Pampa's only well-water faucet destroyed by vandals on Sunday

By JULIA CLARK Staff Writer

Hundreds of Pampans who haul water from the city well rather than drink from the tap are running dry this week. as vandals sometime Sunday broke the city faucet at the well

An anonymous person called the police department

Sunday afternoon, reporting the well was broken. A police officer went to the well house on Ward Street and found the pipe had been broken off

The city water department said it was the only place in Pampa to get pure well water at this time.

According to Eugene Edmondson of the water treatment plant, someone had broken the pipe off inside the large sawdust - filled barrel. He said it should be fixed today, barring any unforeseen circumstances.

"It is really no big matter to get it fixed. They should have water it working today," he said

Edmondson didn't know how many people depend upon the well for their water, but they do fill the holding tank about every two to three months.

(Charlie Smith, city engineer said the water tank holds about 420,000 gallons.)

Edmondson said there is no meter on the faucet because the water department receives no revenue from the well

The water is tested for purity once a month. He said he. personally, doesn't see any difference between the well water and the lake water which most Pampans receive through the faucets in their homes.

'We keep it as a service to those who want to use it." he

Texas and Oklahoma fight over which gets to try murder case

Senior Writer

"WHEELER — The governors of both states will settle a battle between Texas and Oklahoma officials and decide who will prosecute a Wheeler County man charged with an execution - style murder - a murder which may be linked to an organized drug ring and killers and three previous assassinations last year in Beckham County, Okla.

Michael D. Anderson, 26, agreed to enter a guilty plea for the February murder of Robert Eugene Hall, 28, of Sayre, Okla., according to Texas District Attorney Guy Hardin Hardin said Anderson was to enter the plea next Tuesday in 31st District Court in Wheeler. He said the suspect asked that a jury assess his punishment for the

Any action in the case was placed on hold Monday, however, when Oklahoma authorities asked Judge Grainger McIlhany to delay Anderson's day in Texas court. McIlhany agreed to indefinitely postpone Anderson's trial, until the issue of jurisdiction is settled.

Hardin is fighting the effort to move the case from Texas to Oklahoma, and he asked Governor Mark White to deny the request to extradite Anderson to Oklahoma Hardin said he has ample evidence to convict Anderson in Texas. He said both physical evidence and statements from witnesses to the brutal killing prove that the murder was committed in Wheeler County, near Anderson's isolated farmhouse where the victim's body was discovered March 2.

"I have ample evidence to put him in the pen for life," Hardin said Monday

However, Oklahoma Assistant District Attorney at Sayre Doug Haught said today that his office has asked Governor George Nigh to seek the suspect's return to Oklahoma for trial. He said the extradition request was filed with Nigh a week ago

Haught said contrary to what Hardin said Oklahoma officials have evidence to prove the murder was committed in Oklahoma near Sayre and that the victim was later transported and buried in Wheeler County.

'We've become convinced this is where the crime occurred. We're concerned with the validity of prosecution in Texas," Haught said today.

Haught said his office is "looking very hard" at the possibility that Hall's murder may be linked to three other murders in Beckham County last year. The fourth execution - style killing in the rural Oklahoma County has residents frightened that organized killers have run amok in the county, the assistant D.A. said.

The following is a look at the sequence of events and the possible bloodbath of murder which spilled into Wheeler County this month

- January, 1982: the body of a male murder victim is found shot to death and dumped at the side of a road near Carter, Okla. February, 1982: the body of a second male victim is found dumped along another rural road near Carter in Beckham County. April, 1982: the body of a third male victim is discovered in the same area. All victims were shot numerous times at close range with a large caliber weapon and dumped in an isolated area of Beckham County One victim remains unidentified today. All were young and may have been associated with drug suspects, Haught said.

February, 1983: Donna Hall, ex - wife of eventual murder victim Robert Hall is brutally assaulted by drug suspect David Staggs. of Elk City, according to Haught. Staggs is arrested and charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, possession of methamphetamine and pointing a weapon. Staggs is scheduled to be tried on the charges April 6 — Donna Hall is scheduled as a prosecution witness

- February 1983: From his cell, a drug suspect orders Anderson to kill both Robert Hall and Donna Hall for having big mouths about drug dealing. according to Hardin.

- late February 1983: Three people abduct the Halls from their Sayre home. After driving for a distance on rural roads, (in Texas, Hardin says in Oklahoma, Haught says), Robert Hall is ordered from the car and murdered. He is shot four times in the back of the head with a large - caliber weapon All slugs exit through the victim's face. Hall's body is placed into the trunk of the car, and the group continues its journey. The victim is buried in a shallow ditch behind Anderson's Wheeler - County house. Donna Hall is allowed to live and told to go to Florida and keep her mouth shut, Hardin said.

- March 1: The Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation receives a phone call from Houston from Donna Hall. Hall tells authorities where to find her ex - husband's body - March 1, 10:30 p.m.: Wheeler County Sheriff

Doyle Ramsey receives a call from Oklahoma officers, directing him to Hall's body. - March 2, 12 a.m.. The decomposing victim is unearthed under six inches of dirt, about 18 miles northeast of Shamrock.

- March 2, 11:30 p.m.: After a Texas murder warrant is issued by Hardin, Anderson surrenders to police in Lake Charles. La. He gives police a statement about the killing, Hardin said. Donna Hall asks for and is granted protective custody. Zane Sharum, of Sayre, is confined as a material

 March 3: an autopsy reveals Hall has been dead at least six days, but not more than eight. - March 5: Anderson waives extradition and is returned to the Wheeler County Jail. March 7: Anderson is arraigned for murder. - March 9: Anderson is indicted on a Texas murder charge. March 10: Oklahoma officials still file no charges in the case. "It was in a rural area near the state line. They were traveling. We aren't going to split hairs over which side of the line they were on when his heart stopped beating," Haught says at the time. He says Oklahoma officials will monitor Anderson's prosecution in Texas.

 March 14: Oklahoma District Attorney James; P Garrett issues a complaint charging Anderson with first - degree murder.

- March 15: A request to extradite the suspect is filed by Garrett with Governor Nigh

March 28: Hardin says he will fight the effort to move the case from Texas. He also save Anderson fears he will be killed, if he is returned to

 Today: the issue of jurisdiction over the murder case is pending, and residents of Beckham and Wheeler Counties are wondering who will be

'That's something that bothers a lot of people here." Haught said

Did Clements' campaign get EPA money? WASHINGTON (AP) - Documents

released by a House committee investigating the Environmental Protection Agency purport to show that the White House tried to use a part of the $1.6 billion "superfund" toxic waste cleanup program to boost the re-election bid of former Texas Gov.

Ignoring the calendar, wintry storms swept from Nevada to New England on the second full day of spring, leaving eight people dead in Wisconsin from shoveling snow and sending cars crashing helter-skelter on icy roads in the Northeast.

Snow fell from Illinois to New Hampshire and temperatures dipped into the 20s early today, with the cold reaching far enough south to threaten Georgia peaches

Along the Atlantic coast, rain fell Monday on already saturated ground or drained into swollen rivers. Floods drove 16 families from their homes along the Merrimack River in Massachusetts.

The stormy weather has been blamed for 14

deaths since the weekend. From Maryland to Massachusetts, dozens of rivers and streams were reported overflowing or near flood stage. "Plan ahead. Be ready to move quickly if necessary," a weather service bulletin

"We're going to keep pumping until one of three things happens: either the rain stops, the pumps break, or we collapse," said Fire Chief Clem Silva, in Provincetown, Mass., where roads and basements were flooded and storm drains were clogged with sand.

Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit and Fort Wayne. Ind., were tormented with half a foot or more of windblown snow after Monday's storm. Drifts were waist-high in parts of Indiana and southern Michigan, where up to a foot of snow fell.

A Purdue University student died in an accident involving two snowmobiles and a sled in West Lafayette, Ind.

Rain, snow and sleet made road conditions treacherous in western New York. "We've got a little bit of everything today," said a forecaster for the National Weather Service in Buffalo, N.Y. "You name it, we've got it falling someplace.

The weather service predicted snow today from Ohio to New England as the storm marched northeast toward Quebec. A second winter storm was sweeping down from the Rocky Mountains and vet another storm was poised to hit the West Coast, said Nolan Duke of the weather service's Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Hundreds of traffic accidents were blamed on the weather. In the Buffalo, N.Y., area, 29 cars were damaged in three pile-ups early Monday and another crash killed a 34-year-old man. A 44-year-old man died in a two-car collision on a slippery highway in Watertown Township, Mich.

The snow posed a different threat in Wisconsin. Eight men, ranging in age from 58 to 82, collapsed and died Monday during or after shoveling snow in southeastern Wisconsin, according to sheriff's officials in Waukesha and Milwaukee counties.

Mitchell Field, Milwaukee's airport, was closed for about seven hours Monday morning after ground crews gave up trying to keep runways clear of snow driven by wind gusts of up to 44 mph.

Hightower wants to repeal withholding

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Panhandle Congressman Jack Hightower is helping sponsor a bill to repeal a law requiring financial institutions to withhold a 10-percent federal income tax on savers' interest and dividends, Hightower's office

The withholding tax provision was passed in 1982 as part of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act and is scheduled to take effect on July 1. Hightower said he has opposed the provision since 1980 as "unnecessary" and not worth the trouble to the public or to the financial institutions themselves

"Although it's not a new tax, this new procedure does deprive a person of the use of that taxable 10 percent prior to income tax day," Hightower said.

The withholding provision was aimed at taxpayers who do not report their taxable income from interest and was drafted as part of the Reagan administration's tax reform package; it exempts the elderly with total tax liability of less than $1,500, Social Security income and anyone paying less than $600 in taxes last year. Participants will run, job and walk a 13.1 - mile course, beginning from the Amarillo Medical Center, beginning at 9 a.m. to raise funds for sight restoration and programs related to blindness resulting from diabetes.

 Diabetes has becvome the leading cause of blindness in the developed -world and its prevention is now a world wide project of Lions International.

R.H. McKelvy Jr., Lions Journey for Sight Chairman of Lions District 2 - T -1. said a large part of the money raised by the "journey" will go to the Lions Hi Plains Eye Bank to help provide cornea transplants to restore sight for those who have been unable to see as the result of illness or injury.

Explaining that while most of the money will remain in the Panhandle. McKelvy noted that part of the proceeds will go to the Lions Club International Foundation to be designated for diabetes related programs

While Lions from the 63 Lions clubs in the Panhandle will be participating in the project, each of the individual clubs will be sponsoring fund - raising Journeys for Sight in their own communities. McKelvy said.

He noted that although the project is sponsored by the Lions, anyone wishing to raise money for the eye conservation projects is welcome to participate in the walkathon

The 13.2 - mile "journey" will begin and end at the Discovery Center in the Amarillo Medical Center. The route will follow Wallace Boulevard in the Medical Center complex, go south on Coulter Road to the Interstate 40 access road, west on the access road to Arnot Road, north to Highway 66 and then east to the Medical Center, McKelvy

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

No new court is necessary

Chief Justice Warren Burger has endorsed a proposal for creating a special appeals court to decide issues on which any two of the 13 federal courts of appeals have also monumental differences, and this country must formureached conflicting decisions.

At present, such issues must be decided by the U.S. Supreme Court, which seems to have more work than it

We oppose the creation of any new court. The legal process already takes too long. We do not need any new tier in the cumbersome judicial system.

The Supreme Court has a workload problem. It can solve the problem by itself and with the cooperation of Congress without creating any new court.

First of all, the members of the high court need to exercise more self - discipline in choosing the cases it will review. The court rule requiring four of the nine justices to agree to hear a case could be changed to require five, a majority of the court, to agree. The Congress should pass legislation relieving the federal court system of responsibility for cases involving state law - not federal law - where litigants from different states are involved. All these cases should be tried in state courts.

The right of state prisoners to federal review of their eases should be limited to those involving allegations of manifest injustice, where the issue is guilt or innocence, not merely some technicality

Moreover, Congress should allow the Supreme Court to choose which cases it wants to hear and in what order, repealing laws that now require review in certain types of cases and give priority review to certain cases.

These are reforms that would prune away at the unwieldy workload of the judicial system. What the chief justice endorses would simply accommodate to a legal workload already swollen beyond all reasonable proportion and permit it to grow to even greater size.

El Salvador's spark could grow into a fire

By William A. Rusher

NEW YORK (NEA) - President Reagan's request to Congress for increased military and economic aid to El Salvador undeniably does, at first blush, exude an unpleasant aroma of deja vu. Haven't we been through all this somewhere before: the troops of a rightist and (let's assume, we won't be far wrong) corrupt government that either can't or won't fight communist-backed guerrillas; Washington's early involvement, in the form of "training" personnel; the invocation of the "domino theory"; the requests for larger and even larger commitments of money or economic and military assistance. Surely one could be forgiven for wondering if there isn't a better way, and (whether there is or not) if we shall not soon be confronted with a proposal to send American troops to the area.

Mr. Reagan, however, is not allowed the luxury of such intellectual fatigue. Yes, there are similarities - both real and only apparent - between the situation in El Salvador and the swamp into which the United States wandered, and where it lost 55,000 of its sons, in Vietnam. But there are late its policy toward El Salvador in the light of both the differences and the similarities.

The biggest difference, of course, is that Vietnam was 10,000 miles away, whereas El Salvador is right on Ameri-

California. Even if all the dominoes had fallen in strict sequence in Southeast Asia (as Laos and Cambodia promptly did), the last to fall would have been Indonesia, more distant from the United States than Vietnam itself. But El Salvador's northern neighbor is Guatemala, ruled by another rightist regime and plagued by its own dissidents; and directly north of Guatemala lies Mexico: huge, hungry, impoverished, corrupt - a gigantic human grenade, just waiting to explode. The most fascinating omission in the entire 35-year cold war between communism and freedom has been the total absence of communist destabilization maneuvers against Mexico. That was because Moscow hasn't been ready - but Mexico's day may be coming soon.

If and when that day comes, the United States will be obliged to commit to the defense of Mexico sums of money beside which the $363 million President Reagan seeks for El Salvador will seem piffling, indeed. And the case for using U.S. troops to fight alongside the Mexicans will be enormously persuasive. Surely it is better to stop the contagion in El Salvador, with military and economic aid alone, than allow it to reach Mexico's 2,000-mile border with the southwestern United States.

Congressional critics of the Reagan request, like Maryland's Democratic Rep. Michael Barnes, owe the American people an explicit description of what they propose instead, and what their response will be if El Salvador, despite their highest hopes, is simply incorporated into Moscow's fast-growing sphere of influence in Central America. Opponents of United States involvement in Vietnam largely escaped serious recriminations over the results of our bug-out there, not because the consequences weren't ghastly, but because they took place so far away that most Americans simply didn't care. But a communist roll-up of Central America will most assuredly be noticed by the American people, and in a few years they may well want to know who tried to stop it and who let it happen. The army of Nicaragua, Moscow's first Central American conquest, already boasts 60,000 men — more than the armies of its three closest neighbors (El Salvador, Honduras and Costa Rica) combined. The Nicaraguan government has just announced its intention to increase that figure to 200,000 which, as New York Times military analyst Drew Middleton has pointed out, will give Nicaragua a larger army than Brazil, a nation 46 times its size.

What is the purpose of this massive build up? Purely defensive? Then why — to take another example — have Latin American scholarships to the Soviet Union increased ninefold in the past 10 years alone?

Mr. Reagan urgently needs the modest help he has requested from Congress for El Salvador. A spark today may become a conflagration tomorrow.

Rushing headlong toward bankruptcy

By OSCAR COOLEY

M. Stanton Evans, editor turned columnist, has come to the forthright conclusion that "there is no good reason for adopting or raising any tax." This he calls the Iron Law of

Of course. A "tax" is a steal. If anybody but the government ordered us to pay them a certain sum of money for no quid - pro - quo. we would laugh in his face. But we have become so thoroughly sold on the idea that the government is an idis pensable protector of our lives and fortunes that we allow it to steal from us at will.

The only reason is does not tax us 100 percent is that then we would have no means of earning more - for it to take. It is prudent enough to leave a nest egg.

This is a good time for Evans to promulgate his Iron Law of Taxation. Government spending has risen to a fantastic height. To pay its bills, the government has borrowed heavily. Even under Reagan the budget is unbalanced.

Washington is not averse to having the people know how big its debt is and how far out of balance the budget is, for that makes them sympathize with Uncle Sam as he stumbles

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The jobs programs proposed in Congress this year are designed to meet the needs of 50 years ago. They are make - work jobs programs that do nothing to prepare Americans for emerging industrial occupations.

But the debt keeps growing, and the reason is simple: large as the government's tax income is, its spending is even larger Spending - the government's outgo - is not emphasized by the politicos: the need for more income is. So, existing taxes are raised and new taxes are devised and levied. presumably to balance the budget but actually to make more spending possible. Result: the outgo keeps ahead of the income. The debt and the interest thereon get bigger and bigger. Evans and his Iron Law.

Why does the spending keep ahead of the income? And why didn't this occur in early America?

It occurs because there is a big force of legislators and bureaucrats who want to do more things for more people (including themselves), and there is a vast number of people out there who are not only willing but eager to have more things done for them.

More and more Americans are turning to the government for help. The notion is spreading that whatever you want to have done, the government is the one to do it for you. As Evans says: "The past few decades have witnessed growth along under this Mount Everest of debt. They feel their of government at every level, a growth that shows no

What will all this spending, taxing and borrowing come to? The government will continue to borrow, the debt will continue to grow until it will be impossible to pay the interest. Someone has figured that by 1990 the annual interest on the debt will be as large as the government's entire budget in 1966. When the government can no longer pay the interest on its bonds, people will stop buying them At that point the government will be bankrupt, an almost incredible plight. It will have nothing with which to pay the salaries of its jobholders, so they will quit and look elsewhere

There will be a period of alarm, a sense of crisis. People will at last realize what has been developing. Can they get everything they want from government? Now they have achieved something they don't want: fiscal bankrupty.

It will be necessary to organize a new government and

Who put out contract on Anne?

By ART BUCHWALD

The story on Pennsylvania Avenue is that the press got Anne McGill Gorsuch Burford, head of the EPA. The rumor has been fanned by President Reagan as well as Mrs. Burford. It is unfortunately, untrue.

If you're looking for the culprits who put the contract out on the EPA director, you don't have to go any further than the inner sanctum of the White House. I got this directly from a horse's mouth in the West Wing

He told me. "We had to eliminate Anne Burford without "That was a shame. She seemed like such a nice person. I always thought she was a team player.

"Perhaps. But the heat was on, and we couldn't let it touch the President. We had to keep hazardous waste out of the White House

"But from what I can gather, Mrs. Burford was only following White House orders. Didn't you people want to dismantle EPA and make it easier for business to dump their sludge all over America?"

"Sure we wanted it. But we were hoping it could be done quietly. We asked for a surgeon, not a butcher. "But from all I can tell Mrs. Burford was only following instructions. I thought her marching orders were to make the environmentalists look like the neo - Nazis of the U.S." "We miscalculated the political remifications of the environment issue in the U.S. For some reason, which we didn't foresee, the American people don't like dirty air or dirty water as much as we thought they did. When Congress started making a mountain of acid drums out of every molehill, Mrs. Burford's days were numbered." "So she was sacrificed for political expediency?" We don't enjoy putting a contract out on anyone in the Reagan administration, but our job in the White House is to protect the President at all costs. When push comes to shove - you always shove the EPA head and not the President.'

'Does the President know you put a contract out on Mrs

"I think he suspects we did, though the less he knows, the better it is for him. He still wants to believe the press was out to get her and not us.

'Just out of curiosity. how did the White House force someone like Mrs. Burford to resign?" "The best way was to trickle down leaks to the press. One of our people told a White House correspondent Mrs. Burford was a lousy administrator. Another leaked that she played politics with the agency. A third handed out the EPA hit list. Then a staffer told a columnist where to look for conflict of interest in her staff. Our task was to make smoke and let the mecia fan the fire. To make sure it didn't look as if we were being disloyal, we denied everything that was printed in the press or appeared on television. When the President announced he had utmost confidence in Mrs. Buford and she could stay onthe job as long as she wanted, even Mrs. Burford knew it was time to resign.'

"It was clean and painless," I said in admiration. "And I'm sure Mrs. Burford doesn't even know who stabbed her in the back. She'll probably go through life thinking it was the press and the environmentalists who threw her in the acid

"We hope so. The last thing we want a person we dump in the EPA ashcan to believe is that we had anything to do with it. After all, we need Mrs. Burford for the 1984 Republican campaign, particularly since her philosophy towards cleaning up the environment is the same as ours.'

Social Security salvage bill trapped by battle

WASHINGTON (AP) - An increasingly bitter battle over withholding taxes from interest and dividends is trapping a $165 billion bill to shore up the troubled Social Security system. Senators who want to repeal withholding 'may win but not on this bill," vowed Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., manager of the Social Security legislation. "If we are going to have a Social Security bill, it's not going to have this amendment on it." It thus appears unlikely Congress will be able to meet its deadline of completing work before Easter on the big Social Security measure. Lawmakers plan to recess all next

While there is no pressure to pass the Social Security provisions immediately, unless the bill is passed by March 31 supplemental jobless benefits for many of the nation's unemployed workers would lapse. A provision extending the benefits for up to eight weeks is attached to the bill.

Accusing the banking lobby of misleading the public about withholding. Dole drew an angry response from Sen. Barry Goldwater. R-Ariz. "You are losing this for yourself," said Goldwater. "The American people don't like this and they don't care where (on what bill) you put this amendment.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, the Banking Committee chairman, wants to repeal withholding but not as part of the Social demagoguery at its worst tonight," Garn

This is the second time this month that the withholding fight has blocked Senate action on major legislation. A package of relief for the unemployed and others hit hardest by the recession was stalled for a week until an accommodation was reached with opponents of withholding.

The Senate was moving steadily Monday toward final action on Social Security when Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., offered an amendment to delay the start of withholding from interest and dividends six months past the present July 1 schedule - to Jan. 1, 1984.

Dole, who has become the biggest champion of withholding, assailed Melcher's effort as a new attempt by the American Bankers Association to get its way. He accused ABA, which has led the drive to repeal withholding, of "an underhanded, heavy-handed campaign... a disgraceful. shameful campaign.

After the Senate voted 58-37 to keep Melcher's amendment alive. Dole struck back. He offered an amendment to delay withholding only if the prime interest rate charged by the nation's 10 largest banks is below 6 percent on June 30. The prime rate, which is generally the rate offered a bank's best corporate customers, is at 10.5 percent.

In addition, Dole's amendment would have required banks to allow savers with as little as $300 to invest in their high-yielding Secuity bill. "We've seen Senate money-market accounts,

Affordable homes may be available

Though housing prices remain stable and interest rates have fallen, millions of families wishing to own a house still maintain they cannot afford one. They might be wrong.

Discussions with builders, lenders, owners, sellers, and real estate people repeatedly bring up many "cut-price" options available to those who really want to own a house and don't mind working for it.

Here are a few of them: -The fix-up house remains, as always, the first choice. While nothing is certain, many such homes have appreciated enormously in value. But in order to get them a buyer has to take a risk - and then work hard.

They are usually found in fringe areas - in neighborhoods that can improve or get worse. But as often happens, a risk-taker

-The two-family or three-family house remains a favorite of those who are strapped for funds. In many if not most instances they cost no more than single-family houses, but the income usually makes a big dent in the monthly payment.

A family that might be denied a mortgage loan on a single-family unit might obtain one on a house of the same price that provides income

LINDEN, Texas (AP)

Cass County, which lay beyond the edge of the great East Texas oil boom for more than 50 years, recently became the center of a new land rush fueled by two large discovery wells — one oil and the other gas.

Landmen, grubbing, for oil

Landmen grubbing for oil and gas leases have descended on the quiet little courthouse here in droves.

There are 50 or 60 researchers waiting each morning for the courthouse to open, and nearby a dozen more haunt the county's only abstract office.

When it was obvious that a little discomfort was no deterrent to the landmen's zeal. County Clerk Wilma O Rand lined the narrow halls on the first floor of the two-story courthouse with borrowed tables and chairs.

"First, they were sitting in the floor of the halls," she said.

A block away, the three-room Elliott And Waldron abstract company is equally overwhelmed by the landmen.

They began coming about three weeks ago, after Cities Service Corp. hit paydirt with a well between Kildare and Bivins — a well reportedly capable of producing 1.880 barrels of crude and 300.000 cubic feet of gas a day.

That discovery, sti!! considered secret by Cities Service. followed by a few weeks a Marshall Exploration Co. discovery near the Cass County community of Bloomburg. That well, rated at 119 million cubic feet a day, was the basis for a Darenco Co. announcement that it plans a 10 million-cubic-feet-a-day processing plant to handle the well's sour gas production.

Both wells were drilled to 12.000-foot depths and are on leases of 3,000 acres or more by the companies who drilled them.

Courthouse officials and abstract company owners have no estimate of how long the frenzy of lease-searching will last. However, it will probably continue until "every inch of land in Cass-County is leased," according to one landman's prediction.

Mrs. O'Rand said landmen researching deed records in her office began coming in the morning after the new oil discovery was reported.

"They get here before 8 a.m. and leave as we lock the doors to go home." Mrs. O'Rand said.

She said the custodians for the small, two-story, white-brick courthouse used to unlock the office around 7:30 a.m. "We came in several mornings and the office was already full."

Now, the doors are not unlocked until 8 a.m. and "there's usually a line out front of the courthouse, waiting to get in to start the day's work. Cass County is on the Texas Louisiana border midway between Marshall and Texarkana. Its courthouse holds a complement of tiny offices.

 It is plenty big for a county of 27,000 souls, but cramped quarters for the advance guard of an oil boom. "It has been a tremendous load on us. We can't get extra help at this time, so we'll just have to manage," said Mrs.

At the abstract office, landmen go in and out so fast, it's unbelieveable. Maurine Buckland said.

Mrs. Buckland and husband Waylon, owners of the company located in downtown Linden, now stay open on Saturday at the request of landmen.
"They're here when we

"They're here when we open the doors and still here when we close them." Mrs. Buckland said.

She said the activity is "the biggest thing since the Bryant Mill Field," which was brought in around 1960 brought in around 1960.

"There were probably just as many people over here, but we had two abstract offices and they were divided between the two." she said.

The influx also has stirred activity across the street from the courthouse at Anderson's Bakery and Cafe.

"We have had an increase in business. It's helped the business the last two weeks," Juanita Anderson said. "They are all real nice.

We're always glad to see new people in Linden," she said. "We don't see them that

Dear Abby

Second diagnosis frees woman from herpes pain

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to offer hope to other women who have possibly been misdiagnosed as I was.

My symptoms began almost 10 years ago. I went to my G.P., who sent me to a gynecologist, who said I had genital herpes. For 10 years I had periodic flare-ups that were most common after menstrual periods or sexual activity. These episodes caused a tremendous strain on my emotional system as well as my marriage. I can't begin to tell you the pain and frustration it caused, or the tears I shed

Finally, in desperation I went to another gynecologist. Bless him! He told me that I did not have a trace of herpes. What I did have was an allergy to the dye in the colored toilet tissue I had been using for years!

This allergy had been keeping me in a constant state of irritation for years. Since learning of this and using only unscented, white toilet tissue, I have been symptom-free!

If any of your readers are in doubt about a herpes diagnosis. I urge them to consider seeing another doctor. Doing so changed my life.

DEAR ME: Thanks for wanting to help others. Many women will bless you. But I'm not so sure about the manufacturers of scented, colored toilet

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently spent four days of our vacation with my brother and his wife. We had a wonderful time except for one thing - there was no window shade in the guest room, and the curtains were so sheer that we were awakened at sunrise every day.

After the first night, my brother asked us how we had slept, and I told him that we had slept very well but not long enough, thanks to "Ol' Mr. Sol."

Nothing was done about covering the window so that we could sleep longer. I felt that my comment was taken as an insult, though it wasn't intended to be.

Abby, I try to do all I can to make our guests' visits enjoyable, and I would welcome suggestions on how to add to their comfort. Was I wrong to point out the problem? Or should I have kept my mouth shut?

DEAR SLEEPY-EYED: You were not wrong to have pointed out the problem. Most hosts would have appreciated your candor and done something about it. Now that you've seen the light, buy eyeshades for your next visit.

DEAR ABBY: I am pregnant, but I haven't been to the doctor yet. Please don't ask me if I am "sure," as I am 42 and have had eight kids (my oldest is 22 and my youngest is 11), so I know all the signs.

A neighbor told me there is a new kind of test older women take to find out if the baby is OK. It also tells you whether it's a girl or a boy.

Have you ever heard of it? And if I take it, how long will it be before I know the results? INFANTICIPATING IN IOWA

DEAR INFANTICIPATING: The test is called "amniocentesis." And it takes between three and four weeks to get the results.

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Holding Out and Proud of It," I am only 12 but I have decided to save myself for the man I marry.

There are some my age that have already tried it and are sorry. Not me! Sign me

A new look at the home scene

AP Newsfeatures

American attitudes toward the home have changed quite a bit over the past decade or so, according to Louis O. Gropp.

Gropp, editor of House & Garden magazine and a longtime observer of the home scene, says that on the whole Americans have expanded the range of choices that are considered acceptable for setting up house. No more is the suburban ranch home on its own plot of ground considered the only way

Instead of one right way to furnish the living room or paint the walls, there are many possiblities - all of them "right." For some people, moving back into the city, reclaiming an old house, apartment or loft is the right way to live. For others, moving farther out into the country to achieve self sufficiency on a small farm or homestead holds more

Yet. others are very happy to find that suburban dream home and make it their own. The one constant, Gropp says, is "the continuing high priority placed on the idea of the home and on home ownership by most Americans.

Gropp bases his view on the results of a study made for the magazine and on his own travels across the country to gain new material for his pages.

Once a person who bought a tenement house, gutted it and then left it in that condition - coating its mottled walls with clear polyurethane to show them off - might have been considered different.

Today, the individual - San Francisco artist David Ireland - and his home soon will appear in the pages of House &

'It wouldn't suit most people to live in this fashion. But the house provides a lesson for everyone — that everyday, humble objects have a great potential for beauty, too," explained

The beauty of everyday objects is one lesson Gropp expects to see more fully applied in the near future. Yet another is the importance of technology.

To illustrate, he called attention to a Carlyle, Ill., house made of four prefabricated steel silo domes. "It looks more like an arctic apparition or a spacecraft" said Gropp, but the house can be heated for an entire winter on a cord of wood, provides generous amounts of open space and can be prefabricated for rapid construction.

Again, it is not for everyone, but it points the way to the role of technology in creating expanded options for home life.

One of the most important changes in recent years, according to Gropp, has been the greater creativity individuals have shown about their own needs.

They make choices more easily, are better educated and more sophisticated not only about what is available but also about what is right for themselves," he said.

He has also noticed there are greater regional differences than there used to be. Part of the charm of moving from region to region is the opportunity to change.

'In the past, people tended to establish a pattern and then stick with it for the rest of their lives," he said.

But that is less true today

NEW YORK (AP) - Parents will meet to share questions and experiences on child rearing, with their infants and toddlers present in the classroom at Pace University's Parent-Service Center.

The program, started last fall, is again being offered in cooperation with New York Infirmary-Beekman Downtown

Hospital's Pediatric Services. "It's a place where parents have the opportunity to explore common problems in an encouraging, non-judgmental social setting," said Dr. Bernice Blount, chairwoman of Early Childhood Education and director of the Little School

Rent-A-Kvetch nags for you

NEW YORK (NEA) -B.L. Ochman has been getting paid to complain for two years now. The 35-yearold public relations woman who goes by her initials because "I don't like my name" is president of Rent-A-Kvetch, a New York firm.

For $35 up front, and 10 percent of any settlement beyond $250, she will strike out on behalf of almost any red-faced heart failure candidate who has run out of resources trying to gain redress over some consumer

There was, for instance, the doctor who wrote to her from New Zealand regarding the chandelier he had bought in San Francisco. "All he wanted to do was buy replacement bulbs," she says. "He'd written and says. "He'd written and called the store but they wouldn't send him any information. I wrote to them on his behalf saying I'd report them to the board in California that licenses them to do business, and they finally sent him an order form." And there was the New had been burning independently for months. "She couldn't turn it off and she couldn't get the manager of the apartment building to do anything about it," says Ms. Ochman. "So I wrote to the landlord and copied the fire department because I thought a fire hazard was involved. It wasn't, but the landlord called immediately and said he'd never been told about the oven, which turned out to be true, and that he was eager to correct the situation since he was paying the building's electric bill! A few weeks later, the woman called to tell me that management was giving her a new kitchen. Ah, justice. Ms. Ochman, a native New Yorker, has been pursuing it all her life,

Since then, she says, "I've handled 200 complaints. Half my clients are men, in its most minute form.

Life in prison without parole sought as death penalty alternative

-AUSTIN (AP) - As a West Texas district attorney, John Montford had a no-nonsense, law-and-order reputation. He was known as John T. 99 for a long string of 99-year sentences doled out in cases he prosecuted.

But now Mr. 99 is Sen. Montford. D-Lubbock, and, as a "frustrated ex-prosecutor." he is looking for alternatives to the death sentence. Not because he opposes it. but because he thinks Texas lacks the guts to execute the people it sentences to die.

"I don't know that society is willing to carry it out." said Mentford. "I'm about ready to say. What the hell, nobody's going to carry it out life without parole. Under a regular life sentence, inmates are eligible for parole in 20 years.

Hernandez and Hudson also have filed bills to abolish the death penalty, but they acknowledge those bills have little chance to pass.

The life-without-parole alternative has caught Montford's eye. He favors the death penalty. "but if we're not going to have the guts to Montford said it's "difficult to put a finger on" the reason society seems to want a death penalty, but not executions.

"Even in very conservative, hardline West Texas, I've seen those juries melt on that death penalty question. I still support it. I think it should be carried out. But it's apparent to me that my views don't coincide with society." he said.

Defense lawyers support the life-without-parole option on the age-old grounds that jurors make mistakes.

"Once the death penalty is carried out, even if you find new evidence, there's nothing you can do with it," said Dain Whitworth, a lobbyist for the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association. The Texas District and

Criminal Attorneys Association sees no need for change. Floydada District Attorney Randy Hollums, co-chairman of the association's legislative committee, also relies on an age-old argument.

"The principal problem is why fix it if it ain't broke. I don't think it's broke at this time." said Hollums.

Life without parole raises the specter of an inmate who faces no further punishment for his behavior behind bars. he said.

"The man at that point quite possibly faces a situation where he could kill as he (pleases) in the prison system." according to Hollums.

Prison director Jim Estelle says it would be difficult to hold inmates who know they're never going home.

"As a practical point of view, say they did away with the death penalty and commuted all these 150 people I've got (on death row) to life without parole. Under what circumstances and conditions are you going to house and contain and program these people?" he

Aside from the security problems, Estelle said he believes life without parole

"would be worse than a death penalty."

The Hernandez and Hudson proposals leave the Texas Civil Liberties Union in somewhat of a dilemma. TCLU Director John Duncan, who spends much of his time fighting the death penalty. said he would testify in favor

"I don't like life without parole, though it's clearly preferable to capital punishment," said Duncan.

Duncan is unsure whether life without parole would lessen the number of death sentences or lessen the number of life with the chance of parole sentences.

Stars post 17-10 win over Stallions

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Kelvin Bryant ran so well it didn't matter that quarterback Chuck Fusina had an off-night.

Bryant carried 27 times for 177 yards in Philadelphia's 17-10 United States Football League victory over the Birmingham Stallions Monday night, setting up a match next weekend between the league's only two undefeated teams, the Stars and the Tampa Bay Bandits.

"I don't feel I played a good game, but we work hard on both the run and the throw. But we were running so good there's no need to throw." said Fusina, who completed eight of 15 passes for just 56 yards. The Stars rushed 30 times for 200 yards.

..We were pretty conservative." Fusina said.

to the Stars' offensive line.

"It lets me know our offensive line did a great job." Bryant said. "We've got some big horses up front. I just try to go out and play 100 percent. I don't worry about what people say about me."

When asked about his performance compared to Heisman Trophy-winner Herschel Walker of the New Jersey Generals, who has only 164 yards in 48 carries for the season. Bryant said: 'Our offensive line is better than New Jersey's.'

Stallions Coach Rollie Dotsch said, "Bryant demonstrated he is one of the best backs in the USFL, if not the country. "I'm never pleased when a guy runs the ball down our throat," Dotsch said. "Our tackling was shoddy in the first half," when Bryant rushed for 139 yards. "There are two things we do well, rush the passer and protect the passer. There are elements in our game I'm not pleased with."

Alvin Harvin scored the Stars' first touchdown on a 2-yard run around left end in the first quarter and set up Bryant's third-period TD with a 67-yard return of the second-half kickoff. Bryant then rushed five consecutive plays, scoring from the 1. Reggie Collier took the Stallions 58 yards in five plays for a touchdown, keeping the ball and sprinting around left end for the final 4 yards to tie the game in the first period.

David Trout's 23-yard, second-period field goal gave the Stars a lead they never relinquished.

Top-ranked Cougars face Memphis State, Lee in crucial NCAA showdown as good as we are.'

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The No. 1 ranked Houston Cougars solved the stall tactics used by the Maryland Terrapins last weekend but they may have an even bigger problem awaiting in Kansas City, Mo., this week - Keith Lee and the Memphis State Tigers.

The Cougars dispatched Maryland 60-50 Saturday in NCAA Midwest Regional second-round action. Sunday. Lee scored 28 points and got 15 rebounds as the Tigers outplayed Georgetown.

Now Houston Coach Guy Lewis is back at the drawing board trying to solve the latest roadblock to a return to the NCAA Championship tournament. Lewis got a hint of his problem after watching Lee's performance against Georgetown. "He certainly hasn't gotten any worse since last year when they voted him an All-American as a freshman." Lewis said Monday after an abbreviated

"It's so hard to say what you can do against him. He can score inside and outside and he shoots 80 percent at the free throw line," he said.

"I really don't think you can stop Keith Lee unless you let everyone else on the team go. You have to do a good job on him and try to contain the rest too.

Memphis State's coaching staff should have little problem finding locker room speech material in inspire the Tigers. Houston will carry a 23-game winning streak into the game and has the No. 1 national rank that Memphis State held for one week during the regular season.

Houston guard David Rose doesn't anticipate any problem for UH in getting ready to play the Tigers. "I don't think we've ever played against a player like Lee" he said. "He's so smooth and can do so many things. He can pass, shoot from everywhere and dribble. And you can't worry about him alone because they've got so many good players.

The Cougars, protected from stall tactics during the regular season by a 45-second shot clock, broke Maryland's passing game Saturday and Lewis doesn't think UH will have to worry about such strategy again.

"We are down to the final 16 leams now and I think most of the coaches involved feels his team can win on its own merits." Lewis said. "I don't think there's any doubt that Memphis State thinks they're

DePaul rallies past Northwestern

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Big Ten's stock dropped a bit in the National Invitation Tournament when the Minnesota Gophers lost last week

Monday night, the bottom dropped out completely for one of the nation's strongest basketball leagues as both Northwestern and Michigan State were eliminated.

DePaul rallied to pull out a dramatic 65-63 victory over Northwestern and Fresno State upset Michigan State 72-58 in two of eight NIT games Monday night, leaving the Big Ten without a team to compete in the nation's oldest post-season basketball tournament. It was the second close victory over a Big Ten team in this tourney for DePaul, which beat Minnesota 76-73 in a first-round game last Tuesday night

Also advancing to quarterfinal games later this week were Wake Forest, Texas Christian, Mississippi South Carolina, Nebraska and Oregon State. Wake Forest beat Vanderbilt 75-58, TCU tripped Arizona State 78-76, Mississippi defeated South Florida 65-57, South Carolina stopped Virginia Tech 75-68. Nebraska trimmed Iona 85-73 and Oregon State walloped New Orleans 88-71.

Monday night's results set up quarterfinal pairings for Thursday and Friday nights. On Thursday. TCU plays at Nebraska, Wake Forest meets South Carolina at Greensboro, N.C. and Fresno State travels to Oregon State. On Friday, Mississippi meets DePaul at Rosemont, Ill. Kenny Patterson's 35-foot shot at the buzzer capped an 11-point comeback for DePaul as the Blue Demons caught Northwestern at the end. Patterson took the inbounds pass from Tyrone Corbin and let fly for the winning basket.

DePaul held a 52-49 lead when Jim Stack tied it with a three-point play and Northwestern, led by Stack and Gaddis Rathel, shot the Wildcats into a 59-52 lead and then 63-54 before the rally by DePaul

"Coach (Ray Meyer) wanted Tyrone (Corbin) or Bernard (Randolph) to take the final shot," said

Although Northwestern had taken a 63-54 lead with less than four minutes to play and the shot clock turned off. Mever said. "We still thought we could win it, even when we were nine points down, really. It was one of the few times this season that we retained our poise. Northwestern played a terrific game and took us out of our offense. We got by with a very poor shooting night.

Ron Anderson and Desi Barmore scored 16 points apiece to lead Fresno State over Michigan State The Spartans maintained a five-point lead throughout most of the second half, but the Bulldogs rallied to outscore Michigan State 8-2 and grab a 53-52 lead.

Fresno State's Omel Nieves scored the go-ahead basket with 3:47 remaining. Michigan State, meanwhile could hit only one of nine shots in the stretch.Fresno State sank 15 of 16 free throws in the final three minutes to put the game away.

Wake Forest's Delaney Rudd scored 15 of his game-high 21 points in the second half to rally the Demon Deacons over Vanderbilt. The loss denied Vanderbilt a chance to post the school's first 20-victory season since 1973-74. The Commodores finished the season with a 19-14 record.
