Rhee Holds Up Plans On Crossing Parallel

Gas Rate Case Decision Due 'Immediately'

Mayor Flies Home; Other Pampa Men Expected Tonight

Mayor Tom Rose, back in Pampa this morning from the gas appeal hearing in Austin, said that indications were the Texas Railroad Commission would rule "immediately" on the request by Empire Southern Gas Company for permission to increase its natural gas rates in Pampa.

Rose, City Manager B. H. Cruce, City Attorney Bob Gordon and City Commissioners Frank Dial, Gene Fatherree, W. D. Varner and W. B. (A) Neel were in Austin Monday and Tuesday for the hearing before S. C. McIntosh, head of the TRRC's gas utilities division.

The other Pampans were expected back in town tonight, Rose flew in Tuesday night.

McIntosh told the United Press that the law provides for a ruling within 60 days, but Rose said he understood the ruling would come as quickly as possible.

The testimony must first be compiled, then laid before the three-member TRRC before a final decision is handed down, Rose explained today.

All witnesses during the hearing were put on the stand by the gas company with Pampa's side being presented through cross-examination, the United Press reported.

H. G. Gray, Empire's secretary-treasurer, testified that the company's net return during the 12 months ending Oct. 13 was 1.66 per cent on its investment in Pampa, that the proposed rate increase would have meant a return of 5.97 per cent. He added that the company took in $338,150 but netted only $24,020 and that "taxes would take more than half of the requested increase."

Pampa's attorneys — Gordon, Gordon, and Burtress of Pampa and Harry O'Quinn and Crenshaw of Austin — contended the proposed rate increase was excessive and would hurt the small consumers most.

Present rate in Pampa is 33 cents per 1,000 cubic feet with the minimum monthly net bill $1.50. Empire wants to charge $1 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 2,000 and 40 cents per 1,000 for the next 20,000 with a minimum of $2.

The Pampa City Commission, after a week-long series of sworn-testimony hearings at which Empire President James A. Davis was present — granted an increase that would make the estimated minimum monthly bill $1.62-$1.64.

Youths Arrested In Burglary Case

At least one recent burglary has been solved by Pampa police and another was in the process of being solved this morning.

Police Tuesday night arrested five boys, four of them 18 years of age and the other 15, in connection with the burglary on the night of Oct. 24 of the Webb Dryving Range on E. Browning.

Chief of Police Jim Conner said the boys admitted breaking into the office of the driving range. Practically all of the items reported stolen have been recovered. These items included a large quantity of fishing equipment, two Coleman lanterns, an electric lantern and a camp stove.

Two of the boys told Conner that they had burglarized the Montgomery Ward warehouse in September. However, this date does not coincide with the only reported burglary of the warehouse. Police received a report on Nov. 22 that the warehouse had been burglarized but had no report of a burglary in September.

Pioneer Pilot Due To Ride WWI Airplane To Texas

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 16 — UP-A hardy flying pioneer planned to take off Wednesday in an open cockpit "flying Jenny" on a flight to Dallas, Tex.

Temperatures in Illinois were in the low teens.

The pilot, Burrell Tibbs, a 57-year-old airport operator at Grand Prairie, Tex., said he expected to make the 700-mile flight in 12 to 15 hours with stops at Springfield, Mo., Tulsa, and Oklahoma City, Okla.

The old "jenny," a Curtis JN-4D, one of the few of its kind left in existence, the biplane, used to

FASTEY MAN'

Test Pilot Sets New Speed Record

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 — UP—Maj. Charles E. Yeager has flown two and one-half times the speed of sound — about 1,650 miles an hour — in the Air Force's X-1A rocket plane, it was reported Wednesday.

Informed sources said the West Virginia-born test pilot achieved the record — shattering speed last Saturday in an historic flight over Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Yeager thus regained the title of the world's fastest man which he had won originally on Oct. 14, 1947, when he became the first to fly faster than the speed of sound. The 1947 flight was made in the X-1 rocket-powered research plane, a ship of shorter endurance than the X-1A. Both were built by Bell Aircraft Corp.

Yeager's reported speed of 2½ times the speed of sound in the fast, stubby-winged X-1A is more than two miles per second. Just 50 years ago Thursday, by contrast, the Wright brothers' plane flew 852 feet in 59 seconds on the longest of four hops it made at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Bitter Cold Hits Midwest

By UNITED PRESS
The Midwest shivered in bitterly cold weather Wednesday, and chilly air pushed as far south as the Florida resort cities.

The mercury dipped to 19 degrees below zero Wednesday at Grand Forks, N. D., the coldest spot in the country.

Miami, Fla., reported a reading of 47, and New Orleans, La., had 35.

The direction of the cold wave chilling the Midwest was mainly south so the Atlantic Coast states were spared extreme cold. New York and Washington, D. C., reported early morning temperatures of 32 degrees.

Light, scattered snow flurries fell in the Northern Plains and from the western Great Lakes region to New York state and south to Kentucky.

But no station reported as much as 10 inches in a six-hour period.

A snowfall Tuesday, however, dumped two inches on Chicago and South Bend, Ind.

Along the West Coast temperatures were in the 40-to-50 degree range.

Temperatures from 10 to 20 degrees were the most common in the upper midwest, and weathermen forecast even lower readings Wednesday night.

Southern and Gulf States residents awoke to temperatures in the 30-to-40 degree range, the weather bureau said.

A weak cold front that pushed its way into the Panhandle Tuesday night sent the mercury down to 21 degrees here and early this morning had risen to 24 degrees, following a high temperature reading of 54 degrees Tuesday, according to Radio Station KPDN.

The weather forecast calls for considerable cloudiness and colder weather tonight and Thursday. Skies were overcast this morning.

FIGHT TO BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Move Cuts Danger Of War's Renewal

TOKYO, Dec. 16 — UP — Syngman Rhee lessened the danger of renewed Korean fighting at the end of January by postponing indefinitely Wednesday his plans to send his tough young army across the 38th Parallel.

The South Korean president had warned repeatedly he might take "unilateral action to unify Korea" if a political conference failed to do so by Jan. 27, 90 days after it was scheduled to open Oct. 28.

In a dramatic about-face, the aging Korean patriarch promised his troops would take no action until three months after convening a peace conference — whenever that may be.

Rhee announced his change of policy at Seoul less than 12 hours after U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean left for Washington to brief President Eisenhower on his unsuccessful attempts to reach agreement with the Communists on convening the conference.

Since preliminary talks on opening the conference have been disrupted because the Communists accused the United States of treachery in the escape of 27,000 anti-Red prisoners of the United Nations last June, Rhee's statement put off indefinitely the threat of resuming the Korean war.

Before leaving Tokyo for Washington, Dean declined to tell newsmen whether he had influenced Rhee to soften his policy.

"Consistent With Views"

"President Rhee's statement is consistent with the view he and I discussed before I left Korea," Dean said. "His statement is most statesmanlike and helpful."

But Dean, before breaking off negotiations, had assured the Reds Rhee would abide by any agreement reached at the conference.

In other developments on the Korean scene:

Kim said that at least 10 of the 350 Communist-held South Koreans who have not been interviewed also want to escape.

Kim reported that the Communists were smuggling knives into the compound holding the Americans, South Koreans and one Briton, and pulled out a dagger to back up his story. It was confiscated.

The South Korean was the first ROK to gain his freedom since the prisoner explanation program started. The remainder, with the exception of 104 who have not been interviewed, elected unanimously to remain with the Communists.

Return of the South Korean soldier gave Allied officers their only first-hand glimpse inside the pro-Communist compound since the explanations began on Dec. 8.

The South Korean said the hard-core Americans and ROKs forced the breaking-off of the explanation program to prevent interviews from talking to the men who really want to go home.

This is certain to be used by farm leaders as more evidence that farmers want price supports pegged high and held high when Congress considers extension of the present support program next year.

Wheat farmers last August voted seven to one for a quota program on their crop next year; corn producers face compulsory acreage allotments; tobacco controls have been voted in; and Tuesday peasant producers and growers of extra-long staple cotton also approved controls on their crops.

Favor 5 Per Cent Cutback

Department figures show 84.5 per cent of the 1,680 producers of extra long staple cotton who voted in six states and Puerto Rico favored a 50 per cent cutback in their crop next year. The vote: 1,419 for a 30,000 bale, 42,261 acre quota program; 128 against and 91 challenged.

Greater Percentage

Although the total vote was the smallest of eight quota referendums held since 1938 and represented less than half of the estimated eligible voters, the percentage in favor was close to the largest ever.

GOP POLITICAL STRATEGY

Reds To Be Election Issue

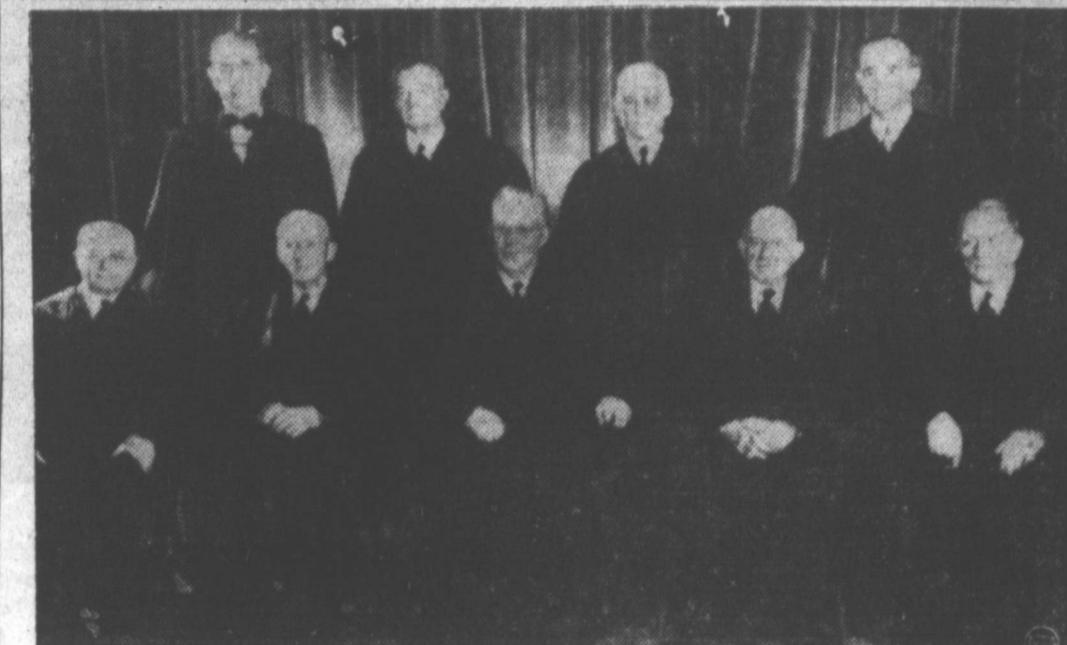

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 — UP — The issue of Communism in government has been established firmly as of now as 1954 political issue.

Many Republican candidates for governor, senator and representative plan to make use of that issue next year with the blessing of Republican National Committee Chairman Leonid W. Hall.

A dispute between President Eisenhower and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) about the present administration's success in rooting out subversives and security risks in 1954. That was the understanding of some of Mr. Eisenhower's White House advisers who privately passed the word that the Harry Dexter White expose of last month was only the beginning of a series.

Senate majority leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) chimed in last week with assurance that the nation's cotton farmers in government being dislodged from power would continue to expose other cases. Brownell said it would.

"I think we will have to," he said. "Because how are we ever going to know how to deal in the future with this international conspiracy...unless we find out the mistakes that were made in the past, so we can profit by them?"

America May Share Atom Bomb Secrets

PARIS, Dec. 16 — UP — The two mean a complete overhaul of the top American cabinet officers' American strategy. But the United States' reassured worried Europeans States is committed to the NATO. Wednesday's heart-to-heart talks within Europe to stay and that it down the western alliance because it recognizes the value of that organization to the United States.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson took advantage of the final "business" session of the three-day North Atlantic Council meeting to set the record clear of U.S. intentions.

The two spoke to an ultra-secret gathering of the defense and foreign ministers — and some finance ministers — attending the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference.

Made Two Points

According to one source, the two Americans made these points:

1. Failure of the European army project will have the most serious repercussions in Congress. It may not include the withdrawal of all American troops.

Holds Door Open

3. The U. S. is doing everything possible to keep the door open to negotiation with the Soviet Union despite skepticism about Soviet intentions. The Eisenhower atomic bank proposal and the plan for a bank meeting at that time, but doubts that Moscow will accept the challenge without delaying tactics.

4. The United States, in making available atomic cannon, and other A-weapons later, to American units within the NATO forces was not making any conditions except those of security.

Canadian Defense Minister Brooks Claxton said after the meeting:

2. He said he contemplated no changes in this country's atomic energy laws which would have the effect of disclosing our scientific processes involved in nuclear fission or the production techniques for actual weapons.

3. He said that should Russia reject his atomic pool proposal that would not stop him from trying to make the best possible use of the plan. He indicated, however, in this discussion a mindset that no definite word had been received from Russia excepting receipt of such knowledge one way or the other, he did not want to discuss what future steps this nation might take.

4. He disclosed that his atomic plan was designed intentionally to avoid an automatic requirement for international inspection of atomic facilities lest such requirements give the Russians cause for automatic rejection of his proposal.

naive approach as the last (Truman) administration.

It remained, however, for Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. to make it official in his capacity as a member of Mr. Eisenhower's Cabinet. In a transcribed address to Texans this week, Brownell said he "brought out" the facts on Truman's administration handling of the Harry Dexter White Case because the people were entitled to know what goes on in their government.

Republican National Committee chairman H. J. Portier, Houston, Tex., was on the program and asked Brownell whether the Justice Department would continue to expose other cases. Brownell said it would.

Korean Truce Agreement Is Falling Apart As Predicted

By PHIL NEWSOM

The Korean truce agreement, held together with string and beeswax, is falling apart just as so many gloomy predictions said it would.

Not that either side seems to expect a renewal of the fighting. But any hopes for the orderly procedure which was to advance the military armistice to permanent peace and a unified Korea now are all but abandoned.

Washington doubts that a Korea peace conference ever will be held.

Meanwhile, pressing deadlines foretell new crises.

Most pressing is the disposition of war prisoners from both sides now held by the neutral nations reparation commission.

Talks End Soon

"Come home" talks to prisoners of both sides end Dec. 23, two days before Christmas.

And as of now, on Jan. 22, all prisoners officially revert to civilian status, free to go to any nation of their choice willing to receive them.

Included are more than 22,000 anti-Communist prisoners taken from the Reds, and some 359 pro-Communists who originally fought for the United Nations but who now have rejected the free world.

It seems now that Allied "expatriates" won't even get a chance to talk to 22 Americans whose spokesmen say they have refused to return home, and that on Jan. 22 the Americans and the others will vanish behind the Iron Curtain to whatever fate awaits them.

If a crisis is to arise between the two powerful armies poised at either side of the Pannamjom neutral zone, it could come on that date.

The United Nations already have decided they will make no great effort to hold men who have gone over to communism.

Reds Already Protesting

But the Reds, whose own stalling tactics brought on the present situation, already are protesting.

They base their claims on the original terms of the armistice which directed that at the end of the "explanation" period, the prisoners' fate should be turned back to the political conference which would be given 30 days to reach a decision.

The Communists claim that if no political conference is held, or until it is held, the United Nations cannot legally free the prisoners.

'Greenhand' Gang Pair Apprehended

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 16—UP—Oklahoma City police held two alleged members of the Fort Worth "Greenhand" gang Wednesday after a burglary too was found in their expensive automobiles.

Cell Roy Green, 37, and Leroy Eggleston, 36, were booked for vagrancy and investigation. A prominent Oklahoma City criminal lawyer's secretary was arrested with the men Tuesday, but was later released without a charge being filed.

Police said both Green and Eggleston had long criminal records.

The Fort Worth gang has been suspected of a number of Oklahoma City safe thefts, but police have never been able to get enough evidence to file charges.

Unusual Santa

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Dec. 16—UP—Children at the Union Hills Orphanage were a little shocked when Santa Claus' appearance when he parachuted onto the orphanage grounds as a part of the ninth Air Force's "Operation Christmas."

First of all Santa, radio commentator Frank Edwards, forgot his beard. Then, as Edwards was distributing toys he noticed the rather startled expression on the faces of the children.

"I looked downward," Edwards said, "and discovered to my dismay that my pants were around my knees."

Custom Tailor Wants Shorter Pants For Men

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—UP—I'm 100 per cent in favor of shorter skirts for women, but I wish this fellow Ben Russell would leave us men alone.

This man Russell is a custom tailor and chairman of the men's division of the Fashion Foundation of America.

Ben thinks that if we start walking around with our pants about four inches above the ankle we'll have more appeal. Sock salesmen ought to love him.

More Socks Appeal

Russell figures narrow pant legs will provide more socks appeal, particularly if the pant legs are chipped off a little.

"The new lengths and styles will be a boon in inclement weather and will save many a pressing bill," says he.

Could this lead backward—or upward—to knickers?

While he was at it, Russell listed a bunch of gents he thinks are particularly well-groomed.

Factory Is Closed For Accident Probe

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 15—UP—A women's coat and suit factory closed Tuesday while authorities investigated an elevator accident in which two women were killed and 12 others injured.

Carolyn Meadows, Liberty, Mo., and Sophie Jameson, Kansas City, were killed Monday when an elevator of the Lewis Walker Co. plunged from the fifth floor into the basement. Damage and injuries were compounded when a weight fell from the top of the shaft through the elevator roof.

Five of the injured remained in hospital overnight, and doctors said all were in fair condition.

The weight splintered the walls of the elevator cage, splattering blood over the 12-foot by 12-foot lift.

The accident occurred as the 4 p.m. shift left the building.

Julius Karosan, president of the company, said all production will be shut down while the mishap is investigated.

Younger Set Entertained With Dance By Misses Cox, McDonald In Palm Room

Miss Karla Cox, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Cox, 509 Davis, and Miss Linda Joyce McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. McDonald Jr., 518 N. Russell, entertained a group of young friends with a gala dance Saturday evening in the Palm Room. Festive red and green streamers were fastened among the lights overhead which were hung with mistletoe and Christmas balls. Two huge bells hung above the red covered table. The center piece was a "snowman" with top hat and tie and surrounded by pine cones, Christmas bells and holly. Old Saint Nick sat on one end of the table and a Christmas boat filled with mistletoe decorated the other end. Across from this a Merry Christmas greeting hung. Punch and cookies were served to approximately 125 guests.

Mrs. W. D. Waters Entertains Music Teachers, Husbands

Mrs. W. D. Waters, 1224 Christine, president of Pampa Music Teachers Association, entertained members and their husbands with a Christmas party in her home recently. Following dinner in town, the group proceeded to the Wagon home for a social hour. Records were played and movies shown during the evening while guests played games. Mrs. Marian Zamora won a word game contest. Names were drawn and gifts exchanged.

Punch, cookies, candy, nuts and punch were served. Mrs. Lilly Hartfield and Mrs. Roy Johnson assisted in serving. The table was laid with a blue linen cloth with crystal and silver and an arrangement of frosted evergreen on a white foam base adorned with green ball ribbons, and large red candies.

Attending were Messrs. A. D. Mmes. Roy Johnson, Bob Perkins, W. H. Fuller, Mmes. Zamora, Hartfield, Bill Haley; Miss Eloise Lane and the hosts Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Waters.

Smooth And Sleek Coiffure The New Trend

Creator of the whittle cut, a method which is having a marked influence on both hair styling and grooming, is a man named D. J. Brown. When whittled, hair that has only the slightest bend will wave so easily permanenting is unnecessary. The sleek, sculptured look is no trouble to retain between shampoos since the hair is cut, not set, into waves. The waves are cut (left) to conform to both the shape of the head and the face. Note that ly as the couturiers question, however.

One short-lived extreme followed another. The idea caught on that short hair had to be straight to be chic. The Joan of Arc and little boy cuts soon were the rage.

Next the inevitable reaction brought on that mass of tiny, tight curls known as the poodle cut. The poodle quickly died, leaving numerous shaggy heads in its wake.

Last year the Italian cut arrived on our shores and was soon sweeping the nation. The welcoming of kiss curls hinted a longing for a more feminine look.

Now the disheveled Italian cut is as passe as the page boy. Into the spotlight has come the utterly feminine, the sleek, neat, simply lovely look of soft waves caressed here and there by a gentle curl.

The pendulum, girls, has come to rest. And here is one instance where the happy medium is not the least bit dull.

Indeed, we've never had it so good. D. J. Brown, one of New York's top hair stylists, is dedicated to the proposition that almost every woman can have an individually styled coiffure, one that is soft, feminine and unpermantized, and yet have less trouble maintaining it than ever before.

Mr. Brown accomplishes his seeming miracles with unbelievably soft cutting. He calls it whittling. He says that hair which has only the slightest bend can have waves cut into it. At least, it will respond so to the capable hands of trained staff. Just as it takes a clever carpenter to whittle wood into a lovely object, it takes a skilled stylist to employ Mr.

Brown's whittling method successfully.

This trend-setter, besides working to simplify coiffure care, believes in giving his clients uniformity in only one thing: femininity.

"Yes, I have actually advised some women not to have their hair cut short," he said. "You see, one person's head and her height as well as the shape of her face, so naturally, to be really becoming, the style has to be adapted to the individual."

Mr. Brown also believes that hair stylists and milliners should aid each other's efforts. There have been conspicuous failures in the past. But if his hopes are realized, the American woman will complement her bonnet (gay, saucy or demure) with an equally feminine hairstyle. And upkeep 'will be no trouble at all, provided her tresses have been properly whitened.

Favors Increase In Cotton Acreage

MCALEEN, Dec. 15 — UP — Bentzen told a Benson Wednesday that cotton acreage quotas should be increased immediately.

Rep. Lloyd M. Bentzen (D-Tex.) wired Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson that the latter's order cutting the nation's cotton acreage by seven million acres next year would "wreak havoc with an agricultural economy already in a depressed condition."

Bentzen said he was "one Bentzen for the farmers."

"I have called on the farmers to work in one year the emergency build-up reserve on hand," Bentzen said. "Much of this buildup is the result of a presidential proclamation which called on farmers to make a mighty production effort to meet the defense requirements of the nation."

"It is now your opinion that this emergency reserve should be reduced, then the reduction should be over a period of years, rather than in one abrupt economic dislocation. Action should be taken immediately, because farmers in South Texas are now preparing their land for cotton planting," the Texas Democrat said.

Bentzen, when he called for a nationwide referendum on cotton quotas and announced the allocation of 1954 cotton acreage by states, said he knew the cut was too severe, but he had no choice under existing law. The agriculture secretary said he would ask Congress

IN Untrustworthy

President Eisenhower's proposal to the United Nations for an international atomic energy agency will necessarily be what it was intended, all things to all different kinds of interpretation. More than this no man can say at this time.

We can, however, adjudicate some possibilities, based on reason and experience and possibly guess the course of the future as humanity attempts to move out of "this dark chamber of horrors into the light."

Certainly the President didn't pull any punches in describing the devastation possible with the present United States stockpile of atomic weapons when he pointed out that this force, increasing daily, "exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theater of war through all the years of World War II."

That ought to be sufficiently startling to everyone that we begin to have some idea of the destructive potential of the stockpile.

And he hit upon another truth when he said that a huge stockpile of atomic material is no preventative to an atomic war, although he did not add that such a stockpile is a deterrent to those forces who are calculating the gain in a material way that might be obtained by an atomic war should they prove to be victorious. Nor did the President point out that despite the full knowledge that all nations had of germ and gas warfare in World War II that it was not used, certainly to some extent because of the danger than can be brought in reprisal. Certainly the American people are going to need more assurance than the word of the Russian dictator of the moment that all of the agreement entered into will be carried out. We have had too many reasons to mistrust the Russians' idea of a pledge in the past to just start in cold and decide that "this time they are telling the truth and mean what they say." Too many people have looked a little deeper into the Communist conspiracy and discovered that it is basic good tactics for Communists to lie and cheat if they believe that it serves their ends.

For President Eisenhower to expect the American people to be content that "such an agency would be set up under the aegis of the United Nations" and with no other safeguard or protection is to make us even more naive than we really are — and we are plenty gullible when it comes to giving the other fellow the first shot. Actually, the word aegis means a protective shield or covering and to date the protection afforded this nation by the United Nations has been to drain us of our manpower and resources without purpose. Because this terrible loss of men and materials has come upon us slowly and an all-out atomic attack would be swift, does not mean that we have not been grievously hurt through our participation in the Korean war. An analogy illustrating this point might be found in our indifference to the slaughter on our highways which gains scant notice but kills thousands while an airplane crash killing a score demands wide attention. Thus, a headline reading "30,000 Killed, 100,000 Casualties in New York A-Bomb Blast," would instantly galvanize the nation into action. But these same headlines could be written today with our losses in Korea.

All of which is a backwards way of saying that we do not trust the existing United Nations program, inception or organization and with good reason. And we would be even more skeptical about trusting something called an international atomic energy agency, in whatever form it was presented to us "under the aegis of the United Nations."

We're not ready to set up a system that we feel would safeguard our lives and interests and still encompass the rest of the world, but we feel pretty certain that unless it were better designed from an American viewpoint than Eisenhower was optimistic to have "every expectation of approval" of the Congress for his plan.

The Little Things

It's not the moisture in the air that causes the fog, smog, smoke and smist that have been plaguing so many parts of the country — it's the condensation nuclei! This authoritative word comes from T. A. Rich, a General Electric Company engineer, who realizes that just calling things names doesn't help any, so he has built an instrument that measures condensation nuclei, which are minute air-borne particles on which water will condense.

Explaining what he means by "minute," Mr. Rich says smoke, dust and fly-ash are about the only visible types of nuclei, most of them being invisible, even under a microscope. The smallest one, for instance, would compare with a smoke particle like a garden pea and the Capitol dome in Washington.

Knowing how many there are in the air won't stop the murk, of course, but it does provide a means of studying the problem, and should hasten a solution . . . not only for smog and smoke but for invisible air pollution that may be present on a bright, sunny day.

Just knowing somebody's working on it should make us breathe easier!

Parity Price Fallacy

I recently attended a program at the Santa Ana Freedom Club in which a representative of the Agricultural Department's parity price program was one of the speakers at a forum. It seemed to me that he was a past master at evading questions and not answering them. In fact, that is about the only defense any man has who advocates any form of socialism or any practice wherein some individuals have the right to get things by compulsion. They simply have to evade and cannot make direct statements on what is just and honest and ethical.

This agricultural representative was asked this question:

"I would like to know where morals fit in with this government program. Because it seems to me that if I were to go out and rob a bank and gave to a lot of poor people, I would be doing something that is wrong. It seems to me that when a government forcibly collects taxes to subsidize all the farmers, or to subsidize industry, or anything, that they are robbing me, just the same as I would rob a bank and give it to the poor people. Now how can this thing be a moral issue with our government?"

Now, the agricultural representative evaded this question by asking another — his answer was:

"What is the public treasury for?"

Evidently this man thinks that the purpose of the government is to take from one to give to another when he tried to answer that question, which he could not answer, by asking another.

Then the agricultural representative said:

"It is the purpose of the agricultural program to protect the people."

Then he was asked:

"By whose standard?"

And he answered:

"Financial."

But that isn't an answer at all, because taking from one to give to another is not protecting from a financial standpoint.

Then this agricultural representative was asked:

"Do you think it's the realm and the obligation of the government then to guarantee the farmers a profit?"

He answered:

"I was afraid somebody was going to ask that! Only in this way — as I said before, our whole economy consists in the general prosperity of agriculture as well as of industry. And it is to the interest of every one of us that agriculture should be sound. Now as to whether that means assuring any individual, any one farmer, as to whether he will have a profit or not, that is an entirely different matter. If a person isn't able to produce with sufficient economy and efficiency on his farm and sufficient quantity, he won't make a profit even though he is receiving parity price."

Certainly, it is to the interest of everyone that agriculture should be on a sound basis. But how can it be on a sound basis if it receives subsidies?

The whole question of parity is a myth. It is going back to the idea of status quo, that certain relations between agriculture and industry must be permanent. In this discussion it was pointed out that originally nearly all the people were farmers in this country, and the latest reports show that only about 20 per cent are now farmers. If the farmers from the beginning were to get a certain percentage of the national income, then they would now be getting nearly all the national income. But we never could have made the same progress if individuals didn't leave the farms and go into producing other things besides food. And, of course, men who are working in the city are also helping produce food when they produce machinery used on the farm.

And it seems to those people who believe in the competitive system, that the only way to determine who should stay on the farm and who should leave the farm is by letting those who can farm to produce the most and thus make the most profit, stay on them and those who cannot leave the farm and take up some other work.

The agricultural representative confided that the free economy didn't work — that it got the farmer in a lot of trouble and that the farmers had to be bailed out in the 30's.

One of the group pointed out that in the early part of this century the federal government went into the farm loaning business and loaned money to farmers for less than it could have had from private sources. That this encouraged over-production of farm products. The government also built dams and brought a lot of dry land under water. It was pointed out that it was this interference with the free economy, that would have taken place had the government intervened, that caused the government to try to establish parity and keep farm prices up, which is a tax on the consumer. In order to benefit special groups. It is doing this not on a majority-rule or democratic basis, but it is permitting only those interested in producing certain crops to vote as to whether or not their production should be limited and prices subsidized. If the government really wanted to determine whether this or that should be subsidized, it should let the consumers as well as the producers vote, and it is doubtful then whether there would be any group

In their conversation, and in White

Eisenhower will engage in no

Representatives and Senators he has the Chinese Communists, Ike ad-

A DIRECT CHALLENGE — This was a more direct challenge to McCarthy than any previous state-checking on the operations of the men by Eisenhower or Secretary

Dulles. It served notice that the President will not tolerate any attempt by anybody to interfere with his constitutional authority to conduct foreign affairs.

It is understood that the high-level irony of Ike's retort was not lost on Sir Winston Churchill, who frequently resorts to this same style and technique in the House of Com-checked:

"Uncle Sam will let the Reds

He did not intend to minimize the question or eliminate it from the political scene in his recent comment. He simply thinks that it will be "old hat" this year hence.

But if the candidates and elective want to run and vote on anti-

Red platforms, that is their business, and it is all right with him.

PRESIDENT ANSWER TO Mc-

CARTHY — Eisenhower's Ber-

with Chinese Communists, Ike advanced his answer to McCarthy's various attempts to infringe on the conduct of foreign affairs. It was especially signifi-

1 Card of Thanks

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He leadeth me to green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the ways of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil; for Thou art with me. Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me, and prepare a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. They anoint my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil; for Thou art with me. Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me, and prepare a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. They anoint my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Government Workers Wary Of Accepting Yuletide Gifts

MAN'S RIGHT TO KNOWLEDGE AND THE FREE USE THEREOF

HAIL COLUMBIA—This new three-cent stamp commemorating the 200th anniversary of Columbia University will go on sale in New York City, Jan. 4. The stamp will be blue and its design will feature a front view of the Low Memorial Library.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—UP—all federal employees are expected to exercise good judgment in accepting gifts and are well aware of the possible penalties—such as dismissal—for any indiscretion.

Anything from Santa Claus is all right. Or from close relatives. But a freezer or a TV set from a grateful official of a company doing business with the government is dangerous.

Federal regulations bar any government worker from accepting "any gift or gratuity even of small value either directly or indirectly from any person or firm with whom (his) department has official relations."

Rule in Force

A survey of government agencies shows the rule is very much in force and that it will be applied firmly if there are any infractions.

Although special reminders have not been sent out, spokesmen said that no employee may accept a gift to a superior nor accept one from a person of lower salary or solicit funds for a gift to a superior.

Groounds for Dismissal

Otis Beasley, an Interior Department official, said "I would think it would be grounds for dismissal of the employee" if he was found violating the improper gift rule.

Most government agencies reported they had specific regulations against the acceptance of gifts from people doing business with the government. The State Department issued a special reminder of this last April 20.

But some agencies—the Post Office, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and Interstate Commerce and Federal Communications—said they had no written policy.

Dog Locked In

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—UP—Don A. Simpson called the fire department to rescue his dog, Prince, after the 100-pound German Shepherd locked himself in Simpson's bathroom.

Simpson said the dog apparently jumped against the bathroom door locking himself in.

But spokesmen for all four said employees were expected to use "good judgment." Gift offers were not a problem with them, however, they said.

Employees are expected to return gifts from anyone doing business with the department, said the Health, Education and Welfare spokesman. "But no one ever sends us any."

All in all, it will be a merry Christmas for the administration if no one is caught accepting gifts in return for favors.

POW's Pay Accumulates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—UP—The military pay of the 22 Americans refusing repatriation in Korea still is accumulating and will be turned over to them if they renounce communism and return home, army officials said today.
