

President Nixon Reflects Upon His 60 Years

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, observing his milestone 60th birthday today, says he "hopes to do great things" in the first four years of his seventh decade.

He doesn't feel old, he says. And to keep thinking young he suggests looking to the future, not the past, and staying in contact with younger people.

Nixon granted a birthday interview to two news-service reporters, provided the discussion was limited solely to his birthday reflections. He took time out from working on his inaugural address for a 25-minute talk in his Executive Office Building hideaway.

The President said he doesn't like observing birthdays annually anymore and prefers to make note of them only on the decades—"every 10 years."

He cited his 10-year milestones starting at age 20 when he was a junior in college, majoring in history and English, going out for football—

"but I never made the team." At 30, he was in Bougainville in the South Pacific in World War II. At 40, he had just been elected vice president. At 50, he was just defeated for the governorship of California and at 60, just re-elected for a second presidential term.

Never in those decades, "least of all at 50, did I expect to be here at this time at 60," Nixon commented.

The President plans to celebrate his birthday tonight with his wife, Pat, daughters Tricia Cox and Julie Eisenhower, his long-time personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, and close Florida friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

He said he expects his daughter and Rebozo, who recently turned 60 himself, will give him a "pretty good kidding" about passing the milestone.

"The only permanent source of improvement is liberty since by freedom there are as many possible centers of improvement as there are individuals."

Snow Puts Tighter Grip On Area

New Storm Heading Into State

By RAY BAXTER
A winter, strong and deadly still in its infancy, clamped its numbing cold grip tighter on Pampa and the Texas Panhandle as the thermometer here plunged to four degrees officially, with some residents reporting an even zero unofficially.

Another inch of snow fell during the night, bringing the local accumulation to five inches with a total of 26 inches of moisture since Saturday.

The immediate forecast is for heavier snowfall beginning tonight or early in the morning, bringing a possible additional three-and-a-half inches by Friday.

Perryton held the record low for the state at two degrees where there was three-and-a-half inches of snow on the ground and still snowing briskly.

WONDERLAND FOR YOUTH—With winter weather bringing dismissal of schools yesterday because of snow, students made use of the freedom to play outside in winter activities. A group gathered in the park behind Sam Houston

Elementary School for sledding and other similar fun. Despite the snow falling over the city today, schools resumed operation with the threat of more snow yet to come hanging in the air. (Photo by John Ebling)

VOTE NOT UNANIMOUS

Commission Approves New Increased Phone Rate Hike

By TEX DEWEESE
Increased telephone rates for Pampa will become effective with the next regular billing following action of the Pampa City Commission today in approving a rate hike ordinance on second and final reading.

The increase amounted to an overall basic increase of 16.9 per cent for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The ordinance was not approved unanimously. The vote was 3 to 1 with Ward 3 Commissioner Leo Braswell dissenting. Ward 1

Wholesale Price Index Hits High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale farm prices posted the biggest monthly increase in 26 years last month with a climb of 6.8 per cent, the government reported today.

The report, by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, blamed weather damage to crops as the main reason for the big increase.

City Studies Data System

City Manager Mack Wofford told city commissioners at their regular meeting today the City of Pampa is continuing its study of an in-house data processing system.

2 Representatives Named For PRPC

City Commissioners Arthur J. Rohde and R.D. Wilkerson were appointed today to represent Pampa on the General Assembly of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

POLICE SAY Sniper Eludes 200-Man Cordon

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso says a sniper involved in the slayings of six persons slipped through a 200-man cordon from his hotel roof perch Monday either through "police negligence" or because he was super smart.

AT LOWER LEVELS Trial Involves Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trial of the seven men charged in connection with the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic national headquarters will reach into the Nixon administration, but not to the top levels.

Seven current or former White House staffers or members of President Nixon's reelection effort were named Monday as anticipated witnesses as the trial opened in U.S. District Court.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert, heading the prosecution team, read a list of 60 witnesses the government expects to call, including four Nixon campaign staffers, two White House officials, and a former White House secretary.

The defendants include a former White House consultant, a former official of the Committee for the Re-election of the President and another man who worked in both places.

Lawmakers Gather For Session Start

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas lawmakers assembled today for a 140-day session and quickly learned that the state treasury is healthy and that one potential source of legislative conflict has been erased.

The 63rd Texas Legislature was to convene officially at noon.

Shortly after Secretary of State Larry Teaver gavelled it to order, the House was expected to elect Rep. Price Daniel Jr. as its speaker.

The possibility of an opening day floor fight over seating Rep. John Allen of Longview, recently convicted of misdemeanor nepotism, vanished.

Moyer Breaks Promise, Gets Legislator Lawyer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Rep. Hudson Moyer has hired a legislator lawyer—after swearing a month ago he would not hire one—forcing a postponement of his theft trial.

"This is a fraud perpetrated on the court," Dist. Atty. Bob Smith said angrily.

"But, Mr. District Attorney, you agree I have no other alternative," said State District Court Judge Mace Thurman.

The district attorney agreed. Moyer sprang his surprise Monday afternoon after the prosecutor had qualified 32 prospective jurors in the case.

REPAIRS NEEDED
LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth's royal yacht, Britannia, will be renovated at a cost of $4.4 million, the Defense Ministry announced. The vessel, which has a crew of 250, is 18 years old and the work is expected at least to double its life.

Housing Aid Cuts Brings Objections

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John J. Sparkman says he is hopeful that Congress will negotiate the last 12 months of an 18-month freeze on subsidized housing starts ordered by President Nixon.

The freeze was announced Monday by outgoing Housing Secretary George Romney as both he and Sparkman spoke at the 29th National Association of Home Builders convention.

Romney said a temporary holding action on new commitments for water and sewer grants, open space grants and public facility loans also has been ordered.

"The time has come to pause, to re-evaluate and seek out better ways," Romney said.

He emphasized, however, that projects already in the "pipeline" and those necessary to meet statutory or other specific commitments will be approved.

But Sparkman, U.S. Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., and home building officials viewed the actions as abuse by the Executive Branch of its power to impound appropriated funds.

Pioneer To Buy Industry

AMARILLO — Burton P. Smith, president of Pioneer Natural Gas Company of Amarillo, and Louis A. Waters, chairman of the board of Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc. of Houston, announced today that an agreement in principle has been reached whereby a subsidiary of Pioneer would purchase the business of Browning-Ferris Machinery Company, a subsidiary of Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc.

The transaction is subject to the negotiation of a definitive agreement and approval of the board of directors of both companies. The purchase, which is estimated at approximately $5 million, will be for cash.

Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc., a Houston head-quartered firm, is engaged primarily in the collection, processing and recovery and disposal of solid waste. The company operates in approximately 90 locations throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico.

Stolen Car Found In Creek Bed

One Pampa woman can tell you car thieves are no respecter of persons or the weather this morning after her car was retrieved from the creek bed back of Sam Houston school.

The late model sedan was left running in the 600 block of Somerville St. yesterday afternoon because she was having trouble starting it.

Following her report that it was stolen, police began a search and found it stuck in the creek bed with the motor still running and the radio playing. Tracks led from the car through the snow in the direction of Highland General Hospital.

It took two tow vehicles to pull the car from the creek bed.

Thieves Hit Two Firms

After weeks of the prevailing weather, burglars evidently are becoming adjusted to it and continued their work at two Pampa firms last night.

The operator of a service station told police his money sack with approximately $140 was missing when he opened for business this morning. He said it was the custom to take the money from the register, sack it in the bank bag and hide it elsewhere on the premises.

Since there were no signs of forced entry, officers are investigating the angle that someone with a key and a knowledge of the hiding place is responsible for the loss.

The burglar broke into the firm of John T. King and Sons, 918 S. Barnes, last night, taking a cutting torch and a one-pound roll of multi-core solder. The torch, valued at about $70, was taken by cutting the hoses that connected it to the gas tanks. The solder was valued at $100.

Police are investigating good clues in both thefts.

WORRY CLINIC

Congressman Gooding believes in more "Horse Sense" regarding tax-supported free public schools. Our Founding Fathers advocated "More business in government; less government in business!" Let's apply that axiom to our schools, too!

CASE V-592: Jim Q., aged 38, is a high school principal. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I remember your saying that a famous California newspaper publisher once criticized you concerning free public schools. 'You had reported that many astute educators and economists felt the zoning taxes for luxurious public school buildings and frilly courses, are going to cause a taxpayers' revolt.'"

"So you suggested that some education prophets urge us to stop all free education after the 6th grade. Starting with the 7th (Junior High), tuition should then be required. But your California publisher said ALL education should be financed by tuition! Well, our Pennsylvania Congressman George A. Gooding agrees that education has become too 'luxurious.' Note what he recently stated in a printed address."

SUBSIDIZE SHOEMAKERS

Here are a few pertinent remarks by Congressman Gooding:

"When I attended college, we helped subsidize the shoemaker rather than the tire manufacturers."

This means STUDENTS WALKED instead of having their private cars!

"If parents," continued Congressman Gooding, "can afford to let their child have a car in college, there isn't one argument that comes to mind to prevent them from paying higher tuition fees."

"Now you who have children in college are asking your neighbors, who do not, to help subsidize your child's education."

"I have visited some fraternities and have been told all now have their bars."

"... I question whether a fifth of liquor can be bought for the price of a Coke or RC."

"You parents are subsidizing this luxury."

Politicians try to wangle out votes by saying they are for tax "reform."

What most voters want is tax reduction.

And that can come only from lopping off present boondoggling and the heavy outlays for non-vital services.

If stress were placed on reading and arithmetic up till the 7th grade, our kiddies could then educate themselves, even if they never went further!

Ambitious kiddies, however, would go further.

Those lacking ambition don't deserve to be served luxurious education, at least at taxpayers' expense.

If tuition were required, beginning with Junior High, then parents would monitor their children's homework duties more closely.

For if they must pay maybe $25 or more per month for a child's schooling, they'd be motivated to get the most for their money!

Besides, teachers would then not be forced to put up with the goof-off behavior of our overgrown morons, plus riots and other anti-teacher actions.

Our Founding Fathers never had access to free public schools!

Newspapers, Sunday School teachers, ambitious parents and private tuition facilities could easily do a better job of educating our youth than is now done by federally subsidized schools!

It's going to come in a few years, so get ready for it!

Free education through the 6th grade would still be a great luxury that Lincoln and our Founding Fathers would have relished!

It's time to use more "Horse Sense" and less federal funds in education!

(Always write Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Television And Radio

By JAY SHARBUTT
 AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Shalit will join the regular cast of NBC's "Today" show next Monday. So prepare yourself. He's a wild man in both word and appearance.

He's also one of the few movie critics in this hamlet with a sense of humor, a serious crime in Manhattan reviewing circles.

Physically, he resembles a free-lance anarchist. His hair goes in all directions and he sports a thick black mustache.

Some of us already know him as the movie critic whose reviews are seen on WNBC-TV here, KNBC-TV in Los Angeles and 100 other assorted NBC television affiliates around the land.

Others may know him as the guy who writes zany outbursts for the Ladies Home Journal, Newsday and Sport magazine.

Still others may know him as the movie reviewer on NBC's "Monitor" radio show or as the "Today" book editor since 1969.

It'll be good to see him turned loose on a three-a-week basis on "Today," where he'll continue as book editor, but he also will have a crack at sports and the lighter side of life, if such still exists.

The Shalit television style is hard to put in print. When he's deciphering a film for the citizenry, his eyebrows rise and fall with vigor and he makes no bones about his likes and dislikes.

His approach basically is that of a guy who bumps into a pal at the neighborhood tavern and tells him he's just seen a movie. A dog of a movie, sometimes. A great flick, at other times.

But he never proclaims the film "a profoundly moving experience" or some such lofty blige. That's the best part about him. He works in plain English, with sharp, funny observations.

Shalit was born 41 years ago in Manhattan. He came to broadcasting in a roundabout way. He started off as a freelance writer, then began doing a column for the Ladies-Home Journal. He also became movie critic for the now-defunct Look magazine.

He was at work committing scrievned mayhem one day when the phone rang. An NBC executive was on the other end.

"He said, 'I've been reading some of the things you write, and I've been wondering,'" Shalit recalled. "Do you think you can talk out loud the way you write?"

Whereupon Shalit went to audition for NBC radio. The rest is history, but he still gives his audition bad reviews.

"I tended to orate," he said. "Instead of talking to one person I was talking to the multitudes" and that's not the way to do it. Now, it never occurs to me that anybody's watching or listening. And maybe they're not."

That's a bad attitude for a New York Critic, Shalit, a bad attitude. And a welcome one.

Bentsen Switches

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., has switched from the Senate Armed Service Committee to the Senate Finance Committee, his office said Monday.

Bentsen remains on the public works and joint economic committees.

He has not been given any subcommittee assignments because no committees have met, his office said.

IRS Cracks Down on Tax Preparers

By RAY DE CRANE
 (First in a series.)

This is the year when Internal Revenue Service is doing everything possible to make the filing of an income tax return a do-it-yourself project.

Tax reform was a vital issue in the nation last year.

Cut Your Own Taxes 1973

Congress demonstrated its interest by introducing many liberal provisions which will serve to reduce the annual tax for millions.

Return, IRS is doing its part for reform by attempting to so simplify the forms and instructions that the average taxpayer can complete his return without paying for outside assistance.

This type of reform will be viewed by the 80 million Americans who will be filing tax returns this year as being long overdue. The tax forms and instructions have become so complex in recent years that fully 50 per cent of all filers have felt the need to pay somebody to help them complete this chore.

IRS Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters is leading the reform movement in Internal Revenue. His concern stems from the fact that "more than $600 million," by IRS' own figures, was paid for tax assistance last year.

The growing number of fly-by-night tax preparers will be the principal targets of Commissioner Walters.

"When dishonest or incompetent preparers victimize the taxpayer and the government, we cannot stand idly by and see our tax system destroyed," Walters stated recently.

In a nationwide check of more than 3,200 tax preparers last year, Internal Revenue concluded that fully 50 per cent of their returns were completed in a manner "unacceptable to Internal Revenue."

The IRS chief said a sampling of returns from questionable preparers showed they had shaded the proper tax owed by an average of $235 per return.

In furthering the crack-down, IRS this year insists that outside preparers not only sign the return, as they have in the past, but this year, for the first time, they include their own Social Security number.

In that way, if returns from a professional preparer come under suspicion, IRS computers can separate, by the use of his Social Security number, every return completed by him or his staff.

But even if the prepared-for-a-fee returns were completely accurate, Walters has made it evident from his repeated comments that he no longer believes that one out of every two taxpayers need pay for assistance.

At a briefing in Washington before this year's tax forms were released, this writer was told by high IRS officers: "With our new tax forms and simplified instructions, together with a 'tax book' such as yours, the average person should have no difficulty completing his own tax return."

This newspaper is cooperating fully in the government's drive to make tax filing a do-it-yourself project. This series of articles, of which today's installment is the first, will detail all the many provisions in this year's new tax law.

Those readers who need additional help, or who want the opportunity to follow a sample completed form in a step-by-step approach will find the "Cut Your Own Taxes" book, available through this paper, an invaluable guide.

Low Draft Call Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress Monday the Pentagon plans to draft only 5,000 men before the induction authority expires next June 30.

This is far below the "less than 10,000" figure he used last November.

In his final report to the House Armed Services Committee before giving up his Cabinet post, Laird said plans are to draft fewer than 2,500 in March and an average of 1,000 in each of the following three months.

Corporate Reports In The Mail Soom

NEW YORK (AP) — The first of the corporate annual reports will be in the mails during the next few weeks, preparing stockholders and analysts for that other recurring phenomenon of the business scene, the annual meeting.

These two practices have become institutionalized—so much so, say the critics, that they have become rituals whose meanings have been lost in the past.

It is literally impossible to assemble any but a minute fraction of General Motors shareholders, for example. There aren't enough planes, trains, hotels and halls to accommodate all 1.3 million of them.

Even if such a miracle could be performed, these shareholders would have little to say that counted. Most business is prescheduled, most shareholders too small. More than 40 per cent of GM owners hold only 1 to 25 shares.

Do they utilize the time so saved to read the annual report? Judging from a survey by an investor relations firm, it wouldn't seem so. It found that 40 per cent of stockholders spent five minutes or less and that 15 per cent don't read their reports at all.

Fred Foy, former chairman of Koppers Co., analyzes the report in the current Harvard Business Review and gives them low, low marks. In effect, he maintains that the poor readership is justified.

It appears, he suggests, that the planners and writers of reports fail to analyze their potential readership. And as media people today realize acutely, any publication that goes unread is soon dead, even if not so declared.

"They seem to edit pretty well for the in-depth people but pretty badly for the once-overlightly, once-a-year stockholder readers," Foy states and then asks: "How do we reach them?"

The solution, he believes, is to highlight the year's activities in single paragraphs for the 15-minute readers, with notations to security analysts and others than an expanded version can be found on inside pages.

Among some other sins: While poor in communicating the good news, annual reports often relate no bad news at all; they don't give divisional breakdowns; they do very little to reveal the human side of management.

Management, almost every security analyst will agree, is one of the most important considerations to evaluating a company. In fact, some maintain, management is everything—that a company is nothing but management.

THIS IS W5-GXK - While still offering repair parts and servicing for pumps and regulators and other equipment, John T. King and Sons believe all work and no play makes for a really dull day. John T. King operates a ham radio station and invites anyone to drop by and listen in. (Staff Photo)

John T. King And Sons Noted For Fast Service

Being a factory representative and having various repair parts in stock and ready for immediate use is a contribution factor when a unit is down or a crew is standing by as costs surmount for the urgent need of a repair part.

That's why John T. King and Sons are noted for rapid service and readily available stock of parts for Fisher governors, regulators, gas regulators, Worthington pumps, Gould pumps, A.O. Smith meters, Rockwell meters, Neptune meters, Cemco controls, Kenco controls, McCord and Manzel lubricators, Frank W. Murphy mags, oilwell and irrigation controls and many other manufactured new units and repairs.

John T. King and Sons now have in stock the famous figure 186 Marshalltown pressure gauges that are oil sealed for long lasting service under heavy vibration and pulsation usage or conditions.

Vacuum gauges, vacuum relief valves and one-ounce pressure gauges are common items carried on the shelves of John T. King and Sons, along with magnets for almost all types of industrial gas engines.

It would be a very dull day if it was all work and no play. At John T. King and Sons an amateur radio station is in operation at almost all times for visitors and customers and especially fellow fraternity brothers who get to talk to all parts of the world.

Many of the stations that are worked from time to time or when conditions permit are located in Austria, Ireland, Germany, France, Spain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, England and many Latin American amateurs.

The number-one radio operator is W5GRC, Robert A. Wood, who has logged over a hundred foreign nations over amateur radio station W5-GXK.

SOBER WORDS
 HOUSTON (AP) — Author Vance Packard says a breakdown in community living and an increase in loneliness are America's chief ills.

Packard says he believes the great mobility of American society is the cause for social and psychological isolation that he sees among people today.

Among young people he finds an "inverse status-seeking by raggedness" and an "anti-achievement attitude" that rejects their parents' goal of economic success.

"These kids are clearly headed downwards," Packard said. "At a critical period in their lives they have missed out on taking steps necessary to prepare themselves for leadership roles."

He predicted America's future leaders will be the sons and daughters of blue-collar workers and farmers because they still have the goal of doing financially better in their lives than their parents did.

NEW PATIENT-AIDS—B and B Pharmacy now offers a full line of Futuro Patient-Aids for sale and rental. Designed for the needs of the home convalescent, the handicapped and the elderly, the quality items are on stock to meet the needs of the customers at B and B Pharmacy. Housing Moratorium HOUSTON (AP) — There was speculation rumored plans by President Nixon to slap an 18-month moratorium on federally assisted housing programs would be clarified today in a speech by Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney.

Stanley Waranch, president of the National Association of Home Builders, says the trade group has "very serious concern for what has been rumored."

The Norfolk, Va., builder said at a Sunday news conference he did not want to prejudge any announcement Romney might make before the association's 29th convention today but added that such a moratorium would be disastrous and catastrophic to those unable to find adequate housing.

Waranch said he had received no response from a Wednesday request for an appointment to discuss the rumored moratorium with Nixon.

The homebuilder then sidestepped a question when asked if he could state a percentage cutback the industry could live with.

The opening no-trump is a "picture" bid. It pictures your distribution and high card strength so closely that on most occasions partner knows if the combined hands are in the part score, game or slam range and can control the bidding accordingly. The picture conveyed by the Jacoby no-trump is almost exactly the same picture Oswald Jacoby decided to show some 40 years ago. It is 16-18 high card points, 4-3-3-3, 4-4-3-2, or 5-3-3-2 distribution and the doubleton if there is one must include one of the four top honors. Forty years ago we were more conservative. The doubleton had to include either the ace, king or queen.

With any other distribution the hand may still wind in no-trump but the winning player will start with a suit bid because such hands show too much promise in the right suit.

When we watched this hand played, South took about seven seconds to make four no-trump after opening with one no-trump. No one noticed that six diamonds could have been made just as easily. We don't say that a diamond opener would have led to that contract. All we know is that if South had opened a diamond there would have been a chance of reaching the slam.

Specialty Knits For A Mass Market

By HELEN HENNESSY
 NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Gino Paoli, for many years now a prestige name in knit fashions, was available chiefly to those who shopped at the many smaller specialty shops across the country. The firm does about $16 million business annually. And changes for the better are in the making.

"We're going to go after the business of major department and specialty stores now," said Arthur Goldstein, new president of Gino Paoli.

Goldstein plans sweeping changes for the company. He has closed the junior knitwear division and Via Veneto, a high-priced knitwear and woven-apparel division.

He is strengthening Paoli's Italian operation and phasing out their Hong Kong knitwear operation.

"We use 75 mills in Italy," Goldstein said. "We are 90 per cent of their business. We want to be 100 per cent."

Quality control is completely in the hands of the firm. "We examine everything," Goldstein said, "and it all goes into a bonded warehouse."

"We even pay the Italian government to assign a customs man to work just for us."

Gino Paoli's look is one of LAKE GETS A FUNERAL BABYLON, N.Y. (AP) — Mourning what is claimed will be the fate of many lakes and streams in Suffolk County, the Committee for Water Preservation held a mock funeral service for Argyle Lake.

The committee said the funeral was held to call attention to the "no-recharge" operation of the Southwest Sewer District, now being built. The effluent from the treatment plant will be pumped to the ocean instead of recharged to the ground. The "no-recharge," it is claimed, will lower the ground water table enough to dry up the lakes and streams of the area.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon
 WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10

Your birthday today: Relationships are lively, new ones readily attracted by almost any activity on your part. Today's natives are intensely curious about human nature, how it works, why people are as they are.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Chances are you have provoked somebody to actions which don't contribute to your progress. Something you did long ago echoes favorably.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Presenting demands gets you nothing much today, particularly from people closely associated. A fresh idea brings exceptional results.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Put in for any dividend due you, taking care to avoid personal issues. Be prepared to account for your portion of group finances.

Cancer (June 21-July 21): Letting other people make your decisions comes easily, but doesn't promise results of the sort you'd like.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22): Again you have a day with the strongest accent on just plain hard work, nothing startling, but well worth the doing.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The fine art of realizing what went wrong in the past can be profitable as education, but gets nowhere as a conversational subject.

Libra (Sep. 23-Oct. 22): Take up any opportunity promptly, but don't be surprised to find that some supposed openings aren't real. At least you will know.

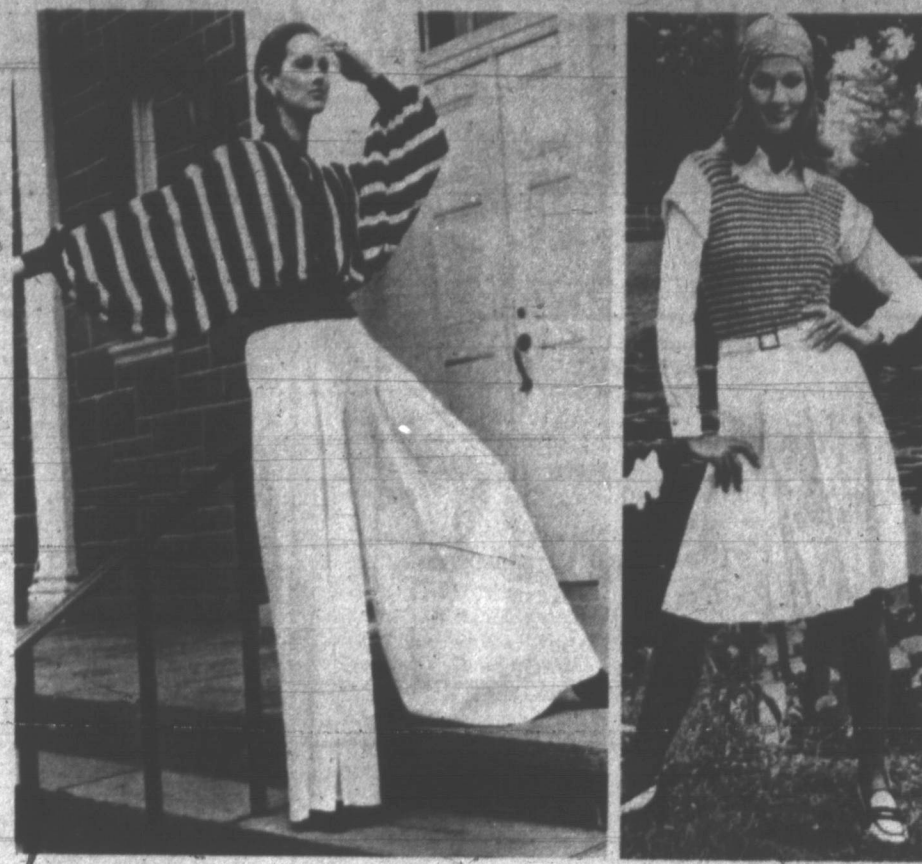

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Staying close to home puts you wise to something you might otherwise miss. Plans will need scaling down later.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An early start is advised, as you are indicated to make extra trips, cope with numerous fresh details over a lengthy period.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be yourself and more open than is customary. Benefits exist in both material and intangible forms near at hand.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be alert for the chance to help people, but cautious about promises—they may not be able to do what seems to you logical.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Work with what is available, not touching your reserve resources for the moment. You can make progress on career matters.

For the grand entrance at home or abroad comes the pleated palazzo pant and sensational striped dolman top (left). Pants are in white and top in either red and white or navy and white. Pleat-skirted jumper dress with roll-back sleeves for the layered look for Spring '73 (right) is teamed with its own tailored shirt. It is in woolknit sparked with confetti dots. Both from the new Gino Paoli collection.

timeless elegance — a look for the sophisticated woman who isn't concerned with fads that are here today and gone tomorrow.

Goldstein is in favor of this look of elegance and individuality.

"Take the average department store," he said. "They buy a bout $150 million in goods. And they all buy the same thing.

"I've watched women on State Street and on Fifth Avenue. And they all look as though they were stamped out of a 'cookie press,'" he said.

The Gino Paoli lines don't look at all like that. Whether from the men's wear, women's wear or children's divisions the fashions have distinction and class.

And with the plan of the new president to go after major department store business, the lines will be more readily available to everyone.

 I don't know what your personal aspiration in life might happen to be. Mine has narrowed down to a fervent wish that if the members of our family have to be sick, please UP There, just let them all be sick at one time.

Not that I believe I'd escape any of the work or worry, but it would be over sooner and perhaps I could be a bit more efficient with my nursing duties. For preventative care right now I'm lining them all up, spraying them with orange juice and pelting them with vitamin C tablets.

Heredity, I believe, has nothing to do with one's reaction to illness. Neither does environment.

Some people are thrashers. They threaten. Every two minutes, by the clock, they shout, "I'm getting up!" I said, "I'm getting out of this bed!"

Others are simply uncooperative. They stare stony out the window when approached with cracked-ice and gentle words. Then they turn quickly and vomit onto the floor.

Some are accusers. "Why should I be sick today of all days. You know this is the day of the bike hike!"

Blatant hypochondriacs are by far the most pleasant. All they want you to do is feel a forehead every five minutes and inspect their newest symptom—a tiny red speck they have discovered with the aid of two mirrors and a magnifying glass.

Most entertaining, of course, are the Camilles. "Oh, is that you?" they inquire weakly, then give a cough (a faintly, "my pajama leg is wrinkled." Waving a hand to the forehead, they say, "Oh, don't worry about me— just leave me alone." /Funny thing. That's exactly what I'd wanted for myself.)

A shower of bath arguments

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Germaine Greer is going to crucify you. She went on record as saying that a woman's natural odor is nothing to be ashamed of, and any man who didn't like it could go jump in the lake. And now you come along with your statement that a man should bathe daily and a woman can't bathe enough!

As the world's most widely read columnist, how are you going to defend yourself against Germaine Greer, the most outspoken proponent of Women's Lib?

ABBY FAN IN BOSTON

DEAR FAN: Germaine Greer can go to her mikveh and I'll go to mine. (F. S. Mikveh means bath.)

DEAR ABBY: I am mystified over your remarks on bathing. Thanks for enlightening me. I had always heard that all men were created equal. I never realized that women were born "dirtier" than men. I knew that a woman is paid less for doing the same job as a man, but until now I didn't know it was because she is offensive.

I'm amazed at you, Abby. You must have water on the brain from spending so much time in the bathtub. S. K. H.

DEAR S. K. H.: Men and women are NOT created equal—anatomically speaking. Unlike the male reproductive organ, the female's is an orifice which constantly produces a secretion which is normally somewhat odoriferous. She is not necessarily "unclean," but a woman who wants to be forever fragrant will not spare the soap and water.

DEAR ABBY: In conjunction with your recent letter concerning bathing: Will you please stress the fact that MEN need underarm deodorants as well as women?

My husband and I are square dancers, and I sure wish I could tell some of these men that it isn't their swinging that makes me dizzy, it's just the fact that I am holding my breath—and a gal can hold her breath just so long before she loses consciousness.

Please print this, Abby. There are a lot of square dancers, and it could be a lot more fun.

A SQUARE IN MICHIGAN

DEAR SQUARE: Consider it done. It's not easy to star thru while you're holding your nose.

DEAR ABBY: I am one man who wants to thank you for taking the stand you did regarding women bathing.

Several years ago I had a secretary who splashed on cologne several times a day. [She probably couldn't stand her own odor.] Between the cologne and her body odor, she turned me against one of the world's loveliest fragrances.

I knew she didn't bathe much because her elbows were always dirty, and her filthy feet showed thru her hose! She was the talk of the office and altho her work was excellent I had to let her go. I frankly told her why, which didn't seem to bother her.

I have let men go for the same reason. Some men may shower daily but they never use deodorant to take care of the perspiration acquired during the stress and strain of the daily routine, which is unfair to their coworkers. Forgive my typing. I typed this myself while my secretary was out for lunch.

Nation Treated To View of Armageddon

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Super Bowl contains the Great Tossed Salad in the sky, with equal amounts of religion, patriotism and militarism flung together.

Now on the year's most important Sunday — Super Sunday (Easter is now the Second Super Sunday) — the nation is treated to a view of Armageddon. The two greatest created powers of the universe clash while 70 million fervent citizens sit in a cathedral of silence, then erupt in cathedral howls or cathedral yawns.

In V of the first VI Super Bowls of recorded history, the yawns have it.

The Super Bowl has emerged in a very short span as perhaps the most important single event in modern America. Not the national elections, not the release of the second Archie Bunker album can match the Super Bowl for sheer ecstasy.

A review of the history of the Super Bowl (do gongs go off in your head, too, when those words roll?) may explain how this miracle came to pass.

GENESIS, of Super Bowl I, Green Bay vs. Kansas City:

The most intensive mass propagandizing technique ever was used to herald the first SUPER SUNDAY. Hardly a commercial went by without some pulp-like voice reminding you of "The Big One" coming up. Dear Diary, it was thrilling:

But, alas, it was all anticlimax after the 4,000 pigeons were released just before the game. If 4,000 pigeons had been released before each quarter, then perhaps the excitement of the game would have been sustained. Green Bay 35, Kansas City 10.

II, Green Bay vs. Oakland:

The only Super Bowl game ever played in the history of Mankind that was more delicious with excitement than Super Bowl II was Super Bowl I.

The highlight again occurred just before the game. A 20-foot high Green Bay Packer float stalked across the field belching smoke from three-foot-wide nostrils. At the 50-yard line he met up with a Raider of the same monstrous dimensions.

Everyone missed the pigeons: Green Bay 33, Oakland 14.

III, Baltimore vs. New York Jets:

This game changed the course of history, like the Battle of Jericho. A long-haired fellow who blew his own horn saved the upstart new league, the AFL.

Not only did he smite the Philistine Colt, but he also broke down the hallowed walls of traditional pre-game conduct. It was broadcast that the night before this monumental contest he had relaxed all night with a blond and a bottle of booze and emerged on Super Sunday ready to do battle wearing his mink coat. This latter-day saviour said the story was Apocrypha. He said he did not wear his mink coat. New York 16, Baltimore 10.

IV, Minnesota vs. Kansas City:

This was a great day, perhaps the greatest ever. Two giant balloons were released in the pre-game ceremony. They floated into the stands and the fans, unsympathetic, began to rip the balloons and the balloonist in each. "They were bloodthirsty," related one of the balloonists later. Meanwhile Pat O'Brien sang the national anthem while Doc Severinsen chimed in with his trumpet. It was beautiful. Unfortunately, O'Brien was about three bars ahead of Severinsen. Fortunately, few knew since the mikes weren't working.

To soothe the ruffled fans, 3,000 pigeons were released, along with 20,000 colored balloons and three tons of confetti.

At halftime, an ear-splitting, side-splitting and tear-jerking rendition of the Battle of New Orleans took place. Cannons went off and grown men dressed in British and American costumes fell down. Kansas City 23, Minnesota 7.

V, Baltimore vs. Dallas:

On Super Sunday morning, a group of reporters were standing in front of the Americana Hotel in Miami waiting for the press bus to take them to the game. Coming down Collins Avenue happened to be what looked like five or six families, on bicycles, with pennants fluttering on handlebars, apparently on the way to a picnic someplace.

Veteran sportswriter Jimmy Cannon, a tough side-of-the-mouth-talking New Yorker, spotted this group and said, "Look what inflation has done to the Hell's Angels." Baltimore 16, Dallas 13.

VI, Miami vs. Dallas:

Sometime before Super Sunday, Miami coach Don Shula received a phone call at his home at 1:30 in the morning. It was the President of the United States of America, Richard M. Nixon, calling with a play that he was sure would work for the Dolphins (it didn't).

"Nixon said he couldn't sleep because he was thinking so hard about this super play."

"I thought it was some nut calling," said Shula.

Dallas 24, Miami 9, Washington 0.

Who knows what glories Super VII will wreak.

Game Is Cancelled

Pampa High School's game with Altus, Okla., originally scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled due to hazardous driving conditions and a natural gas shortage in Altus.

The gas shortage will result in the Altus school system being forced to cut off the gas to the school after school hours are over. The game will not be re-scheduled this year.

Ranger Doak Elledge On AAA First Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Uvalde's Class 3A champion Coyotes placed three men on the Texas Sportswriters' Association All-State first team roster with tackle Ronnie Rogers getting the distinction of making it on both the offensive and defensive units.

Runnerup Lewisville landed sophomore running back sensation Paul Rice and linebacker Jim Bragg on the first 22.

Brenham's Wilson Whitley, a rugged 6-foot-3, 270-pound tackle, was the nearest to unanimous on offense. He was mentioned on every ballot. Offensive end Mike Crosswhite of Gregory-Portland was the second leading vote-getter on offense while Rice was third.

Defensive back Chris Spray of Pecos was the top vote-getter on defense.

Lubbock Dunbar linebacker Thomas Howard, running back Matt Murksi, Brenham and Whitley were repeaters from last year's All-Star team.

Rogers and Whitley were the only players to make the first team on both offense and defense.

QUESTION: What is dual challenge racing?

For most spectators, the traditional type of ski racing — man against the clock — is difficult to watch and understand. Only people who can appreciate the technical aspects of this type of competition truly enjoy it.

Man-against-man racing, the dual challenge format used in professional ski racing, is an exciting style of racing that all spectators, even nonskiers, can enjoy.

In dual racing, two skiers race side by side on twin courses, usually giant slalom or slalom. In dual challenge, two racers start at the same time. The first racer to complete his course is the winner of the heat. Then, because variations in terrain usually make one course slightly faster, the skiers switch courses and run again. The racer who wins both heats, or beats his opponent by the overall greatest time difference in two heats, is the winner.

Under this format, the spectator can easily follow the action of ski racing. When two racers are skiing full speed, side by side, the technical subtleties of racing are magnified for all to see and understand. But more than that, the excitement of watching two skiers sprint down a course, jockeying back and forth, pushing to take the lead, and poling and driving, is something incomparable in skiing.

And not only do the fans enjoy this type of competition, it is also more challenging and rewarding for the racers themselves.

In man-against-man competition, a racer can compare himself with his competitor — he becomes more aware of his own weaknesses and strengths. And he is always pushing himself to the limit. Because of this, dual challenge racing is a very good training device, which many coaches are now using.

Victory Doesn't Mean A Thing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last time the Miami Dolphins lost a football game it was to Washington — but that doesn't mean a thing, psychologically or otherwise, says Redskins Coach George Allen.

"We used a lot of different people then and so did they," Allen said Monday of the Redskins' 27-34 preseason triumph against the Dolphins, who then proceeded to chalk up a perfect regular-season record followed by playoff victories against Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

"It's as if the California Angels beat, say, the Los Angeles Dodgers in an exhibition, then they wound up in the World Series. One has nothing to do with the other."

Mentioning the Angels wasn't just by chance. It's their home, Anaheim Stadium, where the Redskins are working out for their first National Football League championship game since 1945.

They attracted some 4,000 young fans to their hour-long practice, then had to run for cover when more than half the spectators, ignoring the slim security force, vaulted the ball-park fences and stormed onto the field, seeking autographs, pictures and handshakes.

"It was heartening," Allen said of the turnout, "but scary." The Redskins coach also said he couldn't understand how Washington has been installed as a slim favorite to beat the Dolphins in Super Bowl VII on Sunday.

"They're 16-0 and they've got the No. 1 offense and No. 1 defense in the league," he said. "And they've got the three best running backs on any one team." Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris and Jim Kiick.

The Redskins generally brushed aside the idea that Miami might have a psychological edge over them, having already been in a Super Bowl while it's new to Washington.

"It's all the same game," said wide receiver Roy Jefferson. "You formulate a game plan, work on it, then go into the game and try to execute it, that's all."

And linebacker Jack Pardee, one of the raft of Redskins who followed Allen to Washington after the coach had been dumped by the Los Angeles Rams, added:

"We're not exactly rookies. And we've got a few guys who've been in championship games, like Jefferson when he was with Baltimore, and Verlon Biggs (with the defensive end was with the New York Jets) and a couple of others. So the fact that they were here last year and we weren't doesn't really mean much."

Two Start First Time

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's Dave DeBusschere and Atlanta's Pete Maravich will be in the starting lineup for the first time when the National Basketball Association holds its annual All-Star Game in Chicago Jan. 28.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy today announced the first eight players selected by writers and broadcasters to represent the East in the 23rd annual classic at Chicago Stadium.

John Havlicek of Boston was named for the eighth straight year, joining New York's Walt Frazier and DeBusschere. Atlanta's Maravich and Boston's Dave Cowens as starters.

Completing the first eight are Lou Hudson of Atlanta, Wes Unseld of Baltimore and Lenny Wilkens of Cleveland.

The eight coaches in the Eastern Conference will select six additional players for the East team. Since each NBA club must be represented by at least one player and no more than three, the coaches must pick at least one man from Buffalo, Houston and Philadelphia and no more than one additional player from New York, Boston or Atlanta.

A New Type Army Steps Into View

By PAUL HARVEY
President Nixon's plans for the Army after Vietnam call for an all-volunteer force of fewer than 1 million men.

Despite the conviction of some and the hope of everyone that this will be our last war, we can't let our insurance lapse.

Departing from office, Defense Secretary Laird said, "Without the draft we'll have to rely more heavily on the Guard and reserves."

Until recently, being a reservist, except as an alternative to being drafted, has been utterly unrewarding. One weekend a month you'd trudge off to an army, usually to sit around, shuffle papers, doze or clean rifles that are never fired more than once a year.

Guardsmen and reserves, Laird admits, have been our Pentagon's stepchildren. Rarely did their missions relate to national strategy. Their programs were never an adequate challenge for enlightened young men and women. Their equipment was shoddy; outdated, inadequate, understandable, when the Vietnamese war unfolded our government used draftees rather than "pretrained" men.

That's changing. In fiscal '73 a billion dollars' worth of mostly brand-new equipment will be transferred to the Reserve and National Guard.

Hereafter in any emergency these men will be the first called.

In 1968 the average enlisted reservist received $32 for his lost weekends; now it's $52.

Army Reserve and Army Guard now, total 660,000 men. That's 40,000 men short. So new incentives are being instituted for recruitment and for re-enlistment and most important—training is going to be made relevant.

The Department of Defense has prepared for Congress a package of bait including further pay hikes, merit promotions.

Whenever old soldiers get together nowadays in VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars) posts or American Legion halls, they talk about "the old Army." They refer to the spit-and-polish, snap-to, gung-ho Army which lost all those qualities while straddling the DMZ in Korea and the DMZ in Vietnam.

No-win, pulled-punches wars where the announced objective is a midfield stalemate inspire nobody.

It's a new Army now—an easy-life, mark-time-in-place Army with beer in the mess halls and no KP—but the fire in the belly which motivated generations of fighting men has gone out.

How are we going to rekindle that fire? By making the Guard and reserves our first-riding linebackers and by letting them know that they are.

Just money won't do it. No mercenary army ever yet won a war. But war is going out of style. The peacekeeping force will require men with technical skills competent to employ the technology which alone can keep the wolves and bears at a respectful distance.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Cities are a universal symbol of civilization which have served as places where people gathered for mutual safety and defense. Cities have gone on to become marketplaces for goods and ideas, seats of government, and centers of religious devotion. The World Almanac notes. By division of labor and by easing communication between people, cities created the opportunity to invent new technologies and new ways of viewing life.

RAY CROMLEY Finds Alcoholism Epidemic in Soviet

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There are signs alcoholism has reached almost epidemic proportions in the Soviet Union and is still on the increase. According to a number of Western scholars, consumption of alcohol in the U.S.S.R. doubled between 1950 and 1960 and has since increased by another 50 per cent or more.

And two-thirds of that consumption is hard liquor. This despite the most stringent laws against drunkenness — including exile — and concerted antidrunkenness propaganda campaigns using the full resources of the state and Communist party.

David E. Powell of the University of Virginia, who has done some excellent research on the problem, says the available data indicates that in Russia intoxication contributed heavily to crime, delinquency, divorce and mental retardation. Most of those convicted of criminal activity acted under the influence of alcohol. More than half of all fatal accidents involve individuals who are drunk.

Drunkenness is also the cause of millions of lost mandays, diminished output and increased wastage in plants, factories and farms. Industrial enterprises each year report hundreds of thousands of cases of absenteeism and tardiness due to drinking.

On Mondays and the days after holidays, cases of defective work and accidents are more frequent.

Moonshining is rampant and practiced in virtually every village. Schoolchildren as young as fifth graders are reported to have become alcoholics.

These problems, of course, exist in virtually every village. Schoolchildren as young as fifth graders are reported to have become alcoholics.

These problems, of course, exist in virtually all nations. But Powell's studies give him reason to believe that the problem in the Soviet Union is of greater magnitude than in most other societies.

The problem of alcoholism has become so serious, in fact, that from what can be gathered by researchers working here, the eradication of drunkenness has been assigned a top priority by Leonid Brezhnev and his colleagues in the Kremlin, who apparently regard excessive drinking as a crime associated with the vestiges of capitalism.

Drunks may find their names and pictures on public bulletin boards for in the newspapers. They are publicly ridiculed by name. Habitual drunks are put into sessions and attacked and grilled for hours on end by fellow workers. Some habitual offenders are assigned guardians to watch over them at work, at home and at play.

Habitual drunks who refuse voluntary treatment and who violate public order or labor discipline are to be sent to institutions for one-to-two-year terms of treatment and labor reeducation.

Soviet doctors attempt hypnosis, drugs and conditioned reflex therapy with very limited success. In one more effective approach, alcoholics are given a violent emetic with a glass of vodka.

The propaganda campaign against drunkenness is heavy and sustained in public, in the press, in schools. But however effective incessant government and Communist party propaganda may be in other fields, here it obviously has failed.

The precious blood of Jesus Alone can cleanse within. So now I trust in Jesus, My Saviour crucified; It was for me He suffered, For me He bled and died.

Both Sons Get Same Infection

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — Recently within one week of each other my two sons, aged 18 and 20, came down with what the doctor said was epididymitis, starting with swelling of the throat glands and after a week of treatment, both were pronounced well but within a few hours of going off antibiotics, they began to swell in the testicles—as large as an eggplant—with a fever of 104+. After a week of this high temperature and pain, they were told to rest for another week. One is okay, but the 18-year-old is still sore and does not feel like working.

Would you tell me something of this and what the prognosis is. The doctor just said that it was an infection. I am concerned about the 18-year-old going to college, and I feel he should postpone his schooling if necessary.

Dear Reader — Epididymitis refers to inflammation of the cordlike structure along the body of the testis. It can be inflamed, along with the body of the testicle, which is more correctly called epididymitis and orchitis. With such large swelling as you describe I would suspect that might be the case.

In young men, a common infection that is associated with swelling in the throat or neck glands followed by inflammation of the testicles with marked swelling is mumps. I can't tell from your description whether the neck swelling was mumps.

Glands that swell in the neck from mumps do so because of inflammation from the mumps virus. The same inflammatory process can cause swelling of the testicles. These individuals are pretty sick, just as you described your sons. Often there isn't a great deal one can do except provide symptomatic treatment for the discomfort until the disease has run its course. There is no way to predict whether there will be any residual damage or not until after the illness is over, and a complete examination is done.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Last night I read the letter to you from a reader who tried to do sit-up exercises with his feet on the couch. She found it impossible to do. This morning I tried it, and I did ten sit-up exercises. Later in the day I did eight more. I had no trouble at all. I am a woman 67 years young.

Dear Reader—Congratulations! That means you have relatively good abdominal muscles and have probably taken good care of yourself. You are way ahead of the reader who couldn't do sit-up exercises with his feet on the couch or the chair. This type of sit-up exercise is particularly good to increase the amount of work the abdominal muscles have to do. If you do sit-up exercises with the legs stretched out flat on the floor, much of the work will be done by the muscles which bend the hips rather than the abdominal muscles.

Buildup Around Hanoi Shows Viet Intentions
By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Hanoi and Haiphong are defended by the densest concentration of Russian-made anti-aircraft missiles and guns in the world — next to Moscow.

An estimated 25 SAM missile battalions are deployed in and around the North Vietnamese capital and major port.

The SAM-2, electronically operated and radar-targeted, has a ceiling of about seven miles. B-52s fly at that altitude when over enemy targets.

Since the start of the intensified bombing, U.S. experts estimate the Communists have fired more than 3,500 SAMs—all provided by the Soviet Union via Red China. The missiles were transported by rail and trucks at night and during bad weather.

This massive anti-aircraft buildup took place during the two-month bombing lull that preceded the stalemate of the Kissinger-Tho peace negotiations in Paris.

This would clearly indicate Hanoi never had any serious intention of coming to terms.

Otherwise, why would the Communists go to such huge and costly efforts to mass such an extraordinary array of anti-aircraft armaments in and about Hanoi and Haiphong—and to a lesser but still sinister extent at other potential targets.

Obviously, the Reds were thinking and planning along other lines than ending the decade-old conflict.

Other Locations, Too
There are now more than 220 SAM missile sites in North Vietnam.

In addition to Hanoi and Haiphong, every town of any size, rail centers, depots, power plants and other likely targets have a concentration of anti-aircraft missiles and other defenses. Some are not manned all the time, but are kept in readiness for speedy use.

This is due to lack of trained personnel. North Vietnam has an estimated 45 SAM "battalions," which are insufficient to man all the missile sites.

At least half of the battalions are deployed in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas.

Between 10 and 15 SAM battalions are operating south of the 20th parallel; the remainder are in reserve for use as required.

Prior to the large-scale B-52 strikes at Hanoi and Haiphong, the big, eight-engine bombers had not been used over heavily defended targets—with one exception. This was an attack last April on a petroleum depot on the outskirts of Haiphong after the Communists launched an offensive in South Vietnam.

The B-52s destroyed most of the fuel storage without sustaining a loss. All returned safely to their bases.

The Communists are using a new tactic in countering the latest B-52 strikes.

They are firing SAM missiles in clusters or salvos resembling a shotgun blast. This is a very costly technique, but it is taking a toll.

U.S. pilots report seeing "literally swarms" of SAM missiles in the air at one time. It is calculated that for each B-52 hit or downed, the enemy expends more than 75 SAMs.

While the B-52 has a ceiling of seven miles, it is vulnerable in some respects.

Unlike the fighter-bomber, it is not easily maneuverable and thus cannot dodge and shift to avoid SAMs or attacking planes. On a bombing run, the B-52 has to fly a steady course and thus is subject to anti-aircraft and other hostile fire.

This accounts for their unprecedented losses in the past several weeks in the Hanoi-Haiphong attacks.

With a few exceptions, the big bombers have never before been used over densely defended targets. In Vietnam, they have been employed primarily over coastal and southern inland targets where it has been possible to make a fast bombing run and depart before the enemy could effectively hit back.

While these losses have made headlines, actually they are relatively "minor" in view of the large number of B-52s employed.

Also, these casualties would be much greater but for electronic and other devices extensively countering and deflecting the hordes of SAM missiles daily being expended by the Communists.

These secret countermeasures are never mentioned in press reports, but it can be authoritatively stated they are highly effective and are holding down SAM hits to "acceptable" limits.

Peace: If and When

Nobody should be surprised that the Vietnam peace talks grind on in the same ragged, agonizing, seemingly aimless way the war itself has struggled along.

All sides haggle, gnawing on petty details, like drunken knights trying to talk themselves into slaying a dragon. From inertia and lack of compassion has come such a criminal laziness that it seems at times that nobody really wants the war to end.

What will the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong do to maintain their revolutionary zeal without a war? Where else can they find such a prominent place in history and life? How much worse is it to be a battered but gallant underdog than a safe but anonymous drone?

What can the South Vietnamese government expect from peace other than more—and more difficult—trouble? Why endit just when things are going well? If the South Vietnamese face condescension and impatience from their allies now, what could they expect with the war over?

What can the United States do after the war ends to explain why we did not win? (Americans not liking ties, we play the extra bloody innings on and on.) What will we talk about when the only war we have no longer exists? Will we really be able to do anything to cope with all those domestic problems everybody says we have been ignoring? How safe and secure a war this has become. It is a war where there are not even any battles, only deaths, a war where there are not any victories, only survival. So Americans, perhaps, dread the end of the war because it will mean we have to add things up, look somewhere for results and make an accounting for ourselves. And it is not likely to be an accounting anyone will feel good about.

Hardly any Americans, after all, are even getting wounded in the fighting of the war these days—never mind the thinking about it—and we are only conveniently involved. We are always on offense, planes dropping the bomb after bomb that tears up the few pieces of Vietnamese ground not already torn up; that occasionally hurls a piece of ripping metal or plastic into the body of an enemy; that unforgivably enters the statistical summary of the war.

It is as if we were perpetuating the life of a dying loved old relative, doing as much as we have to but not as much as we could, making sure the process is as painless as possible—for us. "Thus conscience does make cowards of us all," said Hamlet.

We are left now watching a dove instead of a hawk make the lazy circles in the sky. ("Peace is at hand," said Henry Kissinger when nobody had ever said "war is at hand," or wanted to.) Some wars have ended with exclamation points, others with question marks. This one will end only with infinite ellipses, trailing drops of rain.

On Way to Top, Jr. Exec?

A junior executive between the ages of 25 and 29 is on a "fast track to the top" if his annual pay equals his age times $750, or from $18,750 to $21,750.

If he's between 30 and 39, the formula is age times $1,000, or a range of about $30,000 to $39,000. This is the handy rule of thumb devised by Handy Associates of New York, as reported by the Wall Street Journal. Where does this leave the still-junior executive who is pushing 40 and is only now making what the 25-year-old corner is starting out with?

Comedian Fred Allen had a phrase that would seem to apply. He's not on a fast track to the top but a "treadmill to oblivion."

Pity the Poor Taxpayer

It promises to be a bumper legislative year in 1973.

According to Commerce Clearing House, which keeps tabs on the doings of state legislatures, especially as they affect personal and business pocketbooks, 49 legislatures will meet in 1973.

This is 12 more than met in 1972 (numerous legislatures meet only every other year). Only Kentucky is not scheduled for a regular session in 1973.

imagined from A to Z will be covered by the thousands of bills that will cascade into legislative hoppers this year, says CCH, with, if the past is a guide, emphasis on R and T—revenue and taxes.

Robert E. Lee: He could fight without anger. He could win without ambition. He could triumph without vanity. He could lose without bitterness.

Teachers Strike
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The city's 18,000 public-school teachers struck today for the second time in four months after last-ditch talks failed to reach a contract agreement.

Teachers Strike
The strike, which came after the teachers' union said an offer of binding arbitration came too late, officially began at midnight Sunday.

Teachers Strike
A school-board spokesman said it would seek an injunction from Common Pleas Court Judge D. Donald Jamieson today in an effort to end the strike which affects 200,000 students.

Teachers Strike
Jamieson, who was instrumental in ending a 22-day walkout in September, withdrew from the talks Saturday and said he couldn't issue an injunction until the strike actually began.

Teachers Strike
As the midnight deadline on the three-month contract extension neared, the school board offered to submit the dispute to binding arbitration, but Frank Sullivan, president of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, said the union refused the offer.

Teachers Strike
"We cannot accept arbitration now because of a fact-finding process which was so adverse to the union we couldn't accept it," he said.

Teachers Strike
Talks had been going on for 15 months on the key points of a new contract on which both sides consistently have refused to back down or compromise.

Teachers Strike
The strike, which came after the teachers' union said an offer of binding arbitration came too late, officially began at midnight Sunday.
