his article, "The Social Engineers" (Fortune, Jan. 1952) Whyte quotes two public relations men:

"To public relations men," says public relations counselor G. Edward Penderay, "may go the most important social-engineering role of them all: the gradual reorganization of human society, piece by piece and structure by structure."

And another one: "What name we give the process," says Edward L. Bernays, "is unimportant—advertising, engineering of consent, the art of persuasion, public relations, opinion leadership. The point is to turn scientific knowledge of motivation, cognitive structures, lines of stress in the community, etc., to the job. In this fashion the public relations man rises above such mundane matters as representing companies and products; now he has the responsibility of conditioning and remodeling public attitude as well."

Would we like to have our consent engineered by the government's public relations man? Do we want our attitude toward city government remodeled by the city government? Then we should play along with the idea of putting government officially into one more business: the propaganda, public relations build-up-the-government business.

Regain Control

According to Steffan Andrews of the North American Newspaper Alliance, Comptroller General Warren said, at a closed door hearing of the House and Senate appropriations sub-committees, that Congress "has lost control of the purse."

He said further that he is appalled by wasteful spending by federal agencies without any authority of any kind from Congress. He then cited several conspicuous examples of flagrant waste, including tremendously luxurious and costly housing and recreational facilities for government personnel stationed abroad.

Congress' top-priority job now must be to get back its control of the purse, and to sternly stop unauthorized spending. The result will be a vast saving to taxpayers — without impairing any worthwhile government undertaking one iota.

Since this column has had a standing offer of $1,000 if E. Stanley Jones will submit to an interview to determine whether he is advocating in his published books is in agreement with the Golden Rule, an open letter to E. Stanley Jones, as published in the Methodist Challenge was of special interest to me. The letter was written by G. Spencer Wice of Studio City, California.

In this connection, I might state that I would be glad to give any individual $1,000 if he will get E. Stanley Jones to answer questions as he would before a court for $1,000 to determine whether his Kingdom of God on earth is in agreement with the Golden Rule.

Your statement printed in the Hollywood Citizen News, November 12, 1952, is extremely interesting. Granted, you could have changed your views on Russia since 1933, but your books as late as 1944 and 1948 indicate no change of thought as regards the failure of our profit-motivated, free enterprise system of economy, and your desire to bring about a New Social Order. This you entitle "The Kingdom of God on Earth."

Let us examine your description of it, and of course, it is NOT to be confused with the Kingdom of God which Jesus advocated. For he said, "My Kingdom is NOT of this earth."

"In your statement you STILL call for a change, seemingly a number of theological, so-called intelligentsia share this opinion. All about us we see the teachings of Jesus Christ in our business and social progress. Even those who deny Christ adopt His principles in business because competition (which you decry) from Christian business demands that they do. If they are to survive, any interference that the profit-motivated economy has failed is the zenith of asininity. Your refusal to recognize such conditions causes one to wonder as to your sincerity of purpose, Christian intent and the possibility of dubious propaganda.

"From your book, 'Christ of the Open Road,' page 130 you write — 'In the Kingdom of God COLLECTIVISM is fulfilled, for the Kingdom of God is a Divine SOCIETY. It is a SOCIAL ORDER, and that order is COMPLETELY TOTALITARIAN: — IT DEMANDS THE ALLEGIANCE OF EVERYTHING AND EVERYBODY IN THE WHOLE OF LIFE.' You are supposed to be writing of a 'Kingdom of God' in this world.

"Webster's definition of Collectivism is: 'His definition of Totalitarianism is: Of or pertaining to a highly centralized government under the control of a political group which allows no recognition of representation to other political parties.'

"Well, Mr. Jones, whom would you place in answer to the Supreme Dictator of our nation, and since you are such a strong advocate of One World Church and One World Government, whom would you suggest as the Supreme Commander of the World, to enslave all humanity under 'an allegiance of everything and everybody in the whole of life?' God is not available. If such humans could be produced then we have need for any change. After all, you must awaken to the realization that you are talking about and dealing with human beings, and these human beings live according to God's laws of nature and those laws cannot be altered. If you refuse to recognize these basic facts, I again question your sincerity of purpose, and my suspicions of questionable propaganda are thereby increased.

"You say on November 12, 1952 — 'Communism can ONLY get in where injustices between classes and races prevail.'"

"Will you please cite one instance of where people have chosen Communism? This is a completely false inference. The people of our nation have chosen Communism. This false statement indicates your guilt of a perversion which is indistinguishable from lying, because Communism has always gotten in (where it has entered) not because of injustices, but ONLY THRU FORCE OR INFILTRATION. Your inference here is a defense of Communism because you feel the reader will believe that Communism comes in to remove injustices. That is false propaganda, a part of the BIG LIE of Communism.

"From your book 'Mahatma Gandhi,' 1948, Pages 149-150, you write: (Subject — how we should treat Russia) 'By taking the way of truth and non-violence nine-tenths of the possibilities of being invaded and conquered would be ward off by that very spirit. But suppose on the one tenth it should break down, and in spite of that spirit, the nation should be invaded and conquered. Is all lost? Not at all. If the nation would organize its men, women and children into non-violent resistance it would make permanent occupancy impossible. Let them simply withdraw all cooperation with the conqueror and TAKE THE CONSEQUENCES. SOME WOULD BE BUTCHERED but you cannot go BUTCHERING non-violent people forever. IT TURNS YOUR STOMACH! Suppose for instance, that Russia, to take the extreme case, should invade and conquer the United States. Would we be lost? No. We could organize every man, woman and child in America into a non-violent resistance. We could withdraw all cooperation with the conqueror. You cannot rule over a people if they won't."

"Just how long you will be permitted to continue such treasonable talk and propaganda is sad to contemplate. How it is possible for any human being, let alone a purported Christian, to so lightly shrug off the idea of five years of Compulsive HUMAN BUTCHERING OF HIS FELLOW AMERICANS and advocate non-violent resistance causes one to question your sanity. You defy the laws of Christian humanity — self protection."

National Whirligig... Morse's Oratory Promises To Make Him A Cosily Legislator

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Senator Wayne Lyman Morse's oratorical propensities promise to make him a cosily legislator in the coming Congress.

Members of Congress in United States annals, although neither Senate nor House encourages a cataloging of records in this sensitive field.

His speech-making bill, however, will produce a profitable issue for his opponent when the self-appointed Independent must face thrifty Oregonian voters for his re-election in 1956.

Although the Senate does not sit every day, and he was absent on official leave for two days, he spread himself across 50 pages of the Record in the first 15 days of this month. Late in April, his record-breaking 22-hour filibuster on the oil tax bill was appraised at approximately $10,000.

When Morse was denied committee assignments by the Republican caucus in retaliation for his support of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, he organized what he calls the "Independent Party of One."

Each Friday, he submits a report from this one-man faction, which deals with his thoughts and activities. It runs from 12 to 20 pages, and it is the principal item of expenditure chargeable to him.

SELF-PRAISE — Periodically, he inserts in the batch of letters and editorials with a general theme that "We need more Moroses in the Senate." These laudatory communications usually stretch across 10 to 15 pages.

In addition to all these paper, ink and labor-consuming efforts, the Senator inserts himself into it and it is the principal item of exasperates his colleagues. They recognize that, instead of rising merely to ask a short, simple question, he usually races into a speech on the other fellow's time.

It does not discourage Sen. Morse that he usually addresses an empty chamber and press gallery. He is the embodiment of oratorical perseverance, tenacity and insensitivity. Nor does he resent his Senate nickname of "The conqueror in FIVE YEARS. HE WOULD THROW UP THE SPONGE."

Five O'Clock Shadow," a reference to the fact that he invariably asks recognition for another stem-winder.

POSSIBLE DEMOCRATIC ISSUE — Eisenhower, Taft friends privately express a growing concern over popular and political misunderstanding of the relationship between Capitol Hill's "Mister Republican" and the man in the White House. Democratic leftists still mutter about the "surrender of Morningside Heights," and mean to drop it out as a possible issue.

BOB TAFT'S PROS AND CONS — Taft, for instance, did not welcome the appointment of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow. He considered it advisable to adopt a resolution condemning Yalta and other treaties, even favoring the harsh congressional denunciation. He would prefer heavier cuts in foreign aid to bring nearer the day of a balanced budget. He sharply criticized Humphrey-Wilson lamentations on this question.

He regarded as slightly "socialistic" the administration measure for Export-Import Bank insurance of American goods, industrial and agricultural, after they had been shipped and warehoused aboard. He considered it contrary to the Republican platform and philosophy. He simply expressed his distaste, and let it ride to passage.

It is probable that the Ohioan could have blocked or modified all these proposals, had he thrown his

'Marshall Girls' Tax Hearing Scheduled For Tuesday In NO

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
Resist the temptation to glamorize their fight, because they are women, I call attention to the importance and dignity of the case. The Marshall Girls are a case on appeal which is scheduled to be argued in the Fifth Circuit Court in New Orleans on May 26.

Miss Vivien Kellems, of Stonington, Conn., a political temper and redoubtable expert on federal taxes and the Constitution, has promised the Marshall Girls, with whom she has made common cause, to fly to New Orleans to lend aid and comfort, and double payment of another amendment offered by Congressman Fred Coudert, of New York, limiting the federal income tax to periods of "grave national emergency proclaimed by the President and concurred in by a concurrent resolution of the two houses" for a strictly limited time. The revenues raised under this amendment would be used "solely for the reduction of the public debt and payment of other national obligations."

All the girls are persistent, they nag the harried government accountants, marshals and lawyers with sweetly logical and irrefutable contentions and there is a possibility that they will win on one or all fronts and knock out the whole parasitic socialistic monster of the Social Security fraud with ominous consequences to the treasury. Obviously millions of victims, however, claim reimbursement of billions taken illegally and strewn away on a 111 manner of follies from Paul Hoffman's monumental squanderbuck abroad down to the pay of senators to guard the carcass of P.A. D. Roosevelt's blasted mutt, F.A. the night before the pooch was put to earth at Hyde Park under conditions reminiscent of aboriginal paganism.

Miss Griffith's issue is parallel to the other cases. She is concentrating on the income tax as a whole. Social Security is part of the income tax and yet, in some incoherent government contentions, is held to be no tax at all, but a "contribution" by the individual "client."

In the appeal from a decision by District Judge William H. Atwell, who is 84 years old, crochety and overbearing, the Marshall Girls favor him over him in a way that is becoming a familiar sight among lawyers fearful lest they injure their clients by standing up to such panoplied topkicks and calling them to time. One of the times that Atwell denied the delay with a curt note: "The amount of this suit is so small this court can hardly see it."

He limited the argument to 45 minutes. The Marshall Girls wrote: "On a case which the government deemed important enough to send an attorney from Washington. That was bad but the old fellow added fuel to our burning inner lamp when, at the close of testimony he takes from his brief — case several type-written sheets and begins to read a cut-and-dried opinion that didn't bear out contentions from either our side or that of the government."

Dr. R. Moorhead, of Austin, Tex., counsel for the girls, takes the precaution, certainly prudent but certainly not majestic, of butting up old Atwell with gratuitous obsequies before getting down to plainly implied contentions that the judge either didn't understand or didn't give a damn what it was all about. Moorhead says the girls "have the utmost respect for the learned judge" but then says Atwell solemnly sounded off on a matter they were a damn sight before the court at all. Again the brief says the court said "could not examine the 'reasonableness' of a tax and for rejoinder said: 'Appellants are not seeking inquiry into the reasonableness of a tax; they are seeking a determination of its constitutionality.'"

Further, they say, Atwell's "opinion reflects no authorities or reasoning in support of" his conclusion that the taxes levied "are constitutional."

"Thus," the girls say in their appeal, "they will be unable to refer to the opinion of the trial court and to point out how such opinion is in error, for the matters which they will raise and discuss are in no way discussed or disposed of in the opinion of the court." They charge that Atwell's opinion did not even allude to questions which were fully argued in open court.

This is the case in which a group of neighbors foresaw that if they didn't take a stand at the start they would forever have to fish money from resentful casual household workers of limited understanding and civic spirit and forever devote many hours a year without the temptation to preparation of treasury forms and the keeping of accounts. Many women have better use for their time. Some don't know how. So they reported the amounts paid their part-time maids, baby-sitters and laynly boys but refused to steal and reimburse any money taken from these employees or pay any accompanying tax as employers. The treasury attached their bank accounts for petty amounts and they sued to recover, hoping to get the constitutional issue decided.

Atwell's sneer that the amount was almost too petty, uttered in advance of the "trial," is courtously answered thus: "Appellants make no apologies for instituting a suit for the recovery of such a small amount ($12.57). Because of the nature of the statute in issue the amount involved necessarily must be small. It is a choice which confronts such an employer is either to sacrifice his principles even though this entails filing a lawsuit for an insignificant amount."

Actually, in practical projection, the amount involved is countless billions. And the issue is whether Congress can order citizens of sovereign states to fish money from their pockets to donate money toward a highly improbable pension to such workers, under penalty of fine or jail.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

There is a small metal, concrete and, for all I know, glass but just off Central Park on the West Side, a place that resembles a titania beehive and the things that go on in this place are out of this world. Literally. When the things of this world become too tough and bewildering, I like to hie up to this expensive hogan and lose myself in space, vaulting from galaxy to galaxy without having to wade through the thunderous bores who write science-fiction. It is the Hayden Planetarium that is under discussion today and if that makes me sound like a man who goes to Grant's Tomb, the old Aqueduct and similar gauds of Manhattan town it will just have to do. I'm the fellow who goes for the Planetarium.

The place has teamed up with television recently and, for no money at all you can sit home of a Sunday afternoon and get skylarked out through the light hours of space. You can beat the rocket boys at their own dreams by 100 years, and... whisk over Jupiter, Saturn, Mars, Mercury and Venus without leaving your own armchair. Whereas in a 35-cent science fiction magazine they take you to these places as though barriers to our earth's kind of humanity never existed, at the Hayden show you get through the light hours of space. 4 Clovis Pitchers Fail In Opener

BY BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The second "Ladies Night" of the season for Oiler Park is on tonight as the Oilers will be seeking a series-sweeping victory over the Clovis Pioneers.

The Oilers won their hair-raising 14-13 decision in the series opener yesterday.

Tonight's game has been set for 8:15.

Seven pitchers saw action in yesterday's tilt with the Pioneers calling in their ace, Red Dial, in an attempt to silence the Oiler bats. Dial was the fourth Pioneer pitcher and he was charged with the bases loaded and two away in the ninth frame.

Eddie Hughes, who is tonight's pitching choice for the Oilers, relieved in the ninth inning of yesterday's game and staved off a Pioneer rally in a dramatic fashion.

Hughes, the third Oiler pitcher to see action, struck out Winston Havenstrite on a 3-2 pitch with the bases loaded and two away in the ninth frame.

Sad Sam Williams started on the mound for the Oilers and got credit for the victory. He was relieved by Roger Aldridge in the seventh and Aldridge hurled until Hughes entered the scene in the ninth. It was Williams' sixth win of the year and he finished the game with a 2-1 record.

The Oilers drove starting pitcher Bill Mitchell from the box in the second inning with a flurry of base hits and walks that resulted in six runs and a 3-0 lead. A 3-run homer by Ben Felder and a double that drove in two more runs by Doug Lewis featured the rally.

Ray Ramirez came on for the Oilers during the second inning. Oiler rally and finished the game before giving way to Jim Dinges at the start of the third.

The Pioneers picked up their first run in the third on Paul Flores' base-empty homer and then staged a 7-run rally in the fifth to go ahead, 8-6. A 3-run homer by Roy Parker highlighted the rally in the fifth for the Pioneers.

Aldridge stepped up in the bottom of the fifth with a two-run spurt. Manny Tames walked and Rick Cacao singled to start the rally, the latter driving Dinges from the mound and bringing on Dial.

Quincy Byrnes greeted Dial with a long single that Tames and Ray Machado, running for Cacao, in with the tying runs. Deck Woldt later singled in the inning, swiped second and then attempted to go all the way home when Pioneer catcher Frank Benitez threw the ball into centerfield, but was nailed at the plate. Woldt got the thumb from Pioneer's Dutch Frahrer for protesting call too viciously. Woldt accidentally brushed against Frahrer's breast protector during the argument.

The Oilers moved ahead in the sixth with a 4-run flurry. John Sanderson started the rally with a homer; his fifth of the season with the bases empty, putting the Oilers ahead for good, 9-8. The winners went on to score three more runs in the sixth and then added two in the seventh on a 2-run homer by Felder, his first smash of the year.

Going into the eighth trailing, 9-14, the Pioneers made a serious bid for victory in the final two innings, scoring twice each in the eighth and ninth frames to move within one run of the Pampans.

Don Moore's homer with a mate aboard accounted for two Pioneer runs in the eighth. The Pioneers got two more runs in the final inning without the aid of a base hit.

Oilers Closing In On Hubbers

BY UNITED PRESS

Acting as a fuse in a big West Texas-New Mexico League fireworks show, the Pampa Oilers boiled into a tie for 2nd place by clipping Clovis 14 to 13, while leading Lubbock knocked off Berger with an 11 to 8 victory.

In other wild, high-scoring contests, Abilene staged off a last minute Albuquerque effort for an 11 to 9 decision, and Plainview ran rampant over Amarillo with a 14 to 8 massacre.

The Oilers' lineup rematches all squads. Clovis hopes to climb into the driver's seat with a victory at Pampa. Berger will seek a comeback at Lubbock, Amarillo will seek a series evening win at Plainview, and Albuquerque will be after his second straight at Abilene.

In the four scheduled games Sunday, the eight teams combined to push 83 runs across the plate with only one extra inning contest.

Bantam Ben Again Wins Colonial Open

FORT WORTH, May 25 —UP— Little Ben Hogan, who's making his "best" pay off as the leading money winner of the year, set his sights on the National Open after picking up the $5,000 top tab in the Colonial National Invitation tournament.

The Little Texan, who plays out of Palma Springs, Calif., but who calls Oakland County Club's 7,000-yard layout "home," pushed his season winnings to $11,400 Sunday by spread-engaging a select field by five strokes.

He fired a three-under-par 67 on the final day for a 282 total, two over par, over the course which was swept by 20 to 30 mile winds all four days of the tournament.

Oakmont Next

Now, after an exhibition or two on the way north, Hogan plans to move into Oakmont, Pa., where the Colonial for the fourth time the Open starts June 11, two days ahead of time in search of his fourth Open crown.

He set a precedent here in winning the Colonial for the fourth time—the first time in 54 separate tournament championships that he had won any one event four times—and he hopes to follow suit at Oakland, a course he's played only one time previously.

Hogan said he played Oakmont once, back in 1937, but was looking forward to trying it again.

If he plays there like he did here through four wind-swept days, defending champion Julius Boros had best look to his laurels.

Dodgers Win, 16-2 Records Fall In Bums-Phils Tilt

NEW YORK, May 25 —UP— The most memorable "big" inning in Philadelphia since the 1929 World Series put the Dodgers back into a pennant mood Monday.

Swinging savagely against lefty ace Curt Simmons and four successors, the Brooks pounded out 12 runs in the eighth inning to set two new major league marks and tie a third in a 16 to 2 humiliation of the Phils Sunday.

The battling Brooks scored all of their 12 runs before an out was made to top a previous major league mark of 11 set by Detroit against the Yankees in 1928. And both Peeewe Reese and Carl Furillo hit bases-loaded triples to set another mark. The use of five Texas League leading Shreveport continued its torrid winning streak by knocking off San Antonio 7 to 4 Sunday. Fort Worth dropped another game behind the leaders by dropping a close 2 to 1 decision to Dallas.

Houston shut out Beaumont 4 to 0 and Tulsa split a double header with the toppling Oklahoma City. The Indians took the seven inning curtain raiser 8 to 6, and the Oilers got revenge in the second contest by a 7 to 3 margin.

All teams play a return match Monday. Dallas plays Fort Worth, Oklahoma City remains in Tulsa, Shreveport stays in San Antonio and Houston plays at Beaumont.

The Shreveport Sports ignited six runs in the fourth inning, then closed on a lead on their fifth straight victory. The Mission out hit the league leaders, but could not bunt the hits. Les Layton hit a three-run homer for Shreveport and Rocco Ippolito smacked a two-run four-bagger for the Missions.

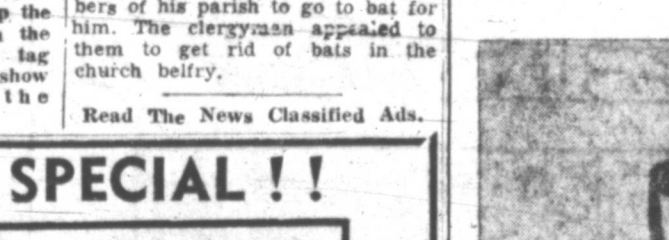

Fort Worth dropped to three and a half games behind Shreveport after Joe Kotrany allowed four hits in whitewashing the Cats. The Eagles pushed across two runs in the third inning. The lone Fort Worth tally came on Danny Oscar's bases empty home run.

Floyd Woolridge twirled his fourth shutout of the season, while the Buffs collected 11 hits off Herbert Smith, Beaumont southpaw.

Tulsa catcher Ed Bailey and umpire Len Roberts were struck by foul balls in the first inning of the opener at Tulsa, and were removed from the field on stretchers. Bailey returned to catch the second game.

The Indians bunched nine hits in the first game, while Tulsa committed four costly miscues. Charlie Harmon hit a three-run homer in the night cap to spark a Tulsa rally.

10,000 U. S. Golfers 'Beat' Julius Boros

NEW YORK, May 25 —UP— Almost 10,000 golfers—including a six-year-old boy, the governor of Washington, and a five-star general—owned shiny bronze medals Monday which proudly proclaimed "I Beat Julius Boros."

That was the number of fans who posted better scores during the weekend than the round of 70 shot by National Open champion Boros at the Oakland County Club course in Pittsburgh. Taking part in a competition sponsored by the Professional Golfers Association and Life magazine, Boros' rivals competed at courses all over the nation.

Six-year-old Bernie Bender of Orlando, Fla., performed one of the most amazing feats when he shot a 113 at Baltimore which, with his 15 handicap, gave him a medal-winning score of 68.

Gov. Arthur Langie of Washington shot a fine 74-8-66, while General of the Army Omar Bradley shot around a course in Washington, D.C., in 81-12-69.

Golfers paid $1 each to compete and proceeds, including Boros' donation of the $1,000 check for his services, went to the USO and the National golf fund.

CROSBY THE BAR
Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning
of the bar,
When that tide again comes
Lapping at the pier,
When that waltz from out

Turns again home,
Twilight and evening bell,
And may there be no sadness
of farewell
When your embark;
For though from out our bosoms
You pass into the air,
The food that feeds you
Holds us here as firmly
As the stones that lie

ELIZABETH the Queen
By Marion Crawford
Former Governess to Her Majesty

XVII
I OFTEN recall a make-believe game that the Princesses, especially Princess Margaret, were fond of playing when they were children. We called it "It".

Princess Margaret would wrance about the playroom chanting, "If I could be anything I liked, I'd be a good girl, I should like to be." "A good girl, I should like to be," I would reply. "Certainly a Princess should be good."

"But if I weren't a Princess, Crawford, I should like to be..." And she would search her lively imagination for a dozen fantastic professions, some of which she had read about in books and others that she had invented on the spot. Her images were always colorful and stimulating.

Princess Elizabeth sometimes entered the game, but she always tried to connect it with the real life outside of which she could reach only glimpses. She was absorbed by healthy curiosity about the way other people lived, and tried to put herself in their places. Instead of playing a game, she exercised this faculty while we drove in the streets or in the country.

Among the little throng always to be seen waiting outside the Palace were several familiar faces. Many elderly women were among them.

"We know them, don't we, Crawford?" Princess Elizabeth would say. "But still, I wonder who they are?"

There was one old lady, dressed in black, with a lean, sad face, who was always waiting at Hyde Park Corner at four o'clock on Friday afternoons as we drove down from the Palace to the Royal Lodge, Windsor.

We always took the same route — up Constitution Hill, and round the traffic island in the Park. The old woman, however, when she saw us her, speculating on whether she would be there or not.

She always was.

As our car came abreast of the gate where the traffic has to slow down in order to file through the arches into the Park, there she would be, watching.

Princess Elizabeth would be worried about her if we were ever delayed on our journey, or—rarely happened—there was a change in our week-end routine.

"I hope she will not wait too long," the Princess would say. "She doesn't look very strong."

She was always interested in the "outside world" on which she considered me an authority—at least to tell the truth I saw very little of it—and would ask me endless questions about it. I believe that until her marriage the Princess had no clear understanding of the way people lived outside the palace walls.

It is one of the strengths of the British Constitution that the Queen sits upon the top rung of the ladder that others must climb to reach that same end, so that how ever high a man may mount, there is always someone above him—a man or woman who look that place, not after a lifetime of application, but by inheriting it as a natural birthright.

I would sometimes play the "It" game myself. What would Princess Elizabeth like to be and do, I often asked myself, "if" she were free to choose?

The course of her life was set. Certain things happened, and always would continue to happen so far as she was concerned. A child does not ask what water tastes like, or puzzle over the way she breathes. These things are taken for granted. So, then, was Princess Elizabeth's way of living.

But on her honeymoon, and certainly afterward, when she saw us visit Prince Philip in Malta, Princess Elizabeth saw and experienced for the first time the life of an ordinary girl not living in a palace.

She could never be quite free from all attention, of course, however thoughtful people are. And in Malta the citizens made a genuine effort not to cloud her visit with the kind of staring attention she gets nearly everywhere else.

But Princess Elizabeth could never dissolve into the background and enjoy herself as an unknown person can, although on certain rare occasions she has seen what life might be like if she had not been a Princess.

As I think over her personality, trying to settle on those points which seem to me on reflection most characteristic, I find one word continually in my mind: thoughtfulness.

Let us suppose that she had been the plain Miss Elizabeth Windsor, what then? How would she have differed? My personal opinion is that she would be much the same.

After careful thought the only difference I think which would have been obvious in her would be a slightly less serious outlook on life.

Princess Elizabeth never had the carefree character of Princess Margaret. The two girls of the same birth and upbringing differ in many ways. Their complexions are different, for example.

Princess Margaret has an excellent skin, but not of the same alabaster quality as Queen Elizabeth's. In summer Princess Margaret gets quite sunburned.

Queen Elizabeth and her mother have skin of a similar type and they both have to guard not only against tanning, but also against sunburn.

Undressed Lieutenant Faces Military Redress For Action

WASHINGTON, May 25—UP—Police left it to the Marines Monday to discipline an uninhibited second lieutenant fresh out of officers training school, who ran naked through the lobby of the fashionable Wardman Park hotel during a dinner-dance Saturday night.

Lt. Francis O. Gallagher, 24, of Boston, Mass., also climbed a tree Tarzan-style on the hotel lawn and invaded the apartment of an admirer's lady before he wound up in the hands of a house detective.

Gallagher, exhilarated by the refreshments at a party with friends, was booked by Washington police for indecent exposure and intoxication. He was released to the armed forces police, who allowed him to return to his home base at Quantico, Va., under his own power Sunday to face disciplinary action.

He and his date left their party at the swank Shoreham Hotel for a stroll in the evening air. They walked to the grounds of the nearby Wardman Park where Gallagher suddenly yielded to what apparently was an impulse to get close to nature.

The young lady, not identified by sympathetic friends, screamed and fled as Gallagher shed his coat, shirt, pants, underwear, shoes and socks.

Then he decided to "surprise" a party some friends were giving in a second floor suite at the Wardman Park. He figured the speediest route was via a tree-branch which overhung a low balcony, and he shimmied up the tree and swung over.

Colleges May Up Tuition

By UNITED PRESS
Most colleges and universities are trying to hold the line on tuition costs but several will be forced to increase them, a spot check showed Friday.

Some schools anticipate a slight increase in enrollment, which fell off when the World War II GI education program ran its course.

A check of 13 representative colleges and universities in the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut area showed that seven were anticipating increased enrollment in the fall, one looked for a decline, one said it was too early to tell and four anticipated no substantial change.

Schools planning tuition increases included the University of Houston, Texas Christian University, University of Wisconsin, Marquette University, Hamline University at St. Paul, Minn., and the University of Maryland.

The University of Missouri has cut its tuition for out-of-state students, the reduction in some cases amounting to as much as $87.50 a semester.

Schools anticipating enrollment increases included the University of Michigan, University of Houston, University of Texas, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist University and Marquette.

Males Favor Knees
EVANSTON, Ill., May 25—UP—"The knee or not the knee—that is the question, and with northwestern men it's the knee 10 to 1," the university student newspaper editorialized.

Contrary to male opinion, however, northwestern co-eds cheerfully covered their knees behind skirts and pedal pushers in obedience of an associated women students ruling that above knee-length saucers were taboo in school buildings.

Humble Apologies
FIQUA, Ohio, May 25—UP—Mrs. James Griffin listened to the familiar sounds of the elackety clack of the rails as the trains passed her home. But there was something wrong with the "clack."

Conscientious Thief
NEW YORK, May 25—UP—A New York bus company lost and found a bus Monday and discovered a section of track missing. The railroad wrote a letter of thanks and added the postscript: "We regret having disturbed your sleep."

ered it was slightly ahead on the gas tank content.

The bus, a 36-passenger affair, was found in Brooklyn Sunday after it had apparently been used for a weekend picnic trip. The gas tank held 80 gallons when it was stolen. It contained slightly more than that amount when recovered.
