Shelter upgrade on a long list

BY DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

Pampa has plans for a new animal shelter, but the completion or the extent of those plans will lie with the city's finances and the priorities the city commission puts on them.

The city has contracted with BGR Architects out of Lubbock for the project, City Manager Richard Morris said. They in turn are working with a design studio, Animal Arts, out of Boulder, Colo., on a needs survey and site survey.

"They'll be looking at the amount of animals we handle," Morris said.

They'll also be comparing the city's facilities with what similar-sized cities offer in the way of animal shelters.

Assistant City Manager Shane Stokes said the contract with BGR Architects is for 36 months.

Morris said the animal shelter needs to be replaced or at least repaired.

"It's an old facility," he acknowledged.

But what will happen to it will depend on the budgeting process.

"We'll be covering this in our budget discussions," Morris said, as the city develops its budget between now and the end of its fiscal year in September.

It will be a capital improvement expenditure, he said, but he cautioned there are many other capital improvements that need to be made to the city's infrastructure.

It will be a matter of prioritizing the city's needs, he said.

Morris noted that when he came to Pampa in 1991, one of the first recommendations he made was repairing the rest rooms in

M.K. Brown Civic Center. That finally got done, he said, last month.

In the mean time, Stokes said the city has been patching the roof of the animal shelter and mending fences and gates.

"We're doing everything we can to make things better," Stokes said.

Morris said that with a new manager, the project should move forward a SHELTER cont. on page 3

Haenisch says finance bill will offer some relief to schools

BY DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

Pampa's school superintendent said this session's School Finance Bill was not all it could have been, but it certainly benefited the state's school systems.

While this is not the long term fix for the financing of public education that many had hoped might occur during the session," Pampa Independent School District Supt. Barry Haenisch said, "the finance bill that was passed does provide some relief for schools.

The 140-day biennial session of the Texas Legislature ended last Monday night.

With the time crunch of a particularly contentious session's deadline, lawmakers and other officials are still trying to figure out exactly what passed and what didn't. Some bills that got stalled in a procedural slowdown were tacked on to other bills as amendments, making it difficult to track everything, but one bill that was passed by both the House of Representatives and Senate in the pink granite Capitol Building in Austin was the School Finance Bill.

"We did put another $1.9 billion for public schools to cover enrollment growth," said Rep. Warren Chisum of Pampa, "and for the first time since I've been down there, we started concentrating on more vocational education to help students that are not college bound."

The additional funding will provide for some much needed improvements, such as buses and a richer curriculum, Haenisch said.

He said the additional funding for vocational education will benefit students in Pampa and statewide.

Chisum said there would be a big change in the state's educational system as the result of that.

He said it's not a matter of saying one student will go to college and another one won't.

"But if they choose to go into a vocation," Chisum said, "we made it more available to them."

He said he thinks that's a significant change.

Fire destroys structure

BY BETSY PHILLIPS
 editor@thepampanews.com

Fire engulfed and destroyed a one-story house in the 500 Block of S. Tignor Monday evening.

There were no utilities connected to the house and the fire is still under investigation by Pampa Fire Marshall Michael Ryan.

It is not known if anyone lived in the house.

The fire was reported by a Pampa police officer at about 7:30 p.m. The house was fully involved in flames when Pampa Fire Department personnel arrived on scene. Eleven personnel in six units had the blaze under control in just over half an hour and had cleared the scene by 9:40 p.m.

There were no injuries reported.

TxDOT renewal system down Friday

The Texas Department of Transportation's mainframe will be down Friday morning, June 12 until approximately 11 a.m. for maintenance and updates. The Gray County Tax Assessors/Collector's office said this will effect internet renewals, title transfers and some registration renewals. The only way to register your vehicle that morning will be to bring in your renewal notice.

Comptroller certifies two-year budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Comptroller Susan Combs certified the state's two-year $182 billion budget Monday, saying there is enough revenue to support it.

Lawmakers approved the budget covering the 2010-11 spending cycle before adjourning their session June 1. Republican Gov. Rick Perry has yet to weigh in on what parts of the budget he agrees or disagrees with.

In her role as comptroller, Combs must decide whether to certify the spending plan. She announced that she certified the main budget and the supplemental budget, a $2.4 billion plan to cover unexpected costs for the rest of 2009. That supplemental budget includes money to address damages from Hurricane Ike.

"There is sufficient revenue available to support all of the budget bills passed by the 81st Legislature," Combs wrote in a letter to Perry. The letter was also sent to Lt. Gov. David Dewhurst, House Speaker Joe Straus and other legislative leaders.

Unlike other states, where money is tight and budgets are in trouble, Texas moved through its legislative session without major budget hurdles. At the start of the session it appeared Texas would face a difficult revenue year, but the state was helped in large part by billions of dollars in federal economic stimulus money.

The budget includes $12.1 billion in stimulus money.

Most of the budget's money is dedicated to education and health care. The massive spending plan increases funding for pre-kindergarten programs, makes it possible for 35,000 more eligible students to receive college tuition help from the TEXAS Grants financial aid program and gives correctional officers a 3.5 percent raise.

Perry has line-item veto power over the budget and has until June 21 to review the 900-plus page document crafted by the Republican-controlled Legislature.

The budget leaves an estimated $9 billion balance in the state's so-called Rainy Day Fund, a savings account that may be desperately needed when Texas legislators convene again for a regular session in 2011. Perry has praised lawmakers for leaving that money alone.

The two-year budget bill is SB1.

10-year-old arrested after fight with sister

FLOWER MOUND, Texas (AP) — A 10-year-old girl has been arrested and charged with assault after she and her older sister got into a fight.

Reagan Green was taken into custody Saturday after the fight with 13-year-old Desiree Green.

Someone witnessed the fight at a Flower Mound park and contacted police, Dallas-Fort Worth television station KDFW reported.

Reagan and Desiree returned to their home where officers arrived and made the arrest.

Lt. Clay Pierce with the Flower Mound Police Department told the station it was a case of family violence and state law required them to take some type of action.

Both girls had injuries, but Desiree's appeared to be more serious, the station said.

Rhonda Green, the girls' mother, said that she does not know how Reagan was "scarred" by being arrested.

little. One cause for delay, however, is that the animal shelter comes under the domain of the police chief, and the city is in the process of selecting a new police chief. Morris said that a new chief would need to be involved in the planning process.

He said that Monty Montgomery, who came out of retirement to head animal control, is a big plus.

"It will help a lot now that Monty's back on board," Morris said.

Stokes added that animal control is at full strength now.

"For years," Morris said, "we had only two people down there."

Now, there are three full time employees on the staff and two part time employees.

"Our Building and Grounds people are working with them," Stokes said.

Schools

"We found that when we were in a four percent unemployment range that we really didn't have enough people in the workforce to sustain the economy that we had," Chisum said.

State Sen. Robert Duncan said the Legislature was able to maintain many of the things that help rural school districts in the School Finance Bill.

"The new stimulus money will provide significant boost for all of our schools in the State of Texas," Duncan said, "including our rural schools."

He said that the School Finance Bill also clarified some problems with dual credit courses.

"Many of our kids can now take dual credit courses in our community colleges," Duncan said. "I know both of my kids entered college with 20 hours already."

He indicated that the Legislature's action is, however, a patch.

"For two years," Duncan said, "until we can figure a better way, school districts don't have to pay for dual credit."

The school districts still get their Average Daily Attendance, and they don't have to pay the junior college costs.

"That should encourage more kids in more school districts to be able to participate," Duncan said.

Teachers will get an across-the-board pay raise of $800, Duncan said.

"Teachers always appreciate recognition from the Legislature of the critical role they play in students' lives," Haenisch said.

"I don't really care much for across-the-board pay raises, and I voted against the amendment that gives them across-the-board pay raises," Duncan said. "I'd rather that money go to school districts so they can use that money to reward faculty accordingly and recruit faculty and have the flexibility to reward those faculty members who work harder than others."

He said retired teachers should also see some more money, although it's not clear yet how it will be delivered.

Either there will be a small 13th month check of $500 for retired teachers and retired state employees, Duncan said, or the money will go into the state's contribution systems, depending upon a ruling by the Texas Attorney General as to whether the 13th month check would be constitutional or not.

"There were some good provisions in the finance bill," Haenisch said.

Glo-Valve wins 21st league championship

Glo-Valve Service won its 21st league championship Monday with a hard fought 5-3 win over Rotary Club at Optimist Park.

Ryan Powell scattered seven hits and allowed two earned runs to pick up his eighth win of the year in the Pampa Optimist 11-12 Cal Ripken league. Brody Gaines pitched the sixth inning and used only nine pitches to earn a save. Powell struck out six and walked two. Gaines allowed one hit, struck out one and did not walk a batter. Thomas Haley and Ethan Hunt pitched for Rotary.

Neither team scored in the first three innings. Glo-Valve wasted a walk to Aaron Allen in the first, a single by Colton Thompson in the second and went out in order in the third.

Rotary had hits by Hunt in the first inning and by Blayne Troxell in the second, but both were cut down by Allen trying to steal.

In the third inning, Aaron McKinney drilled a double to left field. Julien Silva walked on four pitches. Andreas Losoya singled to load the bases for Rotary with no outs. Powell then picked up a roller back to the mound, threw to Allen catching who relayed to Gaines at first base for a 1-2-3 double play. Powell struck out the next batter to end the threat.

Both teams had fireworks in the fourth inning. In the top half of the inning, Allen led off for Glo-Valve with a double and stole third.

Powell laid down a bunt for a hit and stole second. Both runners scored on a single up the middle by Gaines.

Gaines stole two bases and came in to score on a double by Casey Martindale. Martindale stole third and made Glo-Valve's fourth run of the inning on a single by Zach Hill.

In the bottom of the fourth, Rotary used a single by Haley and Hunt's seventh home run of the year to narrow the score to 4-2.

In the fifth inning, Silva singled and came all the way around to score when Alec Hendricks' single got through a Glo-Valve fielder to bring Rotary closer. Glo-Valve led 4-3.

Glo-Valve ended the scoring in the top of the sixth. With one out, Allen singled and stole two bases. He scooted home on a throwing error.

Cade Engle combined with Hendricks to make the outstanding defensive play of the game for Rotary by catching a runner trying to steal third. Powell ranged for to his right at second base in the sixth inning to backhand a ground ball and throw the batter out at first for a defensive gem for Glo-Valve.

Ethan Hunt, who went three for three with a home run and two RBI, was the leading hitter for Rotary. Allen had two hits, including a double, and two runs scored to lead Glo-Valve's hitting.

Glo-Valve improved to 14-0 with two games to play. Rotary fell to 11-2.

Glo-Valve will travel to Panhandle to make up a game at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. Rotary plays host to Glo-Valve again Thursday at 5:45 p.m.

Duncan, Fraser & Bridges Insurance Agency goes to Clarendon and Cabot Corporation will be at Panhandle for 7 p.m. starts on Thursday to end the regular season. A double-elimination tournament is scheduled to begin Monday.

The Pampa Optimist Youth Club is a Pampa United Way agency.

Aaron Allen had two hits, including a double, and two runs scored to lead Glo-Valve's hitting in Monday's game.

Seven injured in Randall county crash

Randall County — Seven people were injured as a result of a crash which occurred in Randall County at the intersection of Sundown lane and Coulter Drive.

A 2003 Chevrolet SUV, driven by 14 year-old Alexander Drown of Amarillo, with front passenger Shawn Dale Eastep 41, of Amarillo ran a stop sign and was struck by a car.

In the rear seat of the SUV was Isaiah Cordova 12, and Colton Drown 12, both of Amarillo.

The SUV was traveling westbound on Sundown Lane approaching Coulter Drive.

A 2006 Dodge passenger car was being driven by Teresa Young 39, and front passenger Ashley Killough 16, both of Amarillo.

In the back seat of the Dodge was Hailey Young 12, and Shyla Macias 12, both of Amarillo.

The Dodge was traveling north on Coulter Drive, approaching Sundown Lane.

Drown, the driver of the Chevrolet, failed to yield right of way at the stop intersection with Coulter and was struck by Young's car on the driver's side front quarter panel.

The Chevrolet SUV continued through a barbed wire fence and came to rest facing North in a field to the West of Coulter Drive. Isaiah Cordova and Colton Drown were both unrestrained in the rear seat of the Chevrolet and were ejected upon impact.

The Dodge passenger car came to rest facing west in the northwest ditch of the intersection.

Hailey Young and Shyla Macias were not restrained in the rear seat of the Dodge.

Colton Drown, Isaiah Cordova, and Hailey Young were all transported by helicopter in critical condition.

Vet extends search for fliers

DARREN MERITZ
El Paso Times

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — At 91, retired Army intelligence officer Albert Rosenberg is still haunted by the list of airmen he found at the Buchenwald concentration camp in Germany near the end of World War II.

Now he is looking to the White House for help in what may be the last mission of his life.

In April 1945, Rosenberg was a lieutenant in a special unit that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower ordered to collect evidence at Buchenwald, which had recently been liberated by Allied soldiers.

When Rosenberg learned that President Barack Obama would visit the site of the concentration camp, he remembered recovering a list of 323 airmen with the U.S. Army Air Forces and the British Royal Air Force men captured by the Nazis and held at Buchenwald.

With these fliers still on his mind, Rosenberg on May 21 sent a copy of the list to White House Chief of Staff Rahm Emanuel. He included a handwritten note of explanation and a copy of his military identification.

"What became of these fliers, we could not determine in 1945," Rosenberg wrote to Emanuel. "It can be assumed that many may have perished or moved in death transports to the interior of Nazi-held territory." Rosenberg was a commanding officer of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, an intelligence unit that reported to Eisenhower.

On April 11, 1945, U.S. forces discovered the Buchenwald concentration camp, which had been abandoned by Nazi guards in the waning days of the war in Europe.

Soon after, Eisenhower dispatched Rosenberg to the camp to gather evidence and to take testimonies from 20,000 former prisoners who remained there. An estimated 250,000 people were thought to have been held captive at Buchenwald during its existence.

"Our orders were because of General Eisenhower's firsthand encounter with what those places looked like to investigate what really happened in that particular camp," Rosenberg said Thursday in an interview at his El Paso apartment. "The allied governments wanted to know what happened in those camps." Rosenberg and his unit took written testimonies from hundreds of concentration camp survivors. They found that prisoners from about a dozen countries some high-ranking government officials, others soldiers were dehydrated, starving and suffering from disease.

Though the Nazis bombed the concentration camp's administrative building as they abandoned Buchenwald, Rosenberg's unit was able to recover documents unintentionally left behind, he said.

"Among my papers that I have kept, I came across typewritten pages that were part of our original report, which lists the name, rank and serial numbers of American pilots who had been shot down during the war by the Nazis and who had been prisoners at the concentration camp," Rosenberg said. "They no longer were at the camp. I have no idea what happened to them." Rosenberg said he hoped that Obama's visit to the old concentration camp would refocus some attention on the list he found.

The findings of the Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force unit were presented to the U.S. government in a report in 1945.

The report was quickly classified because many of the surviving prisoners were communist government officials from Italy and France. If publicized, the report could have stymied U.S. cooperation with those countries, Rosenberg said.

Rosenberg never learned whether the Buchenwald report was declassified.

But he learned that the original copy of the report was kept at a National Archives depository in Virginia, in box 149, before a fire in the 1970s destroyed it.

All copies of the report were thought to have disappeared until Rosenberg resurfaced with his.

In 1995, the testimonies and evidence he collected were translated from German to English and published in a book, "The Buchenwald Report," by David Hackett.

"For decades people had been looking for that report," Rosenberg said.

For Rosenberg, who taught at UTEP after his military career, Buchenwald represents a painful gap in his knowledge.

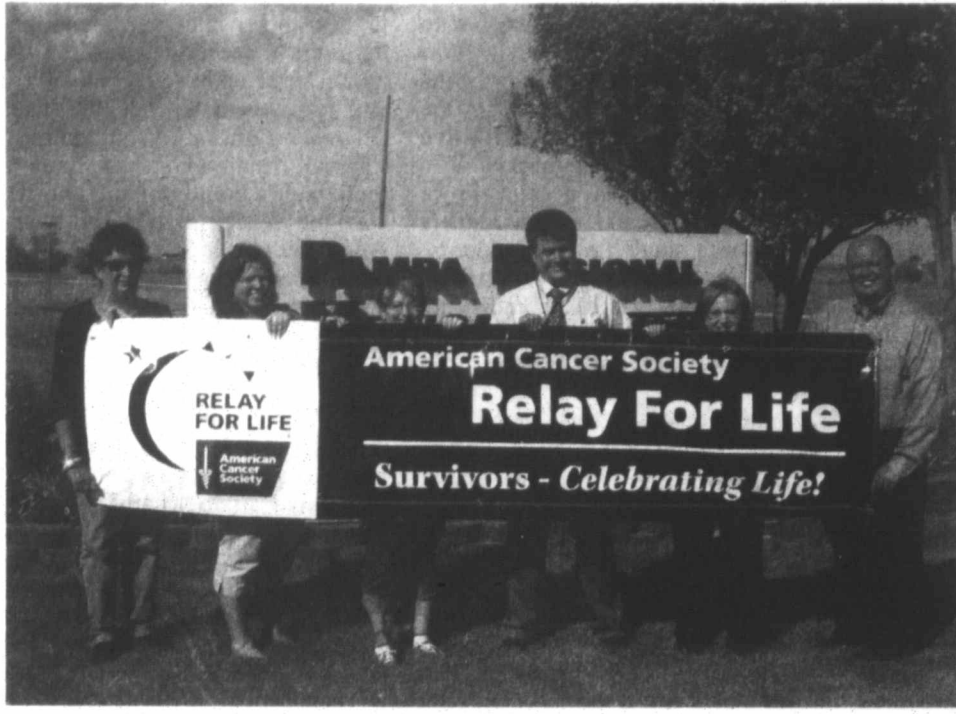

"... I do not know, have the families of those prisoners, American fliers, ever been identified? Did they survive? I don't know."

New Lone Star Texas plates available soon

from Gaye Whitehead Gray County Tax Assessor/Collector

Last year, Texas citizens said yes to a colorful new license plate to replace the current design introduced nine years ago.

The new plate, the Lone Star Texas, took the top spot last February among five designs that were posted online for public voting and viewing. It features the big Texas sky with wide brushes of blue and red, the familiar lone star and the mountains of west Texas.

But don't run out and purchase the new plate just yet. The Texas Department of Transportation is encouraging residents of Gray County to be good environmental stewards. Don't buy new plates until your old plates have expired. License plates are good for seven years. If you wait, you will get the new plates at no additional charge.

Texans loved the designs. TxDOT received e-mails from close to 10,000 citizens explaining why they voted for a particular design and thanking the agency for giving them the opportunity to choose. The citizens of this state spoke with 1.1 million e-votes, 455,878 of those cast for the Lone Star Texas.

This is also the first of the new seven character combinations. TxDOT has finally exhausted the Alpha-numeric license plate patterns for the current six character version. It's the perfect time to introduce a new plate design.

More importantly, the citizens spoke. The new plate will be coming soon to our county tax office and our designated locations for handling titles, registration and renewal. Go to www.txdot.gov for more information or call the Gay County office, 669-8018.

Boost Your Business by Going Green Contest entrees due this month

HOUSTON — The Texas Conference for Women, the state's premier leadership and education forum for women, hosted by Gov. Rick Perry and First Lady Anita Perry, is accepting entries for its Boost Your Business by Going Green contest.

TCW created the contest to recognize Texas-based, women-owned businesses that raise the bar by lowering their companies' environmental impact. Contest participants must submit a 500-word case study outlining the policies and practices their companies use to lower environmental impact.

"Small businesses have an important impact on our state, creating jobs and fueling Texas' economic engine," said Gov. Perry. "This contest provides a wonderful opportunity for these businesses to be leaders in preserving and protecting our state's environment. I encourage all Texas business owners to take up this worthy challenge to limit their environmental impact on the Lone Star State."

Submissions must highlight how these methods have also improved the financial performance of the business. Entries will be accepted through June 30, 2009, and are judged based on creativity and innovation; impact to the environment; financial impact to the company; employee engagement; and customer benefits. Contest winners will be notified by September 15, 2009.

First, second and third prize winners will receive $15,000, $10,000 and $5,000, respectively, in technology equipment by HP. The equipment selected may include ENERGY

STAR-qualified products and will be mutually agreed to by the winners and TCW.

Winners must be present at the 10th annual

Texas Conference for Women on Nov. 12, 2009 at the George R. Brown Convention Center in Houston to accept awards.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I'm responding to "The Other Woman, Anywhere, USA" (March 11). Please tell your readers if they find themselves in her shoes, they should RUN in the opposite direction.

My husband, "John," and I both left our spouses to be together. It has been 10 years, and I regret leaving my ex-husband every day. I traded a wonderful marriage for an obnoxious, self-absorbed, arrogant man.

John still spends Christmas Day with his ex and his adult children. He says it's out of guilt. He paid for his daughter's wedding reception with money from our joint account. John went alone. I was "forbidden" to attend.

My "soul mate" usually forgets my birthday, and one year he also "forgot" Christmas. If only I could turn back time. I find myself praying for the end of time and realize I'm probably getting what I deserve. -- LIVING WITH REGRET

DEAR LIVING: You letter is a reminder that there is dignity in being alone and filling one's "down time" with good friends and helping the less fortunate. As I expected, "Other Woman's" letter generated a ton of mail. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to "The Other Woman" was 100 percent right on. I was once in love with a married woman and won her heart. I thought, "All's fair in love and war," and had little regard for her husband. Then I met him.

When I looked into his eyes, I knew what I was doing was wrong and bad karma. Here was a human being with a soul, who loved and trusted his wife, who was true to his marriage vows and trusted her to be true, too. If the situation were reversed, I wouldn't want my wife to have an affair with another man. Spiritually, it was an important and painful lesson.

My advice to married people having an affair is to ask yourselves how you would feel if you were being cheated on. Do the right thing. Honesty and integrity matter. --

FORMER OTHER MAN, ANYWHERE, USA

DEAR ABBY: I was the other woman for six years. It has taken me a year to realize how unhealthy the relationship was for me. Not only did it damage my self-esteem, but the guilt became unbearable. I wish I could go back and undo what I have done. Luckily, I now have someone who cares about me and accepts me -- flaws and all -- and loves me for who I am all the time, not just one or two hours a week. -- WISER NOW IN VIRGINIA

DEAR ABBY: I was the other woman. Over time I have come to understand that I believed what I wanted to believe because I was lonely, needy and vulnerable. I learned as time went on that my lover was incapable of developing a mature, responsible and meaningful relationship. I experienced the calamitous consequences emotionally, psychologically and financially -- as did our child.

Through counseling, friendships and networking with other women and getting to know myself in a rigorously honest way, I became too healthy to be the other woman. I'm now in the marriage I always dreamed of to a man with character and heart, who is devoted to me and "our" child. I learned that the right man would find me when I became the person he was looking for. It wasn't easy, but it was worth it. -- FINALLY FULFILLED

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for the letter from "The Other Woman" and your reply. I have been divorced 12 years and involved with a married man for more than a year. The affair has been lonely, degrading, unfulfilling and a real self-esteem buster.

Your answer reminded me of what I have always known. Because of it, I have decided to end my affair and get back into the real world. I hope "Other Woman" wakes up and does the same. And soon. -- GRATEFUL IN ALABAMA

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Wednesday, June 10, 2009:
This year, you rapidly rip through many different concepts. You could be changing your mind without realizing it. Your ability to process and consider multiple ideas will change mainly because of a partnership or several key relationships. You work with many theories, sometimes testing them out on others. Sometimes you feel as if you have too many experts! Certainly, with no convergence of ideas, you might feel a bit overwhelmed. If you are single, a relationship increases in significance. As a result, you might move too quickly or jump into a relationship — careful. If you are attached, the two of you spend a lot of time together. Teamwork makes a difference in your bond and the results. CAPRICORN has a totally different style.

BUSINESS REVIEW

CENTRAL BAIL BONDS II

Kenneth Knowles Founder

Angela Burger Owner

Larry Ingram Area Manager

Central Bail Bonds II has the same pride and tradition, founded by the late Kenneth Knowles. Central Bail Bonds II is still a privately owned company providing bail bond services for the Panhandle, North Central and West Texas area.

Larry Ingram has been the area manager for the Pampa area since August 1997. The Pampa office covers 9 counties, which include Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Carson, Gray and Wheeler. On average, Larry drives over 50K miles yearly. Barbara Brogdon, secretary/agent since November 1999 handles the paperwork and backup for Larry. Together they make a great team to serve all your bail bond needs.

Forty offices and seventy agents makes Central Bail Bonds II the largest private surety in Texas. Central provides jail release, assistance, supervision, and guidance to those who qualify for bail under the eighth amendment and can secure the release of defendants in every state on all types of bonds. Central will put up the total bond and charges a fee. The fee is set on percentage of the bond amount.

Central Bail Bonds II has bilingual agents, which service the non-English speaking citizens. All area agents are equipped with cell phones to provide the fastest possible release 24 hours a day.

As a privately owned company Central Bail Bonds II provides this public service at no cost to the taxpayer. The use of our service reduces your taxes.
