COUNTRY CLUB TURKEYS

Part of local flock sent to enhance genetic diversity

by Rachel Stennett
rstennett@thepampanews.com

Some of the turkeys that call the Pampa Country Club home will be relocated to Navarro County this week.

A total of 32 turkeys will be removed to a ranch in Navarro County to a ranch in an effort to minimize the flock on the east side of Pampa, which has reached 127 turkeys according to Jeff Bonner with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The relocation to the ranch in Navarro County is part of an effort to return birds to a region where ranchers are working to restore native prairie.

Biologists with the state agency are trapping turkeys in regions of the Panhandle and the Rolling Plains that have a surplus turkey population and expected to release 100 turkeys at three locations in Navarro County on Thursday.

Biologists say that while some Rio Grande turkeys remain in the region from a mid-1980s release, the population is considered small and fragile.

Jay Whiteside, a TPWD wildlife biologist working with the Navarro County ranchers, said one goal of the release is to add new genetic material "into the fragile existing population, thereby enhancing their genetic diversity and long-term viability."

Bonner and a team of three men, including Jamie Baker of Pampa, completed the turkey trapping phase yesterday evening. The turkeys have been baited for a few weeks and trapping began Tuesday morning (Feb. 3).

The goal was to trap 50-75 turkeys, but Bonner said only 32 turkeys were trap. Large metal cages were placed at the land at

GRATEFUL

Linda Devuyst has restored faith in the goodness of others after her purse was returned in tact.

Pampan's purse returned anonymously

by Rachel Stennett
rstennett@thepampanews.com

Linda Devuyst had no hope for her purse that she left in the Wal-Mart parking lot that contained $600 in cash and four credit cards.

After forgetting her purse for over an hour, Devuyst decided to return to the store on the chance that some of the purse's contents would still be in place after it had been left in a shopping cart on the outer boundary of the parking lot. To her shock, the purse had been returned to the store with everything intact.

"It was about more than the money," Devuyst said. "I feel so good about people after that, it was a real boost."

The purse had been returned to the manager of Wal-Mart anonymously after Devuyst had left it in her cart after shopping. Devuyst wanted to thank the person responsible for the good deed, who "made me happy and gave me more faith in people."

School board meets tonight

The first school board meeting of the month will focus on Pampa Independent School District's building program.

The PISD board of trustees will hear updates on construction at Pampa High School and on the new Pampa Junior High School.

The school board is to consider purchasing used school buses during their meeting. In a related matter, the board may amend the budget for the purchase.

The board will hear about the Pampa High School Advanced Placement Program and the Pampa Independent School District's Gold Performance Acknowledgement Awards.

The school board meeting will begin at 5:30 p.m., Thursday, at their Carver Center Administrative Offices, 321 W. Albert.

A public comment period is scheduled for 7 p.m.

This board's second meeting of the month will be held February 19.

Area DAR good citizens to be honored

Six area high school seniors will be named DAR Good Citizens on Sunday, Feb. 8 at 2:30 p.m. at the annual DAR Team, hosted by members of Las Pampas Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The public is invited to attend the tea at Cory Court in the Education Building of the First United Methodist Church. The Pampa High School Show Choir will provide entertainment. The coveted honor of Good Citizen is awarded by the student's high school on the basis of dependability, service, and leadership, and patriotism.

Jessica Baggerman is the daughter of Lora and John Mark Baggerman. She has been active in both 4-H and FFA, having qualified for state 4-H Roundup in 11 different events in three years. She has shown Grand Champion steer, rabbit, and heifer, and Reserve Grand Champion steer, rabbit, and goat. She has earned FFA chapter and Greenhand degrees, the 4-H Gold Star award, and third place at at state 4-H Roundup in Consumer Judging. She has developed her own cattle heard. Other interests include SADD board member, ASTRA INTERACT, Concert Choir, and ten years of ballet. Jessica is employed by a local veterinary clinic and plans to become a veterinarian.

Maegan Brewster of White Deer High School is the daughter of Alan and Gail Wilson. She has participated in FCCLA, band, one-act play, basketball and Buck Pride for four years. She has won the IPC award, the algebra I and II awards and the club with bird seed scattered on the floor of the cages. The birds entered a small funnel to access the seed, which trap them because most turkeys don't leave the cage through the tunnel.

Country club turkeys relocated

The turkey population began to cause problems at the country club last year when they started to nest on the putting greens.

The Country Club contacted Bonner, and he recommended that fireworks be thrown in the nesting area to prevent them nesting there. It worked initially, but the turkeys came back. At that point, Bonner had learned about the relocation project for turkeys from across the Panhandle to Navarro County and approached the Country Club with the removal plan.

"We know that people in Pampa like having the birds," Bonner said. "We plan to leave enough to keep a population in Pampa so people can keep feeding in their backyards if they want to. You can easily feed 15 to 20 instead of 127."

In the trapping process, the Wildlife Department is being careful to leave an equal number of hens and toms for future breeding prospects in the Pampa flock. The turkeys being transported will be placed on their legs before departure, and hunters will not be allowed to hunt them.

geometry award. She has been a student council representative and National Honor Society secretary. Extracurricular activities include scouting, 4-H, explorers, baby-sitting, and operating the power point system at the First Baptist Church. She has also led Girls in Action for her church. Maegan plans to attend college and earn a secondary education teaching degree, hoping to teach at the high school level.

Diana Corral is the recipient from Wheeler High School and is the daughter of Jesus and Julia Zapata. She has been active in FFA, FCCLA, and student council for four years. She had been a member of the National Honor Society for three years, and has participated in Coors country, basketball, band, and one-act play. Diana has won awards in family development, geometry, and English II and III. She has helped organize the 4th of July parade, volunteered at the adult English class and assisted with many projects involving the nursing home and other old citizens and her church. Diana hopes to attend the University of North Texas in Denton and major in journalism or communications with a minor in business management.

Tabatha Coey is a senior at Groom High School. Tabatha lives on her own and makes a home for her sixteen year old sister. During high school she served as basketball manager and student council representative for the senior class. She was a nominee for Homecoming Queen. She often helps her teachers when needed and assists in the school library. She has types and runs errands for the athletic department. She is active in her church and church choir, and has a job at a local restaurant. She plans to attend college and earn a degree or two in some aspect of the medical field, possibly physical therapy.

Amelia Taylor is the daughter of John and Suzanne Taylor and is from Clarendon High School. She has won numerous academic awards in the subject areas of English, math, social studies, and science. She has been active in student council, currently serving as treasurer. UIL competitions have included computer applications, science, and news and ready writing. She has competed four years in the BWXT Pantex Science Bowl. She has participated in band all four years along with JV basketball and tracks. Amelia has helped with her church VBS and Children's Church, and has served as a docent at the Saint's Roost Museum. Amelia plans to attend a Texas University and earn a degree in mechanical engineering, then work in industry before entering the teaching field.

DaShae Tolleson attends McLean High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Tolleson. She has won academic awards in chemistry, biology, algebra I and II, and geometry. She has served as class vice president for four years, as student council vice president and secretary, and NHS president and treasurer. She has played basketball for four years, earning the Fighting Tiger award three years and named all-district player two years. She has been a UIL regional qualifier in both ready writing and literary criticism. She has participated in one-act play and gold. DaShae plans to attend a four year university and pursue a career in medicine, perhaps sports medicine or anesthesiology.

The public is invited to the DAR Tea.

Lobbyists spent $1.6M on gifts since '98

AUSTIN (AP) — Lobbyists have showered state lawmakers and officials with more than $1.6 million in gifts over the past decade, including pistols, spa treatments and a stuffed goose, a newspaper reported Thursday.

Lobbyists say the trinkets are a harmless part of advocating their political agendas, while Capitol watchdogs and critics contend the gifts are an effort to influence policy.

A review of ethics records by the Houston Chronicle and San Antonio Express-News found the gifts included more than 100 pricey flower bouquets, circus tickets, knives and deer processing for hunting trips.

"Most of the time, people are giving gifts, especially the small stuff, really as a courtesy," said Jack Gullahorn, president of the Professional Advocacy Association of Texas, a lobbying trade group.

The gifts are part of the more than $20 million spent by lobbyists on elected officials and state employees since 1998, newly released records show. Lobbyists also spend large sums on food and drinks, entertainment and transportation.

Democratic state Rep. Trey Martinez Fischer went to a Hill Country ranch in 2007 where Energy Future Holdings, formerly TXU Corp., has taken more than a dozen lawmakers and senior legislative staffers in recent years. The company listed a $181.50 cost on its lobbying report for "deer processing."

Martinez Fischer, of San Antonio, said the overnight retreat was a chance to talk politics and policy. "Nobody should accept a gift with the expectation that they have to do something. That's wrong," Martinez Fischer said. "Most members, I believe, are responsible enough to be up here and represent their districts, and they know the difference."

Government watchdogs see the gifts a different way.

"Lobbyists like to say that they prevail by having the best command of the facts," said Andrew Wheat, research director with the watchdog group Texans for Public Justice. "Yet this 'marketplace of ideas' is a bizarre bazaar. It's overrun with such tribute payments as campaign cash, meals, drinks, trips and tchotchkes."

Armless swimmer faces challenges

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Domingo Santoyo doesn't shy away from challenges.

The determined junior at Brownsville's Rivera High School didn't let the fact that he has no arms keep him from joining the swim team.

"I don't think of myself as limited," Santoyo, 16, said. "I was born like this, and sometimes, I think it was better this way because there are some people who lose their arms in accidents and I think that makes it harder."

Already a national-level competitor in chess as a middle-school student, Santoyo decided it was time to learn to swim last summer. It was a short trip from learning to swim to joining the high school swim team.

"Domingo always wants to do the most he can," said Astrid Santoyo, Domingo's mother. "He wanted to get into sports because he needed credits for (physical education) at school, and he didn't want to take adaptive P.E. "He tried swimming and found out that he really liked it," she added. "Since the first day, he's been all excited about being in the pool. I'm happy because he doesn't give up. He doesn't mind if he's the last one, although he's very competitive.

Santoyo's event is the 50-meter freestyle the stroke most people learn when they swim. For the return trip, he does a flip turn and pushes off the wall with his feet, then finishes the race by touching a pad at the opposite wall with his head.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Feb. 5, the 36th day of 2009. There are 329 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Feb. 5, 1937, President Franklin D. Roosevelt proposed a Judiciary Reorganization Bill that included a provision to increase the number of justices on the Supreme Court; critics accused Roosevelt of attempting to "pack" the high court with justices who would side with his New Deal policies. (The measure failed in Congress.)

On this date:

In 1631, the co-founder of Rhode Island, Roger Williams, and his wife, Mary, arrived in Boston from England.

In 1783, Sweden recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1811, George, Prince of Wales, was named the Prince Regent due to the insanity of his father, Britain's King George III.

In 1887, Verdi's opera "Otello" premiered at La Scala.

In 1897, the Indiana House of Representatives passed, 67-0, a measure redefining the method for determining the area of a circle, which would

'Men do not desire to be rich, but to be richer than other men.'

— John Stuart Mill,
English philosopher

have effectively altered the value of pi. (The bill died in the Indiana Senate.)

In 1917, Congress passed, over President Woodrow Wilson's veto, an immigration act severely curtailing the influx of Asians. Mexico's constitution was adopted.

In 1940, Glenn Miller and his orchestra recorded "Tuxedo Junction" for RCA Victor's Bluebird label.

In 1958, Gamal Abdel Nasser was formally nominated to become the first president of the new United Arab Republic (a union of Syria and Egypt).

In 1973, services were held at Arlington National Cemetery for Army Lt. Col. William B. Nolde, the last official American combat casualty before the Vietnam cease-fire.

In 1989, the Soviet Union announced that all but a small rearguard contingent of its troops had left Afghanistan.

Ten years ago: Former heavyweight boxing champion Mike Tyson was sentenced in Rockville, Md., to a year in jail for assaulting two motorists following a traffic accident. (He ended up serving 3-6 months.)

Today's Birthdays: Country singer Claude King is 86. The Rev. Andrew M. Greeley is 81. Baseball Hall of Famer Hank Aaron is 75. Actor Stuart Damon is 72. Television producer-writer Stephen J. Cannell is 68. Actor David Selby is 68. Singer-songwriter Barrett Strong is 68. Football Hall of Famer Roger Staubach is 67. Singer Cory Wells (Three Dog Night) is 67. Movie director Michael Mann is 66. Rock singer Al Kooper is 65. Actress Charlotte Rampling is 63. Actress Barbara Hershey is 61. Actor Christopher Guest is 61. Actor Tom Wilkinson is 61. Actor-comedian Tim Meadows is 48. Actress Jennifer Jason Leigh is 47. Actress Laura Linney is 45. Rock musician Duff McKagan (Velvet Revolver) is 45. Rock singer Chris Barron (Spin Doctors) is 41. Singer Bobby Brown is 40.

Echoing earlier flaps, Daschle woes humble President Obama

WASHINGTON (AP)— Two weeks into his presidency, Barack Obama proved that even a clearly gifted politician cannot escape the gravitational pull of Washington forces that he has vowed to reform.

"I screwed up," Obama said during a series of TV interviews. "I take responsibility for this mistake."

It was a frank admission from an Oval Office where "mistakes were made" has often been the preferred dodge.

An old story, with new actors, played out Tuesday: A new president's team imperfectly vetted top nominees. The nominees, it turns out, had not paid taxes for household help or other services when they were private citizens. The news media and political adversaries bored in. And rather than spend more valuable time and political capital defending the appointees, the administration dropped them and moved on.

In other words, Obama isn't perfect. This may be news to his adoring supporters, but like other presidents, Obama is going to make more mistakes over the coming months as he struggles with the economy, health care, military matters and Congress.

That's hardly an indictment. But Obama's rocket ride to the White House, his extraordinary speaking skills, and his smooth, I-don't-sweat style had some people calling him "the one," a once-in-a-generation political leader who could rise above his predecessors' foibles.

On Tuesday, at least, he seemed to be trying to learn from past presidents the need to quickly cut his losses.

President Bill Clinton stuck with Zoe Baird, his pick for attorney general, for about 10 days after it was disclosed that she had hired illegal immigrants as workers and had failed to pay their Social Security taxes. Clinton's next choice, Kimba Wood, withdrew after acknowledging that her nanny, too, had been illegal.

It was a painful start for a new presidency that Obama and his aides have studied closely. Obama has tapped many of Clinton's top advisers, including Hillary Clinton, for his own administration. But the Obama team also has tried to avoid some of Bill Clinton's early mistakes, such as waiting too long to name top appointees and stumbling into sticky, no-win issues such as gays in the military.

Oddly, perhaps, Obama and his advisers tripped over an issue that bedeviled Clinton's early weeks: the failure to pay taxes fully and on time.

At first, Obama dug in, eager to show loyalty and toughness in the face of critics. His choice for Treasury secretary a post that oversees the Internal Revenue Service had been required to pay $34,000 in overdue income taxes.

Obama stood by Timothy Geithner, and the Democratic-controlled Senate confirmed him after comparatively gentle questioning.

The stakes seemed higher, on both sides of the equation, for Tom Daschle, the former Senate Democratic leader chosen by Obama to head Health and Human Services and to overhaul of health care.

Daschle belatedly paid $128,203 in taxes and $11,964 in interest. He also had been paid $5.2 million over two years by industries eager for good relations with the government.

But Republicans made it clear his ride would not be easy, something the White House could not miss. Sen. John Cornyn, R-Texas, called on Daschle to withdraw Tuesday morning, shortly before it was announced he was doing just that.

Hours later, Obama seemed to get it: "It's important for this administration to send a message that there aren't two sets of rules."

Letters to the editor

I, too, experienced the sad murder of my best friend for the last 8 years due to a vicious pit bull attack. My AKC registered Miniature Schnauzer "Kasper" was attacked in the alley behind my home at 237 Henry St. on Dec. 17. My thanks to the unknown gas company employee who happened to be driving down the alley during the attack and chased the 2 pit bulls away.... but it was too late. Kasper died on Sunday morning Dec. 20th. due to the injuries sustained in the attack. There were 2 of them, a large female that looked like she had just weaned pups (due to the long sagging mammary glands) and a bit smaller male, both wearing neck collars. Both pit bulls were brown in color and the female looked to weigh about 90-100 lbs. and the male slightly less. I am so used to barking neighbors dogs that I would not have even noticed an attack being made. Between the barking dogs and the trains that come by every 15 minutes, I have become immuned to noise or just plain tune it out, otherwise I would have heard the noise coming from the alley that attracted Kasper and probably the pit bulls as well. And it's very possible a train was coming by when all this happened that caused me not to hear the attack. Normally, Kasper would never go to the alley unless I was going there.

A report was made to the police dept, from the Vet clinic on South Hobart. They referred the call to Animal Control and a female officer came to my residence after I had returned from the vet clinic an hour or so after I got to the vet clinic. I was told that since all the dogs involved were running loose, there was nothing that could be done. I had already looked for about an hour in an attempt to locate these vicious animals but was unsuccessful in locating them or their owners. My dog does not normally run loose, he had simply slipped out of the door unnoticed by me or my friend whose car I was working on when the friend brought me a plastic pan to drain the radiator fluid. I was under the car and didn't notice when Kasper came out and neither did my friend. He couldn't have been gone for more than 2 minutes until I asked about him. He was not in the house so I headed out North then went East on Tyng looking for him in my vehicle and my friend started walking South looking for him. The gas company employee was headed down the very alley where the attack was taking place, about 150 feet south of my house in the alley. My friend heard the noise Kasper was making, said it sounded like a cat screaming, but was unable to get access to the alley immediately due to all the fences and locked gates but was witness to the two pit bulls making the attack along with the gas company employee in his pickup truck. He drove up just before my friend arrived and chased the pit bulls away. I was just South of that location headed East and turned North on Henry when the 2 pit bulls ran out in the street in front of me headed SouthWest. I had to slam on the brakes to keep from running over both of them. I pulled up in front of my house and my friend came running from the South saying "come quick, Kasper's been attacked". When I got to him, he was so messed up with dirt from the ground I couldn't even see him as he looked the same color as the dirt. He was screaming with pain, covered with dirt, leaves, and blood. I gathered him up with a towel I kept in the seat when he rode with me and headed to the vet clinic as fast as I could go. The poor baby never stopped screaming until the vet got an IV in his front leg and started administering pain medication. That's when I left and started looking for the attackers. I even looked again and again each day driving further and further away from the attack site but was unsuccessful in finding those vicious killer pit bulls. Kasper was everyone's friend and had never bitten or attack any living creature. There was no reason for the attack by the pit bulls other than they are the kind of dogs that must kill other dogs...that's what they were bred to do.

I would also like to thank Dr. G. and his very courteous staff. They gave Kasper some much needed pain relief when he needed it the most. Dr. G went out of his way on the weekend to see that Kasper was comfortable and not hurting. For that I am very thankful.

This is an appeal to the citizens of Pampa to notify Animal Control or the Police Department if they know or have any information about who owns these 2 dogs. In addition to a $661.00 vet bill, they owe me for the value of my best friend, even though he can never be replaced and for expenses incurred for his burial. It's also an appeal to the citizens to talk with city officials and do everything in their power to outlaw these kinds of animals running loose in our town. It could be your own child that it happens to next and from reading the paper, it has been happening often for the last few weeks.

Thank you,
Jerry Keelin

AROUND TOWN

Nominees sought for Golden Nail Awards

Golden Nail Awards Gala planners are now seeking nominations from a 12 city area of those who have provided extraordinary support for the fine arts in the Texas Panhandle during 2008. The Golden Nail Awards include individuals, businesses and foundations that will be honored at the Gala Friday, May 1, at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Established in 1982, the purpose of the Golden Nail Awards is to honor those whose financial, in-kind and volunteer contributions to the fine arts in Amarillo and the Panhandle area are of such magnitude the impact on the arts is significant.

The Golden Nail Award categories

include the Summit, individual, business, foundation and distinguished volunteer. The Summit Award goes to an individual for lifelong support to the arts. Special awards are presented when warranted. Golden Touch Awards are presented for innovative ideas in arts events and activities.

Nominations are invited from individuals as well as organizations. More information or nomination forms are available from Becky Zemor at the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce office, 1000 S. Polk, Amarillo, (806) 373-7800 or from Darlene Birkes or Marian Stroup, 665-5734, 665-5802. Deadline for entries is February 9, 2009.

Clarendon College ex-students' association seeking memorabilia

Clarendon College has had many faces during its lifetime - from the historic three-story building that now houses Clarendon High School to its modern campus of 107 acres on highway 287.

The College's current location began with six buildings and has grown to 15 buildings with softball and baseball fields and a livestock and equine center.

There have been many people enter her doors. Numbered among them are distinguished public servants, chief executives of business and industry, lawyers, doctors, and military officers.

There are many success stories who came from Clarendon College. Thanks to the educations they received here, these individuals have become productive and prominent citizens. Clarendon College is proud of its ex-students.

The Clarendon College Ex-Students' Association in cooperation with the College is in the process of gathering memorabilia for each decade from 1940, 1950, 1960, 1970, 1980, and 1990.

The Association began a task during the 1998 College Centennial by collecting historical memorabilia from 1898 through the 1930s. Various memorabilia was collected, framed, and preserved under glass, and is now on display in the foyer of the College Instructional Center. It is now time to bring this project forward and the Association needs your help.

If you have any historical memorabilia or newsworthy items (past year-books, newspaper clippings, or photographs) from your year or years at Clarendon Junior College or Clarendon College and would like to donate to this worthy cause of preserving the college's past, please contact Darlene Spier by e-mail at darlene.spier@clarendoncollege.edu or by phone at 806-874-4801. You may also contact Annis Stavenhagen, by e-mail at annis.stavenhagen@clarendoncollege.edu or by phone at 806-874-4814.

You can send items to Clarendon College Ex-Student's Association, P.O. Box 968, Clarendon, TX 79226.

JV Girls lasso Horns, JV Boys fall 74-56

submitted by Bob Ericson
The Pampa News

The Harvester JV basketball teams battled the Caprock Longhorns in Pampa Tuesday night. The Girls came away with a much needed win while the boys lost a tough one.

The Harvester JV began the night fairly well with Garrett Ericson making 2 of his 18 points. Jonathan Polasek hit two baskets while Reid Miller sank a three pointer. Latigo Collins chipped in a two point basket and the Harvesters trailed 14-11 after one period. The second period saw Caprock extend their lead as Chase Ferguson made four free throws, Luke Watson made a basket and Ericson contributed four leaving Pampa behind 32-21 at half.

Pampa had trouble on defense in the third quarter as Collins hit a three pointer, Miller made three free throws and Ericson put in nine points to trail 51-36 after three quarters. Points were not a problem for either team in the fourth quarter as Jessie Slaughter would contribute 6, Collins 7, Miller 2, Watson 2 and Ericson 3 but Pampa ran out of gas and fall 74-56. Collins finished with 12, Miller 8, Slaughter 6, Polasek, Ferguson and Watson 4. This evens the JV record at 11-11.

The Lady Harvesters took the court after the boys game. Caitlin Sieck started things off with a two point basket followed by two buckets from Kayla Hughes. Cori Cook and Kirsten Kuhn hit back to back jacks (three pointers) to build a 14-8 lead. Liz Hoelting buried a two and the first quarter ended with Pampa ahead 16-8.

Caprock made a run in the second quarter but Kay Kirkham scored a basket while Kailyn Troxell and Hoelting made free throws. Hughes closed the half out and Pampa took a 23-15 lead into halftime.

The third quarter began with Kuhn and Troxell hitting back to back baskets. Cook pumped in five more and Kirkham was good for two more points as the Lady Harvesters built a commanding 36-24 lead.

It seemed everyone scored at will in the final period as each player was hitting from all over the court as Delaney Clendening contributed 7 in the quarter as Pampa grabbed the victory 54-37. Cook finished the game with 13, Hughes and Kirkham 9, Clendening 7, Kuhn 5 and Sieck, Troxell and Hoeting 4 each.

PHS Tennis heads for tourney

The Pampa High School tennis team will head for their first tournament of the varsity spring season this weekend.

The tournament will be Friday and Saturday in Andrews.

Tennis Coach Sarah Corse said she expects everyone on the team to do well, but she has especially high hopes for Rachel Lee and Jack Ware. The duo, who play mixed doubles, were third last year, and made second team All District last fall.

The tennis team will travel south again Feb. 13 and 14 for the Odessa Open and Feb 20 and 21 for the Midland Open.

On Feb. 27 and 28, they'll be in Canyon for the Canyon Open and on March 6 and 7 will be in Amarillo for the Amarillo Open.

The Dumas Open is March 27 and 28.

The Pampa High tennis team will return to Amarillo for matches on April 3 and 4, before the district tournament in Amarillo on April 16 and 17.

The regional tournament will be April 20 and 21 in San Angelo.

The junior varsity will play Feb. 24 in Amarillo, March 6 and 7 in Dumas, March 10 in Amarillo and April 3 and 4 in Amarillo.

The district junior varsity tournament is April 9 in Amarillo.

Local Student Wins at Fort Worth Stock Show

FORT WORTH, TEXAS — William Haley, a 4-H member from McLean, exhibited a First Place Heifer in the Limousin Junior Breeding Beef Heifer Show at the 2009 legendary Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo on January 25, 2009. Junior show entries totaled 9,698 at this year's show which ends February 8.

"The junior livestock show program provides youth with valuable lessons in life and business and builds a foundation that serves them long after their show years have passed," said W.R. Watt,

Jr., president and manager of the show. "Our commitment to this program is a top priority."

Winning exhibitors are awarded cash "premiums" — this year to exceed $92,005 — in addition to monies generated from the sale of animals in the show's sale of champion steers, lambs, barrows and wether goats. Over 22,000 head of world-class livestock from across the country will be on exhibit throughout the 24-day run of the Show. A record six national Shows will be hosted at the event. In addition, an impressive 17 livestock auctions will be conducted.

The Stock Show showcases the nation's dynamic livestock industry to over 900,000 visitors mostly from the Metroplex and surrounding areas. Approximately 30% of visitors are from outside the Metroplex and other states as well as other countries. Besides livestock, the show includes educational exhibits designed to educate visitors on the livestock industry and provides 4 acres of shopping to suit most any taste.
