GRACE FRIEND

Dear Mrs. Friend
My sister is older than I am and much prettier. All of the boys like her a lot and she is very popular. But I don't have many dates and when I do have one I am always scared she will be home when he comes for me and then he will want to date her.
Recently I met a real nice boy and I know that she will try to get him away from me. She has been visiting a friend for two weeks and hasn't been around.
What can I do to get her to leave my boy friend alone?

Ruth
Dear Ruth
While a girl can't afford to take any chances with a boy of whom she is fond there are a few things she will do well to remember.

Lots of boys are interested in dating different girls and as long as they do so you can be sure that they are not particularly fond of anyone. When a boy really likes one particularly girl he prefers her company and wants to date her most of the time.
So if this boy is really fond of you he won't fall for your sister's charms. If you are just another girl on his dating list he is very apt to want to add your sister's name to it, especially if she is as pretty and popular as you claim.

After your sister returns home, you should plan things which do not usually include her which shouldn't be hard as he probably goes with an older crowd than you do. There is no use in deliberately exposing your friend to her wiles when it can be avoided. Don't keep him waiting when he calls for you but be dressed and ready so that you can continue on your way before she has a chance to "entertain him while you dress."

And be sure to let your sister know right away that you really like this boy. I expect that flirting is as natural as breathing to her and perhaps she hardly realizes that she is flirting with your friend. If she knows how important this boy is to you, I feel sure that she will refrain from deliberately getting him away from you.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Barby is nearly three. Baby Sister, much younger, requires a great deal of laundering.

One afternoon, her mother took advantage of the bright sun to spread her washing on the back lawn to bleach. Barby became fascinated by it. After her mother left, she circled about the wet clothing until she spied Baby Sister's most admired batiste cap. She reached for it—and was preparing to jump up and down on it when her father looked up from his lawn chair.

"No!" he said disapprovingly. "Put the cap back at once. Poor Mummy worked hard to wash it for Baby Sister. Put it right down like a good girl."

Perceptibly, Barby hesitated. Then with her eyes on her father's disapproving face, she obeyed. She put the cap on her face, she squatted down beside the batiste cap, patted it lovingly and began to croon, "Rockabye, baby, on the tree top."

Barby's father beamed. Later, with great pride, he told his wife about this example of "sisterly devotion."

It did not call for pride. It was not an example of sisterly devotion. It was an example of repression of jealousy in exchange for a father's approval.

It called, not for pride, but for love. It called for physical removal of the batiste cap without reproach of any kind. It called for a hug for a struggling child and love that could say without words to her, "Here is strength so sure that it can make nothing of your anger at Baby Sister."

Does this idea fill you with impatience? Do we think, "Oh, dear, what a mountain is Mrs. Lawrence making of a molehill! How can it matter if Barby is reproached for interfering with the laundry? What's wrong about stopping Barby from jumping up and down on Baby Sister's best cap?"

Nothing was wrong about that. What was wrong was the way it was done.

Not yet three, Barby has received a distinct impression that an unpleasant feeling is not acceptable to her father. He is her First Man. What he expects of her will influence her as the beliefs all men will want of her.

If he continues to show distaste for any evidence of unpleasant feeling in Barby, she may conclude that men are people to whom she must present a perpetually "sweet" and perfect front.

That is going to be very tough on Barby. It is very hard to love people with whom we cannot be our real selves. We resent such people, instead of loving them.
That's why I'm not making a mountain out of a molehill today. It's why fathers must not make little girls' "sweetness" the price of their smiles.

Fabrics, Not Style Leadership, Tell Current Italian Fashion Story

By ROSETTA HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
ROME — (NEA) — Fabrics, rather than style leadership, tell the fashion story in the current showings in both Rome and Florence.

Generally, gorgeous fabrics and fabulous embroideries have been sacrificed in the Florentine showings to create sensational ideas that fail to go over. New ideas were obviously missing with the famed Italian formal gowns either too full, too ornate or too tight.

Here in Rome, Simonetta, Fabiani, Schubert and the Fontana sisters held separate showings apart from Florence. Simonetta stresses ensembles with seventh-eights coats, and a restrained fullness showing a few inches of slender or forced skirts with the latter reaching well below the calf.

She uses the Empire waistline some afternoon coats and passes up collars in favor of kimono, raglan and bat sleeves that often stop at mid-arm. Dresses are slender or are cut with full, swinging, forced skirts.

Simonetta also shows playtime clothes for the luxury winter resorts that include rompers, bloomers, strapless tops and pirate pants, all in gay cottons.

Fabiani likes sleek suits with trim jackets topping straight skirts. He uses tailored or high funnel-shaped shawl collars for these suits. Dresses show the princess-line white coats feature "candle snuffer line" or the broadened shoulder line with fullness restrained.

Schubert's collection is flamboyant. He has voluminous topcoats with cavalier collars, enormous sleeves, patch pockets. Slender dresses have stiffened cutaway tunics.

The Fontana sisters took their inspiration from the Italian renaissance. Suits here are sleekly tailored and show longer, stiffened basques. Coats are tubular in silhouette with a slight fullness at the back held in by a martingale set below the knees. Important fabrics are soft cotton sueds (used even in formal clothes) and ribbed cotton velvets.

Fernandi, Rome's leading tailor, likes the harp silhouette with plunging waistlines and bouffant sleeves. He also uses stovepipe skirts given width below the knees in back by circular or pleated panels.

In the Florentine showings, there was a definite Russian influence in addition to the previously mentioned formal gowns.

In sportswear, skirts in bold colors were shown with tucked-in blouses featuring much applique work. And formal hats dripped with birds of paradise while enormous pleated projecting forward were fashioned of feathers dyed scarlet, orange and blue.

According to American buyers, Paris retains its creative leadership, though quality of workmanship in Rome is just as good.

It is one thing for parents to understand their teen-agers and quite another for them to let their teen-agers walk all over them.

It is the latter that so many of today's parents seem to be that they have completely accepted the idea that such behavior from teen-agers is perfectly "normal." It isn't normal in homes where parents demand as well as give.

They work hard to provide their teen-agers with food, clothing, spending money and every advantage they can possibly provide for them. They make sacrifices for their education. They give and give.

Why shouldn't they demand something in return? Certainly, they have a right to demand to be treated with respect instead of having their ideas ridiculed and their authority disregarded.

They also have a right to expect some help around the house instead of accepting it as perfectly natural that she carries on an hour-long telephone conversation while her mother does the dishes and that Junior rebels against mowing the lawn because none of the rest of the gang has to do it.

The car bore 1953 Oklahoma license plates, but 1953 Texas plates were found inside. A car title, with the name of the owner mutilated, was from Bryan, Tex.

Laws Of A Republic

In as much as many of us refer to this country as a Democracy, it's logical to assume that most of us don't make any distinction between Republic and Democracy. Most of us believe they are one and the same.

Ask a man why he thinks we have Democracy and he will tell you: "We have Democracy because we have majority rule."

We agree that we are at present nearer to Democracy than to our original Republic, and we'd like to draw some distinctions between the two forms to show that they are radically different. While it may be true that in some respects our country is based on majority rule in practice, we'd like to point out that there are many examples of rule by a tiny minority, which is supposed to be contrary to the principles of Democracy.

For example: much legislation including ratification of treaties can be passed without a quorum but by three Senators, the others being off fishing or fence mending. The fact that it's a majority of the three Senators which passes the measure doesn't prove that we have majority rule, since the majority in this case may represent a tiny minority of public opinion. It's hard to punish these Senators by threatening to vote against them in the next election, particularly if you agree with them on other issues.

Many government actions are imposed upon both minority and majority. How? The only way to be certain of majority approval of any governmental action is a direct majority vote to be taken upon that governmental action every day for each separate piece of legislation. This is obviously impossible. So we turn the job over to representatives.

Under our Republic these representatives' powers were limited by the Constitution which told them there were some things they could never do. These things were not left up to the majority. Thirty-four per cent of the Senate can block an amendment to the Constitution. This was provided to make it difficult to amend the Constitution. The Founding Fathers did not wish to leave the Constitution in the hands of a whimsical majority.

The Senate of the United States does not represent the majority of the population; it represents specific areas regardless of population. There are two Senators from Nevada, and two Senators from New York. To change this apportionment of Senators, each state must give its consent. Thus one state can block an attempt to change the apportionment of Senators. One state is not a majority.

Charles and Mary Beard, the famous historians, have this to say concerning whether America is a Democracy: "At no time, at no place, in solemn convention assembled, through no chosen agents had the American people officially proclaimed the United States to be a democracy. The Constitution did not contain the word or any word lending countenance to it... when the Constitution was framed no respectable person called himself or herself a democrat."

The distinction between Republic and Democracy can be made this way: Republic means rule by moral principle. The principle is written into a Constitution which cannot be changed by a simple majority vote. Democracy means rule by the majority, or those factions which claim to represent the majority. In Democracy it is assumed the members of a majority can change any law if they vote to do so, whether or not the law is based on moral principle. In a Republic, the majority cannot change laws which are based on moral principle; therefore, in Republic, it is the moral principle which rules — not the majority.

Henry Grady Weaver said in his new history book, "The Mainspring of Human Progress":

"Democracy was not the answer. The word Democracy means rule BY the masses, and mass rule means MOB rule... Obviously there can be no individual freedom unless the rights of the minority can be protected, and in an unrestrained democracy it's too easy for the organized pressure groups to impose on the rights of others. America was set up as a Republic — which means that the laws would be made and administered by representatives, who, directly or indirectly, are chosen by the people to protect the interests of ALL the people."

Not merely the majority. In Democracy the law rests on numbers. Might makes right.

In Republic the law rests on absolute moral principle. Right is stronger than a public opinion poll. For the voice of righteousness is the voice of God.

Getting Your Share?

Are you wondering why, in spite of staggering taxes, the deficit and the national debt keep going up and up?

If so, you might consider a book which is being advertised by a leading publisher. It is entitled "How to Get It from the Government." According to the advertisements, it "tells about the hundreds of benefits and services provided by your government. You never dreamed you could get so much help from your government in so many ways. All kinds of benefits and services are yours for the asking." A subhead reads: "Are you getting your share of these billions of dollars?"

No criticism is implied of the publisher and author of this book, who have a perfect right to sell as many copies as they can. But the fact that such a work is possible shows how sickeningly far we have strayed from the ideas which built America and which made America's independence and freedom possible.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

There are several things that Eisenhower has done in the last few weeks that should cause everyone who believes in the principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence to be disturbed.

It is hard to conceive why the President should mix into private magazine articles and use his influence to debar a man from serving the Senate Un-American Activities Committee, as Eisenhower did against Dr. J. B. Matthews.

Dr. Matthews' article, as published in the "American Mercury" in the July issue, warned church members that there were some 7,000 ministers who were supporting Communist apparatus in the United States. It is hard to conceive how any greater service can be rendered than to give conscientious church people warning so that they will be analyzing the acts of their ministers to see whether they are advocating things that are in agreement with the Commandments and the Golden Rule or whether what they advocate is based on some form of collectivism. Collectivism is about as far separated from Christian ethics as anything can be. Dr. Matthews stated in his article that the great majority of ministers were loyal to the American principles.

So when Eisenhower contends that Dr. Matthews' article was un-American, he certainly has a strange conception of Americanism. If he does not believe that the union of state and the organized church can do untold harm, he undoubtedly has never read "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" by Gibbons or "The History of Civilization in England" by Buckle or "The History of the Warfare Between Science and Theology" by Andrew Dixon White. The Jewish-Christian ethics are a wonderful way of life, but when religious groups become organized they often are used as a method of initiating force to get control over the lives of other people — and then they are practicing anything but Christian ethics.

FLYING OUT TO TEXAS
Another act of President Eisenhower's which shows that he has a strange conception of Americanism was his flying out to Texas to see what the government could do about the drought. Every rational person knows that the only thing that the government can do to relieve the distress of drought is to tax one group to help out the other groups. Certainly, that is not the providence of a truly limited government. Remember Grover Cleveland said that the government does not have anything to give to one that it does not take from another. Drought victims should be helped on a voluntary basis and not on a compulsory basis, if we believe that the government "derives its just power from the consent of the governed."

Another act of Eisenhower's that gives evidence that he is more of a politician than a statesman is his insistence on the excess profits tax being continued for six months. The excess profits tax is a third tax. It is a tax on the small, efficient man who is making a profit, and profit under free enterprise is nothing but production, and production is profit. When the government penalizes a man for producing, it is hurting everyone and especially is it hurting the working man who has no tools of his own and has to work for wages.

When a man is educated by the government, as Eisenhower was, it is only natural that he puts the government above moral law. And any civil law that violates moral law cannot help but be harmful both materially and spiritually to the general public.

Senator Byrd in a recent statement contended that the United States would go in the red 10 billion dollars by the year ending July 1, 1954. And that is probably what will happen as long as our President believes that we should grant five billion dollars to relieve foreign lands and subsidize farm crops and make laws that encourage labor unions to get wages based on the theory that might makes right and on a non-competitive basis.

We are beginning to learn what Eisenhower really thinks by some of the things he does, and it is not at all encouraging to those people who believe that the Declaration of Independence should be our guide as to the kind of a government we want.

National Whirligig.. National Debt Hints Victory Costs U.S. More Than Defeat

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Congressional cuts in national defense and foreign aid funds would have been far heavier if the weary legislators had been able to wind up the Mutual Security Administration and allied agencies, it is not legally binding on the lawmakers.

Only two things can prevent or postpone a liquidation in 1954, when every House member and one-third of the Senate must seek re-election. They would be an outbreak of global warfare, or resumption of full-scale fighting in Korea. Here are the figures that amazed Capitol Hill:
Although our national debt of $272 billion approaches the legal limit of $275 billion, the debt owed by all the other nations of the world totals only $207 billion.

ALLIES' INDEBTEDNESS — England's mortgage amounts to only $73.3 billion, while that of Russia comes to a mere $49.7 billion. Canada's indebtedness is $17 billion, with France owing only $10 billion.
Ironically, the total debt of our three principal enemies in World War II reaches only $11.1 billion, suggesting that the victory is more costly than defeat. The figures are $5.2 billion for Germany, $4.5 billion for Italy and $1.4 billion for Japan.

ALARMING NEWS — Other figures bearing on Uncle Sam's ability to continue his foreign financing are equally enlightening or "shocking" to use an adjective now on the tongues of many members hitherto sympathetic to these weary legislators.
The national income of all other nations slightly exceeds $483 billion annually, as against our current per peak figure of $304 billion. But here is the really alarming news:
The per capita public debt in the United States is $1,700, which is the amount that every American — man, woman and child — owes to the government: The per capita debt for all other nations is a paltry $91!

FOOD, MINERALS, MACHINERY, CLOTHING, technical advisers and equipment, weapons, troops etc. — U.S. armed forces serving in 49 different countries.

FREQUENT WARNING — This steady dissipation and depletion of our national strength and assets behind the warning so frequently heard on Capitol Hill during the recent session:
"The last house on Easy Street is always the pooresthouse!"

Fair Enough... Pegler Says Republican Party Will Be Socialistic Very Soon

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
The News, of Parkersburg, W. Va., has published a serious discussion of my recent pessimistic conclusion that the Republican Party had run its course and that "Socialism will be our next experience." The News wants me to set a date, within a bracket of a few years, for the demise of the Republican Party but goes into a confusing Discussion of Socialism, although it agrees with me that the end product of both Communism and Socialism is the same — tyranny over the individual.

That agreement is a comfort but there is no comfort in the fact that our people and our politicians and some editors will not realize that our income tax and Social Security tax and our subjugation to private autocracies called labor unions all are menacing manifestations of actual Socialism. As I have pointed out, the liberties provided by the Constitution are being absolutely by the 16th Amendment establishing the income tax with no limit on the amount of that tax. We stubbornly refuse to pay any attention to the meaning of that no man or woman in the whole United States has a constitutional right to keep for himself as much as one dime of his pay for a whole year's work. Not a dime.

President Eisenhower expressed that prevalent ignorance when he said in his first message following inauguration that we Americans were entitled to the fruit of our toil. That simply is not so. When we can't claim a cent of our earnings then obviously we are wards of the state — slaves. We live by the forbearance of Congress.

With few exceptions, the several states also adopted income taxes on the same incomes demanding, in some cases, a tax on money as well as on income. The federal government as income tax. These states also failed to set a limit on their power to tax incomes, in an easily construed case, a certain state might cause total confiscation of all its citizens' earnings. Unable to support themselves because the federal state hogs the income, they would go to Washington for handouts.

The mis-called Social Security tax is actually a payroll tax and nothing else. It is called an income tax in the law itself which, in the same text, nevertheless, pretends that it is an exaction to provide against old age, blindness and the delinquency of ruff-raff who abandon children and support child-relief. The Social Security tax takes 3 per cent of the top of the entire payroll of all the workers in the United States up to $3,600. There are many other "social security" taxes, including some levied by the states, the ostensible purpose of providing against illness or old age.

The Garment Workers Union under Dave Dubinsky, for example, takes a payroll tax of 7 1/2 per cent of the entire payroll, making a total of 19 1/2 per cent in the field of toil, and commerce. In this case, the industry pays a burden of 9 per cent of its whole payroll to the union and the federal treasury plus some other such taxes to state treasuries for unemployment and workmen's compensation. So, in a specimen field of industry and labor, already the payroll tax has reached more than one-tenth of the total and the people have absolutely no voice in any of the matters involved. The same situation can be duplicated in all industry clear across the country. In fact, as of now, by after-thought amendments to social security it has been provided that the tax shall rise to 23 1/2 per cent of $3,600 by 1970. It is easy to conceive that in a few years the federal and state treasuries and the unions and corporate pension systems will be taking 20 per cent of the gross payroll of all our wage-earners, plus income taxes, federal and state.

The so-called health and welfare fund of the garment workers is a terrible power which we have permitted the Roosevelt-Truman administrations to place in the hands of an avowed, life-long Socialist, Dave Dubinsky. His attitude toward Communism may be arrived at through the fact that he carefully selected for his chief political agents in the union and in Europe two of the reddest Communists in the history of the movement. They are anti-Kremlin but their blood-curdling endorsements of Bolshevism have never been repudiated. What, then, is Dubinsky's own attitude toward Communism per se as distinguished from the imperial ambitions of Communist Soviet Russia?

Let us note sharply here that Dubinsky's piece, Ida, was maneuvered into the job of chief counsel of the National Labor Relations Board before which this Socialist president-dictator over an industry has constant official business and that her brother, Sam, has been a diligent bureaucrat in Washington for 15 years. He is now dug deeply into the State Department which some of us naively hoped would become a Republican State Department when Ike was elected. Others were not that naive.

The teamsters and others are now clipping the employers for "insurance" for their subjects. The mine workers under John L. Lewis maintain a fabulous and insurmountable old-age pension system fed by a trick accounting loss in the hands of the ultimate consumer. They tell nothing to anybody.
Millions of us are subject to dictatorships which appoint their own judges in their own courts, prosecute citizens who see absolutely innocent under our public laws for flagrant violations of our constitution.

Stokes puts On One-Man Show As Oilers Bow, 9-5

Hits Homerun In 11th To Break Up Thriller

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 4.—(Special)—Don Stokes, veteran right-fielder for the Plainview Ponies, put on a "one-man" show here Monday night to lead his teammates to a spine-tingling 9-5 decision over the Pampa Oilers in 11 innings before a crowd of 1,100 fans.

The Ponies, clinging desperately to fourth place in the standings, deprived the Oilers of moving into the first division by winning last night's encounter. The Oilers now trail the Ponies and the Clovis Pioneers, who are tied for third and fourth, by 1 1/2 games.

Stokes was easily the difference of last night's Pony win. He climaxed his brilliant night's work with a grand slam homer in the 11th frame. Before that, Stokes had already hit for the cycle, getting a single, double, triple and a homer. Stokes' first homer brought the Ponies from behind in the seventh inning coming with two mates aboard and tying the score at 5-5. Stokes was directly responsible for eight of the nine Pony runs. He drove in seven runs.

Jake Henson started for the Oilers and was hurling masterful ball until he was removed in the seventh. The big right-hander may have suffered a sore arm because he was taken out after giving up a leadoff single to Bob Rose in the seventh which isn't ordinarily enough to drive a pitcher from the mound. The Oilers were leading 5-2 when Henson left.

Blanks Sens On Two Hits Pierce Again Gets Close To No-Hitter

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—UP—Trying to pick the pitcher of the next major league no-hitter is a great proposition, but a likely prospect Monday was lefty Billy Pierce of the White Sox.

The trim speed hurler had another near miss Monday night when he turned in a two-hit 1-0 over Washington as the White Sox stayed five games behind the first place Yankees.

It was his fourth shutout and his fifth low-hit game of the year. Previously he had a one-hitter, another two-hitter, a three-hitter and a five-hitter.

Pierce wins No. 13. Pierce, winning his 13th game, also struck out nine to take the major league lead with a total of 124, one more than Robin Roberts of the Phils.

The Yankees had another picnic against the rag-bag Browns, pummeled them for an 18-hit, 11 to 3 triumph behind Whitey Ford, who didn't work very hard in achieving his 12th victory, top for the New York staff. He gave up 11 hits but contributed four singles himself.

Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle each drove in three runs. Mantle, in a rain-plagued game, finally shortened to seven innings, the Dodgers edged Milwaukee, 1 to 0. Pitcher Russ Meyer was his own co-star, hurling a four-hitter and driving in the only run with a single as Brooklyn stretched its National League lead to 8 1/2 games.

It was Meyer's second straight shutout over Milwaukee and his 11th victory against four defeats. Nuxhall Pitches Five Hitters. Lefty Joe Nuxhall pitched his first big league shutout winning 5 to 0 over the Pirates with a five-hitter at Cincinnati as Andy Seminick set the batting pace with a two-run homer and a double. It was Nuxhall's first complete game and he pitched hitless ball until the eighth after giving up two singles

Dukes Only Team In WT-NM Virtually Assured Of A First Division Berth

WE MIGHT AS WELL FACE IT, the Amarillo Gold Sox are moving.

The Gold Sox, who have lingered in the second division all season, are the "hottest" team in the league at this point. It's just a repeat performance from last year.

The Golden Hose relied on a well-balanced power attack to emerge from the bottom ranks into the first division last season. They still have lotsa power this year but it's pitcher Eddie Locke who is pulling the Amarillo team up this trip.

Locke wins just about everytime he goes out. And here lately, he has been winning twice when his number has been called. He has pitched and won three doubleheaders.

One club official was heard to say at the recent league meeting at Lubbock, "it would be best to have a strong Class C League than to have a weak Class B loop."

And right now, the WT-NM is one of the strongest Class C leagues in the country. It got Class E next season, then it may have the same result as the GCL, which was once a pretty fair Class C league.

We still believe that the attendance in this league wouldn't improve much, if any, by going Class B. The style of play would be just about the same. The only difference would be that the club owners would have more difficulty in meeting the payroll than they have now.

It's hard to tell now just what the league officials are going to do about this realignment talk by next season. Realignment talk is an annual event following each season (Stobbs 6-5) at night. Chicago (Trucks 13-5) at Philadelphia (Byrd 10-11), night. St. Louis (Pilette 4-7) at Boston (McDermott 10-7), night.

Hubs Keep Up With Sox Win

Lubbock's Hubbers kept within three games of league-leading Albuquerque in the West Texas-New Mexico League Monday night, after a three-run ninth inning rally for the Hubbers to do it.

Lubbock and the Ablene Blue Sox were tied at 7-3 at Ablene when the roof caved in at home place Blue Sox.

Albuquerque scored early against home-standing Borger, then held off the Gassers for an 8 to 5 victory.

In other games, Amarillo scored 15 runs in the seventh and eighth innings to beat Clovis 22 to 5, and Plainview's Ponies tallied four runs in the bottom of the 11th inning to defeat Pampa 9 to 5.

Phoenix Elects To Finish 1953 Season

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 4.—UP—The Phoenix club of the Arizona-Texas League will continue to operate for the rest of the season, and the league therefore will probably be able to finish out the year.

Directors of the six-team Class C circuit met here Sunday and made plans to continue operation for the rest of the season although financial problems.

Representatives of the Phoenix club told League President G. R. (Bob) Sloane that the sponsoring organization had decided to continue the remainder of the season, despite heavy losses.

Possible failure of the Phoenix club to begin with, but sent him back to Ablene at which time Brownville acquired the ex-McMurry footballer.

Day has been hitting much better for Brownville than he did for Ablene which is quite confusing against the league, of which Brownville is a member, is Class B and the West Texas-New Mexico League, of course, is Class C.

This is only one of a few examples of ex-WT-NM players enjoying more success in the GCL than they did in this league. Bob Pugatch, a Lubbock Hubber last season, is another example. Pu-

For North All-Star Cagers Woods Listed On Starting Lineup

HOUSTON, Aug. 4.—UP—The Bobby Lockett of Breckenridge at tackles, Alvin Smith of Lamesa and Jimmy Gafford of Lubbock at guards, and Jerry Tubbs of Breckenridge at center as the No. 1 boys.

Defense Line-Up:
Ward also had his defense pretty well in line with several double duty boys like Gray and Lockett at tackles, Gafford at guard and Tubbs at center in the make-up of their teams for Friday night's game.

Vaught had a backfield composed of Doyle Traylor of Temple at quarterback, Jack Throckmorton of LaMarque and Leighton Stewart of Fairfield at the halves and Reuben Saage of Bellville at fullback. Ward's North quartet shaped up as Larry Friday of Midland at quarterback, Jack Webb of Fort Worth North Side at fullback, Fred Kriess of El Paso Austin at right half and Leonard Fry of Brownwood at tailback.

Orton at Right Half
Earlier, Vaught had said he liked the looks of Gerald Orton as his split-T quarterback, but Traylor's passing edge moved him up in the Rebel coach's estimation. Orton was moved to right half.

The rest of the South's offensive lineup as of Tuesday included James Peters of Brenham and Everett Lacey of Tidd at ends; Norman Adams of Baytown and Norman Hamilton of Vanderbilt at tackles; Leon Simmons of Wichita Falls and Dan Miller of Port Neches at guards, and Barton Griffith of Humble at center.

Ward has his squad broken down into 1-2-3 teams. The time being with Mike Brady of Lubbock and Charles Bradshaw of Center at ends, Edmond Gray of Odessa and

Mangrum Is Tam Winner

By ED SAINSBURY
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—UP—Lloyd Mangrum, who has won more money on a golf course than any other man since World War II, had another $3,490 to pocket Monday for his third triumph in six years in the annual "All American" Open at Tam O'Shanter.

Mangrum, never far off the pace during the 72-hole event, came through with a five under par 67 on the final round for a total score of 216, six over Byron Nelson's 1946 record, but 13 under par and three strokes ahead of his nearest competitor.

Trailing him at 278, and each earning $2,180, were Ted Kroil, Ulica, N. Y., and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Kroil finished with two birdies for a 67, while Snead had a birdie and an eagle in the last four holes for a 68.

How To Play Par Golf

Putt With Reverse Overlap Grip

Twenty-sixth of a series

By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. Open Champion

There probably are as many different putting styles as there are putters manufactured, and those are considerable.

Regardless of the method, be comfortable. One of the more popular grips is the reverse overlap. This allows the hands to balance each other, reduces any amount of wrist action. It is excess wrist action that causes most golfers to yank or twist the backswing off line. The stroke should be executed primarily with the hands and arms.

Place the last three fingers of the left hand on the shaft. The index finger should be left extended, the thumb placed down the shaft. Place the right hand as snugly against the left as possible, the same as in the regular grip. The right thumb should be extended down the shaft, too, as you grip the club.

Then comes the reverse overlap. The left index finger should be extended across the back of the fingers of the right hand and pointed down the shaft. This is the exact opposite of your normal grip, when the little finger of the right hand is lapped over the left index finger. I bend my right thumb slightly, so the nail digs into the grip to some degree. This automatically opens the right hand a little, but this is more than compensated for by the thumb adding firmness.

You may vary this grip some-

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Safety Play Rare At Tourney Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The national contract bridge championships are in full swing now in St. Louis, and today the Men's Pair Championship and the Women's Pair Championship are scheduled to end. While I play through the hands of this year's contest, I recall with pleasure some of the interesting hands of former national championship tournaments.

Today's hand, for example, was played in last year's tournament. I remember it clearly because it shows a comparative rarity—a tournament player executing a safety play.

In a total point contest (such as ordinary rubber bridge or a team match) an expert is always on the lookout for a chance to make a safety play since he must try not only for his contract but also

"I want a book for the bedside table in the guest room—it's done in chateau and one wall is papered with a rose pattern!"

"Jones, this is our client Mr. Smith—I want you to go out and lose a game of golf to him!"

"There's a girl who bought a bottle yesterday—just see where it's gotten her already!"

for all possible overtricks.

When Bill Root of Miami played the hand shown today he could feel pretty sure that the safety play was called for. As the result showed, he was perfectly right.

West opened the five of diamonds, and dummy won with the ace. Root drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, discovering that West still had the queen of spades. He then led a club towards dummy, and West hopped up with the king of clubs.

Bill mentally reviewed West's bid. West had doubled for a take-out and had raised diamonds to the level of four. Root knew that West had started with three spades to the queen and a rather shabby holding in diamonds (since East had been able to drop the queen of diamonds as a signal on the first trick).

Obviously, West had the lace-queen of hearts, and just as obviously West must have a singleton somewhere in the hand to give him some excuse for this strong bidding.

West assumed the singleton had to be in clubs, so Bill Root led West hold the trick with the king of clubs. This made it possible for declarer to develop the club suit without giving the lead to East. South's king of hearts was thus safe from attack.

If West led hearts, South would win a trick with the king of hearts. If West failed to lead hearts, declarer could eventually discard a heart on dummy's fifth club. Either way, the contract was safe.

Ike May Get Chance To Deal With Russia's Gen. Zhukov

By PHIL NEWSOM
 United Press Foreign Analyst
 President Eisenhower once remarked—before he became President—that Russia's Marshal G. G. Zhukov was a man he could do business with.

Speculation today is that President Eisenhower might get his chance to do just that.

No word comes from the tightly sealed Kremlin, and most of the evidence upon which the speculation is based, is negative. However, there is an increasing belief that army men, and not the old-line politicians, now hold the real power in Russia.

Further clues may come from this week's meeting of the Supreme Soviet, called to rubber stamp approval of new appointees to fill posts left open by the purge of Lavrentia P. Beria.

Center of this speculation is Zhukov, Russia's undoubted No. 1 military genius.

Decorated Eisenhower
 It was Zhukov, defender of Stalin, grad. Moscow and Leningrad and conqueror of Berlin, who pinned the diamond and ruby star of the Order of Victory on the then General Eisenhower at Eisenhower's German headquarters on June 19, 1945.

It was this same Zhukov who pledged in a toast that day that the Russian people never would forget the help given them by the United States and Great Britain when the going "was hard."

Now the guessing in some diplomatic quarters is that the near future will see the appointment of Zhukov as minister of defense, taking the place of Nikolai Bulganin, a strong party man but a politician rather than a general.

Zhukov's star went into eclipse after World War II, as did the stars of other Russian hero-generals whose popularity threatened to overshadow that of Stalin.

Evidence of Rise
 Now, those who believe Zhukov's star again is in the ascendency, cite three main bits of evidence:

1. On March 8, the day after Stalin's death, Zhukov suddenly recalled from semi-exile in the Ural Mountains to become deputy defense minister to Bulganin. A point which lies in with:
2. Beria controlled a secret police army of at least 500,000 men, equipped with armored units and planes. Most Western observers believe that Beria's overthrow would have been impossible without the army's support.
3. For the first time in Soviet history, Zhukov and other Russian army chiefs made a public declaration supporting the Communist party. This declaration was made shortly after Beria's fall and was taken as confirmation that the army had played a part in Beria's fall.

Only a few generations ago, many English words were spelled in several different ways by reputable writers.

Additional Airline Service In Area

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—UP—The Texas-Oklahoma area will soon be getting some additional airline service.

The Civil Aeronautics Board Monday authorized Central Airlines, Inc., to serve Chickasha, Lawton-Fort Sill and Duncan, Okla., on its flights between Oklahoma City and Dallas-Fort Worth. It also authorized Braniff Airways, Inc., to provide non-stop service between Tulsa, Okla., and Dallas. On flights from or to Amarillo, or points north of Fort Worth or points east, Braniff also was authorized to serve both Lubbock and Wichita Falls.

The CAB authorized Continental Air Lines, Inc., to continue serving Lawton-Fort Sill on its Oklahoma City-Wichita Falls flights but denied its application to fly from Wichita Falls to Dallas-Fort Worth. The Central and Continental authorizations are good through Feb. 19, 1956.

Potential Flat Tires

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 4—UP—State patrolmen Roy Clinton and J. B. Cross figured Tuesday they saved motorists from having several thousand flat tires on Oklahoma's new Turner Turnpike.

A St. Louis Carpenter lost a leg of nails off a trailer Saturday night. The leg broke and nails showered all over the superhighway.

The two patrolmen spent 90 minutes, much of it on their hands and knees, sweeping and picking up nails.

Dead End For Stork

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4—UP—The stork hit a dead end Tuesday in its trip up Longview Road.

A girl was born Aug. 1 to Mrs. Miles Siegel of 500 Longview Road. A boy was born Aug. 2 to Mrs. William Kerley of 600 Longview Road. And a boy was born Monday to Mrs. Arthur K. O'Shea of 700 Longview Road.

But 800 Longview Road is a vacant lot.

Stagg Skips Coaching Year

STOCKTON, Calif., Aug. 3—UP—Amos Alonzo Stagg, the grand old man of football, will not return this fall to Susquehanna University in Pennsylvania because of his wife's health. Stagg, who will be 91 this month, said he notified President G. Morris Smith of Susquehanna that he will not return. However, he emphasized he is not ending his career in football after 63 years as coach or adviser.

When hair on human heads is left uncut there is little difference between the length of hair on a man's head and on a woman's.

Thank You, Burglars

BERKELEY, Calif., Aug. 4—UP—Used car dealer George W. Shomar said Tuesday he'd like to thank the burglars who broke open his safe. He'd been trying to get the darned thing open ever since he lost the combination two years ago. It was empty.

Name Finally Means Something

LEADVILLE, Colo., Aug. 4—UP—The Gotta de Auga Tavern here will have to live up to its name for the coming year. Officials suspended the tavern's liquor license for one year because of illegal Sunday sales. Gotta de Auga, according to the owner, means "drop of water."

Some of the craters of the moon are as much as 140 miles across.

"CANNED" LAMB—Picked up after she wandered into a Wheeling, W. Va., residence, this young lamb wound up in the women's quarters of the city jail. Patrolman Charles Sandridge keeps close tab of his prisoner as he waits for her owner to show up and claim her.

Hen Lays Record

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., Aug. 4—UP—Admirers flocked to the hen coop on Frank Carella's farm Tuesday to get a glimpse of a Black Minorca with fabulous egg-producing powers.

The hen has laid a double yolk egg on every day but two for the last five weeks. On the two odd days, she laid triple-yolk eggs.

"I'm not sure, but I think that's some kind of a record," Carella said.

Fine Place To Meet

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4—UP—Lloyd Stripe had a jubilant reunion with a brother whom he hadn't seen for eight years, but the circumstances somewhat dampened the occasion.

Stripe was hauled into jail on a drunk charge and discovered the man in the next bunk, also in on a drunk charge, was his long lost brother, Al.

Tongue Mixup Amuses Solons

Legislative business is going at such a rapid pace in Washington, Speaker of the House Joe Martin's tongue can't keep up with it.

Last week, Rep. Walter Rogers said, the speaker was asked by a member of Congress for permission to speak out of order—meaning he wanted to speak on a subject not then under discussion.

In recognizing the member—whom Rogers did not identify by name—the speaker said:

"The gentleman is recognized for five minutes to speak without order."

The momentary relief from the tension of the day was welcomed by the House with a good laugh, Rogers said.

It is only in comparatively recent times that it was known there is no Antarctic ocean.
