Centennial celebration this weekend at First Christian

The First Christian Church of Pampa is celebrating its 100th birthday this weekend.

Members First of Church of Christian Pampa, 1633 N. Nelson, invite the community to join them in this centennial celebration on Sunday, April 5, with a special service.

Morning worship will begin 15 minutes earlier than normal at 10:30 a.m. in the church sanctuary. The Rev. Dani Cartwright, Southwest Regional Minister, of Fort Worth, will be guest speaker for the occasion. A reservation-only dinner will be served in The Gathering Place fellowship hall, after the service.

During the Sunday School hour, beginning at 9:45 a.m., donuts and coffee will be served. Scrapbooks for each 25year period will be available for members and visitors to peruse. Two active Margaret members, Washington and Marjie Rogers, each have been in the church more than 70 years. The church has several four generation and three generation families. Members and visitors are encouraged to pick out a favorite era and come to the celebration dressed in that style.

One hundred years ago, eight Pampans met in a small frame school house at the corner of East Frances and North Starkweather streets with the intention of beginning a new church, First Christian Church of Pampa, of the Disciples of Christ denomination.

Little did they know that a century later, their church would still be in Pampa with a membership of Amarillo. Christen, with the help of music minister, Dan Kovaly, are leading FCC-Pampa until a new senior minister is hired. of approximately 350 about to celebrate its 100th anniversary. First Christian Church was formally organized on Sunday afternoon, April 4, 1909. John D. White, minister of the Amarillo Christian Church, directed the meeting. Eight people signed the charter roll: Mrs. H.M. Bailey, Mrs. J.M. Bell, Suda Bell, Mrs. Frances Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Lippold, Mrs. J.F. Meers and Mrs. J.A. Newman. A few

after long-time pastor Barry Loving left to lead First Christian Church

In 1926, a frame parsonage was built by the men of the church on Ballard Street. Gray County's oil boom and the influx of people to the city made it necessary for a larger church to be built. The large brick building was erected on the corners of East Kingsmill and North Starkweather. Four and a half acres of land was purchased in 1959 for a new Christian church at 18th and Nelson. Actual groundbreaking for the new church didn't happen until Feb. 11, 1968.

Mrs. Letitia Hassell, a member of the church since 1916, turned the first shovel of earth for the new building.

The Sunday the congregation moved from the church on Starkweather to the new church on Nelson, an impressive "split" church service observed.

The communion bread was served at the old church, and then the entire congregation traveled across the city to the new church to be served the communion cup.

For more information about First Christian Church or the centennial celebration, call 669-3225.

Members of the congregation gather on a cold February morning to break ground for the Nelson street building.

Prices for world's PEDC to be aggressive cheapest gas may be going up

(AP) - Venezuela has the planet's cheapest gasoline: At 12 cents a gallon (3 cents a liter), it costs about 30 times less than bottled

But falling oil income and sagging crude output could soon mean a pinch at the pump in oil producing countries like Venezuela, where hefty government subsidies have for decades guaranteed cheap fuel.

Iran is already cutting back, while Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez has revived talk of a price hike for the first time in 12 years - a politically unpopular move that two decades ago sparked deadly riots in Caracas.

"One day, prices will need to be adjusted," Chavez warned recently in a televised speech. "We're practically giving away gasoline."

To spread wealth and buy support, many oil producing nations subsidize fuel for domestic consumption. Gasoline sells for as little as 39 cents a gallon (10 cents a liter) in Iran, 60 cents a gallon (16 cents a liter) in Saudi Arabia, and $1.52 a gallon (40 cents a liter) in Iraq, where prices were ratcheted up following the U.S. invasion.

The global economy has crashed, however, and so has the price of oil. The same countries that used billions from crude exports to subsidize gasoline at home, even as prices hit record highs elsewhere in the world, are now under - tremendous strain.

Iran, with the world's fourth-largest oil reserves, reduced its most heavily subsidized monthly ration by 20 percent to 26 gallons (100 liters) per car in March. Malaysia, where subsidies ensured some of Southeast Asia's cheapest gasoline, increased prices by 40 percent to $3.31 a gallon (61 cents a liter) last year, sparking nationwide protests. Net fuel importers Indonesia, Taiwan and India also reduced subsidies.

In Egypt, many people believe the government has kept gas prices unchanged despite crude's fall to recoup some of the $11.4 billion it spent on subsidies when oil peaked last year. Their counterparts in Russia, which vies with Saudi CARACAS, Venezuela Arabia as the world's top oil producer, have a similar complaint, even though their government doesn't subsidize gasoline.

Venezuela still has the world's cheapest gasoline, according to the Washington D.C.-based consulting firm PFC Energy.

Venezuelan leaders have largely avoided raising gas prices since 1989, when more than 300 people died in rioting after the government allowed energy prices to rise. Chavez's predecessor, Rafael Caldera, did slash subsidies in 1996 and 1997; but while Chavez, who took office in 1999, eliminated cheap leaded fuels, he has otherwise left prices unchanged.

Chavez's government won't say how much income it forgoes each year to reduce domestic fuel costs. But the Caracas-based consulting firm Ecoanalitica estimates that Venezuela last year lost $8.8 billion.

What's more, costs are now rising for Venezuela as output sags at the nation's aging refineries. The world's 11th-biggest oil producer has been forced to import a growing amount of gaso-

When asked by The Associated Press about maintaining the subsidies, Oil Minister Rafael Ramirez said only that the price tag is "very high."

Economists warn that Venezuela is now in a tough spot. Raising desperately needed cash by lowering subsidies would almost certainly fuel inflation, which at 29.5 percent in Caracas is already Latin America's highest.

When gasoline prices spiked for much of the rest of the world last summer, there were radical changes in consumer behavior and governments quickly revisited their energy policies.

That did not happen in Venezuela.

People like 46-year-old Daniela Leon, who owns a bathing suit shop in an upscale Caracas neighborhood, jump in their cars for even the briefest errands.

"It doesn't matter, because it's just 3 bolivars ($1.40) to fill the tank," said Leon, who goes everywhere in her two-year-old Renault. Her husband and son each have

That attitude has jammed streets with gas guzzlers. Car sales soared an average 68 percent a year between 2003 to 2007, as access to credit spread. Sales dipped in 2008 when the government restricted imports, but were still triple 2003 levels.

The traffic is overwhelming. Arnold Montero, a 42year-old civil engineer, drives to work two hours early to avoid the rush, then dozes in his car until the office opens.

But even he opposes a price hike: It would only make family outings to the beach tougher to afford on his salary of $1,395 a month, he said.

Critics say gasoline subsidies disproportionally benefit the middle and upper class, who are more likely to buy cars and drive them more often. According to Ecoanalitica, Venezuela's richest 25 percent consumes nearly nine times the gasoline used by the country's poorest quarter.

"You're giving a subsidy to people who don't need it," said Abelardo Daza, an economist at the ODH consulting group in Caracas.

The government should eliminate subsidies on the high-octane fuel burned by costlier new cars and use the proceeds to upgrade refineries to process more gasoline, more cheaply, at home, he said.

Venezuela last year borrowed $3.5 billion from Japanese investors to refurbish aging refineries, closing parts of the El Palito complex for 10 weeks this spring in hopes of boosting gasoline output in 10 of the country's 23 states later this oil company State Petroleos de Venezuela SA, or PDVSA, wanted to build three new refineries by 2012 - but falling oil prices have put most of those plans on hold, said Carlos Rossi, an independent oil consultant in Caracas

Economists predict the government will be forced to raise prices, slowly.

That makes 36-year-old taxi driver Victor Bolivar

"If gasoline goes up," he said, "food goes up, everything goes up. But the one thing that doesn't go up? Peoples' salaries."

toward trade shows

Representatives from Pampa will be going to an international wind energy show in May, but more importantly, Pampa officials are planning on mounting a major assault on next year's show.

Clay Rice, executive director of the Pampa Economic Development Corporation, said this year's international show and exposition will be May 4 through 7 in

"I'm going to be there for that," Rice said.

The annual trade show next year, however, will be held in Dallas.

"We have the opportunity through the High Ground of Texas to participate at a higher level," Rice said.

He said that the member cities of High Ground can have their own booth within the High Ground booth. The PEDC board of directors Friday voted to participate in next year's exposi-

"That is exciting," Rice said, "because it is an extremely large show where many contacts can be made. It just helps strengthen the future of wind energy for our

We asked a few Gray Countians to reflect a moment on the kind of community they would like to have in the future. This vision was to be a hope without regard to cost or politics. These are the responses.

or the past several American has been reminded the fragile nature of our economy.

Without a doubt, the national, state and local economy are suffering. In fact, the economic challenges faced by all of us may cause suffering for some time; however, I believe strongly in the will of the American people with regard to challenges. Throughout the course of history, our nation and region have been challenged. During each time, opportunities have been created. The people of this nation and the people of Pampa will survive the current economic challenge and the reason is simple. I believe that the people of this region are resilient, determined and steadfast people. For these reasons, I envision a community in which the relentless pursuit of exellence will continue. I envision a community in which all citizens have the opportunity to be economically prosperous. This community is blessed with people who are not afraid of the values of hard work. Additionally, the people of Pampa are not afraid to make sacrifice in the pursuit of economic opportunity. History has shown that the presence of hard work and sacrifice are a prevailing value in this region. For these reasons, I feel strongly that opportunities will continue to surface in the future. When these events occur, I envision future economic success. I am excited about the prospects that a power generation plant will bring. Additionally, there is no doubt in my mind that wind power will provide numerous opportunities for the people of this region for generations to come.

I envision a community in which citizens have the opportunity to pursue educational exellence. Within our communiy, there are many who are involved in the education of our children. Without a doubt, I believe that these people are dedicated professionals who seed the advancement of excellence within our school district. In my opinion, a quality education system is a critical component for future success within any community. I envision continued success in our school district and the opportunity to pursue educational success at Clarendon College as well. The community of Pampa has a fine education tradition because of the dedication of so many and I firmly believe that this tradition will continue. I am hopeful that our new and renovated educational facilites will provide enhanced opportunities for our greatest resource, the children of Pampa.

I envision a community in which the overwhelming and prevailing view is one of pride and optimism. Because of our history, there is much to be proud of. It is my hope that the community of Pampa will continue to be a place in which people are not limited by that which cannot be done. In fact, it is my hope that all of us will always be a people of vision and forward in our thinking. We should continuously be a people who wish to raise our standards of performance and embrace the challenges that lie ahead with courage and confidence.

There is no doubt that enormous challenges await us in the future. Many may choose to become overwhelmed or discouraged by these events. Like so many of my friends and neighbors, I choose to embrace the future with the hope that our greatest days lie ahead. I am thankful for past generations who created great traditions and laid the foundation for a great community. Without a doubt, those who went before us were committed to a cause greater than self. In order for these traditions to continue, all of us must continue to be committed to a cause greater than ourselves. If we choose to live in this manner, I believe that we should expect to live in a vibrant community - one which will be the envy of our region.

"where there is a lack of vision, the people will perish." This statement is as true this day as it was then. It is my hope and prayer that this community will continue to be a place of vision surrounded by those who are not afraid of the future, willing to serve and brimming with optimism.

If we embrace this attitude, Pampa will be a great place to live for generations to come.

Though I only moved to Pampa last September, I have already begun to fall in love with the city and its wonderful people. I am originally from Raleigh, NC and have also lived in FL Tampa, and Birmingham, AL.

I would explain that Pampa was about an hour northeast of Amarillo and that it has a population of roughly 18,000 people. Most responses included at least some version of how far away from 'home' I would be and how small and remote Pampa sounded to them.

Well, I am happy to report that I am very happy here. My husband and I both have a great deal of affection for the wonderful, hard working people of Pampa. We have met some of the most kind, genuine people we have ever known here.

other people that are very involved in the community. Pampa has such a wonderful, diverse group of people within this organization, who are all working together for the betterment of this city and its people.

While it is true that there have been many lay offs recently within our working ranks, I still believe with all of my heart that Pampa is a city that will continue to grow despite the current economy. Many residents have shared with me the difficulties the community has experienced in the past, due to the downturn of either the oil industry or the economy, and yet they all voiced the fact that Pampa came through those difficult times and that they believe we will come through this one as well.

It is true that Pampa could be considered a bit remote by outsiders; however, I believe that this has created a sense of 'family' that just doesn't exist in other small cities. I have witnessed, first hand, the residents of Pampa reaching out in acts of kindness to help their neighbors. My husband and I have even been recipients of such acts. From the moment we arrived, people have gone out of their way to make us feel welcome, to invite us to visit their church, and to assist us in getting acclimated to our new surroundings. Because of the resilient nature of Pampa's people and the many opportunities that are already on the horizon, I see Pampa continuing to grow both in population as well as the number of new businesses moving into the city. The people here have such a positive, 'can-do' attitude that it is contagious and I believe this will eventually draw new employers into the area and this will bring new residents to our growing city.

One of the areas that I believe Pampa could improve on is the number of restaurants from which to choose. While the existing 'sit-down' restaurants do have delicious food and menus with plenty of options to choose from, I really think that having a Ryan's or an Applebee's would be a great addition to Pampa and would create badly needed jobs for our residents.

A couple more fast food restaurants, such as an Arby's or Burger King would satisfy my personal cravings as well!

Sacrifice for the future

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Pampa for being so kind and welcoming to newcomers like my husband and myself, as well as to commend them for sustaining such a strong work ethic and sense of community during difficult economic times.

I hope that all of the people of Pampa will continue to look outside of themselves and to always reach out to their neigh bors and to look for ways to serve this wonderful community that we all have the privilege to call 'Home'.

Pampa is truly, "A Special Place".

Pampa is a wonderful community! It is home to progressive, bright, and friendly people. My vision is that the community will be, in the future, the home of individuals who continue to be examples of the positive qualities and character that our citizens have today. There is a challenge in that statement, however. The challenge it poses is to create an environment now that ensures these traits are still alive in the future. Further, it might take sacrifices in the present to ensure a bright future for our community. For the Pampa of today to possibly exist in the future, the population base must remain stable or even grow. We will depend upon today's community leaders to have the wisdom and foresight to attract diverse and thriving industries and businesses to Pampa. Their efforts, however, may call for small sacrifices or inconveniences today so that our community can enjoy a bright future. The leaders of our community cannot let criticism or second-guessing by others deter them from a path that leads to longterm prosperity for our city and our region. The act of leading attracts second guessing and criticism! If Pampa is to keep its vitality and charm into the future, the citizens of the future must know of the traditions and success that our community currently enjoys. The linking of the present to the future will take some planning and creativity. Current leaders who are helping to link the past to the present with the Woody Guthrie Center, the White Deer Land Museum, the Freedom Museum, and the like have given us an example to follow. A city keeps its feeling of community by purposefully planning to keep its "best" alive for the future. With hard work, courage, and imagination, the spirit that helps to make Pampa a great place to live and raise families today can be a blessing to those who follow us.

Small town friendly

by Capt. Mark Martin Salvation Army

When I think of Gray County and Pampa, I think, "What a great place this is to live for someone like me!"

Where I grew up, in a very small community, we had four seasons.

With that in mind, I wonder what Pampa would be like as a retirement place for all those snowbirds who look to Texas as a place that is mild in the winter, with long sunny days in the summer, and the kind of friendly people who only come from a small town? For this to happen, Pampa needs to retain many of those who are leaving to find work elsewhere.

What we see through

The Salvation Army's Social Service program is that the head of the household (the husband) leaves and the family is left behind until work can be

A factor contributing to the situation is that the job they had here was likely one with a company who services the oil industry and it paid a very good

Pampa needs affordable housing and/or low-income subsidized apartments to offset the income reduction such families face.

All people wish to live well, and that doesn't just mean to have a lot of money. It means to be comfortable and secure in the place one lives.

I dream of a community where families cherish each other, where husbands and wives treat one another with love and respect while providing a strong, stable foundation for their children.

I see teenagers developing dating relationships based on respect. I envision neighbors exhibiting compassion for the poor, elderly, disabled and mentally challenged. I watch as leaders make decisions that support all levels of society.

This is my vision for Pampa and Gray County. I know what I see is not likely to happen in this day and age, but there's no reason not to continually work toward the ideal.

In light of that idea, I see continued collaboration between Tralee, local law enforcement, the judicial system and other social service agencies to ensure that the inevitable victims of violence receive the justice they deserve and the support they need to heal and return as contributing members of the communi-

This is a daunting task. It will take the combined talents of us all to achieve. It will take the education and experience of the professionals who work directly with the victims. It will take the financial and emotional support of businesses, foundations and individuals. It will take the strength and will of the victims, themselves.

I remember a day 27 years ago when I sat in the office of a hospital social worker. He told me of his dream to establish a support system and a safe place for women who were being abused by their husbands. Too often he had seen these women in the hospital's emergency room. After counseling with them, he watched as they returned to the man who had caused their injuries because they had nowhere else to go.

Travis Plumlee's dream, 25 years later, is Tralee Crisis Center. His dream became a reality due to the extensive efforts of members of Pampa's Altrusa Club, concerned businessmen and women who devoted their time and talents to establishing the agency, and to local foundations, churches and philanthropic individuals.

In 25 years, Tralee has served thousands of victims of violent crime and seen thousands of them return to productive lives. With the continued support of Pampa and Gray County, I see Tralee helping thousands more.

Perhaps, someday, Tralee will become a relic of the past. If Travis's dream could come true, why can't mine?

Until that day, Tralee will continue to be there for the unfortunate souls who find themselves the victims of violence.

Dee Dee Laramore

Tralee's board, staff and volunteers will continue to strive to build a community where love and respect abound.

That's my vision. That's my dream.

Laramore Executive Director of the Tralee Crisis Center.

•We are already in the focus on promoting our- oil and gas business and have been for years.

•We have unlimited sun and wind as raw materials. ·We have power genera-

•We have a manufacturing capability to make large and small products.

I would like to see an assembly plant for wind turbines, solar panels, modules for electric cars,

Texans talk back on education and transportation

by U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison

In a recent column, I shared some of the results of a survey in which I asked Texans to give their opinions on two of the most pressing issues that confront our country: the economy and health care. As part of poll, Texans also weighed in on two other critical domestic priorities: education and transportation. While good tax policy and a fiscally responsible budget are essential to our short-term economic recovery, world-class education and efficient transportation systems will be the foundations of our long-term pros-

Education

When asked Congress should strengthen public education, nearly half of respondents want expanded options when determining their children's formal education. Over 31 percent want to attract more qualified teachers. Twenty-six percent said teachers' salaries should be raised. Another 21 percent believe technical and vocational training in community colleges should be expanded. And a little more than 20 percent want to provide students with more financial aid and scholarships for col-

All of these steps should be part of our comprehensive approach to meet our modern education challenges. Research indicates that, compared to children in other countries, our students are underperforming in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM). These studies also show that a powerful predictor of student achievement in STEM is the presence of fully certified teachers who have at least a bachelor's degree in the subjects they teach. I've been a strong advocate for Teachers for a Competitive Tomorrow, a project in which colleges and universities encourage undergraduate students to gain degrees in their STEM fields of study with teacher certification obtained through required electives. In 2007, I cosponsored the America Competes Act, which increases the number of advanced placement (A.P.) courses in underprivileged schools and bolsters the supply of teachers for A.P. math, science, and foreign language courses.

Additionally, public schools are the foundation of our educational system, but 43 percent of survey respondents chose alternatives to public school as their top priority. Greater resources, local control, and consistent accountability standards are essential to achieving better education results for America's children. At the federal level, in 2001, I sponsored legislation to provide the option of single-sex schools, classrooms, and extracurricular activities at the elementary and secondary levels. Numerous studies have demonstrated that girls enrolled in same-gender programs tend to have more confidence to express themselves in the classroom and pursue more courses in mathematics and science than they do in co-ed classrooms. Similar results were found for boys in middle and high school classrooms urban locations. Whatever their individual needs may be, investing in the future of our children is

Transportation

When asked what they consider to be the most important transportation priority, 37 percent of respondents want to increase use of alternatives to cars, such as rail, and another 31 percent suggested that we must replace our aging infrastruc-

Amtrak and light rail play an important role by easing traffic congestion and reducing gasoline consumption and carbon emissions. Light rail systems in Dallas and Houston provide reliable transportation for thousands of people each day, and Austin will soon be operational. Although mass transit continues to grow in our cities and suburbs, cars remain the primary mode of transportation for most Texans. We must expand our aging road infrastructure to keep pace with our growing population. By building more roads, highways, and bridges, we will create more jobs. In fact, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation, every $1.25 billion spent on the nation's transportation infrastructure supports 35,000 jobs. And that spending tends to pay for itself by spurring even more economic activity. The Public American Transportation Association reports that every $10 million in capital investment in public transportation can return up to $30 million in business sales alone. Furthermore, now that we have a national highway road network in place, we should allow individual states to collect and spend their highway funding as they see fit.

While automobile alternatives and infrastructure were Texans' top priorities, support for tolling was at the opposite end of the spectrum. Only 15 percent of respondents suggested that we should increase the number of toll roads. I am against tolling federal highways that were built using taxpayers' money. Tolling should only be allowed on federal highways if it involves constructing new lanes, while maintaining the same number of free lanes.

Prolonged Texas drought impacts wildlife

AUSTIN, Texas Despite welcome rains in late March, much of Texas remains parched by prolonged drought of historic proportions, and wildlife die-offs of whooping cranes and deer have been reported. However, experts say native wildlife evolved to bounce back from drought, and a bigger issue is how human water use is changing the equation, and how drought underscores the need for water planning and conservation.

"The current drought affecting all of Texas has reached historic proportions, with the past six months among the driest since the long-term drought of the 1950's and 1917, the driest year on record." That sentence begins the March 11 situation report from the governor's Drought Preparedness Council. The council report said last December through February was the driest period on record for the east, south central, and upper coast regions. It also noted the entire state was classified as at least "Abnormally Dry" according to the United States Drought Monitor.

Continued dry range conditions could have a negative impact on wild turkey production and hunting prospects for spring turkey season, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists. If parts of Texas remain parched, particularly the south, experts say Rio Grande turkey breeding activity and nesting effort will be greatly reduced or nonexistent. Rio Grande spring turkey hunting season runs April 4-May 17 in the North Zone, with special youthonly weekends March 28-29 and May 23-24. The South Zone season runs March 21-May 3, with youth weekends March 14-15 and May 9-10.

TPWD's J.D. Wildlife Murphree Management Area near Port Arthur, drought has delivered the second half of a one-two punch that started with Hurricane Ike last September.

The lack of rainfall means freshwater marshes at Murphree WMA that inundated were Hurricane Ike are not being flushed of salt water. That lack of flushing is killing plants and damaging soil chemistry. The area's brackish marshes are saltier than usual for this time of year, suffering the same stresses as freshwater

"Brackish marshes on the WMA and neighboring private ranch land which would normally be at or below 10 parts per thousand salinity are still up in the teens," said Michael Rezsutek, Ph.D, a TPWD wildlife biologist at Murphree WMA. Rezsutek said little fresh water is available for use by mottled duck broods, and that will likely lead to a very low production of mottled ducks this season. Mottled ducks are the only Texas year-round resident duck, and are prized by hunters and wildlife biologists. They've been declining for the past 30 years due to habitat loss and other factors, so drought effects are adding stress to an already stressed popula-

He also said alligators and amphibians are unable to recolonize areas inhabited before Hurricane Ike because of the salt water, and populations of these animals will likely remain depressed for the next several years.

Down the coast at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, drought may have contributed to the worst winter on record for the world's only wild flock of endangered whooping cranes. After an encouraging multi-year comeback in which flock numbers grew each year, this is the first decline since 2001. Only 249 birds will return north to Canada this spring, down from 270 who arrived in Texas last fall.

Refuge expert Tom Stehn attributes whooping crane losses to poor habitat conditions on the middle Texas coast. He said low rainfall in 2008 resulted in saltier bays and fewer blue crabs, the primary food source for wintering whoopers. In addition, whoopers are further stressed when cranes must leave the bays to fly inland seeking fresh water.

In the Edwards Plateau of Central Texas, at spots like Garner State Park, there were reports of nonnative axis deer dying from starvation coupled with cold weather earlier this year. TPWD wildlife biologists report range conditions are in poor shape, prickly pear is thin because of the lack of water and feral hogs are looking very thin and drawn down. Native whitetail deer still appear in decent condition but may not last long if the situation continues.

In the Trans-Pecos region of West Texas, last summer TPWD wildlife biologists observed a considerable drop in the pronghorn antelope population in portions of Jeff and Presidio Davis Counties, although overall Trans-Pecos pronghorn populations remain only slightly below the 30-year average. The specific causes are not known, but biologists believe there were several compounding factors, including how much of the affected area received no measurable rainfall from November 2007 to June 2008.

Meanwhile, this year a team of scientists is continuing work that will eventually guide decisions about how water pumping from the Edwards Aquifer in Central Texas should be restricted during critical drought periods. The science team is part of the Edwards Aquifer Recovery Implementation Program or RIP, a coalition of organizations working with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to recover endangered species threatened by low spring and river flows. The approach has been successfully used in other parts of the country to work out complex water use and endangered species issues. The EA RIP was created by the same 2007 legislation that raised the aquifer pumping cap during normal times, and as part of that agreement to increase the cap lawmakers required the RIP to be completed by the end of 2012. TPWD has four scientists on the team, examining flow needs of aquatic creatures and plants from Comal Springs all the way down the Guadalupe River to San Antonio Bay.

Finally, wildlife experts say individual citizens can do a lot to help manage problems caused by drought, including using drought-tolerant native plants for spring garden-

Mexico, US form working group to make legal immigration safer

MEXICO CITY (AP) -Mexico and the United States have formed a highlevel, joint working group to make immigration safer and more orderly, Mexican officials announced Friday.

The working group will focus on making documented migration easier, protecting migrants' rights and improving procedures for repatriating migrants, the Mexican Foreign Relations Department said in a statement.

It also will focus on steps to inform the public about the dangers of trying to cross the border without documents.

The group was formed following meetings be-tween U.S. Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano and Mexican Foreign Relations Secreta ry Patricia Espinosa.

The two officials also want to create a long-term study group on border issues such as the environment, water and health.

While the outflow of Mexican migrants has fallen dramatically, immigration remains an important bilateral issue.

The net outflow of Mexicans - both legal and illegal - declined by more than 50 percent in the 12 months ending in August 2008, compared to the same period a year earlier, according to the Mexican National Statistics, Geogra phy and Information Institute.

The net outflow of Mexicans - those leaving the country minus those returning from abroad dropped to 204,000 people between August 2007 and August 2008. That was down from 455,000 for the year ending in August

Fighting for oilfield workers

Ruben Ramirez is setting his sights high.

The Kermit oilfield hand and small-business owner wants to meet with President Barack Obama, Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi - as well as members of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus - in his fight to improve conditions for oilfield employees.

"There's a lot of things going on, and people just don't want to talk about it," Ramirez said.

Hereford defeats Harvesters in close 10-7 win

On Friday (April 3) the wind was blowing out and so were the baseballs, making the game for the Harvesters and Whitefaces challenging. Hereford ended the game on op, after pounding out four home runs and in the end of the game, defeating the Harvesters by a score of 10-7.

Down 2-0 in the bottom of the first, Pampa added a un after Brett Powell was hit by a pitch for the 15th time this season with one out. Pampa added a run in the second when Jeremy Busse rove a 2-0 pitch over the left field fence for his first home run of the year.

In the bottom of the fourth, still down 8-4, Pampa was within one run. With one out, Sieck reached the base on an error, and Powell reached on catcher's interference. Ryan Funderburg was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Hunt then lined an 0-2 pitch into left field to score Sieck and Powell. Funderburg took third on the throw home and Hunt went to 2nd.

Funderburg eventually scored on a passed ball to bring the home team to within one run. With the bases loaded and two outs, Hereford would make a pitching change that ended Pampa's rally.

In the top of the seventh, and clinging to a one run lead, Hereford's bats struck again. A two run home run would gave the Whitefaces a 10-7 lead.

Caitlin Sieck: In training for life

by Rachel Stennett rstennett@thepampanews.com

t 14 years old, Caitlin

Sieck is carrying a load of responsibilities that would be too burdensome for many adults. But to her, taking advanced courses and playing three sports is just another day in her life.

A humble and quiet teenager, Sieck believes the keys to her 4.0 GPA are the support of her family, and knowing how to balance time. As she explains it, the difference between her time management compared to most other kids her age is in doing things right away, without procrastination. The day she gets assignments, she completes them if possible. She can not afford to have lag time in assignments due to numerous games and other events that take up her time.

"Other kids get to come home after school, but I'm here (at school) till 5:30 or 6 p.m. every day," Sieck said of her afterschool athletic schedule.

Sieck is on the track team, a member of the junior varsity volleyball team, and a player on the girls JV basketball team. Encouraged by her parents to stay active, Sieck has played sports since first grade and doesn't plan on stopping anytime

Even though basketball season required her to give up Saturdays for practice, and all sports require time for travel and devotion, Sieck manages to be a successful athlete and scholar.

rieck is planing to graduate through the Distinguished Achievement Plan offered at Pampa High School. She is enrolled in a full course load of work, which includes taking three pre-advanced placement ultimately be able to take a test when she is a senior and receive college credit for the AP courses. Sieck's regular courses include world geography and Spanish. She is also a first soprano in choir.

She doesn't stop there.

Sieck attends youth group every Wednesday and Sunday services at First Baptist Church, and even manages to be a normal teenager and hang out with friends when time permits.

t may seem like a lot of things for one teenager to handle, but Sieck pull off the same lifestyle.

Through the influence of her older brother, PHS senior Blake Sieck, she has seen just how much work it takes to graduate with achievement. Blake Sieck is also involved in a handful of sports and has taken many AP classes at PHS.

"We became close last year," Sieck said of her relationship with her brother. "He helps me with school work and he helps me with sports." Sieck said that their relationship has helped her socially too, entering PHS as a freshmen this year she has had a hand-up getting to know some of the upper classmen. Sieck is even thinking of attending the college her brother is considering, Abilene Christian University. scho

Sieck explained that she is motivated to work hard in sports and school because it is preparation for her future, which she hopes right now to be in Orthodontics. 'It's cool how they can get teeth to do that," Sieck said .

She added that her work load in high school will prepare her for the future. If it is in orthodontics, she can anticipate seven to eight years of schooling.

"I want to be successful in life and accomplish my dreams. This is good preparation for that."

Youth leading the way Brenden Carpenter: following his passion

By Rachel Stennett rstennet@thepampanews.com

e's been voted one of the top ten hottest guys in his church youth group.

He plays the guitar, and races cars as a hobby— and he's planning a move to

At the ripe old age of 18, Brenden Carpenter has a pretty good grasp on what he wants from his life. With cars and music as his two passions in life, he plans to use one as a hobby and the other as a career. Carpenter will be leaving his life in Pampa to go to school in Australia and learn how to be a church music

"I decided that's where I need to be. This is the best way to fulfill what I need to do and still have the most incredible, or one of the most incredible experiences of my entire life,' he said. Carpenter will leave at the end of December and study at Hillsong International Leadership College, a part of Hillsong Church, one of the most renowned churches in the Christian world, known for its worship music.

the path that led to the decision to go to school oversees has been a few years in making. He was raised in a Christian home and Carpenter has been passionate about music since he joined the school band in fifth grade.

Carpenter, who graduated in 2008, played the trumpet in band all the way through senior year at Pampa High School. He also picked up the guitar as a freshman by listening and watching others, and he has taught himself how to play bass.

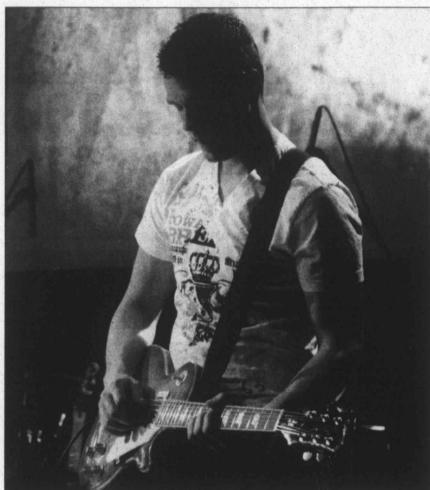

A year and a half ago, Carpenter became a member of Trinity Fellowship Church, where he now plays electric guitar for Collision Youth Ministries, and met someone who had been to HILC in Australia.

"The idea started a few years ago and I thought, hey, yeah, that would be cool, and then I grew close to peowas possible to do this, that people from Pampa can do this, and I decided I needed to go,"

Carpenter said. "I love being used by God as an instrument, through an instrument. While he isn't playing the guitar and planning his future, Carpenter races his 1977 Chevrolet Nova.

ars have been a part of Carpenter's life since he was six years old when he started working on engines with his dad and brother. "We decided we wanted to do something as a family, and it grew from there. My mom wasn't exactly hugely excited, but she's come around and she loves it just as much as we do."

Carpenter started racing informally with his family on dirt bikes and street bikes with a 2001 Honda Superhawk. When he turned 16, he upgraded to the 1977 Nova given to him by his father.

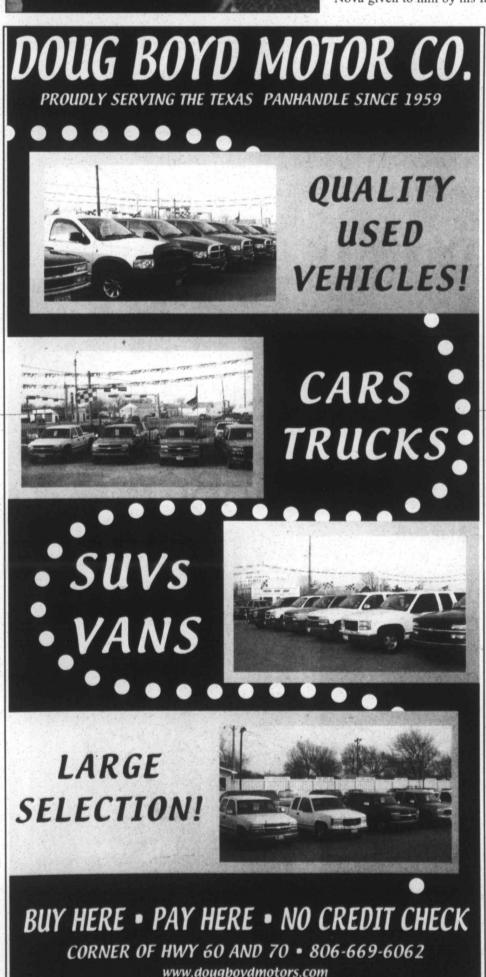

ple (at Collision). I learned that it Carpenter hopes to make music his vocation.

"I loved (racing) since the first time I did it at Burnin' Bricks (an annual June drag racing event in Pampa). Ever since then, I've just loved it more and more." Carpenter has made it to the semi-finals several times and plans on competing for trophies and cash prizes and in bigger races this year at the Amarillo Raceway and Wichita "Racing is a hobby I plan to have forever, it's a bug. It's something that whenever you do get into it, it gets into you. I'll always have some sort of hot rod to play with.'

ntil he leaves for Australia in December, Carpenter is working at Thomas Automotive where he is a full time mechanic, using the skills he learned from a young age with his father.

Youth leading the way ara Ceyanes: tackling the issues

rstennett@thepampanews.com Ceyanes was among 60 high school Texans who were invited to attend the first statewide Texas Youth

Summit and be on the legislative forefront of tackling tobacco issues in youth.

Ceyanes, is a sophomore at Pampa High School, and was the only representative from Pampa assisting legislators concerning tobacco issues.

On March 25 in Austin, she participated in the Texas Youth Summit at the State Capitol, and was a participant in Texas Tobacco-Free Kids Day, a celebration of youth leadership and activism in tobacco prevention efforts. Ceyanes was chosen after applying for the opportunity and was selected by a youth summit selection com-

"I decided to apply for this opportunity to help make a difference in my community, and I'm excited to meet with my legislators to talk about tobacco-related issues that interest me..." Ceyanes explained before travelling to the summit.

ne of the issues she was interested in learning about was the high percentage of high school students who are using smokeless tobacco.

While at the summit, Ceyanes and other delegates learned about the legislative process and met with lawmakers. The delegates worked together to make recommendations to help teenagers in Texas curb tobacco use, addressing secondhand smoke, cessation, and prevention, as well as youth access and enforcement.

Ceyanes has taken a stance against tobacco use and other destructive decisions through her membership in the SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) organization at PHS. Although only halfway through her second year with SADD, Ceyanes has already taken leadership in the group as treasurer and has played a major role in planning and being an activist in the group.

"Sara is a great student leader and advocate. She stands up for what she believes by Rachel Stennett in," Suzanne Pingel, SADD sponsor, said. "I've always been against tobacco, alcohol and drugs," Ceyanes said explaining her involvement in SADD. Ceyanes became "very active" last year as treasurer

eyanes has attended camps learning how to work with other SADD members informing students about the dangers of destructive decisions, which can range from smokeless tobacco use to dating issues.

The topics vary depending on the age levels of the students being taught. In elementary schools, Ceyanes said that SADD uses props like "Mr. Dip Lip" to show the effects of smokeless tobacco including ulcers and cancers

"It's fun walking in Wal-Mart and having little kids remembering walk up to you remembering what you taught them," Ceyanes said.

For Ceyanes, fighting destructive decisions are more means more than just friendly encounters at Wal-Martt.

She feels her efforts in SADD are making a difference.

"I had a friend that was dipping. I told him what I had learned about the problems that dipping causes and he stopped. Seeing him stop made me feel like it was my job to help as much as I could," she said.

"If something is going on, we can prevent, like 12,000 people dying a from tobacco use a year, I'm going to try to help," Ceyanes added. "Maybe me talking to people will help them realize that this isn't right."

eyanes hopes to see reduced numbers of tobacco users not only in her age group, but in the general population. We can make it more difficult for people to be influenced."

Ceyanes is a junior at PHS, and moved to Pampa her freshmen year from Nevada. Her father is a pastor at New Life Assemblies of God. Along with combating tobacco use through SADD, Ceyanes also sings on the praise team at her church, volunteers wit the Create-A-Beat after school program, and is a member of the peer tutoring program at PHS.

Pampa Junior High School seventh grade students Clifton and Turley are both members of the National Junior Honor Society, where they both are required to have a 90 percent average in all their grades.

Though the two joined NJHS to help them in their future, they both are enjoying it now, especially when they get to help with the Special Olympics.

Both boys recently helped Special Olympics as a part of one of their larger required service projects.

"We helped the volunteers and that was really fun," Turley said. "We got to go to practices, and helped coaches." The boys also participated in scrimmages against Special Olympics teams, where they were "killed every time," by their SO opponents, Turley said.

"We just got to hang out with them and it was really fun," Clifton said.

The boys began working with the Special Olympics in January, and just finished their roll in the project in the first week of March.

Turley explained that the other projects L are always good, but they haven't been as fun as helping with the Special Olympics. "We just get to play together and they show me up," he said.

Helen Robinson, director Pampa Special Olympics, said Turley and Clifton were always helpful. "They are certified volunteers and were very good helping the the Storms basketball team.

"You could always depend on these two volunteers and they listen to our coaches on how to help the athletes. I hope they will continue helping in the future with Special Olympics," Robinson said.

As members of NJHS, the boys are required to attend monthly meetings where they are assigned various service projects. The boys get to choose which service they will complete every month.

lifton and Turley always try to choose projects that they will be able to complete together.

Some projects are simple.

Recently, Clifton helped out a neighbor while they were away by checking their mail and making sure the house was protected in the absence. Last month, Logan helped organize a "Sweethearts" banquet at The Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ. With his youth group, Logan helped serve food.

Clifton and Turley have a common love for math, but when it comes to their future ambition, the best friends part ways.

Clifton dreams of being a doctor in Pampa, or taking over his father's business, Clifton Supply Company.

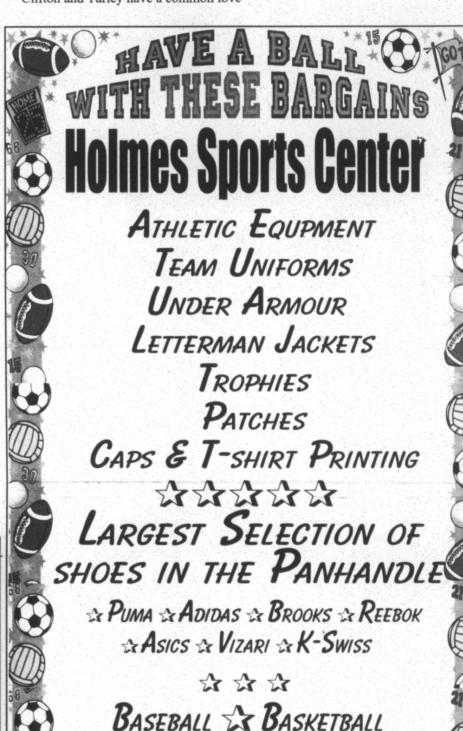

Turley wants to be a civil engineer and plans to live where the job market takes Appropriately, Clifton shadowed his dad on career day for school and Turley followed Donny Hooper, The City of Pampa's Director of Public Works.

Intil the time comes when the two may have to split paths, they plan to continue being best friends in Pampa through the classes they share together, the sports they play in together, and the community they help # here people care 2 Myrna Orr: Retired?

arville and Myrna Orr are retired now, but they probably have less free time than when they were working and raising a family

The couple is involved in a wide variety of volunteer work in Pampa, ranging from Meals on Wheels to the Pampa Chamber of Commerce to their church work Darville Orr grew up in the Phillips and Stinnett area. "I was born in Oklahoma," Myrna said. The two met at Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford.

Darville joked that he kidnapped her and brought her back to Texas.

'We moved here in 1968," Darville said. "I worked for Lewis Hardware at that time.

It later broadened and became Lewis Supply. Darville came to Pampa to manage the store.

Looking back, Darville said the couple's lifelong volunteer work wasn't part of any plan. If just happened.

"It just kind of materialized, I guess," Darville said. "I helped with Brownies when my daughter was young," Myrna said. Then there were the Cub Scouts for their two sons.

arville is involved in the Jordan Chapel Builders, a prison ministry here in Pampa that is raising money for a chapel at the Jordan Unit, one of the Texas Department of Corrections facilities east of town

"Actually," Darville said, "I'm not involved in the prison ministry. We're involved in the construction of the

They both volunteer for Meals on Wheels. Darville through the Pampa Rotary Club and Myrna through Altrusa, other organizations in which they are active.

Darville is also on the Friends of the Library board, the Senior Citizens board, the Community Concert Board, the hospital board, the city planning and zoning commission and the Gray County Appraisal Board.

Myrna is also heavily, if unofficially, involved with lost animals.

"I'm always finding stray dogs and trying to find their owners," she said. "It makes you feel good when you find the owner.'

"We both belong to the Pampa Chamber of Commerce," he said. "I am a Gold Coat."

Thile Darville is visiting with everyone at the chamber functions, Myrna's working. She's the one providing the music at the piano. "The piano is my love," she says, "and the organ, too."

Myrna also plays the organ for the First Baptist Church of Pampa. Darville is a deacon at First Baptist and also teaches a senior adult men Sunday school class. Darville said with a grin that he doesn't have a day job any more. "I retired in 1998," he said.

That's been more than 10 years ago, but neither one of them have slowed down. "There are a lot of wonderful volunteers here," Darville said of the community.

He said volunteerism is strong in Pampa. "I think it's because of their love for the community," he said, "and the desire to fill a need that they see."

'We receive much more reward than what we give," Darville said.

"Just the smiles from the people we can help are a joy," Myrna said.

Darville said that they find their Meals on Wheels experiences particularly rewarding.

Myrna, through Altrusa, helps out at Schneider House. Of course, with Myrna, music is involved. In the past, Altrusa has had Christmas parties for the residents of the Schneider House Darville Orr greets Pat Johns, keynote speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet.

"We sang Christmas carols," she said. "Kent Lane played the guitar, and I played the piano."

Darville said they are also involved in the Celebration of Lights, but then with typical humbleness he added that there are a lot of people who work on the Celebration of Lights, a lot of organizations and a lot of families.

Darville said that he gets a kick out of watching the kids go through with their eyes opened wide in Christmas wonder.

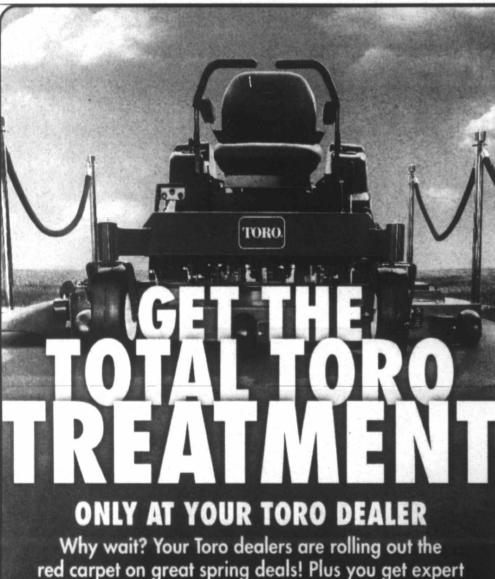

e said that after a few years, the volunteers see not only their family and friends coming through the Celebration of Lights, but also they see returning strangers, strangers that have become friends.

'That's really neat," Darville said.

The residents of Pampa are always ready to pitch in with a helping hand, he said.

"It seems like the more you're able to give," Darville said, "the greater the rewards that we receive back."

Myrna said she's found that when she's tired or down and goes to do her volunteer work, the people she calls on, particularly with regard to Meals on Wheels, the more they lift her spirits.

April.

There are the Friends of the Library

Book Sale and the open house at the White Deer Land Museum.

But then, almost every month is a busy month for Morriss, who's called Pampa home for about 60 years.

His family moved to Pampa when he was in the third

His family moved to Pampa when he was in the third grade. Morriss graduated from Pampa High School in 1958.

He spent most of his life in the oil patch.
"I was with Phillips Petroleum Company," Morriss said. "I was in the exploration division for about seven or eight years. When they shut the crews down, I transferred down here with the production side."

He left Pampa in 1962 to go to work for Phillips.
"I worked from south of New Orleans offshore all the way to the Montana border," Morriss said. "I got to see a lot of country."

He said he spent some time around Moab, Utah, where John Wayne used to make movies.
"They filmed Rio Grande over there," Morriss said,

"and they still had part of that fort."

He was in Wyoming around Fort Bridger, Evanston and Rawlings.

"There's a lot of history there," he said.

Because of the nomadic life of the exploration crews, Morris didn't really become involved with volunteer work until he moved back to Pampa.

He had been active in his bowling league and was president of the association for a while. "Until my arm gave out," he laughed.

His late wife, Charlene, was involved in sorority work and the Pampa Fine Arts Association. She was also a Gold Coat for the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, a tradition that Morriss continues.

"She dragged me around," Morriss said, "and I finally got used to it and wasn't a wall flower anymore. When you're in the oil field, you're kind of out there by yourself."

It was through his wife's Pampa Fine Arts Association involvement that Morriss became interested in volunteer work, particularly with Chautauqua, the Labor Day Celebration in Central Park. Sena Brainard is organizing that now, Morriss said. "She does a good job," he said.

At their Arts and Crafts Fair, Morriss said there's a team that works together to get the booths laid out and set up at M.K. Brown Civic Center.

"I work back in the kitchen making that Santa Fe stew," he laughed.

Morriss was president of Pampa Fine Arts Association

Pampa Fine Arts Association to get the old Burlington Railway Depot converted to an art gallery and art education center.

His work with the Pampa Fine Arts Association led to the Friends of the Library, where he was asked to serve on the board and be the book chairman.

"It's good," he said. "I like it, there's a lot of work to

Then he first started out with the Friends of the Library, they had one book sale a year. Now, they have two. One's for paperbacks and one for hardcover books.

Their next book sale will be the first weekend in April. He's also helped with Relay for Life.

"I take pictures out there for them," Morriss said. He's also involved with the Tri-State Senior Golf Association.

"That keeps me pretty busy," he said. Their big tournament is in July. "I've got a lot of stuff to do between now and then," he said. He good-naturedly said he spends more time organizing now than playing golf.

The last couple of years, he's become involved with the White Deer Land Museum Foundation.

"I'm just now really getting acquainted with all the stuff down there," Morriss said. "I got volunteered to be president this year, but I'm still learning."

Their open house is coming up in April.

Perhaps because of his broad range of volunteer work, Morriss sees more and more need for it.

"It's gotten now to where there's not that many people volunteering anymore," Morriss said. "It's less and less." The volunteers that he works with are superb, he said.

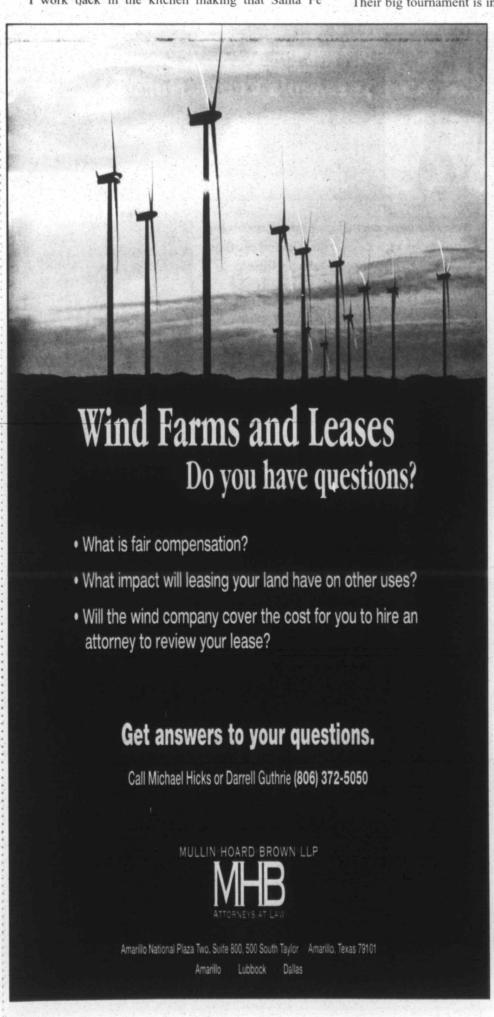

There just needs to be more.

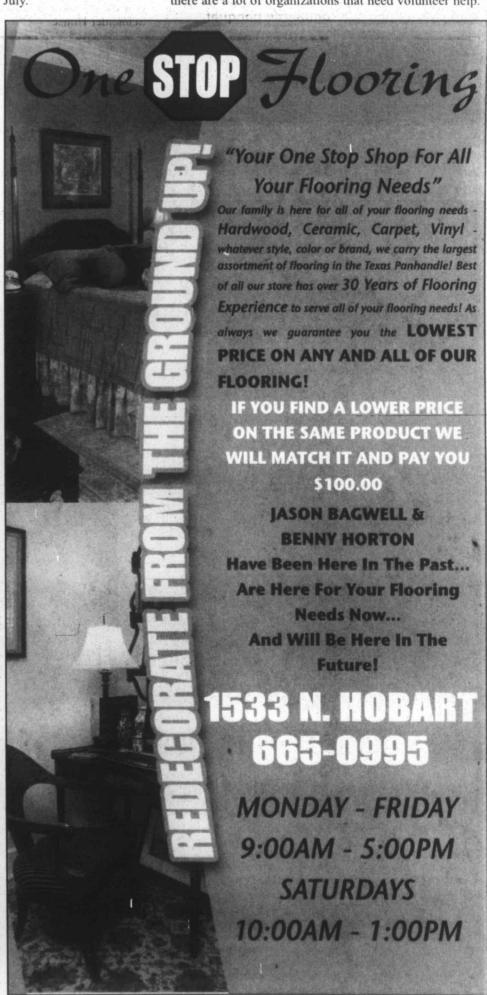

The rewards are many, Morriss said. They range from an inner satisfaction to the camaraderie of working with good people.

"It's good for everybody," he said. "If you just have an hour a week or an hour a month, it's worth it."

He said there are plenty of opportunities. Morriss said there are a lot of organizations that need volunteer help.

Parbara James:

f you've been a patient at PRMC during the past 27 years, Barbara James may have been the first smiling face you saw. Barbara has been a member of the hospital's auxiliary since even longer than the current hospital has been in existence. She began in the late 1960s at Highland General. She was a young homemaker, her husband Gene, developing his asphalt paving business.

Barbara remembers things were very different then.

She worked then, as she does today in patient intake, helping people to get checked in and settled in to the hospital. "It seems strange now, and it was embarrassing then, but we had to ask patients if they wanted to watch TV that day. "I had to collect 25 cents from them if they did," she explained, "I didn't like doing that.'

But she has loved helping all the patients who have passed through the facility.

When her then two children started school, Barbara didn't want "to stay home and do nothing,"so she began

When the hospital moved to its current location, her next door neighbor, a lab technician at the hospital, invited Barbara to an open house. 'There was a sign out there, saying they needed volunteers," Barbara explained. "The next day I contacted Nancy Paronto, she gave me a form and I took it back next day.'

She has logged 11,702 plus hours at PRMC. She is currently serving as auxiliary president for the third time. A volunteer reaches lifetime membership status at 1,000 hours.

"She sure is a treasure," said PRMC CEO Todd Lorenz. "We value every one of our volunteers and Barbara has served in numerous leadership roles. She always has a smile on her face and a positive attitude that brightens the day for our patients and staff here at the hospi-

I want to add a big thank you from the hospital to Barbara and all the auxilians," Lorenz

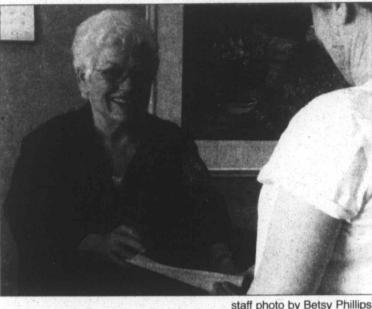

The auxiliary currently has about 42 members who assist in the pharmacy, lab, records department, patient intake and the information booth. They also run the hospitals' gift shop. For 23 of the past 27 years Barbara has also been manager and buyer for the gift shop.

She not only travels to the gift market in Dallas twice a year to purchase items to sell in the gift shop, she spends hours when she's not at the hospital creating a unique gift item.

he makes elaborate door hangers for babies' rooms, complete with little presents for the newborn. All done up with pink or blue ribbons, a stuffed animal, rattles and items like tiny outfits and bottles, the items vary, but the care and time put in to each one does not, and it shows.

Proceeds from the gift shop go to augment the hospital. "We try to provide things when their budget just won't quite stretch that far," Barbara said. It may be something relatively small like a camera for physical therapy or much larger, like the recliners for patients' families that are in each room. They have also purchased small hide-a-bed couches for rooms where family members can stay overnight if they need to

"We are desperately in need of more volunteers, James said. "Over the past few years we've lost several.

Where people care harles Henry: Satisfetion is helping others

by David Bowser dbowser@thepampanews.com f the term "volunteer work" summons up visions of garden parties and friendly banter, then it's not the same work that Charles Henry is volunteering for. Originally from Waco, Charles Henry moved to Pampa, with his late wife, Lena, after he retired from the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency.

That was 1996, but it took a while to settle in. "We came here in April, 1996," Henry said, "but I really didn't get involved in a lot of stuff until later." Initially, he became involved with the Federal Retired Employees Association. At the time, he said there were a number of retirees from the federal government in

"Unfortunately, most of them are now deceased or have moved away," Henry said.

Then he became involved with Genesis House and the Red Cross

"I'm not so much involved with the Red Cross anvmore," Henry said. "I served there from 1997 to 2006. e also became involved with the Texas Youth Commission. Henry is a Gold Coat with the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, and he's involved with the Woody Guthrie

Folk Music Center and Pampa's Tribute to Woody Guthrie, along with the United Way. He's heavily involved with his church, the Southside

Church of Christ, and he's a member of the Southside Senior Citizen's board of directors. 'When I was on the Texas Youth Commission," Henry said, "that was time consuming because I had to go down to Austin." Henry said there are a lot of really great volunteer workers in Pampa.

"I have a desire to be involved in trying to help people," Henry said. "I don't look at myself as a crusader or a member of the little sisters of the poor, but where I think I could help or where people think I could help, I don't mind."

ut with Henry's background in drug enforcement, his idea of helping tends to revolve around saving lives, not just being a nice guy.

Henry admitted that a lot of his volunteer work goes back to his work in the DEA. He said he's seen a lot of young people destroyed by drugs. "It destroyed their lives," Henry said, "even before they got a chance to know what life was really about." He said there is a definite need for people to work with involved in the Pampa Optimist Youth Club.

"The satisfaction and reward that I get from volunteering and being a participant," Henry said, "is almost indescribable.

He said he gets a rush knowing that just maybe he was able to help somebody's situation or help them improve their life.

Henry said he sees a broad need for volunteers across the community, all communities.

"To be more definitive," he said, "there's a need with young people.'

Henry said he believes strongly that if there is to be a future for Pampa or a future for America, it is with the "If our youth are not prepared to face tomorrow," he said, "then the future is dim." Henry said that the nation is looking at a situation now that few people can remember in the country's history. The economic and social fabric of the nation is in jeopardy. "If our young people are not prepared academically, physically or emotionally to take on tomorrow," Henry said, "then it's going to be next to impossible to exist." It isn't just a local problem. Henry sees it as a nation-

"Pampa does not escape the need," he said.

key to her success must be in her personal relationships with her students.

'I'm close to all of the kids," she explained, "I don't have kids of my own, so they all feel like my children.'

Plunk teaches third grade science and social studies classes, which are her two

"It's easy and the kids thrive on it. It's my passion and if I'm excited, the kids are excited. It's an easy gig to sell," she said smiling.

This year is the first year for Plunk to teach at the third grade level. The previous two years she taught first.

She enjoyed teaching at that age level, but said she is thriving now because of her passion for the content and her ability to develop even better relationships with students. "They only get more personality as they get older," she explained.

Teaching runs in Plunk's blood. Her mother, Karon Bonnell, teaches high school and junior high art in Miami.

Plunk commuted with her mother to Miami to attend school there, but she never planned on being a teacher. "I swore I would never be a teacher," Plunk said, "and then I realized what I was doing wasn't making a difference. I wasn't dealing with people as much as I wanted to and I wanted to feel relevant.' rior to teaching, Plunk received her undergraduate education in interior design at Oklahoma She worked at art museums in Panhandle and Lubbock, but was never satisfied because she, "didn't get to touch a lot of people's lives." Plunk decided to go into teaching and received her teaching license through West Texas A&M in Canyon. Although the job has been very different than what she expected in terms of heavy work loads, planning, grading, and paperwork, Plunk said she enjoys every day of it. "I work hard on keeping things current. I beef up the lessons so I won't be putting them to sleep.'

pecific curriculum is mandated by the state, which means that most third grade classes are similar everywhere, but Plunk said differences in teaching styles come from different personalities. "Everyone has their own personality that they bring to the table. It can either make it enjoyable or not."

Plunk feels she has found her niche in third grade sciences and social studies and plans to stay at this level. "I love the subject I'm teaching. I love, love, love it."

Plunk spends some time with one of her third grade students.

Currently there are only 36 female fire chiefs nationwide.

Other departments in Texas led by a woman are Rosenberg, Pecan Grove near Houston and most recently Anne Huff was named Beaumont's chief.

"I called her and congratulated her," Powell said

She also gave her some advice. She was quoted in an article in the Beaumont Enterprise, "For the ones who could stick it out, it was pretty rough going in the beginning," said Powell, adding there was a huge transition when firefighters she worked for suddenly had to work for her.

For example, the department used to run a booster truck to car fires. One of my staff came to ask if he could write an SOP (Standard Operating Procedure) for a car fire. She said, "OK, put it together."

"There are new fuels, new batteriesjust what is burning and the chemicals given off from those materials— if the new bumper systems catch fire parts of them can become projectiles, it's all changed," Powell said.

Long term plans are also ongoing. "It's no secret that we're growing more. Are we going to need another station up north? How do we staff that? These are some of the things we really need to continue to look at," the chief said.

She explained that about a month ago, Station 2 on the north side of town had more calls than Station 1 downtown. "We used to have more burns in Central, Station 2 was kind of laid back, but we're starting to see that shift north now." big man, Hieronymus looks like he could just about lift one of the school buses that he so tenderly works on.

His love of things mechanical comes naturally. He said he's always tinkered with machinery.

"When I was young, it was a thing I liked to do," Hieronymus said, "then I got a job doing it."

He said that to some extent he was always taking things apart and putting them back together. "There were a lot of old lawnmowers that I used to tear apart all the time," he said. "That's how I really got started." Fortunately, Hieronymus joked, these days he rarely has any parts left over after he takes something apart.

He laughed that he used to like the cold weather.

"I'm not too good with it now," Hieronymus said. "I don't like it much anymore. When it gets cold, I get cold now."

His connection to Pampa is through his wife's mother.

"My mother-in-law moved down here before my wife Jackie and I were married," Hieronymus said. "We moved down here from Forsythe, Mont."

That was around 1990. "I was here seven years," Hieronymus

He said the buses are generally easier to work on

"They're bigger," Hieronymus said. "Sometimes you have more room to get into places.'

He said he also likes camping and fishing. Hieronymus laughed jovially and said he used to take his family camping, but with a boy and two girls growing faster than a West Texas dust storm, or a Montana blizzard, there doesn't seem to be much time for that anymore.

His youngest daughter, Devin, is six. His oldest daughter, Robin, is 12. His son, Will, is 14.

Hieronymus said he used to have gokarts for the kids.

"They're too big for them now," he said.

Their interests are changing, but his son is still interested in things mechanical. However, at 14, Will's interest is beginning to manifest itself in an interest in cars and getting a driver's license.

Hieronymus said Will recently showed him a picture out of a magazine of the car that his son wants. It's Italian, exotic, has 500 horsepower and a price tag to match. "It's like $200,000," Hieronymus chuckled. "I told him I'd pay half."

PISD mechanic Bill Hieronymus reassembles a bus that he's just finished inspecting at the bus barn. He jokes that he doesn't have as many parts left over these days as when he disassembled lawnmower engines as a kid.

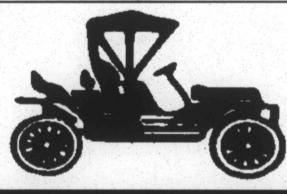

He said that since joining the school district last year, he said he really likes it. He's one of those fortunate few that enjoys what he does for a living and looks forward to coming to work everyday.

That begs the question, what does he do for fun?

There was a time he worked on motorcycles in his free time.

"I dabble," Hieronymus said, "but the last one I worked on didn't turn out too good. It wouldn't run. I don't know what

We would like to share with you why Calvary Bap tist Church has become one of the most dynamic churches in the Texas Panhandle.

Calvary's continuous growth has caused it to be nicknamed the "lighthouse on 23rd Street."

A new lighthouse stands in Calvary's Lighthouse Park as a reminder of the church's mission to share the light of Jesus Christ with Pampa and the surrounding area.

Richard Bartel is Calvary's pastor and Dallas Stringer is the associate pastor.

For the last 15 years, Calvary Baptist Church has made enormous strides in ministry to its membership and its community. This ministry is demonstrated in Calvary Baptist Church our new auditorium which is patterned after the 23rd Psalm. Our beautiful land-scaping, prayer garden, and fountain reminds us of the shepherd that leads His sheep to lie down in green pastures and leads them beside still waters. Calvary Baptist Church is a Southern Baptist Church that utilizes relevant sermons and contemporary music to relate to people's lives.

Music is an important part of the ministry at Calvary Baptist Church. Calvary's praise and worship style music, featuring the dynamic and contemporary Calvary Baptist Praise Band, is an integral part of all worship services. The pop-rock sound, using keyboards, guitar, and drums, appeals to our contemporary generation.

The music ministry is lead by Gary Jameson, minister of music.

alvary encourages people to become a part of a small group Bible Study. The church has groups the meet in homes during the week and Sunday morning Bible Study classes for all ages. Sherry Etheredge, Children's Director, oversees this ministry. Sherry has worked in Children's ministries for many years.

Calvary places a priority on quality children's activities. The children's Sunday School is staffed by trained and qualified teachers. Classes range in age from newborn through the sixth grade. In addition, an extended session, Wee Worship, is offered for 4 and 5 year olds during the Sunday morning worship service to allow the children to receive additional Biblical teaching on their level.

A dynamic and fun children's church, led by Amber Jones, takes place each Sunday morning while adults are in the worship service.

Children's choirs for ages 4 through sixth grade are offered on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

Several major children's events are planned at Calvary each year, including our Vacation Bible School.

alvary's youth ministry, led by Youth Minister Eric Lockwood, is a well-rounded program that focuses on the spiritual, emotional and physical needs of today's youth. In addition to Sunday School classes, we offer a separate "youth oriented" worship service on Wednesday evenings with contemporary music led by a live band and Bible study. Calvary's youth attend concerts, camps, and many other activities to help them grow as Christians.

ur church was born out of a vision more than 10 years ago. A small group of people saw the need for a church on the north side of Pampa and soon bought 20 acres and began to make the plans make the move. For about three years, the church met in the old Charlie's Furniture storefront. In 2006, our new building was completed and God has been blessing us greatly! We have over 200 members and average about 125 in worship.

Our church is very family oriented, reaching out to people of all ages. We have weekly activities for children and youth. Every Wednesday we have TEAMKIDS for ages 4-5th grade where they play games, have snacks and teach a lesson from the Bible. We also have a youth service on Wednesdays geared for students. Games, exciting worship and a bible study are available.

We also have activities for senior adults including trips, concerts and a monthly potluck meal.

e are very active in missions here and abroad.

We support several local ministries such as:

Pregnancy Support Center, Meals on Wheels, Good Sam's and others. Our Cookie Ministry meets monthly and bakes cookies to take to teachers, workers and workers and administration in our schools;

Local law enforcement such as: police, fire, ambulance and sheriff.

Men's meeting and ride.

Our motorcycle ministry meets during the riding season and seeks to bring together those with an interest in motorcycles.

Panhandle Hot Rod Ministry is an outreach supported by our church where we sponsor 1-2 car shows a year for those who have the love of cars and trucks.

Vacation Bible School - Our VBS grows more and more each year. Last year we enrolled over 150 children and this year we expect even more. This week is a fun-filled week packed with games, crafts, skits, Bible Study and excitement all around. Our church works hard to make this one of the highlight events of our year.

Disaster Relief-Cornerstone has several members who are trained and qualified to go and help in disaster areas when needed. Last year we sent members to Beaumont, TX and OKC to aid with disaster relief. These people are trained in chain-saw and feeding ministries.

Brookings, SD - Cornerstone is partnered with the Dakota Baptist Convention to help plant a church in Brookings, a town of 20,000. We took a team of 5 last summer to help do some beginning work. We will be returning in June of 2009 to do a second trip and help launch the new church.

Sturgis, SD - Cornerstone sentthree person team to the Black Hills Bike Rally last summer to work with the Dakota Baptist Convention. The DBC set up a tent on Main St. in downtown Sturgis and gave away a 2008 100th anniversary Harley. To enter, you just had to listen for 3 minutes as someone told how Jesus had changed their lives. That outreach saw over 1300 people accept Christ as their personal Savior. We will be sending a team of 10 plus back this summer to help

Niger, Africa - Cornerstone is partnering with the International Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention to help plant churches to reach the Songhai people of Niger. We will be sending a team this fall to Africa to help reach out to Muslims there.

In the Fall of 2007, we hired our full-time youth Pastor, Brian Taylor. He leads our ministry to our youth, along with a team of volunteers. This ministry is new but growing. Our students meet on Sunday for Bible Study, Wednesday for our youth worship service called THE EDGE. They also have regular fellowships, mission trips, weekend concerts and conferences, church camp in the summer and more! We are excited about what God is doing in this ministry!

ornerstone is a different kind of church. Our dress is casual and so is our style. We believe the Bible is true and teach it as it is. But we do believe in grace and forgiveness and that God has a plan for every person, regardless of their past. Everyone is welcome at Cornerstone!

Life Assembly of God

ew Life Assembly of God is a place where you can certainly feel at home. As a small congregation of 40-50 people, we have a family atmosphere where everyone knows everyone else.

Our mission statement reflects this attitude: "Taking people just as they are and accepting them into our family, letting them meet, touch, and know Jesus (the head of our family) as they learn and fulfill God's plan for their lives."

The church was started in the mid-1980's, and has since had 7 1/2 acres donated. We built a little round church on the corner of Randy-Matson and N. Sumner that is paid in full. Three years ago, Pastor Ben Ceyanes moved to Pampa, TX from Reno, NV when the previous pastor moved to New Mexico. The congregation was quite small at that time, but since has seen steady growth through conversions, baptisms, and new memberships.

inception. For years Trinity called 1200 S. Sumner home, but in January 2008 the congregation moved into its new facilities at 2225 N. Hobart. The size of the congregation has more than doubled since the passion of TFPampa. The church operates a weekly food ministry through the Harvest House at 736 S. Cuyler, provides clothing at the Wear House at 213 E. Tyng St., and also gives used furniture and household items to those in need. TFPampa partners with Somebody Cares Pampa in their annual Back-to-School Outreach in which school supplies and backpacks are given to hundreds of children each August. The same partnership endows the Fall Coat Outreach where hundreds of toddlers, children, and teenagers receive new coats.

Trinity Fellowship Pampa is a vibrant Christian congregation with ministries to all ages. The ighland Baptist Church is aligned with the Southern Baptist Convention and the Southern Baptist of Texas Convention.

Highland began as Trinity Baptist in 1950. After being constituted as a church it was moved to the Highland addition of Pampa in 1955, its current location.

The sanctuary of the church was a barracks from the Pampa Air Base. The early church family made two additions to the church. First was the north end of the building which is the fellowship hall. This took place in the early 60's. Later in the 60's the south end was added as well as the downstairs being fully completed at that time. The church building is currently undergoing a transformation that should be complete by mid to late April.

The church membership is at 250 from all walks of life across Pampa. We are currently meeting in an alternate location while the church building is being remodeled. We have Sunday School classes for all ages that continue at this time. Some of our Wednesday ministries have been temporarily put on hold until we get back in our building.

art of the emphasis that we participate in each year are the mission efforts of the SBC. Armstrong Easter Offering supports The Lottie Moon Home missions. Christmas Offering goes to support mission work around the world. And the Reach Texas offering supports mission work in the state of Texas.

The Youth of Highland have been going on a mission trip each summer to Arlington where they assist in ministry through various areas. The Youth help with activities such as Vacation Bible School that are held to minister to children as well as assisting in various other areas within the church. Highland has an active Senior Adult Department that enjoys getting together for times of fellowship and games.

ighland is also host site to Angel Food Ministry. This ministry provides food at a reduced price that helps any family stretch it's food budget. We also have individual church members that are actively involved in community activities and groups that further expand the scope of the ministries of Highland.

Highland Baptist Church is comprised of a body of people who desire to be used of God in whatever way they can be used. The people come from all walks of life and backgrounds to join together in worship and praise to God. Many marvelous events make up the history of Highland, but God is still writing its future through the lives of those who call Highland

The purpose of Highland Baptist Church is to LIVE in the Holy Spirit, PRAY for His will, TEACH believers His way, WITNESS to the lost, and to GLORIFY Christ as Savior and Lord. The mission of Highland Baptist is bound in Acts 1:8. We have determined that we will be witnesses for Christ in Pampa, reaching out to our surrounding area even as we seek to reach people around the world.

Mary Ellen and Harvester is a great congregation of 200 members.

Laboring alongside me on a daily basis is David Iten, our youth and family minister. Our youth and family ministry has many weekly activities such as Bible studies, devotionals, game nights, family nights, movie nights, etc. that go on all year long. Our youth group also attends many out of town events such as lock-ins, summer camps, youth retreats, and youth rallies.

Each week on Thursday, David prepares lunch for any 10th-12th graders who want to eat at our youth house, which is located across the street from our church building and the Pampa High School. We call it "$3 Thursday."

ver Easter weekend our youth and young families will be the Leadership Training in Christ (LTC) events throughout the year such as our y name is Mark Lance conference. At this conference our youth annual fish fry and ice will be competing with 1,800-2,000 other youth in events such as a Bible quiz, song leading, drama, puppets, art, songwriting, preaching, etc. The adults going will be involved in judging events as well. LTC is a new event for us this year and we are excited about the opportunity to participate in it. Our youth and young families are also preparing to go on a 10 day mission trip to South Texas from June 12-20. Our groupwill be building houses in the morning and holding a Vacation Bible School in the afternoon. The church has been participating in this trip for several years working with Randy Adcock, a local contractor/mission coordinator from ur congregation also has a ministry for our older members as well. This group meets on the third Sunday evening of every month to encourage each other, have a fellowship meal, and share some entertainment as well. This is a great group of people who are the backbone of our congregation. This ministry is led by two couples, Sam and Carolyn Williams and Joyce and Yvonne Moler. They do a great job of going to Rogers, Arkansas for organizing this event and planning special

Our congregation has various outreach ministries that are going on all the time. We currently have a large clothing ministry that opens up to the public on the second and fourth Tuesdays of every month from 9-11 a.m.

Many people in town donate nice clothes to our congregation so we can provide this service. Kita Whitely and several other ladies are very diligent in doing this great work. Gary and Kelly Turley run our food pantry that is open the last Thursday of every month from 2-4 p.m.

s an outreach to local kids in town we will have our yearly Vacation Bible School June 1-5. Our V.B.S. has a Bayou theme this year. We also currently have a prison ministry that has been going strong for many years under the direction of Jack Thompson.

Jack works very closely with several men from the Church of Christ in Borger, Texas to teach and mentor the men at the prison in Pampa. Alongside our prison ministry we also have a jail ministry every Thursday night at the Gray County Jail. We have several ladies and men involved in this work under the leadership of C.V. McQueen.

At the start of every school year we give out backpacks and school supplies to 80-100 families to help them with the cost of raising children. At Thanksgiving and Christmas, we give out food baskets and presents to families who have been recommended to us because they are in need. The master organizer of these three projects is Judy Eppison. For more than 20 years, we also have had a large Christmas dinner for the needy on Christmas Day. This last year we took a break from this great work, but plan to resume it this Christmas.

First Baptist Church has been involved in numerous ministries, missions, and activities this past year. Along with our annual events, such as: Our Christmas and Easter music programs, our 24-hour prayer ministry, our Youth and Children's programs, as well as our Child Day-Care Center, we have also done some special projects this year. One of the most memorable we called Harvest Unlimited. As a part of this program, we contacted every household in Pampa, sought out their prayer needs, faithfully prayed for them, and encouraged them to attend church.

The Music Ministry at First Baptist Church always includes planning of our worship services for each We have three services each Sunday. One is a traditional service with an emphasis on the use of hymns and the hymnal. A choir is used along with traditional accompaniment, which involves piano and organ. Another service that we have is a contemporary service which calls for vocal ensembles, along with a Praise Band. We use keyboard, drums, and guitars. This service is driven by the use of media, visuals, and fresh ideas for experiencing the fullness of worship. Our third type of service is a blended service, which includes both hymns and praise

Another aspect of Music Ministry is the planning and implementation of seasonal productions. These include major musical services for Easter and Christmas, along with a Patriotic program for our church and community. We also reached out to our Senior Adults through a choir called "Sonshiners." This group exists for the fellowship and musical development of this age group within our church.

oday, we have approximately 120 members at St. Paul. Our membership today is made up of people in an age group from 40 to 80 generally. We have one member who attends regularly who will turn 100 this year.

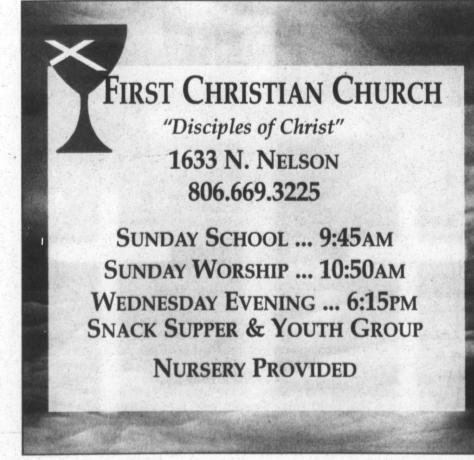

As you might expect, our focus is on older people and their needs. We gear our ministries at St. Paul around providing for things that this often overlooked group of people appreciate. We pray for good health and healing regularly with those needs being shared every Sunday during the worship service. We have experienced some dramatic healings this past year. One lady had a stroke and was almost in a coma. The church began to pray for her and now a year later she is almost fully recovered.

The church sponsored a new ministry to the community called GrayCares. The goal of this nonprofit organization is to provide services to the elderly to help them remain in their homes and it is spreading into the entire county.

We are small, but we have unity and we offer a unique, personal relationship with those who care to join us. Our worship service is traditional and a blessing to all who attend! Rev. Steve Cox is the pastor of the congregation.

missionaries served Episcopalians in Pampa as early as the summer of 1898 according to records of Bishop Garrett of the Missionary District of North Texas. M. K. Brown remembered that Bishop Seaman traveled to Pampa on a motorcycle carrying a "tent cathedral" and portable altar that he set up where the City Hall is today.

Mr. Brown said, "many times Bishop Seaman would arrive on his motorcycle with his vestments flying.'

On April 24, 1925, first recorded Episcopal service in Pampa was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Buckler. Reverend Robert McCallum Rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Amarillo, Texas presented Mrs. C. P. Buckler and Margaret Buckler to Bishop Seaman for confirmation and their daughter, Anne Buckler for baptism. This was just after the oil boom came to this area.

In 1926, M. K. Brown purchased two lots from the White Deer Land Company for $1,100 where the church now stands, 727 W. Browning. At the time, the Clarendon Mission was regarded as the "mother church" of all Episcopal churches in the Panhandle. Rev. McCallum also held some services in Pampa 1926-28, in homes, the high school music room and in a funeral parlor.

The Mission of St. Matthew's was organized on September 21, 1928, "St. Matthew's Day" and dedicated by Bishop Seaman. Our church was the vision of three English Panhandle Pioneers: M. K. Brown, C. P. Buckler and Elizabeth Gething. The chapel and parish hall was consecrated as St. Matthew's Episcopal Mission by Bishop George H. Quarterman on May 23, 1948.

ion Lutheran Church is a member of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, a 2.4 million member church body in the United The Lutheran States. Church - Missouri Synod is a theologically conservative denomination which preaches clearly the death and resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ for the salvation of mankind.

Zion Lutheran had its humble beginnings in Pampa in the 1940s. In the Fall of 1941 several families requested that Rev. Horace Frerking of Trinity Lutheran come from Amarillo and begin conducting regular worship services in Pampa. Services were held in the chapel of Nelson Funeral Home

Later in 1942 land was purchased on Duncan Street and in 1943 the Davis Schoolhouse was purchased, moved to the Duncan location, and was renovated to a suitable church structure.

This building served the congregation until 1957 when the second building was built dedicated to the glory of God. Zion's current church building was built and dedicated in 1984 which serves our congregation as we gather around the preaching of God's Word and the administration of the blessed sacraments.

ion consists of about 55 families. We have a membership of 135 baptized and 102 confirmed. On an average Sunday we have around 65 people gathered to hear the Word of God and receive His gifts.

Zion Lutheran holds many activities throughout the year, with the Big Z BBQ as one of our biggest to raise funds for the community and for our church. We support various missions, but the main recipient is the Siberian Lutheran Church based in Novosibirsk, Siberia.

Our High School youth group is actively working to go to Higher Things Lutheran youth conference in San Antonio this July. Many of our young people of varying ages also attend a week of activities at Camp Lutherhaven in the panhandle of Oklahoma each summer.

The Lutheran Women Missionary League in our church is also very active with many service projects for national ministries and local folks. Thrivent Financial for Lutherans is a fraternal organization of which many of our church members belong that also gives to local charities and other community philanthropic entities.

Zion Lutheran Church will continue to proclaim the truth of gospel of Jesus Christ and distribute the sacraments each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. For questions or information please contact Rev. Michael Erickson at 669-2774.

Membership in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) means freedom and diversity in worship, service and fellowship. The Lord's Supper, or Communion, is celebrated weekly and it is open to all who believe in Jesus Christ.

s Disciples, we hold that all Christians are called to be one in Christ and to seek opportunities for common witness and service. We are called together around two essentials of faith; a belief in Jesus Christ as our Lords and Savior, and that Christians are to follow their conscience guided by Bible study, the Holy Spirit, and prayer. In that, we are expected to extend that freedom to others. Although Disciples practice baptism by immersion, other baptismal traditions are honored.

Both ministers and lay persons lead in worship, service, and spiritual growth. And above all, we believe that Jesus is the Son of the living God, who offers saving grace to all who seek it though God's Son.

The congregation consists of approximately 300 active members who attend Sunday School, Worship, Youth Groups, Praise and Worship Services and other outreach programs. The Sunshine Ministry delivers meals to shut-ins on a weekly basis. Ride For The Refugee is a favorite outreach program which delivers clothing, furniture and food to the Good Samaritan Services at Los Fresnos, TX. This group delivers two, 18-wheelers full of needed items each October to help religious and political refugees and provide supplies to a local orphanage in Matamoras.

The Gathering worship community is a worship option of First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). We are an authentic, open, and loving community of people seeking and following God though Jesus Christ. We don't have it all together, but we search together sided-by-side. This type of contemporary worship celebrates the Lord's Supper and has prayer stations. It meets in the church Fellowship Hall on the last Sunday of every month at 5 p.m.

Bible study, music, and age group activates, to emphasize how faith and life develop together. This time offers opportunity to foster genuine relationships between youth, adults, and others to build support, identity, and community to know that we are not alone in our faith journey. Periodically, youth can participate in retreats, camps, mission trips and service opportunities.

A Snack Supper is held each Wednesday night at 6:15pm & provides a meal for members before the Youth Groups and Choir Practice begin at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome to these events.

unday School classes begin at 9:30 a.m. followed by morning worship at 10:50 a.m. each Sunday. Visitors are always welcome.

Vacation Bible School is held every summer along with St. Matthew's Church, First Presbyterian Church & Hi-Land Christian Church.

Secure a safe future with a promising career. As the reliance on technology continues to expand in offices, the role of the office professional is evolving. Responsibilities include a variety of administrative and clerical duties necessary to run an organization efficiently. Office professionals serve as information and communication managers for an office; plan and schedule meetings and appointments; organize and maintain paper and electronic files; manage projects; conduct research; and disseminate information by using the telephone, mail services, Web sites, and e-mail. They also handle travel and guest arrangements. Many secretarial and administrative duties are of a personal, interactive nature and because technology cannot substitute for these personal skills, secretaries and administrative assistants will continue to play a key role in most organizations.

Whether you propose a certificate or A.A.S. in Office Technology and go right to work, or continue your education seeking a higher degree, you'll find opportunities at all levels. Gain skills and confidence. Secretaries and administrative assistants are aided in their tasks by a variety of office equipment, such as fax machines, photocopier, scanners, calculators, and telephone systems. (AP) - Firefighters have begun to contain several wildfires around the state, including an 8,000-acre blaze that threatened a small community earlier in the week

About three-fourths of the massive Archer County fire was contained as of Friday afternoon, said Lewis Kearney, a Texas Forest Service spokesman. It started Wednesday apparently by a downed power line, and at one point appeared headed for Archer City, a town of about 1,800 residents just south of the Texas-Oklahoma border.

Fourteen full-time employees in news, production and promotion are losing their jobs at WYOU-TV, the CBS affiliate Scranton/Wilkes-Barre area. The station is owned by Brecksville, Ohio-based Mission Broadcasting. The company's chief operating officer, Dennis Thatcher, says viewers turn to the station for entertainment programming, so the local news will be replaced with syndicated programming.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am an 11-year-old with a serious problem. I don't trust my parents. I doubt I ever will. I just can't tell them things. I end up praying to my dead grandpa -- that's OK, but he doesn't give me any answers.

I trust my sister more than I could ever trust Mom or Dad. It feels wrong sometimes. I don't like to be around people. I have no way of knowing whether I can trust them. There is part of my life that only my sister knows about.

I feel bad about not trusting my parents. Is there any solution to this problem? Should I talk to them about it? -- NO TRUST IN PLANO,

TEXAS DEAR NO. TRUST: I am concerned for you, and I hope you will take what I say seriously. Your parents brought you into this world and are there to protect you. Confiding in your sister is a good thing, but if you are in trouble -and I suspect you may be -- she may not be experienced enough to give you the guidance you need.

If you want things to get better, it is very important that you tell your parents or some other adult who is close to you -- a relative or school counselor -- what has caused you to lose trust in people. That in itself will be a giant first step in solving your problem because you need more help than you can get in a let-

DEAR ABBY: I was recently given a gift that I have reason to believe was made from stolen materials, on company premises, using stolen time. The item is of a religious nature, although the business itself is in the field of manufacturing. The person who gave me the gift is aware that I value integrity and honesty above all things. I wonder if he is trying to challenge my principles. At any rate, I'm at a loss as to what to do with the gift. I do not feel comfortable keeping it, but for reasons of family harmony cannot return it. Any suggestions? -- ROLE MODEL IN PENN-SYLVANIA

ROLE DEAR MODEL: In a nonconfrontational way, ask the person who gave you the gift how it was made or acquired. Then, if you feel you have accepted stolen property, return it to the giver and explain why. By doing so you will demonstrate that you don't give in to temptation when presented with an ethical challenge, and it may be an important lesson to someone who may need to hear it.

DEAR ABBY: My older brother moved from the East Coast to Wyoming 20 years ago, which put him in a different time zone -- two hours behind me. He died in June of last

I am planning to get a tattoo memorializing the date and time of my brother's passing, but have reached a dilemma. My brother died June 12 at 11 p.m. in Wyoming, but it was 1 a.m. June 13 here

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, April CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Work and only work could depress anyone, but especially the fiery Ram. This year, stop and look at your life and try to understand why this behavior is manifesting. Learn not to sit on anger this year. If it is expressed as hurt feelings before you get to anger and then to rage, others will be more likely to listen. If you are single, you will meet someone through your friends. Pretend you are not an Aries in courtship, a fire ready to happen. Instead, try easy and slow. If you are attached, the two of you gain and grow by being more vulnerable and open. You start the ball rolling. PISCES can make you angry!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) *** Expenses could be heavy and overwhelming. You simply don't believe you have the flex you need to deal with everything. If-you are tired, make an appointment with the doctor for a checkup before deciding what to do. Tonight:

*** You wind up being the ringleader. Others respond to your energy far more than you realize. For example, if you are stern, people will back off. Understand and claim your power — and do use it well. Examine the possibilities.
