CRP land: What's next?

BY DAVID BOWSER dbowser@thepampanews.com

ith about a half million acres of land nationally coming out of the Conservation Reserve Program this year, Gray County farmers and ranchers are asking what now?

In an effort to answer that question, County Agent Brandon McGinty organized the Gray County Ag Conference this week to discuss the federal land conservation program and what options are available for area agricultural producers.

"In 2010," said McGinty, "we'll have a little over 4,600 acres come out (in Gray County)."

Even more will come out of the program over the next few years.

About 33 million rural acres across the U.S. has been taken out of agricultural production and put into the program to rest the land. Most of that land is marginal, whether it was being used for crops or grazing.

The big question, McGinty said, is what to do with those acres now.

"What are the best options for you?" he said, addressing almost 70 people who showed up for the conference. "This meeting is to try to give you some ideas and insight and maybe some direction to go with CRP."

The basic options, he said, are putting the land back into crop production or turning the land into pasture for haying or for grazing

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) Billionaire oilman T. Boone Pickens has made no secret of his love for his alma mater. That adoration has now translated into more than half a billion dollars for Oklahoma State University.

Pickens announced Friday that he is planning a $100 million estate gift to fund a major endowment for scholarships at the school, making his total donation to Oklahoma State over the years more than $500 million.

"You've got a guy who loves the school more than anything and I am very competitive," Pickens said. "And from time to time you catch me with money."

His latest gift comes as the university begins the public phase of a $1 billion, seven-year "Branding Success" fundraising campaign for scholarships, faculty positions, research and buildings officials hope will turn Oklahoma State into the nation's premier land-grant university.

"It's a big goal," OSU President Burns Hargis said. "It's a bold goal. And when we make it, Oklahoma State will finally have the resources to reach its full potential."

A video for the campaign features not only Pickens but other prominent alumni including country music star Garth Brooks, former Major League Baseball player Robin Ventura and 1988 Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders.

Lt. Gov. race tops downballot races for Dems

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A nationally known labor leader, a powerful former district attorney and a local celebrity restaurant owner top the list of downballot candidates on the Democratic primary ballot.

The three — Linda Chavez-Thompson, former Travis County D.A. Ronnie Earle and Austin deli owner Marc Katz — are vying for the opportunity to challenge Republican Lt. Gov. David Dewhurst as head of the Texas Senate in the November general election.

Dewhurst is unopposed on the GOP ballot Most of the attention leading up to Tuesday's primary election has been focused on the epic clash between Gov. Rick Perry and Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, both on the Republican ballot for governor. But voters in Tuesday's primaries also will pick their party's nominees for lieutenant governor, land commissioner, agriculture commissioner, railroad commissioner and state Supreme Court justices.

ist black Texas secretary of state dies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Myra McDaniel, the first black to be appointed Texas secretary of state, has died at age 77.

McDaniel's husband, Reuben McDaniel Jr., says she died Thursday morning at their Austin home after a battle with lung cancer. He said she had been working part time as a lawyer for the Austin firm Bickerstaff Heath Delgado Acosta LLP when she became ill. Then-Gov. Mark White appointed the former assistant state attorney general in 1984. She resigned in 1987. She served as counsel to Austin Community College and Capital Metro and became managing partner of the Bickerstaff Heath firm in 1995. McDaniel grew up in Philadelphia and earned an English degree from the University of Pennsylvania. After working for five years as a management analyst, she married and had two children before entering the University of Texas School of Law. Funeral is pending.

Texas Attorney General's Office didn't oppose the delay. The 31-year-old Tabler was convicted of fatally shooting two men in Killeen on Thanksgiving weekend five years ago. He's achieved more recent notoriety for using the illegal cell phone from his death row cell to threaten state Sen. John Whitmire. Those calls in October 2008 resulted in an unprecedented sweep of all Texas prisons, uncovering hundreds of contraband items.

Former W Texas deputy sentenced in meth case

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A former West Texas sheriff's deputy has received a prison sentence for his part in a multistate methamphetamine distribution ring.

U.S. District Judge Sam Cummings sentenced 39-yearold Jose Jesus Quintanilla to three years in federal prison. The former Hockley County sheriff's deputy pleaded guilty in November to a misprision of a felony, meaning knowing of a felony and failing to report it.

Quintanilla admitted to providing the meth ring with sensitive law enforcement information and deterring investigations.

The Lubbock judge also sentenced 54-year-old lead defendant Bobby Duwayne Froman of Levelland to 20 years in prison for drug conspiracy. Still to be sentenced is former Hockley County Chief Deputy Gordon Bohannon, who pleaded guilty to his charges.

In all, 26 defendants have pleaded guilty to charges from the 110-count indictment and been sentenced or await sentencing.

400 jobs coming to Texas town

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - A Canadian company is establishing its U.S. headquarters in Wichita Falls, creating about 400 jobs.

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and Industry said Friday that it has finalized an agreement with Ontario-based Natura World, which makes sustainable, earth-friendly mattresses.

The company will acquire a 478,000-square-foot factory and 100 acres of land for its U.S. corporate headquarters, manufacturing facilities and warehouse distribution operations. Natura World President Ralph Rossdeutscher says he chose Wichita Falls because of its work force and central location. Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce President and CEO Tim Chase says providing incentives for Natura World helped attract the global company.

At the White House, press secretary Robert Gibbs said Obama would unveil a "way forward" next week on legislation that has been his foremost domestic priority. Obama, who will first discuss the strategy with Democratic congressional leaders, said at Thursday's bipartisan marathon that he's open to several Republican ideas, including medical malpractice changes.

There were signs of intensified activity on Capitol Hill.

White House Chief of Staff Rahm Emanuel and top adviser David Axelrod discussed health care in an early evening meeting with House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif. And a spokesman for Sen. Tom Coburn, R-Okla., said White House officials have asked the senator to submit details of suggestions he made at Thursday's meeting on rooting out fraud from the medical system.

In addition, a pair of retiring Democrats who opposed the legislation when the House approved it in November appeared willing to reconsider. And some supporters of a House provision strictly banning federal financing for abortion - a complicated sticking point — indicated an openness to different language.

The outcome could affect nearly all Americans, remaking the way they pay for health care, the kinds of care they're likely to receive and where they're likely to get it. Or there could be smaller changes - or none — outcomes the Democrats say will lead to crushing budget problems and tens of millions of people still being left out. Republicans see problems in the health care system, too, but recommend lessfar-reaching prescriptions.

The equation remained the Spokesmen for the House and Senate Republican leaders said Friday their party does not plan a formal response to Obama, having made clear a belief that Democrats should scrap their bills.

The primary problem for Democratic leaders is the House. That chamber approved its bill 220-215 in November. But one of those "yes" votes came from the only Republican who supported the bill, Rep. Joseph Cao of Louisiana, who now says he will oppose the bill. Three other "yes" votes came from Reps. John Murtha, D-Pa., who died this month, Robert Wexler, D-Fla., who has left the House, and Neil Abercrombie, D-Hawaii, who retires this weekend to run for governor of his state.

In fact, Democrats following the legislation say House Democratic support for the legislation has sunk to 200 votes or less in recent weeks, following the stunning GOP victory in last month's special Massachusetts Senate election and the bill's modest showing in polls.

There were even signs of possible flexibility among Democratic foes of federally financed abortion, many of whom have threatened to oppose the health measure if House-approved restrictions are eased.

At least for now, Democrats envision prevailing by getting the House to pass a Senate health bill, and also sending Obama a separate measure making changes in the Senate package. The alterations include deleting a politically toxic provision that would have Washington

About 63 starving longhorns seized

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) - Animal welfare authorities have found at least 50 carcasses of longhorn cattle that had apparently starved in an eastern Texas field.

The SPCA of Texas also seized about 63 malnourished cattle and three donkeys from the field in rural Van Zandt County, about 60 miles east of Dallas.

The animals were taken to a shelter in McKinney pending a custody hearing Tuesday.

SPCA spokeswoman Maura Davis says the animals looked like "walking skeletons." Van Zandt County Sheriff R.P. "Pat" Burnett Jr. says the animals were so hungry they frequently strayed onto neighboring property.

Burnett says an investigation is ongoing and an arrest warrant for the animals' owner has not been issued.

Some of the cattle died in a creek, polluting the source of drinking water for the other animals.

He's made other gifts of $75 million, $63 million and $5 million. Students are inspired by Pickens' gifts, said Ryan Ramseyer, a sophomore from Wichita, Kan., who is majoring in agricultural economics and accounting.

Pickens, who heads the Dallas-based hedge fund BP Capital Management LP, will serve as the fundraising drive's honorary chairman. Ross and Billie McKnight of Throckmorton, Texas, will be the co-chairs of the drive.

Oklahoma State has already raised $437 million in cash and pledges during the so-called "quiet" portion of the latest campaign which started when Hargis became Oklahoma State's president in March 2008 - including Pickens' initial $100 million gift. Hargis said university officials twice delayed announcing the public portion of the campaign because of the economic downturn, but decided to go ahead and do so because we need the money.

Half of the $1 billion to be raised will be desig-

Analysis: Politics and posing trump health policy

An AP News Analysis WASHINGTON (AP)

What happens when you throw 38 lawmakers, four television cameras and the president of the United States together and tell them to fix health care? Sniping. Posing. Serious election-year politics. And little hope of bridging the gap between Barack Obama and Republicans.

Did you expect anything else?

From its conception, Thursday's health care "summit" was destined to be little more than a stage where Democrats and Republicans would recite their lines and further their

Or was it just a lot of talking past each other? Obama dominated the conversation, barely contained his impatience with GOP statements and at times mocked them for trotting out visual effects (thick stacks of Democratic health care legislation) and talking points. Republicans complained about the time disparity and lectured the president about his policies.

It was not a conversation, rarely even a debate. It was a series of madefor-TV speeches by public servants' who treated each other like stage props.

A few snippets: ing at home that he was -Sen. Lamar Alexander, R-Tenn., called Obama's plan a nonstarter. "This is a car that can't be recalled and fixed," he said, "and we ought to start over." As Alexander spoke, Obama's body betrayed his frustration: He pursed his lips. He tapped his pen on a pad. Was that a smirk? He cradled and fidgeted with his chin. "Lamar," Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid said several minutes later, "you're entitled to your opinion but not your own facts." -Senate Republican leader Mitch McConnell noted sternly that Democrats had spoken for 52 minutes and Republicans only 24 in the first portion of the summit. "You're right," Obama replied, "there was an imbalance on the opening statement because I'm the president." Call it home court advantage. -Sen. John McCain, Obama's 2008 presidential rival, criticized him for cutting deals with fellow Democrats in exchange for their votes. "It was produced with unsavory say that with respect dealmaking," McCain said. When a lawmaker says something "with respect," chances are it's not respectful.

"I'm reminded of that every day," quipped Everybody McCain. seemed to get the joke, and laughed — except Obama. "We could spend all day going over our talking points," he said.

He then turned to his secretary of health and human services, Kathleen Sebelius, and asked her a question — shutting down McCain. Score another for the home team.

Such a brass-knuckled tactic could backfire on Democrats. Win and they get called arrogant. Lose and they're labeled arrogant failures.

It's risky business for Republicans, too. Block the bill and they get called obstructionists. Fail to stop Obama and their Democratic rivals have a historic legislative victory to campaign on.

political agendas.

Playing their part, Republicans branded Obama as arrogant and overreaching for refusing to drop a health care plan that a majority of voters don't favor. The GOP hopes to kill it.

Obama tried to cast the Republicans as obstructionists. He hopes to ram his proposal past a GOP filibuster.

Measured on that narrow and cynical scale, the summit was a success. Both team scored political points.

But Americans were led to believe that the goal was finding common ground on getting health insurance to tens of millions of Americans who don't have it and containing skyrocketing costs that threaten the nation's fiscal well-being.

"I'd like to make sure that this discussion is actually a discussion and not just us trading talking points," Obama said at the summit's opening, "I hope that this isn't political theater."

By that scale, everybody failed.

Still, that's an account of this day viewed with the lens up close. From a distance, you might focus on the fact that national leaders spent a long day discussing a crucial issue in front of television cameras, where their words could be parsed and recorded. It could be argued that they were working hard at what we pay them to do.

Obama got the drift. "We're not campaigning anymore," he told McCain.

Using tax-prep software? Trust results but verify

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Doing your taxes can be so grueling that it's tempting to let software do the hard work, and simply accept the final result.

But be aware: Popular products such as TurboTax and H&R Block At Home can produce errors, particularly if customers use a feature that imports stock information from brokerage accounts. Tax professionals say filers should watch for common errors and know how to fix them.

The bottom line - the software is largely effective, but keep in mind Ronald Reagan's Cold War-era advice: Trust but verify.

The stock-related errors can arise because of the way brokerages and financial institutions keep transaction records. Most firms can provide a stock's selling price and the date it was sold, but for a number of reasons, not all firms provide the purchase price.

That can lead to errors when the information is imported into tax software. Some taxpayers say the software has interpreted their empty data as a $0 cost price, leading to calculations that are way off.

The major brokerages and tax-software companies don't dispute the problem exists. But since brokerages aren't currently required to provide cost data, and software simply reflects the information it's given, it's up to filers to make sure the results of the import are accurate.

Brokerages don't always provide a cost basis because maintaining the figure can get tricky. Complications arise when a stock splits, an investor reinvests dividends or the company gets acquired. So some brokerages leave that information blank.

Bob Meighan, a vice president with Intuit Inc.'s TurboTax, said taxpayers shouldn't encounter a problem because TurboTax raises a warning when the cost price, or cost basis, is lacking.

"We tell the customer, you're missing the cost basis. We flag it," Meighan said. "The problem is, some people go through so quickly that they miss it." But some customers say they didn't receive any error messages. Several caught the error on their own, and others found out only after receiving letters from the Internal Revenue Service.

Jeromy Stewart, 35, of Skagit Valley, Wash., knew there was a problem right away when he tried to use TurboTax for his 2008 tax return. He had about $10,000 in stock gains but the software showed a taxable figure closer to $500,000, he said.

"I guess I was kind of naive in thinking, it's proven software, it's obviously going to work," said Stewart, a software developer.

It's possible that other filers have had their tax gains overstated, but by a lesser amount that didn't set off personal alarms. There's no way to know how many people fall into that category.

Financial institutions, including Charles Schwab and Fidelity, said they're not hearing any customer complaints, and remind taxpayers to double-check all information.

Christine Pollak, a vice president with Morgan stanley Smith Barney, said brokerage firms also lack a cost basis if the stocks were purchased elsewhere.

Next year, a new law will require stock brokers and mutual-fund companies to report cost basis and other information to investors and the IRS. The law will apply for most stock purchased in 2011 and all stock purchased in 2012 and thereafter.

In the meantime, taxpayers are still on the hook to make sure their software results are accurate.

Kevin Jeu, a 34-year-old software engineer in Santa Clara, Calif., spotted a number of instances where TurboTax entered a $0 cost basis in 2007 and 2008. He fixed the problem manually and filed, but later got a letter from the IRS saying he still owed another $3,000.

He spent several hours backtracking through his stock purchases and highlighting his relevant transactions. A month later the IRS told him it accepted his explanation.

"I'm guessing the information that TurboTax sent to the IRS still had zeros," Jeu said, adding that he continues to use TurboTax because it can import his returns from previous years. "But I'm not paranoid about it. I figure if there are any glaring errors the IRS will let me know."

This is the first year H&R Block Inc. has included the stock import feature in its consumer software, H&R Block At Home. Company officials are tracking how well the feature works and will disable it temporarily if too many people have problems, company vice president Julie Markey said.

"It doesn't matter to the consumer whether it's the tax software or what was downloaded from the bank, they just want it to be right," she said.

A number of private companies offer software or Web-based products that fill in a missing cost basis by matching pur-chases and sales, and in some cases adjusting for stock splits and other complications.

Randy Rives The Only Republican Conservative Candidate Running for State Board of Education District 15

Please, after reading this document, remember at least one point, I am the only conservative candidate running for the State Board of Education in District 15.

This statement has been made in the last two forums with my opponent present. He has neither denied that the statement is not true, nor has he ever claimed (in my presence) to be a conservative. His voting record on the board reflects that he is not a conservative nor has he voted with the conservatives on critical issues.

I believe in local control and keeping the government as close to the taxpayers as possible. My opponent stood against the conservatives on the SBOE and lobbied the legislature to put another layer of government between the taxpayer and their money. The SBOE was formed in 1854 and was given constitutional authority to take care of the Permanent School Fund. My opponent supported putting this fund under the control of a newly formed legislative controlled counsel. This counsel would add more expense to managing this fund and install a new layer of government between the taxpayer and their money.

I believe in teaching the weaknesses of evolution theory: Instead of consulting with other conservative members of the SBOE, my opponent chose to consult with area ACLU secretary Steve Schafersman, arch-Darwinist Eugenie Scott of Berkeley, California, and TFN's Kathy Miller in a strategy session to promote evolution being taught without the weaknesses language. The weakness language had been in place for 20 years. My opponent stood against the other conservatives and voted to remove this language. After six months of work, the conservatives had to agree to a weaker "all ways" language to get any kind of different opinion in the resolution.

I believe in improving our educational courses and helping our young people improve their skills to compete in the new worldwide market: When the conservatives on the board wanted to improve the standards covered by the English/Language/Arts/Reading curriculum, my opponent once again voted against the conservatives.

Our West Texas Conservative values that work for our Young people are at Risk!!

No mercy for rustler in heart of cattle country

UANAH, Texas (AP) — Born 100 years too late, Roddy Dean Pippin rides a horse down the main drag, doing his best John Wayne.

He still fits the part of the cowboy in this spit of Texas near the Red River, with its church-steepled skyline and landscape of mesquite trees and tumbleweeds. The town of 2,500 is the kind of place where time moves at a stutter step and parts of the Old West never faded away.

Time for a last ride through town, he figures, and one final taste of freedom. Just like in the westerns he grew up watching, there's a jail cell waiting for Roddy.

But instead of a Hollywood ending where the cowboy rides off with the girl, Roddy's life is in legal limbo, as a string of appeals for mercy because of his declining health have been rejected by judges and politicians.

A skinny diabetic raised on Louis L'Amour novels and Tinseltown bravado, Roddy dressed like Roy Rogers at school and was eager to prove to classmates he was just as tough as they were.

Roddy, now 26, took the straight path for a little while, dabbling in college and dreaming of writing westerns like his heroes, but he was too wild.

Inspired by tales of cattle rustlers from decades past, he blazed a trail across dozens of ranches in Oklahoma and Texas, stealing $100,000 in livestock, saddles and "anything that wasn't tied down," recalls District Attorney John Staley Heatly.

His gang of nine nabbed at least 125 head of cattle during an 18-month spree, making it one of the largest rustling operations in the region.

He dubbed himself the "Robin Hood of Rustlers." Truth was, most of his victims in this part of the country where a few cows could be worth a mortgage payment — were far from wealthy.

Roddy picked off cattle in small batches, Heatly says, snatching five or six at a time and netting a few hundred dollars with each crime. By 2004, he was looking for a final, big score: a truck hauling dozens of steers.

Then, he would split the gang up and ride off into the sunset. In his movie-fueled dreams, the rustler gets away. He was barely 20 and could make a new life.

But the law caught up with Roddy in a stretch of west Texas where cattle is king and old ways of punishing rustlers die hard.

"One hundred years ago, he would have been hung in the county square," says rancher Wayne Walker, 56, who lost six cows off his 1,300-acre ranch.

In this part of the country, views of cattle rustlers have changed little since the 1800s. To lawmen and ranchers here, there is no romance, no nostalgia, associated with them.

"The worst thing about it is you feel like you've been violated," says rancher Vicky Lindsey, who also had six cows stolen.

And in rough economic times, cattle thefts are on the rise. In Texas, where Roddy did most of his stealing, the number of livestock reported missing or stolen in 2007 was 2,400. In 2008, it more than doubled to 6,404. The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association estimates similar figures for 2009.

"It's always been a problem," says association spokeswoman Carmen Fenton. "To us, a thief is a thief, and if you steal the animal, we want you to do the time."

Say you run 100 head of cattle — most ranchers here have far fewer — you might have a gross income of $50,000. That's before the bills for diesel fuel, feed and fence repairs.

"There are a lot a people who have a little land who make some money running cattle," explains Heatly, the district attorney. "That's why people around here look at (rustling) as such an egregious offense. It's kind of like going to the bank and draining several different accounts."

For his crimes, Roddy got eight years in prison. Others in his gang, including his uncle, got lighter sentences.

Roddy's supporters say authorities are trying to make an example of him. There is the diabetes, too, which has gone "from bad to horrible," says Roddy's friend, Tighe Merelli. Roddy requires six or more insulin injections a day, and nearly around the clock care. His attorneys have asked that he serve the rest of his time under house arrest, but those appeals have been tossed out.

"My eyesight is starting to go," Roddy says in a recent interview at the Jester 3 Unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice near Richmond, Texas. "I can't feel my feet, my lower extremities.

"My sugar is so high my body is shutting down," he says. "Every day is flirting with death, basically."

Fearing the worst, one wealthy friend of Roddy's, Robert McCausland, offered to pay restitution on what was stolen, but the ranchers flatly rejected the proposal.

"What I offered to pay was the whole shebang," McCausland says. "I think they've gone after Roddy because he was the youngest of the group and he was willing to take the blame."

Indeed, after he was caught, Roddy took authorities up and down miles of endless dirt roads to show them the places where he'd snatch cattle. His friends say that honesty cost him. Roddy says he's remorseful about the rustling days, and just wants to get out of jail in one piece.

"This is the last thing I would want to be famous for," he says. "I'd like to be able to get out of here and still be able to see the stirrup I put my boot in."

Roddy takes his last horse ride through town, then arrives at the front of the county jail to turn himself in.

He undoes his spurs and slides off his chaps. He removes his Resistol 20X hat, his pride and joy, and presents it to his sweetheart Jacie like a jewel. It will serve as a proxy engagement ring for now.

And the cowboy kisses the girl, one last time, just like in the movies.

White House social secretary to step down

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House social secretary Desiree Rogers is stepping down three months after an uninvited couple crashed the Obama administration's first state dinner and she was heavily criticized for her role in allowing the embarrassing episode to happen.

President Barack Obama and first lady Michelle Obama issued a statement Friday thanking their longtime friend from their days together in Chicago for the "terrific job she's done" organizing more than 330 events in little more than a year in the post.

They indicated no reason for the departure, effective

White House press secretary Robert Gibbs said a short time later that Rogers was neither forced out nor asked to leave. He also said he didn't think the dustup over the state dinner factored into her decision.

"She's decided it's time to go back to doing things that she loves," Gibbs said.

Rogers' handling of the Nov. 24 state dinner came under fire after a celebrityseeking northern Virginia couple got into the exclusive South Lawn affair without a formal invitation, despite heavy White House security. As social secretary, Rogers was in charge It was a huge embarrassment for the White House that Tareq and Michaele Salahi got into the dinner uninvited, let alone close enough to top officials to shake hands with Obama in the receiving line and take photos with Vice President Joe Biden, which they posted on Facebook.

Rogers later acknowledged not having staff from her office at security checkpoints to help identify guests, a departure from the practice in previous administrations. Secret Service Director Mark Sullivan told Congress that normal security protocols were not followed.

SeaWorld: Whale show to resume

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) SeaWorld will restart its killer whale shows this weekend after Tilikum, the largest orca in captivity, dragged a trainer to her death in the water at the Orlando park.

SeaWorld Parks and Entertainment President Jim Atchison said Friday trainers won't get in the water with the killer whales for now until officials finish reviewing what happened to veteran trainer Dawn Brancheau, 40.

"We will make improvements and changes and we will move forward, Atchison said as Atchison wouldn't speak to specific protocols or whether any had been violated, saying it's too soon to come to any conclusions. "It's far too early to get to that point," he said. He added, "We are evaluating every policy, every procedure we have." The issue of protocols was raised by the former head of animal training at SeaWorld, Thad Lacinak, who said earlier Friday that the rules in place when he left the park in 2008 would not have allowed Brancheau to lie down on a submerged shelf next to the whale, where the animal was able to grab her ponytail.

"She laid completely down, which is a very vulnerable position to be in with an animal like Tilikum. And apparently her ponytail drifted into the water, he just opened his mouth, sucked it in and pulled her in the water," Lacinak, who left SeaWorld in 2008 after a long career to start a consultancy, told The Associated Press

"It was a novel item in the water, and he grabbed hold of it, not necessarily in an aggressive way," he said.

Lacinak said he'd been told how the attack happened by other trainers who were at the scene. Based on their description, he said the rules for handling Tilikum that were in place during his tenure had either been broken or changed.

Harvesters slide past Tulia and San Jacinto Pats

BY ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters picked up two more wins in the Cavalier Classic Friday improving their record to 4-0.

Head Coach Kaleb Snelgrooes said his team showed a lot of character winning two hard fought games today.

"I'm glad we are doing this stuff now because it will do nothing but build character," Snelgrooes said. "Like I've said, we have a young team and this is building character. It's going to pay off when district comes around playing in games like this."

The Harvesters beat the Tulia Hornets in the first game 2-1. Garrett Ericson was the starting pitcher for Pampa and made it through the first two innings with only one hit and one walked allowed. Ericson struck out four in the first two innings. The Harvesters weren't able to do much either in their first two innings. Pampa got two base runners in the first inning but couldn't bring them around. All three batters struck out in the second.

The Hornets would get on the scoreboard in the third. After Ericson struck out the first batter for his fifth strikeout, The next batter singled. Ericson hit the next batter and then gave up an RBI double which gave Tulia a 1-0 lead. The next two batters popped out to end the inning.

In the bottom of the third, all three Harvesters struck out again. Ericson only allowed a single in the top of the fourth and kept the score at 1-0. Mitchell Killgo led off the fourth with a pop win of the season. In six innings, Ericson allowed one run on four hits, walked three, hit one batter and struck out seven. Snelgrooes was pleased with both Collin Killgo and Ericson's performance. "I just told the guys, in game like this you just got to hang around, hang around," Smelgrooes said. "Someone is going to clutch up. It happened to be Collin Killgo...He (Ericson) pitched good enough to win and I'm glad we were able to get it for him."

Hunt went two for three in hitting in the game and scored both runs for Pampa. Collin Killgo was one for three with a single and one RBI. Green was one for two with one run batted in.

In the second game the Harvesters beat San Jacinto 13-6 in four and two thirds innings. The game was called in the middle of the bottom of the fourth due to lack of daylight. Pampa found themselves in an early hole when this game started.

After escaping the first without allowing runs, the Patriots got on the board in the top of the second. Their lead-off batter got on because of a throwing error by the third baseman and advanced to second. The next batter singled and after a strikeout the shortstop made a throwing error which allowed the first run. After getting a second strikeout, Reid Bradley couldn't come up with the ball allowing two more runs to score. Pampa trailed 3-0 going into the bottom of the second.

The Harvesters responded immediately in their half of the second. Pampa sent 10 batters to the plate scoring six runs on four hits, one walk and two hit batters. Hunt led off the inning with a strikeout. Collin Killgo walked on four pitches After Green flied out, Tyler Malone walked and Zach Murray was hit by a pitch. Cole Engle got his first two runs batted in with a single. Engle would finish the game with five runs batted in. Snelgrooes was impressed with Engle's hitting and how he's handled out to third. Braden Hunt got some offense going hitting a double to left. After Collin Killgo struck out, Brent Green singled scoring Hunt to tie the game at one. Green reached second on a passed ball but was stranded there as the inning ended.

Both starting pitchers pitched a scoreless fifth inning. Pampa allowed one runner to reach base on an error and Ericson walked one. The Harvesters went down in order in the bottom of the fifth. In the top of the sixth, Ericson only allowed a walk, got a popout and groundout.

The Harvesters entered the sixth inning with the situation of win the game or it ends tied due to time constraints. Anthony Allen led off with a groundout and Mitchell Killgo followed with a pop out Hunt singled and stole second while Collin Killgo was batting. Killgo got a single to right and Hunt ran home to win the game for Pampa. Ericson pitched all six innings and earned his first playing on varsity. "We told him the other day you're going to be on varsity but you need to ask me everyday what position you're going to be playing," Snelgrooes said. "This tournament so far he's played short, third, caught, pitched and some outfield, DHed, he's done it all. He had five or six RBIs, He's not bad for a sophomore."

Doug Smith drove in Murray with a double and advanced Engle to third, to tie the game at three. Allen drove in two with a single to put Pampa ahead 5-3. Mitchell Killgo doubled and drove in Allen. Hunt reached base after being hit but was picked off to end the inning. The Patriots responded in the third. The first batter singled and advanced to third on a passed ball and wild pitch. The next batter grounded out but the run scored cutting Pampa's lead to two. Green was pulled in the middle of the second batters at bat and left the game for good. Engle came in from third to pitch, Malone moved from centerfield to third, Mitch Simon moved to right and Mitchell Killgo moved to center. Engle got his first full batter to pop out After that Engle would walk the next two batters and hit another by a pitch to load the bases. Snelgrooes moved Engle back to third and put Malone in to pitch. Malone would walk the next two batters allowing two runs to score to tie the game at 6. The inning would end with the ninth Patriot batter striking out. Pampa responded quickly after giving up the lead. Collin Killgo and Simon led of the third with singles. Malone singled to load the bases and Engle got two more RBIs and gave Pampa the lead at 8-6 which would be the score after three. Malone only allowed one hit in the fourth keeping the Patriots off the scoreboard. The Harvesters ran away with the game in the fourth inning. Allen led off with a double, Mitchell Killgo struck out. But a throwing error by the catcher allowed Killgo to reach base on a dropped strikeout and Allen scored to make it 9-6. Hunt delivered a crushing blow for San Jacinto with a two-run home run over the left field wall that made it 11-6. The home run was the first of the season for Pampa. Snelgrooes was pleased that Hunt was the one to do it.

"The other day in practice I hit a home run and I said I'm the only one who's hit a home run around here," Snelgrooes said. "I kind of challenged them. Braden stepped up and I couldn't be tickled for a senior and one of the leaders on this team to the first one."

Pampa would score two more runs before the game was called. Malone picked up his second win of the season, pitching in one and a third innings, allowing two runs (unearned) on one hit, walked two and struck out three. Green pitched the first two innings and to one batter in the third before he was pulled. Engle pitched in two thirds of an inning allowing two walks and hitting one batter.

Both Engle and Allen were a perfect three for three in hitting. Allen hit two doubles, one single, drove in two and scored two runs. Engle hit three singles, drove in five and scored one run. Simon was two for two with two singles and scored two runs. Murray and Collin Killgo were both one for two and each scored two runs.

The Harvesters (4-0) play 12 p.m. Saturday and if they win they will play in the championship at 3 p.m.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, March 1, 2010:

This year, you are ending one cycle and entering a new luck cycle. You often look at what is ahead and want to follow a nontraditional route. A partner could be overly serious, and you often feel that he or she rains on your parade. Joint finances are a key interest, and a profitable one at that. You might be making a major investment. Don't stretch yourself too far. If you're single, you might be ambivalent about many of your suitors. Trust that you will know when the right person comes down the alley. If you are attached, the two of you often forget how much fun you used to have. Re-create your first date! Learn to lighten up more. VIRGO can be quite challenging.

Food Service

We're an industry leader. You're an excellent manager.

Let's get cooking!

Add your skills and experience to the vast resources of Canteen Correctional, and you've got an exciting career. We are a division of Compass Group, the leading food-management company in North America. Offering real career-advancement potential and rewards, our team is seeking:

KITCHEN MANAGERS North Fork Correctional Facility Sayre, OK

You will oversee the daily functions of the food service department. At least 1 year of food service or restaurant experience is helpful, but we will train the right person. To qualify, you must pass a drug test / background check. A background in food service, and inmate-supervisory and institutional-style cooking experience are definite pluses. Entry level positions also available.

We offer excellent pay and a great benefits package. To apply, give us a call or stop by on person. Ask for John or Holly, 1605 E. Main St., Sayre, OK. Ph: 580-928-4258 or 813-956-3212.

for Gray County Commissioner Pct.4

I am Mark Simmons, 53 years old and a lifelong resident of Gray County. I grew up involved in farm-ing, ranching, the auto and trucking businesses with my parents, Ted and Sue Simmons. I gained insight concerning the Commissioner's responsibilities from my dad who served as Pct.4 Commissioner prior to Mr.Hefley. I graduated from McLean High School in 1974 and married my high school sweetheart, Becky. We have been married 36 years and have two precious daughters. We have a family business raising horses and cattle south of Alanreed and I am currently employed by Frank Phillips College in Borger, TX. I am a pilot (airplane & helicopter). Many in the Panhandle and here in Gray County know that Becky and I have always tried to assist and help our fellow neighbors. From soliciting, distributing and donating aid after the Wild Fires of 2006, helping many young people achieve their goals for higher education to helping assist with the smallest of things needed.

 12 years at Frank Phillips College as head of the Warren Chisum Welding & Safety Center

-Instrumental in the design, fund appropriation, construction management, & completion of 3.2 million dollar facility. -Work with legislatures involving state & federal appropriations & mandates to expand resources in these challenging economic times. -Developed welding program from 6 students to 150 students -Developed program to produce all graduates ready to enter as many fields as possible: Oil, Gas, Nuclear, Wind, and Power

 5 years employed for Gray County. on roads and bridges. I have operated all of the heavy equipment required to maintain the 181 miles of roads and bridges in Pct.4

-5 years firsthand dragging roads, repairing bridges, and experiencing the daily operations -I have a Commercial License with doubles, triples, & tanker endorsement.

-Competent mechanic;

maintained, repaired and over

hauled heavy equipment 18 years employed in the Oil & Gas Industry, Nuclear Energy Field, Chemical Industry

> -14 years in supervision, management and engineering -Certified Welding Inspector - Worked with Roberts County property owners regarding water issues

My 35 years in industry, education, and management experiences have afforded me the opportunity to maintain solid working relationships with state legislatures and to stay current on wind and power technologies, oil & gas industries, water and natural resources and wildlife conservation.

Dedicated

Communication

I will have an open door policy. We must have im-proved communication between people, our Commis-sioners, the other Gray County Officials, and State Legislatures to better serve you. We must stay informed and involved at the local, county, state and federal levels to ensure responsible representation on oil, gas and wind developement, farming and ranching, endangered species enact-ments and water and wildlife conservation.

Services

I believe the Commissioners office is a full time em-ployee of the people and should be accessible to all residents of the county. Precinct 4 has 181 miles of roads around McLean and Alanreed which must be maintained, oversight of the day to day operations, and with the current. of the day to day operations, and with the current and future budget constraints it makes practical and economical sense to have the commissioner be from McLean/Alanreed and have firsthand experience in the Precinct 4 operations of the roads and bridges. Budget I believe in a balanced budget with accountability promoting conservative fiscal policies conducive to economical growth. The fiscal difficulties facing Gray County require replacing complexency with creative.

County require replacing complacency with creative, innovative and belt-tightening methods. (Gray County suffered $400,000 decrease in revenue the past 2 years & further losses from the King Trial - $750,000 - which is 10% of annual budget.)

I believe that we must have our local house in order before we can expect higher government to comply. One of the flercest enemies knocking at our door at all levels is complacency. We have too much at risk not to act now and change the course we are now on. If you are ready to have your voice heard and want to be fully represented with resourceful, innovative and common-sense solutions, I am here to serve you. I am dedicated enough to serve you. I am concerned enough to listen to you. Contact me if you have any questions or concerns.

P.O. Box 10, Alanreed, TX 79002 (806) 681-6440 markqsimmons@hotmail.com

If you are concerned about your county, (Property Rights - Taxes - Appraisal Rates - County Services - Legislative & Federal Mandates - Eminent Domain - Power Line Right of Way)

I understand the issues, have the experience and I am the most qualified to represent you as Gray County Commissioner Pct.4. I am asking for Your Vote.

Know your candidate. Know the issues. Vote for the best representation.

As the end of this election draws to an end, I want to Thank All who listened and expressed support for my cause. I felt so strongly about this election that I ran knowing some people would disagree with my efforts. March 2nd the citizens of Gray County will have a choice in the Republican Primary for Gray County Judge. Tired of business as usual? You vote is your voice. Do it for your kids and grandchildren!

Help Me Help You

• I am a Licensed Attorney in Texas, and I want to help make Gray County a better place to live.

• I worked 20 years for a CPA, and I understand the importance of money, spending and budgets.

• The current Judge lets an elite few run Gray County.

• The current Gray County Judge is not a lawyer, and he cannot hear contested estate cases. Government teachers cannot take the Texas Bar Exam.

• Revenues are down $300,000 but Gray County spending continues to increase.

· Gray County property appraisals went up $300 million the last 10 years to cover spending increases. If you cannot sell your house for appraised value, then your taxes are too high.

· Gray County raised taxes because the Levi King murder trial cost over $1 million dollars. The Gray County Judge approved all the funds requested by the District Attorney.

- I will hire a cost analysis expert to cut the budget.
- Tired of the "Good Old Boys" making decisions that cost you?
