Pampa PD busts alleged meth lab

BY DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

Local and state law enforcement officers, guns drawn, pushed their way through the back door of a small frame house at Lowry and Allen today to serve a search warrant.

A Pampa police officer sniffed the smell of ether near the house shortly after 7 a.m. today. Officers, firefighters and paramedics surrounded the house until about 10 a.m., when a line of armed officers hit the back door of the home. A second line of officers, guns drawn, entered the side door of a garage behind the house.

At mid-morning officers were questioning at least three people who were in the house at the time of the raid, one man and two women.

A combine and grain wagon wait off Babcock Road, south of Pampa, for the warm summer sun to dry a field of golden wheat as the annual wheat harvest begins this week.

HARVEST TIME

Spring hail storms could reduce yields

BY DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

As 90 degree weather covered the Golden Spread this week, combines skittered like giant beetles across wheat fields in Gray County.

"From the road, it looks pretty good," said Gray County Agent Brandon McGinty. "Especially considering the way the year started."

A dry winter stressed the wheat, he said. "The March blizzard turned it around for our wheat crop," McGinty said.

Recent hails, however, caused spotted damage across the county and the panhandle.

"It reduced yields," McGinty said, "depending upon where you're at."

Hail in various forms pelted fields north, south and west of Pampa in the last month.

McGinty said that small pea-sized hail and strong winds can cause a lot more problems for wheat farmers than golf or baseball sized hail stones. There's aren't as many hail stones when they're large, he explained, but a heavy downpour of smaller-sized hail can devastate a wheat field.

"The large hail can do more damage to a house or car," McGinty said, "but the pea-sized hail can reduce wheat yields."

High winds and torna-does caused damage to the wheat fields east of town.

While normal is a relative term in this part of the country, traditional yields in Gray County run from 18 to 25 bushels an acre for dryland wheat.

The last few years have been good for wheat yields in the area. In 2007, some farmers reported yields of more than 40 bushels to the acre.

That was because of the wet winter, McGinty said.

The rains that year came at the right time for wheat farmers.

"Everything was dryland that year," McGinty said. "You didn't need to irrigate."

This year, while irrigated wheat should be all right, dryland wheat will probably average 10 to 15 bushels to the acre. Because of the spotty storms, the range could be from five to 25 bushels.

63rd annual rodeo set for August 13-15

BY DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

The 63rd annual Top O' Texas Rodeo will come bucking out of the chute in August.

While some of the details are still being finalized, the rodeo committee has signed the announcer, stock contractor and entertainment for the dances, according to Cindy Kempf, the rodeo secretary.

"The rodeo this year is Aug. 13, 14 and 15," Kempf said.

All performances will be at 7 p.m. Admission prices for the rodeo will be the same as last year. It's eight dollars for adults and six dollars for children.

"We're going to have out barbecue on Thursday, Aug. 13," Kempf said. "It will be free for all ticket holders."

The barbecue will start at 5:30 p.m.

Friday will be family night.

"That means that with every adult ticket purchased, you get a free child ticket," she said. "With every adult ticket purchased for a person over 60 years old or older, you get another free ticket."

Nightly, there will be a nickel drop for kids six-years-old and under during the rodeo. The calf scramble for ages 12 and under will be before the rodeo performance each night.

"We've got Charlie Thompson with C Bar T doing our stock again this year," Kempf said. "He did it last year. He's out of Lubbock."

Cameron Keeton will be the bar-

Woman pleads guilty in drunken breast-feeding

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — A North Dakota woman accused of breast-feeding her 6-week-old baby while drunk has pleaded guilty to child neglect.

Twenty-six-year-old Stacey Anvarinia could face up to five years in prison when she's sentenced on the felony charge in August.

Judge Sonja Clapp says Anvarinia will not have to register as an offender against children.

Police officers who responded to a domestic disturbance call at Anvarinia's home on April 13 say they saw an intoxicated Anvarinia breast feeding. Health officials say alcohol consumed by breast-feeding mothers can be absorbed into an infant's system.

Attorneys believe it's the first such case prosecuted in North Dakota.

Field school yields over 400 artifacts

BY DAVID BOWSER
dbowser@thepampanews.

PERRYTON — The metal detection survey of archeological sites along Wolf Creek yielded more than 400 artifacts, according to Richard Mackie.

Mackie and Kelly Baker were the principle investigators for their team of 15, while more than 500 archeologists and volunteers, both youth and adults, were here during the week-long Texas Archeological Society's field school.

Working out of a camp at Lake Fryer, south of Perryton, the Mackie-Baker crew used metal detectors for six days along Wolf Creek. They spent one day down on the Canadian north of Pampa.

Most of the sites were on land owned by Perryton oilman and rancher Harold Courson, who hosted the dig.

"This is the fourth time we've had them at Wolf Creek," said Danny Witt, who works for Courson.

The Texas Archeological Society's field school was held here twice in the 1980s and again last year.

Mackie said Monday that his and Baker's team found about 435 artifacts at some 25 different sites.

"That's double last year," he said.

They found 107 artifacts on the first day, including a trade ring.

"It had a set in it like a birth stone set," said Gerald Wright of Pampa. "That's pretty rare."

Mackie said that the first day was the best. On the second, his team found some 80 artifacts. Succeeding days yielded about 40 artifacts a day, he said.

Over the week, Mackie said they found metal points, or arrowheads made of iron and brass, and they found coscojos, or tinklers, that the Indians used to decorate the bridles of their horses.

"We got a whole bunch of them," Mackie said.

He said they found metal awls and medallions.

"We found buttons," he said. "Some fancy. Some not so fancy."

They also found balls from percussion rifles and pistols.

"Rifles started showing up around 1800," Mackie said.

They found shell casings from rifles that were used in the latter part of the 19th Century. The empty shell casings appeared to be from Spencer repeating rifles. Unlike some of the other sites Mackie has worked near Pampa, he said there weren't any from Henry repeating rifles.

Mackie said they found a lot of hairpins. "They're like our bobby pins," he said, "but a lot bigger."

Mackie said they found a lot of pieces of cut tin where Indians sat making coscojos and other metal decorations.

He estimated that half of what they found was debris from age-old campgrounds.

While the Mackie-Baker team specialized in examining sites of more recent times, essentially from 1800 to the present when Native Americans in what is now the Texas Panhandle had metal utensils, other groups sifted through sites along the Canadian River that were prehistoric, dating back to before the birth of Christ.

Steve Thorne of Dallas, who last year earned the nickname 'Spur Man' because he found an old cavalry spur, found another spur this year, Mackie said.

But the Spur Man Award this year, Mackie laughed, went to Lance Bussard of Lipscomb County. Bussard found the most points, or arrowheads.

Rick Day of Andrews found a saloon token the first day out, Mackie said. The token said 'Good for one drink.'

"It was one I wasn't familiar with," Wright said of the saloon.

He explained that saloons often gave or sold tokens to soldiers as marketing gimmicks.

"I know all the ones in Mobeetie," Wright said. "Maybe this token came out of Dodge City or Tascosa."

The week ended Friday night for the archeological crews with a barbecue dinner catered by Dyer's and a concert by the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, courtesy of the Coursos.

"They put on one heckuva show," Mackie said.

Rodeo

rel man again this year, she said. "Our announcer is going to be Shane Burris," Kempf said. "He is the Voice of the Top O' Texas Rodeo."

Casey Berry and the Live Texas Mosquitoes will perform at the rodeo dance, which begins at 9 p.m., Friday, at the dance pavilion at the rodeo grounds.

"They play with Matt Martindale a lot," Kempf said.

In fact, Martindale will be the star attraction at the rodeo dance on Saturday night after a full day.

"We have the rodeo parade at 10 a.m.," Kempf said. "It starts at M.K. Brown Auditorium. It wends through downtown Pampa and then ends up back at M.K. Brown."

The rodeo dance will follow the evening performance of the rodeo.

"The rodeo directors are all selling raffle tickets for a dollar apiece," Kempf said.

The association will be giving away gift cards to Gebo's and Walmart. The grand prize, however, will be a three-day, two-night trip for two to Las Vegas, Nev., in October.

"We have our Junior Rodeo on Saturday, Aug. 8," Kempf said. "That's for ages eight to 18."

It starts at 8 a.m., Saturday morning and will go all day into the evening, she said.

The Kid Pony Show will be at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 9, Kempf said.

"That's for the little bit-tys, ages seven and under," she said.

Harvest

"Everybody pretty much had rain," McGinty said.

But there are stretches that got more than other spots. Hail damage remains the big question, McGinty said.

"It's hard to estimate yields," he admitted.

This is an awkward time of year for farmers, McGinty said. They need clear weather to cut the wheat, but the cotton needs hot dry weather. The 90 degree heat, however, is starting to stress the corn.

There's always the need for moisture in this semi-arid region, but this time of year, it often comes with hail.

Five hundred years ago, on June 24, 1509, Henry VIII was crowned king of England; his wife, Catherine of Aragon, was crowned queen consort.

On this date:
In 1314, the forces of Scotland's King Robert I defeated the English in the Battle of Bannockburn.

In 1497, the first recorded sighting of North America by a European took place as explorer John Cabot spotted land, probably in present-day Canada.

In 1793, the first republican constitution in France was adopted.

In 1807, a grand jury in Richmond, Va., indicted former Vice President Aaron Burr on charges of treason and high misdemeanor. (He was later acquitted).

In 1908, the 22nd and 24th presidents of the United States, Grover Cleveland, died in Princeton, N.J., at age 71.

In 1940, France signed an armistice with Italy during World War II.

In 1948, Communist forces cut off all land and water routes between West Germany and West Berlin, prompting the western allies to organize the Berlin Airlift.

The Republican National Convention, meeting in Philadelphia, nominated New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for president.

In 1968, "Resurrection City," a shantytown constructed as part of the Poor People's March on Washington, D.C., was closed down by authorities.

In 1983, the space shuttle Challenger — carrying America's first woman in space, Sally K. Ride — coasted to a safe landing at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Ten years ago: Union organizers claimed victory after workers at six Fieldcrest Cannon mills in North Carolina voted to be represented by the Union of Needletrades, Industrial and Textile Employees. (Fieldcrest Cannon's parent company, Pillowtex, went bankrupt in 2003.) Testimony wound to an end after 76 days in the landmark Microsoft antitrust trial.

HOME COOLING BREAKTHROUGH: Everyone wants to stay cool and save money on their energy bills. The Cool Surge has been confirmed to use just pennies of electricity a day. That makes it energy efficient, eco-friendly and a real steal at just two-hundred ninety-eight dollars and shipping because all those who beat the deadline by calling the National Toll Free Hotline at 1-866-428-2484 to order the first Cool Surge are actually getting their second one for free.

Public staying cool for just pennies

Free giveaway launches the home cooling breakthrough that uses about 96% less electricity than air conditioners

Just 48 hours remain to snatch up your second Cool Surge FREE; it easily rolls from room-to-room to quietly blast out cold air for just pennies a day and uses no windows, no vents and no freon

By R.K. BERRY
Universal Media Syndicate

(UMS) - Everyone wants to keep cool this summer. But just turning on your air conditioner sucks the money right out of your pockets.

The Cool Surge® eco-friendly air cooler helps solve both problems. It blasts out ice cooled air but runs for just pennies a day. That's because it uses about 96% less electricity than a typical air conditioner.

And here's the best part, readers of this publication who beat the 48 hour deadline get one FREE when they order one, and cover shipping on each.

This is all happening to announce the Cool Surge portable air cooler that easily rolls from room-to-room so you can take the ice cooled air with you anywhere. That way, everyone who gets them first can immediately turn down the air, save on their electric bill and beat the sweltering heat.

The Cool Surge uses the same energy as a light bulb, yet throws off ice cooled air to keep you cool all day and night. The potential energy savings are absolutely incredible.

During the day, keep it in your living room and at night, just roll it into your bedroom and enjoy a cool, comfortable night's sleep.

The good news is the Cool Surge portable air cooler is not an air conditioner, so it only costs about a penny an hour to operate and it cools an average sized room up to ten degrees.

"Everyone can use this eco-friendly home cooling technology," says Christopher Gallow, Operations Director. "Air conditioners can cost thousands of dollars. And with a central air conditioner you are paying to cool areas of your home that you're not using. Window air conditioners are even worse because they weigh a ton so they're a hassle to move," confirms Gallow.

So at only two-hundred ninety-eight dollars and shipping, the Cool Surge is a real steal because if you beat the deadline, you'll get a second one free, just cover shipping.

The Cool Surge is as easy to use as a baby's vaporizer and it even comes with two sets of the reusable glacier ice blocks. That gives you a total of eight hours of extra cooling power.

"We can only afford to give away a free Cool Surge to everyone who beats the 48 hour deadline to order one because we've cut out the middleman. That's why you won't find the Cool Surge in the national chain stores," says Gallow.

"People everywhere will be racing to get one and get their second one free. Our phones will be ringing off the hook," added Gallow.

"That's because owning a Cool Surge is like having your own personal shade follow you around your home," said Gallow.

Consumers have been wishing there was a way to take the coolness with them from room-to-room for decades. Now the Cool Surge portable air cooler makes it a snap.

It effortlessly rolls from room to room and is unbelievably lightweight. "But don't let its light weight fool you, this is one serious piece of equipment," added Gallow.

Getting the Cool Surge is the smart way to slash summer electric bills and still stay cool all summer long. And getting the second one free is like putting three hundred bucks in your pocket.

"We're bracing ourselves for all the calls because everyone wants to save on their electric bills and stay cool this summer. But those that really want to save a ton will be telling our operators they want two and they'll get two free," said Gallow.

"So when the lines are busy keep trying or log onto www.coolsurge.com. We promise to get every call. Then we'll have a delivery truck out to you in no time at all so you can stay cool and start saving on your energy bills right away," Gallow said.

"You'll instantly feel the ice cooled air in any room. You will never have to be hot and miserable again," he said. ■

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently watched a comedy that featured men cross-dressing. Ever since, I have had a burning desire to have my husband wear sexy lingerie and make-up.

There is nothing effeminate about him, but I can't get this out of my head. I bought him a lacy bra and panty set, garter belt and stockings, but I haven't had the nerve to ask him to wear them. Am I crazy? Should I try to forget this? -- BURNING DESIRE IN NAHANT, MASS.

DEAR BURNING: Human sexuality is complicated. There are many women who help their husbands cross-dress, however it is my understanding that the initiator is usually the man. I don't think you are crazy, nor do I think you should "forget" something that you describe as a "burning desire." What I do think you should do is have a frank discussion with your husband and find out how open-minded he is on the subject.

DEAR ABBY: I have been in a relationship with "John" for the past seven years. I live down south, while John lives up north. John is 76 and does not plan to retire, even though he doesn't have to work. I am 65 and need to work.

Is it possible for this long-distance relationship to survive? Part of me wishes we would end it so we could start over with someone who lives in the same city. I'm tired of living this way, but cannot seem to make the break. What should I do? -- SOUTHERN BELLE

DEAR SOUTHERN BELLE: If you are torn between your head and your heart, please listen to the part of you that thinks. Because this has been going on for seven years, it's clear that the status quo is enough for John. Because you need more than that, explain it to him, and if the two of you can't figure out a workable solution, it's time for you to find someone who can fulfill your needs.

DEAR ABBY: Our family, consisting of our three children, their spouses, our grandchildren and great-grandchildren, have occasional gatherings to celebrate special events. My husband's 90th birthday is this summer, and the immediate family will come here, some from faraway locations.

My daughter-in-law, "Janie," who lives 2,000 miles away, has felt for years that her children from previous marriages (who do not know any of us) should be included at these events. They live within 100 miles of our home and could attend if invited. Our relationship with Janie has been generally cordial and affectionate. She will be visiting her children at their homes the week of the birthday. If we exclude her kids from our celebration, she will feel insulted and resentful.

How obligated should we feel to bow to Janie's demands and include four additional adults and a young child to our party? My husband becomes upset and confused by large groups and noisy children. -- CORNERED ON THE EASTERN SHORE

DEAR CORNERED: Your husband's comfort and sense of well-being must come first. If he becomes agitated by large groups and noisy children, you must explain to Janie that no "strangers" can be introduced into the mix and why. Do not allow anyone to lay a guilt trip on you for advocating for him. When Janie sees your husband, I am sure she will understand.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Thursday, June 25, 2009:

This year, you open up to many different financial possibilities. But continue to be a cynic, and discover what works for you and what doesn't. Avoid heavy risk-taking, though in a sense you do like a gamble or two. Keep it within your budget. If you are single, others find you to be extremely attractive. Romance could sizzle, especially if you develop a friendship as well. If you are attached, when the two of you combine your energy, you nearly guarantee that any goal will be met. Focus on a long-term desire. Value the friendship each of you offers. Sometimes LEO can be possessive.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  Your creativity and dynamic energy could separate you from the flock and help you find solutions. If you want to, you will move into a new realm. The pros and cons of a situation could be an eye-opener. Curb impulsiveness. Tonight: Do what you love, and don't worry about anything.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  You could be more anchored than you realize. If you are in touch with your feelings and can verbalize them, you'll find that a strong response ensues. Passion runs high right now. You slip from intensely energetic to quite caring. Tonight: Close to home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  Keep communication flowing. How you deal with a situation could define the end results. Your instincts guide you, but are you aware that they might be colored by your perspective? Study alternate perspectives more often. Tonight: All smiles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Take your time and think before acting. In fact, the smart Moon Child will postpone signing any paperwork for now. Keep your own counsel. A friend or friends in general share a lot. Consider your options. Tonight: Get some extra R and R.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  You are in prime shape and open to others' suggestions. Whether you have two bosses or a boss flips midday changing his or her mind doesn't matter, as confusion arises. Possibly you feel you're between a rock and a hard place. Tonight: Top cat. Start the weekend early.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  Know that you probably need more information in order to deal with a problem. Your way of handling a personal matter might not work right now. Gather information, think and evaluate. Stay in touch with what you want. Tonight: Take a personal night.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Zero in on what you want. Don't sell yourself short. Listen to feedback from friends, but ultimately, the bottom line is what a key partner or associate feels. A meeting could be more important than you initially thought. Tonight: Where your friends are.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  A must appearance allows you to head in a new direction. A partner clearly feels passionately about an issue. Someone is observing you far more than you realize. Handle your responsibilities. Your follow-through counts. Tonight: A must appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  Keep reaching out for others. Know what you want and where you are heading. You will be on top of your game if you detach. Asking for different opinions can make all the difference. Associates feel passionately about a project. Tonight: Where there is music.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Your strong suit is a supportive, dynamic partnership. Count on this person, but also remember that just because a situation isn't important to you doesn't mean it isn't important to him or her. Talk through ideas. Finances could be involved. Tonight: Togetherness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  No one needs to tell you that you have several live wires in your life. Today, you might scratch your head, as everyone seems to be replicating his or her energy. Know that you just need to allow these people to do their "thing" and not interfere. Tonight: Sort through invitations.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Emphasize what you can get done effectively. Plug into work, errands and must-do items. Listen to your body too. Do you need to schedule a checkup with the doctor or dentist? Have you been putting off an exercise plan? Tonight: Easy does it.

Xcel asks for recovery increase

AMARILLO — Xcel Energy has submitted a request to the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT) to implement a transmission cost recovery factor (TCRF) — a move that will support investments to deliver more wind energy to customers and more reliably serve increasing customer demand.

The factor would appear as a separate charge on customer bills, increasing an average customer bill of 1,000 kilowatt-hours by 92 cents, or approximately a one percent increase, per month.

The PUCT implemented rules in 2007 allowing a TCRF to provide recovery for the costs of new transmission assets more quickly, and between base rate cases. The charge primarily will recover costs of new transmission put in service between Jan. 1, 2008 and April 30 of this year.

"The ability to recover our costs in a more timely manner will encourage the construction of new transmission lines in the region," said David Eves, president and CEO of Southwestern Public Service Company, an Xcel Energy company. "An improved transmission system is an investment in our future, benefiting all customers through better reliability and better access to renewable power sources, most notably energy from area wind facilities."

The company now has the ability to submit new transmission cost factors every calendar year. When a new rate case is filed, the charges are rolled into new rates and the factor returns to zero. The company seeks approval of the current TCRF within 35 days, but the process could take as long as six months.

Oil drops below $69

Oil prices fell below $69 a barrel Wednesday, but were up from earlier lows, as investors continued to focus on the value of the U.S. dollar, which typically trades inversely to commodities, and awaited a policy statement from the Federal Reserve.

By mid-afternoon in Europe, benchmark crude for August delivery was down 25 cents to $68.99 a barrel in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Earlier in the session, it fell to $68.06 before recovering. On Tuesday, it rose $1.74 to settle at $69.24.

Oil came off an eight-month high near $73 a barrel earlier this month, and has hovered in the upper $60s this week, as investors eye the dollar and buy crude as protection against possible inflation down the road.

"Crude is following the dollar," said Jonathan Kornafel, Asia director for market-maker Hudson Capital Energy in Singapore. "Right now, crude is largely being bought as an inflation hedge."

The Energy Department's Energy Information Administration is due to release its weekly petroleum inventory data, but analysts said that with the dollar steering oil prices, the stock figures could be overridden by news from the U.S. Federal Reserve meeting.

"As far as today goes, traders will be looking to the Fed, rather than the DOE to ascertain crude oil's path," said The Schork Report edited by U.S. trader and analyst Stephen Schork.
