Around Muleshoe

Linda Lee, secretary of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture said the CofC is seeking a girl to operate the tourist information booth during the summer. She said interested girls are asked to apply to the Manpower worker who will be in her office Tuesday morning taking applications.

Gary F. Lackey was awarded a bachelor's degree in veterinary medicine at Texas A&M University's spring commencement exercises at College Station. A record 2,991 degrees were awarded, including 2,633 undergraduates, 272 master's and 86 doctorates.

Mildred Osborn and Mrs. Sam Osborn visited in the homes of Mrs. Sam McKinstry and the Oscar Allison and Harold Allison homes from Sunday to Wednesday in order to attend the Spring Recital given by Mrs. McKinstry and her piano students.

Horse Clinic Slated In Area For June 18-20

Texas Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring a Summer Horse Clinic for all interested youth on June 18-20 at the Earth Rodeo arena on Highway 70, starting at 9 a.m. each day. Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley said that in the past, these clinics have proven to be very educational and rewarding to any youth who has attended.

Training for the clinics will be conducted by Texas A&M College students who are studying horses and have received special training in this area, Tanksley said. All participants will learn the following basic information: bits and bridling, leads, simple lead changes, stops, backing, proper method to sit and use of feet, legs and hands, use of equipment and how to maintain horse equipment. Other training areas will be in Showmanship at Halter, Western Pleasure, Western Horsemanship, Barrel Racing and Pole Bending.

Each participant will receive class room type instruction and ten will have an opportunity to do these things with his or her own horse in the arena. A charge of $21 will be made for each youth to attend the clinic.

Any youth who would like to attend is asked to contact the Bailey County Extension office at 272-4559 or Spencer Tanksley, county agent.

Space will be available for horses overnight, and youth will be required to bring a sack lunch with cold drinks and refreshments furnished.

HEAVILY DAMAGED CAR...Mrs. Lee [Brenda] Jesko was driver of this car when it was involved in a near head-on accident north of the Clay's Corner intersection shortly after noon on Wednesday. Her three daughters, Angie, Laura and Ginger, were all passengers in the car when the accident occurred. All received injuries.

Clays Corner Crash Leaves 6 Injured

Shortly after noon Wednesday, ambulances and law enforcement officers were sent speeding to the scene of a two vehicle head-on crash just north of the intersection of Clay's Corner on Highway 214, north of Muleshoe some 11 miles.

Transported to West Plains Medical Center were Mrs. Lee (Brenda) Jesko; Angie, 16; Laura, 11 and Ginger, age nine. In the other vehicle, also brought to West Plains Medical Center in Muleshoe were Joe Nanez, 51 and his son, Jessie, age nine.

Following emergency treatment at the local hospital, both Laura and Angie were transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock in critical condition, with head and facial injuries.

At presstime, the Lubbock hospital listed Laura as extremely critical in intensive care, and listed Angie as serious. Angie is the Lubbock correspondent for the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals.

Mrs. Jesko was transferred to the Lubbock hospital at her request Thursday afternoon to be near her daughters and Ginger was released from WPMC Friday morning.

Nanez and his son were also treated at the local hospital for lacerations and contusions. Nanez was Cont. page 6, Col. 1

Dollar Loss Follows Ditch Irrigation

A report just published by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 reveals that High Plains ditch irrigation farmers may be losing from $2,747 up to $13,255 each year to the high cost of deep water infiltration and evaporation loss inefficiencies. The Water District has just released its study tabulating statistical data in a report titled "Cost Analysis of Irrigation Ditch Losses."

Field tests for irrigation ditch losses over the years have verified these financial and water drains. This report documents the substantial volume of water which may be lost each year in open ditch irrigation through both decreased efficiency and higher irrigation costs; and it is one of the first studies to statistically analyze these findings. The report examines three approaches in order to determine the dollar value of the quantities of ditch irrigation water lost in different soil types, the lost water's potential for yield increases, and the economic feasibility of replacing irrigation ditches with alternative irrigation distribution systems. Findings indicated these losses are indeed expensive, not only in decreased irrigation efficiency which then requires added pumping, but in added fuel costs for the additional pumping. The water lost due to infiltration and evaporation from irrigation ditches becomes more costly yet if its potential for converting additional crops to irrigation is figured.

Also examined is the economic feasibility of replacing open irrigation ditches with underground pipeline systems, plastic or aluminum pipe. Tables evaluate the breakeven point (years required to recover cost of investment; for installing such systems. Replacement systems are financially justified as the cost of water conveyed to the furrow without loss is converted into potential savings.

The study concludes it is hard to justify the revenue losses of open ditch irrigation considering the high cost of production to the irrigation farmer, es- Cont. page 6, Col. 1

July 4th Plans Working

As June continues, plans are still working for the annual Fourth of July celebration in Muleshoe. Bruce Woods, chairman of the event for the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, has assigned chairmen of each event, and the chairmen are busy coordinating their various events.

Linda Lee, secretary of the CofC said parade entries are coming in and more entries will be expected prior to the July 2 deadline.

Shaving permits have been sold, but a lot of smooth faced men have been noted about town. Mrs. Lee said she is printing more shaving permits for the beard growing contest, for the men who elect to shave daily rather than enter the contest.

Shaving permits are available from the CofC office, Muleshoe Antenna, Tri-County Savings and Loan Association and the Muleshoe Journal.

Most activities this year will center around the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum, both inside and outside.

Sunday Skating Slated

With school out for the summer and a lack of activities for young people, roller skating moves to the forefront, with skating scheduled at the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum this Sunday.

The skating will be under the auspices of the Muleshoe Area Youth Activities Committee Inc. and will cost 20 cents for skating from 2-5 p.m.

This will allow young people time for lunch after church, yet be through skating before church time on Sunday evening. It is also expected to be beneficial, especially for girls, who do not want to get their hair wet at the swimming pool before Sunday night church.

A concession stand will be available for those interested. If the Sunday afternoon skating is successful, it will be scheduled for each Sunday afternoon during the summer months.

Local 4-H Competed For State

Ten local youth participated in the State 4-H Round-up last week at College Station, representing three teams. Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley, who accompanied the group to the competition, praised their abilities while they were in competition.

He said he was pleased with their showing and placings they received for their efforts. Tanksley commented, "They are capable of getting to the top and their overall showing was real good. They were in close competition and I feel that with two more years they can compete, we will be seeing some first places in the future."

Jacinda Gleason and Delia Shaw competed in Junior Beef Cattle and placed sixth among the 16 teams in the state. Their presentation was "A Ton of Beef Per Acre" which showed the progress of cattle raised on alfalfa. This was their first time in state competition.

The Livestock Judging Team, composed of Jimmy Gleason and Greg, Alan and Kelly Harrison, placed sixth. A total of 28 teams were in the competition, and they judged eight classes and four talk presentations, explaining to judges reasons for their judging. Jimmy Gleason was ninth high individual. Casey and Sharla Farmer, Shane Claunch and Perry Flowers were the Horse Judging Team and placed tenth of 28 classes. They were only 28 points from first place as they judged halter, performance, western pleasure, showmanship, hunter hack and one other class.

Farmers To Check Fields For Damage

"Cotton is really getting rained on a lot," said Bailey County Extension Agent, Spencer Tanksley. "I don't know how much seedling disease we have at this time, but we are having diseased cotton show up now. We definitely have a reduced stand in the fields."

The county agent said the farmers need to evaluate each individual field and determine if they have enough damage to warrant re-planting.

According to the county agent's evaluations, a farmer needs to have a stand of three to four plants per foot in the row. A minimum would be one and a half to two plants. "The potential yield would be greater for yields than replanting at this late date," he predicted.

"Even a good stand of late cotton may not have time to mature by harvest time," estimated the county agent, who suggested the farmer check his rows each three feet to determine his own damage.

He also suggested that farmers check the root zone area for damage to root tissue, as what may appear to be a healthy plant at one time, may have root damage to the extent that the entire plant will soon wilt and die.

Tanksley said not much loss has been noted to date, and hail loss has also been minimal, compared to a year ago at this time, when hailstorms had devastated crops in a wide area.

"We're very thankful," he said, "that we have had such little damage in comparison to last year." The county agent also said that sunshine and hot weather would help the young crop recuperate and prevent further loss from the present cool, damp weather.

There are only 90-100 growing days left here, he warned, as it will start getting cool in mid-September. Potentially, this weather (the cool, rainy days and nights; has hurt the cotton, and is especially hard on the cotton just germinating.

"It has left damage," he said, "and individual farmers need to check their fields for extent of the damage to the young crops. All the news with the present weather is not dismal, as Tanksley said some crops are benefitting from the wet weather. Corn is probably doing very well, he estimated. As corn responds well to cool, damp weather, he anticipated no damage to corn crops.

The weather has deterred harvesting of alfalfa, and has caught some alfalfa down in the fields, frustrating the alfalfa producer, he added.

"Vegetables, as a whole, are responding well," continued the county agent, "but, we do anticipate a number of diseases if this weather continues."

He said tomatoes will be subject to a leaf spot disease. More than 50 percent of Cont. page 6, Col. 1

Cool, Wet Weather Lingering

Another cool front slipped into the area Friday morning, leaving overcast skies, a lowered temperature and no moisture.

During the day, following temperatures in the mid-90s on Thursday, the temperature was only 60 degrees, down some 35 degrees from the preceding day.

Late Friday night, rainfall added an additional .55 to the total for the year in Muleshoe, again stopping all farm work. More precipitation was expected through the weekend.

At Bula, Claunch Gin reported one inch of rain at the gin, with more than an inch reported six miles north of Bula.

The Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge reported .54 with no damaging hail or wind.

From the Maple area, the Maple Grocery reported .8 and Foster Fertilizer at Lazbuddie reported an inch.

Marshall 'Catfish' Williams reported about .9 at Progress and Loyd Stephens at West Camp reported .6 in additional moisture Friday night.

National Weather Service at Lubbock predicted that an upper level disturbance would cause the clouds to linger in the area through the weekend, with more rain possible, in some instances in very heavy amounts.

Partial clearing could start sometime late Sunday, according to NWS.

Around midnight, on Thursday, a brief hard shower fell, leaving only a trace of moisture, along with brilliant lightning and booming thunder before the storm moved to the east.

Consumer Food News

Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include poultry products, some fresh produce and several items "on special," according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY--Whole fryers and mixed fryer parts are quite economical.

Now's the time to freeze extras to avoid higher prices later during the summertime barbecue demand.

Turkey is a feature item in some stores, and egg prices are low. Use eggs as a meat alternate, and save the difference.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Prices are lower on soft-shell squash (yellow, zucchini and some patty pan or white varieties) and fresh corn. Buy corn in amounts you can use within a day or so, buy from refrigerated cases, and refrigerate at home.

Other items with attractive prices are cabbage, carrots, dry yellow onions, head lettuce and potatoes. Blackeye peas are coming to market, but prices are relatively high as yet.

FRESH FRUITS--Strawberry prices are lower and quality is good. Other items worth considering are avocados, bananas, pineapples and apples.

Melon prices are dropping, but really lower prices are still some time away.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Specials include canned vegetables, soup, cooking oil, pasta products and peanut butter. Lower prices appear on chopped and minced dried onions and oregano.

FROZEN FOOD--Features appear on ice cream, pot pies, orange juice, strawberries and vegetables.

PORK--Large supplies coming to market will mean several features this week.

They include center and end chops, quarter-loin cut into chops, sholder roasts and liver.

In cured pork, look for special prices on boneless hams, frankfurters, bacon and smoked picnics.

BEEF--Supplies are short, so prices are high on what there is.

Look for only a few specials on ground beef with soy protein, round and sirloin steaks, liver and chuck cuts, including boneless blade chuck.

Also, remember that the cuts of meat in least demand usually cost less.

These cuts take more time and attention in cooking but the results are worth it.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Make your own frozen prepared foods at home rather than buying commercially prepared foods. It's usually more economical.

Be sure to use only fresh, high-quality ingredients.

Use your own favorite recipes for freezing. Season lightly, because pepper, cloves and synthetic vanilla tend to become strong and bitter in frozen foods.

Cook only until "almost done," since the reheating process will cook the food a bit more. That will avoid overcooking the food during reheating.

FOOD MARKETING ALERT

USDA Agricultural Marketing Service

SPECIAL ALERT: USDA's AMS suggests that consumers make full use of abundant Potatoes and Onions this June. Supplies of these items are unusually large.

As of mid-May, the June supply situation looks like this:

RED MEATS

Beef...adequate. Although supplies are down from record level of recent years, beef to continue adequate because of expected large supplies of competing meats. Production rates to avg. 12-14% below year-earlier, and 16% below 1976-78 June avg. Production of higher grades to be a little below year-earlier, with continued smaller output of processing-type beef.

Pork...plentiful. Production to avg. 10-12% above year-earlier, or 20% above 1976-78 June avg.

POULTRY & EGGS

Broiler-fryers...plentiful. Marketing rates to be up 9-10% from 1978, and 14-15% above 1976-78 June avg.

Turkey...plentiful. Supplies to be 24-26% above June 1978 and 22% above 1976-78 June avg. Both new turkey production and cold storage holdings to be well above year-earlier.

Eggs...plentiful. Output to be 3% above last year and 5-6% above 1976-78 June avg.

MILK & DAIRY PRODUCTS

Milk & dairy products...plentiful. Overall demand for milk will be up, in part because manufacturers are rebuilding their stocks of butter and cheese. But production of milk and dairy products will exceed demand in June.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES & NUTS

Fresh peaches, plums, and nectarines...adequate. Fresh sweet cherries and apricots...adequate. Fresh Hawaiian papayas...light, due to adverse weather.

Fresh strawberries...adequate, barring weather damage. Major processed deciduous fruits such as peaches and pears...light, nearing seasonal low point and inventories of these canned items at processors' warehouses will be light. Fresh oranges, lemons, and lemons...adequate, but grapefruit...light. Canned and frozen citrus juices...adequate.

Other major frozen vegetables, including lima beans, broccoli, carrots, and cut sweet corn...adequate.

Potatoes...plentiful, due to large storage stocks and a spring crop 27% above the 1978 reduced level. Holdings of frozen potatoes at end of Mar. were below the large year-earlier levels, and 6% below 1976-78 average.

Onions...plentiful. Spring crop to total 13% more than 1978 crop and 6% above average.

Corn...plentiful for U. S. food needs. The 1978 crop was 10% above year-earlier level and 15% above 1975-77 avg.

Dry beans...plentiful. The 1978 crop was 15% above year-earlier level and 11% above 1975-77 avg. Larger-than-usual carry-over stocks are also adding to supply levels.

DRUGS AND DRIVING

Drivers who are sleepy, dizzy or have blurred vision pose a threat not only to themselves but also to others on the road.

Everyone knows that drinking and driving do not mix. But, what many do not realize is that some drugs taken every day can also interfere with a person's ability to drive.

Although most people are very careful when and how they take prescription drugs, they may be less careful about activities done after taking some over-the-counter medicine.

Medications such as cough and cold remedies contain such ingredients as antihistamines, codeine and some times varying amounts of alcohol.

These drugs can make a person drowsy, making it inadvisable to drive, operate machinery or do activities which require a person to be especially alert.

Although advertising for many popular cough and cold remedies does not usually include the fact that they cause drowsiness, read the label carefully on this and other medications for any warnings of such a problem.

Some daytime sedatives are sold over the counter to help a person overcome "simple nervous tension." This class of drug will also cause drowsiness and should be taken with caution.

Some prescription drugs that may cause dizziness, drowsiness and visual disturbances are some of the powerful pain killers and drugs taken for ulcers.

Tranquilizers, too, make a person drowsy, increasing the risk of accident if a person drives after taking this type of drug.

Sedatives, of course, cause drowsiness. People usually recognize this and do not attempt to drive immediately after taking a sedative.

However, in some types of sedatives there is a long lasting effect. Barbituates, for example, can impair efficiency for as long as 14 hours.

Other prescription drugs which require precautions in this area are antidepressant drugs, drugs for controlling weight and anti-hypertensive drugs.

Alcohol, which is the leading cause of highway accidents, can become even more dangerous if mixed with certain drugs because it can alter their effect on the body's system.

If the medication will make you sleepy, combining it with alcohol is dangerous, and some combinations are lethal.

To avoid these problems, take some precautions.

1. When the doctor prescribes a drug, pay close attention to instructions about taking it.

2. If you have any questions about a prescribed drug, check with the doctor or pharmacist.

3. Always read the label of any over the counter medicine bought.

4. Avoid alcohol when taking any medication -- prescription or over the counter.

vertising Company, and as advertising and personnel director for the Borden Company in Amarillo.

Mills served as president of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce in 1962, was president of the United Way in 1970, and then lead Amarillo's first $1 million United Way campaign in 1973. Additionally, he has served as president of the

TXAS WINTER TOUGH
Although northwest Tx. did not lose big game animals like Colorado did, the extreme cold and long periods of ice and snow cover did reduce the upland bird populations according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department spokesmen.

"The snow and ice that covered the Texas Panhandle was not deep enough to affect the deer or antelope populations," said David Dvorak, wildlife project leader. "Although the antelope are the first to feel the effects of a Texas blizzard due to their open-range habitat."

The upland birds such as quail were cut off from their normal food supplies by weeks of ice and snow in January and February. "Healthy quail can survive short periods of snow and ice and only lose the surplus fat, but if another snow/ice storm occurs within a few days before they have a chance to store up more fat, many birds will become weak and die," said Vernon Morse, Gene Howe wildlife management area supervisor.

This type of storm succession did occur in the Texas Panhandle this past winter. However, Morse

GAS AVAILABLE FOR BOATS

Texas boaters are not having much difficulty in buying gasoline according to reports from marine dealers, marina operators and the Boating Trades Association of Texas.

"We have checked virtually all areas of Texas, and found none to be experiencing a shortage of gas supplies," said Tom Nelms, president of the boating association.

"We've had some service stations close down on weekends, but we don't anticipate that we are going to have a gasoline shortage similar to the one that is occurring in other parts of the country," Nelms continued.

The predicted gasoline shortage seems to have little effect upon boat purchases as the normal increase of boat registrations continues with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. An increase of 9.3 percent is being tabulated by the registration division each year for the last ten years. As of March, 1979, there were 531,781 boats registered in Texas by the P&WD.

The closures of many service stations on weekends will require careful planning by boat owners so they can find gasoline. Nearly 75 percent of boating takes place on weekends and the P&WD suggests Texas boaters travel or cross the major highways where service stations are normally open seven days a week.

It is expected that more local boating trips to area lakes will be made this summer and fewer long hauls to far-away reservoirs will be planned.

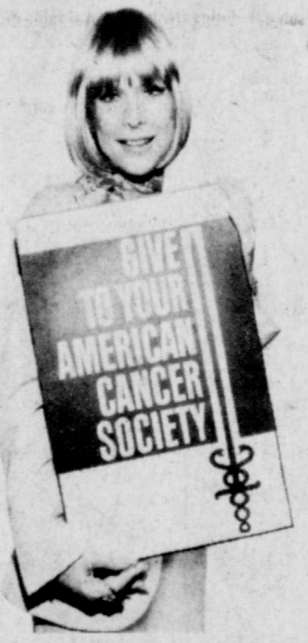

In addition to the sponsors, the Producers Grain Corp. of Amarillo has contributed support for the conference.

PARKS' GROUP

SHELTERS POPULAR
The number of visitors to State parks continue to increase at a predictable rate, but the parks with group shelters have shown the biggest jump.

"These group shelters are popular for family reunions, parties, or even company meetings and nearly all are being reserved well into the summer," said Leonard Winstead, regional park director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"The only closed group shelter in northwest Texas is located at the Abilene recreational area, but open group shelters are located at Fort Griffin near Albany, Fort Richardson near Jacksboro and Lake Arrowhead near Wichita Falls," Winstead continued.

The closed shelters are weatherproofed similar to a cabin. The open or screened shelters provide overhead protection from the elements.

The new state parks reservation system includes these shelters along with the normal campsite reservations. The popularity of these group shelter makes it necessary for groups wanting to reserve a shelter, to call well in advance.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Besides approving a multitude of other bills on the very last day of the 66th session, the Texas Legislature also finally agreed on a state budget, a school finance plan and tax relief legislation.

Hurriedly pumping out minor bills and putting the finishing touches on major legislation on the 140th and final day of the session is the traditional way of doing things for the Texas Legislature.

The 66th session was no different.

On the way to the last 24 hours of lawmaking, legislators had been sidetracked by such nagging matters as a presidential primary, alterations to the consumer protection act and a change in the usury ceiling.

But with the presidential primary effectively killed by the flight of the "Killer Bees" in the Senate, and with changes in the consumer protection act already passed, and with the usury ceiling upped to a maximum of 12 percent, lawmakers spent the final day of the session working on the budget, agreeing on the final details of how public schools would be financed and approving legislation to implement the tax relief amendment passed by voters last November.

The state budget for 1980-81 passed by both Houses after some expected haggling over different provisions of the plan would cost $20.7 billion. That's a 19 percent increase over the last two-year spending plan the Legislature drew up in 1977 during the 65th session.

When you consider that inflation, it appears lawmakers succeeded in keeping spending levels as low as was humanly possible.

But, the $20.7 billion budget passed on to Gov. Bill Clements for his signature is $1 billion higher than what he suggested to the Legislature in his budget message earlier in the session. Clements wanted to return an additional $1 billion to taxpayers.

Indications are that Clements will approve the spending plan, although some Capitol observers warn that the governor might end up approving one year of the biennial spending draft and then call lawmakers back for a special session to write another one-year budget for the last year of the biennium.

But the special session the governor has said he will call will probably deal with another of his legislative goals—initiative and referendum. The House came close to passing "indirect" initiative and referendum rights for voters, and Clements, addressing the House on the final night of the session, warned lawmakers that he would be seeing them again sometime in the next two years in a special session on the subject.

Included in the state budget were 5.1 percent pay raises for state employees and a boost of 8.3 percent for Department of Public Safety troopers.

Teachers also got a 5.1 percent pay raise on top of automatic step increases, bringing their pay hikes to 7-10 percent.

Last session, Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, found the school finance plan so objectionable he talked until the clock had run out, leaving lawmakers without a plan.

This time, Mauzy said he felt the Legislature had done a better job of "getting equalization aid to the poorer districts."

In the past, Mauzy claimed that the rich school districts were simply getting richer while the poorer ones were getting poorer.

"This is not a perfect bill," Mauzy told his fellow senators, "but it's a good bill that I wholeheartedly recommend to you in good

The school finance package contains $334 million new money for teacher pay, $152 million for equalization to school districts and almost $100 million in additional funds for the operation and maintenance of public schools.

Inseparable from the question of school finance is the matter of tax relief legislation. House Bill 1060, the measure to implement the constitutional amendment approved by voters, is expected to cost local school districts across the state almost $384 million.

Homestead exemptions will be granted under the tax relief legislation for the elderly and the disabled. Family cars and household goods are also exempted. And farm and ranch land will be taxed on its productivity rather than its market value.

What legislators had to agree on was a plan to reimburse local school districts for the tax dollars they would be losing. House Bill 1060 contained $200 million for reimbursement and the school finance plan ended up containing $184 million for the same purpose.

But how that $384 million set aside for reimbursement would be parceled out was another question. Lobbyist for the large metropolitan school districts—in most cases the richer districts—pushed for a minimum 45-cents per dollar reimbursement plan and got it. But, to use another example, Austin would be reimbursed 67-cents for every dollar lost because of mandated tax breaks.

Austin Sen. Lloyd Doggett said that the increased payments to the large school districts would mean a decrease in longevity pay for state employees.

And Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan labelled HB 1060 as "a fraud and a sham" because of the compromises made after heavy pressure was applied by lobbyists from Dallas and Houston.

But a representative of the Dallas school district was quick to point out that even with the reimbursement plan plus other state aid, DISD would fall $4.5 million shy of its revenue needs.

And Dallas may not be the only school district that will be facing that same problem after tax relief legislation is put into effect.

That means of course that some programs will have to be cut back or new taxes will have to be levied. That led one Dallas school representative to say that he thought any new taxes that might have to be collected should be called the "Briscoe Tax," after former Gov. Dolph Briscoe who called a special session last summer to draw up tax relief legislation.

Critics charge that HB 1060 is not a tax relief measure but merely a shifting of the tax burden from local school districts to the state.

And those same critics point out that the average homeowner will probably only save $40-$50 in taxes in each of the next two years.

Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., was chosen as the cotton producer representative on a six-man team that left San Francisco June 2 for a three-week cotton trade mission to the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, Bangladesh and India.

The five countries in 1977-78 provided markets for an estimated one million bales of U.S. cotton, three-fourths of which was in grades and staples common to High Plains production.

The mission is financed jointly by Cotton Council International (CCI) and the Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Consultations are scheduled in the various countries with cotton agents, importers, merchants, representatives of cotton spinning mills, government officials and others.

Sending trade teams to significant cotton importing countries is one of CCI's many market development activities that help maintain and expand U.S. raw cotton exports.

Officially Johnson is the representative of the Cotton Producer Steering Committee of the National Cotton Council, CCI's parent organization.

Representing the American Cotton Shippers Association are Eduardo Esteve of Esteve Cotton Company, Dallas, and Samuel Reeves of Dunavant Enterprises, Fresno, California. Albert (Bert) Kyle of Lubbock's Plains Cotton Cooperative Association represents cooperatives on the team.

From USDA is Ed Deariso of the Cotton and Tobacco Division, Washington. CCI Special Projects Manager Carl Campbell is representing that organization.

The trade team's overall objectives, as described by Dave Hull, Executive Director of CCI, include:

Update cotton customers and potential customers on current availability of U.S. cotton and the outlook for exportable supplies in 1979-80;

Discuss U.S. cotton's marketing opportunities and problems; Emphasize U.S. cotton's advantages, including credit programs and the wide range of qualities and staple lengths available, as well as the dependability of U.S. exports, and Reconfirm the industry's recognition and appreciation of each country as a major customer of U.S. cotton and the industry's determination to continue to serve that market as a dependable supplier of quality fiber.

The group's return to the U.S. is scheduled June 21.

The Speaker Reports
by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—In addition to the school finance bill, the House passed a number of other measures during the 66th session which will affect public schools.

House Bill 508 by Representative Tony Polombo of Houston changes the requirement that school districts operate on a quarter system basis. Beginning in the 1979-80 school year, districts may offer two semesters per year rather than three quarters. Information collected indicates that an overwhelming majority of Texas school districts will opt for the semester system within the next two years. The measure was signed by the Governor May 24 and is effective immediately.

Recent education polls have indicated that two of the public's chief concerns about public education are discipline and lowered educational standards, particularly in the basic skills areas of reading, written expression and arithmetic computation.

The House addressed these crucial issues in bills introduced by Representative Carlyle Smith of Grand Prairie and Lee Jackson of Dallas. The Smith bill gives greater authority to the classroom teacher in handling incorrigible pupils. The teacher may remove from his or her classroom and recommend suspension for any student who assaults the teacher or who repeatedly interferes with the teacher's ability to communicate effectively with the other students. The principal of the school must then conduct a hearing to determine whether or not the student should be suspended for the remainder of the term.

This bill was passed by both the House and the Senate after amendments which protect the student's rights to due process were added. The bill was sent to the Governor for his signature on May 25.

The Jackson bill requires students to pass tests of competence in basic skills areas at certain grade levels in order to be promoted from grade to grade or graduated from high school. This bill passed the House but did not come up for a vote in the Senate. The author has promised to reintroduce the bill every session until it becomes law.

The House of Representatives in the 66th session has been very sensitive to the diverse needs of children in our schools. Representative Charles Evans of Hurst, for example, introduced legislation which appropriates $5 million for pilot programs for gifted and talented students. At the other extreme, Representative Bill Blanton of Dallas introduced a measure which expands services for handicapped children and puts Texas statutes in compliance with federal law concerning the education of handicapped children. Both measures have received a great deal of support from both parents and professional educators. Both bills have been included in the school finance bill.

In the past few years our schools have been criticized for straying from the original aims of public education and from the expectations and wishes of parents. Legislation passed by the House during the 66th session indicates that representatives have been listening closely to what their constituents are saying about Texas schools. By responding to the concerns of those who elected them, state representatives have made significant strides in putting the public back in public education.

Search Needed When Property Sold

Jonathan and Sally sold their house last year, they couldn't stand why there had been a title search and in addition together with the owner's title insurance policy as part of the sale.

Jonathan said, "I just bought the house three years ago, and when I had a title search done, I found out that there were other liens on the property. I had to pay for them. I wish I had known about them when I bought the house. I wish I had had a title search done before I bought it. I wish I had had a title insurance policy when I bought it. I wish I had had a title search done before I bought it. I wish I had had a title insurance policy when I bought it."

unpaid taxes or special assessments for public improvements such as streets, sewers and water which the current owner had no control over and possibly no actual notice. The owner may have a judgment against him, automatically resulting in a general lien on the property until the judgment debt is satisfied. The couple may have become divorced, and now one spouse claims a legal or equitable interest in the home. There may have been a death of one of the owners, resulting in the possibility of a will; a will contest; undisclosed heirs; minor heirs who require a guardian to convey their interest; estate taxes, and claims of creditors. So even though there has been no apparent change in ownership, the title can be impaired or totally lost by these and other occurrences, according to the Family Housing Bureau. These developments mean that other people may have claims which take priority over the rights of the new buyer or the lender. Virtually all of the records affecting real estate would have to be examined from the date of the earlier purchase to bring the title up to date for the subsequent sale. The work involved in reviewing these records -- whether any defects in title are discovered or not -- may be almost the same as in the earlier search and examination. Once the new search and examination is performed and all newly discovered title problems such as those mentioned above are properly disposed of, the new sale and loan transactions can be concluded. New title policies will then be issued, insuring the owner that his rights in the new home are what he contracted for and assuring the lender that it has a valid first mortgage on the property. The insurance pays for any losses incurred by the policyholder in case the title insurance company is found to be wrong in its determination. The point is that each time the property is sold, the new owner and the lender want to make sure that the title is good, Chicago Title's Family Housing Bureau notes. They want to be certain that the current sale results in the ownership that both bargained for. That is why the title search and examination are necessary.

MAKING WAY...

The drawbridge makes way for the boat to come into the city and down the canal. Dredges make canals in open waters such as the gulf to make way for ships to travel an inter-coastal waterway. Police officers and secret service men clear a path in the crowds to make way for an important foreign potentate so that he might arrive at his destination.

Church members are the ones who can clear the way, and show the right path to those who have not found the way to our Lord.

Isaiah 40:3B reads, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God."

Support your church in every way you can. Ask someone to attend church with you this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White Attorney General

AUSTIN—Many otherwise sensible consumers, who would never dream of tossing money out the window, do just that every year when they fall prey to the lure of making a lot of money with little or no effort.

It's just that promise of easy money that attracts people into participating in chain letter schemes that require them to send a certain amount of cash, a savings bond, money order, check, or other item of value to people they may never have met.

Our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division attorneys have received calls and inquiries about a new chain letter scheme that requires a $100 investment from each individual participating, but promises an immediate chance to recoup that initial investment, plus later profits.

We caution each and every person that such chain letter plans where something of monetary value is exchanged are against both State and federal law. All participants could be found guilty and could be sentenced to hefty fines or time in jail, or both, although generally prosecution is limited to the organizers.

Why are such chain letters illegal? Because any profits received by those who are near the top of the list come directly out of the pockets of those who enter the chain later and who have no chance to get a return on their investment. The reason they have no chance to break even or make a profit is that it's mathematically impossible for all participants to benefit, as promised, even if no one breaks the chain. For instance, if you are told to mail the letter to six other persons, a "perfect" participation would be more than the population of the entire United States before round 11 was completed. Not only that, it's highly likely that the chain would be broken long before that.

In addition, in some chain letter schemes, the first five or so names on the list are aliases of the originator, making that individual the only one to gain anything.

What should you do if you suspect an illegal chain letter? Immediately contact attorneys in our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, or McAllen; your county or district attorney; or your local U.S. Postal Inspector. Save any literature, including envelopes, and be ready to turn it over to authorities.

Remember, though, that only those chain letters in which items of monetary value are exchanged are illegal. Chains in which poems, recipes, prayers, advice, and other similar items are exchanged are not against the law.
