PODIUM FINISH

Tax refunds big issue at PISD board

DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

Tax refunds headlined the Pampa Independent School Board meeting Thursday night, just as it had the Pampa City Commission meeting Tuesday and the Gray County Commissioners Court earlier Thursday.

The school district, however, had to refund the largest amount of the governmental entities faced with refunds.

The school district will refund about $51,000.

Gray County Appraiser Pat Bagley explained to the trustees that the refunds were due to a board of review's decision to allow lower taxes on real and personal property for several businesses.

Bagley walked the trustees through the appraisal process.

He said that one tax-consultant agent in Austin represented several of the companies protesting the amount of their taxes.

Among the protesters were drilling companies and pipeline compressor companies.

Some of the protests were filed late resulting in the late hearing and decision.

When Darrell DeLoach, school board president, asked what could be done to avoid such a situation in the future, Bagley replied that in some way nothing could be done.

He said that in years past the appraisal district has won $4 to $6 million cases, but this year is one of the few cases it didn't.

"If I knew what to do," he said, "I would."

In other business:

- The school board heard updates on the new ag barn and Pampa Junior High School.
- Randy Stephenson said the utilities were being run to the ag barn. The lights are installed, but the gas and electricity still needed to be hooked up.
- He said the new junior high is on track to be finished the end of May.
- They're beginning the landscaping around the building.
- Lights have been installed on the road leading to the school from Texas Highway 70.

Tax refunds, rendition penalties impact Gray County

DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com

Tax refunds, transmission lines and rents at the Gray County Annex were among the items discussed at the county commissioners' court Thursday.

The Gray County Appraisal District has notified the governmental entities they represent that there will need to be property tax and rendition penalties refunded to a number of people and businesses.

Gray County will need to return about $29,000 that had been collected.

Gray County Tax Collector Gaye Whitehead said her office received some change orders from the Gray County Appraisal District about mid-March.

"They weren't all at one time," she said.

But it got to the point, Whitehead said, that they only option her office had was to go to the entities that had already been paid and ask for the money back.

The refunds are the result of late protest hearings, she said.

Gray County Appraiser Pat Bagley told the commission that once the rendition penalty is applied the property owner can come back and challenge the order.

He explained that the appraisal district sets the tax valuation on real property and the taxes can be challenged. The district also sets the valuation on property other than real estate, such as equipment, and companies can challenge that plus any penalty that might be levied against them.

Bagley said valuations and penalties are often challenged, but this past year the amounts were higher.

He said much of the protests revolved around a few drilling companies and oil field service companies.

Bagley said one tax consultant in Austin represented several of the companies and the review board decided to a great extent in their favor. That's why the refunds are being made.

He said some of the protests were filed late and that was the reason that the refunds are being made now.

"I wish we could control it," Bagley said.

But no action can be taken until a protest is filed.

"It's confusing and expensive," Commissioner James Hefley said.

Time to take the pain out of tax day

Washington, D.C.-- Two-thirds—that is, the percentage of Americans who said they are over-taxed according to a new nationwide poll. After talking to folks in our part of Texas last week, I believe that number is probably even higher in our area. And it is no wonder. As millions of Americans file their income taxes this week they are reminded how we live under a tax system that discourages saving, investing, and hard work. Sadly, at a time when 15 million Americans remain unemployed and many more are struggling to make ends meet, the Democratically-controlled Congress and President Obama continue to advocate policies that increase taxes and add to government spending that is already out-of-control.

Even while our nation struggles through the worst recession since the Great Depression, federal, state, and local taxes still claim almost 27 percent of the average American's income. That means most Americans have probably worked the first three months of this year just to pay their taxes. And if those running Washington these days have their way, that burden will increase dramatically. We are in a cycle of more government spending and higher taxes that knows no limit. The income taxes that Americans are paying today are only part of the exploding cost of government. From the global warming tax, to financial regulation, to buying car companies, and rescuing big banks, the agenda being pushed through Congress is laying a heavy load on state and local governments. From New York to California, states are facing record deficits and are looking to increase their taxes on everything from fast food to property.

Then there is the new health care bill which includes $1.2 trillion in new spending over the next ten years and will increase taxes by $570 billion. Just this week the Joint Committee on Taxation reported that the legislation will violate the President's no-new-taxes-on-the-middle-class pledge by raising billions of dollars of taxes on those earning less than $200,000 a year.

That is only the start. Under the new health care law, employer mandates financially penalize business owners. Medical device taxes will hurt the companies that make them and the people who need them. It will even take away the tax-free benefit for buying basic medicine cabinet products through a Health Savings Account. As I travel around the 13th District talking to folks, I hear a lot about the stark financial impact the new health care bill will have on so many of the businesses in our part of Texas. The same is true for the vast majority of Americans who believe the cost of this new law will lead to higher premiums, less care, and more Washington control of their personal health care choices.

The way to boost the economy and create jobs is not to force higher taxes on the American people. The answer is fiscal discipline in Washington, DC, and tax relief for working Americans all across the country.

The American people already know that we can't spend and tax our way back to a growing economy. It's time for Washington to put the American people first and take steps that begin to take the pain out of tax day.

Mac Thornberry of Clarendon has served Texas' 13th district in the United States House of Representatives since 1995.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:
I wrote a Letter to the Editor a few weeks back about the Pampa Regional Medical Center asking why doctors have a hard time working in Pampa. To my surprise, I received a call from Terry Barnes, director of marketing and PR asking me if I could meet with him and the new CEO, William Buck, to discuss the letter and find out what they could do to help me understand the problem. I just wanted to write this letter to let the concerned citizens of Pampa know that Mr. Buck was a very sincere man and has promised to do his best to keep an open door policy for anyone who has a concern about the operation of "our" hospital. I am sure that it will take a while and that not all problems will be solved overnight, but it is reassuring to know that we now have someone who will at least address our concerns.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for seven years to a man who curses something awful. We have three children, and he curses at them, too, when he's angry. I'm afraid his verbal abuse is destroying our children's self-esteem, and I have asked him repeatedly to stop it. I even threatened to leave if he doesn't clean up his act.

When he swears, it sends shivers up my spine and I get angry. We used to have heated arguments, but I have learned to watch my mouth. I thought he would get the idea if I set an example, but he didn't even notice.

He was in the Navy, and for a long time he blamed his cursing on his time in the military. Well, he has been out for 12 years now and that excuse is a little tired. I have made plans to leave him and will stick with my decision unless he's willing to make a serious effort to control his mouth. In the meantime, what do you suggest I do? I've tried everything — even prayer. — READY TO WALK IN VIRGINIA

DEAR READY TO WALK: In the "meantime," try earplugs for the children and a swear box for your salty-mouthed spouse. (If you don't know what a swear box is, it's a container into which an agreed-upon amount of money is placed every time a curse word is uttered.) Use the proceeds to tide you over after you've left him if the swear box doesn't cure him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a delicate problem. My boss's wife wears a very strong perfume. Every time she walks into the office, I get a headache and feel nauseated for hours. I am allergic to perfume, and women do not seem to understand that while they "think" they smell good, they are really making me sick.

When the boss's wife comes in, I try to stay in my office, but the smell is so overpowering I can't escape. How should I handle this? — HOLDING MY BREATH IN TALLADEGA, ALA.

DEAR HOLDING: For the sake of your health, you must speak to your employer and explain your sensitivity to perfumes and the effect they have on you. You are far from alone in this problem — many others also have allergic reactions when exposed to perfumes, after-shave or scented products of any kind.

Ask your boss to please ask his wife to forgo the perfume when she visits the office because it gives you a headache and an upset stomach. How else will he — or she — know there's a problem?

planned at the junior high for 2 p.m., May 1.

• Mike Baker with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, the firm that designed the school and is overseeing the project, said the City of Pampa is requiring a road around the school for fire-fighting equipment. The road as of now goes around three sides of the building.

David Teichmann, a school board member, voiced his opinion of the estimated $113,000 the change would cost.

"Somebody dropped the ball on what the city needs out there," Teichmann said. "PISD shouldn't have to come up with that money."

• Kaleb Snelgrooves, head baseball coach, told the board that the high school baseball field infield was in great shape, but the outfield needed a lot of work.

He said he would like to be able to put in a sprinkler system in the outfield and hook it up to the existing sprinkler system.

While the grass is in good shape in the infield, Snelgrooves said the dirt in the infield needs to be replaced and leveled.

He said 4D Construction out of Amarillo has estimated that it will cost $12,000 to do the dirt work in the infield and $15,000 to install the sprinklers in the outfield.

Snelgrooves added that the baseball booster club has already raised the money for a three-foot tall brick wall around the visitors' dugout and paving stones leading back to the snack bar.

He said the club had raised $30,000 for the stones and brick wall. He will be working on the field this summer.

• The school board also discussed paying for the copyright to a proposed "Reaper" mascot to be painted at the new junior high.

District Superintendent Barry Haenisch said he thought they were meeting the specifications of the artist when the board voted to pay 2,700 for the artwork, but it will cost $4,700 for three paintings.

The board decided to wait until the junior high is finished to see if there is any money available to pay for the copyrights.

to make refunds include Gray County, Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District, Clarendon College, Grandview-Hopkins, Lefors ISD, McLean ISD Pampa ISD, the City of Pampa and the appraisal district.

The refunds from all the taxing entities totals about $110,000.

In other business: • Julie Ramsey with Cross Texas Transmission, the company that will build the power lines from near Pampa to carry wind-generated electricity downstate, told the county commission that there is finally some movement in getting the project started.

The City of Garland had crossed-filed on the panhandle project slowing the process, but the Texas Public Utility Commission has set the first filing date for the route for May 3. The route will go from near Lefors to Childress.

"We'll be mailing notices to all the potentially impacted landowners notifying them that they are on one of several potential routes to get from that Lefors substation down to Childress," Ramsey said.

She said they will also run notices in area newspapers that week.

A complete copy of the filing, along with maps, will be available to the public at the Lovett Memorial Library, libraries in each county along the route and in the company's office on the fourth floor of the Hughes Building in Pampa.

The public utility commission will perform a six-month study on each potential route, she said, based on economic impact, landowner impact and environmental impact.

The commission will choose the final route after that study, she said.

Ramsey said the choice will probably be announced in November. After that, she said, Cross Texas would begin land acquisition for the rights-of-way.

Construction is expected to start in late summer of 2011.

The next application that impacts Gray County will be Sept. 10. It will be for lines running from Lefors to Panhandle.

• The commissioners raised rent for the renovated county annex from $6.98 per square foot to $10 per square for one year to pay for the renovations. After that the rents will drop back to $6.98.

The Natural Resources and Conservation Service, a federal agency, agreed to the rents. They lease about 3,000 square feet of the annex.

Dr. Steve Hall with Pampa EMS told commissioners Thursday that land had been acquired behind the hospital for a new facility to house the company's ambulances and the LifeStar helicopter from Amarillo.

He expected construction to begin and take about eight weeks, not including the concrete work.

"We're ready to turn some dirt," Hall said.

The facility is being built using Texas Department of Transportation funds.

The commission also approved the sale of a hanger at Perry Lefors Airport from Fred Brown to Buck Shafer.

The county commissioners also approved paying Crenshaw Engineering $14,569.08 for overseeing construction of a new roof at Clyde Carruth Pavilion although the roofing had started yet because of the wind and now the rain.

The commission approved Gray County Sheriff Don Copeland's choice of Guardian's bid of $39,331 for video equipment at the jail.

The sheriff said the purchase would be funded from a $29,282 grant from the state, along with $10,000 left over from a previous grant for the sheriff's office.

The commission also recognized Gray County Justice of the Peace Joe Martinez for his continuing education credits.

Time to take the pain out of tax day

Washington, D.C.-- Two-thirds—that is the percentage of Americans who said they are over-taxed according to a new nationwide poll. After talking to folks in our part of Texas last week, I believe that number is probably even higher in our area. And it is no wonder. As millions of Americans file their income taxes this week they are reminded how we live under a tax system that discourages saving, investing, and hard work. Sadly, at a time when 15 million Americans remain unemployed and many more are struggling to make ends meet, the Democratically-controlled Congress and President Obama continue to advocate policies that increase taxes and add to government spending that is already out-of-control.

Even while our nation struggles through the worst recession since the Great Depression, federal, state, and local taxes still claim almost 27 percent of the average American's income. That means most Americans have probably worked the first three months of this year just to pay their taxes. And if those running Washington these days have their way, that burden will increase dramatically. We are in a cycle of more government spending and higher taxes that knows no limit. The income taxes that Americans are paying today are only part of the exploding cost of government. From the global warming tax, to financial regulation, to buying car companies, and rescuing big banks, the agenda being pushed through Congress is laying a heavy load on state and local governments. From New York to California, states are facing record deficits and are looking to increase their taxes on everything from fast food to property.

Then there is the new health care bill which includes $1.2 trillion in new spending over the next ten years and will increase taxes by $570 billion. Just this week the Joint Committee on Taxation reported that the legislation will violate the President's no-new-taxes-on-the-middle-class pledge by raising billions of dollars of taxes on those earning less than $200,000 a year.

That is only the start. Under the new health care law, employer mandates financially penalize business owners. Medical device taxes will hurt the companies that make them and the people who need them. It will even take away the tax-free benefit for buying basic medicine cabinet products through a Health Savings Account.

As I travel around the 13th District talking to folks, I hear a lot about the stark financial impact the new health care bill will have on so many of the businesses in our part of Texas. The same is true for the vast majority of Americans who believe the cost of this new law will lead to higher premiums, less care, and more Washington control of their personal health care choices.

The way to boost the economy and create jobs is not to force higher taxes on the American people. The answer is fiscal discipline in Washington, DC, and tax relief for working Americans all across the country.

The American people already know that we can't spend and tax our way back to a growing economy. It's time for Washington to put the American people first and take steps that begin to take the pain out of tax day.

Mac Thornberry of Clarendon has served Texas' 13th district in the United States House of Representatives since 1995.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:
I wrote a Letter to the Editor a few weeks back about the Pampa Regional Medical Center asking why doctors have a hard time working in Pampa.

To my surprise, I received a call from Terry Barnes, director of marketing and PR asking me if I could meet with him and the new CEO, William Buck, to discuss the letter and find out what they could do to help me understand the problem.

I just wanted to write this letter to let the concerned citizens of Pampa know that Mr. Buck was a very sincere man and has promised to do his best to keep an open door policy for anyone who has a concern about the operation of "our" hospital.

I am sure that it will take a while and that not all problems will be solved overnight, but it is reassuring to know that we now have someone who will at least address our concerns.

Pampa girls track sends one to regionals in district

aglover@thepampanews.com

J'Cee Holmes advanced to regionals in the 3200 and four others qualified for finals after day one of the district track meet, Thursday at Harvester Field.

Head Girls Track Coach Gene Valentine said his girls ran well and was pleased with their performance.

"Everyone has run like they have been or better," Valentine said. "We had a couple of people run prs (personal records). So it was good. We need to do the same thing tomorrow when it counts."

The 3200 meter run final was the first running event of the day. The top three advance to regionals in San Angelo. Holmes finished third with a time of 12:18.82. Holmes, a freshman said her race was hard but is looking forward to regionals.

"I'm excited, really excited," Holmes said.

Senior Natalie Parker qualified for finals in two events: the 100-meter dash and the 200-meter dash. The top seven in those events advance to finals. Parker won first in the preliminary 100-meter dash with a time of 12.11 seconds and first in the 200-meter preliminaries with a time of 25.57.

Karen Jimenez also qualified for finals in the 100 and 200. In the 100-meter dash, Jimenez won first in her heat and second overall with a time of 12.64 seconds. Jimenez finished second in her heat and sixth overall in the 200 with a time of 27.21.

Senior Kara Stephens qualified for the finals in the 200 with a second place finish with a time of 26.14 seconds. Claire Hopkins ran in the 100-meter dash and finished 10th with a time of 13.05 seconds. Freshmen Maddie Fathree qualified for the finals in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 17.91. Valentine said he was impressed with Fathree since it was her first race this season.

"She's been hurt," Valentine said. "She went on and got sixth which is good. She didn't have a good race. Obviously being her first race she was nervous but she will run better tomorrow."

The junior varsity girls had two district champions. Destany Vasquez finished first in the 3200 run with a time of 13:18.50. Olivia Stovall won first in the long jump with a distance of 14 feet and seven inches. Kristen Ladd qualified for the finals in the 100-meter dash with a time of 13.50, which was third overall.

Other notable performances of the girl's junior varsity included Francheska Bridwell, who finished second in the long jump with a distance of 13 feet and seven inches. Caitlin Sieck finished fourth in the long jump with a distance of 13 feet and three and a half inches.

Varsity boys track just miss qualifying for 100-meter dash final

aglover@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Harvesters boys track team ran hard and almost qualified for the 100-meter dash final.

Head Boys Track Coach Tad Smith said his team ran well and is looking forward to today's events.

"We ran hard," Smith said. "Everyone I talked to ran their best times today so far this year. Tomorrow we ran the relays so hopefully we can get someone to regionals."

Pampa had three runners in the 100-meter and they nearly advanced to the finals. Samuel Smith finished eighth with a time of 11.43 seconds. Olin Boyd finished ninth with a time of 11.44 and Nicholas Johnson finished tenth with a time of 11.45 seconds. All three runners were within four tenths of a second of qualifying for finals. The top seven runners qualified for Friday's finals, seventh place finished in 11.41.

To start the day the varsity had finals in the discus. Trevor Smith scratched all three attempts. Senior Travis Hagerman finished seventh with his best distance being 123 feet and eight and a half inches. Hagerman will compete in the shot put finals today if the weather holds up. Coach Smith said he is hopeful he can qualify for regionals along with a relay team.

"Hopefully we can get him (Hagerman) to throw his best and get into regionals," Smith said. "We have an outside chance with our 800 relay team."

In the 3200-meter run finals, the junior varsity had three runners finish in the top five. Flavio Gonzalez finished second with a time of 11:24.61. Trent McAnear finished fourth with a time of 11:32.12. Josh Davis finished fifth
