More than 100 animals die in Killeen shelter

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — A fire at a no-kill animal shelter in Killeen claimed the lives of more than 100 dogs and cats.

The cause of the fire early Sunday at the Second Chance Animal Shelter is sought. Authorities believe the fire may have started in the staff kitchen area.

George Grammas with the Centex Humane Society, which operates the shelter, said 99 cats and 12 dogs died from smoke inhalation. Dozens of other animals were not injured.

Killeen is about 70 miles north of Austin.

I dead, I injured in Harris County fire

HOUSTON (AP) — One person is dead after an early morning fire swept through a north Harris County home.

Harris County sheriff's officials say when they arrived after getting the call around 4:40 a.m. Sunday, a young man was outside the burning home. He went back in to rescue another person, but firefighters said that person's body was found in a bedroom.

The man who went back in was rescued by firefighters and taken to a hospital for his injuries.

Authorities haven't released the name of the person who died. Arson investigators are looking into the cause of the fire.

Cattle herder missing near Dayton

DAYTON, Texas (AP) — Boats have been used in the search for a livestock herder who disappeared in Liberty County while moving cattle near the rain-swollen Trinity River.

Searchers planned to resume their efforts Monday.

Dayton police say three men were herding cattle Sunday afternoon to get the livestock to higher ground, as water rose coming off the Trinity River.

Authorities say one of the men rode away from the other two to get behind some cattle. His horse later returned without him.

KTRK-TV reports four boats were used in the search that was suspended around 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

Amarillo College students explore geothermal power

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Amarillo College is digging deep to enhance its renewable energy program.

The school has long planned to add to its wind classes, which have proven popular at both its East Campus in Amarillo and Moore County Campus in Dumas with more than 300 students enrolled. And AC intends to add classes in solar power next year, but it will go underground in 2011 to offer classes in geothermal power and to install a demonstration system at its East Campus, said Trace Megenbier, coordinator of the renewable energy program.

AC and Texas Tech University recently hosted a day of energy lessons both at AC's Business and Industry campus in downtown Amarillo and at the East Campus.

While wind turbines harvest the area's abundant wind, and solar panels open to the sky for power, geothermal goes deep in the earth to reduce the amount of fossil fuels used to heat or cool the interior of buildings.

The key to most systems is tapping into the constant temperatures hundreds of feet below the surface.

"What's more consistent than the ground?" said Don Penn, consulting engineer with Grapevine-based Image Engineering Group.

Systems IEG has installed across the country, including schools near Dallas, consist of holes drilled 250 to 400 feet deep spaced 15 to 20 feet apart. The well fields cover about the same square footage as the building that's to be heated and cooled by the system.

One-inch pipes go to the bottom of the holes and back up, carrying water at low pressure that takes on the temperature of the soil. The water then flows to units that blow air across pipes and into individual rooms in the building.

"Each room has its own atmosphere," Penn said. "We've seen 35 to 40 percent drops in energy usage in schools with this."

That should translate into $1.7 million in savings from lower energy and maintenance costs over 20 years for a middle school in Frisco where the company installed a system to heat and cool 138,000 square feet, he said.

Despite the rosy projections, geothermal is still a hard sell.

"It's like you're selling snake oil," Penn said.

The energy savings are about the same for residences.

"We're not burning anything to make heat. We're moving it," said Paul Bony, director of residential market development at Climate Master in Montrose, Colo.

Some barriers to expanding the geothermal market include lack of contractor interest and expertise, and no long-term financing. However, there are federal tax credits available to help pay for installation.

Lubbock Christian University has been transitioning into geothermal heat and cooling and other energy management strategies since 2003. One way the university economized on the geothermal setup was by tapping into its landscape sprinkler system as a horizontal loop to control the water temperature rather than a vertical loop in a well, said Wilbur Jones, director of campus facilities.

"If the water gets too warm, we turn on the sprinklers to replace the water."

Ex-stripper, Jack Ruby reunited in mural

DALLAS (AP) — After Jack Ruby made a huge splash by killing Lee Harvey Oswald on live television, Joyce Gordon became a ripple.

Gordon, a green-eyed redhead who was 20, worked as a stripper at Ruby's Carousel Club on Commerce Street in downtown Dallas. Now, at 66, she is thought to be the last living woman who danced at Ruby's club during that period in November 1963.

"I did what I did," she said last week. "No sense regretting what you've done. I had no education and I had to have a way to support my child, and that was the way I did it."

This month marks the 46th anniversary of one of the most dramatic episodes in American history. President John F. Kennedy was assassinated on Nov. 22, 1963, Oswald was arrested for his murder, and Ruby shot and killed him on Nov. 24.

Entrepreneurs and artists are still paying homage to the characters who played major and minor roles in the massive investigations of Oswald and Ruby. Gordon, who went by the stage name Joy Dale, became one of those characters.

Gordon has appeared in a few assassination documentaries over the years but, for the most part, has kept a low profile.

Randy Redmond, a colorful Dallas businessman, is putting a little gloss on her golden years. He is immortalizing Gordon, Ruby and two other Carousel Club strippers on a mural in back of his building at 2616 Commerce in Deep Ellum. Redmond rents the building for parties, and the mural adorns the entrance to a faux speakeasy in the alley.

Gordon, her youth restored with waterproof paint, is portrayed sitting on the hood of a police car with the Dallas skyline in the background.

"My daughters think it's kinda cool," she said. Gordon was born in Sulphur Springs in 1943 and was raised in Oak Cliff. She had a 12-year career as stripper Joy Dale.

In the early '60s, strip joints were a far cry from the so-called gentleman's clubs of today, where the dancers usually appear topless and perform "lap dances" for tips. When you think of Joy Dale, think of a bouffant hairdo, ankle-length black gown and long black gloves a la Gypsy Rose Lee.

Gordon and her 3-year-old daughter, Cynthia, were riding a city bus to a doctor's appointment at Parkland Memorial Hospital on Nov. 22, 1963. Several weeks earlier, Cynthia had almost lost an eye in a freak accident. She needed a checkup.

"We got to the corner of Houston and Commerce (near Dealey Plaza) and a motorcycle policeman stopped the bus and got on and looked around," Gordon recalled. "Word of what happened had gotten out and people were screaming and crying."

Focus falls on cause of collision off Calif. coast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the possibility of finding survivors all but gone and the ocean search shifted from a rescue effort to a recovery mission, focus fell Monday on what caused a Marine Corps helicopter and U.S. Coast Guard plane to collide over the Pacific.

Petty Officer First Class Allison Conroy said there was little chance of finding survivors among the seven military personnel aboard the Coast Guard C-130 and the two in the Marine Corps AH-1W Super Cobra helicopter.

"We always hold out some hope, but at this point the Coast Guard has suspended the active search for survivors," Conroy said Sunday.

The two aircraft collided Thursday evening as the Coast Guard was searching for a missing boater. The Marine helicopter was flying in formation with another Cobra helicopter and two transports on a nighttime training exercise.

The crash investigation was being conducted jointly by the Coast Guard and the Marine Corps with support from the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board, Petty Officer Henry Dunphy said Sunday.

The accident happened in airspace uncontrolled by the FAA and inside a so-called military warning area, which is at times open to civilian aircraft and at times closed for military use, FAA spokesman Ian Gregor said. He did not know the status of the airspace at the time of the crash.

Minutes before the collision, the FAA told the C-130 pilot to begin communicating with military controllers at Naval Air Station North Island in San Diego Bay, but it was not known if the pilot did so, Gregor said.

A top Coast Guard official said Saturday he believed the C-130 pilot had spoken with the military controllers before the accident.

Accident investigators would review communications between the pilots and between the pilots and the FAA and military controllers, said Capt. Tom Farris, commander of the Coast Guard's 11th District.

Investigators are also collecting witness statements from those aboard the three other Marine aircraft and will check to see if any distress calls were made.

Kenneth Claiborne said Sunday that his son Marine 1st Lt. Thomas Claiborne, who was on the helicopter, had been declared deceased. He declined to comment further and referred calls to a Marine spokesperson.

The mother of Lt. Adam W. Bryant, 28, of Crewe, Va., who was a co-pilot on the Coast Guard plane, said she hadn't given up hope despite the Coast Guard's announcement.

"Miracles do happen," Nina Bryant said Sunday. "Miracles every day."

Nine aircraft searched over a 644-square-mile patch of ocean in waters about 2,000 feet deep. Debris from both aircraft was found, but there was no sign of the crew members.

All seven aboard the Coast Guard plane are stationed at the Coast Guard Air Station in Sacramento, Calif. Among the other missing crew members on the plane were Lt. Cmdr. Che Barnes, 35, of Capay, Calif.; Chief Petty Officer John F. Seidman, 43, of Carmichael, Calif.; Petty Officer 2nd Class Carl P. Grigonis, 35, of Mayfield Heights, Ohio; Petty Officer 2nd Class Monica L. Beacham, 29, of Decaturville, Tenn.; Petty Officer 2nd Class Jason S. Moletzky, 26, of Norristown, Pa., and Petty Officer 3rd Class Danny R. Kreder II, 22, of Elm Mott, Texas.

Maj. Samuel Leigh, 35, of Belgrade, Maine, was the other crew member on board the Marine Corps helicopter.

Music and a Meal 2009 starts Tuesday, Nov. 3

The Pampa Meals on Wheels Warehouse Cafe will offer its annual Music and a Meal beginning tomorrow.

Tuesday's events will feature the Pampa High School Show Choir and a menu of roast beef with mashed potatoes, green beans, salad, rolls fruit salad and cake.

November 10, attendees may enjoy stew and cornbread and peach cobbler while listening to the Pampa Junior High Choir and Jazz Band.

The Fathers' Quartet from Perryton will headline the luncheon November 17, which will feature Chili and/or beans, jalapeno cornbread, Prito pie and chocolate, spice or banana cake.

There will be a bake sale to raise funds for Meals on Wheels. The luncheons will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 302 Foster, the corner of Foster and Gillespie.

County

missioners, said the numbers he came up with show it would cost the county about 0.4 percent of their budget, or about $75,000 a year.

Brashears said that the freeze would apply to only 1,966 people in the county out of some 17,000 who pay property taxes.

He said that even though the tax rate is frozen, the taxing entities are getting more money because the value of the properties has gone up.

"That money keeps growing," Brashears said.

He said that those entities that passed the tax rate freeze did so by a voter margin of 88 percent.

"It's a small amount of money," Brashears said. "It's $75,000 out of the county budget."

Brashears said senior citizens aren't going to stop paying taxes.

"You're giving them a reprieve for maybe 10 years before they die," Brashears said. "That property goes back on the market. It's not frozen forever. You're not doing this forever on a piece of property."

The judge acknowledged that his is over 65 and freezing the tax rate would be an advantage to him personally, but he said those over 65 and veterans have a tax advantage right now.

They can get up to a $25,000 homestead exemption from the school district, and the county allows up to a $13,040 tax break on appraised property values for the general fund and about $10,000 for road and bridge taxes.

The City of Pampa takes about $15,000 off the appraised value of property for those over 65 and disabled veterans. McLean and Lefors also have tax breaks for the elderly and veterans, Peet said.

The judge pointed out that what is being proposed is not a tax freeze. It is a cap on the tax levy set by the county.

First Baptist in Dallas announces $130M expansion

DALLAS (AP) — First Baptist in Dallas, one of the nation's largest Southern Baptist Convention congregations, will be growing into a more environmentally friendly campus.

First Baptist announced a $130 million expansion featuring a 3,000-seat worship center.

Evangelist Billy Graham joined First Baptist Dallas in 1953 during his initial crusade in the city. Graham in late 2008 announced he was switching to a church closer to his retirement home in Montreat, N.C.

The campus for the Dallas congregation of about 11,000 is planned adjacent to the city's updated arts district, host to the new $354 million AT&T Performing Arts Center.

"We want to create a spiritual oasis that the residents of Dallas can enjoy," said Pastor Robert Jeffress.

The heart of the campus will have a fountain plaza complete with green gathering places and an oval pool with a stone water tower topped with a cross.

The first building of what became First Baptist Church was purchased in 1872. The cornerstone of the current sanctuary was laid in 1891, according to the church's Web site.

The current historic sanctuary will be retained as a site for weddings, funerals and other special events, the church said in a statement.

The Rev. W.A. Criswell, 92, who for decades led the congregation, died in 2002.

Paula Hancock, with the Southern Baptist Convention in Nashville, Tenn., said Monday that First Baptist in Dallas in 2008 reported a congregation of about 11,000. She told The Associated Press that the figure puts the church among the largest Southern Baptist Convention congregations in the country.

Balentine won a reprieve from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in September a day before he was scheduled to die.

Veterans

"If the voters of Texas approve this proposition ... it will send a very strong statement of intent from the voters to the state that we should partner with the federal government to make this happen," Lucio said. "It comes at a time when our veterans population has grown and medical services are needed."

In recent years, the VA has bolstered its presence in Harlingen, cutting the need for many of those long drives. And in January, the VA announced that it will open a $40 million clinic at the University of Texas Regional Medical Education Center in Harlingen. The agency said the new facility would eliminate about 95 percent of trips to San Antonio for area veterans. It was scheduled for completion next fall, but that date has been pushed to January 2011.

Salvador Salinas, the veterans service officer for Cameron County, said "slowly, the number of people that are going (to San Antonio) is coming down."

Salinas said proving that the Valley has enough veterans to justify a hospital has been the stumbling block for years. He hoped that allowing the state to partner with the VA could remove that hurdle.

Under the proposed change the Veterans Administration would still be responsible for establishing the hospital, but the state could contribute money, property or other resources to assist the project.

The measure was driven by legislators from the Rio Grande Valley. El Paso, home to Fort Bliss, has been mentioned as another community with a large veteran population, though the VA currently contracts with the base hospital for its inpatient care. Even though the ballot language leaves open the possibility of establishing VA hospitals anywhere in Texas, the enabling legislation, which passed both chambers of the Legislature without opposition, makes clear that the Rio Grande Valley is the target.

A House analysis of the proposal determined that the proposition itself had no cost, but proposal's point was to give the state authority to contribute to VA hospitals so costs would eventually come.

"This would be another vehicle for us to get a hospital down here," said Emilio de los Santos, the veterans service officer for Hidalgo County. "Now it's up to the general public to support us."

Proposition 6, another veteran-related measure on the upcoming ballot, would allow the state to continue issuing bonds for the veterans home loan program that provides low-interest loans for land, homes or home renovations. It reappears on the ballot every couple of years, Salinas said.

Harvesters barbecue Longhorns, playoffs in sight

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The last time the Harvesters (2-7, 2-2) won a football game it was not played on a Friday night. Pampa's game against the Caprock Longhorns (4-5, 1-3) was played on a Saturday and the Harvesters were victorious 42-26 Saturday in Amarillo.

Head Coach Heath Parker said it was a huge win for his team and the senior class.

"We've played behind the eight ball all season starting with the first game against Borger when we trailed 18-0," Parker said. "In the end we're sitting in good position with a good chance to be going to the playoffs. If we beat Palo Duro we will be going for sure."

For the first time this season the Harvesters led the whole game. Alex Clendening scored Pampa's first points of the game with a one-yard run. Colten Adam's extra point gave Pampa a 7-0 lead which they took to the end of the first quarter.

Garrett Ericson expanded the Harvesters lead with a 14-yard touchdown reception. Following the extra point Pampa led 14-0. The Caprock Longhorns would cut into Pampa's lead. Darrian Sommers caught a two-yard pass from Gerald Ruiz. The extra point kick failed cutting the Harvesters lead to 14-6, which ended up being the halftime score.

At the beginning of the third quarter, the Longhorns were driving to tie the game but Lattigo Collins ended Caprock's possession with an interception in the end zone.

Parker said that was the turning point in the game.

"They (Pampa's secondary) baited the them to throw a corner route in the end zone and Lattigo Collins intercepted it," Parker said. "We drove down the field using a lot of clock and scored. So we turned a game that was about to be tied to a two score game."

Clendening scored his second touchdown on a one-yard run. Adam's extra point gave Pampa a 21-7 lead. Braden Hunt expanded the Harvesters lead to 27-7 with a five-yard run.

For the rest of the game the Harvesters and the Longhorns exchanged touchdowns. Ericson caught a second touchdown pass and Kendrick Alexander had an 18-yard touchdown run.

Alexander had 208 yards of the Harvesters 295 rushing yards. Both Alexander and the Harvesters rushing totals were season highs. Parker was pleased with how his offensive line and how Alexander performed.

"The offensive line played well from start to finish," Parker said. "Kendrick Alexander had a super game for us."

If Pampa beats Palo Duro Friday they will definitely be in the playoffs. However, if they lose, four of five scenarios have the Harvesters in the playoffs. Parker said he is proud of how hard his seniors played this season to put themselves in this situation.

"They fought through several hardships," Parker said. "They could have stopped playing and think the season hasn't gone the way we wanted it to. They kept playing hard and now we have a chance to be in second place after Friday's game."

Lady Harvesters volleyball's business remains unfinished

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Lady Harvesters (17-15, 5-7) entered the 2009 season with the motto unfinished business after they finished one victory short of the playoffs. This season ended the same way as they lost to the Canyon Eagles (23-10, 5-7) (25-16, 23-25, 19-25 and 13-25) in a one-game playoff for the final playoff spot Saturday in Borger.

The Lady Harvesters and the Lady Eagles were tied for fourth place when the season ended. The top four teams in District 3-4A qualifies for the playoffs. Head Coach Libby Garza said she was disappointed they finished the season short of the playoffs but was pleased with her team's improvement from this year to last.

"I'm very proud of my team for making people notice them and respect them," Garza said.

The head volleyball coach said the turning point for her team was after they lost game three.

"Well I think we kind of froze after we lost that second game," Garza said.

Coach said her seniors were very upset but was pleased with how they lead the team this season.

"They (the seniors) are wanting the girls not to make the same mistakes as they did," Garza said. "This was a great group of seniors. They lead the whole way. At times it was hard for the younger ones to endure the seniors intensity, but they pulled together for the seniors."

Garza thought her team had a good season but wish they went further.

"It's a good thing we had a better record than last year," Garza said. "But I know my girls and I both want the playoffs so it was a little disappointing."

Coach said her team is already looking forward to next season and improving.

"We will be better next year," Garza said. "My girls are ready to start off-season as soon as possible. The off season is where you get better. They're ready to get to work."

Corbin Clifton makes a catch for a first down against the Caprock Longhorns Saturday in Amarillo. The Pampa Harvesters won 42-26 and have a good chance of making it to the playoffs. Clifton made two catches for 51 yards. Pampa's final regular season game is Friday hosting the Palo Duro Dons. (Photo contributed by Shawn Clifton).

Lady Harvesters basketball test skills in scrimmages

BY ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Lady Harvesters basketball team got to test their skills against other teams as they scrimmaged in Panhandle, Texas, Saturday.

The Lady Harvesters scrimmaged against Panhandle, Gruver, and Canadian. Head Coach

Gene Valentine said the scrimmage went rather well for his team.

"The intensity was good to see," Valentine said. "Everyone had lots of playing time so there different combinations of players to watch."

The scrimmage was split into five sessions with five to 20 minute halves and a five minute rest in between sessions. There was no score kept in the scrimmage but Valentine thinks they won three of the five sessions. The girls basketball coach said he got a good look at everyone.

"It gave me a good look at some players that will probably be used as role players and to see how they will perform when the season comes," Valentine said. "They were able to gain experience."

Valentine said his team does not have any position battles right now but when his players that were on the volleyball team returns there could be. All girls basketball teams will scrimmage at the McNeely Field house 11 a.m. Saturday.

Yanks beat Phils for 3-1 series edge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Alex Rodriguez waited all game long for this hit. Heck, he waited his whole life.

The New York Yankees have been waiting, too.

Rodriguez delivered a go-ahead, two-out double in the ninth inning off Brad Lidge and the Yankees took advantage of Johnny Damon's daring dash to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-4 on Sunday night for a 3-1 lead in the World Series.

"There's no question — I've never had a bigger hit," Rodriguez said.

Derek Jeter came through again and Mariano Rivera finished it off as the Yankees moved within one win of that elusive 27th championship and first since 2000.

Rodriguez applauded his own hit, for good reason. Seething since the first inning after again being nailed by a pitch, the highest-paid player in the majors struck back with his potent black bat.

Overanxious at the start of his first World Series, Rodriguez struck out six times in the first two games. He homered in Game 3, yet it was another kind of thwack that him going.

"The one time I got hit in yesterday's game, my first at-bat, kind of woke me up a little bit and just reminded me, 'Hey, this is the World Series, let's get it going a little bit,'" he said.

Now in his sixth season with the Yankees, he'll try to help them close out the defending champions Monday night when A.J. Burnett faces October ace Cliff Lee.

Of the 42 teams to take a 3-1 lead in the World Series, 36 went on to win the crown. The last club to overcome such a deficit was Kansas City in 1985.

Chase Utley and Pedro Feliz hit late home runs for the Phillies that tied it at 4. Then it moved to the ninth and Phils brought in Lidge — a postseason star last year, he had struggled all season before regaining his touch this October.

But November was not so kind.

Lidge had been the only closer in the playoffs who hadn't allowed a run until the Yankees tagged him.

With two outs, Damon capped a nine-pitch at-bat with a single. The Phillies overshifted their infield to the right side for Mark Teixeira and Damon took off.

Damon beat the one-hop throw to steal second, popped up from his slide and noticed no one was covering third. That's because Feliz had handled the throw, and Damon easily beat the third baseman to the bag for a rare double-steal — fact is, who'd ever seen it?

"I'm just glad that when I started running, I still had some of my young legs behind me," Damon said.

Offered Feliz: "We never got anybody to say, 'OK, you've got to go in there, you've got to go here.'"

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I have a 19-year-old daughter, "Caitlin," whom I love very much. Despite a few rocky periods, we have a great relationship.

Caitlin moved in with her fiance shortly after she turned 18, and they were married a few months ago. After she left, I went through an "empty nest" period because it was the first time I was alone in 18 years.

When my daughter started coming to visit once a week, I was thrilled. It was sad when she had to leave, but I looked forward to "our days." Then I had to have surgery, and Caitlin came to take care of me. I have since recovered, but now -- two months later -- she's still visiting every day. She sits around watching TV and wants me to sit with her.

I love spending time with my daughter, but frankly, I need a break! I have tried "hinting" that she has her own house, pets and husband, and it would be fine if she didn't visit every day. It falls on deaf ears.

I don't want to hurt Caitlin's feelings, but I got used to being alone, and I miss it sometimes. How can I get her to stop coming over so often without making her think I don't want her? -- CRAVING SOME SOLITUDE IN ARKANSAS

DEAR CRAVING: It's possible that when you had the surgery your daughter was afraid she would lose you, and now she's having separation anxieties of her own. It's time for a frank talk with her.

It's unusual for a bride to have so much free time on her hands. She should be using at least some of it to build a life of her own.

Could there be a problem in her marriage? Her husband can't be thrilled that she's spending so much time at your place. Or does she lack direction?

What's going on isn't healthy for either of you. So speak up and establish some ground rules. If you prefer that she visit only once a week, say so. Your daughter needs to "get a life," and you are entitled to one apart from her.

DEAR ABBY: I had a bad cold a few weeks ago, and while waiting in my doctor's office, I occupied myself by reading one of the many magazines he keeps there for patients. It occurred to me later that the magazine I had been holding had also been handled by countless other sick patients during the weeks it had laid there.

Couldn't those magazines be carriers of innumerable germs that could infect visiting patients? Is it possible that providing reading material in hospitals or doctors' waiting rooms could actually be an unhealthy practice? -- GERM THEORIST IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR GERM THEORIST: Yes, I think so. And the door handles, elevator buttons, chart clipboard and pens could also be loaded with germs. That's why it's a good idea to always carry disinfectant gel or wipes with you. P.S. If a valet takes your car or the keys -- or hands you change ... oh, Lord, I'm beginning to sound like Howard Hughes.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, Nov. 3, 2009:

This year, you often find that you are looking at confusing situations laden with misunderstandings. Take your time clarifying, and try not to make any judgments. You'll quickly learn of others' intentions. Your creativity bubbles up out of the blue often when dealing with people in your daily life. You could discover certain skeletons in the closet within your family. You might be shocked at first, but not in the long run. If you are single, what you conjure up in your imagination might not be connected to reality. Take your time getting to know others. If you are attached, you could discover the importance of new plans and not sticking to a routine. GEMINI proves to be a good partner.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Opportunities appear, but don't milk a situation for more than it's worth. Be generous, or you could get a sudden backfire. Others don't see the same end results as you do, so verbalize, listen and communicate. Tonight: Just be nice and easy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 You might be so upbeat and happy that you barely have a chance to stop and worry about a lingering issue. Others surprise you with their reactions. You discover that what was a given no longer is. Tonight: Whatever knocks your socks off.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Continue to maintain a very low profile. Don't overthink an issue, and stay centered. You will find a change coming in the near future. What is now, might not be later. Reach out for someone at a distance. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Zero in on what is important, knowing full well what works for you. As you focus on details and know what you want, you are able to crystallize an idea. A partner might not get the gist of a friend's message. Tonight: Take some time for yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 You might be wondering when you can dump some of the responsibilities that have fallen in your lap. You could be tired and withdrawn. Know when to say enough, though you could be surprised by someone's actions if you do. Tonight: A must show.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Read between the lines, and you will be able to understand what is happening within your immediate circle. The unexpected occurs out of the blue. Creativity emerges when facing daily life issues. Tonight: A must appearance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 Work with a partner directly, and you'll come up with solutions. Realize what is going on between you and another person. Do you want this lack of connection or confusion to continue much longer? Tonight: Reach out for someone at a distance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 Defer to others, even though you might really disagree. Just register your opinion, but allow events and plans to unfold. You might be surprised by what comes down, as well as your reaction. Tonight: Dinner for two.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 You can accomplish a lot if you don't allow a personal issue to float through your professional life. You might be confused by a conversation. Recheck what you think you have heard. Verify and confirm! Tonight: Sort through suggestions first.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 You might want to approach a situation far differently than in the past. Your perspective could change as the day proceeds. Others can do a great job of confusing finances — for better or for worse. Tonight: Let your imagination rock and roll.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
* Stay anchored, knowing what you want to accomplish and where you are heading. You could be exhausted by everything that occurs, and need to call it an early day. If you can, work from home. You will accomplish more. Tonight: What you want.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)<

HEARING IN HD

The breakthrough in Nanoscience is bringing you closer to more natural hearing than ever before. It's GUARANTEED not to whistle or squeal. This new product also:

- listens for sounds and adjusts to them in an instant.
- constantly pays attention to the hearing situation.
- automatically switches modes to hear voice and speech better.
- automatically stores information about your hearing environments and controls background noise—the hearing aid gets smarter the more you wear it.
- gives you the ability to hear on the phone like you've never heard before.

11 PRODUCT TESTERS NEEDED

CALL FOR YOUR APPT. TODAY

"As part of our product study, the leading manufacturers of hearing aids are looking for 11 people who will qualify as product testers to try these new innovative hearing solutions," said Richard Davila, practice administrator of Livingston Hearing Aid Center. "We are proud to participate in this study and will pay each qualified participant $50 to complete the study."

The On-The-Ear product markets itself with very little effort because it solves a really big problem in an innovatively cool way: namely, it corrects high-frequency hearing loss without plugging-up the ear canal. It lets natural sounds just pass through the ear canal unamplified and gives a hi-fidelity boost only to soft speech sounds. Another of the industry's most advanced hearing aids offers clarity, convenience, style and superior performance on every level. It offers a more natural hearing than ever before. It's guaranteed not to whistle or squeal and gives you the ability to hear on the telephone like never before.

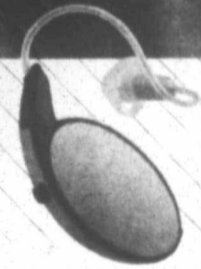

Call Livingston Hearing Aid Center to see if you qualify to participate in this study. In Pampa, call 806-665-3451
