Mystery on a snowy road

Sheriff puzzled by fire no one cares about

Late one night a truck rolled off the only hill on Texas Highway 70 and lodged in a ditch. One week later it burst into flames, again in the middle of the night.

Roberts County Sheriff Eddie Brines is calling it arson, but apparently no one else cares. At present, there is no indication of any investigation into the destruction of the $119,000 oilfield services truck. A two-week investigation by The Pampa News has unearthed some interesting facts, but there are a lot of questions left unanswered.

Such as:
What caused a truck in good condition to roll off the road on the only hill on the highway between Perryton and Pampa?

Why, after lying under a blanket of snow in sub-freezing temperatures for over a week, did this truck suddenly burst into flames? Why don't the owners of the companies involved ask Roberts

County Sheriff Eddie Brines to follow through on his investigation of what he feels is a clear-cut case of arson?

Why would someone leave the place where the truck came to rest so fast that he almost fell into a 60 foot ravine. just a few yards away from the truck?

Why would someone turn around on the road so fast that he almost backed into the same ravine where the truck landed?

The sheriff is asking these and more questions as a result of his investigation into the mysterious truck fire.

But no one else seems to care.

The whole mystery started for Sheriff Brines when he received a call from a Department of Public Safety trooper informing him of a truck accident very early Monday morning, January 31.

At about one o'clock that cold, but moonlit winter morning, 12 hours before a paralyzing snowstorm hit the Panhandle, Michael D. Thomas of Byers, Colorado, was driving the International 10 - wheel truck, equipped with a hot-oil unit on the back, south on Texas 70. He was supposed to meet his boss, Howard Pittman, owner of Bijou Hot Oil Service, of Byers, Colo., in Pampa.

But the truck didn't make it to Pampa. It went off the road, and into a ravine instead.

Thomas later told DPS investigating trooper Joe Hudson he had smelled hot tires or brakes and pulled to the side of the road to check the truck.

He and a friend following in a van, put chocks under the wheels to keep the truck from rolling while they checked the brakes. When he released the emergency brake to test the regular brakes, the truck rolled over the chocks.

The truck went off the left (east) side of the road, bounced over the rough terrain, made a "U" turn and finally came to rest on its side facing north about 150 feet into a ravine a short distance from a 60 foot cliff on the Lips Ranch about four miles north of the Canadian River.

Observers at the scene said the front tires had caught in a creek bed. The nose of the truck was in the bed of the creek.

Thomas told Trooper Hudson he was not a regular driver for Bijou. He was working for Pittman restoring a motel in Byers.

Hudson said there was some gas in the butane tank, but no oil. He said there appeared to be no other mechanical problems. The fuel tanks of the truck did not rupture. There was no fire at that time.

Sheriff Brines offered to help get the truck out of the ravine, and was told by the owners they would be in touch with him. They never called.

That afternoon the snow started falling, and before the truck could be retrieved from the ravine, it was snowed in.

A week later, at about 1 a.m. February 8, an ambulance driver enroute from Perryton to Amarillo saw fire coming from the wrecked truck. He radioed Perryton police, who radioed Ochiltree County Sheriff's dispatcher, who got a DPS trooper on the radio.

The DPS trooper reached Eddie Brines about 3 a. m. and told him of the "I told him there was no way I could reach it in time to save the truck because the roads were blocked with snow, and as long as no one was in danger. I'd wait and go see it in the morning" the sheriff said morning," the sheriff said.

Sheriff Brines arrived at the scene of the fire shortly after daybreak, just a few hours since receiving word of the fire.

'Pantex Preacher' calls for protest

By JEFF LANGLEY Senior Writer

PANHANDLE — The Methodist ninister locked up in the Carson County fail for trespassing at the Pantex Plant s refusing to cooperate with authorities, and he said it's high time ther religious leaders join Catholics in rotesting nuclear weapons

The preacher, who now has no church this own request, he said, is refusing defend himself on the misdemeanor riminal charge and plans to stay scked up in the Carson County Jail.

"I don't consider myself a criminal."

That is done at Pantex is much more riminal." preacher Charles Scott fidress said from his jail cell Friday.

Andress said his arrest at the nuclear eapons plant Wednesday night apports the stand taken by Amarillo atholic Bishop Leroy Matthiesen gainst the construction of weapons at the plant, about 30 miles west of ampa.

Andress said local clergy of other iths have "allowed Matthiesen to be aligned publicly" and have not ipported the Amarillo bishop's introversial statements about the antex Plant.

The bishop urged his followers to sestion the morality of working at the eapons facility, and national attention the plant was a result.

The Methodist said his own church is an official policy against the eapons. and he said other enominations, including resbyterians, Lutherans and discopalians have adopted official licies against nuclear weapons "to rying degrees."

Andress said at the last General conference of the United Methodist Church in 1980, part of the social principles adopted by the church said "that the production or use of nuclear weapons be condemned."

But Herb Tavenner, pastor of the Methodist church in Panhandle, where Andress is jailed, said "about 90 percent" of Methodist church members would not agree with that church guideline.

Tavenner also said about half of his church members work at Pantex.

Andress' position and protests at the plant have also run contrary to the beliefs of some of his previous Panhandle congregations. When the minister joined a protest at the plant in 1981, his Amarillo congregation asked that he be reassigned. He was moved to the church in Kress and then on to Dumas. Andress recently asked his church superiors not to assign him to another church.

The minister said the Methodist Church guarantees "freedom of the pulpit," but his previous congregations apparently did not back the idea.

Now the minister is alone in a block of cells, with only a trusty to hear his religious beliefs and to warm their iailhouse TV dinners.

But Andress knew he would be jailed when he entered the Pantex property and refused to leave, he said.

After three of his friends from other states were arrested trying to go over a fence at the plant Wednesday morning, (Andress said he and his wife were afraid he might be shot if he joined the group that morning), the preacher drove to the unlocked main gate of the facility and began walking down the road leading to the plant.

He was holding a single candle as guards drove up and ordered him to leave the federal facility. He said he heard the click of an automatic weapon being cocked and then knelt in front of the guards' vehicle to pray. Guards arrested the preacher and took him to Carson County where he was arraigned on the state charge of criminal trespassing. He said he believes he was charged with a state violation, rather than the federal charges his three friends faced earlier Wednesday, because the jail housing federal prisoners in Amarillo "was too full."

"I am not a liberal. I was born and raised in Borger, and went through a seminary in Kentucky, not exactly hot beds of liberalism," the minister said.

"But Christians cannot support the policy of killing innocent men, women and children, which is the policy of nuclear war." he said.

"If we are going to exist, we've got to find an answer." Andress said.

The continued construction of nuclear weapons is not only a policy of destruction, but it is also wasting resources and is unnecessary, he said.

"You can only kill a person one time," he said.

The preacher said U.S. and Soviet nuclear stockpiles are already enoughto wipe out the populations of both countries several times over. He said scientific studies show 400 large nuclear weapons are enough to destroy everyone in either country.

"There are now about 50,000 (nuclear bombs), and it's an ever growing

Andress said all countries must destroy nuclear weapons. He did not advocate unilateral disarmament Friday, but he said "initiatives can be one - sided." And the preacher said the U.S. should take the first step.

"I'm not trying to be naive. They are not necessarily good people," he said of the Russian leadership.

"But they don't want to be destroyed.

The only alternative is annihilation," he said.

Judge J. Bob Roselius scolded him when Roselius arraigned him on the trespassing charge.

"He told me what I did was wrong and that he didn't want me to do it and that he didn't want me to do it again. I thought this judge was going to preside over my trial. What happened to the presumption of innocence?"

Andress asked from his cell.

Sheriff Connie Reed said he understands the preacher's protest.
"No one likes nuclear weapons. Even the people who work out there say they hope they're never used. "But he broke the law." Reed said.

Brines also discovered where a five-gallon fuel can had rested in the snow near the truck. He could not tell if it was a plastic or metal can.

The single set of tracks also led away from the truck. The person appeared to be moving in such a hurry that he came very close to falling over the edge of the cliff before turning back up the hill toward the road, but apparently saw the drop - off in the moonlight just in

But these answers only led to more questions for Sheriff Brines.

Why did someone what to destroy the truck, or did he? Only the cab and one front tire were burned. The hot oil unit did not appear to be touched by the fire.

According to the insurance adjuster. Ivan Stone of Pampa, the tractor was not badly hurt by the impact of crashing into the ravine. But the fire, which he said happened " a couple of days later," did burn it out pretty badly. He did not know what caused the who would do it, and why? That part may remain a mystery as long as the involved parties choose not to pursue the investigation, but The Pampa News learned a few interesting facts.

According to Linda Doran, agent in charge of the Colorado accounts for Crown Insurance Agency in Albuquerque, the truck was insured. But she would not say what kind of accident, but did not know the tractor Khadafy promises blood and fire if navy enters Sidra

The Libyan regime of Col. Moammar Khadafy on Saturday charged U.S. spy planes and warships were jamming Libyan communications and threatened to turn the Gulf of Sidra into a bay of "blood and fire" if the 6th Fleet carrier Nimitz entered its waters.

The Tripoli government also said Libyan jet fighters intercepted and forced a foreign aircraft to withdraw from skies over Libyan waters. It denied U.S. and Sudanese charges that Libya was massing jets and troops near Sudan's borders.

Libya's official JANA news agency said U.S. Navy vessels and Airborne Warning and Control Systems "spy aircraft." known as AWACS, started "jamming civil communications" in Libya on Friday.

The dispatch, monitored in Rome, provided no other details of the alleged jamming.

Pentagon sources say the United States has four AWACS in Eygpt to counter what it says are Libyan threats to Sudan. But the White House, the State Department and the Defense Department declined to comment on the Libyan charge. The Libyan dispatch said that on Wednesday "an aerial target made an incursion over our territorial water 80 kilometers (50 miles) from the city of Benghazi but our air force intecepted it and forced it to retreat.' Benghazi is on the northeastern edge of the Gulf of Sidra, a wide bay in the southern Mediterranean that Libya calls its own but the United States considers international water. Two jet fighters from the Nimitz downed two Libyan warplanes over the gulf in 1981 after the Libvan planes fired missiles at them. JANA gave no further details of the latest encounter and did not specify the nationality of the aircraft. But it seemed likely the Libyans were referring to an American plane since the dispatch dealt solely with what it called "U.S. aggression" over the gulf.

Last Thursday, Pentagon sources in Washington said Libyan planes flew out toward the Nimitz earlier in the week, and that U.S. planes from the Nimitz were aloft at the time. But they said no direct confrontations occurred.

The Nimitz has been maneuvering off the northwest Egyptian coast near the Gulf of Sidra to counter what Pentagon sources say is a Libyan military buildup apparently aimed at Sudan.

Libya has been threatening to take military action against any foreign ships in the gulf, and the dispatch Saturday said Khadafy's army would bring "blood and fire" to the gulf if the Nimitz enters it.

13 die in slayings in Seattle's Chinatown

By DUFF WILSON

SEATTLE (AP) - Police pried open the doors of an exclusive Chinatown gambling club Saturday and found 12 men and a woman, most bound and shot in the head in the worst mass killing in Seattle history.

Police speculated robbery might have been the motive, but Capt. Mike Slessman would say only the "very methodical" killings appeared to be the work of more than one person.

Within hours of the discovery at the Wah Mee Club, police artested two men on suspicion of homicide, and a third was being questioned, said police spokesman Gary Flynn. He declined to provide details. Police went to the club shortly after midnight after a > Slessman said. Dr. Gary Bonnell, King County deputy medical examiner, said the victims were Asian, ranging from "the 20s as far up as 60s and 70s." Eleven were found in the main room and the body of another man, who was not bound, was found in the office, Bonnell said. "Some were shot once and others shot multiple times," he

Only people of Chinese ancestry were allowed into the club, and had to be recognized to gain entry, said Slessman, indicating the victims may have known their assailants.

One resident of the neighborhood who asked to remain unidentified said the Wah Mee club operated in the same location for 20 years.

passer-by reported seeing a wounded man in an alley. The nded man, who also had been shot in the head and was caused grain prices to increase PIK program

By BOB FICK

WASHINGTON (AP) - Feed grain farmers may already be reaping the benefits of President Reagan's program to cut crop surpluses, even though they still have three weeks to decide whether they'll take part. Agriculture Department analysts say that since Reagan announced the payment-in-kind, or PIK, program on Jan. 11, corn prices have jumped 30 cents to 35 cents a bushel. Much of that increase, they said in a report issued Friday. is due to "expectations that participation in the acreage reduction and PIK programs for feed grains will be moderate to heavy."

Farmers also seem to be pulling more corn off the open market, insulating it from immediate sale by putting it under restrictive loan contracts, the analysis said. Those moves are further tightening supplies available, or free, for immediate sale and subsequently pushing prices higher.

"Unless actual participation (in PIK), which will be reported March 22, proves these expectations wrong, cash corn and sorghum cash prices should continue to rise during the spring and summer." the analysts said.

Earlier this week, another USDA report gave a preliminary indication of farmer participation in the PIK program, showing that producers now intend to make substantial reductions in planted arces this year just as Reagan has called for.

In another report issued Friday, the department said the outlook for the critical Western water supply appears good to excellent. Recent storms along the coast have made up for below normal overall snowfall, which provides 75 percent of the western water supply.

If the West experiences near normal weather through the rest of winter and spring, only Colorado, Montana, Wyoming and possibly Utah will see below normal water conditions. the report said.

Four hurt in Austin when Klansmen are stoned

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN (AP) - At least four people were injured Saturday as hundreds of becklers threw rocks and debris at robed Ku Klux Klan marchers who circled the state Capitol.

The Klan march came four hours after a peaceful demonstration earlier Saturday by anti-Klan organizations. The Austin City Council granted parade permits for both rallies.

About 50 Klansmen, some with shields and helmets. marched to the Capitol from a nearby park. The short route was lined with hecklers - as many as 1,500, according to Larry Todd of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Two Austin policeman and one DPS trooper were taken to a hospital after being hit with debris thrown by hecklers. DPS director James Adams said Lt. Ken Bertling was hit under the chin with a rock.

A reporter was hit in the face by a nightstick as police tried to move back the crowd.

The Klan rally on the Capitol grounds was drowned out by the shouting crowd. Klan leader James Stansfield of Channelview, Texas, used a bullhorn, but could not outshout the crowd. Hecklers tumult to spit at the

The hecklers followed the Klansmen as they went to the back of the Capitol. Helmeted police - including 150 Austin policemen called in for the day - shielded the Klansmen from the crowd, but not from the rocks

Todd said there were no reports of injuries to Klansmen or people in the forced their way through the crowd. A knife hurled at Klansmen hit a photographer on the shoulder.

Rev. Frank Garrett Jr., a anti-Klan rally organizer. told the crowd of about 1,000 on the Capitol grounds that the anti-Klan rally was one of "love and aggravation."

'The love illustrates that here in Austin, Texas, people of color don't need out-of-towners coming down to tell us how to get along." Garrett said.

He said ignoring the Klan rally would "put an exclamation point on our efforts."

But other speakers said the Klan should not be ignored.

When I first got the phone call, I was sure the man was trying to sell me something, and got defensive right away. "Is this 665----?" he

"Yes." I said hesitantly. "We picked your number at random out of the phone book..." he began.

Then, as he explained, I began to like the phone call. He was with Arbitron Ratings Service, the television and radio ratings service that viewers and listeners always hear about in commericals. I'd heard. but never felt like anybody cared what I liked, because my favorite shows were always cancelled.

"Is this my chance to let the television industry know what I like?" I asked. He said it was indeed. After I agreed to participate in the survey. he asked me if anybody in my household worked in radio or television, and I said no. Once that was settled, he asked for my name and address. (I'd never realized he hadn't

My diary arrived in the mail shortly before the first of February, with complete instructions on how to fill it out. I was to record everything I watched on television for one week. February 2 through the 9.

The diary made me skeptical, until I read the page that answered the "most asked" questions. No. a person does not have to watch a lot of television to be a good Arbitron subject, just record what is watched and when. welcome to fill in the diary. and there was even a space on the form for "televsion on, no one watching. Arbitron seemed to give American television viewers every option for filling out the diary.

Since I spent a lot of time away from the house at work. my diary was filled in for fewer hours than someone who is at home more of the time. But I learned one thing from filling in the diary--I am a television addict

Turning on the television before you turn on the lights never seemed outrageous to me before. even when it meant tripping over the furniture in the dark to get to the tv. Through the diary. I realized that the televsion is on more often than not in my house. I also became acutely aware of what I watched as well. But I didn't fall into the old trap of trying to watch "educational" or "status" television to prove to Arbitron that I was smart or had terribly large amounts of class. If I watched Gomer Pyle reruns. I said so

If my company wanted to Hazzard, it was reported. But I didn't feel obligated to watch tv. either. If there was nothing worth watching. I didn't turn the set on just for the sake of the diary.

My choices didn't change much. I still watched my favorites when I was home. and added the ones I missed during the week to the list of comments attached to the last page of the diary.

So for a week I felt special to the tv industry. as if they cared what I had

OBEDIENCE FROM THE HEART

"Know ye not, that to whom ye present yourselves as servants unto obedience, his servants ye are whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or obedience unto righteousness? But thanks be to God, that whereas ye were servants of sin, ye became obedient from the heart to that form of teaching whereunto ye were delivered; and being made free from sin, ye became servants of right-eousness." (Romans 6:16-18) Jesus Christ is the author of eternal salvation to all them that obey Him (Heb. 5:9). But that obedience must be from the heart of man. From the heart means from the very depths of a man, or complete obedience.

The Roman Christians had obeyed from the heart the doctrine presented to them. The only doctrine or or teaching that could free them from sin is the gospel (Rom. 1:16; John 8:32). And so the two essential ingredients for salvation are the gospel of Christ on the one hand and man's com-plete obedience by faith on the other. When the two are united, that is, when man learns the truth, believes the truth and obeys the truth from the heart, he is freed from servitude to sin and becomes a servant of Jesus Christ.

Since it is from the heart of man, then it is by his own free-will. No one forces a person to obey the Lord. This he must do of his own accord. In the qualifications of discipleship, our Lord made it clear that one must completely obey Him or not at all (Matt. 16:24-26; Lk. 14:25-33). Jesus Christ will not account partial on hypographical abeliance. not accept partial or hypocritical obedience.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Anthony Randles Managing Editor

Foreign aid not beneficial

U.S. Treasury Undersecretary Beryl Sprinkel has reminded industrialized Europe that the best way to help less developed nations is to foster the West's economic growth and encourage world trade. He's right in the sense that the best way to fight poverty is with Sprinkel chose an ironic location for his statement: a high - level meeting in Paris called to pump more money into the International Monetary Fund to bail out debt ridden Third World countries. The setting, and the fact that Sprinkel's remarks were so unusual as to be considered newsworthy, may indicate the pervasiveness of the aid mentality. Those who want to help engage in some rethinking. The few Third World success stories indicate that foreign aid has not only been unnecessary, it has been a deterrent to economic development.

While many nations languish in poverty and send diplomats to the U.N. to chorus "share the wealth," Hong Kong, to Singapore, Taiwan and South Korea have achieved economic growth largely through free markets. These countries are not utopian examples of laissez faire; all have problems, poverty and overweening governments. South Korea has borrowed moderately from the World Bank and other international institutions. Taiwan is now frozen out of them, while Hong Kong and Singapore hardly use them at all. But in each of them one key ingredient of progress - the hope of expectation, even among the lower economic classes, that tomorrow can be better - has not been lost.

Some would agree that Taiwan and South Korea are prosperous today because they received massive infusions of aid from the U.S. In a recent article in The Wall Street Journal, Melvyn Krauss, professor of economics at New York University and auther of "Development Without Aid," writes that "this argument is not only incorrect, but the reverse of what actually happened...Rather than prepare the Taiwanese and South Korean economies for takeoff, foreign aid threatened to ground them permanently.

Krauss shows that aid to Taiwan in the early 1950s was concentrated on "infrastructure" investment like power plants, transportation and communication facilities. The theory was that these would provide a "launching pad" for a private - sector boom. What actually happened was that as public - sector investment grew, private fixed capital formation fell during 1954 - 58 from 56 to 41 percent of overall investment. Meanwhile (partly because of protectionism) annual growth in manufacturing from 1953 to 1958 fell from 22 to 10 percent. Taiwan was becoming economically stagnant and dangerously dependent on foreign aid.

Similarly in South Korea, massive U.S. aid fostered corruption but not growth. Between 1953 and 1963 U.S. economic aid accounted for 95.9 percent of Korean total domestic investment and 75.6 percent of government expenditures. Fully a fifth of the projects financed by this aid proved unsound, studies have shown. Korean per capita GNP during these 10 years grew at only 1.9 percent annually.

After U.S. aid to South Korea was scaled down in the 1970s, the country's GNP growth rate tripled. Taiwan's most impressive spurt has occurred since U.S. economic aid was virtually eliminated in 1965. Krauss explains: "In short, so long as generous U.S. aid was forthcoming, Taiwan and South Korea could forego private - capital import and export promotion for foreign exchange purposes. But when the aid was discontinued, the generation of foreign exchange by private capital became critical." Prosperity followed.

International bankers and politicians are now worried about debts held by Third World countries. If they studied the few economic success stories in today's world, they might conclude that the most helpful and -compassionate policy in the long run would be cut off government aid and challenge these countries to take the shackles off the private sectors that are struggling to -Pmerge.

Best book of the year

By ART BUCHWALD

The most important book published in Washington this year is titled, "The Budget of the U.S. Government Fiscal

I haven't had time to read it myself, though I've browsed through it to see if my name was mentioned. But I asked a friend who reviews fiction and nonfiction for The Washington Post what he thought of it.

"It's the best book I've read this year," he said. "Frankly, I think it's going to be another 'Winds of War."

"That good, huh?"

"I couldn't put it down. I kept turning the pages to see what government program would be cut next. It's more frightening than 'Rosemary's Baby."

"You mean it's a thriller?

"More of a whodunnit. Or, specivically, who's doing it to whom. It's about money and power, the struggle for survival, death and taxes and man's fate in a world he never "Any sex?"

'The military chapters are very sexy, particularly the love scenes between the President of the U.S. and the new weapons that the Pentagon has seduced him into buying." "You mean the President of the U.S. is in bed with the military - industrial complex?" "All through the book. Some of the scenes between them are so hot, that Tip O'Neill has threatened to ban the book in Boston.' "Does the President's wife know he's in love with the new

"Everybody knows. But the President says he has to do it in the name of national security."

"Is that the main plot?"

"No, it's just one of the subplots. The main plot is about a rich Uncle, who has lost so much of his money that he is down and out and in debt up to his ears."

"How did he fall on such bad times?"

"He was caught up in a recession and couldn't pay his bills. Finally he got so sick that the President's doctors had to operate to save his life. They cut everything down to the bone, and froze everything they couldn't cut."

"In the book he does. The President's doctors maintain they just removed the fat, and although the patient will have to sufer pain, it's the only way he can get well. The White House doctors admit the medicine they've prescribed is a bitter pill to swallow, but the Uncle is now on the mend." "That makes sense to me.

"The only problem is that Democratic doctors who have read the book claim the President's surgeons have cut out the Uncle's vital organs to save his life. In its present form they find the plot not very believable, and they're calling for changes in the next edition before they buy it."

"Everybody's a critic. What book would you compare this work with?'

"The first one that comes to mind is "The Grapes of Wrath,' though of course it's not written as well. The poor, the sick and the old ones are the ones who get hurt the most."

"It sounds depressing. I'm not sure I want to read it." "You have to because that's all people will be talking about this spring. "Well tell me this. Does it have an upbeat ending?"

"All budget books written by a President have an upbeat ending. This one predicts in 1986 the Uncle will be fully recovered and regain his fortune again. And everyone will

Driving Me Crazy

I have written your office in Gray County, Texas, several times during the past year and one half. However, due to the ever deteriorating of the U.S. Mail System inside the Texas Department of Correction, I knew beyond a doubt that I would receive a poor quality forgery of your newspaper should I hear at all.

No doubt you are indeed well informed of the poor educational qualities of the employee population at the Goree - Unit of the T.D.C. and you may rest assured that it shall never be any better under the present administration in Travis County (Austin) as well as the Main Unit located in Walker County, Huntsville, Texas. I at first thought the poor quality forgery of newspapers etc., that have been mailed to me personally were on purpose, however I am actually beginning to believe that the ones in this county that do this sort of forgery have pilled, or I should say medicated, to the extent that they may actually believe that we the people inside this Texas Department of Correction that flatly refuse this experimental daily pill line are far from being insane and will probably remain in our right mind unless tricked into the taking of this narcotic that does indeed go with the everyday machines brought into this Unit with the approval of the Honorable Mark White, Governor of the State of Texas and a very poor example of any honorable Texan and a member of a party system that no doubt will be remembered generations to come as the everlasting deterioration of the State of Texas, but not to the extent of full-repair by those that have educational qualities as well as a clear mind that functions without medication that builds phony muscles in the head as well as body. A muscle head as Governor of the State of Texas is all that remains un - fullfilled in the experimental society of actually nothing whatsoever for any citizen of this state, his son or grandson.

I have been moved for a set-up by the ever-roaming employees of this Goree Unit over 25 times in the past year and one half, yet I remain alive. But you may believe that I have suffered to the extent of almost insanity and cannot in any way be moved to yet another unit of this system or can I be denied in Texas State Criminal Court of Appeals in Travis County. Texas to further my Louisiana and possibly denied even in the federal system of the U.S., however I seriously

I, of course, know beyond any douot that I will not receive an answer from you or any me ber of your staff, however I might possibly receive yet? ...ner poor quality forgery of your newspaper printed by se goofballs roaming blanks that have for the most pan of life of forever hustling medication and machine deterioration of a mind that is actually blank from early childhood.

Please excuse this poorly typed correspondence as the ever-roaming pilling machine makes a clear readable letter almost an impossibility and darned hard on any stretched Mickey Mouse ears.

Sincerely hope that this finds you as well as your family and staff in the upmost physical and mental condition of a society of clear thinking

Passage of bills

There are several bills pending in the State Legislature which are very important to our children of divorced parents, to the parents and to the grandparents. I would like to use this means of bringing them to the attention of your readers, and to urge people to contact their representatives in Austin regarding the need for passage of these bills.

It would be wise to also contact Lt. Gov. William Hobby and Gov. Mark White, asking for their assistance in getting these bills through the legislature and enacted into law.

Two of the bills are: House Bill No. 367 by Alan Schoolcraft relating to joint managing conservatorship of children; and, Senate Bill No 79 by Chet Brooks - relating to the rights of grandparents to have access to their grandchildren.

Among others to be considered are: SB No. 45 by Ray Farabee, HB No. 94 by Matt Garcia and HB No 262 by Rollin

If you wish to read the bills before voicing your concern, you may obtain a copy by calling Senate Bill Distribution 475 - 2520; House Bill Distribution 475 - 8452 (there will be a small charge for copies) or by contacting the Austin office of the sponsoring legislator.

Address for senators, governor and lieutenant governor: P.O. Box 12068, Capitol Station, Austin Texas 78711; for representatives: P.O. Box 2910, Austin 78769.

For the name of the senator representing your district, call: 475-4271; for representative in House, call: 475-2213. The time is now - these bills are in committee or probably will be shortly.

Don't Dig

I am writing to ask Pampa area residents to do themselves and their neighbors a favor: check with the telephone company before digging near posted cable warning signs.

Last year, Southwestern Bell telephone cable repair costs in Texas totaled almost $5 million for more than 6,000 incidents of cable cuts and damage.

Sometimes, cable damage affects only a few people and can be repaired quickly. All too often, however, cable damage means loss of telephone service to major sections of cities or even entire communities. Cable cuts sometimes isolate hospitals, police and fire departments.

A large number of long distance transcontinental coaxial cables run through Texas. These cables daily carry vital long distance telephone messages and data communications to millions of businesses and people. When those cables are cut, long distance calls are routed in other ways if possible, but a jammed network can result, affecting many callers.

A suggestion for anyone planning digging activities: before plowing building fences or terraces, installing sprinklers, landscaping or digging, please look for telephone company cable warning signs. Also, please watch out for aerial cable when working with tall equipment.

The cable warning signs display a telephone number that may be called to notify the telephone company of any work planned near cable routes.

When we receive a call, we will promptly send someone to pinpoint the exact cable location. We do bill for damage to our cables, and the repair bills can be quite costly.

Please call before work begins near telephone cable. In Texas, ask the operator for the Enterprise 9800 number to report planned digging activities. If a sign is posted for AT&T Long Lines cable, the number to use the COLLECT (214) 824 - 4400

A simple free phone call is the best insurance to help us protect the most convenient and reliable telephone network

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO Staff Writer

Cindy Diana leans half her body inside a diesel engine, and she all but disappears. When she crawls into the cab of a Halliburton truck that's tipped forward, she's lost.

At 5'4" tall and 110 pounds, she is the smallest and lightest mechanic in the Pampa Halliburton shop. She's also the only woman.

Aside from women in dispatch, timekeeping and reception, the only other woman in the Pampa Halliburton camp is a lab techinician who works in the field, she says. But she doesn't feel out of place or "strange" in the shop anymore.

When she first came to Pampa two years ago, she admits that she was not her usual outgoing self, a little quieter than usual. But she'd been a lone woman at Halliburton for nearly three years before she came here.

"I was real quiet. I thought I had to watch what I said."

She wasn't the only one who thought she had to watch what she said. The men she worked with were quieter, too, she says. They thought they couldn't swear around her or act "rough".

"I used to hear 'There's a lady out on location.' The guys used to watch what they said on frac (fracturing) location."

But now she's "one of the guys" in the Pampa camp. and while her co-workers sometimes kid her about her size or being a woman. for the most part, she says, they realize she can do the job and don't tease her about that.

"She does a pretty good job for us," says her shop foreman, Waylan Thurman.

Cindy started her career with Halliburton in Rock Springs.

Wyo. on March 28, 1978. Her stepmother was secretary to the camp superintendent, and told her when there was an opening for wash rack help in the shop.

"With me being a tomboy and all, she kept her ears open for me."

She started as a wash rack hand, then became a grease rack hand, and within three months she had been promoted to mechanic. The Rock Springs camp had hired a large number of people because business was booming, she said, and because the company was starting a preventive maintenance program for its vehicles.

When work slacked off at Rock Springs, she was one of several people given a choice of transferring instead of getting laid off, so she transferred to Halliburton's Glendive, Mont. camp.

After a year and a half in Glendive, she and her husband Andy, whom she met in Montana, decided they wanted a change of scenery. They were told if they could find a camp to take both of them, they could transfer.

"We called everywhere, including Perryton and Pampa," Perryton had a place for one of them, but not both. Pampa also had a place, and they talked the management into taking both of them on. They drove down from Montana on a weekend, and discovered Pampa was "a lot different than up north."

Since Cindy was born and raised in Wyoming, Pampa was quite a change for her. But she fell right into her job and began the process of becoming accepted by her bosses and co-workers.

"Hiring her was a new experience," Thurman said. "She's had to make her place."

But Pampa camp superintendent Don Sheppard says the fact that she's a woman doesn't present a problem at all.

Now. after two years, she's a fixture in the Pampa shop, and she says she doesn't feel any different than any of the other mechanics. But her size does make some difference, she says

"I'm not big enough for some jobs," she says, "but I'll try it a couple of times first, and if I can't do it then I'll ask for belo."

However, sometimes her smallness does make a positive difference, because it enables her to do things her co-workers can't do.

"I'm glad I'm small, or I wouldn't fit in smaller places. Sometimes one of the guys will say 'You've got small hands, come here and do this,' or 'Come here and get in this small space, you're small."

Although Andy doesn't work for Halliburton anymore, he does do mechanic work, but they don't usually argue about mechanics

"Sometimes I'll come home and say 'I can't do this' or something, and he'll help me," Cindy says.

Andy doesn't claim to have taught her mechanics or watched her work a lot, but says, "from drivers I know. everybody says she's a good mechanic."

Cindy doesn't think women in the oilfield are all that "I like mechanicing, and I'm too hyper to sit behind a desk."

"Everytime we turned around in the old yard, we'd be in water," she says.

The job does have a few drawbacks. She changes shifts every week, and she is on 24-hour call one week out of six.

This week the Pampa Nursing Center was informed by the Department of Health it has been awarded another superior rating for the second straight year, based on a grading system that covers all phases of the nursing home.

Last year, the Pampa Nursing Center was one of five nursing homes in the Panhandle, out of more than 100 in the area, to receive this rating. This year, with a minimum 95 points required for this rating, the home earned 113

Groucho's comments heard in court

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Comments made by Groucho Marx two years before he died, expressing trust in his live-in companion Erin Fleming, were read to jurors in the comedian's estate trial before the case recessed for a long holiday weekend

Attorney David Sabih, representing Miss Fleming, read questions and answers given in a deposition July 8, 1975, when Marx was embroiled in a lawsuit over fees for some of Friday's testimony recalled Marx's acerbic wit and demonstrated that the comedian was still wisecracking at the age of 84.

In a session with a young attorney. Marx said, "You're not going to get any of my money and you can leave now if you Asked about Miss Fleming's role in his life. Marx said.

When asked more specifically about her duties. Marx replied. "It's none of your business what she does for me." Asked whether she could hire and fire members of his staff, the comedian replied. "She has the ability to fire anyone she doesn't approve of, including you.

When asked if Miss Fleming had power of attorney to sign Marx's name, the comedian relied, "Yes, I trust her."

Several times, he told the attorney that matters being discussed were "none of your business."

Miss Fleming is being sued by the Bank of America for the return of $400.000 in cash and gifts which it claims she obtained through abuse of the frail comedian who died in 1977 at the age of 86.

A different privacy issue was raised earlier Friday as the trial judge scolded a lawyer for the Marx estate for extended questions about the comedian's sexual impotence and

"It's most unfortunate when a person is dead that he shouldn't have any privacy as to any of his bodily functions. and I deplore it," said Superior Court Judge Jacqueline Weiss.

Poison found in Florida water source

TALLAHASSEE. Fla. (AP) - State officials say the pesticide Temik has shown up in a well fed by the Floridan Aquifer, the main drinking water source for almost three-fourths of Florida

"There is reason for concern since this is the first time we have found Temik in a deep well whose water sources is one of the state's main aquifers." said Dr. Stephen King, state health officer

The Volusia Cou ity well is about 240 feet deep

King, however, said Friday that water from the private well is still drinkable because the contamination is below limits set by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Initial tests conducted Feb. 1 by state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services showed 5.5 parts per billion of the pesticide. Those results were confirmed Wednesday by a Department of Agriculture laboratory. The EPA limit is 10 parts per billion

We will immediately begin testing other wells in the area to see if this is an isolated occurrence or indicative of a larger problem." King said.

The new finding was announced by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services and the state Department of Environmental Regulation

The Floridan Aquifer is a layer of porous rock containing fresh water at depths ranging from less than 100 feet to 1,000 feet below the ground's surface. It stretches from the Florida Panhandle to Lake Okeechobee.

Until now, Temik, commonly used as a pesticide on citrus and potato plants. has been found only in shallow wells feeding from run-off rather than aquifers.

Soybean farmer found guilty of contempt

- A federal judge said he could understand the from the bench. He called frustration and anger of Puxico. Mo., farmer Wayne Cryts, but had to find him guilty of civil contempt of court

Farmers seem ready to curtail production

By BOB FICK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -With market prices tumbling because of surpluses built on past overproduction, the nation's farmers seem ready to significantly curtail their 1983 crops under the programs offered by the Reagan administration.

In what is the first indication of how producers are viewing those schemes that could take up to half the farmland out of production. the Agriculture Department reports growers of commodities already in massive oversupply plan 15 to 32 percent reductions in the acreage they plant this year.

We've seen a lot of enthusiasm for the program. but we've had concern about what farmers' plans really are." Assistant Agriculture Secretary Dawson Ahalt said Thursday after the planting projections were issued.

The numbers that are in the report are reasonably close to the estimates for plantings that we had projected," said Ahalt, who is in charge of USDA's crop reduction program that includes the swap of free

But a lot can still happen." Ahalt added, "and the thing we have to hammer home to farmers is not to sit back after seeing a report like this and say, 'Ah-ha, my neighbor's getting so in 1 won't.' Farmers have got to take their individual commitment seriously."

Producers have until March 11 to decide whether to take part in the acreage reduction programs, which are intended to significantly curb this year's harvest so the huge grain and fiber stockpiles can be used up.

Specifically, the planting intentions report, based on a Jan. 25 to Feb. 4 survey of

In order that farmers might have information to help them maximize income, minimize cost and make the most rational marketing decisions when participating in the newly announced USDA PIK program, two area - wide meetings have been set.

Paul Gross and Mrs. Sue Farris, District I Extension directors; Sam Cook, ASCS district director; and Otis Harman, Texas Wheat Producers Association president, indicated the two sessions have been scheduled as follows:

-Wednesday, Feb. 23 Dumas, 10 a.m. until noon, Moore County Community Building, 16th and Maddox.

-Wednesday, Feb. 23 Amarillo, 2 to 4 p.m., Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd., West.

Bill Nelson, executive vice president of Texas Wheat Producers Association, will moderate the duplicate programs. Dr. Ed Smith. Extension grain marketing economist, will discuss the current grain situation. PIK program considerations and farmers participation worksheet

Management of PIK grazeout acres will be discussed by Dr. John McNeill, Extension area beef cattle specialist, and Dr. Wyatt Harman, research economist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Amarillo, will discuss managing PIK and RAP diversion acres.

The program whould help farmers have a better understanding of the economics involved with PIK participation for their own farm operation.

All the sessions are open to the public and interested individuals are urged to attend.

TIME FOR SOIL TEST

Heavy snows, wet soils and cold weather has delayed soil sampling for area farmers. Soil sampling and fertilizing has also been delayed because farmers have been trying to determine their participation in the government farm program. Do not let these delays raise your 1983 production cost this

Our farm economics is such that producers can not afford to blindly add fertilizer for the 1983 crop. There is still time and the laboratories have computerized their reporting systems for faster sample turn around.

The best time for sampling is just before the field is dry enough to handle tractor traffic. Later everyone will be in a dead run to get their land prepared, so be ready to start your production acres on the right foot. To get a good soil test, a good soil sample is essential. Obtain 10 to 15 samples taken from the surface down to six inches deep. Mix these samples in a plastic bucket. Then take about two - thirds to three - fourths of a pint of the sample soil and mail to the soild testing laboratgory for testing. Be sure to complete a crop information sheet on each sample of soil submitted. This aids the soil chemist to generate a better fertilizer recommendation for your farm.

Information sheets, sample bags for mailing and additional information on soil testing is available at the county Extension office in the Gray County Courthouse

With increased muddy conditions on farms and ranches due to the winter weather, footrot becomes a problem in cattle All breeds are susceptible and the disease can affect cattle on pasture as well as in confinement lots

Tissue - destroying footrot is caused by an anaerobic germ, which means it lives in the absence of oxygen. The germ thrives in wet, dark places such as mud and wet

Early detection and treatment are important. The germ enters foot tissue through small cuts or bruises. then multiplies under the skin and in outer tissues. Other organisms can then move into the wound and increase the infection

4-H METHOD DEMONSTRATIONS

Have you been looking for a way to do something new and different as part of your 4 - H project? Think about giving a method demonstration or an illustrated talk. Both are simply ways of showing others how to make or do something and to share useful knowledge. You will find that it's fun showing others what you've learned.

Giving method demonstrations have some side benefits which include: improved poublic speaking skills, more confidence in yourself and more opportunity to do things in subjects of interest to meetings, or at county and district contests.

When choosing a topic, select a subject which you are interested in learning more about. Then gather several kinds of printed material that will help you understand the subject better. In many cases, you can find information in your 4 - H project guides. magazines or books. Visit with project leaders, Extension Agents or with people who work with the kinds of things about which you will be talking.

Now organize the material you've gathered into a presentation. Posters, models, or visuals will help keep their attentiohn

The County Method Demonstration contest will be April 23, and the district contest will be May 3. If you plan to enter, please contact the Extension office by April 18. If you have any questions about method demonstrations, or if you need help gathering resource material or preparing the demonstration, contact the county Extgension agents. "We recognize reality." says Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., whose state accounts for a quarter of the nation's milk producers.

Congress tried to bring the mounting dairy surplus problem under control last year when it authorized Agriculture Secretary John Block to levy a 50-cent assessment on every hundred pounds of milk produced beginning Dec. 1.

That assessment would effectively reduce the price

the theory being that lower prices would force reduced production.

At the same time, the income from it could underwrite hundreds of millions of dollars in the cost of price supports that are running in excess of $2 billion

But the plan has not been accepted by the industry and it has run into legal problems that have blocked collection of the fee from almost the day it was imposed.

Meanwhile, American dairymen have continued producing at a record pace even though demand for milk and dairy products remains well below the supplies

Last year, milk production hit 136 billion pounds, the third straight record year. and the trend continued in January, according to USDA statistics, with monthly production, number of cows and milk per cow all running ahead of last year's record

"Faced with the ineffectiveness of price cuts alone as a method of reducing surplus dairy production, we will introduce a plan that will provide the necessary incentive and financial return for dairy farmers to cut production while adequately maintaining their family dairy operations," Proxmire and the rest of the Wisconsin have declared.

Some have proposed repealing the assessment provisions completely, but the Wisconsin delegation is introducing legislation that would take the revenues from that assessment and give them back to dairymen who actually reduce their production this year from their 1982 levels. A plan based on the same principle is also being pushed by the National Milk Producers Federation.

"The 50-cent assessment is here to stay," Rep. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis., said Wednesday, but he said using it to finance cash payments to dairymen curtailing production "provides an incentive to cull cows not cull

Hearings are expected in the next few weeks on alternatives to the current assessment program with congressional action all but assured because of the worsening surplus situation that threatens the future of the entire price support

Under the incentive payment plan, dairymen will receive regular price support protection for all their production and continue returning the 50-cent assessment for every hundred pounds.

But those agreeing to reduce production at least 5 percent from the 1982 level will get $10 for every hundred pounds they don't produce.

By JOE VanZANDT County Extension Agent FRUIT TREES NEED

ANNUAL "LUBE" JOB Have you given your fruit and nut trees their annual "lube" job? This refers, of course, to an application of dormant oil to control scale insects and mite eggs.

Why control scale insects? The answer is simply to save the tree. If a scale insect such as the San Jose scale or white peach gets started, it could kill you tree.

Dormant oil can be purchased at many different stores where garden supplies are sold. Be sure to follow all label directions and apply the mixture when the temperature is between 40 and 70 degrees F. Do not apply if a freeze is likely within 48 hours after application, and do not apply after the tree has budded out. Dormant oil is applied when the tree is dormant. Spraying flowers and leaves could cause leaf burn and flower drop. Scale insects are difficult for most people to detect, so dormant oil should be applied once each year. Sooner or later your tree will probably be attacked by scale insects. so be ready by guarding against them with an application of dormant oil LEACH SALTS FROM

LAWNS AND GARDENS Homeowners that had soils from lawns and gardens testing high in soluble salts now is the time to leach these salts downward. Generally, it takes about 10 to 15 inches of water to move salts downward. The recent snow will make the soil more permeable thus allowing the salts to be leached with less water. If a homeowner follows this advice, they should have the soil rechecked for soil nitrogen levels. The nitrate - nitrogen will be leached from the soil. FLOURESCENT LIGHTS

FOR GROWING

TRANSPLANTS Now is the time to assemble a plant - growing setup with flourescent lights for starting plants. A relatively small unit will allow you to raise all the flower and vegetable plants you need, unless you have an especially large garden.

You may purchase a rack with three or four moveable shelves, which is attractive enough to be installed in a family room or enclosed porch. Or, you may hang one or more fixtures over a bench or table in the basement, garage, or tool shed; in fact almost any place in which te temperature can be controlled will do.

The most common unit is a four - foot reflector with two 40 - watt tubes. The four - foot length is more efficient than those which are two feet long. because less light is given off near the ends of the tube.

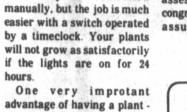

Good light balance will be secured by using a daylight tube and a soft white or natural tube in each fixture. Gro - Lux tubes give excellent light for plant growth and are usually preferred. They give off a pink glow which causes plant leaves to appear darker and pink flowers to look red The flourscent tubes should be located about six inches above the top of your plants.

The garage is an ideal place for a flourescent plant growing setup. Water is usually available from a nearby outlet. Two years later, poisoned oil deaths continue

By SUSAN LINNEE Associated Press Writer

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Nearly two years after 8-year-old Jaime Vaquero Garcia collapsed with excruciating stomach pains, they continue to die - victims of what is known here as "the toxic syndrome," a medical mystery that has already claimed more than 300 lives.

Avelina Ambres Menendez was victim number 338. Four days before she died. Mrs. Ambres asked a photographer to take her picture in her hospital bed and make sure it was

"They say I'll be out of here soon and walking again," the 40-year-old woman told a reporter from the daily newspaper El Pais. "I don't believe it."

Recovery has begun

By The Associated Press

New reports on jobless claims, factory use and auto layoffs gave more evidence that the recovery has begun, while Ford Motor Co. announced its third straight unprofitable year with 1982 losses reaching $657.8 million.

According to three reports issued Thursday, claims for unemployment benefits were down, factory use was up and the number of autoworkers on layoff has declined

Initial claims for unemployment benefits fell 7,000 to a total of 510,000 in the first week of February, the Labor Department said. Claims had risen the previous two weeks but had fallen sharply just before that.

Allen Gutheim, a senior economist with the private research firm Wharton Econometrics, said recovery should mean increases in employment before long. But he also said the sational unemployment rate could still rise slightly from January's 10.4 percent of the civilian work force before

In Detroit, the major U.S. automakers said the number of workers on indefinite layoff dipped to 260,050 this week from 264,350 the previous week, and that the number should decline Again next week since the companies plan production boosts. U.S. manufacturers overall operated at 67.8 percent of capacity in January, up one-half percentage point from December's 67.3 percent, which had been the lowest rate ever recorded, the Federal Reserve Board said

Mrs. Ambres died Feb. 11 in the intensive care unit of King's Hospital. She had first entered the hospital in May 1981 with respiratory problems and partial paralysis in her arms and

She was among the thousands of Spaniards who bought and consumed toxic industrial rapeseed oil, labeled as "pure olive oil" and sold door-to-door in the working class neighborhoods of Madrid and other cities in the center of Spain. At less than half the normal selling price, it seemed a bargain for a product that is a staple of the Spanish diet.

The day after Mrs. Ambres died, the death toll climbed again. Petra Sandoval Gomez died in the intensive care unit of

According to Ministry of Health officials, 80 people remain hospitalized throughout Spain after having consumed the poisoned oil. More than 20,000 were initially affected.

Five people are still in intensive care units. Doctors say there is no antidote for the poison and no cure for the debilitating effects on those who survive.

It was an official at Madrid's Nino de Jesus Children's Hospital, Dr. Juan Tubuenca, who first linked the deaths with the contaminated oil. He questioned parents of child victims. who at the time were thought to have contracted an "atypical pneumonia," and discovered they all had consumed the oil.

The oil was traced to a company near Madrid and analysts found it was 90 percent rapeseed oil, commonly used as an industrial lubricant

About 40 people have been either indicted or imprisoned for fraud in connection with the sale of the tainted oil. Some of the businessmen involved fled the country. No one in the country's archaic public health system, theoretically responsible for assuring that consumer products are safe, has been indicted.

Another extensive legal investigation is under way and could result in murder indictments if the courts ever decide that the adulterated oil was the specific agent that caused the deaths.

Teams of medical investigators from Spain, other European countries and the United States have been unable to pin down the exact nature of the chemical interactions in the oil that produced the nausea, shortness of breath and wrenching pain that led to death or prolonged hospitalization.

More than 200 of the victims died within seven months of young Garcia. Now stories of toxic syndrome deaths are routine and appear on the inside pages of the newspapers.

Although more than $28.5 million has been spent on aid and medical care for the victims, many of them formed associations to file negligence lawsuits against the government.

Last month members of the Madrid's city and provincial associations shut themselves inside a church because they were unhappy with what they said was the new socialist government's attitude toward their plight.

According to spokesman Javier Rincon, they wanted to know what was happening to them and members of their 11 years. families and whether they would have to live in the shadow of

Premier Felipe Gonzalez has named Carmen Salanueva as the new director of the National Toxic Syndrome Plan, the government agency directly responsible for dealing with the

Ms. Salanueva said the government would concentrate on three areas: adjustment of payments to those affected to keep up with the country's 15 percent annual inflation; creation of a rehabilitation plan for the afflicted and continuation of research to determine what it is that keeps on killing people who thought they had purchased real olive oil.

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) - If you keep going. past the courthouse square and the feed store and the traffic light, the road winds away into the Central Texas plains, leaving you at a church-like building on the edge of town.

Inside, a group of college kids are rehearsing an avant garde play called Malcolm

The man directing the young actors wrote the play. He also wrote "The Zoo Story." "A Delicate Balance." and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" He is Edward Albee.

He spends much of his time in residence at colleges these days. Albee said in an interview. "because they are places with drama departments," but also because he likes to work with young people.

"They haven't closed their minds down. They're open," he said. "They can be corrupted toward a participatory sense of being alive. It's a nice time to be with people.

"He entrances you." 21-year-old senior Paige McDaniel says of Albee, who cast her as the female lead in "Malcolm." "When I look at him, when I listen to him, I'm so much in awe. I cannot take my eyes off him '

Miss McDaniel is one of about 25 drama students at Southwestern, which has a total enrollment of around .000. She said she was ervous when she auditioned before the famous playwright, but said Albee nade it a point to ask all the students questions about nemselves to put them at Albee left the Chicago run of his latest play. "The Man Who Had Three Arms," to ome to Southwestern.

Muscular and fit and looking much younger than his 54 years. Albee said he spends the little time he is not working with the students working out in a local gym.

"Once you've walked around the square twice. you've done it," he says of the amusement possibilities in Georgetown.

Albee is staying at a carriage house available to guests of the university. He seems less than amused by the attention of the local socialites and press. He wants to be with the students, who say they are learning a lot from Albee and "Malcolm," his adaptation of James Purdy's novel about a boy who wants to find his

Nick Phillips, 22, says he knew nothing of Albee other than the screen version of 'Virginia Woolf' before being cast in a supporting part in "Malcolm."

Some drama critics have said the boy. Malcolm, is Albee, because in the play, a tycoon and his wife seek to adopt him. Albee was adopted at the age of two weeks by wealthy theater owner Reed Albee and his young wife.

"It's real interesting," Phillips says of the play. "I play maybe Malcom's father. 'm not sure.

On March 4 Pampa police to square off ith news media on hardcourt

Senior Writer

It's the good guys (and gals) against the bad guys (the fans make the distinction about which are which) in a Pampa basketball game for a worthy cause.

The Pampa Media Darlings square off against the Coppers of the Pampa Police Department in a basketball ame Friday, March 4 in the Pampa High School Fieldhouse.

Proceeds from the game will benefit the Pampa Meals on Wheels program.

The flatfoots are anxiously awaiting the game and may be thinking: "This is our chance to even the score for all of the sensational. muckraking yellow journalism and cheap shots."

A usually unreliable and possibly imaginary source close to game sponsors said police tips off at 7 p.m., one of the officers on the team followed by a game between for the Fuzz remarked.

"You'd be surprised how a knee to the groin can improve the quality and accuracy of news reporting.

However, the same source said a superstar on the media team countered, "An elbow thrown to the solar plexus can be some consolation for a passel of past 'No comments' and stale coffee at police headquarters."

"If somebody goes up for a shot and gets knocked flat before he gets it off, a foul might be called," remarked a game organizer a out expected officiating for the

"Sure, it's a non - contact sport," said a hysterically laughing oddsmaker after hearing about the game.

The game will be a mixed team (males and females on the court at the same time) contest, but Police Chief and coach J.J. Ryzman said most of his women officers are not enthused about the game.

"The police need women." an organizer said.

Meanwhile, some of the media players are reportedly insisting on special rules for the game, including ashtrays, ice chests and sofas on each end of the court, along with liberal subsitution rules. A media request for a brand new team for each exhausting trip up or down the floor was denied by the rules committee Media player - trainer Brad Mink and player - coach L.D. Strate said the Darlings should continue their two pack, six - pack - a - day training regimen in the days prior to the contest next month.

"We may practice once, but we don't want to overtrain. Overtraining can get you in trouble," Mink said, patting his stomach for reassurance. The media - police game will be a nearly - regulation contest, with 12 - minute quarters. Twelve minute and other refreshments will be available at the game. Both teams will also provide authentic cheerleaders for the game. "We hope for a good crowd. All proceeds go to a very worthy cause, and it should be fun." Mink said.

For the police, Ryzman and Detective Lynn Brown will be coaching from the sidelines.

The ringers and Pampa officers Ryzman plans to use in demolishing the media team include Steve Chance, Oren Potter, Rod Bishop, Wayne Williams, Billy Baxter, James Laramore and Gary Boydston.

The media will counter with players from The Pampa News, Slim Randles, L.D. Pampa takes second with win over Dunbar Pampa looked like one of contest midway in the fourth Clifton McNeely's state quarter by scoring six championship clubs of yesteryear Friday night.

Well, at least in the fourth quarter anyway. That's when the Harvesters went on a scoring spree to defeat Lubbock Dunbar, 65-58, in Harvester Fieldhouse and claim second place in the final District 1-4A standings.

Pampa, 22-6 overall and 11-3 in district play, will meet Lamesa at 3 p.m. Saturday in bi-district play at Wayland Baptist University's Hutcherson Center in Plainview. Lamesa is the District 1-4A champion.

Watching Friday night's game was former Pampa High coach Clifton McNeely and several of his former players who were honored at halftime and following the game at a reception. McNeely, who coached the Harvesters to four state championships in his 13 years here, was presented with a plaque, while former school scoring champion Jimmy Bond read a letter requesting that Pampa School Board change the name of Harvester Fieldhouse to Clifton McNeely Fieldhouse.

Pampa, which lost a 63-61 double overtime decision to Lubbock Dunbar in the first meeting, broke open a tight straight points. Jump shots by Terry Ferguson, Mike Nelson and Coyle Winborn made the score, 56-49, with 4:24 go in the game.

Dunbar drew within four. 56-52, with 3:01 to go, but six points by Mike Nelson, three on foul shots, put the Harvesters out of reach.

Pampa's collapsing 2-3 zone in the fourth quarter also contributed to Dunbar's downfall. Dunbar, forced to shoot from the outside, hit only five of 14 fourth-quarter shots. Meanwhile, the Harvesters drilled in six of 10

Pampa jumped out to a 6-0 lead, but Dunbar bounced back and promised to make it another one of those doubleovertime affairs until the fourth quarter. The lead changed hands a dozen times and the score was tied five times during the first three quarters.

When Paul Prentice rebounded Randy Harris' missed shot and put it back in to make the score, 48-46, in the closing seconds of the third quarter, the Harvesters never trailed again.

Pampa hit 29 of 57 (50.8 percent) from the floor while Dunbar downed 24 of 54 (44.4 percent) field goal tries.

rebounding edge.

Nelson led Pampa scorers with 26 points while Michael Thompson had the same number for Dunbar. Thompson, a 6-6 pivot, was an immovable object inside the first half as he scored 17

However, Thompson hit only nine points against Pampa's tight zone the second half, being held to a free throw the fourth quarter.

Coyle Winborn added 13 points for the Harvesters while pulling down eight rebounds. Phil Jeffrey was held to only six markers. but collected nine caroms to lead the Harvesters in that category. Also scoring for the Harvesters were Terry Ferguson with eight, Craig Chapin and Randy Harris four points each; Marty Cross and Paul Prentice two points each

Kurt Coats chipped in eight points for Dunbar while Tyrone Young and Oliver Zaragoza had seven points

Pampa also won the junior varsity game, 66-57.

McNeely, players recall championship years

· Clifton McNeely could talk forever about the teams and players he coached while serving as head man of the Pampa High School basketball program.

There was Jimmy Bond. Bill Brown, Coyle Winborn, Freddie Woods, Gary Griffin, E.J. McIlvain. I could go on and on about the outstanding players that came and went while I coached at Pampa, says McNeely, who was honored Friday night during halftime of the Pampa-Lubbock Dunbar McNeely spent 13 years at Pampa where he established himself as one of the most successful high school coaches in Texas history. McNeely never coached anywhere else.

He's now the Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent in the Irving Independent School District

McNeely had an incredible career record of 321-43 and coached the Harvesters to four state championships in 1952-53. 1953-54. 1957-58 and 1958-59. He had winning streaks of 72 and 53 games. The Harvesters had three unbeaten seasons.

"I can't really say which team was the best." McNeely said. "Some might say the '53 and '54 teams were the best. but I don't feel they were any better than the '58 and '59 Bond." McNeely said. "I just hope I don't make anybody mad, but he was one of the better ones."

Bond, a 6-4 center-forward, held the career scoring record (1.484 points) for a Harvester until Mike Nelson broke it this season. Bond. who was never held below eight points in a single game. during his three-year prep career, was a high school all-stater twice and made the Little All-America College Team while playing at Pasadena Nazarene in California.

What was McNeely's coaching formula?

"I liked to establish a balanced scoring attack, but I was a strong believer in defense," McNeely said. "I always felt it was a great equalizer. My teams pressed a lot and just did whatever it took to win.

McNeely coached 15 All-Staters and had approximately 60 players win college basketball scholarships. the majority to Southwest Conference schools.

"I can't give myself that much credit as a coach," McNeely said. "Any coach has to have the good players McNeely was an outstanding player himself.

"I'd have to go with Jimmy for Texas Wesleyan in McNeely recalls when Pampa was in the same district with faraway cities like Lubbock. Odessa, Abilene, San Angelo and Midland

"That was quite a far-flung district," McNeely said. "It got tiresome traveling that far to play, but there weren't that many high schools back then and you were voted into a higher classification by the interscholastic league instead of having to have a certain enrollment like it is now. Pampa had a much smaller school then. I think Amarillo

"He could chew you out good, but he'd also pat you on the back when you did something right," Condo recalled. "He wasn't one-sided.

Condo said health problems finally forced McNeely to retire from coaching.

"When we'd stop to eat after a game, the players would always get what McNeely and Terry Culley college scorer while playing Condo said. "I guess their insides were in bad shape because of having their minds on basketball.

> "McNeely and Culley worked so well together. That was the big thing. I don't think one guy could have done it all.

> Condo said McNeely seemed to have a knack for knowing when a team was ready to peak.

"I think that's a problem with a lot of coaches these days," Condo added. "They peak their team too soon."

Condo was the leading scorer (16.3 ppg) as a senior in 1956-57 when Pampa made its bid for a third state championship. Pampa lost in the state finals to Port Arthur, 67-51, as Condo scored 15 points in the losing Jerry Pope, another All-Stater and Condo's teammate, said McNeely instilled confidence and a winning attitude in his players.

When I first entered high school I knew that coach McNeely was a winner." Pope said. "That's sounds like a cliche now, but back then I didn't know that. "We believed in his leadership as a coach and we just never thought about losing. We felt like everyone we played was an inferior opponent."

McNeely wasn't a rah-rah type of coach, according to Pope.

"Halftimes were mostly quiet," Pope added. "He might get a little riled if we were playing poorly against a weak team, but he wouldn't say anything we were playing a good team."

Conditioning was a vital part of McNeely's coaching regimen

'We were always in better shape than the other team. Always," Pope added. "Four quarters of basketball seemed like no time at all. Nobody ever got tired during a game. Coach McNeely saw to that in practice."

Mert Cooper was a junior on McNeely's 1959 state championship club

"Those were exciting times." recalled Cooper, who is now in the oil and gas exploration business in Canadian.

"Coach McNeely took the five starters off the B team to the state tournament when Pampa went in 1958," McNeely said. "I was lucky enough to be in that category and I can remember it was quite a thrill."

Cooper said McNeely was a very religious man who commanded the respect of all

"He never used foul language and he never threw tantrums," Cooper said. "He was always a very self-controlled person.

"We went over and over everything in a very disciplined manner in practice. Coach McNeely never had to draw anything on a blackboard. The players always knew what to do during a game."

Cooper's uncle is former Golden Gloves state boxing champion Eugene Cooper. who was inducted into the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame last Sunday.

Mrs. Hugh Layne, mother of all-stater Mack Layne who played on Pampa's last two state championship teams, said McNeely was popular with the parents as well as the

'We hated to see him leave. He was a man of high moral standards," Mrs. Layne said. "He instilled a lot of confidence in his players. They knew they were going to win state."

McNeely still has strong ties to Pampa. He has a daughter-in-law from Pampa and he returns here frequently to visit with old friends like Floyd Watson (First National Bank President) and Warren Hasse (former Pampa radio station

McNeely has twin sons who are basketball coaches. Mike is in his fourth year at Irving and Phil has been at Duncanville for three years.

Like all young coaches their sights are set on winning that first state championship. Then they'll just need three more to catch up to dad.

Local students chosen 1983 good citizens

Teresa Martin Wheeler

Larry Martin White Deer

Las Pampas Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) will honor four area high school students chosen as "Good Citizens" by chapter members at the annual Colonial Tea scheduled today at 2:30 p.m. at the Pampa Senior Citizens Center.

DAR Good Citizens are selected on the basis of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Candidates must be high school seniors and are elected by their classmates, their teachers or both. Students chosen to represent their school answered a questionnaire and wrote an essay on American heritage.

By participating in the local program, the Good Citizens become eligible for state and national awards and scholarships. Each local Good Citizen will receive a DAR Good Citizen pin and a certificate.

BRAD NORTHCUTT Brad Northcutt, upper right photo, is the son of Mrs. Zelma Northcutt of Pampa. He is a senior student who represents Pampa High School. Northcutt has served as vice - president and president of the Key Club and as president of the concert band. He also performed as junior and senior drum major for the Pride of Pampa band. He is a member of the National Honor Society and participated in the gifted - talented program for two years. He is an active member of the First Baptist Church where he was president of a choir and also of a vocal ensemble and instrumental ensemble. He enjoys collecting stamps and sports such as backpacking and She's an All-American Woman now!

STUART, Fla. (AP) - At 22, Audrey Erickson was the nation's "All-American girl." Her achievements and jam-packed life over the 33 years since probably would qualify her as an "All-American woman."

"Sometimes when I tell people the things I've done, they think I'm lying," says the svelte blonde, in between appointments at her office here on Florida's east coast.

Her resume borders on the incredible: -In sports, she excelled in field hockey, softball, basketball, -baseball, bowling, skating, horseshoe pitching, tennis, swimming, riding, track and field and in special events such as baton-twirling, drop-kicking and punting with a football.

-In education, she's taught at the high school and college level in the states of New York, New Jersey and Florida. She also is in demand as a lecturer around the country and has written many articles for academic journals.

-At the start of her career, Miss Erickson worked as a secretary, model, professional dancer, buyer, saleswoman and in public relations. She was also a sports columnist for two school's field hockey team in 1962. years and now is a licensed real estate broker, accountant, stockbroker and tax consultant.

"I'm a licensed everything," jokingly says Miss Erickson. who retired from her teaching career six years ago when she was 49.

She has a bachelor's degree in physical education from Adelphi University, a master's in guidance from Queens College and a Ph.D. from St. John's University in administration and supervision which qualifies her as a school principal or dean. She also has a certificate from the *University of Oslo in Norway.

"About the only thing I haven't done is wrap hamburgers at McDonald's," she says with a laugh. "I've always wanted to do it all and I've been very fortunate. I've had a full life."

She never married, and never looked back. "I've had no time for that. Besides, I have an insatiable curiosity for life and if I had married, I couldn't have done the things I've accomplished," she explains.

Born in Valley Stream, N.Y., Miss Erickson began dancing when she was 5 and performed at the New York World's Fair in 1939 when she was 12. Later, she spent a couple of years as a member of the Rockette chorus line at Radio City Music Hall in New York City. It was during her college days that she worked as a secretary, a Barbizon model and sold sportswear. Yet she found time to compete in sports as a semi-pro.

For seven years, she played professional basketball with the New York Cover Girls, for nine years she played left field with the Arthur Murray Girls softball team, all while maintaining a 160 average in International Bowling Congress competition.

For 21 years, she was a member of the New-Atlantic Eastern Sectional Field Hockey first team and played in South Africa, Rhodesia, England and Scotland with the U.S. Field Hockey Association International Touring team.

While attending the University of Oslo, she coached that

In 1949, she was Look magazine's "All-American Girl," and two years later Camel cigarettes dubbed her "Female Athlete of the Year." She was featured in a national advertising program as the athlete who was expert in more sports than most women tried.

She continued giving professional exhibitions as an athlete and was on national television shows. Her byline appeared on a weekly sports column from 1951 to 1953 in the Nassau Daily Review Star, now Newsday.

Her present life is "perpetual motion." Still athletic, she jogs three miles a day, rides her bicycle and has taken up golf. Miss Erickson enjoys perfect health, loves to dance, follows no particular diet and eats whatever she likes. When she can get away in winter months, she goes skiing either in the United

"I'm 5-foot-5 and my weight hasn't changed since I was 20 -118 pounds. You get no other measurements," she says with a smile. Her trim waist is obvious.

An athlete who excelled in numerous sports, among other accomplishments. Audrey Erickson was LOOK magazine's "All-American Girl" in 1949. Still adding constantly to her list achievements, she is now a licensed real estate broker, accountant, stockbroker and tax consultant in Stuart, Fla., at left. At right, she's shown during her active sports career in the 1950s.

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: The woman is 53. She's also a grandmother who dves her hair jet black. uses too much makeup and wears skirts with big slits up the sides because her hairdresser, Bruce, told her she had nice legs. Anyway, according to her, she is constantly being approached by strange men trying to pick her up in the street, in stores - everywhere she goes.

She said that at a holiday cocktail party, a very attractive gentleman she had never seen before very politely asked her if she "fooled around." She said she just smiled and pretended not to take him seriously, whereupon he gave her his business card and told her to give him a call if she ever wanted to see his arrowhead collection.

I contend that no real gentleman would ask a lady such a question. And if the lady was really a lady, why did she accept his business card?

Harmony House offers an alternative to instituti

By DEE DEE LARAMORE

Lifestyles Editor For some time Lottie Lance had been thinking that what Pampa needed was an alternative to institutional care for elderly people who weren't really ill but were just not quite able to live alone in their homes.

Through her work in hospitals and home health agencies as a nurse she found many others in the community who agreed with . her idea.

Lance felt such a place should be homey with a family - like atmosphere. She wanted the residents to feel they have a choice in their lives without heavy rules and restrictions.

Harmony House, 520 N. . Faulkner, developed from Lance's thoughts and become a reality two months ago in December 1982.

bedroom, two bath house on a 24 - hour basis with Lance acting as supervisor.

"Harmony House is a family - type boarding home that tries to maintain a home atmosphere." Lance explained. The home is privately owned and run by Lance, but does comply with city health, safety and fire ordinances.

Five clients, both men and women, can live comfortably in the home, Lance said. Men and women's quarters are separated with private baths for each sex.

Currently only one man is housed at Harmony House -Jimmie Hannon, 89, a long time resident of the Pampa -'efors area.

"I heard about it at the hospital." Hannon said. "I had gone to a nursing home for one day and that was Lance's daughter, enough! They were pretty Barbara, manages the three strict over there and they didn't fix the right kind of foods for my diet."

Hannon said he prefers Harmony House because of the freedom he has. "I can go stay all night with my son if I want to." He said he really likes it at Harmony House. though ultimately he would

Ortega's carvings to be shown here

Wood carvings by Ben Ortega of Tesuque, N.M., are to be shown Feb. 26 through March 1 at Lovett Memorial Library. beginning with an invitation - only reception planned for 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday. Feb. 26 at the library

The show will open to the public from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Feb. 27, and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday. Feb. 28 and March 1. All artworks on display will be Ortega's carvings come from twisted pieces of native woods. He especially favors figures of St. Francis, madonnas and woodland animals. His work is featured in museums throughout the southwest and in galleries as far east as Oyster Bay, N.Y. He has also displayed his works in the Spanish Market under the portal of the Palace of Governors in Santa

Much of Ortega's success as an artist lies in his ability to 'see' figures or animals in chunks and bits of wood

Small figures take him less than a day to carve, large ones two or three days. He works with any wood that meets inspection and conforms to his tools but prefers cottonwood above the rest because of its strength and durability.

Ortega says he did not originally plan to become an artist. After serving in the Army, he attended cabinetmaker and machine shop schools, then found a job as a maintenance supervisor for a local family. In his spare time, he made Spanish colonial style furniture.

His first wooden figures were carved "just for fun" because he "discovered them, there in the wood." Ortega made a madonna and a St. Francis.

Ortega received national recognition for his work in 1976 when he was asked to participate in the "Old Ways in the New World" festival in Washington D.C., as a guest of the Smithsonian Institute

Tasty tidbits

Is your skin dry and taut from winter cold and drying, indoor heat? Try this soothing lemon-wine facial cream. Combine a half cup of milk with three tablespoons of white wine. Slice a lemon, and soak the slices in the milk/wine mixture for several hours. Next, remove the lemon and add enough yogurt to the wine/milk mixture to thicken it. Gently rub this cream all over your face (be careful around the eyes) and let it sit for about 20 minutes. Finally, rinse off with warm water. Your skin will feel as soft as a

When guests are expected, serve these delicious, low-calorie tuna-stuffed mushrooms for an appetizer. First, wash one pound of fresh mushrooms, removing the stems. Then chop up the stems and mix them with the following ingredients: one 7-ounce can of waterpacked tuna (drained), 3 tablespoons diet mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 1 tablespoon minced onion, and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Now, spoon this mixture into the mushroom caps and chill. Each of the eight servings is a mere 55 calories - enjoy!

Return to 'back' interest

Evening wear includes bustles

By Florence De Santis

NEW YORK (NEA) With all the current emphasis on comfort and convenience in clothes, who could predict that evening dresses with bustle effects would begin to appear at all the recent posh New York social

Even the designers who had created the styles — with back ruffles and pouffy bows to simulate bustles hadn't particularly pushed

For the designers, bustle looks are just one of several spring evening trends, one aspect of a return to back interest in gowns, such as the low V-back ending in a big bow, seen at Aggelo in pink organza and at Albert Nipon in rose-printed coffee silk organza. Bustle backs are particularly effective on strapless sheaths, such as Tracy Mills' silk shantung overprinted in spaced flowers on green and white stripes, with bows and ruffles cascading down the back. Even simpler dresses show a bustle tendency, as in Caroline Simonelli's black matte jersey halter dress, whose above-ankle white lace skirt has a slim front and a gathered, full back.

A fashion observer at the designer showings, however, would never have supposed the few bustle styles would get so much attention. Much more common were covered-up delicate dresses like Pauline Trigere's whiteon-white satin-checked organza with one huge, hand-painted skirt bouque and strapless bodice detailed in red and navy ribbon plaid. The ruffled capelet stood up in a deep cuff around the shoulders.

Adele Simpson does the covered look in '30s "dinner gown" style, softly cut in white satin, with a semifitted, V-neck jeweled bodice and puff-top long sleeves. Very different is Geoffrey Beene's coveredlike a monk's robe and split down the front with a quilted contrast band. This front emphasis is more typical than back interest, as designers see gowns as entrance makers.

Oscar de la Renta thinks spring gowns should float, and his airy floral organzas with huge puffed sleeves are fairy princess stuff. Or else, he goes gypsy, with wide lace trims and velvet midriffs on floral prints in deep colors. At Halston, the look is in floats of sheer, iridescent lame, while Bill Blass uses tiers of white dotted swiss, lavishly ruched, beneath a fitted black jersey strapless bod-ice belted in black patent.

With all this romantic glamour, fitted gowns are also back, sometimes really slinky, such as Caroline Herrera's black fishtail gown whose black and white beaded linen jacket has a bustlelike pleated fantail. More often the fit is softened by bias cutting or gathers. Jon Haggins biascuts green silk printed in spaced fuchsia flowers, biasflounces the asymmetric hemline, cowls the low back.

Many slim gowns feature dark colors and white. Bill Blass' silk jacquard in brown and white bold brushstroke stripes, has a bateauneck wide top, fit through waist and hips, ease below. The slim trend is just as new as the bustle looks, reviving movie star chic right along with romance.

Spice up pork roast with fruit family occasion, a get together with close friends or even a small holiday celebration, create a warm and homey atmosphere with Cran - Prune Pork Roast Pork roast is an excellent choice for a flavorful. satisfying menu, and it becomes even more impressive when topped with a spicy cranberry and prune sauce.

If you are unfamiliar with a boneless pork blade Boston roast, you'll be happy to discover its exceptional value. Cut from the top portion of the whole shoulder. this meaty roast offers fine pork flavor at an economical. price. All bones are removed and the roast is usually tied with string or placed inside elastic netting.

Preparation is simple for the pork roast need only be placed in a slow oven and cooked until well done. To determine exactly when the roast is ready, use a roast meat thermometer. By cooking pork just to 170 degrees F., it is well done vet is still tender, juicy and delicious. Over cooking should be avoided.

Topping with a cranberry prune sauce is an easy way to dress up the roast for a special winter meal. The festive topping is made by sweetening fresh cranberries cinnamon. Part of the sauce is applied to the pork roast during the last half hour of baking; the remaining sauce can be passed at the table.

When serving, it's reassuring to know that pork roast is an excellent source of many food nutrients. Like all pork cuts, this boneless roast has a high nutrient density. This means that it offers important nutrients in significant amounts for relatively few calories. Among the essential nutrients found in pork are high quality protein, the B vitamins thiamin, niacin, riboflavin, B-6 and B-12, and the minerals iron and zinc. Pork makes an especially noteworthy contribution of thiamin since it contains three times as much of this vital nutrient as any other

A microwave oven makes it easier, quicker, safer and cheaper for squash lovers to savor the golden goodness of this versatile vegetable.

An acorn squash cooks in 8 to 9 minutes by microwaves - compared to 45 to 60 minutes with conventional baking. When several squash

Spied Mary and Malcolm McDaniel in the Sunday lunch line last week, too. Mary added such pizazz to her Sunday wardrobe by adding a strikingly beautiful red felt hat.

Marguerite and Creel Grady were dressed in casual elegance for casual eating recently - she in a classic white all - weather coat, he in a tweed cardigan with a thick rolled collar. They made a handsome couple.

Pampans believe in eating out, like Lois and Emil Urbanczyk, Lynn and Clarence Wolfe, Ruth and Elmo Wright. (Don't you know the birds sing pretty songs for Ruth for keeping three bird feeders full all

Nora and Purl Meaker were all smiles. Meaker is looking better after a long illness. Some people are 25 years old, but Emmett Lefors is 90 plus years young. He's truly a pioneer with a contemporary spirit - an active participant, too. Did you see him at the Knife and Fork banquet last week? Three new directors were elected to the club's board: Thelma Bray, Joe Gidden and H. J. Johnson.

Every third grader in town owns a new toothbrush and knows how to brush the red away thanks to the Altrusa Club's help in celebrating Dental Hygiene Week. Earth, Wind & Fire doesn't take success for granted

By YARDENA ARAR Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Though he has homes in the Los Angeles hills and on the Monterey Peninsula in Carmel. Maurice White, father of music's Earth. Wind & Fire. is usually found elsewhere these days.

Gracious, relaxed and pencil-slim at 38. White is totally at home at the Complex - the sprawling studio he built 212 years ago in West Los Angeles.

In the studios and sound stages behind its anonymous facade. White works eight to 12 hours a day - and sometimes more - putting together not only Earth. Wind & Fire's intricate rhythm and blues creations, but discs for other artists as well.

it really serves me well. White muses, proud of the sparkling, modern facility. "I needed something like this.

Since White founded Earth. Wind & Fire 13 years ago, the group has moved to the top of the rhythm and blues ladder and has become a major pop force as well, with more than a dozen albums, six Grammys and worldwide record sales of more than 36 million

But White - the group's producer, sometime lead singer and songwriter doesn't take that success for granted. He admits to being a actually sung by only two or notorious perfectionist who worked as painstakingly on the nine-man band's new LP. "Powerlight," as he did on the ones that preceded it.

"I don't feel complete until I totally complete everything as close as I can to perfection," he says. "I never really get there. There are some things. like even on the album I just finished, that soundwise I would mave liked to have one something else."

White, the oldest of nine children from a Memphis family, has spent most of his life in recording studios. He moved to Chicago where he studied music and played drums for Chuck Berry. Jackie Wilson, Etta James. Curtis Mayfield and Ramsey Lewis.

White was influenced by James Brown, but blended jazz and a mellower soul sound in his music for Earth. Wind & Fire. But the sound didn't really mesh until 1975. with the group's. "That's the Way of the World.

'Powerlight' doesn't deviate much from Earth. Wind & Fire's trademark sound - strong rhythms under full, smooth instrumentals and vocals that sound like they're coming from a chorus of dozens but. in the studio at least, are

Jaclyn Smith finally wanted to do script

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) - Jaclyn Smith didn't think too much of it when author Sidney Sheldon suggested at a party that she was right for the lead in "A Rage of Angels."

"I was pregnant at the time and I forgot about it," she says. "But after the baby was born the script arrived. I'd turned down about 20 scripts. I knew I wanted to do this.

"I've had such a constant fight not being 'Charlie's Angels' again. Not being that slick character. This role is certainly not that.

Miss Smith stars as Jennifer Parker in the NBC miniseries adapted from Sheldon's novel. She plays a beautiful young woman lawyer who's fired from the district attorney's office in a scandal and rises to become one of New York's top trial lawyers.

"It's the best role I've ever done, the most in-depth character." she says. "There are so many changes in this girl. She starts out wide-eyed and innocent and ends up cynical. But it's understandable after what she's been through. She has affairs with two men at opposite extremes."

Sheldon, disappointed with prior translations of his books to film, took personal charge of the production. It also stars Ken Howard as the lawyer who becomes a U.S. senator and one of Jennifer's lovers; Armand Assante as the suave underworld attorney who pursues her, and Kevin Conway as the struggling, hard-drinking private investigator who takes her in after she's fired from the D.A.'s office and becomes her partner.

"Rage of Angels" will be shown on Sunday and Monday.

The next thing she is going to do is a commercial directed and photographed by her husband.

cinematographer-director Tony Richmond. "It's very important that it be perfect," she says. "He's a British Academy Award winner for 'Don't Look Now.' so I feel in good hands. We met when he did Night Kill.' It's the best I've ever been photographed.

Miss Smith was the only actress to stick with 'Charlie's Angels" during its entire tenure. She says. "I had a contract. I watched the pitfalls of leaving. I had a commitment and I felt it was right to stay. I had offers like everyone else, but I'm happy I stayed.

She says she has no interest in a 'Charlie's Angels' reunion movie, should one ever come up. "I've done it," she says. "I'm thankful for the five years. It opened a lot of doors, but I wouldn't go back. Each thing I've done since then has been well thought out and a step away.

First-hand report

Suddenly a hand clamped over my mouth...

By JANET SMITH Daily Iberian

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) every day. They consciously or unconsciously place themselves in vulnerable situations and delude themselves with the thought "That happens to other people, but never to me.

They may have a feeling of security in their own community, ignoring the fact that sexual assault is a crime that knows no age, ethnic or social barriers. And they may feel silly and over-anxious taking precautions when they have never had any reason to question their safety.

I felt that way Monday ... when I narrowly escaped an attacker

Like most women. I know the precautions you should take. But, also like most women. I thought "It never will happen to me.

The meeting I was covering in Franklin was over after 9 p.m. I was the first to leave the Iberia Street Library. Other people lingered outside talking.

When I walked out, the lights had been turned off and a storm was coming, making it even darker. I thought then that it was a perfect situation for something to happen. But as I always had before, I ignored the advice I had been hearing for years - do not walk in dark. unpopulated

I knew what I should and should not do. As part of my job I had attended women's safety classes and knew about precautions and dangerous situations. But nothing like that was ever going to happen to me.

My car was parked beside the building. As I walked, I wasn't paying attention to the surroundings. I was thinking about getting home.

I had been taught that fumbling in a purse for car keys after you get to the car increases the danger. Maybe because of that, but more likely because I was in a hurry. I had my keys in my

As I turned the corner near my car, however, I realized I totally irrational and was jingling the keys. That's unexpected. another thing I had been

Mine was the last car in the parking area. I hadn't even thought about whether the area would be lighted when I parked there. Even though the keys were in my hand ready - I couldn't unlock the door. I couldn't get the key to fit into the lock

I was bending over, trying to get the key to fit when I heard someone cross the street behind my car. I didn't even look up. People are always crossing streets and I was too busy trying to get the door unlocked. I still didn't feel threatened Perhaps it was the wishful assurance that "it will never happen to me.

Suddenly a hand clamped over my mouth, and I was pulled away from the car. The first thought, I remember, was simply 'What is going on?" I thought it was a joke and would turn out to be someone I knew. just trying to scare me.

Then I realized that it wasn't a joke. Without provocation, someone was trying to hurt me.

There was a hand over my mouth. I couldn't scream and no one was around to help. Despite anything I had learned about self defense, all I knew was to fight — to try to get away; to try to scream; to hope someone, anyone, would appear who could help me.

Officers in women's safety classes had warned that a woman will not remember what to do unless she is prepared. They were right. You don't think - you react.

One minute you are calmly thinking about home and trying to get into your car. The next instant you are fighting and struggling with a man. Maybe some women do remember self-defense training in an emergency, or have the presence of mind to remember what they can use as a weapon. But it is hard to think instantly and rationally when what is happening is E-1

Out of nowhere, with no taught but was ignoring: warning, an unseen, unknown Women play Russian roulette don't do anything that draws man is telling you to stay with rape and sexual assault attention if you have to walk quiet and not fight and is dragging you into a wooded lot. React, not think, is all you

The attacker has all the advantages. He has the time to plan - to study the situation and pinpoint your weaknesses. He has the strength. He knows his intentions and what to expect. He chooses the moment, the place and the person. The woman doesn't have any of those advantages. She doesn't have the option to plan, she doesn't have the time to reason.

Maybe instinct helped me fight. It must have been instinct to bite his hands so I could get free to scream. Somehow, through sheer luck, his grip slipped as I was falling down.

I managed to get away. I ran to the people who were coming out of the building. The man disappeared into the darkness; I couldn't remember what he looked like or what he was wearing.

In reacting you don't do the right thing. You kick, scream and do whatever you can.
