

Winter returns to area, but relief is in sight

By FRED PARKER
City Editor

Winter returned to the Top O' Texas with a vengeance Sunday bringing an abrupt end to spring-like weather as up to a 14 inches of snow was dumped in some places and brought traffic virtually to a halt.

Travelers advisories were in effect throughout the central and eastern portions of the Panhandle today as snow and ice on the highways made travel extremely hazardous.

While Pampa officially recorded eight inches of snow, 14 inches was reported in nearby White Deer. Skellytown, Groom and Panhandle came in with between eight and 10 inches. Perryton reported four inches on the ground.

At White Deer near blizzard conditions developed as winds gusting to more than 35 miles an hour whipped the snow into drifts. Drifts of five to seven feet were reported in some areas Sunday evening.

Highway patrolmen in the area reported state highway department snowplows were finding it difficult since the wind whipped the drifts back across highways almost as fast as they were plowed open.

This morning the Carson County Sheriff's Department reported all major highways in that county were open although some still had up to 10 inches of packed snow on the traveling surface. Road crews were attempting to clear other roads.

Sunday's snowfall, which melted out to .58 inch of moisture, brought the total snowfall for February to 24 inches and for the winter to 34.4 inches.

Some melting occurred Sunday afternoon as temperatures slowly climbed above freezing, but this morning at least six inches remained on the ground in Pampa.

Fog developed in the area this morning and was not expected to clear off until this afternoon. Temperatures today were expected to climb only to near 40 degrees.

Weather forecasters indicated the snow should melt more rapidly Tuesday as skies begin clearing tonight and temperatures Tuesday climb to near 50 degrees.

Dark, gray clouds greeted early risers Sunday morning, accompanied by thunder and lightning. Shortly after 8:30 a.m. precipitation began falling in the forms of rain, sleet, small hail and snow. By mid-morning the snowfall became heavy and continued until late in the afternoon before becoming occasional flurries.

At one time Sunday it was estimated that snow was falling in the area at the rate of five inches per hour.

The deep snow and slippery conditions resulted in numerous vehicles sliding off roadways throughout the area and several accidents.

In a head-on collision on Highway 152, about four miles west of Skellytown, Sunday afternoon four persons, including three from Pampa, sustained minor injuries.

Investigating highway patrolmen said a car driven by Ravena Jo Lane, 20, of Borger, was traveling west on Highway 152 when it skidded on the icy surface and collided head on with an eastbound vehicle driven by Vicki Hill Day, 35, of Pampa, and occupied by her two children, Laura, 15, and David, 13.

Mrs. Day was treated at North Plains Hospital, Borger, for lacerations on her head and knee and a bruise on her neck and later released. Miss Lane and the two Day children were treated for lacerations and released.

Four members of a rural Pampa family were injured shortly before noon Sunday when their car skidded from snow-covered U.S. 60, near Loop 171 east of Pampa, and struck a tree.

Debra Sharpton, 28, of Star Route 3, was admitted to Coronado Community Hospital for observation following treatment of injuries to her wrists and facial abrasions.

Her husband, Alfred, 27, and children, Kristi, 5, and William, 8, were treated for minor injuries and later released, a hospital spokesman said.

South of White Deer, Department of Public Safety trooper Jim Kingston was attacked by a 500 pound bull and pinned in the snow until he struck the animal on the head with his fist.

The trooper was attempting to round up about 50 head of cattle which had pushed through a fence and were blocking the roadway when "the bull put down his head and charged," he told other officers by radio.

Undaunted by the attack, Kingston continued his roundup, finally managing, with the aid of cowboys summoned to the scene, to return the animals to the field from which they had strayed. At one point he radioed other officers he thought he might have to shoot the attacking bull, but managed to complete the roundup without firing a shot.

Numerous vehicles skidded off Interstate 40, in the southern portion of Gray and Carson counties between McLean and Conway Sunday due to icy conditions. Although no serious injuries were reported from any accidents in this area, traffic at times was backed up for miles as efforts to clear the highway were underway.

At one point Sunday, a DPS trooper radioed that he and a wrecker were both sideways on the highway and neither "we can't do anything."

Early this morning, near Groom, a semi-tractor and trailer was reported jackknifed across the westbound lanes of travel on I-40 and traffic was backed up four to five miles.

The storm knocked electric power off in White Deer for several hours Sunday and lights were reported flickering in Panhandle at the height of the storm.

The National Weather Service said Sunday's snowfall was the result of a slow moving cold front combined with an intense low pressure system which passed over the Panhandle. High level thunderstorms accompanied the front, they said.

In Pampa the eight inches of snow and drifting from strong winds made numerous city streets nearly impassible with police once again reporting West 23rd Street was blocked near the intersection of Lea Street late Sunday.

Pampa police officers spent much of their time Sunday assisting motorists whose vehicles were stalled in snow drifts.

The line of thunderstorms located along the front brought heavy downpours later Sunday to an area from Waco to just east of Austin. At Elgin, east of Austin, 1.62 inches of rain fell. Some flooding was expected in Southeast and Northeast Texas, the weather service said.

To receive burn treatment

Pittsburgh. The two brothers, both from Lebanon, are in Boston to receive treatment at the Shriners Burn Institute for injuries they sustained at a refugee camp outside Beirut. According to a spokesman the children received the injuries during a bombing raid on the camp. (AP Laserphoto)

Defense secretaries say that military pay freeze is a mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four former secretaries of defense all agree that the Reagan administration made a mistake when it proposed freezing military pay in the proposed Pentagon budget.

But while they are united about the need to spend more money on defense in the face of a Soviet military build-up, they are divided on whether the Pentagon budget is too big.

"I think it's a mistake to freeze pay," said Harold Brown, defense secretary from 1977-1981 during the Carter administration.

His views were echoed by three other Pentagon chiefs contacted by the Associated Press, including Melvin Laird, who held the job during the Nixon administration; Donald Rumsfeld, who served during the Ford administration; and Robert McNamara, defense secretary for Presidents John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

For fiscal 1984, Reagan wants to spend a record $238.6 billion, or 14 percent more than the current year, as part of his proposed $1.55 billion, five-year defense build-up.

But as part of a government-wide cap on federal salaries, Reagan proposed a military pay freeze. The decision has drawn fire in Congress, particularly after the Joint Chiefs of Staff said they would rather have cut weapons than pay.

"I can understand politically why they want to do it," Brown said, "but it will cost more in the long run to freeze the service pay."

As the economy improves and unemployment drops, Brown explained, military personnel can leave the service for better-paying civilian jobs, particularly if they are trained in skills such as engineering and computers.

Laird agreed. "People are the most important. You can talk all you want about ships and new weapons systems, but unless you have the people to man them, you haven't got a really credible deterrent. Personally, I would not go along with the pay freeze."

Rumsfeld concurred. "I'm not enthusiastic about it... the nature of our military establishment is such that it requires good, intelligent people."

Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger argue that the increased U.S. spending is needed to counteract a combination of the Soviets' 20-year-long military buildup and a decade of U.S. neglect.

The U.S. build-up won general support from all four men, including Brown. The Carter administration had proposed similar levels of spending in its five-year forecast, he noted.

"If terms of the overall requirements, the general level of spending is not far off from what we recommended," he said.

But the projected $189 billion deficit in the budget worries Brown.

Anti-tax fugitive could be in Montana

JAMESTOWN, N.D. (AP) — Officers hunting an anti-tax fugitive suspected in the slayings of two U.S. marshals say there's a "strong" possibility the man may have fled to eastern Montana.

Investigators looking for Gordon Kahl in the Feb. 13 shooting deaths of the two marshals near Medina, N.D., say they are getting "very substantive" tips from a toll-free telephone hotline, but would not elaborate.

"We obtained some evidence, but as far as discussing the types (of evidence), we're not going to get into it," FBI agent Ben Patty said Sunday from a command post at Jamestown. "Some weapons were recovered. I won't say what they were or how many. We're still conducting fugitive investigations.

"We are also continuing our investigation into the substantive crime — the killing of a U.S. marshal, a deputy marshal and the assault of other officers involved — for the purpose of gathering evidence to present to a federal grand jury."

Two marshals were killed and three other officers wounded in the Feb. 13 shoot-out. Kahl was wanted for a 1977 probation violation.

Patty said investigators were checking leads that Kahl may have fled to another state, but had no firm evidence.

But acting U.S. Marshal Lou Aleksich said in Billings, Mont., Saturday there was a "strong" possibility Kahl might be in eastern Montana.

Kahl, 63, was a member of the paramilitary tax protest group, Posse Comitatus, and the group is active in eastern Montana, Aleksich said.

Asked if Posse Comitatus members might be hiding Kahl, Patty said: "I wouldn't comment on the group at all. As far as friends, associates, family members, hiding someone, that's always a possibility."

Mondale declares 1984 candidacy

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, the early front-runner in a growing field, is declaring his candidacy for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination today after a year of non-stop campaigning.

After his announcement at the State Capitol, Mondale's schedule called for a quick flight to Minnesota's Iron Range region, where unemployment has reached 30 percent in some communities.

Before returning to Washington, Mondale planned to campaign in Iowa, which kicks off the delegate selection process next February with precinct caucuses, and in New Hampshire, site of the first presidential primary.

It's a traditional itinerary for a presidential candidate, and Mondale is running a traditional campaign strong on organization and fund-raising ability.

He criticizes President Reagan for helping "the powerful and the wealthy, while the weak and the poor must fend for themselves." He proposes reducing federal budget deficits by cutting defense spending and rolling back the Reagan tax program.

On foreign policy, Mondale has said he would call Soviet leader Yuri Andropov and say, "Please meet me in Geneva this afternoon and let's sit down and do some work to bring some easing of tensions."

An early advocate of legislation designed to curb the adverse impact of foreign cars on the U.S. automobile industry, Mondale has strong support within organized labor, which is trying to play a decisive role in the battle for the Democratic nomination.

Mondale became the man to beat in the Democratic field when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., announced last Dec. 1, that he wouldn't run for president in 1984.

Already in the Democratic race are Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Gary Hart of Colorado. Former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida will declare his presidential candidacy in Washington on Wednesday.

Sen. John Glenn of Ohio is expected to enter the race in April. Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina also is getting ready to run.

Some national polls have shown both Mondale and Glenn running ahead of President Reagan.

City commissioners to consider resignation

Pampa City Commissioners will consider adopting a resolution accepting Ward 2 Commissioner Calvin Whatley's resignation and scheduling of a special election to fill his vacated seat at their 9:30 a.m. Tuesday meeting in City Hall.

Whatley is resigning his seat in order to run for mayor. Mayor H.R. "Ray" Thompson will not seek reelection. Commissioners may order a special election to fill Whatley's seat, since his term does not expire until April 1984, or may appoint someone to fill the seat until April 1984.

Commissioner O.M. Prigmore, representing Ward 1, but who was placed in Ward 2 after a charter change election in April 1982, may decide to run for Whatley's seat if a special election is called.

The commissioners will also consider signing a fire protection contract with Carson County, and hold a public hearing on an ordinance to allow F. Lee Cornelius a side yard setback. The ordinance will have its first reading at the meeting.

Commissioners will also consider awarding bids on a motorgrader and street sign materials. The bids were opened February 15.

Also on the agenda is final plat approval for Block 12, Section II, Northcrest addition, and the scheduling of a public hearing to discuss a zoning change for lots 2 through 4, Block 12, Section II, Northcrest Addition. The lots are currently zoned Single Family-2, and the proposed change would make them Office District.

Weather

Pampa should see some clearing this afternoon, with partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the mid 20s tonight. Winds will be out of the north at 5 to 10 mph tonight. Tuesday should be partly cloudy and warmer, with afternoon highs near 50. Pampa received 58 hundredths of an inch of precipitation, with eight inches of snow falling Sunday. Six inches were left on the ground this morning.

Stranded motorists sought by peace keepers

BHAMDOUN, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. Marines and Italian soldiers today joined Lebanese rescue squads trying to save scores of motorists stranded by a blizzard that has claimed at least 39 lives.

Rescuers have recovered the frozen bodies of about 30 motorists from cars trapped by 3-foot-deep snow and said about 100 more people still were feared stranded on a one-mile stretch of highway near a ski resort 25 miles east of Beirut.

Police, while giving no exact figure on the number of motorists found frozen to death so far, said the total storm-related death toll of 39 included four Lebanese soldiers and two Syrian soldiers who died in the rescue operation on the mountain section of the Beirut-Damascus highway.

In addition, four people drowned Sunday when high waves struck the ancient Mediterranean city of Byblos.

Post office closed

The U.S. Post Office in Pampa was closed today and there was no city or rural delivery of mail. Post office employees however, placed all mail in post office boxes on schedule, and express mail and special delivery were to be delivered on schedule.

Outgoing mail was to be picked up and dispatched if deposited a post office outside drop box before 5 p.m.. All normal window, boxing and city and rural mail delivery will resume Tuesday.

Job Hunter

Darin Vaughn Skaggs, 20, of Lefors, is a native of White Deer who is currently looking for work.

Darin has had a variety of work experiences which can qualify him for jobs as a truck driver, farm - ranch hand or mechanic. While his main interests lie with mechanics and truck driving, he is willing to learn a new trade.

He grew up on a farm outside White Deer. He was a member of FFA and took courses in auto shop in high school.

Skaggs has a commercial driver's license. He drove grain trucks for Bill Frost, of White Deer, for four years and Alvin Kalka, also of White Deer, for one year.

He worked as a mechanic for Natural Gas Pipe Line for seven months and most recently for Flint oil field pullers for three months before being laid off three weeks ago.

Skaggs said being single would make it easier for him to relocate should he find a job in another area.

Skaggs can be reached at 835 - 2811 or 665 - 0635.

Concerning Lebanon

Sharon reinstated to policy post

JERUSALEM (AP) — Opposition politicians say the government has flouted the Beirut massacre commission once again by reappointing former Defense Minister Ariel Sharon to a Cabinet committee guiding policy on Lebanon. At its weekly meeting Sunday Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet reinstated Sharon to the committee, which is overseeing negotiations on the withdrawal of Israeli and other foreign troops from Lebanon. Sharon had served on the committee as part of his role as defense minister. His reappointment in his new capacity as minister without portfolio leaves him in a strategic position from which to promote his hardline views on Israeli policy in Lebanon. Opposition leaders, already furious that Sharon remained in the Cabinet after resigning from the Defense Ministry, said Sunday's action was a fresh display of disregard for the massacre commission's findings. The Labor Party issued a statement calling the move "totally unacceptable" and Labor Party legislator Haim Herzog said it "contradicts the recommendations of the commission." The centrist Shinui Party demanded that Parliament debate the reappointment. The feisty, flamboyant Sharon directed Israel's June 6 invasion of Lebanon, which drove thousands of Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas from Beirut. He reluctantly resigned from the Defense Ministry last week after a government-appointed panel said he bore indirect responsibility for the massacre of hundreds of Palestinians last Sept. 16-18 at two refugee camps in an area of Beirut controlled by Israeli troops. The commission said Lebanese Christian militiamen carried out the slaughter, but concluded that Sharon and key Israeli military officials should have foreseen the possibility of a massacre when they let the militia into the camps to search for guerrillas. In Beirut, the military prosecutor heading the Lebanese government investigation of the massacre was quoted Sunday in an English-language magazine as saying he needed at least six more weeks to complete his inquiry.

Price cuts threaten OPEC unity

Nigeria's decision to cut its official oil price by $5.50 a barrel has jeopardized the unity of OPEC and confronts other cartel members with the dilemma of whether to join in a price war. Foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia and five oil-producing Persian Gulf nations announced no policy changes after a weekend meeting to discuss what they called "joint visualization" of issues including oil prices. But the authoritative Saudi Arabian newspaper Asharq-Al-Awsat said today the Gulf ministers agreed to cut their prices up to $7 a barrel from the official $34 benchmark price for crude. Lower prices would benefit gasoline consumers in the United States, as every $1 cut in the price of crude oil lowers gasoline prices by about 2 1/2 cents. On Sunday Nigeria broke ranks with the other 12 countries in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and slashed its official oil price to $30 a barrel. The cut came two days after Nigeria's chief rivals for European sales, Britain and Norway, lowered their official North Sea crude prices by $3 to $30.50 a barrel. The developments, resulting from a glutted international petroleum market, threatened to unleash a price war within OPEC, which in the past has avoided cartel-wide price cuts and has kept relatively firm control over international oil prices. The Saudi newspaper report, attributed to "official sources in the Gulf," said the six countries in the Gulf Coordination Council will announce price cuts of between $5.50 and $7 per barrel "to maintain competitive levels after the North Sea and Nigerian reductions." The newspaper did not say when the cuts would take effect. The six countries are Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar — all OPEC members — and Bahrain and the sultanate of Oman. "The present (price) structure has been debilitated after Nigeria violated it in a manner that surpassed all expectations," the newspaper quoted a source as saying. In Los Angeles, Calif., oil analyst Dan Lundberg said in a telephone interview that Nigeria's decision was "a very provocative act" that could trigger a price war among oil-producing countries. However, Lundberg said there was a strong possibility that "the OPEC nations will realize the terrible instability that would result from an out-and-out price war and that their greatest security is in unity." Britain and Norway are not OPEC members, but their decision last week to cut prices of North Sea crude was denounced by the cartel as a threat to market stability.

Officials oppose environmental laws, congressmen report

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has appointed environmental officials who don't believe in the laws they're supposed to administer, a pair of key congressional leaders from both parties says. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press" program Sunday, pointed to President Reagan's appointments in discussing the controversies surrounding EPA, some of its top officials and its hazardous waste cleanup program. "Basically, we're seeing the outcome of an administration which doesn't believe in the environment, which made war on the environment and which has key people administering laws who don't believe in it," said Udall, chairman of the House Interior Committee.

"He (President Reagan) has appointed people... who simply don't believe in the laws they're appointed to administer," Udall said. "It's now coming through. It cuts very deep, and I don't think the White House can get away from it." Chafee, chairman of the Senate environmental pollution subcommittee, said, "The president ran on a certain platform. He appointed these people who are enunciating his views. 'They aren't my views, they aren't the views of many of the Republicans in the Senate and House, and I don't think they're always the views of the American people.'" Chafee said. A White House official disputed the charges. "We want to protect the environment. That's precisely where the president stands," Edwin L. Harper, Reagan's assistant for policy development, told the Washington Post.

Brian Hanson Desk & Derrick to meet Tuesday

The Desk & Derrick Club of Pampa will conduct a meeting tomorrow, Feb. 22, at 7 p.m. in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn with Brian Hanson scheduled as guest speaker. Hanson, manager of safety, health and environment for Celanese Chemical Co., Inc. of Pampa, is to narrate a slide presentation titled "Spindletop", describing the chemical industry in Texas, followed by a brief description of the Celanese Pampa plant operations. Hanson holds a bachelors of science degree in chemical engineering from the University of Texas, masters of science degree in systems management from the University of Southern California, a masters of business administration from Texas A & I University. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the Pampa Rotary Club. Visitors are welcome, for reservations, contact Connie Ball at 665-1816.

Hindu tribesmen massacre Bengali Moslems

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Hindu tribesmen flinging spears, hatchets and machetes butchered at least 600 Moslem Bengalis in 17 northeast villages near the "River of Sorrow," witnesses reported. They said most of the victims were women and children. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said she would visit Assam state's blood-soaked Nelli district today for an "on the spot study." The government has sent thousands of troops to Nelli to help police halt nearly three weeks of violence set off by a Hindu boycott of state elections. The district lies just south of the Brahmaputra River, which Indians call "River of Sorrow." Reports of Friday's massacre filtered out of the hilly tea-growing region, almost completely separated from India by Bangladesh, on Sunday. Estimates of the killings varied up to 1,000 and the United News of India reported that about 6,000 survivors poured into three relief camps. The agency said relief crews piled up 67 corpses and dug a mass grave. "There are few (survivors) without stab wounds," reporter Shekhar Gupta wrote in a dispatch from the main Assam city of Gauhati. "There are women and children with disfigured faces... children hobbling about with gaping wounds in their stomachs. Paddy fields between Nelli and the affected villages are strewn with thirsty and exhausted wounded, their wounds smeared with mud." Gupta, writing for the Indian Express news service, said "frenzied tribal hordes" were responsible for the attacks on "mostly women and children." Foreign journalists were banned from the troubled region and communications with it were difficult because election saboteurs have ruined telephone lines and bombed roads, bridges and railways. The United News of India agency, quoting top Assam officials who did not want to be identified, said at least 600 people were slain in Nelli. Some witnesses estimated 1,000 killed in the massacre, the agency said. In the previous days of violence, news agencies said more than 430 people were slain. More than 40 people were reported killed in the state, outside the Nelli district, in election-related violence on Sunday.

Adelman, journalist could meet at hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arms control nominee Kenneth L. Adelman and the journalist who says Adelman called arms reduction talks a sham may meet in a Senate hearing room this week. The battle over Adelman's nomination to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency will share top billing in Congress with the drive to counter the recession and a closed-door investigation of the Environmental Protection Agency. A spokesman for Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Percy would decide early in the week on Sen. Alan Cranston's request for a third hearing for Adelman. The nominee, now deputy U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, appeared before the committee on Jan.

27 and Feb. 3. The first time, many members said his answers on arms control issues were too vague. The second time, he was more definite about matters. Some members who were undecided swung to Adelman's side, but others were unconvinced. When the committee met Wednesday to vote on the nomination, the lineup was 9-8 against him. To avoid an outright rejection, the vote was put off. Cranston, D-Calif., meanwhile, came up with a May 24, 1981, column in The New York Daily News in which columnist Ken Auletta quoted Adelman, then a political scientist with the Stanford Research Institute, on the subject of negotiating for arms control. "My policy would be to do it for political reasons," he was quoted as saying. "I think it's a sham." Adelman said he doesn't believe this, can't remember saying it and doesn't recall ever giving an interview to Auletta. Auletta came up with notes that confirm the quote but also show an Adelman statement, not used in the column, that he would be willing to seek "a real reduction in nuclear weapons" if the Soviets would follow suit. In other congressional business, a House Ways and Means subcommittee is expected to give formal approval to a Democratic measure extending unemployment benefits an additional 10 weeks, up to 65 weeks in states where joblessness is highest. Also in the House, the Appropriations Committee will take up Reagan's $4.3 billion program of public works jobs and food and shelter for the needy.

Police expected violence at rally

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin police, who were prepared for the worst and hoping for the best before a weekend Ku Klux Klan rally, say that the gathering that broke into a rock-throwing riot went about as expected.

"Under the circumstances, we came out of it as well as we could," Austin Police Chief Frank Dyson said after the rally Saturday that left 12 people injured.

Eight people were arrested on charges ranging from assault to inciting to riot, and one Klansman was taken into custody for carrying a weapon, police said.

Four officers, six demonstrators, a bystander and a reporter were injured in the melee, but none was hospitalized. Brackenridge Hospital officials said most of the injured suffered lacerations and bruises.

The nine people arrested were released from jail early Sunday.

The violence broke out as about 50 Klansmen, surrounded by helmeted police carrying shields, marched to the Capitol from a nearby park. As many as 1,500 hecklers lined the parade route, said DPS spokesman Larry Todd.

Dyson said the rally, which cost police about $15,000 in overtime for 150 officers, went about as he had expected.

The chief said it would be up to city council members to decide if parade permits should be granted in the future for potentially dangerous rallies. The council had granted parade permits for both the Klan rally and a peaceful march by anti-Klan organizations earlier Saturday.

"I deplore the Ku Klux Klan and all they stand for. Yet that freedom of speech is indivisible. We had no option but to let them march," Austin Mayor Carole McClellan said at the Saturday morning anti-Klan "freedom rally."

Gov. Mark White, who had planned to be in Houston and Laredo Saturday, flew back to Austin to visit the injured officers. He also telephoned Associated Press reporter Ken Herman, who was hit in the jaw by a nightstick-wielding policeman as officers tried to push the crowd back behind a police line.

The Klan marchers were drowned out by the shouting crowd, even though Klan leader James Stanfield of Channelview, Texas, used a bullhorn.

"You can't beat us," Stanfield, clad in a red robe, yelled. "Change sides and join us. Make your mothers proud of you. We'll give you whatever you need. Join the Klan, become a man, all you white people. You black people, go back to Africa," he said.

The hecklers answered by spitting at the Klansmen and throwing rocks and debris. An open knife hurled at Klansmen hit a photographer on the shoulder, but he was not injured.

The hecklers turned out despite pleas from leaders of the morning anti-Klan march.

Rev. Frank Garritt Jr., a anti-Klan rally organizer, told the crowd of about 1,000 on the Capitol grounds that ignoring the Klan rally would "put an exclamation point on our efforts."

Legislators work on state holiday

AUSTIN (AP) — The Legislature planned committee meetings and floor sessions today even though many state employees had the day off for Washington's Birthday.

The Senate scheduled 13 proposals for possible votes, including bills that would extend from three to five years the time for filing rape charges and would allow supporters — as well as critics — to testify at state textbook hearings.

The textbook bill would increase the size of the textbook selection committee from 15 to 27.

The Senate State Affairs Committee posted notice it would review seven bills today designed to curb drunk-driving traffic deaths.

Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Herford, said one of his proposals would remove plea bargaining and a lenient form of probation known as "deferred adjudication" from Texas' Driving While Intoxicated law. Sarpalius also is sponsoring a bill prohibiting open containers of alcoholic beverages inside vehicles.

The proposed budget for Gov. Mark White's office was on the Senate Finance calendar.

On Tuesday, the Senate Nominations Subcommittee could vote on five major appointments. Austin Mayor Carole McClellan, recently appointed by White to the State Insurance Board, is scheduled to appear for questions. Votes are expected on the appointments of John Stover of Lufkin to the Texas Water Commission and University of Houston regents Chester Bengtson Jr., John Kolb and Leonard Rauch.

Speaker Gib Lewis said the House would debate its first piece of major legislation this session — higher education funding — on Tuesday, which will be the 44th day of the 140-day session.

"The pace can be expected to quicken even more this week and in the weeks ahead," Lewis said.

The higher education proposal is a constitutional amendment that would establish a fund for state colleges outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

It would authorize a $125 million appropriation out of general revenue for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1, 1984, with later adjustments based on the Consumer Price Index.

EPA whistle blower urges proposed waste site blockage

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Environmental Protection Agency official Hugh Kaufman told a rally of citizens here that they should continue efforts to block usage of a nearby 915-acre site as a toxic waste landfill.

Kaufman, the man who charged that the EPA is involved in "sweetheart deals" with hazardous waste firms, called the proposed Bay City landfill site "just absolutely, totally inappropriate" because the area has high groundwater tables and is within half a mile of the Colorado River.

But he said Saturday that the government has "legalized bad practice" by issuing permits for sites far worse than the one here.

Kaufman predicted that more EPA firings will follow the discharging of an agency assistant administrator.

An attempt to fire Kaufman led to the unraveling of a scandal that includes charges the EPA has conflicts of interest and has granted some companies special favors.

President Reagan fired assistant administrator Rita Lavelle Feb. 7 after a congressional subcommittee accused her of perjury because she denied she had investigated and tried to fire Kaufman.

Acquittal disturbs prosecutor

MONAHANS, Texas (AP) — A prosecutor says he may have erred in not requesting that the trial of a physician accused of attempting to murder a patient be moved from this West Texas town, where a jury devoid of the popular physician's patients could not be seated.

Prosecuting attorney Dennis Cadra admitted Friday following the acquittal of Dr. Juan Perez Valladares that he probably should have pushed for a change of venue from Perez' adopted hometown.

Perez was charged with trying to kill a barroom shooting victim by injecting air into the mortally wounded man's arm.

Of the 12 jurors who found Perez innocent, 10 were either patients or had family members being treated by the Cuban-born physician.

"My friends," the soft-spoken doctor said when jurors cleared him, Perez is one of five physicians — all foreign born — in this town of 9,000.

Cadra said he still has lingering doubts about the outcome of the case.

Perez also was the nation's first physician to be tried for attempted murder in injecting air into a human's bloodstream, the American Medical Association said.

Perez never denied injecting 20 cubic centimeters of air into the right arm of Michael S. Hoffman on Nov. 4, 1981, leading some residents here to say they will avoid Perez' future medical services.

"I just don't want him injecting air into me when he decides he's tired," said a Schlumberger oilfield worker. He declined to be identified.

Two nurses testified they witnessed Perez inject air into Hoffman's veins minutes after Perez told emergency room attendants he was tired from a long day of work and wanted to go home.

Ambulance driver Jackie Harkey backed up the nurses' allegations and hospital administrator Gary Schreve testified Perez confessed the day after the incident to the incident.

Despite the testimony, jurors took two hours before declaring the doctor innocent of attempted murder.

"That's it. The case is over," said Cadra, appointed special prosecutor after District Attorney Mike Wade disqualified himself because he was being treated by Perez.

Cadra also admitted little surprise by the verdict: "The trial did take place in Perez' backyard," he said.

"Justice was served," countered trial judge Joe Connolly, who replaced District Judge Lawrence Fuller because Fuller, too, was the doctor's patient.

Connolly said he would have ruled against a request to move the case away from Monahans because he felt enough jurors "could be found here for a fair trial."

Perez said he will remain in town and hopes to practice once again in Ward Memorial Hospital, where Hoffman was wheeled in for emergency treatment for a gunshot blast to the forehead.

Hoffman died 40 minutes after he was shot at pointblank range at Alice's Bar. James Ralph Echols of El Paso was charged with shooting the Bloomington, Ind., truck driver.

In Monahans, Thomas Hoffman — Hoffman's brother — told friends he holds no grudge against the doctor, but said it was too tough emotionally to attend the four-day trial.

Pathologist Richard Cohen testified Hoffman died from the gunshot wound — not by injection of air. It would take 100 to 300 cubic centimeters of air injected rapidly into the bloodstream to kill an adult, he said.

"But let's not forget Hoffman," Cadra reminded jurors in closing arguments.

Jury foreman Edna Hopkins Bragg said it took two votes to acquit Perez, who had practiced in Monahans for 15 years.

Perez fled Cuba in 1960 after Fidel Castro took power, and lived in Miami and the Bahamas for about three years.

Juror Lee Ann Edwards said she felt there was insufficient evidence to convict Perez.

Most in the courtroom, audience cried or lined up to congratulate Perez after the verdict was read.

Priest's death shocks congregation

AMES, Texas (AP) — Sheriff's officers hope that autopsy results on a 68-year-old Roman Catholic priest fatally shot in an "unusual" place will provide clues in his slaying, which has thrown a congregation into "total shock and horror."

Henry G. Bouchie was found dead on the back porch of his church rectory Saturday, dead of a single gunshot wound. Several rooms of the home had been ransacked, and Bouchie's wallet was missing, sheriff's officers said.

Liberty County Sheriff C.L. "Buck" Eckols said that results of an autopsy performed by the Harris County Medical Examiner's office would probably be available today.

Capt. John Dominy, investigating officer, said that Bouchie was killed late Friday night or early Saturday. The priest was shot once at close range in an "unusual" location on his body, Dominy said, but declined to elaborate.

"It looked as though there could have been a struggle, but I don't want to make any guesses about the shooting until the autopsy report comes back," Dominy said.

Bouchie, a Boston native and pastor of Our Mother of Mercy Church, was last seen alive Friday night when he performed mass in this community of 1,155 people located 50 miles northeast of Houston in Southeast Texas.

His body was sent to Boston for burial. Memorial services are scheduled for Wednesday at the church here.

Eckols said investigating officers "told me that he (Bouchie) was killed in a robbery attempt."

Bouchie's body was discovered early Saturday morning by a housekeeper, said Justice of the Peace Sonny Loftin, who made the death pronouncement.

Dominy said there were signs of forced entry at one door on the residence's north side, and that Bouchie apparently struggled with his attacker. Sheriff's officers took an inventory Sunday at the home to determine what was taken, Dominy said.

There are as yet no suspects in the killing, he said.

Beaumont pastor Raymond Woodka, who performed Mass Saturday and Sunday at Bouchie's church, said that the priest did not keep large amounts of money or other valuables at the rectory, and seldom carried much money with him.

Woodka said that the congregation reacted with "total shock and horror" at Bouchie's death.

DIET FACTS & FALLACIES

COULD YOUR DIET BE HURTING RATHER THAN HELPING?

"Dieting" could perhaps be labeled the American public's most popular obsession. This year, over 40 million Americans will attempt some type of diet. The result for the vast majority is failure. In fact, only 4 percent of all those who attempt diets will be able to maintain their weight loss for more than one year.

Consider these points BEFORE starting a diet:

- Is this diet one that your doctor would approve?
- If you have a health problem, is it taken into consideration?
- Could this diet result in a dangerous health condition?
- Is this diet one that you can live with?
- Has this diet actually worked for others?
- Does this diet provide adequate, essential nutrients through a variety of foods?
- Does this diet teach you how to maintain your weight loss?

A diet that cannot meet these criteria provides only a temporary answer. For a nutritionally sound and permanently effective solution, contact your local Diet Center Counselor.

Example of peace

The 20th century has been a century of wars - not only the two most destructive and costly wars in human history but innumerable small wars fought with increasingly potent weapons of mass killing.

Yet it is also the century which has achieved a peace that once would have seemed a miracle, but one now take for granted.

This is the ending of the age-old rivalry between France and Germany, the central cause of both World War I and II.

It has been 20 years since President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer signed a historic treaty of friendship and reconciliation between their two countries.

To mark the anniversary, President Francois Mitterrand addressed the German Bundestag, renewing the pledges of the treaty. The following day, Chancellor Helmut Kohl did the same before the French National Assembly. It was a precedent for both countries.

In these 20 years, the economies of France and Germany have become more and more integrated within the European Common Market. People and ideas move freely across their borders. Another war between them is unthinkable.

But political peace and economic cooperation are not the miracle. The miracle is the vanishing of the enmity, the jealousy, the resentment and bitterness that had existed for generations of Germans and Frenchmen and caused the deaths of millions.

As Martin Bangemann, a German member of the European Parliament, puts it, "Something has changed on both sides. There is no longer any animosity."

If the same change could occur between East and West, if the specter of nuclear Armageddon could be vanquished, this century of wars would also be the century in which was laid the foundation for lasting world peace.

From the quotable Lincoln

I have never had a feeling, politically, that did not spring from the sentiments embodied in the Declaration of Independence... I have often inquired of myself what great principle or idea it was that kept this Confederacy so long together. It was not the mere matter of separation of the colonies from the motherland, but that sentiment in the Declaration of Independence which gave liberty not alone to the people of this country, but hope to all the world, for all future time. It was that which gave promise that in due time the weights would be lifted from the shoulders of all men, and that all should have an equal chance. This is the sentiment embodied in the Declaration of Independence... I would rather be assassinated on this spot than surrender it.

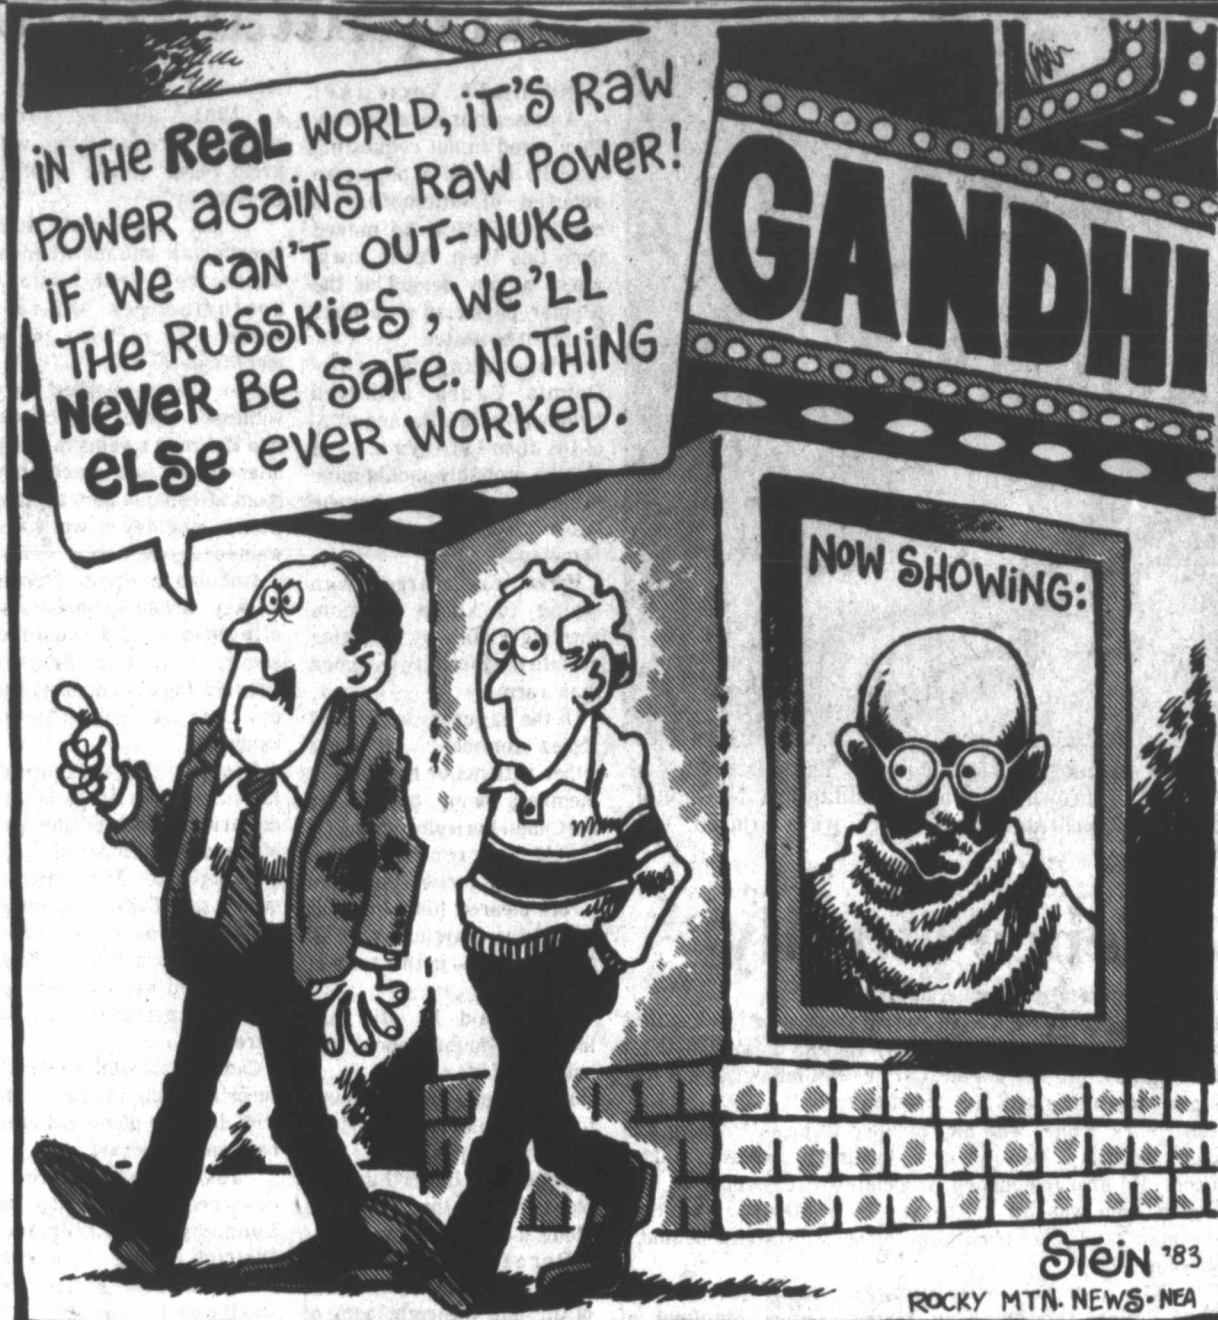

Independence Hall, Philadelphia

If destruction be our lot we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of freemen we must live through all time, or die by suicide.

Young Men's Lyceum, Springfield, Illinois

If you once forfeit the confidence of your fellow citizens, you can never regain their respect and esteem. It is true that you may fool all the people some of the time; you can fool some of the people all the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time.

To a caller at the White House

The Nigerian story

By Don Graff

The United States and Nigeria have a lot in common. Both are economic magnets, powerful draws on less affluent populations beyond their borders.

Both, however, are currently suffering slumps with high unemployment. Foreign workers, rather than contributors to the economy, have become burdens.

Both have large, ethnically heterogeneous populations.

But here the resemblances end. The diverse American population is held together by a sense of nationhood. The many peoples who are called Nigerians — although they may not so call themselves — are not. Yet.

Nigeria, like much of the rest of Africa, remains an accumulation of tribal societies confined within artificial lines drawn on the map by governments in distant European capitals for the convenience of colonial administration, not for any likely benefit to those confined.

Even so, Nigeria had more going for it than most former colonies when it achieved independence in 1960. It inherited a British-trained civil service, a functioning administrative system and oil reserves that quickly made it one of the world's major exporters.

The new government launched ambitious development programs that it thought could be floated forever on that sea of oil. They couldn't.

The weakening world oil market and OPEC's consequent demonstration of inability to control production and fix prices have cost Nigeria probably more than any other member of the cartel. A Saudi Arabia — with some 10 million people and a per capita income of $11,500 — can adjust to the decline in income. Nigeria — almost 90 million and a per capita income of $523 — cannot.

Oil, as it turns out, has not powered Nigeria's economy but dislocated it. From a one-time food exporter, the country has become a net importer, at an annual cost of more than $2 billion.

The Nigerian government's response to the aspect of dislocation most apparent to most of the population — unemployment — has been the headline-making deportation of foreign workers, possibly 2 million or more.

Speaking of similarities, it's a response that may strike sympathetic chords in some American quarters, although the preferred method here would be more restrictive immigration legislation.

And it is ironic that most of the expellees are from another former British colony that also once showed great promise — Ghana. That promise was rapidly dissipated during the reign of strongman and would-be world statesman Kwame Nkrumah. Ghana has never recovered from the decade of his misrule. Bankrupt and demoralized, it is governed by a process of coup and counter-coup.

A point in Nigeria's favor in the present troubles — and it's a very strong one — is that it has not repeated the Ghanaian story. There have been coups, but the Nigerian leadership has made a considerable effort to develop a workable political system, however short of democratic perfection, suited to Nigeria's diversity.

It is a system that has managed to accommodate the friction among Moslem north, Christian south and a score of tribal allegiances. The system survived the bloody Biafran civil war of the late '60s and will be put to another test in an election coming up later this year, an event that may be the real reason for the politically popular expulsion of the foreigners.

Nigeria is groping toward real nationhood. Separately, its peoples would be no more than so many other dwarf states that emerged from the colonial past. Together, they are the giant of Africa with a potential greater than any other black African state to shape the continent's future.

It is a future in which all peoples called Nigerians have a vital stake.

And that's another thing we have in common.

Berry's World

Evolution

By PAUL HARVEY

Jews are stingy, blacks are lazy, Poles are dumb and Irish are drunkards.

Our history is full of scapegoat slogans. Flatter yourself by mean-mouthing the other guy.

Until the 1960s anybody could slander anybody without reproach.

But then politically impotent blacks got organized, talked back, told whitey where to go.

Today blacks are mainstreaming. Successful in business they own beauty shops and health spas, dime stores and banks, hotdog stands and supermarkets.

Twenty years ago blacks catered to their own color; now they don't mind catering to any.

And blacks are socially effective: leaders in industry, leaders in education, leaders in medicine and most everywhere else.

But there are the new kids on the block, every day having to re-prove themselves.

Social evolution, at its most accelerated pace, is agonizingly gradual. Only gradually are the biggest bullies on the block being tamed by black ingenuity, persistence, investment and hard work.

Most blacks like most others have learned that the best way to get past having to prove yourself is to prove yourself.

Inevitable, when you stop studying, study saving, stop trying, stop breaking your back - you get stepped on or stepped over.

And when you flunk out of school, business, whatever - the easy way is to cry "foul," to protest that you are being "discriminated against," that your failure results from somebody else's racism.

Maybe today somebody will believe you.

But not twenty years from now.

The last twenty years were for catch-up. The next twenty years are for follow-up.

Follow-up self-reliance with self-discipline.

Follow-up education with experience and experience with excellence.

Follow-up affluence with compassion.

Because twenty years from now you won't be relying on others; they will be relying on you.

And if what is past is prologue, tomorrow will stick pins in yet another emerging segment of our polyglot population.

Maybe by then it will be Asians who will want more than they have of what you have. And they will protest that because of what we did to them "we owe them."

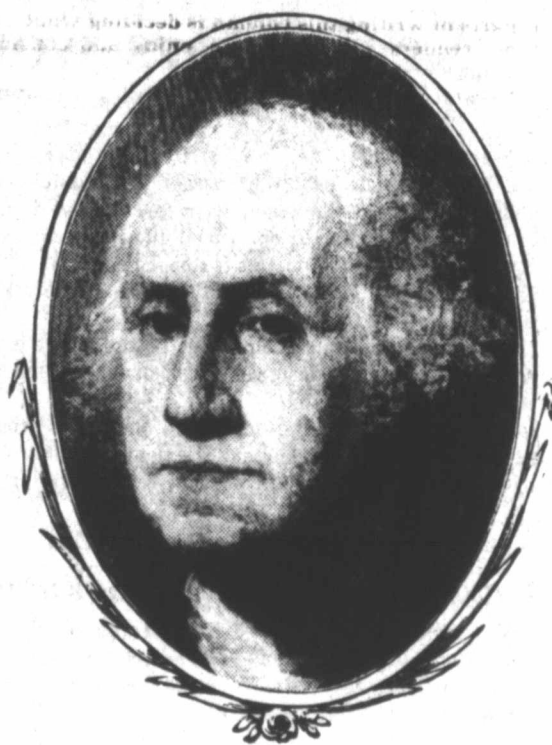

And you will be tempted to make jokes about them, to deride something unlovely about them, real or imagined.

You will be tempted to exclude from your classrooms, your athletic teams, your clubs, your jobs, your circle of friends.

Will you? Probably.

For a while.

(c) 1983, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

From the quotable Washington

The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty, and the destiny of the republican model of government, are justly considered as deeply, perhaps as finally staked, on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people.

First Inaugural Address

The basis of our political system is the right of the people to make and to alter their constitutions of government.

Farewell Address

Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all... The Nation which indulges toward another an habitual hatred or an habitual fondness is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest.

Farewell Address

Happy the Government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance; requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens in giving it on all occasions their effectual support.

Letter to the Jewish Congregation of Newport, Rhode Island

Counselor's Corner

By DAVE BRUMMETT, MDiv

Numerous families are going to counselors today for answers to parent-child conflict. During the first session it is usually apparent what the problem is, with communication a key factor.

Mutual respect is fading too. Everyone has just about come to the stage of giving up. There are definite symptoms recognized as infiltrators which defuse the family cohesiveness. The family has permitted manipulation to reside at their address.

Teenagers are professional at this type of destructive behavior. Threats are used, such as: "If you don't let me see my boyfriend or girlfriend tonight, I'm running away." or "You'd better give me the car keys or I'm going to quit school." These threats scare many parents into giving in. Teenagers try tears too, which make parents feel sorry for their "little darlings" and they give in.

Lying is another popular form of manipulation. Teenagers say they're going one place and end up at another. Sometimes they say, conveniently, that they are going to be with a trusted friend, and make their way to someone who has trapped their confidence, not for healthy reasons, but in risky pursuits.

Risks which oppose family values and standards usually end up in painful encounters. Lying gives momentary permission to behave inappropriately, against one's ideals.

Blackmail is also commonly used by teenagers. If one parent doesn't give in to their desires, that parent is blackmailed by teenagers saying they will tell the other parent a secret, something the teenager knows will cause consequences the former parent fears. The use of one person against another is blackmail.

Playing one parent against the other is used. Dad may be more stern and in control, and Mom protects the ski trip. She usually gives her permission. With Dad a grouch, so to speak, Mom is urged to ask him for a request. If she refuses, Dad is approached with a double standard which he may buy to feel egoed, important to his teenager, successful as a parent.

Moodiness can turn a parent's decision too. Acting depressed and lonely usually gets a teenager his wish. Parents generally want their teenager to be happy, laughing and excited, a popular part of a peer group. Moods can be manipulative at certain times. "Well, I'll just kill myself," can be effective and hostile at the same time.

Using love as a weapon can move a parent to comply. "If you love me, you'll give in." This is an ulterior, cheap way to use a parent.

Of course parents manipulate, too. They dangle a carrot to get their teenager to behave. Take the trash out every day and you can take the car once a week. Do the laundry and you can wear my new coat on your date. Mow the lawn and you may be able wear my new diamond necklace on the banquet.

In addition, parents threaten. "If you don't bring up your grades you'll stay home the next six weeks. The next time you waste all the gasoline in the car you'll not use it again until you have a job and can pay for it yourself."

Shaming is another tool used by parents to manipulate. "You're a bad boy for not making your bed and helping the family, instead of making your poor mother work so hard. You're brother does a better job of washing dishes." Shaming is a cruel means of controlling a person.

Blackmailing is used by parents as well as teenagers. "I'll tell your dad when he gets home... I'll tell your teacher if you don't complete your assignment."

Telling a teenager one thing and then doing something else is close to lying. "Do as I say, not as I do," is confusing. To get a teenager to do his chores for a reward and then not having the finances for the reward is devastating to a young mind that never forgets, even into adulthood.

In order to produce a family of free-living, human individuals who are close, united, committed to a healthy environment, speak the truth with love. Say what you mean directly. Ulterior motives destroy. Front and center is a building motive, honest and trustworthy. In other words, be who you are and let others be themselves.

Leave "shoulds" in the trash can. It doesn't belong in relationships. It can bring guilt to burden the mind. Choices of behavior are necessary for good results.

Provide love in partnerships. Love is not intended to control but to expand intimacy. Love heals, repairs disappointment, satisfies grievances. Love is to be shared with the family. Put some love in your next conversation with a parent or teenager. Genuine love breaks down barriers and melts manipulation.

Dear Abby

Son who changes name may want to change his mind

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The "Proud Orlikoffs" were upset because their son (a lawyer) married a woman named Reilly, and instead of her taking his name, Orlikoff, he changed his name to Reilly. His reason: Should he decide one day to run for public office, Orlikoff sounds too Russian; furthermore, people would be more inclined to vote for a "Reilly" than an Orlikoff.

Abby, please advise young Orlikoff to check out some of the names of people who are elected officials before giving up his family name.

From the U.S. House of Representatives: Kogovsek, Sikorski, Lipinski, Rostenkowski, Zablocki.

From the U.S. Senate: Boaschwitz, Zorinsky, Inouye, Matsunaga, Murkowski.

Besides, who would vote for a man if it was found out that he was ashamed of his parents' name? Sign me... PROUD WIKOFF

DEAR PROUD: Right on! And don't forget that a man named Abraham Ribicoff was twice elected governor of Connecticut, and won two consecutive terms in the U.S. House of Representatives and three terms in the U.S. Senate!

DEAR ABBY: I want to vigorously protest "The Calorie Counter's Prayer" published in your column. To degrade and make a mockery of one of the most beautiful of the Psalms is almost unforgivable.

If it's laughs from morons you want, I suppose you'll get a few, but to the vast majority of your readers it was a major indiscretion on your part, and I think an apology from you is in order.

THOMAS E. WHALEN, BRONX, N.Y.

DEAR MR. WHALEN: One of the most difficult parts of writing this column is deciding what I think my readers will appreciate, enjoy and consider of value.

Obviously I thought the "Calorie Counter's Prayer" deserved space in my column since calorie-counting has become a national obsession.

It was not my intention to degrade or make a mockery of the 23rd Psalm. And to those who were offended by my lapse of judgment, I sincerely apologize.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused to read in your column that picking one's teeth is a "dangerous" practice.

I am 75 years old and have been using a toothpick as long as I can remember. I've never been to a dentist in my life and still have all my own teeth — minus a couple of molars and wisdom teeth that I pulled myself.

FRED IN NEW YORK

DEAR FRED: Consider yourself lucky to have had no complications. If there's truth in the proverb "The physician who treats himself has a fool for a patient," I wonder what manner of man, forsooth, would risk plucking out his own tooth?

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

Your skills in competitive sports will be considerably enhanced this coming year. Take serious measures to build upon the talents you already possess.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have good organizational and managerial qualities today, but you might wait until a pressing situation develops before you'll bring them into full play. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Pisces Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Early in the day you could have a poor sense of direction and go off on tangents. Later, however, you'll become more effective and finish what you start.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Place greater emphasis on maintaining good relationships today than in furthering your material interests. True values are found in friends, not funds.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be self-sufficient today. You can do more for yourself than others can do for you. Don't fear to go after important objectives on your own.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions will turn more favorable for you today. You should now be able to assume direct control over matters affecting your self-interests.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be extremely successful today in situations where you are primarily concerned about looking out for the rights or interests of others. Be helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Initially, associates might not see or understand things as quickly as you will today, so patience will be required. They'll eventually catch on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There could be a sudden shift in conditions today which will present favorable opportunities where your work or career is concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pressure or challenges could cause others to back off today, but in your case they'll only serve to bring out your better qualities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be in for a pleasant surprise today when you discover that a situation you thought to be negative actually has hidden advantages.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) What will make you a successful salesperson today is the fact that your prospects will recognize you'll not try to sell things you don't believe in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're capable of substantial achievements today when properly motivated. Think of what money can do for you, and you'll figure out ways to get it!

Reserve guard breaks arena's scoring record

(AP) — The 6-foot-5 reserve guard, in his third National Basketball Association season, came off the bench midway through the first period Sunday and played 32 minutes in the Kansas City Kings' 128-106 rout of the Houston Rockets. When he was through, he owned a Kemper Arena record of 48 points.

"It was just one of those days where I took a lot of shots and was able to knock them in," said Woodson, who connected on a sizzling 22 of 24 shots — including a three-pointer — and knocked in 17 straight over one stretch.

Woodson poured in 20 points in the first half and added 16 straight Kansas City points midway through the fourth quarter. The lead changed hands 16 times until a layup by Woodson with 9:10 left in the second quarter ignited an 11-1 burst and put the Kings ahead to stay.

76ers 104, Knicks 89

At Philadelphia, Moses Malone scored 23 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as the 76ers won their sixth straight game. The Sixers, 46-7, increased their Atlantic Division lead over the Boston Celtics to seven games. Andrew Toney added 19 points and Julius Erving had 16.

Lakers 126, Pacers 112

At Indianapolis, Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored

27 points. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 26 and Jamaal Wilkes 24 for Los Angeles, while Norm Nixon had 16 points and 13 assists.

Bucks 109, Nets 108

At Milwaukee, Bob Lanier's layup with nine seconds left gave Milwaukee the victory. Sidney Moncrief scored 31 points and Marques Johnson 25 to lead the Bucks, who overcame a 10-point deficit late in the third period.

Spurs 103, Hawks 100

At San Antonio, the Spurs' Johnny Moore scored 10 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter, including seven in the last 2:13, and also dished out 12 assists. He put the Spurs up 101-100 with 31 seconds left on a twisting layup. Mike Mitchell led San Antonio with 26 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, while George Gervin had 24 points.

Suns 103, Cavaliers 81

At Richfield, Ohio, Larry Nance scored 21 points and Walter Davis added 20 to spark Phoenix, offsetting 31 by World B. Free of the Cavaliers. The Suns played without starting forward Maurice Lucas, who has a bruised calf, and starting guard Dennis Johnson, who flew to Los Angeles because of an illness in his family.

Bulls 124, Mavericks 111

At Chicago, Reggie Theus collected 25 points and Dave Corzine scored 19 of his 21 in the second half to lift Chicago over Dallas, which lost for only the sixth time in its last 19 games. The Bulls, who trailed by 17 points early in the second quarter, closed the gap to 64-55 at halftime and outscored the Mavericks 35-22 in the third quarter for a 92-86 advantage.

Sonics 116, Warriors 112

At Seattle, Fred Brown hit two jumpers late in the fourth quarter to turn back a Golden State rally that almost erased a 14-point third-period deficit.

Seattle's Jack Sikma led all scorers with 30 points. Brown added 19 and Gus Williams had 18 as the Sonics posted their second straight victory, the first time they have won two in a row since the last week of December.

Clippers 107, Jazz 97

At San Diego, rookie Terry Cummings scored 26 points and Bill Walton had 18 points and 12 rebounds as San Diego posted its fourth victory in the last five games. Utah, which lost for the 11th time in its last 12 games, played without regular guard Darrell Griffith, who was attending his grandfather's funeral in Louisville, Ky.

Sampson can shoot free throws

(AP) — Ralph Sampson may some day be in a class with Wilt Chamberlain, but not when it comes to shooting free throws.

Chamberlain, the National Basketball Association's all-time leading scorer, was futility from the foul line, admittedly psyched out by the task.

No such problem for Virginia's 7-foot-4 Sampson. "I've been working on (foul shots) for a period of years now," Sampson said Sunday after leading the Cavaliers, the nation's fifth-ranked college basketball team, to a 68-53 victory over No. 12 Missouri at the Brendan Byrne Arena in East Rutherford, N.J.

Sampson sank 11 of 12 foul shots in the second half and finished with 21 points, 10 rebounds and five blocked shots as Virginia raised its record to 21-3.

"It just came down to them fouling me once I was in the lane and I just put them in," said the Virginia senior All-American. The Cavaliers outscored Missouri 18-4 in the final eight minutes, handing the Tigers the second loss of the weekend. Host Oklahoma State beat Missouri 79-93 Saturday.

Steve Stipanovich, Missouri's 6-11 center, hitting mostly from the outside, scored 27 points, had 12 rebounds and five blocked shots.

In another Sunday game, No. 6 St. John's, led by Chris Mullin's 19 points and Kevin Williams' all-around play, defeated DePaul 64-52 at Madison Square Garden. The Redmen are 22-3. DePaul 14-9.

Mullin was held to two field goals the first half which was tied at 31-31. But the 6-6 sophomore hit nine of 10 free throws as the Bedmen overcame a 47-46 deficit with seven minutes remaining. Bernard Randolph's 15 points paced the Blue Demons.

Meanwhile, top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas clinched the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title with a 111-78 rout over visiting Utah State Saturday night. Sidney Green scored 23 points and grabbed 21 rebounds and Larry Anderson added 22 points for the Runnin' Rebels.

24-0 overall and 14-0 in conference play.

"The league championship was most important," said UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian. "Winning the conference championship takes a lot of pressure off them."

"We needed to blow somebody out. Our defense was not real good, but we blew them out physically."

Utah State fell to 18-6 overall and 8-5 in the PCAA.

In other Saturday games involving the Top Ten, No. 2 Indiana defeated Northwestern 74-65; No. 3 North Carolina fell for the third straight game, 70-63 to North Carolina State; No. 4 Houston topped Texas Tech 84-75; No. 7 Arkansas downed Texas Christian 64-56; No. 8 Villanova tripped Connecticut 75-68, No. 9 Louisville defeated No. 13 Memphis State 75-66.

Hallberg cards first win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gary Hallberg, so skinny as a kid that he played ice hockey to build up his strength, would like to think he's come of age on the pro golf tour.

"I know what it takes to win now and the practice it took to get where I'm at," said the 24-year-old Chicago native after claiming his first Tour victory Sunday.

Relying on grit and a 50-year-old putter, Hallberg fired a final round 6-under-par 66 to win the $300,000 Isuzu-Andy Williams San Diego Open.

His eight-foot birdie putt on No. 18 gave him the lead for the first time and a 1-stroke victory over Tom Kite, who lost a 4-stroke lead to the charging Hallberg.

Three strokes back were Ben Crenshaw and John Cook at 274.

One of the most publicized amateurs to come out of college, Hallberg joined the Tour just said to himself, "Get it back and let the about the same time as Ohio State's Cook and Bobby Clampett of Brigham Young. Hallberg's rise began when he attended an Arnold Palmer golf academy when he was about 10. "He gave me a few pointers, wished me well and that's all I needed (for incentive)," said the 5-foot-10, 155-pound native of Barrington, Ill.

While attending Wake Forest on a Palmer-sponsored scholarship, he was the first four-time, first-team All-America in history and winner of the 1979 NCAA championship.

He ranked Sunday's triumph as the crowning achievement in his career.

On the 18th, as he sized up his putt, he said his heart was "pounding like never before."

"I was real shaky. I stood there looking down the putter and saw it shimmy a little. I just said to myself, 'Get it back and let the momentum carry it through,'" he said.

IS SKIING A SAFE SPORT?

You hear the crackle of the soft snow; you feel the crispness of the wind on your face; you tingle with the warmth of the sun on your back; you are exhilarated with the speed and movement. It is estimated that more than five million Americans will experience the joy and freedom of skiing this year. Unfortunately though, it is also estimated that 600,000 will experience the pain of injury.

That's a lot of injuries. The next questions then is, "Is skiing an unsafe sport?" The answer is "no"—it is no more unsafe than most other sports. Oh certainly, statisticians and insurance actuaries can issue a list of sports and rank them in order of danger. But this is based on frequency of injury rather than inherent qualities of the sports themselves.

It's not sports that are dangerous—it's the people who participate in them. According to skiing authorities, about 50% of the injuries are equipment-related, while the other 50% are due to poor physical conditioning and negligence.

So that leaves very little to blame on the sport itself. First, let's talk about physical conditioning because that should be second nature to anyone who would even consider so vigorous a sport as skiing. Physical conditioning is important because the energy-absorption ability of the bone is minimal. The skier's primary defense against injury is muscular conditioning. According to doctors of chiropractic, especially those in ski areas, there is a direct relationship between lack of conditioning and structural injury.

Anyone who thinks he can go away on a ski weekend without being prepared physically is making a serious mistake. Skiing not only requires specialized attention to knee and leg exercises, but also a general good tone of the body. It is the type of sport that requires endurance and structural maneuverability.

In terms of equipment, remember that it should be of high quality construction, proper fitting, and well maintained. For example, because some parents consider ski-bindings for their children in the category of "toys," children often have inferior equipment. The result: a high frequency of injuries of the bone growth centers among children.

The American Chiropractic Association also reports that ski poles have been the basis for many shoulder and thumb dislocations, and for muscle problems in the arms and back. Without pull-away straps, a pole caught in a shrub exerts a tremendous shock on the limb as the body moves forward with speed.

Also, the skier should not overlook his or her clothing. The skier must be properly dressed for the activity—not become chilled or overheated. Too much or too little clothes can both contribute to colds and other respiratory problems.

Properly-designed ski clothes let you take simple falls without getting wet and without getting hurt. Ski clothes should have a high coefficient of friction, which slows the speed of the skier when he comes into contact with the snow.

Whether you are a novice or a seasoned professional at snow skiing, remember that your body is your machine. To protect it, you must practice safe procedures and keep it operating efficiently. Since chiropractic is a health discipline which places particular emphasis on the structural integrity of the body, many skiers visit their doctors of chiropractic frequently—utilizing the procedure as a preventive, as well as a curative measure.

Fernando wins contract

(AP) — When Fernando Valenzuela went to spring training last year with the Los Angeles Dodgers, he was an unhappy man because of contract difficulties.

You'll get no argument from Valenzuela this year.

After only two seasons in the major leagues, the 22-year-old pitcher got what he was after over the weekend when an arbitrator awarded him a record million-dollar contract for 1983.

"We're elated," said Valenzuela's agent, Tony DeMarco, after he was informed Saturday that arbitrator Tom Roberts had decided in Valenzuela's favor for the one-year contract. "Valenzuela also was very happy to hear the news. As usual, he took it calmly. He was happy. He kind of congratulated us."

The decision was one of two made in a player's favor over the weekend. Mookie Wilson

Queen rests after festive greeting

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II rested on the royal yacht Britannia today after milling with cheering crowds, British schoolchildren and Mexican orphans in this Pacific resort town.

The 57-year-old British monarch received the keys to the city Sunday and attended a traditional Mexican fiesta prepared by the townspeople in her honor at the main plaza.

The queen was declared a guest of honor by Mayor Jorge Lipe Garcia, then listened to the municipal band play rowing Mexican marches.

Accompanied by her husband, Prince Phillip, Elizabeth walked through the crowded plaza decorated with strings of brightly-colored paper cutouts and stopped at booths offering traditional Mexican foods such as tortillas and pozole, a cabbage and meat soup.

Some 50 children from British schools in Mexico City serenaded the royal couple at city hall and the queen warmly greeted 30 Mexican children from Mama Rosa's orphanage at Zamora near Guadalajara, 332 miles west of Mexico City.

Children told reporters they had come to see "Chave" — the Spanish name for Betty — because the queen had donated equipment for their gymnasium and a washing machine for their laundry.

Rosa del Carmen Verdusco, who has raised more than 1,000 children in 32 years, said the British monarch had been aiding the privately-funded orphanage for several years.

Earlier, Elizabeth visited the nursing home, where a chorus of two dozen elderly women greeted her with Mexican folksongs.

Report Chinese head of state has resigned

PEKING (AP) — Marshal Ye Jianying, the 85-year-old politician who is China's nominal head of state, has resigned and will be succeeded by top legislator Peng Zhen, a Japanese trade unionist said today.

Motofumi Makieda told a press conference for Japanese reporters that Communist Party General Secretary Hu Yaobang told him of Ye's plans Sunday and said Ye resigned to make way for the younger generation.

Makieda said the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress would accept Ye's resignation Friday and name standing committee Deputy Chairman Peng his temporary successor, Peng is 81.

There was no official comment on the report. Government offices were closed for the night in Peking.

Teacher practices in back yard, wins contest

HOUSTON (AP) — Rhonda Payne proved that practice makes perfect, but she didn't plan it that way.

The 24-year-old part-time home economics teacher in Huntsville whistled her way to her second straight whistling title at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, belting out renditions of "Under the Double Eagle" and "The Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy of Company B."

Mrs. Payne said that when she was a little girl, she started whistling on the back porch of her parents' Huntsville home for the heck of it.

"I never practiced whistling seriously to enter contests," said Mrs. Payne. "I'd just go out into the back yard and hang up clothes or just sit on the porch and whistle to myself. I've done it for years."

Mrs. Payne, a part-time home economics teacher in the Huntsville Independent School District, said she had not even planned to enter the contest last year.

"I came along last year to help my cousin enter the contest, but when he was disqualified I entered instead and won," she said.

"I whistle to keep myself occupied when I'm alone," said Mrs. Payne. "Even now

I don't practice seriously."

The two-time champion edged out Clark Dunlap, 2, of Houston, a computer systems analyst who whistled "San Antonio Rose" and "Sweet Georgia Brown" for second place in the field of four.

Another contestant, Angelo Prioli, played a 12-string steel guitar and whistled "Night Riders" in an eerie composition that tickled the crowd. For a refrain, Prioli made the sound of clapping hooves with his tongue against the roof of his mouth.

Tim Harrigan of Houston whistled the blues with his puckered rendition of "The House of the Rising Sun," then finished up by blowing a rousing rendition of the theme from the television show, "The Dukes of Hazzard."

Dunlap, who accompanied his whistling by playing an acoustical guitar, said he, too, had never whistled seriously.

"I grew up in Midland in West Texas where the wind whistles all the time," he said. "This is my first contest, but I would like to go pro. It's too bad (famous amateur hour host) Ted Mack wasn't in today's audience."

Whistling, said Dunlap, is "really the cheapest musical instrument in the world. It's totally natural, since the musical instrument is your body. Whistling is a lost art. You don't see a lot of interest in it any more."

LORETTA SWIT

DANNY KAYE

ANN-MARGRET

Names in the news

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — Her hometown is so hot for "Hot Lips" Houlihan that Feb. 28, the day of the last "M-A-S-H" episode on television, has been proclaimed Loretta Swit Day.

"She's probably the most famous person from Passaic," says Councilman James Shoop, an admitted "M-A-S-H" addict. He and other council members decided to honor the 33-year-old actress because, says Shoop, "She's our favorite daughter."

Miss Swit grew up in the predominantly Polish section of the city's East side, where she attended Holy Rosary Roman Catholic Church, worked part-time at the city library and went to Pope Pius VI High School.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Danny Kaye has been moved from the coronary intensive-care unit of Cedars-Sinai Medical Center to an observation room where he is recovering from quadruple coronary bypass surgery, a hospital spokeswoman says.

Kaye, 70, was operated on Friday. His condition Sunday night was listed as fair.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Ann-Margret has received the 12th annual Humanitarian Award of the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation, an organization sponsoring research into a disease that leaves its victims weak from muscle fatigue.

The foundation also honored Ann-Margret's husband of 18 years, producer-writer Roger Smith Saturday night. He suffers from the disease and was too ill to attend the festivities, according to a spokesman for the event.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Almost a year after the death of John Belushi, a tribute to the comedian was broadcast during the weekend on the television program that made him famous, "Saturday Night Live."

Belushi was 33 when he was found dead from a drug overdose in a Hollywood hotel.

Public Notices

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF PAMPA, TEXAS, will hold a Public Hearing in the City Commission Room, City Hall, Pampa, Texas, at 9:30 A.M., March 8, 1983, to consider the following: Zoning Change from SF-2 to Office District for Office Buildings Lot 2 through 4, Block 12, Section 11 NORTHCREST ADDITION. All interested persons are invited to attend and will be given the opportunity to express their views on the proposed changes.

Erma L. Hipsher
City Secretary
Feb. 21, 28, 1983

THE STATE OF TEXAS TO DANNY JOE GOSSETT and to all whom it may concern, Respondent, GREETINGS: YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear and answer before the Honorable District Court 223rd Judicial District, Gray County, Texas, at the Courthouse of said county in Pampa, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock a.m. of the Monday next after the expiration of 20 days from the date of service of the citation, then and there to answer the petition of Debra Maxine Gossett, Petitioner, filed in said Court on the 20th day of June, 1980, against Danny Joe Gossett Respondent, and the said suit being number 22,041 on the docket of said Court and entitled "In the Matter of Marriage of Debra Maxine Gossett and Danny Joe Gossett," the nature of which suit is a request to a Petition for Divorce. The Court has authority in this suit to enter any judgment or decree dissolving the marriage and providing for the division of property which will be binding on you. Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court at Pampa, Texas, this 17th day of February A.D. 1983.

Attest: Mary Clark
Clerk of the 223rd District
Court, Gray County,
Texas
