TOMORROW'S THE DAY

Obama honors King on final pre-presidency day

WASHINGTON (AP)-Fresh off a rollicking celebration in the shadow of Abraham Lincoln, Presidentelect Barack Obama is shaping the final day of his prepresidential life around another giant figure, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Even before Obama ventured from Blair House to join a community renovation project in honor of King, crowds started forming on the streets of the capital Monday morning. The attraction: remote broadcasts by television networks and local affiliates, and throngs of onlookers braved the cold to watch the live broad-

Monday is the federal holiday commemorating the birthday of King, who advocated peaceful resistance and equality among all races. He blazed a trail for Obama, soon to be the nation's first black president.

The vice president-elect, Joe Biden, is also taking part in volunteer service. His wife, Jill, and Obama's wife, Michelle, are helping with a service project, too.

The run-up to Obama's inauguration on Tuesday has, like his election itself, been defined by enormous public enthusiasm, carefully choreographed events and a lofty spirit of unity. What awaits, as Obama often reminds the nation, is many months, if not years, of tough work.

The weekend celebrations began Saturday with Obama's whistle-stop tour, from Philadelphia to Washington, along the path Abraham Lincoln took in 1861. Then came a roaring celebrity-filled concert at the Lincoln Memorial on Sunday, where several hundred thousand people flanked the reflecting pool, hearing actors, singers and then Obama himself rally for

Now Obama is asking the nation to honor King's legacy by making a renewed commitment to service. That has long been the goal of the King holiday, even

The United States Navy Band Sea Chanters chorus, which will sing Tuesday at the Presidential Inauguration, will be in concert Monday, March 9 at Pampa's M. K. Brown Auditorium. The local appearance is sponsored by The Pampa News and the City of Pampa.

The Sea Chanters was formed in 1956 to perpetuate the "songs of the sea." While that remains the focus, since then the groups' repertoire has been expanded to include everything from Broadway tunes to operatic pieces to patriotic music.

"We are happy to be able to sponsor the Sea Chanters concert," said Pampa News Publisher Randy Pribble. "The concert will be free, but tickets will be required. More information on the concert, and how to obtain free tickets, will be provided in The Pampa News in the coming weeks. We wanted to announce it now so that our readers could mark their calendars."

Pribble added that the Sea Chanters will be part of the President-elect Obama's Inauguration Day ceremony

"At the very end of the ceremony, the Sea Chanters will be singing the National Anthem, he said. "If you watch the ceremony, you will get a good taste of the professionalism of this group."

Enrique Cabrales (seated), manager at M.K. Brown Auditorium and MU1 William F. Edwards III, a member of the Sea Chanters chorus go over some details in preparation for the March 9 concert.

Today in History Inaugural bus riders bring hopes, memories to DC

ATLANTA (AP)—They brought hopeful dreams and financial fears, memories and memorabilia, children and aged parents as the passengers, most African-American, boarded buses in the dark.

And just before the caravan doors closed, prayers were

"Lord, we know that this journey was always written," Victoria Wimberly, owner of First Page New Chapter Tours, said over a microphone. "We thank you for these changes you have planned for us to witness, to see the inauguration of the new ruler of this new nation. We'll never have another opportunity like this again."

Leaving the birthplace of Martin Luther King Jr., bound for the nation's capital, the 185 passengers were united in their desire to witness the inauguration of the first African-American president.

Hundreds of other buses were making the same trip from across the country. On these three buses Saturday night, these passengers were powerfully drawn to the occasion by an unprecedented sense of history and pride.

There was applause as the buses pulled out of the parking lot. Alford Arnold made sure that his mother, age 78 and known to all as Miss Frankie, and his father, 84-yearold Lawrence, were comfortable.

Arnold remembered attending the funeral of King as a child in Atlanta, walking up to the glass-covered coffin and looking down at the slain icon's face. The line was more than three hours long. But Miss Frankie knew people, so she was brought to the front with her family.

Miss Frankie was born in 1930 on a plantation in Fairburn, Ga., the last of her sharecropper parents' 11 children. She picked cotton as a schoolgirl, 100 pounds a

After graduating from high school, she worked for a prominent local white family, "I was maid, chauffeur, secretary, banker", and then in food services at the local school. Her sterling character and tireless community work earned her election to the Fairburn city council, the first black person to hold such a position in her town 20 miles south of Atlanta.

Decades of service later, Miss Frankie is a Georgia treasure. She has pictures of herself with everyone from the governor to her seven children and 14 grandchildren. A few weeks ago her congressman called, unsolicited, to offer a set of precious tickets to the inauguration.

Her greatest hope for Obama: "To get all the soldiers back home. I want peace among all nations for us all to live together in loving and kindness.'

Dionta Johnson sat toward the back of another bus with his three children, ages 8, 4 and 3. Conversation bubbled through the cabin as Johnson remembered being a child himself, wishing his school would teach more

He wrote a paragraph in the third grade about how he wanted to become president.

"He is me," Johnson said of Obama. "He's living the dream I wrote down 16 years ago.'

Johnson's children quietly ate their chicken and french fries, then fell asleep in their seats. "I want them to understand themselves," Johnson said. "This is one of the greatest moments of our history. If they understand who they are as a people, they will want to succeed in life."

Johnson's wife stayed home for a job interview, but his mother-in-law, Susan Bonaparte-Waver, was sitting two rows ahead. The bus headed over the Georgia state line and into South Carolina, where her father, Vanish Leo Bonaparte, was born.

'That's an old slave name," she said. As a child, she moved with her parents and five siblings to Detroit, where her father got factory work and they survived the 1967 riots: "You look out your back door and you see fire, and you look out your front door and see the National

One seat behind Bonaparte-Waver, Khalilah Ali was reading the book, "The Wanderer: America's Last Slave Ship," about a group of men who in 1858, 50 years after the slave trade was outlawed, brought 480 Africans to Savannah, Ga.

Ali, who is studying for her Ph.D. at Emory University, spent seven years teaching in Atlanta-area high schools. She often had no pencils, or the windows wouldn't open, or the students were from single-parent homes and their mothers worked two or three jobs. She believes the educational system is designed to work for children from stable, middle-class homes.

"This is the kind of change I'm talking about," she said. "There needs to be some kind of reform."

Ali knew she would be cutting her budget to the bone when she left teaching for graduate school, and now her home is in foreclosure. She's trying to renegotiate her payments and hold the bank off until the summer, when she can go back to work and catch up.

"It feels intentional. Someone is being locked out. It's not the same dynamic as in this book", he waves "The Wanderer", "but it's the same outcome."

The bus drove into North Carolina, headed for Virginia, former capital of the Confederacy.

Barbara Thomas, a retired telephone company employee, remembered being disillusioned with the Democratic "they had no stand, no standards", and even started checking out McCain. But she backed Hillary Rodham Clinton in the early going, until one of her early debates with Obama.

"I realized this man is trying to change the conscience of the nation, similar to what Dr. King did" she said. "He's talking about people coming together as a nation."

Dawn broke just after the caravan pulled into the hotel parking lot in Falls Church, Va., a few miles from the capital. The passengers slowly awoke, stretching and rubbing their faces. They descended into the cold morning, looking to become a part of history.

Letter to the editor.

To the editor,

I'm sorry Mr. Fiveash, with the ceasing of operations at Celanese, I fail to see the rosy picture you paint of the plant's passing. First and foremost is Celanese corporate's decision to build modern facilities in third world countries, which in Pampa's case is, Pampa jobs going to Chinese jobs Grant you, I'll accept the issue that if it were not for our own governmental restrictions on new plant construction, perhaps Pampa would still have Celanese in her future. In that sense, we are victims of our own device.

With other avenues of industry available to Pampans presently - dead in the wind - the closure of Celanese can be nothing but a serious dent for our economy. Number one consideration is what the closure will have on Pampa/Gray County tax rolls - ultimately our school district. Celanese represented Pampa's middle class, Mr. Fiveash. You cannot convince me after all is said and done, Pampa's economy will be the same. Considering the world's present financial/economic recession, what makes you think Babcock and Brown will build another coal fired generator in the near future that, when completed, will employ the same amount of workers as Celanese did?

Let's see - A goodly percentage of the local Celanese employee's are taking retirement and staying in Pampa (payroll taxes lost), some have (before recession) taken jobs at nearby petro-chemical plants, others have received transfers elsewhere within the Celanese fold, which means again, Mr. Fiveash, lost tax revenue along with, more loss of Pampa's middle income citizenry... I'm willing to bet, Mr. Fiveash, that unemployment issues will rise in Pampa over the Celanese closure.

No, Mr. Fiveash, there is nothing that qualifies as "good" coming from the closure of the Celanese plant. In remembering the positives that benefited yours and Pampa's past by way of Celanese, you should be more attuned to the reality of - Pampa's

Your Greater Pampa Chamber Commerce is preparing to kick-start 2009 at its annual banquet.

This is our 80th Annual Chamber Banquet, so we are really planning to make this the most special banquet we have ever had. We have arranged to bring a nationally known motivational speaker and corporate trainer, Pat Johns, to Pampa for this annual event, thanks to several Gold sponsors and others who have underwritten the costs.

We encourage you to attend and if you own or manage a business, bring along your key personnel. Pat works with organizations that want to fast forward their performance, productivity and profits. We feel certain that Pat will not only motivate you, but will present ideas to energize your employees and help your company to succeed.

Pat's message will not limited to only improving business, but will help us all live a better life individually. If you have access to a computer, go http://www.patjohns.com and read the testimonials from various people including that of Carole Neves, Director of the Office of Policy & Analysis at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

If the featured speaker for our annual banquet is not enough to persuade you to attend, just remember that the 2008 Citizen of the Year will be announced for the first time at the banquet and will be presented his or her award. The banquet will be held in the Heritage Room at the Civic Brown Center. Individual tickets may be obtained at the Chamber office for $25 each which includes a great steak dinner with all the trimmings. Table sponsorships are available as long as they last at $75 which allows you to decorate your table and advertise your business. Gold sponsorships are also still available at $500. Gold sponsors will receive special acknowledgements and receive 8 banquet tickets. We appreciate everyone who is participating in making this extra special banquet possible.

You are cordially invited to attend the 80th Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, Which will be held at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, February 19th, 2009 in the M.K. Brown Auditorium. Tickets are $25.00 each and are Available at the Chamber Office.

Each time I write this letter for our Chamber page in The Pampa News, I like to remind readers of one or more Pampa residents that make all of us proud to know or know of them and to live and work here. At this past week's Rotary Club meeting, Faye LaBarr (a faithful member of Rotary) was asked to tell about her life and life-long accomplishments, and "wow!" what a lady. She graduated from high school during WWII, and immediately began working in a military aircraft factoryfabricating the "skin" that covered our WWII fighter planes. Later she became a civil service worker working at several military airbases performing all types of highly skilled and technical work. I don't remember the exact date, but I believe she retired from the Civil Service in the mid or late 1980's. While at the airbase in San Antonio she played basketball in the Texas Amateur Women's Basketball League for 3 years. Even though Faye was 5'11" tall, she told me most of the other players were several inches taller than her and the games were very tough. Apparently this league was the forerunner of the WNBA (Women's National Basketball Association) and was very rough. I have covered only a few of the now lives in Pampa, and if you have the opportunity to meet her you will be meeting a unique lady and she really deserves to be called a true "All-American" for her contributions to our country.

I look forward to seeing you at the Chamber Banquet.

Special Gold sponsorships available

Banquet will be held on February 19, 2009 at 7:00pm at the MK Brown Civic Auditorium. Gold sponsorships are available for purchase for $500 per table. This sponsorship includes 8 tickets and your organization will be allowed to decorate the table you sponsor with items that represent your organization. (Items placed on the table are not to exceed 9 inches in height). Gold Sponsors will receive special recognition at the banquet.

There are many valued Chamber members who have smaller businesses and would like to participate financially in supporting this very special 80th Anniversary Banquet. Because we value the support of ALL of our members, we are making a $75 table sponsorship available.

This sponsorship includes the opportunity to decorate a table with items that represent your organization, as well as other décor. This sponsorship does not include any individual tickets. Individual tickets are $25 each and are available at the Chamber office.

Our speaker for the banquet will be Mr. Pat Johns. Mr. Johns is a well-known motivational speaker. Many of our members have heard him speak and have commented about what a wonderful, compelling speaker he is, so we are really looking forward to hearing him at our banquet. We encourage you to visit his website at http://www.pat-johns.com/.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank our Gold Sponsors, Individual Table Sponsors, as well as those purchasing individual tickets for this year's banquet. Your sponsorships and ticket purchases will enable all of our members and their guests to have a nationally known, critically acclaimed speaker for this year's banquet.

Motivational speaker Pat Johns to energize this year's banquet

Pat Johns, a global adventurist, challenges life on every level.

An expert athlete, Pat has competed in over 60 ultramarathons and marathons worldwide. Marathons measure 26.2 miles; an ultra-marathon exceeds that definition. His sport: "endurance trail running." Upon completing the 2005 Himalayan 100, Pat is the single figure in history to finish the high-altitude 100 mile running race on the India-Nepal borders four times. Pat's focus now includes his work and adventure in Africa, which is the topic of his second book: "Echoes Through the Great Rift Valley-The Winding Road to Livingstonia"

Exploring the motivation and mindset of the few eliteendurance athletes who run the grueling Himalayan100 has yielded Pat's unique understanding of the commoncore values of these diverse competitors from around the world. MARTIN LUTHER KING JR

JANUARY 15, 1929 -- APRIL 4, 1968

Martin Luther King, Jr. was born Michael Luther King, Jr., but later had his name changed to Martin. His grandfather began the family's long tenure as pastors of the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, serving from 1914 to 1931; his father has served from then until the present, and from 1960 until his death Martin Luther acted as co-pastor. Martin Luther attended segregated public schools in Georgia, graduating from high school at the age of fifteen; he received the B. A. degree in 1948 from Morehouse College, a distinguished Negro institution of Atlanta from which both his father and grandfather had been graduated. After three years of theological study at Crozer Theological Seminary in Pennsylvania where he was elected president of a predominantly white senior class, he was awarded the B.D. in 1951. With a fellowship won at Crozer, he enrolled in graduate studies at Boston University, completing his residence for the doctorate in 1953 and receiving the degree in 1955. In Boston he met and married Coretta Scott, a young woman of uncommon intellectual and artistic attainments. Two sons and two daughters were born into the family.

In 1954, Martin Luther King accepted the pastorale of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Alabama. Always a strong worker for civil rights for members of his race, King was, by this time, a member of the executive committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the leading organization of its kind in the nation. He was ready, then, early in December, 1955, to accept the leadership of the first great Negro nonviolent demonstration of contemporary times in the United States, the bus boycott described by Gunnar Jahn in his presentation speech in honor of the laureate. The boycott lasted 382 days. On December 21, 1956, after the Supreme Court of the United States had declared unconstitutional the laws requiring segregation on buses, Negroes and whites rode the buses as equals. During these days of boycott, King was arrested, his home was bombed, he was subjected to personal abuse, but at the same time he emerged as a Negro leader of the first rank.

In 1957 he was elected president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, an organization formed to provide new leadership for the now burgeoning civil rights movement. The ideals for this organization he took from Christianity; its operational techniques from Gandhi. In the eleven-year period between 1957 and 1968, King traveled over six million miles and spoke over twenty-five hundred times, appearing wherever there was injustice, protest, and action; and meanwhile he wrote five books as well as numerous articles. In these years, he led a massive protest in Birmingham, Alabama, that caught the attention of the entire world, providing what he called a coalition of conscience, and inspiring his "Letter from a Birmingham Jail", a manifesto of the Negro revolution; he planned the drives in Alabama for the registration of Negroes as voters; he directed the peaceful march on Washington, D.C., of 250,000 people to whom he delivered his address, "I Have a Dream", he conferred with President John F. Kennedy and campaigned for President Lyndon B. Johnson; he was arrested upwards of twenty times and assaulted at least four times; he was awarded five honorary degrees; was named Man of the Year by Time magazine in 1963; and became not only the symbolic leader of American blacks but also a world figure.

At the age of thirty-five, Martin Luther King, Jr., was the youngest man to have received the Nobel Peace Prize. When notified of his selection, he announced that he would turn over the prize money of $54,123 to the furtherance of the civil rights movement.

On the evening of April 4, 1968, while standing on the balcony of his motel room in Memphis, Tennessee, where he was to lead a protest march in sympathy with striking garbage workers of that city, he was assassinated.

More POWER To You

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR READERS: Today we celebrate the life of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. -- the great American civil rights leader, martyred in 1968, who dedicated his life to furthering equal rights Americans.

When Dr. King was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964, he said: "Man must evolve for all human conflict a method which rejects revenge, aggression and retaliation. The foundation of such a method is love."

With bloodshed and violence still such destructive forces in this world, there is much to be learned from his insight, his wisdom and his example. -- ABBY

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine and his wife divorced several years ago. When their son turned 18, he changed his name to his mother's maiden name. I personally think it's a slap in the father's face. Have you heard of this before, and don't you think it's mean? -- CURIOUS IN OHIO

DEAR CURIOUS: I have heard of it in the case of a child who, for whatever reason, has become alienated from his or her parent. Is it mean? It certainly isn't a compliment, because it indicates the child does not want to be identified with the father, nor to be reminded that the man ever existed. Before you judge the young man, you should remember that there is always a reason.

DEAR ABBY "Weary Elves in Tennessee" asked you whether a Christmas tree should be taken down before or after the New Year.

Christmas trees are a matter of personal taste and were not part of the Christian practice until fairly recently in our history. The Christmas feast itself lasts for 12 days, until Twelfth Night, Jan. 5, the eve of the Feast of the Epiphany, which falls on Jan. 6, a more ancient feast than Christmas. (Many of your readers may have grown up in households where gifts were exchanged on Jan. 6, recalling the gifts of the Magi.) Lately, more and more Christians are trying to keep the season of Advent: the four weeks preceding the feast of Christmas. If one wants to honor the quiet anticipation of Advent, a simple wreath or an undecorated tree makes a wonderful December home addition. The household can gradually adorn the tree in the last week before Christmas.

On Christmas Eve, when darkness falls, the tree is lit for the first time. It is lit night through Epiphany, which is also called the Feast of Lights.

Jan. 7 might be a good time to take down the tree, though many Christians wait until the following Sunday evening (an extension of the Epiphany feast), or on or about the 20th day after Christmas.

As Episcopalian Christians, we usually strive for "via media" -- the middle way -- avoiding extremes. I would go for the 12 days of Christmas, a solid and rich historical and spiritual tradition of celebrating the feast. But as a former volunteer fireman, I loved your advice to "Weary Elves," Abby. By all means, DO take the tree down when the needles are overly dry and get it to the recycling lot. -- THE REV. MARK STANGER, CANON PRECENTOR. GRACE CATHEDRAL, SAN FRAN-CISCO

DEAR STANGER: Thank you for chiming in on this one. In this case, the "epiphany"

DAILY HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, Jan.

20, 2009 The Force is with you this year. Friendship plays a key role in your life, as well as in-meetings and group happenings. On some level, you could become a rabble-rouser, but someone who does effect change. Your instincts often tell you to move forward and try a different approach. You will be more open than in past years. If you are single, changes occur out of the blue. One day you are single, and the next day you meet the right person. Trust that this type of connection will head in your direction. If you are attached, the two of you benefit from a better, stronger connection. The two of you enjoy each other more than ever. SAGITTARIUS understands you all too well.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

* You might be filled with energy and vivaciousness. You see the big picture when others cannot. Listen to the vibrations that surround a friendship or a group. You are seeing the beginning of a pattern. Tonight: Conversations had now might need to be had again!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 A partner lets you know how very important you are, and does everything possible to draw you in closer. Your loving style and warm ways make many people want to be close to you. What someone believes is a deal that's too good to let go of might be the opposite. Tonight: Be discerning in what you

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

* How you deal with someone and the way you approach this person make quite a difference. Your humor and light approach allow greater flow and understanding. Also remember that right now the cards might not fall in your favor! Tonight: Defer to a pal. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 You don't always come up with the perfect answer, but on the other hand, you are willing to work toward a goal or long-term idea. Because you have so much going for you, others often ask you for feedback. Tonight: Take a walk; get some exercise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) * Let creativity, humor and fun ring through the hallways, office or wherever you might be. If you're feeling that a situation is impossible, it could just Tonight: Laugh with the moment. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  Basics do count, no matter how you look at a situation. You can laugh and enjoy yourself all you want, but much more might be going on. Investigate options; listen to different ideas. A family member makes demands.

Tonight: Mosey on home

be your thinking. Tap into other sources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) * Keep communication flourishing. You have a lot to share, and will as soon as you can. Laughter and light ness earmark your decisions. A child or new friend puts a smile on your face. Listen to news that heads your way. Tonight: Visit with a friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  How you deal with others could change if you relax and laugh. Finances are on the table. Someone close to you supports you in many different ways; be aware of this person's nurturing. Tonight

Balance your checkbook

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  No one can deny your energy, charisma, direction and fun nature. You could be hard to stop. A partner easily could believe one idea and yet do a reversal out of the blue. Communication flourishes. Tonight: The world is your CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Know when to back off. Though you are sure of yourself, in a few days, challenges occur that might have you questioning past decisions. Remember, this is only a phase, which allows you to re-examine your ideas. Tonight: Get some extra R and R.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) * Know that you are unusually optimistic and forward-looking. Someone might play devil's advocate, causing you a problem when you least expect it. Keep your optimism. You have more control than you realize. Tonight: Off to the gym, or join a friend or two.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  You cannot get around a problem. no matter how hard you try. Just accept responsibility and handle a personal matter directly. Your intuitive sense takes you in a new direction. Just let yourself flow. Tonight: A partner changes his or
