HELPING HANDS

GrayCares here to help elderly in community

editor@thepampanews.com

There's a new organization extending a helping hand to those who need it in Gray County. GrayCares Living at Home, Inc., a fledgling non-profit group based in Pampa, is now offering its services to the local senior set.

What services, exactly? Well, just about anything, really.

"What we do is that we provide non-medical independent living services including local transportation free of charge to anyone 65 years of age and older," said Donna Brauchi, GrayCares Director. "We're basically here to help the older people in the community be able to live independently."

"Our community has lots of older people who want to stay in their own homes and don't want to move into an institutionalized facility just yet," continued Brauchi. "Many of them don't have family members here, and if someone could help them with little things around the home, they could stay independent much longer. Our vision is that we have volunteers in this community that could help people do that."

According to Brauchi, GrayCares, which has been active in the community since February, offers assistance to the elderly in a variety of household tasks, from minor home repairs and maintenance to telephone reassurance calls and visitations. Funded strictly through grants and donations, GrayCares dispatches volunteers who help clients with things such as doing yardwork, trimming bushes, cleaning gutters and taking out the trash. GrayCares also provides transportation to several area locations, including doctor's offices, grocery stores, beauty shops and banks.

There are no income guidelines to receive assistance from GrayCares; anyone within the 65-and-over age group is eligible.

"Pretty much anything that we could be helpful with, we'll do it," said Brauchi with a smile. "We'll do anything that we have a volunteer readily available to help do."

GrayCares has also partnered with other Pampa agencies and organizations to undertake special ventures around the community when made possible by funding. Two weeks ago, GrayCares and Accolade Home Care worked together on Operation Ramp, a weeklong project that installed a wheelchair access ramp at the home of Wendell and Helen Akins.

"(Accolade) had the funding and we had people who could do the work," said Brauchi.

The Graycares blueprint is actually based in part off of a similar program in Borger that Steve Cox, Graycares board member and pastor at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, saw as making a great benefit within the community.

"I was at a meeting in Borger about three years ago, and they had an organization named HutchCares," said Cox. "They were devoted to helping the elderly in that community, and I thought that that's something that would be great to bring to Pampa."

"We started really looking at (HutchCares) and considering how we might get that to work here," added Brauchi. "(The founding board) spoke a lot with HutchCares in Borger to see how they got started and they thought that we could do that here in Pampa. We've taken parts of what's worked with their program and tried to make it ours."

Brauchi said that GrayCares model is based on improving the quality of life in any way possible for Pampa's older population.

"We just have a real passion for helping our older generation be able to enjoy life as best they can. Research shows that, for people who are able to stay in their own

Covalt, four others agree to plea deals

dbowser@thepampanews.com

A Pampa man was sentenced to 10 years in prison today after pleading guilty to manufacturing a controlled substance in a drug free zone, theft and tampering with evidence.

Marc Stuart Covalt, 29, pleaded guilty today in Judge Lee Waters' 223rd District Court to a 2004 charge of manufacturing a controlled substance, a 2007 charge of theft and a January, 2010, charge of tampering with evidence charges and was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections and ordered to pay a $5,000 fine and restitution.

In an unrelated case, Antonio Alfero, 44, of Albuquerque, was given a probated sentence of seven years and ordered to pay a $3,750 fine and perform 240 hours of community service on charges of possession of marijuana.

In a separate case, Brian Lee Williams, 40, of Perryton, was given two years probation, ordered to pay $1,500 and perform community service in connection with charges he faced of possession of less than once ounce of cocaine.

In an unrelated case, Juan Angiano Jr., 31, pleaded guilty in 223rd District Court to violation of probation on aggravated assault charges and sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Audit: Food stamp system needs fixing

AUSTIN (AP) — A new state auditor's report says the food stamp program in Texas is inefficient and outdated and suffers from a growing number of inaccuracies.

The State Auditor's Office said inexperienced staff and inefficient office setups mean the program run by the Health and Human Services Commission has not been able to keep up with the increased number of applications spurred by the recession.

The auditor says 80 percent of food stamp applications are still kept as paper files. Applicants are often forced to wait in long lines for answers to basic questions and can't get answers over the phone or Internet.

Obama signs, finalizes laws on healthcare, student loans

PHILLIP ELLIOTT
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Finalizing two major pieces of his agenda, President Barack Obama on Tuesday sealed his health care overhaul and made the government the primary lender to students by cutting banks out of the process.

Both domestic priorities came in one bill, pushed through by Democrats in the House and Senate and signed into law by a beaming president.

The new law makes a series of changes to the massive health insurance reform bill that he signed into law with even greater fanfare last week. Those fixes included removing some special deals that had angered the public and providing more money for poorer and middle-income individuals and families to help them buy health insurance.

But during an appearance at a community college in suburban Virginia, he emphasized the overshadowed part of the bill: education.

In this final piece of health reform, Democrats added in a restructuring of the way the government handles loans affecting millions of students.

The law strips banks of their role as middlemen in federal student loans and puts the government in charge. The president said that change would save more than $60 billion over the next 10 years, which in turn would be used to boost Pell Grants for students and reinvest in community colleges.

"I didn't stand with the banks and the financial industries in this fight — that's not why I came to Washington — and neither did any of the members of Congress who are here today," Obama said to a supportive crowd at Northern Virginia Community College. "We stood with you. We stood with America's students."

Private lenders still will make student loans that are not backed by the government, and they still will have contracts to service some federal loans. But the change reflected in the new law represents a significant loss in what has been a $70 billion business for the banking industry.

Among many other features, the new law is expected to make it easier for some college graduates to repay loans.

homes, that's where they're happiest. That's where their memories are. That's where they thrive if they can continue doing that for as long as possible.

"If we can just help any little way to do that, we will. Most of our volunteers have had family members, friends or neighbors that have needed that kind of help, so we understand what it can mean to people to know that someone is out there to help them with the little things."

"It's not a big investment of time on our volunteers' part, but it's a very rewarding thing."

Many of GrayCares' volunteers echoed Brauchi's sentiments.

"It's a nice local outreach," said John Bilyeu, one of the volunteers who participated in Operation Ramp. "I've been on mission trips to south Texas and Mexico, and I've always thought that there's probably a mission in Pampa that we could do."

"It's just helping other folks that need help. It's doing something that you've got a skill for to help your fellow man. It feels good to give back to the community. It's got its own rewards."

"It's just like a 'good guys' club for people like us," agreed Erik Schindler, another Operation Ramp volunteer. "It's all about helping each other. One of these days, I'm going to be there needing help, too. I think that if more people stepped up to help their neighbors, the world would be a better place."

Currently, GrayCares has an active roster of 70 volunteers ready to help make a difference if needed. The fact that so many people have signed on in such a short amount of time, Brauchi said, is a real testament to the people of Pampa.

"To have been operating now for only a few months, to have so many volunteers ready to serve the community, it says a lot about what kind of place this is," she said. "That tells you something about this town. It's a place where people come together to look out for each other, and that's great."

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I had fun coming up with cars that fit with certain professions (Jan. 23). It made a long car ride seem short. Here's what we came up with: The Greek epic poet Homer would have a Honda Odyssey, and a firefighter a Chevy Blazer. An entomologist would crawl through traffic in his Mitsubishi Spyder. A meteorologist would drive a Honda Element, an astronomer would have a Mitsubishi Eclipse and an optician a Ford Focus. Picasso would paint the town in his Nissan Cube, an ornithologist would use a Ford Falcon and his lawyer would drive a Honda Civic. -- MEGAN T., RIDING THE HIGHWAYS IN BELVIDERE, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: Stretching my imagination, I envisioned Jacques Cousteau with his Plymouth Barracuda, King Arthur in an Excalibur Phaeton and "Mini-Me" in a Mini Cooper. ### Herd Quitter Meeting With Chip Hines

Pharo Cattle Company of Cheyenne Wells, Colorado will be presenting a Herd Quitter meeting in Pampa, TX April 1, 2010.

Farmers and ranchers in North America are more productive than ever before, but it is not showing up on their bottom line. Profit is not the only thing that is deteriorating. The land we are using is also deteriorating (losing organic matter and fertility). High-production agriculture is NOT sustainable -- but very few are willing to address this issue.

The term "herd quitter" refers to people who have enough courage to break away from the status-quo, herd-mentality way of thinking. Following the crowd and doing what everyone else is doing is seldom the best way to manage a business. If you do what everyone else is doing, you will never have a competitive advantage. Without a competitive advantage, it is nearly impossible to compete.

Chip will challenge ranchers to think outside the box (paradigm) they have put themselves in. He will give ranchers some time-tested, no-nonsense information that they can readily and easily put to use. He will show ranchers how to put more profit and enjoyment into their business. In so doing, Chip will be helping ranchers make their business more sustainable.

There are many who think they can't cut costs any more than they have already. Chip will introduce the concept of reducing inputs and cutting costs by using genetics and free management techniques. What could be more cost effective? The cattle industry is facing an ever-increasing level of expenses that must be addressed.

The present high input system concentrates on gross profit, instead of net profit. A high gross profit is eaten up by the added costs of inputs used to attain the high animal performance that is generally considered necessary for a profitable operation. This can only be changed by understanding the opposing forces in play with this method.

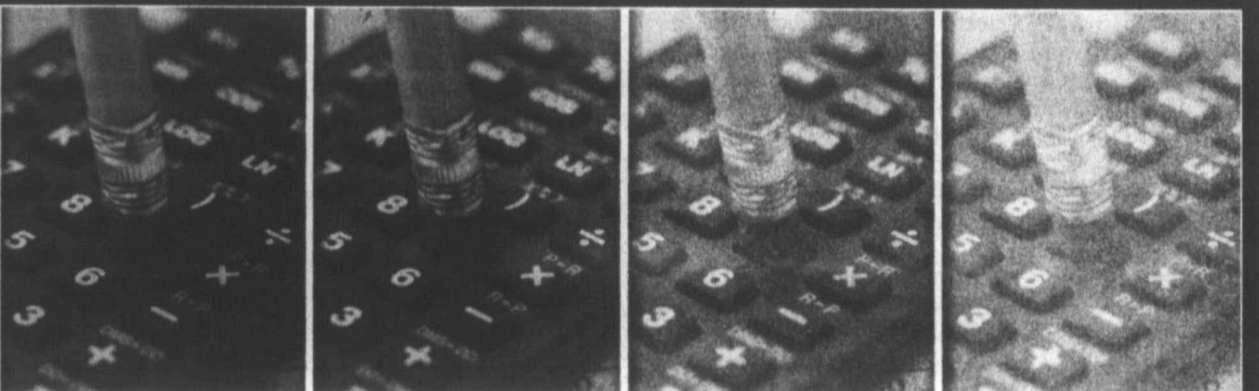

Management and genetics must be coupled with proper grazing methods to bring back the fertility in our soil that was degraded by continuous grazing for the last 125 years. Long term improvement cannot be sustained without changes in grazing management to bring back natural soil fertility.

Chip Hines is author of the book, TIME TO CHANGE, which incorporates grazing, genetics and management into a complementary method for increased profit. This book explains that the natural world of cattle and grazing must be understood before proper management techniques can be implemented. TIME TO CHANGE also describes how the industry drifted into un-profitability and the changes needed to bring back profit and sustainability.

Make plans to join Chip and the other herd quitters for some lively outside-the-box discussion. This meeting is free and open to the public. Feel free to invite your friends and neighbors. The meeting will last two hours. For additional information call Chip at 970-630-6982 or email chines@netcommander.com.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, March 30, the 89th day of 2010. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 30, 1867, U.S. Secretary of State William H. Seward reached agreement with Russia to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7.2 million, a deal roundly ridiculed as "Seward's Folly."

On this date:

In 1822, Florida became a United States territory.
In 1842, Dr. Crawford W. Long of Jefferson, Ga., first used ether as an anesthetic during a minor operation.

In 1909, the Queensboro Bridge, linking the New York City boroughs of Manhattan and Queens, opened.

In 1945, the Soviet Union invaded Austria during World War II.

In 1964, John Glenn withdrew from the Ohio race for the U.S. Senate because of injuries suffered in a fall.

In 1970, the musical "Applause," based on the movie "All About Eve," opened on Broadway.

In 1979, Airey Neave, a leading member of the British parliament, was killed in London by a bomb planted in his car by the Irish National Liberation Army.

In 1981, President Ronald Reagan was shot and seriously injured outside a Washington, D.C., hotel by John W. Hinckley Jr.

In 2002, Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth died in her sleep at Royal Lodge, Windsor, outside London; she was 101 years old.

Ten years ago: In the midst of the 2000 presidential campaign, Vice President Al Gore broke with the Clinton administration, saying he supported legislation to allow 6-year-old Elian Gonzalez to remain in the country while the courts resolved his custody case.

Five years ago: Under heavy protection, first lady Laura Bush visited the capital of Afghanistan, where she talked with Afghan women freed from Taliban repression and urged greater rights. The Supreme Court ruled that federal law allowed people 40 and over to file age bias claims over salary and hiring even if employers never intended any harm.

One year ago: President Barack Obama asserted unprecedented government control over the auto industry, rejecting turnaround plans from General Motors and Chrysler and raising the prospect of controlled bankruptcy for either ailing auto giant.

Today's Birthdays: Game show host Peter Marshall is 84. Actor Richard Dysart is 81. Actor John Astin is 80. Actor-director Warren Beatty is 73. Rock musician Graeme Edge (The Moody Blues) is 69. ## Ryan, not Rove, should have GOP's ear

DEROY MURDOCK
CaglePost.com

There is little silver lining in the pitch-black funnel cloud that is ObamaCare, now the law of the land. For the American Right, this grim occasion offers an opportunity to praise a rising star and excoriate another so-called Republican who deserves significant blame for this severe blow to limited government.

Paul Ryan, take a bow. Karl Rove, go eat a cactus.

Throughout the seemingly ceaseless healthcare debate, GOP Rep. Paul Ryan of Wisconsin displayed quick wit, clarity of expression, and commitment to limited government — the precise characteristics that escaped so many Republican leaders during the Bush-Rove-Hastert-Frist years of "Compassionate Conservatism."

Ryan, 40, is chief Republican on the House Budget Committee, where he highlighted ObamaCare's pitfalls. He did so most dramatically by confronting President Barack Obama at the Feb. 25 bipartisan summit at Blair House. Chiding ObamaCare's Enron accounting, Ryan said, "Hiding spending does not reduce spending. And so, when you take a look at all of this, it just doesn't add up."

Ryan may have been the

youngest policymaker at the table and surely was its most youthful — not bad in a party stereotyped as the home of wizened, bald men. Nonetheless, Ryan spoke his free-market truth to Obama's socialist power. Ryan emerged as a well-spoken brainiac who pierced the Democrats' illusion that Uncle Sam magically can buy 30 million people health insurance at a $2.5 trillion, 10-year operating cost while simultaneously slashing the federal deficit.

As ObamaCare faces vigorous challenges in the courts and a rendezvous with enraged voters on Election Day, Ryan has yet more to offer. Among many prescriptions, Ryan's Roadmap for America's Future wisely would introduce a five-year spending freeze, 10-percent and 25-percent income tax rates, and voucherize much of Medicare and Medicaid. Save for his unfortunate vote for the federal bank bailout in fall 2008, this ascendant figure in American public life should inspire conservatives and free-marketters to ask in moments of crisis: "What would Paul Ryan do?"

Conversely, on such occasions, Rightists should ask, "What would Karl Rove do?" — And then dash the other way.

Rove, 59, is on Fox News so often, he must live there. He occupies priceless column inches in every Thursday Wall Street Journal. His spherical face mars the cover of his recently published door-stopper. His advice is as ubiquitous as dust.

Yet a genuine mystery endures: Why does anyone listen to a syllable this man utters?

"The architect," as George W. Bush called him, designed a skyscraper that supposedly would house, in Rove's words, a "durable governing majority." But, like earthquake victims crawling from the wreckage of Rove's "architecture," free-marketters were wounded by fleeting GOP control of Congress and the executive branch. Republicans now do not govern while in the minority.

Rove whispered in Bush's ear that if only Republicans impersonated Democrats, salvation would follow. While applauding tax cuts, Rightists otherwise derided steel tariffs, farm bailouts, highway boondoggles, the Medicare drug entitlement, No Child Left Behind, and no pork left behind: As Citizens Against Government Waste reports, earmarks exploded from 4,326 under President Clinton in 2000 to 13,997 under Bush in 2005.

Average, inflation-adjusted annual spending, according to the Cato Institute's Chris Edwards, more than tripled, from 1.5 percent under Clinton to 4.9 percent under Bush. Even subtracting the War on Terror, homeland security, defense spending, and Katrina recovery, spending growth still averaged 4.2 percent annually, well ahead of that period's 2.8 percent average inflation rate.

The GOP's reputation for fiscal discipline was crushed beneath the porcine weight of Rove's "Compassion." Voters, fired the GOP Congress in 2006, which ushered in Obama's victory in 2008; and the Left's triumphant achievement of government medicine in 2010.

Thanks, Karl. Heeding Rove's counsel is like taking sailing lessons from the captain of the Titanic. Rove should mimic his old boss' merciful example and return to Texas for a life of quiet, obscure solitude.

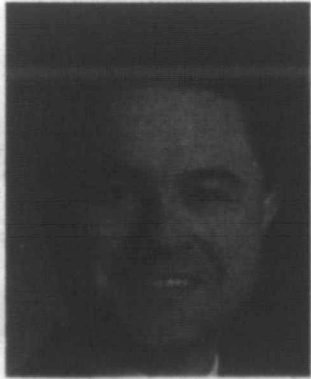

The Right should lift Ryan on its shoulders and kick Karl to the curb.

New H-2A changes could cause difficulties

TODD STAPLES
Commissioner, Texas Dept. of Agriculture

Texas farmers and ranchers do a wonderful job of producing a safe, affordable, abundant food supply, and their operations provide thousands of jobs for our economy.

Producers often require dependable, willing employees to assist them on a temporary or seasonal basis, and those employees are usually hired under the H-2A visa program, which allows non-U.S. residents to temporarily legally work in the U.S. Unfortunately, a new Department of Labor rule that went into effect March 15 — just weeks before the new growing season starts — makes it tougher for farmers to hire foreign workers. The new H-2A changes increase worker wages by an average of more than $1 per hour, which the Farm Bureau Federation estimates will cost some employers as much as an additional $1 million per year while increasing red tape and decreasing flexibility and participation in the H-2A program.

The new changes reverse revisions made by the Bush administration to make the program more user-friendly. The changes also require farmers to make a greater effort to recruit U.S. workers before resorting to hiring outside labor. The problem is, the large number of unemployed today reside in urban areas, not where production agriculture occurs.

There are relatively few U.S. workers available to do seasonal agricultural work, and non-U.S. residents who have permission to work in the U.S. will have more difficulty getting temporary employment.

To learn more about the new rules impacting the hiring of H-2A workers, visit the Texas Workforce Commission.

Harvesters road woes continue, fall to Demons

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters road woes continue, as they lost 11-1 to the Dumas Demons Monday in Dumas.

Head Coach Kaleb Snelgrooves said they fell behind from the first inning.

"They (Dumas) scored five runs in the bottom of the first on three or four errors," Snelgrooves said. "We committed eight errors in the game. You are not going to beat anybody committing eight errors."

The Harvesters (6-11, 1-2) are 1-10 on the road and have lost their last nine away from home. Braden Hunt (1-5) was the starting pitcher and was charged with the loss. Anthony Allen was the leading hitter with two hits. Mitch Simon, Tyler Malone, Cole Engle, and Hunt each had one hit.

Pampa hosts Hereford 5 p.m. today and Snelgrooves said he hopes playing at home is what they need to win.

"We're playing at home and we got Garrett Ericson on the mound," Snelgrooves said. "I feel good about our chances. This isn't a must win game but we need it."

Ericson is 2-2 this season and 2-0 at Harvester Field. Pampa is 5-1 this season at Harvester Field.

Lady Bears advance to 2010 Final Four

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Baylor's Jordan Madden missed a layup and her teammates Kimetria Hayden and Shanay Washington couldn't reel the rebound in.

Down by five points with 2:42 left, coach Kim Mulkey could see the Lady Bears' chances at the Final Four slipping away. She gave the freshmen a piece of her mind, hoping they would remember their mistake for seasons to come.

"You remember that offensive rebound because it might've just costs you the game. You're freshmen. You better never forget it," she told them. "Dang if (Hayden) doesn't come back and make the play of the game under the basket pressing."

"It's what you get with freshmen. You get the good and you get the bad."

Mulkey also gets a chance to see her second Final Four thanks to her freshmen.

Phenom Brittney Griner caught a pass, spun around and hit a short jumper with 45 seconds left to propel fourth-seeded Baylor to a 51-48 win over No. 2 seed Duke on Monday night for its second trip ever to the Final Four.

"It's almost surreal how we won that game," Mulkey said.

The Lady Bears will face either overall No. 1 seed Connecticut, who is as experienced as Baylor is young, or Florida State. Mulkey led the Lady Bears to the national championship in 2005 in their only other appearance in Final Four.

Lady Harvesters devastate Dumas, tied for second

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Lady Harvesters softball team had plenty of offense as they beat the Dumas Demonettes 20-0, with the ten-run rule being invoked after five innings.

Head Coach Bobbi Gill said it was nice to get a good offensive performance.

"The girls played well and didn't let down," Gill said. "We've just got to gear up and finish today (against Hereford)."

The Lady Harvesters tattooed Dumas with 15 hits and put runs on the board from the get-go. Pampa scored four runs in the first, five in the second, and two in the third to lead 11-0 after three. The Lady Harvesters were held scoreless in the fourth, but scored nine runs in the fifth.

Shelbie Watson and Madi Shults hit doubles. Also, Watson tripled. Carlyn Teichmann and Ashley Facio hit their third and fourth home runs respectively.

Teichmann (7-5-1) was the starting pitcher and held the Demonettes to just one hit and struck out 11. The victory, moves the Lady Harvesters (13-9-1, 3-1) into a tie for second with the Canyon Lady Eagles (17-7-1, 3-1). Canyon lost 4-2 to Randall (13-9, 5-0) Monday. Pampa visits Hereford (7-15-1, 1-3) at 5 p.m. today and will host Canyon 5 p.m. Friday.

JV baseball's rally comes up short against Caprock

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters junior varsity baseball team rallied, but came up short in a 5-4 loss to the Caprock Longhorns Monday at Harvester Field.

Coach Dustin Miller said it was a ton of little things that led to the loss.

"Jordan hit a ball to the gap and is standing on third with no outs," Miller said. "We had foul ball that missed by six inches that would have scored the tying run. Like I told them it's JV. The deal with JV is to learn and be ready for varsity."

In the first inning, Caprock reached base by getting hit by a pitch with one out. That runner stole second and advanced to third on a groundout. The inning would end with a fly out to left, stranding the runner at third base.

With one out in the bottom of the first, Zach Graves doubled to center, just missing a home run. Devin Coleman singled with two outs and drove in Graves to put Pampa ahead 1-0. Tyler Powell followed with a double and scored Coleman to make it 2-0. The inning would end with a groundout to second.

The Longhorns cut into the lead in the top of the second. With one out, Caprock hit a single and stole second after that. The runner reached third when Pampa's pitcher, James Thompson threw past the second baseman. The Longhorns scored on a sacrifice fly to cut the lead to 2-1. The Harvesters got two base hits in the bottom of the second, but didn't score as Graves flied out to center to end the inning. Pampa hit two singles with two outs in the second.

Caprock tied the game in the top of the third. After Thompson got the first two batters to ground out and pop out in four pitches, the Longhorns hit a single. Caprock then stole second and third and scored on a single to tie the game at two. Pampa only reached base when Jordan Lemons was hit by a pitch. The next three batters were retired. Miller said Caprock didn't hesitate to steal.

"Any single seemed to turn into a double real quick," Miller said. "They were stealing us blind. That's something we got to work on."

Neither team scored in the fourth inning. Caprock reached base with a hit batsman and on a fielder's choice. Pampa only reached base on a throwing error by the third baseman. Both teams stranded runners at second when the inning ended.

The Longhorns took the lead in the top of the fifth. They led off with a triple to center. The next batter hit a sacrifice fly that gave Caprock a 3-2 lead. The Longhorns moved a runner to third with two outs in the inning, but that's where he would stay as Caprock led 3-2. Graves led off with a single but was thrown out on a fielder's choice. The Harvesters were unable to cut into the deficit.

Caprock got an insurance run in the top of the sixth. The Longhorns led off with a single and stole second. On an error by Graves, Caprock expanded their lead to 4-2. Pampa retired the next three batters to still trail by two, going into their half of the sixth. With one out, Riley Douglas singled. While Taylor Woods was batting, Douglas stole second. Woods singled and Pampa cut the lead to one on a double steal of home and second. Woods advanced to third on an errant throw by the second baseman trying to get Douglas at home. With two outs in the inning, Thompson doubled and tied the game at four, scoring Woods.

The Longhorns regained the lead in the final inning. The lead-off batter singled and advanced to third on an errant throw by Hucks attempting to throw him out at second. The Longhorns scored on a ground out to make it 5-4. In the bottom of the seventh, Lemons flied out to center. Coleman followed with a single but was thrown out at second on a fielder's choice groundout. Powell stole second but would be stranded when Hucks struck out to end the game. Thompson pitched all seven innings and got the loss. The Harvesters' starter allowed five runs on eight hits, hit two batters and struck out three. Graves and Coleman were both two-for-four and scored one run. Graves hit a double and single and Coleman had a pair of singles. Thompson went two-for-four with a double and one RBI. Jeff Smith was one-for-two with a single. Douglas and Woods were both one-for-three with one run scored.

Douglas led the team in stolen bases with two. Lemons, Coleman, Powell and Woods each stole one. The Harvesters (3-4, 1-1) host Hereford 4 p.m. Friday at Harvester Field.

Happy Passover

The eight-day celebration of Passover is usually in the early spring, in the Hebrew month of Nissan. It commemorates the emancipation of the Israelites from slavery in Egypt by Moses. The first two days and last two days of Passover are full-fledged holidays. Candles are lit at night, and Kiddush meals are served both day and night. The middle four days are called Chol Hamoed, the days most forms of work are permitted.

This year, partnerships prove to be instrumental. Unusual creativity and a home-in intellect mix to help you come up with a lot of ideas and solutions and help you relax.
