AWEP funds available to local farmers

ARNIE AURELLANO editor@thepampanews.com

Gray County farmers can get a helping hand watering their crops this season, thanks to the federal government.

Through the Agricultural Water Enhancement Program (AWEP), the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Texas is looking to distribute over $4 million towards aiding farmers and landowners in improving their irrigation systems.

This is the second year for the AWEP, which is aimed towards the conservation of water in the Ogallala Aquifer, an underground water table that stretches from the Panhandle all the way north to South Dakota.

"That's a real big aquifer that we're part of," said John Wimberley, district conservationist with the USDA-NRCS. "It's an important source of water for this region."

Despite the vast size of the aquifer, Wimberley said that there is constant concern over the conservation of its water deposit.

"The thing that really makes it a prime issue is that this water resource has very little recharge," Wimberley said. "What we have to work with is pretty much what we've got.'

The concern, Wimberley explained, isn't necessarily about running out of water altogether. but rather about the financial ramifications should the water table become too depleted. "If the water in the aquifer got too shallow, it will be too cost prohibitive (to extract it)," said Wimberley. "We would have to resort to dry land farming, and that's not a scenario that would be very ideal." To that end, the government is offering financial aid to farmers towards practices such as installing micro-irrigation or center pivots to replace row-watered irrigation. moves that will help the efficiency of water distribution into fields. The funds are also eligible to be used for replacing existing pivots that are at least 20 years old, converting to newer pivots to increase efficiency, and for repairing leaky concrete underground pipelines. The 2010 spring election race is reaching its last furlong, as the ballots are streaming from early voters for Tuesday's runoff election.

Over 250 people took advantage of last week's early voting process, with officials saying that, as of the close of polls Friday, 343 people cast their ballots.

Linda Lewis, joint elections administrator for Gray County said that Thursday and Friday saw the most voter traffic last week with 74 and 85 voters, respectively.

Sixty-two people voted on Monday, with 63 coming in on Tuesday and 59 casting ballots on Wednesday.

es will be open on Tuesday. Precincts 1 and 5 will be combined to vote at the First Christian Church at 1633 N. Nelson St. Precinct 2 will vote at the Lovett Library in Pampa, while Precinct 4 will vote at the McLean Lovett Library in McLean.

Precincts 3 and 7 will combine to vote at MK Brown Auditorium, and Precinct 6 will vote at Zion Lutheran, 1200 N. Duncan St.

Precincts 4 and 6 are voting to decide the winner of the Preinct 4 County Commissioner's race between Republicans Jeff Haley and Lynn Allison. During the original March election, Haley received 460 votes (37.1 percent), while Allison followed with 432 (34.8 percent).

voting in the statewide run-off election for the Texas Supreme Court.

Republican Party primary race for Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, Place 3, between Rick Green and Debra Lehrmann. Lehrmann is currently serving as District Judge of the 360th Judicial District in Fort Worth, while Green is a former Texas House legislator who is presently an attorney in Dripping Springs.

Since the run-offs are Republican races, those who voted in the Democratic Primary are not eligible to take part. Only those who voted in the Republican Primary and those who did not vote in either March primary are eligible to vote in the run-off.

Tralee 'Expect Respect' event runs all next week

ARNIE AURELLANO editor@thepampanews.com

Parents, isn't it about time you took your kids out on a date?

Wait a minute, what was that again?

It may seem like a weird notion, but that's exactly what the Tralee Crisis Center is encouraging this week with its annual "Expect Respect" parent-child date event set for all next week, April 12 through 16. Parents who contact the Tralee Crisis Center at 669-1131 will receive wristbands for themselves and their children that will entitle them to a 10 percent discount at local restaurants such as The Plaza, Dyer's Barbecue, Cooder's Dixie Cafe and Texas Rose.

The event is aimed at promoting smart dating decisions, one of Tralee's activities during National Awareness month. The crisis center encourages opening the lines of communication between parents and kids all week, pav-

the parent the opportunity to teach their child how to act on a date and how they should expect to be treated on a date," added Dee Dee Laramore, Tralee Crisis Center's executive director.

Laramore said that Expect Respect, now in its third year, came about partially because of the increased awareness on dating violence within recent years.

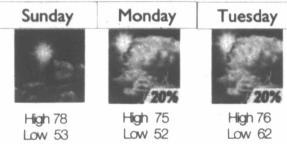

"Dating violence is becoming more and more widely known than it has been in the past," Laramore said. "We feel like, right from the beginning, we want parents to be able to teach their kids about what should and shouldn't happen on a date, so that if it does happen, the kids can recognize it and say, This is less than respectful. This isn't right. This isn't the norm.""

Laramore acknowledged that the subject of dating can often be an uncomfortable subject for parents RESPECT cont. on page 3

their families have the support they need, both during and after their deployment. The governor announced the first grant from the Fund for Veterans Assistance, $1 million for the Texas Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) to help provide veterans and their families emergency assistance with household, vehicle, childcare, medical and personal expenses.

"Our veterans have willingly risked great personal harm to secure the rights and freedoms we cherish and to make the world a safer, more secure place to live," Gov. Perry said. "As they serve, or when they return home, they deserve an extra measure of assistance."

The Fund for Veterans Assistance was created by the Legislature to provide grants to local communities to address veterans' needs and enhance or improve existing veterans' assistance programs. The fund is administered by the Texas Veterans Commission, which assists Texas veterans and their families with claims, veterans' employment services and veterans' education.

"Gov. Perry continues to demonstrate his concern for the well-being of Texas veterans, and his support of the Texas Veterans Commission's Fund for Veterans Assistance helps us provide much needed assistance to the brave service members and their families through this first grant today and future grants," said Brigadier General Karen Rankin, chair of the Texas Veterans Commission.

For producers to qualify for the program, the land must have been irrigated two of the past five years. There are no geographic limitations to the program; any farmers in the county can apply. A few Gray County farmers took advantage of the program last year, and Wimberley said that the funds they received represented a large financial boost.

"We had three people in the county that we were able to help (last year), and I think that it was big for them," said Wimberley. "Irrigation practices are expensive. A new pivot, you're looking at close to $75,000 for a quartermiler.

"With the high cost of repairing those things, any assistance you can get from the government can be very helpful." The current funding window for participation in the program is about two weeks, Wimberley said. Anyone interested should contact the NRCS in Pampa as soon as possible. The NRCS can be reached over the phone at 806-665-1751, and their office is located at the Gray County Annex at 12125 East Frederic Ave., Suite B.

Valero to clamp down on underage tobacco

AUSTIN - Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott has reached a multi-state agreement with Valero Retail Holdings Inc. and Valero Marketing and Supply Co. to halt the sale of tobacco products to minors. Under the agreement, Valero and its 621 Texas convenience stores will implement comprehensive in-store programs to ensure that minors do not obtain tobacco products.

The Texas settlement, which was filed in Travis County District Court, will impact approximately 1,000 stores in eight states, and almost 4,000 independent, third-party outlets in 38 states where Valero sells its branded fuel. Valero's Texas convenience stores also operate under the names Diamond Shamrock, Beacon, Ultramar, Corner Store and Stop-N-Go.

All Valero-owned stores will implement a comprehensive employee training program to ensure that no minors purchase tobacco products, and compliance with age verification procedures will be considered in connection with employees' compensation. The chain has agreed to phase in a cutting edge electronic age verification system.

Today in History

Today is Saturday, April 10, the 100th day of 2010. There are 265 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 10, 1912, the RMS Titanic set sail from Southampton, England, on its ill-fated maiden voyage.

On this date:

In 1790, President George Washington signed into law the first United States Patent Act.

In 1866, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was incorporated.

In 1925, the novel "The Great Gatsby," by F. Scott Fitzgerald, was first published.

In 1932, German president Paul Von Hindenburg was re-elected in a runoff, with Adolf Hitler coming in second

In 1957, Egypt reopened the Suez Canal to all shipping traffic. (The canal had been closed due to wreckage resulting from the Suez Crisis.)

In 1959, the future emperor of Japan, Crown Prince Akihito, married a commoner, Michiko Shoda.

In 1963, the nuclear-powered submarine USS Thresher sank during deep-diving tests off Cape Cod, Mass., in a disaster that claimed 129 lives.

In 1972, the United States and the Soviet Union joined some 70 nations in signing an agreement banning biological warfare.

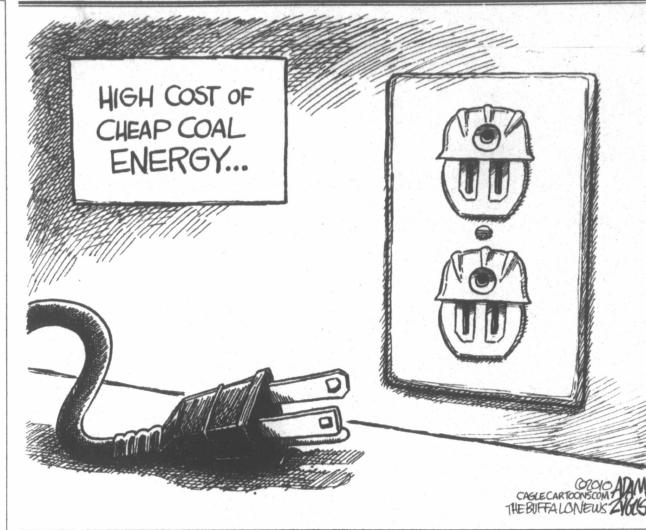

In 1978, Arkady Shevchenko, a high-ranking Soviet citizen employed by the United Nations, sought political asylum in the United States.

In 1998, the Northern Ireland peace talks concluded as negotiators reached a landmark settlement to end 30 years of bitter rivalries and bloody attacks.

Ten years ago: The Washington Post won three Pulitzer Prizes, including the public service award for the second year in a row; The Wall Street Journal took two honors, and The Associated Press won for investigative reporting on the killing of Korean civilians by U.S. troops at the start of the Korean War. South Korea and North Korea announced a June date for their first summit since the peninsula was divided in 1945. Actor Larry Linville, one of the stars of the situation comedy "M-A-S-H," died in New York at age 60.

Five years ago: Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon arrived in Texas to meet with President George W. Bush. Tiger Woods won his fourth Masters with a spectacular finish of birdies and bogeys.

One year ago: Police in Tracy, Calif. arrested Sunday school teacher Melissa Huckaby in connection with the death of 8-year-old Sandra Cantu, whose body had been found in a suitcase. French Navy commandos stormed a sailboat held by pirates off the Somali coast, freeing four hostages; however,

SUSAN COMBS Texas Comptroller

It is not acceptable that thousands of Texans spent hours trying to reserve appliance rebates on Wednesday, April 7, only to be met with dropped calls and an unavailable online reservation system. It is not acceptable to me or the many Comptroller employees who worked diligently to ensure mechanisms were in place to accommodate the extremely high demand we expect-

To the thousands of frustrated Texans who experienced problems: we are as mad as you are. We are gathering information to identify the full scope of the problem. We have received feedback from more than 15,000 of you, and we are taking action.

Before the end of the day on Wednesday, we sent a letter to Thomas ing specific sets of data that will help us determine whether the company is meeting its contractual obligations for items such as Web site uptime and answer time for phone calls. We also requested a specific description of the steps Helgeson is taking to avoid additional problems with rebate fulfillment.

DA claims Texas judge has death penalty bias

HOUSTON (AP) - A Texas judge who declare during a capital murder case that the death penalty i unconstitutional but later rescinded his ruling has refused a request by prosecutors to remove himself from the case The Harris County District Attorney's Office has aske to have state District Judge Kevin Fine removed from the case, accusing him of being biased against capita punishment, said Donna Hawkins, a spokeswoman for the office. District Judge Olen Underwood, who presider over the judicial region that includes Harris County, will set a hearing on the request, she said.

Vickie Long, Fine's court coordinator, said Friday th udge would not be commenting on the district attorney request

Fine, in ruling last month the Texas death penalty stat reflect in running instantional, said it is safe to assume innocer people have been executed. He also questioned whether society, considering the recent history of death row immate exonerations, can continue to ignore this reality. The judge later rescinded his ruling, which he made i granting a pretrial motion in a capital murder case. But he then scheduled a hearing for the end of this month to hear evidence on the issue. That hearing is now on hold Fine's ruling was lauded by anti-death penalty gr and criticized by many elected officials, including Go Rick Perry.

Fine, a Democrat, is a judge in Harris County, which ends more inmates to death row than any other cour in the nation. Texas has carried out more executions the inv other U.S. state

With high-value rebates, a large population and limited funds, we knew not everyone interested in the program would be able to reserve rebates. We closely watched similar rebate programs in other states. Within days of seeing the experiences of Iowa and Minnesota, whose systems were overloaded, we were on the phone requiring increased safeguards from Helgeson Enterprises, the company contracted through a competitive bid process to manage our rebate fulfillment. We accurately projected the estimated traffic we thought we would receive in the first few hours. We looked closely at the contractor's system bandwidth and infrastructure. We provided clear steps they needed to take at a minimum to prepare for Texas.

On our end, we immediately recognized the need to create our own Web front door for the contractor's online system to provide program information and updates. We took the steps needed to handle millions of hits concurrently

Achoo! Pollen at its worst in years in many areas

(AP) — Pollen: It's on ed to," said John Feerick, your car, in the air and especially in your sinuses.

From Florida to Texas to Colorado, 2010 is shaping up to be a monster of an allergy season. The words "pollen" and "allergy" are among the top 10 trending topics on Twitter in several U.S. cities. Everywhere, it seems, is covered in a fine yellow dust that irritates our lives. Experts say it's the worst they've seen in years in many areas.

"It's wicked bad this year." said Dr. Mona Mangat, an allergy specialist in St. Petersburg, Fla., who can't recall a worse year in the six she's worked there. "We're just overwhelmed with patients right now. We're doubleand triple-booked with new patients, trying to work people in because we know how much people are suffering."

This year is especially bad in the Southeast, weather experts say, likely due to winter's unseasonably cold weather.

"That may have helped delay some of the plants from blooming as early senior meteorologist at AccuWeather. "It's the fact that everything is coming out all at once."

High winds in some areas also spread the misery.

"We had a perfect storm this year," said Dr. William Storms, professor at University of Colorado and a clinician. "It's the worst I've seen in 10 years."

It's enough to bring some to tears. Take 5-yearold Sam Wilson of St. Petersburg. His mom gives him Claritin in the morning, Nasonex and Benadryl at night, and he receives four allergy shots every week. The sidewalks of his hometown are covered in what look like piles of dried, brown worms — but they are mounds of oak tree pollen.

His mother said that when the pollen is at its worst, the boy's eyes water and itch, he can't breathe through his nose and his throat burns.

"His reaction yesterday was pretty bad," said his mother, 34-year-old Joanna Wilson on Thursday. "He couldn't breathe, he was crying."

Oak trees are the culprit in many places in the Southeast.

The trees produce 3,000 to 6,000 pollen particles per cubic meter; it only takes 10 particles to trigger an allergic reaction.

Angel Waldron, a spokeswoman for the Washington, D.C.-based Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, said that allergy seasons have been getting longer over the years, with six to eight weeks of suffering expected this year in some areas.

"When your car is green when you wake up in the morning, it's shocking,' she said.

Waldron's group compiles a list each year of most challenging places to live for allergy and asthma sufferers. Topping the list: Knoxville, Tenn., followed by Louisville, Ky.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dayton, Ohio; and Charlotte, N.C.

"We rank them based on pollen counts, number of medicines used, both prescription and over the counter, and number of

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: This is a time when high school seniors visit prospective colleges. Could you please convey the following suggestions to them?

1. Wear comfortable shoes. You will be doing an awful lot of walking.

2. Come prepared for the weather. Twelve hundred people attended a recruiting session today, and at least one-fourth of them did not come with umbrellas. A thunderstorm began at 4:00 p.m., and they wondered why we didn't provide umbrellas!

3. Come with a list of questions and bring something to write on, plus a tote bag to carry any materials you receive.

4. Read the materials you were sent. If they say check-in begins at 8:00 a.m., then plan to be there at 8:00 a.m.

5. You will be receiving a lot of information, so you should plan on making a return trip to the two or three institutions you visited that you liked the most.

6. We will show you one or two residence hall rooms. We cannot show you all of the halls. In order to inspect them all, you will need to come on a Residence Hall Open House day.

Abby. Thank you, DEBBIE IN ADMISSIONS

DEAR DEBBIE: On the contrary - thank YOU for a "tip sheet" every college-bound senior should see. Better to be prepared than be without.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a junior in high school, and I'm worried about my friend, "Elizabeth." She has always been a Type-A overachiever, but for the past year and a half, she has been more stressed than usual

School consumes Elizabeth, but not in a good way. She stays up until 3 a.m. cramming for tests even though she studies for several days before. She gets angry and depressed when she doesn't get an A on an assignment. She puts a lot of pressure on herself, and her parents don't seem to recognize it.

My friend doesn't sleep much and eats very little. At first, I told myself that I was overreacting by worrying about her. However, last night she was hospitalized for exhaustion and anemia. She's fine now, but the stress and unhealthy habits have caught up with her. I'm afraid she'll go right back to her detrimental lifestyle.

I believe Elizabeth needs help and I'm thinking of talking to a guidance counselor. What should I do, Abby? - DISTRESSED IN KANSAS CITY

DEAR DISTRESSED: You are a good and caring friend. Talk to the guidance counselor. Your friend's sleeplessness, stress, anemia and poor diet may come from more than pressuring herself to achieve good grades. She may need professional help - and the guidance counselor may be able to see that she gets it.

Drug war informant freed from N.Y. jail

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) A former Mexican police officer who became a drug informant for the United States has been freed from federal detention after fending off government efforts to deport him.

A Justice Department immigration board last month ruled Guillermo "Lalo" Ramirez Peyro should not be returned to Mexico because he would be tortured "either directly by government agents or indirectly by government agents turning him over to the cartel."

Ramirez, who had been in custody for nearly six years, was released late Thursday from a federal detention center in Batavia, outside Buffalo, attorney Steven Cohen said.

Cohen had made arrangements for Ramirez to live in western New York while he applied for a green card, saying it would be safer for the informant who helped put 60 violent people behind bars while infiltrating the violent Juarez drug cartel for U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

Instead, over the lawyer's objections, Ramirez was immediately flown out of state.

"A lot of people want him dead," Cohen said Friday. "He's out; he's free. He's at specialists in the area," she an address where he's not particularly safe."

Ramirez's career as an informant ended in 2004 after the discovery of a mass grave outside a middle-class Juarez home that became known as the "House of Death." The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration said Ramirez had supervised the murder of a Juarez cartel associate and participated in a series of other murders.

Ramirez denies killing anyone but acknowledges being present during killings to maintain his cover. His attorney said that he tried to prevent deaths by informing U.S. authorities when they were to occur but that the U.S. failed to intervene.

"There's very disturbing inaction on their part," said Cohen, who became involved in the case a month ago.

The former head of the DEA office in El Paso, Texas, said Friday that Ramirez's release should not stop investigators from determining whether the Juarez killings could have been prevented. Sandalio Gonzalez raised questions about Ramirez and his ICE handlers in 2004 after two of his agents were targeted by the cartel and had to evacuate Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

Longtime legislators threatened in Texas runot

BY APRIL CASTRO AND JAY ROOT Associated Press Writers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) Lyndon Johnson was in the White House when Delwin Jones was first sworn in as a freshman member of the Texas House of Representatives. Since then, he's been defeated by a fellow Democrat, switched parties to become a Republican, been appointed to powerful committee jobs and also lost them.

One thing that's never changed is his taste for elected office. On Tuesday, the oldest member of the Legislature — at 86 is asking West Texans to send him back for another two-year term.

Jones is one of three longtime House incumbents whose careers are on the line in Texas runoff elections that will shape the November elections. All told, nine legislative races, seven congressional seats, a statewide Supreme Court race and an open spot on the State Board of Education that are up for grabs.

Most candidates in state races, including Gov. Rick Perry, won their primaries March 2. But in contests where no candidate got at least half the votes, the runoffs will settle things between the top two finishers.

First elected in 1964, Jones lost in 1972 to cotton farmer Pete Laney, a Democrat who would later become speaker of the House. Laney then made Jones, who was re-elected in 1988 as a Republican, one of his top committee chairmen. Jones fell out of favor with Republican leaders when Laney left the speaker's job in 2003, but he played a kingmaker role in 2009 by helping elect current Speaker Joe Straus, R-San Antonio.

These days, Jones stills drives around his fivecounty district in a 1995

Charles Perry, is a tea party conservative who surprised observers by making the runoff in a three-way race. Jones said the anti-incumbent tea party wave has been an "undercurrent" in his race, but he thinks his longevity will play to his advantage.

"I've got a lifetime of identity, and he's got to develop an identity," Jones said. "I would hope my identity will prevail."

Perry, 48, said Jones is out of step with the conservative district and predicted the same activists who are angry at the Obama administration will carry him to Austin.

"Politics as usual seems to be on its last leg," Perry said.

Meanwhile, Democratic Rep. Norma Chavez is fighting for her seat in a nasty runoff campaign marked by personal insinuations and accusations that each Democrat is more Republican than the other.

Democrat Naomi Gonzalez has received at least $276,000 in contributions from typically GOP donors to defeat Chavez, a 14-year veteran of the state House, according to the Texas Ethics Commission. Chavez, 49, twice suggested in public forums that Gonzalez is a lesbian.

The comments prompted public outrage among local Democratic and county officials, and Chavez later said she should not have made her opponent's sexual orientation an issue. Gonzalez said Chavez' comments were just a desperate attempt to deflect attention from her own shortcomings.

A third incumbent, Rep. Fred Brown, R-College Station, faces Republican runoff opponent Gerald "Buddy" Winn, a former Brazos County tax assessor-collector.

Six other races feature Republicans duking it out. In a closely watched race in a Round Rock swing district, longtime Republican operative and engineer John Gordon is engaged in an increasingly bitter contest with graphic designer Larry Gonzales. Gonzales has run TV ads casting Gordon as a hothead who doesn't belong in the House. The ads feature video of an angry Gordon ranting at a police officer during a traffic stop, and it refers to a 1994 incident in which Gordon was arrested for trying to forcibly remove a wheel-blocking boot from his car.

The ad's footage includes audio of Gordon at the traffic stop, in which his wife was pulled over for failing to use her turn signal. He became so irate that a police officer called for backup. The officer can be heard saying he would arrest Gordon if he got out of the vehicle.

Gordon-Gonzales The will face Diana winner Maldonado, narrow 2008 win gave the Democrats a hardfought edge that Republicans want back.

In congressional runoffs, candidates hoping to challenge incumbents are squaring off in seven races - six among Republicans and one among Democrats.

In one of the most closely watched races, Republicans Bill Flores and Robert Curnock emerged from a crowded field and are fighting for a shot at Chet Edwards. The Democratic incumbent resides in one of the most Republicanleaning congressional districts in the country and includes Elsewhere, the conservative faction of the State Board of Education has lined up behind activist Brian Russell, a home schooler, in the race to replace resigning Republican Cynthia Dunbar. Several high-profile Republicans have endorsed Marsha Farney, a former educator who calls herself the "common sense conservative."

Farney, who has three children in public schools, has been critical of Russell for rejecting public education for his children.

Lehrmann has pulled in high-profile endorsements from top Republicans, including former Chief Justice Tom and former U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales. Green is casting himself as a hard-core conservative everyman who promises to bring what he considers a badly needed dose of normalcy to the court.

No. 5 Randall routes Harvesters, run-rule invoked

ANDREW GLOVER aglover@thepampanews.com

There was beautiful weather at Harvester Field for Friday's game against the fifth ranked Randall Raiders. The game, though, wasa different story for the Pampa Harvesters, as they lost 18-1 with the ten-run rule invoked after the fifth inning. Head Coach Kaleb Snelgrooes said Randall is a good team and falling behind early didn't help his team.

"They're (Randall) all seniors and they hit the ball well," Snelgrooes said. "We didn't help ourselves out by walking and hitting guys and they hit a couple of home runs. They're very good."

The Harvesters allowed a run in every inning. In the top of the first, the first four batters reached base. Corey Kirkland and Chance Harlan scored the first runs of the game on a double by Dex Kjerstad. The inning would quickly end as Kjerstad was thrown out on a fielder's choice. Patrick Esposito flied into a double play to end the inning.

Pampa responded in their half of the first. Mitchell Killgo and Braden Hunt reached base on walks with two outs. Collin Killgo hit a single to right, to score his brother Mitchell. That would be as close as Pampa would get to the Raiders, as the inning ended with the Harvesters down 2-1. In the second inning,

Randall sent 10 batters to the plate and scored five runs on four hits. Zach Constancio scored on a single by Taylor English. Iszac Valdez and English scored on an error. Harlan scored on a bases loaded walk by Taylor Marks and Kjerstad scored on a sacrifice fly. Constancio struck out to end the inning but not before Randall opened a 7-1 lead. The second would be Collin Killgo's last as he allowed seven runs on six hits, walked one, hit two and struck out one. The Harvesters only hit a single in the second. Moreno struck out the first two batters of the inning. After Zach Murray reached with a single, Reid Miller flied out to right to end the inning. In the two innings Moreno pitched, he allowed one run on two hits, walked two and struck out four to earn the win.

Pampa went to a new pitcher in the third with Braden Hunt, but didn't get any better results. The Raiders continued where they left off, sending all nine batters to the plate and scored five more runs to take a commanding 12-1 lead. Valdez welcomed the new pitcher by hitting a home run to center. English followed with a walk and scored on a one-out home run by Harlan. Kjerstad walked and Nolan Hoskins singled. Both of them would score on an error by the shortstop. Snelgrooes said errors have been the story of their season. "We give guys extra bases," Snelgrooes said. "Every time we do that they hit the ball and that's an RBI every time."

Hunt only last a third of an inning, and allowed five runs on three hits and walked two. Tyler Malone finished the third getting a fly out and a strikeout.

Eric Birtcel replaced Moreno and only allowed one hit, which was a leadoff double by Anthony Allen. Pampa's next three batters struck out, flied out and grounded out. In the top of the fourth, Randall got to Pampa reliever Tyler Malone. The Raiders put up five more runs on four hits and walked once. Valdez hit his second home run of the game just right of where he hit his first one. Adding to the scoring in the fourth, was Harlan with an RBI double scoring English. Marks scored Kirkland when he grounded out. Harlan and Hoskins scored on an error by the shortstop to round out the scoring in the fourth.

In one and two thirds of an inning pitched, Malone allowed five runs on four hits, walked one, hit one batter and struck out two. Mitch Simon pitched the last inning and allowed one run on one hit and walked one.

Randall scored one more run in the fifth, which would be the final inning as the ten-run rule was invoked after the bottom half of the inning. Pampa only got a single after the third inning and didn't reach second base in the final two innings.

Murray was the leading hitter for the Harvesters, as he went two-for-two. Allen was one-for-three with a double, and Collin Killgo was one-for-two, with a RBI single. Snelgrooes said he was pleased with how Murray and Allen hit the ball.

"Zach Murray is a kid that hangs around and stays positive," Snelgrooes said. 'Got a chance to get in the game and did some things, couldn't be more happy for him. Anthony Allen has caught a great district season for us. You got to early. Couldn't be more p.m. Tuesday. happy for those kids."

ANDREW GLOVER

aglover@thepampanews.com The Pampa Lady Harvesters continued to swing the bats well in their dominant defeat of the Palo Duro Lady Dons 28-0 Friday in Amarillo.

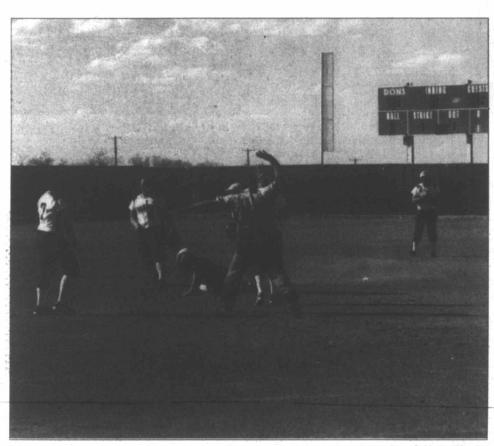

Assistant coach Ches Tucker said the team has been focused on being patient at the plate and it's paying off.

"They are doing a good job at picking good pitches," Tucker said. "They are making pitchers pay by hitting it hard and putting it in play. In the last five games we have had 84 hits." 1) was the winning pitcher as she only allowed two hits. The senior pitcher has

7H Dribblers win two more tournament championships

ROY LOTT

Special to The Pampa News The 7-H Raiders 5-6 grade basketball team came prepared to win the Shamrock Little Dribblers tournament held March 26 and 27, and they did just that winning three straight games to become the champions once again. Winning games against Ft. Elliott by a margin of 30-4 and Canadian by 28-12, it paved the way for the Raiders to play for the championship game against the host team Shamrock. In a packed gym and a vocal hometown crowd, the Raiders went on a 19 to 6 run before ending the half to lead the Irish. But Shamrock stepped up an applied a full court press coming out of the half and allowed the Irish to get within 6 points, but the Raiders quickly adjusted and broke away to win 30-19.

Excellent scoring by Adam Zuniga (21 Pts), Colton Thompson (19 pts) and Josh Watson (18pts) contributed highly to the Raiders success. Cameron Copley allowed for 16 assists and 17 pts was he also was a huge contribution. Kyndan Lott rejected several attempted baskets and played stealer defense in the middle of the paint helping to hold the 3 opponents to just 35 points. Jared Lake and Carson Ritter both gave strong performances on both sides of the ball. Bradey Porter the youngest of the team is contributed as being the most improved player for the Raiders, with this speed and determination he is a force defensively.

The Raiders will soon travel to Amarillo to compete in the Hoop 10 Warm-up Tournament and the Jim Brinkley/Red Bell Memorial Tournament in Panhandle.

The 7H Raiders pose with their medals after they were crowned champions of the Wheeler Little Dribblers basketball tournament March 19-20.

Big summer battle ahead for Stevens' replacement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The retirement of Justice John Paul Stevens, the Supreme Court's leading liberal, touched off an immediate election-year political battle Friday over President Barack Obama's second high court pick. Republicans promised trouble for any activist nominee.

Obama said he would quickly name a successor in the mold of Stevens, who he said was a voice for ordinary people rather than powerful interests.

Eleven days before his 90th birthday, Stevens said he would step down when the court finishes its work for the summer in hopes that a replacement could be confirmed well before the next term begins in October.

"We cannot replace Justice Stevens' experience or wisdom," Obama said at the White House after returning from Prague where he had signed a nuclear treaty. "I'll seek someone in the coming weeks with similar qualities: an independent mind, a record of excellence the rule of law and a keen understanding of how the law affects the daily lives of the American people. It will also be someone who, like Justice Stevens, knows that in democracy powerful interests must not be allowed to drown out the voices of ordinary citizens." A White House official said about 10 people are under consideration, but speculation has focused on fewer than that. Leading candidates are said to be Solicitor General Elena Kagan, 49, and federal appellate Judges Merrick Garland, 57, in Washington and Diane Wood, 59, in Chicago. All three were considered last year as well, and Obama interviewed Kagan and Wood before choosing Sonia Sotomayor for the #### high court.

Of those, Wood would be most likely to excite Obama's liberal base and stir up conservative opposition. Garland is seen as most acceptable to Republicans, with Kagan somewhere in between.

Stevens is the court's last remaining World War II veteran and the second oldest justice in the court's history. His retirement had been hinted at for months, and the White House had made clear it would be ready to nominate a replacement without delay.

A leading Democrat said the Senate, where Democrats control 59 seats, would follow the same pattern as last year, when Sotomayor was confirmed as the 111th justice in early August. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, appealed for civility. "I hope that senators on both sides of the aisle will make this process a thoughtful and civil discourse," he said.

Stupak steps down amidst furor

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) - Rep. Bart Stupak insists that tea party activists outraged over his crucial support of health care legislation didn't run him out of office, but his decision to retire gives conservatives a rallying point as they target Democrats in the midterm elections.

The congressman, an anti-abortion Democrat whose high-profile role in the "Obamacare" debate earned him Stupak enemies on the left and the right, said Friday that he's leaving because he's tired and has accomplished his No. 1 goal: improving health care.

"The tea party did not run me out," Stupak told The Associated Press in a phone interview. "If you know me and my personality, I would welcome the challenge."

Stupak had been a consistent landslide winner in his sprawling northern Michigan district, and the opening now offers Republicans a ripe opportunity to regain a seat they held for decades until Stupak prevailed in 1992.

His political foes — tea party activists and abortion opponents — both claimed credit for forcing him into retirement, and Michigan GOP Chairman Ron Weiser declared that the nine-term incumbent had become the first casualty of the

"Bart Stupak's decision to retire is emblematic of the many Democrats in swing districts who have been forced into casting tough votes in favor politically unpopular policies at the behest of House Speaker Nancy Pelosi," added Ken Spain, communications director for the House Republican campaign committee.

No prominent or well-funded Republican, however, had stepped in to challenge Stupak, who said he was confident of winning re-election. The 58-year-old said he was withdrawing because he was worn out and wanted more family time after nearly 18 years in Congress and the grueling health care battle.

"I've struggled with this decision. I've wanted to leave a couple of times, but I always thought there was one more job to be done," he said at a news conference.

Since the day I took office, I fought to improve the quality and accessibility of health care," he said. "My No. 1 legislative goal has been accomplished."

Discovery astronauts take first spacewalk, make station repairs

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - A pair of spacewalking astronauts disconnected an old empty ammonia tank outside the International Space Station on Friday and got a new one ready to put in its place.

In the first of three spacewalks needed to complete the job, Clayton Anderson had no problem taking apart the ammonia lines on the old tank. But he needed a pry bar to remove the new tank out of space shuttle Discovery's payload bay. The tank got hung up on a bolt.

"Go nice and easy, Clay," spacewalking partner Rick Mastracchio warned as Anderson pushed and prodded with the pry bar. After several tries, the tank finally came free. "We got it!" Anderson called out

The two men lifted the 1,700-pound tank out of Discovery and handed it off to a robot arm, which maneuvered it to a temporary storage location at the space station.

The actual swap-out of the two tanks will take place during the second spacewalk Sunday, with the entire effort wrapping up on the third and final outing Tuesday. It will be "a big juggle" with the tanks, said David Coan, Mission Control's lead spacewalk officer.

Besides the tank work, Mastracchio and Anderson collected a science experiment from the space station's Japanese lab and replaced a failed station-positioning device.

Then the game plan changed. Instead of tackling battery work, they focused on hoses and clamps. Astronaut Dorothy Metcalf-Lindenburger, directing the spacewalk from inside, urged the men to go slow because of the switch.

Mastracchio and Anderson were originally scheduled to work on old batteries on the far left end of the space station, along the sprawling power truss. But based on new findings, NASA canceled the task this week because of concern the two might get shocked. The job instead will be carried out on the next shuttle.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, April 12, 2010: This year, break patterns and open up to innovative thinking. Many times you could be shocked by your choices. A new life cycle begins in January 2011. Don't carry any unneeded baggage. Accept change, and you will float through issues. If you are single, you might have an unusual amount of suitors. Date until you meet the right person. If you are attached, you become more assertive than in the past. Expect a reaction. A fellow ARIES knows how to "light your fire.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult 4-Positive;

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

*** You start this Monday with a jolt, wishing perhaps that it was still the weekend. Never fear - with the Moon cheering you on, there is nothing you cannot accomplish. Don't be surprised about an obstacle. Look at it as a bump in the road that you will skip over. Tonight: Let go of the day's stress.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ** To be blunt, there are simply some days you are better off calling in sick or pretending you are invisible! Take in everything that goes down, knowing you do have a choice - your response. Curb immediate reactions. Tonight: Have a necessary chat with a family member. GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

**** Whatever your first few thoughts are this morning, they supply you with enough adrenaline to keep you running in high gear. You might wonder which is the best course. A partner chooses to be difficult. A meeting pro-duces key information. Tonight: Where people are CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Let your mind drift until it is clear that you must take action. With the exception of a partner, others seem pliable, informative and supportive. Work as a team, delegating and letting others feel important. Tonight: Easy works. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

**** Another person expresses his or her dominance. You could establish yours, or you could rise above the issue and just let it go. Put your mind toward finding better solutions and learning more. At work, though you could be an expert, there is always more to learn. Tonight: Discuss an idea until you make a decision. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

*** Others electrify your morning, for better or for worse. Let a partner who thinks he knows more run the show. Meanwhile, go off and do your thing. Your creativity will need to emerge in order to find the right path. Tonight: Talk. over dinner. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ You have a list of to-do's, and you just might toss them to the wind. You might discover that staying on track isn't a goal after certain events or discussions. Defer to associates and let them run with the ball. Tonight: Sort through your options

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) **** Whether you are the source or someone else is, the unexpected occurs when you least anticipate it. Your flexibility is tested, as a boomerang heads in your direction. Stay easy when dealing with a difficult partner or associate

Tonight: Focus on one item at a time. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) *** If you encounter obstacle after obstacle as you are trying to get out the door, maybe you need to understand the message: Stay home. Some days are best spent not fighting city hall. A child or new friend would adore the extra time. Tonight: Act as if there is no tomorrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) *** You could be upset with news that suddenly is dropped on you. Know that you can handle it, and get past the immediate problem. Your ability to move past a hassle might need some extra help. Cocoon if you want to get anything done. Tonight: Say "yes" to living

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) **** Investigate a financial offer or issue. You are working with a doubleedged sword. Recognize the risk you are taking, and decide if it is worth it. Only you truly understand the damages as well as the plusses. Tonight: Join a friend and visit

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

*** You continue to surprise others. The problem comes in establishing strong, trusting relationships. If people's nerves are always on edge with you, it could be difficult to really relate. Is the cost of this behavior worth it? Tonight: Pay bills first.

Rescue crews resume W. Va mine searches

MONTCOAL, West Virginia (AP) — Grieving relatives began burying victims of the Upper Big Branch coal mine disaster Friday as rescue crews ventured back into the blast-damaged shaft for another agonizingly slow, dangerous and probably hopeless search for survivors.

It was their fourth attempt to find the four miners missing since Monday's explosion killed 25 others in America's worst underground disaster since at least 1984. During the previous rescue attempts, searchers were forced to withdraw by dangerous gases and the risk of fire or explosion.

"We are praying for a miracle," President Barack Obama said in Washington.

Rescuers acknowledged that was what it would take for the miners to have made it to a refuge chamber stocked with food, water and enough oxygen for several days.

On Friday morning, rescuers made their way about 1,000 feet (305 meters) underground and five miles (eight kilometers) into the mine to examine one of the chambers, but no one was inside and smoke forced them to turn back before they could check a second one that would represent the last hope the four were alive.

"We're confident that if they got in there, and they were alive, that we would be able to still rescue them," said Kevin Stricklin of the federal Mine Health and Safety Administration.

The area was flushed with nitrogen and crews headed back inside in the afternoon for what was likely to be a three- or four-hour trip to the chamber, an expandable box activated by opening a door and pulling a lever.

Officials had hoped to lower a camera into the mine to see if the chamber had been used, but the hole was drilled slightly off target, and Stricklin said they would not have been able to see anything.

More than 300 people packed the Mullens Pentecostal Holiness Church for the funeral of Benny Willingham, a 61-year-old miner who was five weeks from retiring when he died.

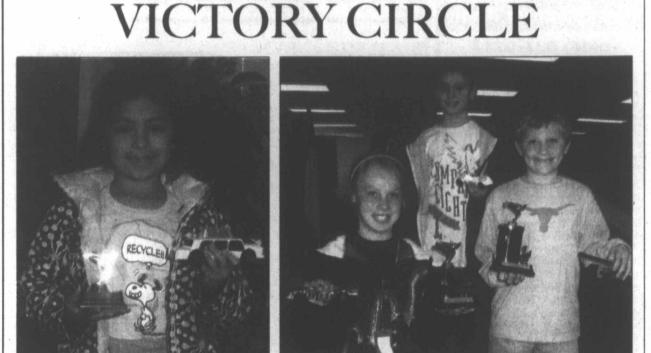

Willingham was dressed in a red shirt in the open coffin, jet-black hair and mustache neatly combed, family snapshots tucked in the satin around his head and shoulders. The image of a pick, shovel and miner's helmet was embroidered in the fabric along with his name, and a flag draped the lower half of his coffin in a nod to his service during the Vietnam era in the Air Force.

Officials suspect the blast was caused by a buildup of methane gas. In Washington, Obama said he asked federal mine safety officials to give him a report on the disaster next week, and the House and Senate said they would hold hearings.

In the days since the explosion, details have emerged about a long list of safety violations at the mine. The owner, Massey Energy Co., has been repeatedly cited and fined for problems with the system that vents methane and for allowing combustible dust to build up. CEO Don Blankenship has strongly defended the company's record and disputed accusations from miners that he puts coal profits ahead of safety.

Federal regulators issued evacuation orders for all or parts of the mine more than 60 times since the start of 2009, according to a report prepared for Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia.

On Sept. 23, 2009, an evacuation order showed an
